

WILSON GIVES DETAILS OF TREATY MAKING TO MEMBERS OF COMMITTEE

Declares Pact Imposes No Legal Obligation Requiring That United States Fight to Protect Integrity of Territory or Independence of Any Other Country.

MORAL DUTY MIGHT COMPEL THE COUNTRY TO ENTER SUCH A WAR

Executive Willingly Answers Series of Questions Propounded by Senators While Stenographers Take Notes of Conversation—Precedent of Many Years' Standing Broken by Conference.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—President Wilson, interpreting the league of nations covenant today for the senate foreign relations committee, declared it imposed no legal obligation for the use of American military force in protecting the territory or independence of any other nation.

But he added that the covenant might involve, in certain circumstances, an "absolutely compelling moral obligation" which might be even stronger than a legal promise.

Nations Are Granted.—Pressed for a more exact definition by committee members who insisted that the whole arrangement was "a rope of sand," he asserted that on the contrary he considered it as placing the nations in "an attitude of confidence and protection" which would compel respect for the principles of justice and liberty.

Meeting the committee in a round-table discussion in the East room of the White House in contradiction to the precedents of more than a century and with the whole nation listening through the medium of a relay of public stenographers, the president went into many of the details of the peace negotiations and touched on all the hotly debated questions which have divided the senate since consideration of the peace treaty.

Congress Alone Controls.—Article 10 of the covenant, guaranteeing the integrity of leagues members against aggression, he declared, would leave to each nation complete control of choice as to the application of force. "Even if the American representatives on the council joined in an unanimous recommendation for military action the final decision for peace was must rest to us," he said.

Force Is Moral.—Whatever the council gave under its authority in such a case, he said, as the league of nations must also be deemed appropriate, by the United States to be binding on the government, he argued, though in the back ground there is such a potential moral force that he doubted if the nation would ever be able to let Japan's promise be written.

The president revealed that Japan's promise, to return Shantung province to China was reduced to written form in the minutes of the peace conference. He said he had "every confidence" that the promise would be carried out and told the senators it was "the best that could be got" out of the negotiations, Japan having given notice she would withdraw from the conference if her demands were refused. The American delegates, he said, had tried to keep the nation free from obligations in European affairs "so far as it was honorably possible to do so," he asserted that it might be necessary to keep some American troops in the Rhine district under the treaty for the next 15 years.

All Rights Reserved.—Mr. Wilson repeated that he had agreed to let our own judges whether its obligations had been fulfilled under the "dispute" withdrawal clause of the league covenant; that purely domestic questions were safe from the league's interference, and that the Monroe doctrine was clearly preserved.

The league, the president explained, was built on the plan of General Bismarck of South Africa. Mr. Wilson stated that he had suggested the United States take no part of the German reparations, but had asked that the conference reserve disposition of the German Pacific Island of Yap on a suggestion that it was

MEXICAN OFFICIALS RETICENT

JUAREZ, Mex., Aug. 19.—Carranza officials here tonight declined to make any comment relative to the presence of American troops in Mexico in the Ojinaga district. No communications have been received here today from General M. M. Digness, commander of Federal forces at Chihuahua, so far as could be learned and officials say any statement on the situation would be made by him. Casualty excellent in evidence here, but no alarm is felt, although there is some activity that is not around military headquarters and an officer is in charge in addition to the usual sentry guards.

GAVE PERMISSION TO MAKE SEARCH

But Carranza Bulletin Makes No Mention of Attitude Towards the Punitive Expedition.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 19.—American aviators were given permission to cross the international frontier by the Mexican government to search for Lieutenant Harold G. Peterson and his plane, which was captured by bandits, according to a bulletin made public here tonight by General Juan Barragan, chief of the presidential staff. The bulletin makes no mention of any permission having been given by Carranza and sends troops across the frontier. It also does not mention the exact place where the two American aviators were supposed to have landed and gives no information as to the attitude which is required to be in that region.

General Barragan's bulletin says that on August 11 General Manuel M. Digness, commander of military operations to the state of Chihuahua, reported to President Carranza that he had received information from Colonel George T. Langhorne, American commander at Marfa, Tex., that an American airplane had landed in Mexican territory south of the Rio Grande. The bulletin continues by saying that the pilot whose airplane landed in a desert region, where it is known many bands of outlaws have their rendezvous, and had not scattered because of the "dilettant nature of the country. The pilot from Colonel Langhorne stated that the airplane landed in a desert region, where it is known many bands of outlaws have their rendezvous, and had not scattered because of the "dilettant nature of the country. The pilot from Colonel Langhorne stated that the airplane landed in a desert region, where it is known many bands of outlaws have their rendezvous, and had not scattered because of the "dilettant nature of the country.

It is stated that President Carranza gave his consent for other airplanes to cross, but believing they would accomplish nothing and ordered General Ojinaga to send out cavalry scouting parties. It is stated the government has been unofficially informed that the aviators have been ransomed and that the flight American aviator had sent troops in pursuit of the bandits, but no official report has been received from General Digness.

LIPTON PREPARES FOR BIG CUP RACE

Shamrock IV Will Compete Against the Best that America Can Produce in Challenge Race.

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Since his return to London from America Sir Thomas Lipton has set about the task of completing his arrangements for next year's contest for the American Cup as earnest, as the Yachting World. The most important decision he has arrived at, Sir Thomas told a reporter in the periodical, is to send the 23-meter Shamrock to America early next year to act as a trial boat in the tuning up spins of the challenger, Shamrock IV. Asked who would have charge of the British boat, Sir Thomas replied, W. P. Burton had suggested to call the challenger in the race for the American Cup, and also take charge of the 23-meter Shamrock.

"Naturally, he will have his own professional skipper," Sir Thomas added. "Mr. Burton will also be responsible for engineering the crew of both boats, and, in fact, he will be in entire charge of the whole of the British and the actual races on the other side. Charles E. Nicholson, her designer, is going over at an early date for the purpose of thoroughly examining 'Shamrock IV'."

"Do you think any alterations are likely to be made in her," Sir Thomas was asked.

"That is a matter which I am leaving entirely to Mr. Nicholson's judgment. Many experienced yachtsmen are of the opinion that Shamrock IV is far and away the best boat I have ever had to represent me in this great contest."

"If you lose this time, will you challenge again?"

"I have the greatest hopes that I shall be successful in this my fourth attempt to bring back the cup, and if I am not successful I can only say that I shall give Mr. Nicholson an order to build another boat."

EVANS AND OULMET TO FIGHT IT OUT FOR GOLF CHAMP.

By the Associated Press.
 PITTSBURGH, Pa., Aug. 19.—Charles "Chick" Evans Jr., of Chicago, and Francis Oulmet, of Boston, conceded to be the two foremost amateur golf players in America, will meet tomorrow at the Oakmont country club in a 36-hole second-round match in the national amateur golf championship.

Oulmet won the opportunity to meet his principal rival for amateur golf honors by coming from behind today to win a first round match from E. C. Gray of Philadelphia.

Evans, the present champion, and an easy time winning his way into the second round by defeating Dwight W. Armstrong of the home club, 7 to 6. The Chicago golfer was a favorite tonight in the betting on tomorrow's match. This was due to Oulmet's recent illness and to the great strain the Boston golfer played under Monday in the qualifying round, and in his match with Gray.

FORD CRASHES INTO CANYON IS UNHURT

Driverless Automobile Turns Upside Down When It Goes Over Bridge Over Rock Creek.

Driverless and unlighted, a Ford car yesterday afternoon crashed through the railing at the south end of the Ostrander bridge and plunged down to the bottom of Rock Creek canyon.

The car, which was in charge of Miss Mary De Rousseau, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lucas De Rousseau, was left standing at the south end of the bridge, while the young girl went onto the bridge to leave the cause for a blockade of traffic. She found a woman loaded with coal blocks down and started back to the car.

As she approached, she saw it start slowly, gather momentum on the down grade, swing to the right, crash through the guard railing and dash and roll down the canyon wall, where it stopped bottom side up.

Remarkable as it may seem, the car was not seriously injured. Ford parts are suited to small punies, and a new top, wind shield and radius rod, with probably some other parts, will make the Ford again a rattling good car.

SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Color, Gloss and Attractiveness.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, as people say, undoubtedly brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago, the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Now, however, by adding it to our drug store for "Weyll's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost.

Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you darken your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time, by morning the gray application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy and attractive.

Weyll's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet preparation for those who desire dark hair and a youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of dandruff, and after another trial of disease.

BEET "HOPPERS" DESTROY CROPS

Beet Sugar Production in the Butte Hill In County Is Belief of Investigator

Twin Falls county's beet sugar crop will be lost 60 per cent of normal. This is the statement made by J. P. Tinsley as a result of an investigation for the bureau of plant industry. Tuesday, Tinsley visited beet fields over the tract with Field Agent Fitzgerald and Kingman of the sugar company.

The cause of the short crop is held to be the beet leaf hopper which causes the curly leaf on beets. Beet nematodes are also the cause of some loss.

Warnings have been given that while the crop will be short the farmers must not stop work on the beet now. It is important to save as much of the crop as possible.

WILSON GIVES DETAILS

have to concern in that before it had any force of law."

"Then what permanent value is there in this compact?"

"The greatest permanent value is the point that I have raised. We are assuming that the United States will not concern in the greatest moral judgment of the world. In my opinion she generally will."

Great Britain Out Vote.

Asked whether all the British dominions would be barred from voting on any question affecting the British empire, the president said that in such a case the entire empire would have but one vote.

Referring to the clause in the special defensive treaty with France which provides that it can come into force only if approved by the league, Mr. Brandegee asked whether it was constitutionally proper for the senate to approve a treaty with the decision of the allied powers. "I do not yet know," he replied.

Others May Interject.

"It is true, in it," asked Senator Brandegee, "that if difficulties arise as to the construction of any provision in the treaty with Germany after we have passed from the scene, we thought that the president will not be very powerful in the construction that will be placed on it by those who then have to determine what it means?"

"The vote of the United States will be significant," Mr. Wilson replied.

"I do not mean to say that you are not to do anything in the treaty in plain, and the fact that I think there is grave doubt about some of the provisions, will not seriously affect the opinion of the council?"

Meaning Is Plain.

"No," but the plain meaning of the treaty will have a great deal to do, and the meaning of the words is plain, and it is not, that you are clear in your opinion?" queried the senator.

"No, sir; it is a question of being confident what language means; not confident of an opinion," he replied.

"But the language is in dispute now between you and certain lawyers of the country, and certain senators, as to its meaning."

Ideas Quite Clear.

Senator Brandegee added that with regard to article 10, he was under the impression that the language was quite clear, continuing that the provision was "an obligation in a contract, and I know of but one way to perform an obligation that you have contracted to perform, and that is to perform it."

"The president has made this statement of his understanding of the obligation under that article to follow the advice of the council?"

"I take it for granted that in practically every case the United States would respond. I quite agree with you that a moral obligation is to be fulfilled and I am confident that our nation will fulfill it, but that does not remove from each individual case the element of judgment which we are free to exercise in two cases."

Judgment Is Free.

"We are first free to exercise it in the vote of our representative on the council, who will of course act under instructions from the United States government, and in the second place, we are to exercise it when the president acting upon the action of the council, takes his recommendation to congress."

"Then congress," Mr. Wilson added, "is to exercise its judgment as to whether the instructions of the executive to our member of the council were well founded or not and whether this is a case of distinct moral obligation."

Asked by Senator Johnson whether the obligations assume force under the treaty "to the extent of compelling us to maintain American troops in Europe," Mr. Wilson replied:

"Such small bodies as are necessary to the carrying out of the treaty, I think."

Troops in Europe.

"And will these troops have to be maintained under the various treaties of peace until the ultimate consummation of the terms of these treaties?" asked Mr. Johnson.

"Yes, but that is not true. In no case, as I remember, since that exceed eighteen months."

"I was rather under the impression that the occupation of Germany was to be for fifteen years.

"Along the Rhine, yes. I was thinking of other places and the other places where prohibitions are to be carried out. It is the understanding with the other governments that we are to retain only enough troops to keep our flag there."

"Will we be maintaining American troops upon the Rhine for the next fifteen years?"

"That is entirely within our choice, but I suppose we will."

JUSTIFY ATTITUDE UPON THE TREATY

Brand and Johnson Declare Wilson's Decision Shows Danger in Peace League

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Senators Johnson, California, and Brand, Idaho, republicans, declared in a statement tonight that upon the facts developed at the White House conference today as stated by them the position they had maintained "in respect to this covenant of the league of nations is justified and confirmed."

"The league of nations as constructed by the president," they said, "leaves a doubt as to its constitutionality that when we enter it we are under a 'contingent' moral obligation, to say nothing of the legal obligation which other supporters contend we are under, to take part in the disturbances, the conflicts, settlements, and the wars of Europe and Asia, if any should arise, that it is equal to that under his construction, that troops will necessarily be under the same compelling force to take part in the settlement of American affairs."

"The president opposed the financing decision," continues the statement, "was officially conveyed to him that the Japanese would not sign unless the Shanghai rights were given to Japan. The United States experts advised the president that Japan's verbal promise to return the sovereignty of the territory in Shanghai, while retaining the economic concessions was on a return of the shell of the mit by Japan while she retained the kernel. The Chinese insisted the retention of the economic privileges meant practical sovereignty, but the president says he shrank with this view."

PERISHING LEAVES ROME FOR VISIT IN VENICE

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Aug. 29.—General Pershing, who was the guest of King Victor Emmanuel yesterday, left here shortly before midnight for Venice on his way to Trieste where he will start on a visit of the Italian battlefields. He will proceed to Milan and Turin before returning to Paris.

Last evening Minister of War Albertini gave a dinner in honor of General Pershing. Signor Albertini proposed a toast to the "gallant American army" and said he was honored in welcoming General Pershing to Rome.

Repeating General Pershing said his feelings joined him in praising the bravery of the Italian army.

"No one knows the Italian people better than we, owing to the large number of Italians who have adopted American nationality," said General Pershing. "The Italians are regarded as among our best citizens. In my capacity as commander in chief I am able to realize the bravery of our army and therefore can understand what gallant men there are in yours."

FALL ASKS WILSON QUESTIONS ON PACT

Submits Special List to Executive Following the Meeting at the White House.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Senator Fall, New Mexico, republican member of the foreign relations committee, at the conclusion of today's White House conference submitted to President Wilson twenty written questions relating to the peace treaty which the president promised to answer.

The questions concerned three subjects, chiefly, the possibility of declaring the war at an end prior to ratification of the treaty, the disposition of the former German colonies and the reasons for appointment of American representatives of various reconstruction commissions created by the peace conference.

The New Mexico senator first asked whether the president could not by proclamation declare the war at an end, whether congress—the power which declared war—acting with the approval of the president, could declare peace, whether merely by the filing of the first protocol verbal under the treaty the state of war was not terminated and if so could not trade and governmental relations with Germany be resumed in full and whether through filing of the first protocol verbal and ratification by three of the stipulating powers the state of war would be terminated for all nations concerned.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE HAS NO EYES FOR THE ENGLISH

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 29.—William B. Johnson, organizer of the American Anti-Saloon League, who returned to England today from Sweden, where he attended the northern temperance conference, declared that it was not the purpose of the league to send propaganda in England with the purpose of bringing about prohibition.

"We have not the slightest intention of interfering in British affairs," said Mr. Johnson. "We will not take any part whatever in the British election. What I am doing and what I expect to do in the future is merely to explain the activities in America against drink and tell the people who prohibition was brought about and what its results will be. The British people are under no obligations to observe the same policy and bring about prohibition."

Mr. Johnson said that the Anti-Saloon League had proposed an anti-substance campaign.

needed for an American naval station. Often Replied Answers. Some of the senators' questions, the president declined to answer on the ground of international policy. How the American delegates, vote or Japan's proposal for a mutual equality clause in the league covenant he said he could not disclose, "in the interest of international good understanding," and for the same reason he said he could not join in the negotiations over the French frontier or give the committee a copy of the record of Japan's shunting promise.

Urges Early Action. Early action on the treaty was urged in a statement by the president at the outset of the conference. "This was necessary," he held so that a peace basis might be reached and the other treaties under negotiation now at Versailles were being delayed until the world learned what would happen to the treaty with Germany. He said he saw no reasonable objection to Senate reservations but thought it unwise to incorporate them in the ratification itself.

Enters Into Explanations. In replying to a long series of questions by Senators Brandegee, republican, Connecticut, the president was led into an exhaustive discussion of the meaning of moral and legal obligations in treaties.

"A moral obligation," said Mr. Wilson, "is, of course, superior to a legal obligation, and if I may say so, has a greater binding force. In every moral obligation there is an element of judgment; in a legal obligation there is no element of judgment."

Already Obligated. Senator Brandegee suggested there was no important distinction between a moral obligation and a legal obligation. "I think it is of the greatest importance," replied the president, "because the element of judgment enters into it."

"But I am assuming," returned Mr. Wilson, "that you mean an obligation to do a certain thing, and Congress refused to do it, and if every other nation's representative assembly could do the same thing, it seems to me like a rope of sand and not an obligation which would result in promoting peace."

The President. "The reason I do not agree with you," Mr. Wilson replied, "is that I do not think such a refusal would likely often occur. I believe it would be only upon the gravest grounds—and in case Congress is right, I am indifferent to foreign criticism. Senator Harding, republican, Ohio, suggested there was no necessity of a "written guarantee for the republic to fulfill its moral obligations to civilization," to which the president replied:

"It stands the World. "But it stands the whole world by its promise before hand that it will stand with other nations or human judgment to maintain right in the world."

When Senator Brandegee asked the president's opinion on the concrete case of the present trouble between Rumania and Hungary, the president said he could not answer because that would involve passing judgment upon the wisdom of various resolutions of the treaty and that he was not considered inadvisable.

Obvies to Reservations. Senator Brandegee also called attention that many authorities on international law had differed as to the meaning of various provisions of the treaty and that Charles E. Hughes, William Howard Taft and Edith Hoar had suggested reservations, but the president insisted that he thought it perfectly safe to leave the present language in the treaty. The introduction of future amendments without fear that the United States would suffer by their construction.

Fall's Idea New. When Senator Fall, republican, New Mexico, suggested that amendments to the league covenant would not require Germany's assent as she was not a member to the league, the president replied he never had thought of that feature. He discussed with Senator Brandegee and Hughes, republican, Pennsylvania, who asserted that the treaty would come into force among all the signatories as soon as it had ratified it.

Members Stay for Lunch. For more than three hours the committee members questioned the president, and afterward they stayed for lunch at the White House. When the recess was taken there had been no discussion whether the meeting was to be resumed during the afternoon, but later it was decided to do so. There was no intimation tonight whether the committee would seek further conferences. Tomorrow it will resume its open hearing at the capitol.

Fall Propounds Questions. Senator Fall left with Mr. Wilson a list of questions which the latter said he would reply to at length later. They concern the powers of the president or congress to declare a state of peace, details of the resumption of trade and diplomatic relations with Germany; what disposition is to be made of the German colonies and the need for American representation on various European reconstruction committees.

Borah and Johnson Obdurate. The president's declaration of a compelling moral obligation under the league was emphasized in a statement issued jointly tonight by Senators Borah, Idaho, and Johnson, California, republican members of the committee and two of its bitterest opponents. "I do not understand that we do surrender," replied the president. "Would you not understand a decree by the council to be a suggestion of this moral obligation?" "Certainly I would, but we would not understand that we do surrender," replied the president. "Would you not understand a decree by the council to be a suggestion of this moral obligation?" "Certainly I would, but we would appropriate to the treaty in its present form. They declared the day's testimony had borne out their claim that the league would lead to internecine foreign complications. They also pointed out that Senator Johnson had declared in the day's meeting that a good part of the territorial settlement resulting from the war was yet to be determined.

President Urges Publicity. The arrangements for publishing a transcript of the discussion which grew out of a suggestion from the committee that questions be not required to keep the proceedings in confidence, had Mr. Wilson's personal supervision. After the committee had departed he went to the White House basement where the newspaper correspondents were waiting for the last of the stenographic report, and asked whether everything was going smoothly.

"I came down," he said to the correspondents, "to inquire if you people were handling the way you wanted."

Fall in Agree. The president in his statement at the opening of the conference had believed only the meaning of certain parts of the league covenant stood in the way of ratification of the treaty.

Later Senator Brandegee told him he had been wrong in assuming on that subject, as there was much serious opposition in the senate to the shifting provisions and to other features.

When the question of moral obligation was raised, Senator Harding suggested that the covenant provisions might amount to "surrendering the suggestion of a moral obligation for this republic to the prejudices and necessities of the nations of the old world."

Views Are Divergent. "I do not understand that we do surrender," replied the president. "Would you not understand a decree by the council to be a suggestion of this moral obligation?" "Certainly I would, but we would not understand that we do surrender," replied the president. "Would you not understand a decree by the council to be a suggestion of this moral obligation?" "Certainly I would, but we would

RUMOR SPREADS IN SPITE OF DENIALS

Tale of Finding of Richmond Body 'Continues to Grow in Spite of Evidence of Falsity.'

Rumor mongers were busy yesterday spreading untrue stories concerning the alleged finding of the body of the late J. J. Richmond in the city reservoir.

County officials, city officials and prominent citizens were all given an authority for statements that the body had been taken out of the reservoir and that an effort was being made to hide the fact. Investigation in every case failed to verify the stories.

One story that late in the day gained considerable spread and belief was that Mrs. Richmond, wife of the missing man, had told friends that her husband's body had been recovered. A representative of The Chronicle visited Mrs. Richmond at her home.

"Did you tell friends that the body of your husband had been found?" was asked of Mrs. Richmond.

"I certainly did not," replied Mrs. Richmond. "I have heard several unbelieveable stories, but this is the first time that I had heard this report that I had said my husband's body had been recovered. His body has not been found."

John Ault, probation officer, was another who is alleged to have been authorized for stories that the body of the missing man was found and that the fact was being covered up by officials.

Mr. Ault was interviewed by The Chronicle.

"Have you stated that the body had been found?" Mr. Ault was asked.

"I have not," said Mr. Ault. "I was called early this morning by a friend, who asked if I knew anything about the story. I told him that there was absolutely no truth whatever in the story as far as I knew. I do not believe it myself."

"Inquiries of all sorts and tides of all kinds have come into my office," said H. G. Dietrich, chief deputy in the sheriff's office. "We have denied the story and have been repeatedly told that we were hiding the facts. One of our deputies is alleged to have said that he helped to take the body out of the reservoir. He is now looking for the source of the perversion."

"It is a preliminary offense to conceal a body," continued Mr. Dietrich. "Coroner Grossman is out of town and J. E. DeWitt is acting in his place. The law requires that if a body is found the coroner must be notified and in case of his absence the sheriff's office. An inquest must be held. We would be subject to prosecution if we did not follow the law. Yet apparently our denials add only fuel to the fire and the report grows apace."

J. E. DeWitt, undertaker, who is temporarily in charge of both establishments in Twin Falls, said "I have had telephone call after telephone call, mostly from the women, demanding that I tell the truth and acknowledge the body of the man is here. I have denied such a thing is a fact and have been told I was lying."

"One party asked me how much the canal company was paying me to keep the fact quiet."

"In the meantime we have no information as to the source of the malicious statements."

City officials are endeavoring to find the source of the tale and if the party who started the story is found, prosecution will probably follow.

FORTUNE MAKING IN ARCTIC POSSIBLE

Reindeer Raising Will Aid Meat Supply and Make Money for Those Taking It Up.

SEATTLE, Aug. 19.—New fortunes will flow in the far north for adventurers who will go into the Arctic sections of Canada and Alaska and raise reindeer for the outside world market, according to Vilhjalfr Stefansson, Canadian Arctic explorer.

With the meat supply of the outside world decreasing annually, some day the bulk of the meat used in Europe and America will be brought down from Tundra plains lying along the northern edge of the world, the explorer predicted here recently.

"Reindeer carcases can be landed at Seattle at present at a total cost between $2.00 and $3.00 and bring 25 cents per pound for use in feeding the aquatics, average of about $20.00 each, leaving a clear profit of about $22.00 for each animal," Stefansson said.

At present a large amount of reindeer meat from the Seward Peninsula section of northwestern Alaska is being sold in Minnesota. The meat is sold at prices a bit higher than best but it is expected to drop in price as the supply increases.

Investigations are being made by Stefansson for the Canadian government regarding the feasibility of transplanting reindeer into northeastern Canada for raising for outside market.

Over 1,000,000 acres of northern Canada is ready for the bears, Stefansson estimated. These lands are rich with northern vegetation which it is said will support the animals the year round, regardless of good or bad weather conditions.

According to one scheme suggested the reindeer would be brought across the Atlantic from Scandinavian countries for the transplanting in northeastern Canada. The northeastern section would be selected because of the fact it is closer than other parts of northern Canada to the markets of Europe. It is said that it costs more to transport reindeer meat from northwestern Alaska to Seattle than from northeastern Canada to England.

Nome, Alaska, people who recently formed a company to raise reindeer, have four large herds and are considering taking an airplane to transport reindeer meat from the north for use in feeding the aquatics.

MANY GERMANS ARE SEEKING NEW HOMES

Several Million Are Expected to Leave Fatherland for More Lustrative Places.

BERLIN, Aug. 19.—It is expected that several million Germans will attempt, as soon as passes are available, to leave Germany and secure more lucrative employment abroad.

The newly organized Imperial Migration Bureau denies that a German commission in the Argentine is attempting to arrange for the acceptance of 5,000 Germans, which is vastly more than the South American country could suddenly assimilate, but says that delegates of the new bureau will shortly go to the Argentine to protect such Germans as do arrive there from being robbed and deceived.

The bureau asks the Argentine to furnish to Germans and offers good prices for skilled labor such as carpenters, watchmakers, mechanics and printers.

The Argentine Consulate general says that a commission has been sent to the Argentine which will buy land for the emigrants and institute farms and schools. He declares that the Argentine government is willing to accept large colonies of Germans, but demands they should accept Argentine citizenship so that there will be no danger of emigration to other states. Provisions are to be taken against Bolshevism. Emigrants are especially welcome to the territories of Chaco Misiones, Chubut and an government lands. Twenty to 200 hectares will be given free, on condition that they are not to be sold, and cattle and machinery will be adapted on credit.

MONTANA'S FORTYTHIRD IS A LOSS IN MONTANA

Montana has virtually lost all of her crops this year, according to D. P. Smith, well known business man of Billings, Montana, who is visiting here. This applies not only to the dry farming district, but in the irrigated district as well. This is the worst year since 1886 for the farmers, said Mr. Smith. Stockmen are buying all the grain and alfalfa that is being raised, which is a very small percentage of the latter years of their crop.

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

Take a Glass of Sals to Flush Kidneys If Bladder Bothers You

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well known authority, because the urea acid in meat irritates the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, cold stomach, constipation, irritability, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Sals Sals from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous Sals is made from the seed of grapes and lemon juice combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acid in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

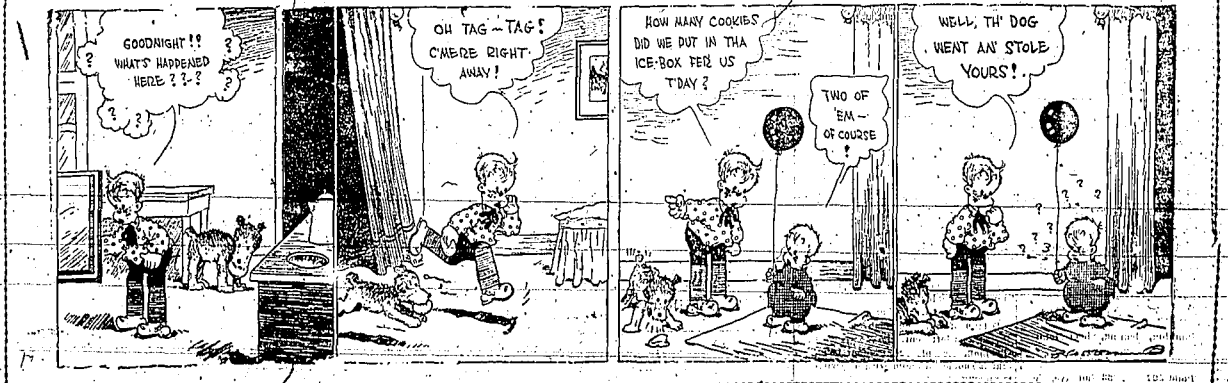

Sals Sals cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water-drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disorders.

HOME GUARDS ARE USED TO QUELL RIOTS

One Man Killed, Eight Injured When Strikers are Packing Workers Fight.

TRAIN IS STORMED; JAIL THREATENED

Men Thought Carrier Brought in Strikebreakers—Sore When Man Is Arrested.

MILLWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 19.—Three companies of state home guards tonight to aid deputy sheriffs in keeping order at the Cudahy company's packing plant at Cudahy, near here, where a man was killed and eight slightly wounded and a score injured in a clash between strikers and the police this afternoon.

More than 600 strikers, men and women, took part in the riot. The wounded and injured were not in serious condition, it was reported.

Women Start Trouble.

The trouble began when women of the mill employees started home guards to plant late this afternoon under guard of deputy sheriffs. A number of women, wives of the strikers, threw sticks and stones at them, they and the deputies came to their rescue. Strikers then joined their wives and became so riotous that the police drove their sons and fired into the air. A fee for all fight ensued and the deputies said they were forced to fire into the crowd to restore order.

The Cudahy plant has been closed for two weeks. A disagreement over wages and withholding of workmen caused the walkout.

Conflict With Cudahy.

A committee of strikers were in conference tonight with Michael Conroy, president of the company, trying to reach an agreement that would end the strike.

This morning a mob of 500 strikers stormed a train that stopped at Cudahy. The men said that they thought the train brought strikebreakers to the plant. A rifle was sent out and deputy sheriffs arrested. One striker was arrested and for a time the rioters threatened to storm the jail. This feeling brewed all day and reached a climax in this afternoon's riot.

Paul Helmske, 35 years old, the man killed, was one of the strikers.

AIRMAN DROPS GREASER WITH MACHINE GUN

try through which the pursuit is being made, said it probably would be necessary to search every canyon and mountain pass to locate the scattered bands.

It now is believed a comparatively small number of bandits were involved in the kidnaping.

County 24 Wild.

The district within the angle formed by a junction of the Rio Grande and Cuchales offers the widest action of northern Mexico, noted for rough mountains, deep canyons and barren deserts. The Cuchales river flows into the Rio Grande near Ojinaca after tumbling through San Juan from Cuchillo and San Juan del Rio. Both rivers are lined with cottonwood trees. Lowland farms in Delta Cuchales are the only green spots to be seen in the entire district, where palm-wine, mangoes and cactus grow. Barren hills, rocky canyons, and mountains are superimposed on mesas beyond the border over which winding trails are traced in white.

Cavalrymen Make Way.

Along these trails the cavalrymen were making their way tonight. The columns of two were forced to break into detachments and wind slowly up the sides of mountains, down low canyons, always alert for a bandit ambush. The soldiers and officers wore rain-soaked uniforms, soaked with dampness during their march, were tired from the long forced march.

On Field Battalions.

The troops are on field battalions from mule pack trains, no field kitchens were taken.

The communication line is being maintained to the border, along which supply trains are being sent from the columns on the American side to the columns in the field.

A field wireless pack and airplane are maintaining communication with headquarters here. The strain is increasing with field telephone communication throughout the district.

Wandering Carranza Troops.

The line in Paredita tonight was out of order and nothing was known of movements of Carranza troops from Ojinaca, opposite that point. Orders were issued at headquarters to all commanders in the expedition to use every care to protect peaceable Mexicans.

The balance of the $15,000 ransom which Captain Leonard F. Matlock brought back to Camdenaria after having teleked the bandits into releasing Lieutenant Davis without paying the full ransom, was split in a bank into today. It amounted to $4,500.

It is also here tonight that it virtually was impossible to carry out Major General Joseph T. Dickman's order instructing officers to pay the bandits the full ransom, unless the money was in the hands of the American troops.

SITUATION GROWS TENSE.

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 19.—Feeling is tense regarding the border situation among the inhabitants of isolated towns along the border in New Mexico and Arizona, according to intelligence from the American side by military officials. Americans wired that the Mexicans in these border towns outnumber them and that great excitement prevails. The Mexicans have quit work in many instances, the report says, awaiting further developments from the American side as to the army. Men here admitted the possibility of sending more troops to these border posts, but no action has been taken.

TO USE FIRM HAND.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—No official announcement has been made by the United States government intends to handle the bandit nuisance in northern Mexico, from this point on, but there is every evidence that all preparations have been made to meet future developments with a swift movement of troops on such a scale as now being conducted against the desperadoes who held the two army aviators for ransom.

Will Move Swiftly.

Swiftly moving cavalry, fully equipped with machine guns and guided by airplanes, it is understood, will be sent upon, and will be moving made to move quickly from strategic points along the border of the bandit country on the Rio Grande.

Organization of the border guard to insure the greatest speed in these movements has been completed, and cavalry regiments have been distributed as to place the nucleus of a flying column at carefully selected points along the Rio Grande.

Inaugurate New Plan.

Movement of troops of the Eighth cavalry into Mexico today inaugurated the new plan, according to officials and from this time on similar incidents "will be handled without gloves."

In announcing that Major General Joseph T. Dickman, commanding the southern department, had acted on instructions from the war department, Secretary Baker intimated that only the danger in which the two officers were placed prevented an attempt to rescue them by force.

Time Too Short.

"When the reports came of the capture of these two officers and their being held for ransom," Secretary Baker said, "the hour of execution was fixed on the next day in default of the ransom being paid. There was, of course, no opportunity to make a military rescue within such a time and I therefore decided that the ransom money be paid and that a force be arranged to take up the hot trail of the bandits and pursue them with the hope of being able to capture an many as possible."

Dickman in charge.

Details of how the dash was conducted was laid entirely to General Dickman, the only requirement being that it should be made with a "swiftly moving force."

Carey with machine guns and guarded by airplanes, would be used.

if captives are taken, they will be brought to the United States.

"The close proximity of the bandit rendezvous to the border led to the hope that the American troops might overtake them before they would have time to reatler."

DICKMAN TAKES CHARGE.

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Aug. 19.—Major General J. T. Dickman, commander of the southern department, will personally direct pursuit of the Mexican bandits who captured Lieutenant Davis and Peterson and on whom trail troops of the Eighth cavalry crossed the border early today.

General Dickman left here today, ostensibly to inspect army posts along the border, but it became known tonight that he was expected to reach Marfa, Texas, some time tomorrow and would assume direction of the pursuit troops.

Ready to Go to Marfa.

Before leaving General Dickman said he would be ready to go to Marfa if necessary, but his departure on a fact through trails to the border for the regular mail train for El Paso was taken to indicate that his plan contemplated going to the scene of the present operations as quickly as possible.

Major D. B. Butler, commander of Kelly field here, said today that no attempt to rescue the aviators was being made by the border in connection with the pursuit of the Mexican bandits. The only air service movement announced during the day was the transfer of six planes from El Paso to temporary duty at Marfa.

MARFA, Tex., Aug. 19.—Lieutenant M. G. Peterson and Lieutenant Paul M. Davis, army aviators held prisoners by Mexican bandits Wednesday afternoon, were released today.

The aviators were held in a small building in the town of Marfa, Texas, where they were kept in a room with a barred window. They were released after a ransom of $15,000 was paid to them by the bandits.

LOUIS F. SWIFT

Davis without paying the second half of the ransom.

Fennell said the bandits carried high-powered rifles in their hands when Matlock escaped with Davis. The Mexicans were so antsy about the nerve of the officer they failed to shoot him the horse carrying the aviator and the cavalry commander dashed across the river into the darkness.

It developed today that Captain Matlock refused to wait for firing of the signal flare from the Mexican mountain and crossed the river at 12:30 p.m., after the hour agreed for the firing of the flares had passed without a signal. Captain Matlock became worried over the fate of the aviators and decided to cross alone to the bandit rendezvous and see what had happened.

Soon after Captain Matlock had crossed the river to Mexico, Fennell saw the signal flare from the Mexican side fired and Fennell fired a flare from the American side notifying the Mexicans that Captain Matlock had crossed.

Other aviators were anything but dapper flying corps men when brought across the river," Fennell continued. "Peterson, tall, slender, his face almost hidden by eight days' growth of beard, and Davis, short and stout with laughing eyes, seemed filled with joy of living after their experiences. Both were very nervous when they first crossed the border.
