

MUCH WORK YET, SALVATION ARMY

Calls Come From Homeless, Friendless and Maimed for Organizations Aid.

Twelve thousand homeless waifs and neglected children; 10,000 poor and unfortunate girls; 122,000 maimed, penniless working men; 71,000 jobless youths.

This heterogeneous army, picked up in the tide and flow of our great cities in the last few years, represents one phase of the universal service of the Salvation Army which is now being continued after the battle had subsided to our own American soldiers on the battlefields of France.

The war fought over for the Salvation Army hasse. Returning from foreign battlefields, she faces another service, that of ministering to the homeless, friendless, suffering and penniless of our American cities. And while very noble efforts of sacrifice goes on, a mighty effort is being made throughout the nation to perpetuate this work by the building of homes for working girls, industrial homes for men and womanly institutions where the fallen girls may be received and cared for during the dark moments of their lives.

But usually the Salvation Army is too busy to proclaim these gaudy details to the world. The issue is too busy caring for our great body of homeless people, for in 18 years in this country she ministered to 10,000 girls, the fallen women of our own city streets; girls who were not wanted in their homes or in their places of work or business; they are not even contented to have connected with our churches. But the issue says "God bless you, if nobody else takes care of you, we certainly will." That is the reason why a large institution is to be constructed in Seattle and that in why great service has been rendered for several years in similar institutions in Tacoma and Spokane and other sections of Washington state.

Children are mighty plentiful and the offering is good if one is deeply interested in the saving of waifs and stray children. The Salvation Army lapse goes deep into the holes of poverty, vice and despair in rescuing these neglected tots. She sees these children, 12,000 of them in a few years, all poor, thin, sick, ill-clad and worse fed. Special homes are built for them, the tussle catches them in, cares for them, day by day, year in and year out, for many years.

And this same lassie rescued 10,000 unfortunate girls, nearly 200,000 homeless men and thousands of unholly down-and-outers, saying to all of them, "God, bless you, if nobody else takes care of you, we certainly will."

DESCRIBES HUNT OF FLORIDA GAITERS

Former Twin Falls Resident Has Interesting Experiences in Southern State.

S. C. Sexton, a former resident of Twin Falls, has written an interesting letter to The Chronicle of his experiences on an alligator hunt in Florida. The letter follows:

We secured a guide who had followed catching gaiters for 23 years, and averages catching 500 a year. On the 26th of August we left Ft. Meyers on the west coast of Florida about 11 o'clock and traveled 35 miles down the coast until we reached Naples. After taking a stroll on the Gulf coast we started back about four o'clock. Up to this time we had caught but one small gaiter.

The real small gaiters are caught in the water. The guide wades out and dives down and catches them right back of the head and brings them out, wigging and grunting. Sometimes the guides will stand by the water and permit a long time before the gaiters will appear. They come up so gradually one can hardly see them coming and when their heads appear in sight under the water the hunter shoots them and when they get their heads above they just stick one forward paw and they know they have Mr. Gaiter.

We were riding slowly along in the car and our guide exclaimed, "There's a seven-foot gaiter." We got out and moved to the water. The gaiter backed into his den. The guide gave the "grunt" so he would come out and he could shoot him, but the animal sensed danger and stayed under the water. No one dared to speak or walk around much for if the animals hear you they will stay hidden.

They are very cautious although they have no brains, all they have is the spinal column that comes to an end between their eyes, a round point like the end of your finger. Our guide then took his ten-foot pole with a large hook on the end of it and bombarded the gaiter. The gaiter would bite the hook and fought bravely for his life for half an hour. When the guide succeeded in getting the hook fastened securely in the animal's lower jaw, he would pull awhile and put his mouth down on the hole and give a "grunt." The gaiter thinking another gaiter was there would loosen his hold a little and thus could be easily pulled out of the hole. He continued this process of pulling inch by inch and "grunting" until he brought the animal out and shot him in the head. It takes them a long time to die and if it is wished to skin them at once it is necessary to sever their spinal cord, back of their head, and run a stiff straw down their spinal cord, to the end of their tails. This kills them instantly. The hides only bring a small sum. The hide of a seven-foot gaiter brings $1.25. The inner charges $1.00 a foot. We came on-house and had two gaiters and two small live ones. Some of the alligator steak was fried for supper. It was fine, better than any fish I ever ate. Only the tail of the gaiter is used for stock.

A female alligator guards her nest with more vigilance than do the young. They lay twice a year from 50 to 50 eggs at a laying. The older gaiter the larger the eggs, and the larger the young who hatched. This alligator hunting is followed about 10 months in the year.

In appearance General Pershing has changed much since the days of the Villa expedition, when as brigadier general he rode into Mexico (see picture above on horses). Center picture at top shows him at the time when he was hosting the winter preparations for successful resistance to the German drives of 1918. At right he is in cap and gown of Oxford where the British honored him with a university degree after victory had been won. Below he is in trench helmet and in staff, able and sane uniform saluting a column of doughboys.

MONEY PAID TO MINISTER BY MEX

Baptist Pastor Received $2,500 from Carranza's Treasurer General, in Charge.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11—The romance of the Mexican oil field together with the vicissitudes of the oil promoters resulting from bandit attacks and obnoxious decrees and laws of the Carranza government, was described today to the senate foreign relations sub-committee investigating the Mexican situation by E. L. Dohoney, head of the Mexican Petroleum company, limited.

Incidentally the committee was told that Dr. Henry Allen Tupper, now pastor of the First Baptist church of Washington, but formerly active in obtaining recognition for the Carranza government, by the United States, had received a draft of $2,500 from the treasurer general of Mexico. It was indicated that the committee would call Dr. Tupper to explain for what the draft was in payment.

In the course of his description of the Mexican situation at the Mexican oil field, largely by American capital, Mr. Dohoney admitted his company had paid Manuel Pales the rebel leader, for protection, but declared that the payment was made on advice of Elites Arendondo and also that the contract was in line with suggestions of John Lind and J. R. Sullivan, personal representatives of President Wilson in Mexico.

To the charge of Finance Minister Cabrera of the Mexican cabinet, that his company was "fostering rebellion by furnishing arms and ammunition to Pales, Dohoney submitted a memorandum addressed to the American state department, declaring that Lind and Sullivan had advised payment of taxes to which were facing Dohoney to be in control, but denied that munitions were ever furnished Pales. Dohoney had completed his testimony, which had taken about two days to give, when Chairman Fall asked him if he ever had known of any of those who had been active in their work in behalf of Carranza receiving any remuneration. His answer was the presentation of a draft which had been made out by the Huasteca Petroleum company in favor of the treasurer general of Mexico and by him made payable to the order of Dr. Tupper for "cash received." After payment the check found its way back to the Huasteca company. Mr. Dohoney did not pretend to know the nature of the intended "value" of Dr. Tupper's work for Carranza and his government, but indicated it was done as an agent of the "international peace forum."

BEHIEVE THE HUMANITARIAN MINISTRY HAS FALLEN

cession of the direct trade from producer and manufacturer to consumer for the purpose of reducing living costs has been recommended. The new convention of the organization here today by Grand President Allen E. Barker. The recommendation proposes immediate opening of the first of these stores and selling at 25 per cent below present prices, gradually extending the chain throughout the country and Canada.

President Barker also recommended that the brotherhood go into the manufacture of various necessities at reduced costs to labor organizations members. Establishment of a new factory is contemplated. The erection of a ten or twelve story office building here for international headquarters and establishment of a labor organ printing plant, was also recommended.

The convention will act on the recommendations later. Revision of the constitution was begun today, election of officers being postponed until Saturday.

CHILD IS REVIVED AFTER UNCONSCIOUS IN WATER

Chester, the three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Temple of Westport, was revived yesterday after having been seen to the water at least five minutes. The child was visiting his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Chester Tink, one mile north of Paul. The child had wandered away from the house sometime near three o'clock in the afternoon and was found some time afterward by Dean Wilson of Paul in an apparently lifeless condition. The measures used revived the child and it is reported as showing little bad effects from the experience.

MEXICANS KILL ONE ANOTHER IN CAMPAIGN FOR PRESIDENT

By the Associated Press. EL PASO, Tex., Sept. 10.—Reports of plotting and disturbances in Torreon Monday, accounts of which appeared in Mexican local newspapers here today were declared to be of no significance by both the Carranza and Villa partisans here. The reports stated that partisans of Carranza and General Alvaro Obregon clashed during a street demonstration for Obregon for president, and, according to La Esfera, local Mexican paper, several were killed, including three women, troops having been sent to quell the disturbance by General Manuel Dieguez. This Mexican politician of both factions says is probably an exaggerated account of a political demonstration.

WHEN HATRED DIES.

A lad with bright eyes and pale cheeks sneaked aboard a British freighter at Hamburg and hid himself in a coil of rope in the stoke hole. He was found after the vessel was at sea and he told the captain he wanted to go to his uncle in San Francisco.

The boy was German, 11 years old. He was among English sailors who, of all men, hated the Hun.

He was a badly frightened youngster, far from home and farther from San Francisco.

The crew of the Lake Fray passed the hat and collected $75 to buy clothing for the youngster; the officers gave directions that he was to have all he wanted to eat. The captain could talk a little German and he made the stowaway feel at home.

Sailors have hearty appetites, but they marveled at the exhibition of a boy's hunger, satisfying itself after years of craving.

When the Lake Fray arrived at Hull, the boy's adventure was reported to the authorities. Probably he will be sent back to Germany.

But the sailors and officers want to keep him aboard. They say the boy will be broken-hearted if he can't stay!

The question is being solemnly asked, "How much longer shall we hate? When can amicable relations with Germany be resumed?"

Commerce will take no heed of sentiment and Germany's trade will be as welcome as that of any nation. As for the feeling of allied people toward the people of Germany, the Lake Fray incident shows how difficult it is to keep animosity alive.

THE COUNTY FAIR.

The golden glow of pumpkins, gay exhibits of school art, tiers of labeled fruit jars.

The thud of hoofs as the 2:40 trotter thunder home, blare of the band, harsh calls of fakers, wailing squawkers. "Over everything, a dusty haze.

They must hold those real old-fashioned county fairs these days somewhere, despite the fact that the balloon ascension and parachute drop have been shoved into the discard by wild feats of aviators; despite the demonstration of a glistening tractor out in the field where formerly spans of oxen strived for supremacy in hauling laden stone-boats.

They used to have freak races and yelling contests; the ladies used to serve a 25-cent chicken dinner and they used to throw real eggs at a dodging darkey!

It is almost impossible that the posters for the first were scratched on stone tablets. The institution is ancient. In Europe they are held frequently and the exhibits are there to be sold. The fairs from which ours were copied were open markets, where Supply came to meet Demand.

The Senate, not having enough investigations already started, begins a Mex quiz, which ought to enable that body to ignore the high cost of living for quite a while, and then it will think up some other brand of investigation.

THE BOYS IN BLUE.

Once—and that not so many years ago—northern veterans of the Civil war marched by the hundreds of thousands when they came together in national encampments, and thus it was for decades of American history. They came in great numbers to the Atlantic coast, the Pacific coast, and to cities inland, year after year, with ranks thinning out so slowly that we who stood on the side—and cheered the Boys in Blue scarcely noticed the dwindling, the ebbing away of what had been the greatest of armed forces this world had ever known.

And then, so suddenly that most of us were startled, we began seeing the growing gaps in those Ranks of Blue, the shortening of the line, the aging of the faces and the bodies that marched by reviewing stands upon which Lincoln, Grant, Sherman, Hayes, Garfield, Sheridan and Logan had stood.

It was the beginning of the end that we saw.

And now, in Columbus, O., we see it more plainly than ever before as the fifty-third national encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic brings but a handful of these brave veterans together. This may be the last time the Boys in Blue will walk in slow and measured tread before that reviewing stand, and even now the tax of a bare half-mile march is too great an effort for time-worn bodies. And in the early '60s they marched miles and miles. They were young then. They are old now.

It is the way of life, of the bravest, the youngest, the strongest, of every living thing.

And even as that is life so too is this turning over of Civil War treasures, prized more highly by the Boys in Blue than any other thing they own, to the Boys of the Great War, the last war, the most terrible, and most costly of all wars.

And the cheers for the passing mingle with cheers for the coming. But our cheers for the younger heart and stronger body will not lessen the love for those who almost have become a memory, a sacred and glorious memory for all time in American history, and the minds of American people.

For untold ages after the last of them shall have passed away they shall live a part of our lives—as long as America lives. The Grand Army of the Republic does not cease to exist when the last veteran passes the last reviewing stand.

WASTE AND WANT.

When it is all over which, God grant, may be sooner than we expect, it will probably be found that one of the big causes for the high cost of living was the sinful waste of war brought.

War is waste; and it was waste as truly here as it was in Europe.

Those who have peeked into the way of the various governmental departments did things do not wonder where the billions went; they marvel that we did not emerge actually bankrupt.

On every hand was haste, and the throwing of dollars like fast pelting snowflakes in December.

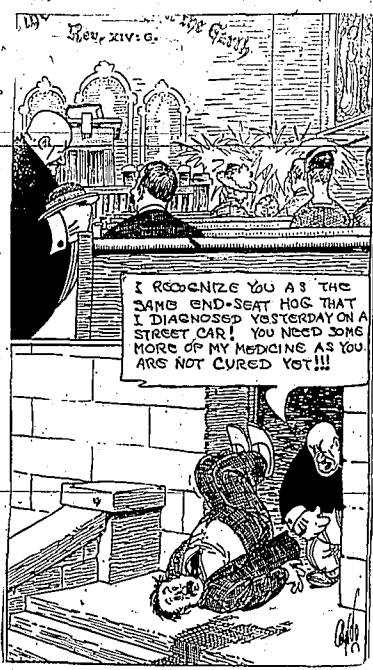

The world mortgaged its future for fifty years and squandered with reckless abandon for four years.

Not in six months, or six years will this spirit of squandering be exercised, nor the desire to suddenly acquire riches through great profits be stilled in the hearts of the nations.

Sergeant York of Pal-Mall, Tenn., had better look to his laurels. It develops that one Sergeant Bill Donnelly, of a New York infantry company, during the second battle of the Marne, with the help of a squad of six men, surrounded and captured 250 sniping Germans, with a lieutenant-colonel and twelve other officers.

Those Canadians still are wedded to the royal idea. Here they've gone and selected a King for Liberal Leader—the Hon W. E. Mackenzie King.

MATURES PLANS FOR LABOR CONFERENCE

President Makes Arrangements for Gathering to Be Held in October

By the Associated Press.
 —(By the Associated Press.)—WILSON'S BUREAU TRAIN, Sept. 11.—President Wilson devoted much time today after leaving Billings, Mont., en route to Helena, to completion of arrangements for the coming labor conference in Washington early in October. The first meeting probably will be held October 6 and representatives of labor and those who employ labor will consider domestic problems and the existing unrest.

Delegates are expected to be present representing leading manufacturers, investment bankers, agricultural organizations and labor.

Going through Montana today the presidential party got its first glimpse of high mountain peaks and buttes when the train climbed more than 500 feet from Billings to Helena through the Yellowstone valley. At Livingston, Mont., the train stopped to change engines and a crowd, many of whom were children, were on hand to welcome the president.

"I never saw so many children in my life," the president laughingly called out, "and they are all good democrats."

One of the crowd replied: "Good." The president exclaimed, "I like to see that."

Mrs. Wilson was presented with two baskets of flowers by two little girls dressed in white frocks and when the president saw them appear he invited them into the car.

Another incident seemed to please the crowd, as well as the presidential party. An elderly white-haired woman was seen struggling through the crowd that surrounded the train. The president directed that a passage be made for her and she presented Mrs. Wilson with a small bunch of # Experts or Theorists—Which?

The packing industry is intricate, complex—far more so than the railroads or the telegraph. Every day multiplying needs of society increase its problems and multiplying responsibilities demand more of it.

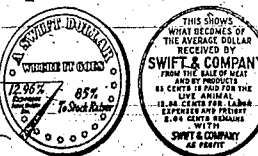

Highly trained experts, specialists of years' experience, thinkers and creative men, devote their lives, their energies, their activities, to solving the problems of the packing industry, and meeting its widening duties.

Swift & Company is not a few dozen packing plants, a few hundred branch houses, a few thousand refrigerator cars, and a few million dollars of capital, but an organization of such men. It is the experience, intelligence, initiative and activity which operates this physical equipment.

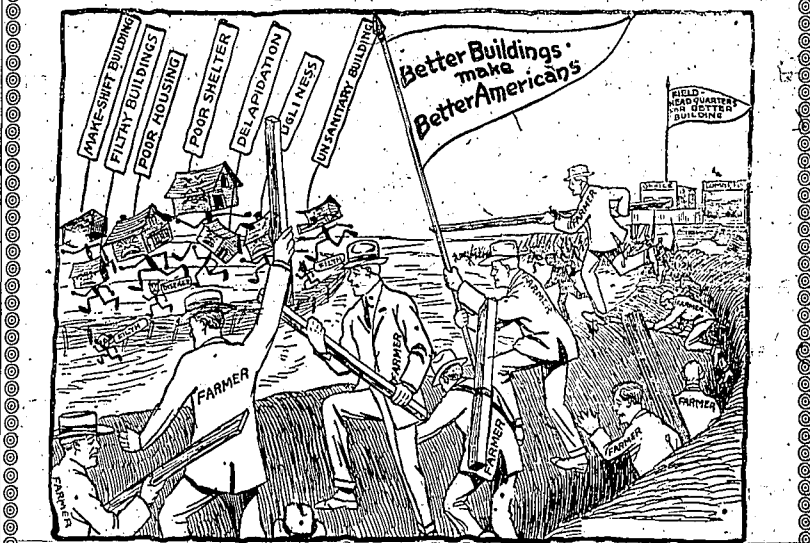

Can this intelligence, this experience, this initiative and creative effort which handles this business at a profit of only a fraction of a cent per pound from all sources, be fostered through the intervention of political theorists, however pure their purposes? Or be replaced by legislation? Does Congress really think that it can?

Let us send you a Swift "Dollar" which will interest you.

Over the Top in a Drive For Better Buildings

Farm buildings are essential as a war measure. Adequate farm improvements mean a conservation of farm products and increased profits for the farmers. They mean greater comfort for the people living on the farms. They mean that the farm becomes a more desirable place to live, and will be a BIG factor in solving the farm help problem. Farmers CAN AFFORD TO BUILD NOW. They ought to build NOW, because farm products are bringing record prices, and will buy more building material than ever before.

GIANT SWINDLE IN CHICAGO IS DISCLOSED

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Sept. 10.—More than $2,000,000 in notes issued by the "Transit Securities company," of which forty-five per cent of the money realized went to the alleged swindlers syndicate; forty-five per cent to the agent who sold the notes and ten per cent to the unfortunate purchasers, according to a statement made tonight by Assistant State's Attorney John C. McManis, who is investigating the alleged plot of a group of swindlers to flood the country with millions of dollars' worth of worthless securities. Eight men already have been arrested in the case and it was announced that the state's attorney's office is expecting the arrest of New York agents of the swindlers soon.

RELIEF IS FELT WHEN THE AUSTRIAN TREATY IS SIGNED

By the Associated Press.
ST. GERMAIN, Sept. 10.—Austria's signature of the peace treaty and the departure of Dr. Kuri Renner, the Austrian chancellor and head of the peace delegation, at Vienna, in an endeavor to brace up the unstable government, have caused a feeling of relief in conference circles, where there has been great uneasiness last the Vienna government should fail before the completion of the treaty. The Bulgarian treaty probably will be handed to the Bulgarian delegation on Friday at the French foreign office where arrangements have been made for an informal ceremony, the Bulgarians having expressed discontent at the proposed simple delivery of the treaty by the secretary of the conference.

Probably 21 days will be granted the Bulgarians to make observations on the treaty and it is expected that the conference will take a short vacation while the Bulgarians have it under consideration.

CLAIMS: CATTLEMEN DEPEND ON PACKERS

Texas Members of Growers' Association Support the "Big Five."

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Cattlemen that Texas cattlemen opposing the Kendrick and Kenyon bills to license the meat packers are "absolutely dependent on the packers" were made in a telegram from Texas members of the Southern Wholesale Growers' association today before the senate agricultural committee.

Lawyer stockmen including H. G. Hoekins and E. M. Thomas, appeared to oppose the bills. Hoekins thought packers might need to be regulated in the public interest but doubted that the Kenyon and Kendrick bills would do it.

Senator Harrison, democrat, Mississippi, put before the committee a proposal to engage in its own investigations to determine whether consumers were benefiting any by price reductions. No action was taken.

Manufacturers of hog cholera serum, through E. L. Hodgdon, attorney, asked the committee to exclude them from coming under control of the Kenyon and Kendrick bills, as they were already licensed under the department of agriculture.

RATIFY PACT TO STOP THE LABOR UNREST

Wilson Declares that Radicalism Cannot Be Stifled Without Pact.

AMERICA IS TRUSTEE FOR PEACE OF WORLD

League Instrument "to Deliver Goods to People They Belong to," Says the President.

HELENA, Mont., Sept. 11.—In two addresses in Montana today, President Wilson asked that the peace treaty be ratified without delay so that the spirit of universal unrest spreading from Russia may be quieted.

Saying he had been told the treaty was pervaded by "what is called radicalism," the president declared the only way to keep men from agitating against grievances was to remove the grievances. As long as these are present, he said, he would not intend to ask that men stop agitating, beginning only that they use orderly methods.

Remove "Noxious Growth." He said radicalism meant "cutting up by the roots," a process that would be rendered unnecessary if "noxious growth" were removed. Mr. Wilson also referred to controversies resulting from strike strikes in the east, and said the police of the policeman of the great city "dewining that city at the mercy of thugs, is a crime against civilization."

Crowd Stands Up Cheers. When the president was introduced by Governor Sam Stewart at his night address here the crowd stood up and cheered.

With all its complexities, Mr. Wilson said, the treaty after all was what the sacrifices of the war would be in vain: The task of those who fought was only half done, he declared, and

If the treaty were not put into effect, "then like these will have to be again."

That the United States should be "trustee for the peace of the world" the president declared, was inevitably developed in the full measure at Versailles and in consequence the peace had been drawn upon American specifications. Declaring the treaty could not be carried out without the league, the president cited the terrible sufferings of half Europe as an example of the sort of tasks which he asserted only a concert of nations could accomplish. The league was to be, the instrumentality, he said, "by which the goods are to be delivered to the people to whom they belong," in order of disposal sovereignty.

The league, too, would be a step toward world democracy, the president said, because for the first time it would place the small and weak nations on a footing of equality with the great and powerful.

Civilization At Stake. The United States, said the president, did not go into this war willingly and the nation had tried to convince itself "that the European business was not our business." But peace, he continued, it became apparent that civilization was at stake.

"We fought Germany," he continued, "that the world might be a fit place to live in, and this world will not be a fit place to live in as long as any great power can do what Germany did."

Under the league, asserted Mr. Wilson, there would be no opportunity for a people to be thrown into war without their consent. But if the league failed, he declared, the United States would be deliberately guilty "of preparing a situation which would bring on the final war."

Mr. Wilson said he wondered where the men had been living who now wanted America to stand alone and disengage herself from the world.

World May Be Bankrupt. "Her ambition has been to connect herself with the world commercially," he said, "and they're bankrupt if she doesn't."

He added that during the past year great business enterprises, "anxious not to suffer from the excess profits law, had put large sums into the enrichment of their facilities for after-war trade. If foreign trade could

There will be no contracts let this year by the Twin Falls highway district for roads in the county. This information was given last evening by W. J. Johnson, highway director.

Mr. Johnson stated there may be a contract let for the state highway in Twin Falls, Piler and Bull districts. This state highway board has approved the plans in all the districts and the matter is now up to the federal authorities.

The rock crusher will be working about October 1, according to Mr. Johnson. The work on the railroad track is now progressing satisfactorily. Seventy-three men are employed in the construction work there.

TWO ARE BOUND OVER TO THE DISTRICT COURT. Earl Johnson, alias Olson, Oregon youth, charged with robbing E. H. Sawyer's hardware store at Piler, appeared before Judge Duvall in probate court yesterday morning for preliminary hearing and bound over to district court for trial. Johnson remains in jail as no bail was set.

Attorney Stephens conducted the case. Elmer H. Snyder, owner of the Piler store, was on the witness stand and identified guns and other goods that were stolen from his place.

The preliminary hearing of William Budd, alias Johnson, also charged with participating in the robbery, was heard yesterday afternoon at 1:30. Wilson acknowledged himself to be a deserter from the United States army and also acknowledged his guilt. He was bound over to the district court for trial.

MAJOR EMORY COMPLETES INSPECTION OF STATION. Twin Falls recruiting office was inspected last Tuesday by Major A. H. Emory. Major Emory is completing a tour of the stations in Idaho. A new sub-station has been established at Nampa, with Corporal John J. Whisman in charge. The Salt Lake recruiting district is reported by the major as being the sixth in the United States. New York, San Francisco, Chicago and a few of the larger cities are the only ones ahead of this district in the recruiting service.

FUNERAL SERVICES HELD FOR MISS MINNIE PETERS. Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon for Mrs. Minnie Peters, who died at a local hospital last Tuesday from typhoid fever. Services were held in the DeWitt chapel, Rev. Andrew Brand of the Presbyterian church being in charge. Burial was made in the Twin Falls cemetery.

CARSON IS FINED $100 FOR LARCENY OF WATER. A fine of $100 was given R. B. Carson yesterday morning in probate court by Judge Duvall. Carson was fined for water larceny. The trial of W. R. Leich on similar charges was set for yesterday, but the court postponed the case until Wednesday September 17. Frank Messenger of Cedar Creek was arraigned yesterday on a water charge.

THREE CREEK LAD FORGER IS CHARGE. Axel Heaton, 18 years of age, son of a stockman and farmer who resides on Three Creek, was brought to Twin Falls yesterday on a charge of forgery. He is now in the county jail awaiting trial. Deputy Sheriff H. F. Holmsted made the arrest. Heaton is charged with writing a check for $325.00. C. S. Dunne's name was used for the signature. Mr. Dunne is a farmer and stockman, and it is said the possibility of the check being through were good had it not been that the name was spelled without the final "e". Another complaint against Heaton is that of having stolen an automobile from a man named Pender of Bull. Heaton said he had paid $125.00 for the car. It has been returned to the rightful owner. Heaton's mother died some time ago and left a large family. The oldest boy next to young Heaton being only 14 years of age.

SUES-RAILROAD COMPANY FOR RECOVERY OF MACHINE. Suit was brought yesterday against the Oregon Short Line and George Wells by H. Phillips, to recover possession of a sewing machine valued at $75.00. It is charged that the sewing machine is being detained by the defendants, the plaintiff knowing no reason for the action.

ABANDON PLANS FOR A "Y" HERE

Plans for the raising of a fund in Twin Falls this year for the construction of a Y. M. C. A. building have been abandoned. At a meeting last evening of the executive committee, formed at the time of the launching of the scheme to construct a building here, it was cited this is not an auspicious time to launch such a drive. About half of the committee was present last evening. An assessment was levied against the executive committee to pay the bills that accrued when the drive was first talked of and the members not present, last evening will be visited and the funds collected.
