

WILSON SUMMARIZES THE METHODS NEEDED TO CURB THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8.—President Wilson's address to congress today embodying recommendations designed to reduce the cost of living follows.

Gentlemen of the congress: I have this opportunity to address you because it is clearly my duty to call your attention to the present cost of living and to urge upon you with all the persuasive force of which I am capable the legislative measures which would be most effective in controlling it and bringing it down. The prices the people of this country are paying for everything that it is necessary for them to use in order to live are not justified by a shortage in supply, either present or prospective, and are in many cases artificially and deliberately created by vicious practices which ought immediately to be checked by law. They constitute a burden upon which is the more unbearable because we know that it is willfully imposed by those who have the power and that it can be by vigorous public action so greatly reduced that it is plainly marked with the actual conditions of supply and demand. Some of the articles by which these prices are produced are already illegal, some of them criminal and those who employ them will be energetically proceeded against but others have not yet been brought under the law and should be dealt with at once by legislation.

In Talk of Everyone. I need not recite the particulars of this critical matter: the prices demanded and paid at the stores of supply, at the factory, in the food markets, at the shops, in the restaurants and hotels, alike in the city and in the villages. They are familiar to you. They are the talk of every domestic circle and of every group of casual acquaintances even. It is a matter of familiar knowledge also, that a process has set in in which is likely, unless something is done, to push prices and wages and the whole cost of living higher and yet higher, to a vicious cycle to which there is no logical or natural end. With the increase in the prices of the necessities of life some demands for increases in wages—demands which are justified if there be no other means of enabling men to live. Upon the increase of wages there follows close on its increase in the price of products whose production has regarded the increase.

Stop Speculation. May I not add that there is a bill pending before the congress which, if passed, would do much to stop speculation and to prevent the fraudulent methods of promotion by which our people are annually flooded of many millions of hard earned money. I refer to the measure proposed by the capital issues committee for the control of security issues. It is a measure formulated by men who know the actual conditions of business and its adoption would serve a great and beneficent purpose.

With Difficult Matters. We are dealing, gentlemen of the congress, I need hardly say, with very critical and very difficult matters. We should go forward with confidence along the road we are, but we should also seek to comprehend the whole of this scene amidst which we act. There is no ground for some of the federal forecasts I hear uttered which are not only untrue but in fact are unquestionably very grave

Letting them work their full results if there is anything we can do to check, correct, or reverse them. I have sought this opportunity to inform the congress what the executive is doing, by way of remedy and control and to suggest where effective legal remedies are lacking and may be supplied.

Should Make Example. It would serve as a useful example to the other communities of this country, as well as greatly relieve local distress if the congress were to regulate all such matters very fully for the District of Columbia, where its legislative authority is without limit.

I would also recommend that it be required that all goods destined for interstate commerce should in every case where form of package makes it possible be plainly marked with the price at which they left the hands of the producer. Such a requirement would be a close ally to certain provisions of the pure food act, by which it is required that certain detailed information be given on the labels of packages of food and drugs.

License I, C. C. Traders.

And it does not seem to me that we can confine ourselves to detailed measures of this kind, if it is indeed our purpose to assume national control of the processes of distribution. I take it for granted that that is our purpose and our duty. Nothing less will suffice. We should no hesitate to handle a national question in a national way. We should go beyond the measures I have suggested. We should formulate a law requiring a federal license of all corporations engaged in interstate commerce and in the conditions under which it is to be issued, specific regulations designed to secure competitive selling and prevent unbecomingly profits in the methods of marketing. Such a law would afford a welcome opportunity to effect other much needed reforms in the business of interstate shipment and in the methods of corporations which are engaged in it; but for the moment I confine my recommendations to the subject immediately in hand, which is to lower the cost of living.

World Must Pay for War.

The world must pay for the appalling destruction wrought by the great war, and we are part of the world. We must pay our share. For five years now the industry of all Europe has been slack and disordered. The normal prices have not been produced; the normal quantity of manufactured goods has not been turned out. Not until there are the usual crops and the usual production of manufactured goods on the other side of the Atlantic can Europe turn to the former conditions; and it was upon the former conditions, not the present, that our economic relations with Europe were built up. We must face the fact that unless we help Europe to get back to her normal life and production a chaos will ensue there which will inevitably be communicated to this country. For the present, it is manifest, we must tighten, not slacken our own production.

Alone Hold the World Steady.

We, and we almost alone, now hold the world steady. Upon our steadiness and our possession depend the affairs of nations everywhere.

Will She Find a Husband?

Della Patra, Egyptian princess, niece of the khedive by her own admission, is in America to find a husband and popularize Egyptian styles.

And it enters another confident hope, I have spoken today chiefly of measures of imperative regulation and fiscal compulsion, of prosecutions and the sharp correction of selfish processes; and these no doubt are necessary. But there are other forces that we may count on besides those resident in the department of justice. We have but fully awakened to what has been going on and to the influence many of them very selfish and sinister, that have been producing high prices and imposing an intolerable burthen on the mass of our people. To have brought it all into the open will accomplish the greater part of the result we seek. Appeal with entire confidence to our pro-

And, if only in our own interest, we must help the people overseas. Europe is our biggest customer. We must keep her going or thousands of our shops and stores of our cities must close. There is no such thing as letting Europe starve; it is their own fault.

Must Observe Passion. In such circumstances, face to face with such test, passion must be discarded. Passion and a disregard for the rights of others have no place in the councils of a free people. We need light, not heat, in these matters of self-examination and saving action. There must be no threats. Let there be only intelligent counsel and let the best reason win, not the strongest brute force. The world has lost, destroyed the arbitrary force of a military junta. It will live under no other. All that is arbitrary and coercive is in the discard. Those who seek to employ it only prepare their own destruction.

We cannot hastily and over night reconstitute the government of Europe. It is a task of long years.

to do so. These are days of deep excitement and of extravagant speech, but with us these are things of the surface. Every one who is in touch with the silent masses of our largest people knows that the old strong fibra and steady self-control are still there, firm against violence or any untimely action that would throw their affairs into confusion. I am sincerely confident that they will readily find themselves, no matter what the circumstances, and that they will address themselves to the tasks of peace with the same devotion and the same stalwart preference for what is right that they displayed to the admiralty of the whole world in the midst of war.

Caln Leadership Needed. I believe, too, that the more extreme leaders of organized labor will presently yield to a sober second thought, and like the great mass of their associates, think and act like true Americans. They will see that strikes undertaken at this critical time are certain to make matters worse, not better—worse for them and for everybody else. The worst thing, the most fatal thing that can be done now is to stop or interrupt production or to interfere with the distribution of goods by the railways and the shipping of the country. We are all involved in the distressing results of the high cost of living and we must unite, not divide, to correct it. There are many things that ought to be corrected in the relations between capital and labor, in respect of wages and conditions of labor and other

MUST WIN WAY UP IN SALVATION ARMY

Men and Women Must Not Stop in Their Efforts to Continue Good Works After Conversion.

Few, if any, observers of the wearers of the Salvation Army uniform have any idea of what it signifies in the way of downright consecration.

From convertship to veteranism in the Salvation Army is a long and tortuous road.

First of all, the convert, arising from his knees at a Salvation Army pentecost, has his name and address registered and is visited at his home and encouraged to keep faithfully the vows he has made to God.

But he is not yet a Salvationist, in the full acceptance of the term; he is just a recruit, and he has to go through a probation for a certain term in order to prove the value and permanence of his conversion.

If his probationary term is satisfactory he is sworn in as a Salvationist and his regular duties commence. The S. A. soldier's articles of war demand abstinence from intoxicating liquor and drugs of all kinds and the candidate for soldiery has to promise to preach the gospel at every opportunity, indoors and at the street corners, and to "live the gospel" in the shop and at the work bench. He carries a willingness to wear the uniform, carry the flag, play an instrument (if he is musical), contribute freely to the offerings, and a general obedience to the rules and regulations of the S. A. as interpreted by the officer in command of the local corps.

If he wishes to qualify for local office (unpaid), such as sergeant-major, color-sergeant, recruiting sergeant, bandman, etc., he promises to hold in taboo such small vices as the use of tobacco and must also discontinue their use on the part of his family.

It is what membership in the Salvation Army means. This has no reference to the officers of the Army, who draw their subsistence from its funds, but refers to the soldiers—the bulk of workers who ply their trade by day and give their nights, Sundays and holidays as a free gift to the cause. This body of soldiers bears the nearest resemblance to the average church membership of any forces handled by the Army.

If the soldier is a youth, he may, by satisfactory "filling out" certain blanks, become what is known in S. A. terminology as a "corps cadet."

By a series of home studies, he is given the opportunity to demonstrate his suitability for the future front-line service.

Corps cadetship, in its turn, is a stepping-stone to regular cadetship. A cadet is a member of the student body in the training schools. Before a corps cadet can become a regular cadet, he must prove his ability as a cadetship. He must demonstrate to his governing officer that he possesses fair ability as a public speaker, singer, player of musical instruments and as a general leader of men. Ample opportunity is afforded him in the meetings of demonstrating such ability. If the candidate satisfies the corps officers that he is a suitable person for cadetship, a favorable recommendation is made to the next ranking officer (the P. O.), who, in turn, if he agrees with the recommendation, passes the papers on to the next ranking officer (the P. O.), who, in turn, passes them on to the national (east) or territorial (west) headquarters, where the candidate's board makes a final recommendation to the national territorial board.

A candidate for officer or cadetship in the Salvationist for the space of six months before his case may be considered.

If accepted, he must bring along stipulated articles of clothing also the sum of $50 with which to purchase suitable uniforms when commissioned as an officer. Board and lodging are free at the training schools.

Before acceptance, he must produce a doctor's certificate as to possession of good physical and mental health, must have sound teeth, and be free from debt.

Fields of both sexes, before being commissioned and appointed to his field are given an eight months' course of practical instruction at the training college. This includes a great deal of liberal and of simple doctrinal instruction. The curriculum also includes the essential elements of an instructor in mechanics, indoor and out and in ventilation and aid for the poor and sick, as well as domestic hygiene. The candidate also receives a course in first aid and in this it is expected that every Salvationist will be able to render aid in case of accident to another person. First aid treatment until the medical arrives.

The cadets, having stood every test (none do not and are sent home) are placed in a most commendable and interesting line of work. They are appointed as messengers, lieutenants of probation-

DANIELS EXPLAINS CENSORING RODMAN

Did Not Know He Was In An Official Capacity, Declares the Secretary.

SAN DIEGO, Aug. 8.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels authorized a statement today in which he told briefly of the circumstances that led to Admiral Rodman's announcement that he might at a banquet that a speech he had prepared in advance would have to remain in his pocket as Secretary Daniels had concurred it and told him that, as he had no capacity as a censor at the time, nor did I know then that the speech had been sent broadcast in advance. Had I known that copies were in the hands of the newspaper, I would have made no objection to the use of the article.

"The speech was shown me and I commented upon it in an informal manner." "A paragraph in the admiral's speech which the secretary thought should be eliminated referred to possible future wars. Admiral Rodman laughingly said today that the whole affair amounted to nothing and "it didn't bother me a bit."

WHEN YOU WAKE UP DRINK GLASS OF HOT WATER

Wash the poisons and toxins from system before putting more food into stomach.

Says inside-bathing makes anyone look and feel happy, sweet and refreshed.

Wash yourself on the inside before breakfast like you do on the outside. This is vastly more important because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing illness, while the bowels pores do.

For every ounce of food and drink taken into the stomach, nearly an ounce of waste material must be carried out of the body. If this waste material is not eliminated day by day it quickly ferments and generates poisons, gases and toxins which are absorbed or sucked into the blood stream, through the lymph ducts which should suck only nourishment to sustain the body.

A reliable health measure is to drink, before breakfast each day, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless way to wash these poisons, gases and toxins from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. This "drinking sweetening" and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

A quarter-pound of limestone phosphate can be used every little bit a drug material but is sufficient to make any man an enthusiast on inside bathing. Men and women who are accustomed to wake up with a dull itching head or who have had bilious attacks, indigestion, flatulency, and heartburn, indigestion, and constipation are sure of pronounced improvement in both health and appearance shortly.

Details of the Final Count

In order to maintain the strictest secrecy as to the number of subscriptions turned in by each candidate during this, the last week of The Chronicle's big automobile prize campaign, the race will be brought to a close under a sealed ballot box.

No subscriptions whatever will be accepted through the campaign department this week, but instead, candidates themselves will deposit their final collections in the sealed ballot box—located at the First National Bank of this city. By so doing no one, not even the Campaign manager, nor the publisher, can possibly know the voting strength of the respective candidates, which precludes any possibility of favoritism and insures fairness to the minutest degree.

Locked and sealed, the ballot box now reposes in the vaults of the First National Bank, where it will remain until the closing hour of the campaign—10 o'clock Saturday night, August 9th.

When the final hour arrives the campaign will be declared closed. The judges will break the seals, unlock the box, and immediately thereafter, or as soon as votes can be issued on the subscriptions contained therein, the last count will begin.

The winners will be determined by merely adding the published vote totals, which will appear for the last time in Tuesday's issue, to the reserve votes and those contained in the ballot box. There will be no waiting; no complicated count, but simply a matter of adding the vote totals and announcing the winners.

It is calculated that it will require some time to canvass the findings in the box and to determine the winner. The official results will be published in next Sunday's issue of The Chronicle.

Out-of-Town Candidates Attention!

Heretofore out-of-town candidates have had the privilege of mailing their letters containing subscriptions from their home town as late as the closing hour of the various "periods." This will not be permitted the last night of the contest. ALL VOTES AND SUBSCRIPTIONS MUST BE IN THE SEALED BALLOT BOX WHEN THE RACE IS DECLARED CLOSED AT TEN O'CLOCK SHARP.

Out-of-town candidates should, where it is possible to do so, arrange to deposit their envelopes in person at the bank, but where this cannot be done letters containing final remittances should be addressed to "Campaign Department," Chronicle, Twin Falls, Idaho, and plainly marked, "For sealed ballot box. Not to be opened." Particular care should be taken to post such letters in good time to reach this office before the final hour, and it is advisable that same should be sent under special delivery stamp.

Important Notice

All subscriptions deposited in the sealed ballot box MUST BE ACCOMPANIED BY CASH, MONEY ORDER OR CERTIFIED CHECK FOR THE FULL AMOUNT TO COVER. Personal checks up to $10.00 are acceptable, providing no two checks are signed by the same party. This ruling is made in fairness to all candidates, and will be strictly adhered to.

The Judges

Some of the members of the Advisory Board, selected at the beginning of the campaign will be asked to act as judges; to canvass the findings in the ballot box, and to award the prizes. The personnel of this board is as follows:

W. H. ELDRIDGE, Mayor Twin Falls; LEO F. BRACKEN, Cashier Idaho State Bank, Twin Falls; A. B. COLLWELL, Druggist, Twin Falls; E. J. OSTRANDER, City Councilman, Twin Falls; J. M. SHANK, ex-Probate Judge and Attorney, Bull; W. P. SHINN, Postmaster, Filer; W. H. TURNER, Banker, Kimberly; HON. J. H. SEAVER, State Senator Castleford; R. E. MOOREHOUSE, Postmaster, Hollister.

All of these gentlemen are well known to everyone in Twin Falls and surrounding territory, and the final results, as given out by them, will be beyond dispute.

EXPRESSION OF APPRECIATION BY CAMPAIGN MANAGEMENT

On the eve of the termination of the Chronicle's mammoth prize voting campaign, the management of the campaign and the publisher wish to express their appreciation of the wonderful results that have been accomplished by these enterprising, efficient contestants.

It is with sincere regret that we see the campaign near its end and our daily association and visits with them brought to a close. Just a word might be said as to the conduct of the campaign and its close.

As to the results which these splendid contestants have been able to accomplish—they have been truly wonderful. The fact that the circulation of the Chronicle has been more than doubled by their efforts is an assurance that the most popular and the highest type of people in Twin Falls county have been engaged as participants.

As has been stated before, the management regrets that there are not more automobiles to be distributed—enough, in fact, so that every one of these worthy hustlers could be given one.

The management wishes again to express its sincerest appreciation and thanks to each individual contestant for the friendliness and good feeling that has prevailed throughout the race and the kindness and courtesy and earnestness and goodness shown the management at all times.

Mrs. E. A. Hubbard left Thursday afternoon for Madison, Wisconsin, where she will be the guest of friends and relatives for about a month.

Through it all, Mr. Plumb clung steadfastly to the assertion that the railroad unions aimed "to eliminate the motive for operation for profit, and substitute the motive for operation for service" in which added the corollary that "it means democracy in industry, without which democracy in politics is a mere shell and sham."
