

UTAH MURDER VICTIM FROM TWIN FALLS

Body Found Near Toole Identified as that of Mrs. Velma Atkins.

Mother Mrs. Fred Wood Had Premonition That Body Was That of Her Daughter.

By the Associated Press. SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Sept. 17.—John Borich was brought here late today from Toole, 25 miles west of here and placed in the county jail pending the filing of a charge of murder against him. Borich, according to Sheriff D. M. Anderson, who brought him here, had confessed to the murder at Toole last night of Mrs. Fred Alken.

The body of the woman was found late last night and Borich, by posing as the "grief stricken" husband of the woman, was not suspected nor treated at the time. The couple said to have come to this city from Twin Falls, Idaho, and proceeded later to Toole.

WOMAN LIVED HERE. Definite information that the young woman who was murdered on the Lincoln highway near Toole Tuesday was a resident of Twin Falls was secured last evening by Sheriff A. N. Sprague. It being ascertained that the woman was Mrs. Velma Atkins, who has been living at 609 Second avenue.

Had Premonition. Mrs. Fred Woods, mother of the young woman, appeared at the sheriff's office yesterday inquiring about newspaper stories of the finding of the body of a woman supposed to be from Twin Falls. She declared that she had a premonition that the remains were those of her daughter.

Identified. Mrs. Velma Atkins, who was arrested and Mrs. Wood was certain that it was her daughter. She declared that Green was an old friend of her daughter and that she knew her daughter had gone off with this man Green. These propositions were later proven to be facts.

Left Here Friday. Mrs. Atkins left here last Friday with two children, five and two years of age, to visit with friends by the name of Davis. The children had been left at the home of the Davis family at Salt Lake when Mrs. Atkins went riding with Green, or Borich as indicated in the above paragraph.

Original. The husband of the young woman, who was 23 years of age, was notified by the sheriff's office last night of the crime. Besides her mother, husband and children, who is survived by a sister, a Mrs. Beena of Burley.

Reason for the committing of the crime could be obtained here last night.

GEORGE REFUSES TO TALK ON POLITICS

English Premier Alludes to League of Nations as Absolute Necessity.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Sept. 17.—Premier Lloyd George spoke before the International Brotherhood congress this evening, but, as was expected, did not touch upon many of the important questions in which "the nation" is deeply concerned.

The premier was given an enthusiastic reception. He began by saying that a political platform was not involved at the meeting. "If I made a political pronouncement," he added, "I should feel that I was outraging the hospitality of the brotherhood."

He dwelt on the passing of the old order through the war, and alluded to General Smuts as having employed the most penetrating phrase of the war in reference to the league of nations—"humanity has struck its tent and once more is on the march."

He expressed the hope that all arguments would disappear and that the long drawn-out discussions between Ireland and the rest of the kingdom would also cease.

Alluding to the league of nations as an organized attempt to substitute fair play for force, the premier was heckled about Russia and Ireland, and which he replied: "We must have fair play in each case on both sides. He added that at the time of the armistice he had not foreseen that the league might be required to prevent small nations from devouring each other."

"There never was a league of nations before," he declared, "out of fear the wailing nations will continue unless there is a strong hand like that of the federated powers to insist upon peace. I see no hope for the world except in such a strong league."

POSTPONE PAVING BIDS TO NOVEMBER

Council Will Consider Offerings on Rock Creek Bridge On October 6.

Council last evening voted to postpone the opening of bids for paving here until November 2. This action followed a report from the city clerk that Engineer Berg would not be able to have specifications prepared in time to give prompt information to contractors.

Another reason advanced for the postponement was the report received from all contractors who have made inquiries as to plans that it would be impossible to get a plan here this year. Council is also taking into consideration the fact that plans held by the Western Contracting company on the bridge paving will expire next spring.

Council also decided last evening to open bids for the construction of the Rock Creek bridge on October 6. A telegram was received from R. A. Murray stating that specifications would arrive here Monday.

The police department was ordered to place signs on Rock Creek canyon forbidding dumping there. A Mr. Smith, assistant manager of the Utah Fire Clay Pipe company, presented arguments to council in an effort to induce the city to use their pipe in sewer work here.

Mr. Smith said that owing to the shorter distance of shipment from Salt Lake City the pipe made by the Utah Fire Clay Pipe company could be obtained much cheaper because the freight charges would be less. City Health Officer Murray maintained that the pipe in question was of a more porous nature and susceptible to decay. Decision was left to City Engineer Berg.

He also declared that the wifes of Italian officers in Fiume were warned by the Italian commander to leave town and many went aboard the Italian ships in the harbor.

FREE SOLDIER DAY AT FAIR PLANNED

Farmers of County Desire Funds to Get Service Men Into Big Exhibition.

Plans are in the making for a free soldiers day at the Twin Falls county fair. Several farmers of the county, including D. F. Detweller and J. W. Prange, are fathering the movement. It is planned to collect sufficient funds to provide for the entry of all soldier boys into the big exhibition.

The movement promises to receive support from all parts of the county. Practically all of Twin Falls county contingent has returned from overseas and from the home camps and the lackers of the movement believe that this will be the best time for an all-county demonstration of the feelings which the citizens of this section have for "the boys."

Funds to aid the movement can be sent to Mr. Detweller.

REPORTS MADE PRESIDENT OF THEIR ASSASSINATED

RAINS HAMPERING RELIEF WORKERS

By the Associated Press. CORPUS CHRISTI, Sept. 17.—Darkness fell over the storm stricken city of Corpus Christi and environs tonight with the list of dead from Sunday's hurricane hovering around the 200 mark and with a heavy rainfall which fell almost continuously throughout the day hampering the work of clearing the debris and increasing the suffering of thousands of homeless. All attempts at burying the bodies had been abandoned because of their decomposed condition and burial parties sent out along the shores of Nueces bay were burying the corpses to nearby towns for interment.

"The boys from tonight tonight" by a score of lamps, lanterns which cast a dimly light over the wrecked bones of Corpus Christi, adding a strange pallor to the scene of demotic demolition left by wind and wave. Into these fires are being cast the carcasses of cattle drowned when the tidal waves swept over Mustang Island, which lies across the south of Corpus Christi bay.

FRISCO WILD OVER WILSON TREATY TALK

More Than 12,000 Here the President Explain Shanting Provision of Treaty.

REITERATES AMERICA'S RIGHT TO VETO VOTE

President Introduced by Republican Committeeman in 1916—Cheered for 20 Minutes.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—To an uproarious crowd in the Civic auditorium tonight, President Wilson declared that in his trip across the continent he had become convinced that the treaty issue would be decided rightly by the people and "not by any private purposes of their own."

There was much disorder in the hall during the address and the president spoke with apparent difficulty against a hum of talk in the distant galleries. Once he stopped to ask for attention, but the crowd did not quiet down. When he left his hotel for the auditorium he was cheered by a crowd which had blocked the street for more than an hour. On the way he passed along in a continuous roar of applause, and when he and Mrs. Wilson entered the auditorium the crowd stood up and shouted half hoarse. When the cheering had been in progress for more than 15 minutes, "The Star Spangled Banner" was played on a pipe organ, but it failed to quiet the crowd.

AMERICA HAS VETO

Mayor Hough at last introduced Chester Howells editor of the Franco-British weekly, to a national committee man in 1916, who presented the president in a single sentence while the crowd kept up its shouting. When Mr. Wilson took the platform and held up his hand for yellow sashes containing many of the national features under debate now, he declared, "has been changed out on the line of suggestions by the senate's foreign relations committee."

The right of withdrawal, Mr. Wilson declared, was virtually absolute under the covenant in its present form. He declared also that the Monroe doctrine is adequately safeguarded and that such questions as immigration and tariff are to be referred to national determination.

While Great Britain has six votes in the league assembly, Mr. Wilson said, it has been "carefully arranged" so that the vote will be divided so that the United States would balance all of the six. It was only in the assembly, he said, that six votes were given the empire, and that was not, in the main, a voting body. He declared the assembly could vote to admit a new member to the league or to recommend to any member a reconsideration of such treaties as apparently are in conflict with the covenant; but said that those two functions, he said, no action could be taken without the concurrence of the American delegates, and the unanimous vote rule.

The council, where the great nations are of an equality and where unanimity is required, Mr. Wilson declared, was the league's legacy of Woodrow. The assembly was largely...

REVIEW GIVES CAPITAL VIEW WAR HEROES

Fighting First, Headed By Pershing, in Great Spectacle.

SHOW ALL PARTS OF BIG MACHINE

Browned Skinned Veterans March as a Unit for the Last Time.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Over historic Pennsylvania avenue, the American Way of Victory marked out more than fifty years ago by the turning-point region of the army of the Potomac, the First Division Expeditionary Force, marched today. It was Washington's first great parade of the war and it was conceived and carried out as the Nation's tribute not alone to the veteran fighting men who marched, but to the whole great army the nation created to make certain the utter defeat of German dreams of world conquest.

March in mass formation and equipped with all the guns, gas throwers and countless other death-dealing devices of front line service, the First Division, the home from France, moved along the broad avenue, a living tide of sunburned fighting manhood that filled the street from curb to curb. In their khaki and olive drab uniforms, the men swung by as resolutely as the spring treads of the Stars and Stripes. Above each solid block of infantry, rose the grim line of banners, the blue steel glinting dully as it caught the light. Farther back came the long lines of field guns, French "75's" which French officers have said France owes her salvation and, after all the tanks and wagons had rumbled by, came a battalion of tanks, streaked and yellowed with paint to conceal them from enemy eyes, but now glowing as if clanking their way behind the troops in noisy response to the cheers that greeted them.

There was nothing lacking to make the parade and epitome of the whole First American War and indomitable will had created to meet and beat the enemy at his own game. There were guns of all the types used in France that could be moved through the streets. Machine guns, rifles and little, brilliant among them, flamethrowers to hurl bolts of fire from the trenches—high mounted rifles which peered skyward as though still in search of enemy flyers. Some of the guns were horse-drawn, some trundled behind pulling motor trucks or tractors. The show was as complete as the ingenuity of the war department could make it, a cross section of the American Expeditionary Forces.

Lads Draw Big Attention.

But it was to the lines of khaki-clad, brown faced men themselves that first interest of the thronging crowds all along the wide avenue turned. The home-coming of this first unit of American man power to cross the submarine-infested sea was in marked contrast to its silent, mysterious, unreported departure, and the men and women along the way seemed to feel the significance of the spectacle. They recalled the days when the nation waited in wordless anxiety to hear that these same smiling, free-standing boys had come safely home to a French harbor, those other days when the first word filtered back that the boys had begun to prove their courage in action and the slow coming lists that carried the names of the men who sleep forever in France.

Gets Through Town.

To one regiment of long, trim "75's" an unusual honor was accorded. The Sixth Field Artillery was placed between the two infantry brigades in order of marching with the rest of the artillery brigade behind the infantry, for it was C battery of the Sixth which fired the first shot at the Germans on October 23, 1917. A standard told the onlooker that at last they saw the very guns which thunder had carried that first message of defeat into the enemy ranks.

Throughout the long line markers were frequent telling that the strange implements of war—over which they had been used for a time by the watchers were thousands upon thousands of government clerks who have dealt for months with endless streams of papers talking of bombs and guns and mortar, of motor-machine shops, machine bridges, machine spurs, gas throwers, flame projectors and all the other complicated war equipment of the troops. Never before have these workers at home seen all of these tools of warfare in their own warlike setting, however, and the parade was a seduction for them.

Up the avenue at the head of the division rode Major General Edward F. McHughlin, commanding, and with him rode two former commanders of the division—the first to go and the last of the divisions to come home. They were Major General Willis L. Sibert, who took it to France, and Lieutenant General Robert L. Bullard, who took it into action and surrendered command only to take a higher post. Marching ahead of the formations, also, came a host of officers and men who saw their first service with the First Division in France, later to go to other units as instructors.

First Infantry Comes.

Then came the First Infantry Brigade, marching in the French mass formation, 24 men abreast across the avenue, led by the Third Machine Gun Battalion with its motorized guns. The infantry marched in columns of fours, four companies abreast and with officers and file closers ahead, leaving the men to form a solid block of bayonets for each battalion. The 16th infantry, veterans of the bitter fighting at Cantigny, where France learned in what fashion America could and would fight and breathe free again after months of strain, led the way. After its three battalion blocks had passed came the 13th Infantry in similar formation followed by the First Machine Gun Battalion of the brigade.

The Sixth Field Artillery came next, followed by the Second Infantry Brigade, composed of the 24th and 23rd Infantry and the Second Machine Gun Battalion, then the long line of "75's" and the motor drawn "155's" of the First Artillery brigade, the Fifth and the Seventh Field Artillery. The horse-drawn guns in the rear of the Fifth pulled 15 three column abreast and the Seventh, pulled and parted along with its heavier guns in the same formation.

Trains Come Next.

The regular trains of the division followed, the First Engineer regiment leading the way with the First Engineer train behind it to be succeeded by the Second Signal battalion. Then came the almost endless wagon and truck trains of the ammunition, supply and sanitary trains and the First hospital, military police and finally the hospital trains, the 2nd, 3rd, 12th and 15th ambulance companies and Field hospitals.

At various points in the divisional line and before the walloping tanks hammered and chattered in an unending conclusion to the show, spectators saw all manner of additional units of part of the division itself, were inert. These included searchlight trucks, ordnance machine shops, units on motor trucks, sound ranging devices for detecting the position of hidden guns, sound ranges for setting air centers at night and much other mechanical equipment that has played a constant growing part in the war.

Has Splendid Record.

So far as the First Division itself is concerned, the official record of its activities during the war recently published by the war department speaks for itself. It stood 93 days in active sectors of the front against 123—in quiet parts, of the line it fought its way forward over 51 kilometers of sharply contorted ground; it captured 123 German officers and 3,304 German men; it captured also 310 German guns; 422 trench mortars and 413 machine guns. It lost 4,411 officers and men killed or died of wounds and had 17,291 men wounded or gassed in the days it spent at the front and lost only 162 men of its own personnel as prisoners to the enemy. Its replacements were greater than its original strength, 30,206, and 356 of its members won Distinguished Service Crosses for conspicuous gallantry in action.

I Owe My Life to PE-RU-NA

Mr. McKinley's letter brings cheer to all who may be sufferers as he was. Read it:

"I can honestly say that I owe my life to Peruna. After some of the best doctors in the country gave me up and said I could not live another month, Peruna saved me. Traveling from town to town, throughout the country, of badly heated stores and buildings, sometimes standing up for hours at a time while playing my trade as a auctioneer, it is only natural that I had colds frequently so when this would occur I paid little attention to it until last December when I contracted a severe cold which through neglect on my part settled on my lungs. With almost too late I began doctoring, but without avail, until I heard of Peruna. It cured me, so cannot praise it too highly."

RECEIVE NEWS OF ROBINSON JEWELS

McGinnis' Mind Hazy As to Some Of Them, But Locates Large Diamond

Shorliff Sprague has received information from the Pinkerton detecting agency giving news as to the whereabouts of most of the Robinson jewelry. This letter follows:

Since the arrest of John McGinnis, both the Baltimore police department and ourselves have been endeavoring to locate and recover the jewelry stolen from Mrs. Robinson of your city. We have talked with McGinnis several times since his arrest and have made every effort to locate the places where he disposed of the jewelry.

The ring listed as No. 1 on your postcard, a Tiffany mounted diamond ring, has been located at the pawnbroking establishment of John Spigelman, 114 south Eighth street, Philadelphia, Pa. It was sold for $400. The Baltimore police department has put a stop on this ring, and it can be obtained either through the Philadelphia police by putting up the amount paid for same, $400.

McGinnis has stolen so many articles and used so many different names in disposing of them that it is extremely hard for us to distinguish one from the other, or to state positively just where he disposed of the Robinson jewelry.

However the ring listed as No. 2, (a two diamond ring), on your postcard, McGinnis claims, was pawned at Ogden, Utah, at a pawnbroker's on Main street about seven blocks from the railroad station on the left side of the street leaving the station. It does not recall the name under which he pawned this ring, and claims that he did not receive any ticket, as they merely made a record of the name and address of the person who pawned the article.

Billion Loaves of Bread Destroyed

Away went a billion loaves of bread—or perhaps a little less—when this Pittsburg grain elevator went up in smoke, and wheat going up! A large quantity of grain had been stored in its bins. Two firemen were hurt when the walls at the right fell in.

He received $25.00 on this ring, and claims that he thinks he used the name of either Jones or Hillbreath, but is not positive. Relative to ring listed as No. 3, (a Marquise ring), he claims that he had the hand cut off this ring and had it made into a secret pin at Ogden, Utah, and later pawned the secret pin at a Baltimore pawnbroker located on east Baltimore street. This pawnbroker he thought was Lessor & Miller, and he thought he pawned it under the name of Davis, and that he sold the ticket at a place on Seventh avenue near the Mills hotel, New York City. This place he described as having a sign outside the window, "Tawn Tickets Bought," that it is next to a shoe store and has watches in the window, but he can not recall any name. The records of Lessor & Miller and several other pawnbrokers in the city have gone over and their stock looked over but no trace of this pin has been found. However, the Baltimore police department are still making efforts to locate it at some other pawnbroker.

The ring listed as No. 4, a five emerald set, McGinnis claims he lost. He states that the ring was of no value and he carried it around in his pockets and took very little care of it and lost it.

The ring listed as No. 5, a small ring with three diamonds, he claims was never in his possession, that he did not steal it, and knows absolutely nothing about it.

We will still keep in touch with this matter and should we learn anything further regarding this jewelry we will be glad to notify you.

A LABOR PARTY.

It looks more and more as if there will be a new labor party in the field next year, with far greater strength than any labor party has ever had in this country.

The railroad brotherhoods have announced their intention of starting a party of their own if they cannot persuade either the republican or democratic party to champion their cause. Their big demand is the nationalization of the railroads.

Now come the United Mine Workers of America with demands that fit in with those of the brotherhoods. They want nationalization of the coal mines; and to that end, they are talking much of a national labor party and of a co-operative alliance with the unions of transportation workers.

With the miners and railroad men so near agreement, it would be natural enough for them to combine in the organization of a national party with nationalization of railroads and mines, and possibly some other industries, as their platform, or the principal plank in it.

If the controversy between the steel trust and its employees should be long drawn out, it might result in the latter joining this proposed alliance, and adding a demand for nationalization of the steel industry.

At any rate, here is a new political factor to be reckoned with.

ELIMINATING GROCERIES.

Too many groceries and most of them poorly administered has been given by more than one investigating committee as an important reason for the high price of foodstuffs.

When there are two to five groceries in a neighborhood which needs only one, it stands to reason that each of these places must charge high prices in order to make a living. To cut down the supplies of groceries, an expert suggests that some method of taxing and licensing such as kept the number of saloons reduced might be a good thing.

Another way for accomplishing the same thing is for the housewives in any neighborhood to agree not to patronize the small merchant whose prices are unfair, but to do their buying in some other way. This will make the dealers reform their methods of doing business.

The man who cannot or will not get the public point of view will be forced out of business, as he should. The grocery business is not a charitable organization.

Those who are left will find that a fair return on many sales is more profitable than an excessive return on a few, and everybody will be better off. As for the failures, many a man who is now eking out a painful and precarious existence as a grocer or butcher might make a comfortable living in some line of work for which he is better fitted, or as a salaried employee of some successful merchant.

Why should there be so much comment on the fact that the president has named a woman in Pueblo, Colo., as "receiver of public moneys." Receiving money is woman's specialty.

HOOVER AND HIS CHILDREN.

Herbert Hoover has returned to the United States for a well deserved rest.

Nobody asks any more, "Who is this man Hoover?" He is known the world over as the man who, by applying American business ability to a bad situation, saved Belgium from starving and subsequently saved a large part of Europe. He has been credited since the armistice with being a veritable "dictator." He has exercised more power in eastern and south-eastern Europe in recent months than the allied coalition.

But power is not what people associate with Hoover's name. What is it, then? Ask any woman. Hoover has a secure place in the heart of humanity today because of the children he has saved.

He will receive many compliments on his return home. An admiring government and public will praise and honor him. But there can be nothing to surpass a tribute he has already received across the Atlantic. In Warsaw, before he left for home, there was a spontaneous demonstration of gratitude such as have come to few men ever in the world, perhaps to none. A procession of children filed before him steadily, for five hours, cheering, singing and weeping, the happy recognition of what he had done for them.

"He has 3,500,000 babies to look after now," writes a European correspondent.

On one of the rare occasions when he relaxed from his severe business attitude and showed some of the real feeling inside him, Hoover remarked, "I believe in children."

Maybe that is why the world believes in Hoover, and gives him such ungrudging praise for his work.

That actors' strike in New York was a wonderful affair. Usually in a compromise settlement everybody is sore because he thinks he lost; and in this strike everybody is rejoicing because he won. Which just goes to show the advantage of an artistic temperament. Those stage people have imagination.

"Back-to-the-job books" are said to be gaining in popularity. That's a fine thing, if the people concerned don't satisfy the job-getting instinct by merely reading about it.

Raisins have gone up 100 per cent. Sure, a raise in raisins was to be expected, especially when they started making fermented drinks with them.

Don't forget that, after all, this high cost of living was "made in Germany." All these investigations merely deal with the process by which it has arrived.

Hoover has come home to rest. Mighty poor place for him to rest, in view of the present food situation in this country.

Howdy, General! (Meaning Pershing. He's the only American officially bearing that title since Phil Sheridan.)

him, he said, where the conscience of the world could be brought to play upon the question likely to lead to war.

No Protest Before. Turning to the Shantung provision of the treaty, Mr. Wilson said that neither the United States government nor the men now protesting against the Shantung award had made any protest against the original decision of rights there to Germany. Later, he continued, France, Great Britain and other great powers took Chinese territory without any objection from this country.

Every "neutral" European power, the president asserted, now enjoyed special privileges in China, in some cases at the expense of China's sovereignty.

But he declared Japan had promised to return everything that favored its sovereignty to China.

When he ascertained that the only way to get Shantung away from Japan was to sue a woman near the front of the hall asked "what is the league of nations for then?" He then said the league offered for the first time a tribunal before which China could bring her complaint about the wrongs she had suffered for years. The crowd cheered the statement.

ARMY WORM and BOLL WEEVIL

By Robert H. Moulton

BOLL WEEVIL AT WORK

HUNDREDS of millions of dollars of tribute are to be levied by enemies within our midst. Just when we looked confidently forward to the restoration of peace it is brought home to us that we have got to do battle with other kinds of foes that cannot be halted by threat or the parade of armed forces. Our antagonists this time are hordes of the boll weevil and the army worm.

From Washington came the news that the army worm again invaded again in Texas and that it has started to work its way northward right through the regions where our wheat fields flourish. It isn't a problem of guarding against the vast swarms which may have their origin in the far South, for these particular worms will really have but a circumscribed zone of aggressive movement; the task is to watch for them everywhere. The mildness of the past winter has favored the survival of many larvae, although, would I judge, many-killed. Therefore extra millions of these insects are alive and multiplying their kind.

The army worm is particularly destructive to wheat, corn and other cereals, grasses and kitchen forage plants. It is known to attack corn in a manner similar to the well known corn-ear-worm. The young larvae devour the tender folded leaves and, as the worms increase in size, they frequently burrow right into the heart of the growing ear and destroy it.

As far back as 1797 mention is made in a natural history of the army worm in Florida. During the same year and that of 1815 the army worm burst itself in Florida, and ten years later it aroused apprehension.

According to the entomologists there may be from two to three generations of the army worm during a single season. And the same can be said to be true of each succeeding generation usually becomes more destructive than that which preceded it. The authorities also commonly agreed that the army worm, especially the fall army worm, is of southern origin, and this fact helps to explain why it does not appear yearly in conspicuously injurious numbers. Its instinct prompts it to strive continually to obtain a foothold further north in the fall season, and here is where weather conditions play an important part in its life history and its propagation in higher latitudes. Ordinarily, if the season is against them, they are killed off in great numbers during the fall and winter and therefore comparatively few are left to multiply their kind the following spring and summer.

The early appearance of the army worm in Texas may justify the fear that states considerably to the north have become restocked by the flight of the parent moths from the southern breeding grounds in the warm swamplands. The moth which produces the fall army worm is a member of the moths which migrate from the south to the north, and this fact explains the parents of the beneficial cut worm, an importation from the old world, with long years of American naturalization.

It is the habit of these nocturnal moths to deposit their eggs in clusters on grasses, but when these insects occur in very large numbers they do this on leaves and twigs of trees as well as on the outer walls of buildings. The eggs are laid in lots of from fifty to sixty. The larva of this insect is so dark as to escape observation, except when moving in numbers, and their whereabouts are further concealed by the normal habit of hiding in the grass during the day time and feeding mostly at night. This explains why one may go to bed with his field, garden, or lawn unwarmed, only to arise at dawn to find the place devastated. The mature army worm ranges from an inch to two inches and a half in length and is about a quarter of an inch thick.

The life history of the army worm is not a long one. The first of the larvae or worms are from eggs deposited the fall before. Their manner of wintering is of interest. When full grown the larvae work their way into the ground to a depth ranging from a quarter of an inch to an inch and a quarter. In the spring, the worms appear, work their way out, and, after a brief while, re-enter the earth. They remain in the cocoon state for several weeks, at the conclusion of which they emerge as moths, which, in their turn, lay eggs and start again the evolutionary life of the army worm. In the period of its active career the army worm can do a deal of damage, and to eradicate the pest it is essential to kill the parent moths as well as to destroy the worms themselves.

DEATH TO TRAMP ARMY WORMS

ARMY WORMS AND BOLL WEEVILS DO

Lately the army worm has some natural enemies, and among these the sparrow is probably the most effective because of its numbers. The bluejays come next, and then follow the tachinids and a certain variety of beetles. These aids will not suffice to keep the army worm within bounds when their name is legion, and it is essential then to resort to man-made expedients. Trenching the fields, a generous use of kerosene and simple sprays of arsenical powders will aid in a crisis, but clean cultural methods will do much more toward eradicating the hibernating or slumbering pests. This is to say, keep the edges of the fields and the borders of the garden free from long grass and weeds, where the larvae lurk; fall plowing will kill those that have already entered the ground for wintering. Of course these efforts will not avail if the parent moths come from the South in the springtime. We cannot expect to detect the eggs and to destroy them before the worms are hatched out.

Just when the epidemics of the world are preparing to receive their proper penalties, just when so many of the nations are anxious to obtain more cotton fabrics, comes the unwelcome news that the cotton boll weevil is up and doing with increased energy. Again, we have the pest which wintered in the large part for this disturbing state of affairs, a very considerable percentage of the hibernating weevils having survived when with colder weather they would have been in great measure exterminated.

The experts tell us that the boll weevil in a single year may occasion a cotton loss of more than 400,000 bales, and at present prices this would represent a monetary sacrifice of quite $20,000,000. Today, at the present price of cotton, the toll levied by these insects would be equivalent to fully $70,000,000. No wonder the United States department of agriculture has announced that the boll weevil is the worst cotton pest in this country and, probably, the most destructive cotton insect in the world. This ravaging creature apparently will not feed upon any other plant—but just waits upon eating the precious cotton boll.

Like many others of the conspicuously injurious insects present in this country, the cotton boll weevil is not a native of the United States. Its place of origin, so the entomologists believe, was beyond question in the high plateau region of Mexico or Central America. The records indicate that the insect in all likelihood occasioned the abandonment of cotton-growing in parts of Mexico and Central America.

Our agricultural authorities inform us that since 1894 the boll weevil has extended its range from 40 to 70 miles, having made its first appearance near Brownsville, Texas, in 1892. During the first ten years after its advent into this country the annual rate of spread was 6,840 square miles. Since 1901 the annual infested territory has averaged 28,850 square miles. In 1904, an exceptional season, 51,500 square miles became infested.

The weevil has a periodic thirst and apparently there is just one liquid that appeals overwhelmingly to its palate. On the underside of cotton leaves, on the midrib, or principal vein, and sometimes on two other veins, can be found a little elongated depression which usually looks sticky and frequently holds a drop of liquid. On the outside of the squares at the base of each bract or leaflet are other little cups, and between the bract and the leaflet there are three more cups. At the bottom of the flower cup still more of these tiny vessels are found. During the night, or at dusk, the weevil comes to these a sweet liquid. This is the tipple that the boll weevil is drawn to.

The adult boll weevil is about one-fourth of an inch in length, but its size depends upon the amount of food that it consumes while in the larvae state. The boll weevil passes the winter in the adult condition. In the spring and throughout the fruiting season of cotton the eggs are deposited by the females in clusters, each egg cutting into the fruit of the plant. An egg hatches under normal conditions in about three days and the grub immediately begins to feed. In from seven to twelve days the grub passes into its pupal stage, corresponding to the cocoon of butterflies and moths. This stage lasts from three to five days. Then the adult issues and in about five days begins the production of another generation. Males and females are produced in about equal numbers. The males feed upon the squares and the bolls without moving until the food begins to deteriorate. The females refrain from depositing eggs if squares visited by other females. As many as fifteen larvae have been found in a single boll.

A conservative estimate of the progeny of a single pair of weevils during a season, beginning on June 20 and extending to November 4, is 12,755,101.

Government authorities have shown that the boll weevil can be held greatly in check by proper cultural processes, and also by the use of insecticides which can be sprayed upon the plants at certain stages of their growth. By the latter process the weevils drink can be poisoned, and as it strikes its throat it has been once every day its down can be sealed.

Many Have Wished That. His big brother had just been discharged from service and Tom was especially interested in the treatment the soldiers received to keep them well. His history while his brother told him how the doctor had inoculated him against typhoid fever.

"Get!" he exclaimed suddenly, remembering the little trip to the summer cottage, from which he had just returned, where the mosquitoes had been especially active. "If wish I could get inoculated against mosquito bites."

U.S. TROOPERS COME WITH BELGIAN KING

King Returns to Board George Washington If It Keeps Americans in France.

BRUSSELS, Sept. 17.—When King Albert, Queen Elizabeth and Crown Prince Leopold, accompanied by a numerous party, board the steamer George Washington at Brussels on their voyage to the United States, they will have an escort a regiment of American troops who went aboard the transport at Brast today.

The taking aboard of the troops was due to the urgent request of King Albert, who refused to take passage on the George Washington if by doing so it would interfere in any way with the return of American soldiers home.

King Albert has let it be known that he is going to the United States for three days—first, to reply to the visit of President Wilson to Belgium, second, to thank the Americans for what they have done for Belgium and all the allies, and third, "to learn something."

The king is enthusiastic over the prospects of having a good time, but says he hopes the banquet to be given in his honor will be kept to the smallest possible number so he "does not like functions of this kind." In this connection he quoted Herbert Hoover as saying that Europe need the food, and that therefore food should not be wasted.

DISUNION'S LEAGUE PACT AS AN INFAMOUS DOCUMENT

By the Associated Press.

LINCOLN, Neb., Sept. 17.—In addressing a large and enthusiastic gathering here tonight, Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California, on the 123rd anniversary of the signing of the constitution of the United States at Philadelphia, denounced the league of nations covenant as an infamous document and declared that its adoption would result in throwing the country into an international confederation and deprive the public of its future independence of action. He would, he said, substitute misty internationalism for Americanism.

Senator Johnson, president of the National branch of the American Legion, acted as chairman of the meeting and introduced the speaker. Governor H. M. McKelvie occupied a seat on the stage.

URGES CONGRESS TO REJECT LANE SOLDIER LAND BILL

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Characterizing Secretary Lane's bill providing for the redemption of arid lands for use as homes for returning soldiers "an impracticable, absurd and extravagant," the national board of farm organizations today adopted a resolution urging congress to reject the measure. The resolution was offered by Albert Manning, executive of the New York state branch. The board is holding its semi-annual meeting here.

PAVE WAY FOR BIG OIL CONCERN HERE

City Council last evening paved the way for the construction here by the Standard Oil company of a plant to cost approximately $150,000 when a resolution was adopted granting an alley in block 123, and permitting the construction of a railroad sidetrack across Middleka street.

This action followed a request from George F. Sprague for such action. Mr. Sprague's motion "commenced" the Standard Oil company was contemplating a large investment here, having already taken an option on lots in block 123. Oil tanks will be built there as well as other improvements.

MASONS HOLD A SPECIAL MEETING LAST EVENING

A specially called convention of Lodge No. 45, Twin Falls Masons, was held last evening. This is the first meeting of the year and was doubly important on account of the beginning of the work of the year. Worshipful Master, Dr. R. A. Parrott, who has been in Burley during the meeting of the state convention, stated that there was much work ahead of the lodge. A committee for membership by ballot is being conducted by the lodge. An enrollment of the Twin Falls chapter shows a membership of more than 300 at the present time.

Judson had run a general store for 20 years. The same old dust was on the shelves, and much of the original stock. When the place became monotonous, Judson bought a real interior of the Chinese variety in the midst of his ceiling as a concession to the summer trade. The second day the interior was up a woman eyed it and burst in.

RACING PROGRAM BE BIG FEATURE

Secretary Reports Large Number of Entries Arriving Here.

J. J. Marple, secretary of the Twin Falls county fair, states indications are good for the best racing program ever held in this section. According to Marple the entries in the Piler fair grounds are the most filling and the most every day being over entries. It is expected that most of the horses that race at Logan, Utah, will be here for the fair program. Hauling space is scarce for the cows, sheep and swine. A large storage barn for hay and grain has been erected for the benefit of those who bring animals for exhibit. The Twin Falls land is to furnish music both in the afternoons and evenings and with the fireworks the evening program. Mr. Marple promises will be fully as interesting as the program for the day. September 29 is entry day for the fair and all listings must be in on that day.

SCHOOL CHILDREN TO BE AWARDED FOR ESSAYS.

DRIVER INJURED WHEN MAY BACK TEARS BOLTS.
 J. E. Bellville, 62 years of age, sustained injuries of a serious nature Tuesday afternoon when the team he was driving ran away overturning a hay rack on him. The accident happened at the Bellville ranch some distance from Twin Falls and resulted in a fractured arm and leg as well as more or less serious injuries about the body. Bellville was driving a hay rake when the team became frightened at the starting of an automobile near them and turning quickly started to run, overturning the rake and driver, who was dragged some distance under the machine before he was released.

The Moral Risk

When the time comes to seek credit, a bank will want to know what you ARE as well as what you HAVE.

That's where the moral hazard comes in. And you can't establish credit over night. Rather, it is a matter of becoming KNOWN at your bank, of establishing confidence by the way in which you have kept your account, regardless of the amount you have to your credit.

Get acquainted—that's the first thing. Then develop that acquaintance into friendship. It will stand you in splendid stead when the time comes. Remembering also, that this bank offers you a complete banking service.

CHICAGO, Sept. 17—Millant utterances of labor leaders regarding a steel strike did much in the corn market. There has been little trouble in obtaining from six to ten exhibitors in almost every fruit and vegetable grown in this country. A few of these were: fresh Hubbard squash, cauliflower, carrots, beets and onions. There were three or four varieties of potatoes, and six or seven of apples, peaches, grapes and prunes. The grain exhibit consisted of barley, wheat, corn, rye, oats, sweet clover and alfalfa seed. Six or seven varieties have been obtained of all of the above mentioned grains. SAGE AND SULPHUR DARKENS GRAY HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Restore Color, Gloss and Attractiveness. Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray. Years ago the only way to get this mixture was to make it at home, which is messy and troublesome. Nowdays, by asking at any drug store for "Wynette's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this famous old recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, at a small cost. Don't stay gray! Try it! No one can possibly tell that you derbened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small string at a time, by morning the gray appearing or two, you will be becomingly dyed, glossy and attractive. Wynette's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet-essence for those who don't care for and youthful appearance. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation of precocious baldness, and other scalp conditions of women.

SAYS COMMISSIONER BLAME FOR STRIKE

Declares Boston Police Were Forced to Organize to Defeat Inherited Rights

By the Associated Press.
 BOSTON, Sept. 17.—Before leaving for Washington tonight, Guy Oyster, secretary to President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor, issued a statement in which he condemned the authorities for working conditions in the police department and declared that the striking patrolmen were not to blame for the stoppage in the first few days of the strike. He said that the men were being called "deserters" because they had the means and the courage to strike after a two weeks' notice for their human rights and constitutional guarantees. He asserted that the police were "assured by statements of the police commissioner that any situation caused by the form of protest they adopted would be taken care of" and that "not one of the men had the faintest idea that the regrettable condition caused by the commissioner's negligence could occur."

 "The policemen," he said, "were forced to organize in affiliation with the American Federation of Labor, and were forced to defend the life of their organization."

The statement said in part: "Whatever else has resulted from this unfortunate situation in Boston, a condition with reference to the structure of the police department has been disclosed of which few citizens were aware and of which the officials in charge might well be ashamed. The proudfest with which Governor has undertaken to see that at least some of these conditions be corrected is a condition that a state of things existed before the police took action that justified the policeman in their action to improve them.

"Their grievances were many and almost intolerable—long hours (10 1/2 to 17 hours per day), wages insufficient to maintain a decent standard of life, insanitary station houses, and the denial of rights enjoyed by practically every other police force in Boston. These facts are acknowledged by all, even the police commissioner. These conditions were they corrected by the 12 years' efforts of the local club of the Boston police."
 "What the present police commissioner came into office one of his first acts was to ignore the local club altogether and in its place he inaugurated a system of his own for preventing grievances, which proved unsatisfactory and of no benefit. The men then organized and applied for a charter from the American Federation of Labor, in order to make their voice heard."
 "As fine a body of men as I ever saw—300 of them ex-doughboys in Uncle Sam's army and the president, John F. McInnis, the proud possessor of four honorable discharges from the United States army and four wounds received while fighting under the stars and stripes—are now being called 'deserters' because they have the means and the courage to strike, after two weeks' notice for their human rights and constitutional guarantees."

"I am assured that not one of the men had the faintest idea that the regrettable conditions caused by the commissioner's negligence could occur. The men were aware that a large number of policemen would remain on duty, and these men, I am told, were sufficient to have controlled the situation if properly utilized."

"Recruit a new force from men who are ready to subscribe to inviolable principles, and they cannot be the force after two weeks' notice without being called 'deserters' who will surrender his constitutional right of being heard by a spokesman of his own choosing, who will sacrifice these fundamental principles for jobs and what kind of a force will be left?"

Local labor leaders and their attorneys were in conference with Mr. Oyster today, but declined to give any information as to what was discussed. Possibility of a general strike by the labor union in a meeting of the Central Labor union next Sunday.

ROOT CONDEMNS POLICE

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—The Boston police, by going on strike, have challenged the Constitution of the United States, Ethel Root, former secretary of state declared in an address at the National Security League's convention day celebration here tonight.
 "We cannot maintain this constitution without insisting upon its being followed," said Mr. Root. "We cannot maintain it by laughing at those who try to make a joke of it. We cannot maintain it by being tolerant and liberal and indifferent towards those who attack it. We must stand for it when it is challenged."
 "And it is being challenged today, here, there and in a hundred directions. Most notably, it is challenged by the police strike in Boston now."

"Now what does the police strike in Boston mean? It means that the men who have been employed and taken their oath to maintain order and suppress crime, as the servants of all the people, are refusing to perform that solemn duty unless they are permitted to ally themselves with, affiliate themselves with, become members of, a great organization which contains perhaps three per cent of the people."
 "Now, if that is done, that is the end, except for a revolution. Government cannot be maintained unless it has the power to use force."

 CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 17.—Inter-city of the United Mine Workers delegates today were turned to Pittsburgh where the decision of the national executive committee on the proposed steel strike Monday will affect large numbers of organized and unorganized miners in steel-employment enterprises. Leaders hinted that announcement "the decision for or against postponement of the strike might be withheld temporarily in order to gain the tactical element of surprise should the decision be to call the steel workers out Monday."

STEAM SHOVEL FOR BIG DAM ARRIVES

Will Be Used in Finishing Work On Idaho Farm Development Project

Unloaded at Rogerson, yesterday, the big steam shovel for handling the dirt fill at the Goslar Creek dam is being freighted across the desert for its duties.

The three cement cores of the dam are in and well set, much of the dirt fill is in place, and with the shovel in operation as it will be in a few days the storage of flood waters for the irrigating of the Idaho Farm Development will be provided for before the winter and spring rains get in.

This dam will store the waters of Goslar creek, home creek and Deadwood creek, the flow of which will be vastly more than sufficient to provide for the 8,000 acres irrigated and to be thrown upon September 14.

Every step has been taken to make this project the most complete in point of construction ever offered at a Carey act project. The canals and laterals are all completed—the steel measuring devices are set in concrete, the roads are graded and ready for traffic on each section line, and the land is ready for the clearing and the plowing.

The terms at which the land will be sold at the opening afford opportunity for those who wish to acquire land adjoining the Twin Falls tract. The price is $125 an acre, $25 per acre down, no further payment for three years, and then $10 per acre per year for 10 years.

Under these terms present day farmers can buy and pay for land, and own it, with a large saving to themselves. Land rents on the Twin Falls tract for an average of $20 per acre. Payments of $6.61 per acre plus interest for a period of thirteen years will pay for land on the Idaho Farm Development company project, and the land will within a very few years, fair to assume, nearly approach the prices of land about Castledo, where $200 per acre has been offered this past week.

Inquiries are coming in from all over the country, and indications are that there will be a throng of people on hand for the opening. Citizens of the Utah country who have kept in close touch with the construction work on the project, will file in large numbers, while farmers and others from all over the Twin Falls tract will be present to acquire holdings under the opportunity afforded.

The land lies magnificently. It is a northeast slope, smooth and free from rock, free from cactus or sharp trees, well-wooded in places and similar to that of the Twin Falls tract.

Indications are that most of the entire project will be under cultivation the coming season, for clearing will be an easy matter, very little leveling will be required, and water will be available for irrigation. The project will be the connecting link between the Twin Falls tract and the Bruneau project.

BLANKETS

If there were a hundred pairs of blankets sold in this store each day we should probably want to sell more.
 I believe that there have been more pairs of blankets handled here in one year's time than in any other store in this county.

This "sounds like terrible big talk," but I think that the figures would demonstrate this to be a fact.
 Possibly we give better blanket values than most stores; perhaps we give better values than any other store. There must be some good reason for the blanket business we do.
