SAYS LEAGUE INTERFERENCE NOT DESIRED

Carson, Ulster Leader, Says Wilson's Conception of Pact Is Wrong.

WOULD BRING DISASTER TO COVENANT ON START

Hopes that Organizers of New Order Will Succeed in Making It Successful.

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Sept. 20.—President Wilson's attitude regarding the self-determination of Ireland has attracted the attention of Sir Edward Carson the Ulster leader, in a statement today declared:

"An one anxious to see the league of nations founded, to protect the world against the horrors of war, I do not desire to raise difficulties or anticipate decisions on questions which must arise in the gradual development of a sound system of jurisprudence under the covenant. Therefore I am reluctant to criticize the president's answer to questions put to him by the San Francisco labor council with reference to Ireland.

"Indeed, I find it difficult to understand from the answer given what state of facts with relation to Ireland the president contemplated, which settles any of the contracting parties to raise this question under section 11 of the covenant dealing with peace safeguards.

"I would like to follow the interests of success of the league, to proceed on that basis, which practice is likely to lead to failure than interference by any of the great contracting parties with the evolution of government in the realms of the others. The United Kingdom, as a whole, is one of the contracting parties and in respect to constitutional matters the government of the United Kingdom stands on an equal basis none being subordinate to the other and it is difficult to foresee, therefore, what circumstances can arise which would justify interference by the league in relation to any particular unit.

"If President Wilson means to suggest that, because there is a large population of Irish descent or Irish origin in the United States who sympathize with the claims of the Irish government, this sympathy should disturb international peace or the good understanding between the United States and the United Kingdom, and that therefore the case arises under section 11 of the covenant, I must with great respect enter a protest.

"No End of Interference." "There would be no end of interference founded on such a plea, which really means that citizens who have adopted a new country carry with them the right to interfere in the affairs of the country of their origin. All nationalized citizens of all countries could raise a similar plea and become formidable more or less in accordance to their numbers and especially at election times.

"It is not necessary to point out how disastrous results would be. But there are too many obvious criticisms to be made by any one who desires to make the league of nations a failure from the start. I do not desire to range myself with such critics. I believe the league only possible if real good will be shown by it in its infancy, and if its members, anxious for its success, are chosen at the start to administer and evolve its constitution."

PACT ANTAGONISTS COUNTING NOSES

Both Sides Claim to Have Enough Votes to the Certain Winning of Johnson Amendment.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Sept. 20.—Democratic leaders in the senate charged today the claim of republican opponents of the league of nations covenant that enough pickers had been obtained to secure adoption of senator Johnson's amendment designed to equalize British and American voting in the league assembly. While they expressed sincere confidence and predicted at least 50 yeas against the amendment—enough to defeat it—these senators finally got in touch with the President Marshall, indicating that he return in time for the final test vote on the treaty expected next week.

"The senate was not in session and Chairman Lodge, of the foreign relations committee was not, in his office during the day, and republicans say they had reached their own, waiting for the contest to begin Monday.

"All reservations, some of whom claimed to hold the balance of powers, were being conferring and counting noses to see how many of their number would vote against the Johnson amendment. Some of their candidates are as high as 100 yeas.

Both sides were expecting help from this group, but there was no certainty as to how the majority might line up. Democratic leaders, in predicting 50 yeas against the Johnson amendment, out of a total of 76, counted in the support of many of this group in view of the general belief that five democrats would be found with the republicans in the line on the amendment fight.

Senator Hitchcock said today that every effort would be made to hasten consideration of the treaty because of the "insistent demand" from the business people for final settlement. There was no indication, however, as to how soon a vote might be called for on the Johnson amendment.

Johnson concluded his speaking trip through the midwest west against the ratification of the league of nations covenant in its present form. At noon he addressed a large gathering at the Metropolitan Opera House in St. Paul and at 2 p. m. he spoke to the Lincoln club in Minneapolis.

Tonight the climax of a strenuous day of speech-making was reached when he addressed a mass meeting which packed the armory in Minneapolis. Many were turned away unable to find standing room. Mayor J. B. Myers introduced Senator Johnson at the armory meeting where the Californian was cheered for several minutes when he entered the hall.

Answering President Wilson's statement that Theodore Roosevelt would favor the league of nations if the lives today, Senator Johnson said: "Mr. Wilson, had pressed, quoted yesterday Theodore Roosevelt. Oh, if Roosevelt were only here. The nation never needed him more. His commanding personality, his lofty character, his love for his country, his very personality typical of our republic, his loyalty to the great cause of democracy, his fearlessness in attacking any divided allegiance to our cause, his red-blooded Americanism, would have made, above all else, the one American thing which Mr. Wilson seeks to fast upon us."

MONDAY TESTS STRENGTH OF STEEL UNIONS

Both Sides Certain of Victory in the Strike to Start Tomorrow.

AUTHORITIES PREPARE TO PREVENT VIOLENCE

Proclamations Issued Urging People to Maintain Law and Order During Walkout.

By the Associated Press. PITTSBURGH, Sept. 20.—The eve of the nationwide strike in the steel industry finds both sides in the contest apparently prepared for the battle. Final arrangements were rushed today, the corporations paying much attention to plans for guarding their property and the union leaders continuing their intensive campaign to organize unorganized men, and urging others to stand by the workers. Tonight, there seemed to be nothing to do but wait for the test of strength on Monday when the strike will officially begin.

Expressing confidence that the unions have not the power to compel a general shutdown, officers of the United States Steel corporation, the main object of the attack of labor, and of other steel companies, said they will place their plants Monday morning and try to operate their plants. They frankly admit they will do their best and if sufficient men do not report, which they do not concede, they will shut down all such lines as they can command enough men to make it worth while to start up again.

There is no talk of bringing strikebreakers into this district in the event the unions cripple or close down the plants. It is said the largest corporation employer to remain closed this district unnecessary turmoil that sometimes follows the bringing of strike breakers into a community.

The strike order affects approximately 200,000 iron and steel workers in the inner and outer Pittsburgh district between Johnstown, Pa., on the east and Youngstown, Ohio, on the west. Union leaders claim that a majority of these men will follow the company and refuse to go to work Monday. They assert that not only union men will be in the walkout, but that they will be joined by thousands who are not affiliated with any labor organization.

To Maintain Law and Order

Manifest and thorough officials in many parts of the Pittsburgh district also prepared to meet the situation and have taken precaution to maintain law and order in their communities.

Mayor George H. Lysie of McKeesport, who is union leader complain, has refused to permit labor organizers to hold public meetings in that city, issued a long proclamation calling upon citizens to support the constituted authorities in their efforts to maintain peace.

Organizers Are Arrested

A number of organizers have been arrested in McKeesport in recent weeks for holding meetings without permits. Labor leaders who they tried to get permits but were refused. A mass meeting is scheduled for McKeesport tomorrow. The mayor said it cannot be held. W. Z. Foster, secretary of the steel workers national committee, said it would take place as scheduled.

Proclamations were issued by various bureaus but were confined to the usual form of calling upon all citizens to keep the peace. The Pittsburgh police authorities have also laid plans to maintain order around the iron and steel mills within the city limits.

A report was circulated today that the United States Steel corporation was rearing in 16,000 of its loyal employees as special guards to protect property. Corporation officials, following their custom refused to discuss the matter.

LOS ANGELES CHEERS TALK BY PRESIDENT

Thousands Lince Streets Applauding Wilson During Ten-Mile Drive.

LEAGUE'S OPPONENTS ONLY SEEK ITS DEFEAT

Asks If Americans Would Deprive Canada, Australia and India of Vote.

By the Associated Press. LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 20.—President Wilson completed his week of speaking on the Pacific coast tonight, with a monster mass meeting here at which thousands, cheered approval of his plea for early ratification of the peace treaty. Welcomed to the city by a crowd which densely packed the downtown section, the president was cheered tumultuously everywhere he appeared during the day. Along the line of a ten mile parade he rode in a din of applause and later at a public dinner which greeted his declarations that the treaty should and would be accepted.

Cheered for Two Minutes

When he entered the auditorium for his night speech he was cheered for more than two minutes by a crowd estimated by the police at 6,000. The hall was full and outside were thousands who could not get in. Some had been waiting since early morning for the doors to open.

At the Auditorium meeting Mr. Wilson was greeted by Mrs. Joseph Evans Covell, national president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, who told the crowd that the league of nations "must and will become the backbone of the war-weary world for all time." The "protection" she asserted, had no place in a discussion of the peace treaty.

Republicans On Platform

The meeting had been advertised as one of strictly non-partisan character, and many of the state's prominent republicans stepped on the platform. Among them were Henry W. Wright, speaker of the California assembly, and Marshall Stanton, who was campaign manager in southern California for Senator Hiram Johnson.

Mr. Wilson alluded to an address made by President McKinley on the day before his assassination, and asserted that the martyred president's words about concord and arbitration seemed to him to be a prophetic vision on the eve of his death.

Referring to objections that the league would involve the United States in "entangling alliances," Mr. Wilson said the league was in fact a proposal for disentanglement. He said: "Day of alliances over."

"What Washington had in mind was exactly what these gentlemen want to lead us back to," he said. "The day of alliance is behind us."

"When Mr. Wilson declared it was a matter of amputation that some men were next opposing the league, some one in the crowd shouted, 'Name on the cry' and many others took up the cry. There were more cheers a moment later when he declared the treaty was founded on the eight days of the war rather than the power of the strong. It was a people's treaty, he said, not a statesman's treaty.

Would Itaro to Fifth Two. Great Britain and France "cannot in honor" now violate their recent treaties with Japan, the president declared, and the only way in which the case of Shantung could be changed was to go to war against France, Great Britain and Japan. He asked whether those opposing the Shantung provision of the treaty "were willing to start such a war, and added:

"Their interest in China is not the interest of assisting China but of defeating the league."

"That's the cry. 'That's the cry.' 'That's the cry.' 'That's the cry.' yelled the crowd, and they were more cheers.

Under the league for the first time.

SALVATION LASSIES PRAISED BY GUNNER

Member of the "Soleide Club" Ascertains Women Held to Fire's Touch.

"Soleide club!—Um—Boy, when you're looking for somebody to plan meals on for sticking to their little jobs under fire, don't go to any further than the Salvation Army canteen."

"That is the way Sergeant James Lowney, a Seattle, boy, answered a question put to him about his experience as a member of the 101st Mountain (The Hattieson) in many months service in France. Sergeant Lowney plans on resuming studies interrupted by the war, at the University of Michigan this fall.

"Yes, they called us machine gunners the outside club," he added, "because we were supposed to stick to our little bullet splinters until we were killed or until we wiped out everything before us. But I didn't see a machine gunner in France—and, believe me, I know a lot—who showed any more ability about hanging on to his job than the smallest, feeblest girl that the Salvation Army sent overseas."

"I'll tell you that I saw them leaning over their cook stoves, frying doughnuts when Heinle's shells were ploughing up heaps of ground on all sides of them. They stuck when they were ordered to go back, and believe me, it's a difficult proposition staying there dropping hot dough into a pan and saying there when you're dropping hot bullets into the other fry."

"I remember the first Salvation Army girls I saw. It was in the Verdun action. We didn't know who they were because we hadn't been told the Salvation Army had sent anybody overseas. But when they handed us those hot sippers and coffee—oh boy! 'I'll tell you I know they were there most of the time, and the Salvation Army gave us many good things when we needed them—didn't even ask us to thank them. Didn't expect any medals or honours, either, but just stick on the job making us comfortable and helping us in any way they could, and we'll not forget it, either."

Sergeant Lowney was gassed in the Argonne action. He takes up the story of his health and will take up the story of law.

BRUGGER'S GOLD, $3,000,000, SIGHTED BY HUSTONS

LONDON, Sept. 19.—More than $3,000,000 in gold, part of the fortune of the late Com Paul Kruger, is to be sought off the coast of Zululand by a deep-sea salvage expedition.

The gold was shipped to Kruger, once president of the Transvaal, prior to 1904, on the bark Dorothea, one of the eight treasure ships sunk during the Argonne campaign.

A syndicate once tried to recover the treasure and failed. Salvaging machinery developed since the war encourages the new attempt.

The other vessels sunk off the African coast will be sought here:

- The Groenland, in the Panhandle coast, $8,750,000; Arcton, Marcus bay, $4,000,000; Birkenhead, Reef, $3,900,000; Atha, East Coast, $3,200,000; Dorothea, Tenedos Island reef, $2,250,000; Thundersbolt, reefs, 12,750,000; Abercrombie, Black, Rocks, $900,000, and Morebeth, Jullon Island, $700,000.

SALVAGE MILLIONS IN GOLD/BULLION

High Lady Laureate Found by Divers At A Depth of 22 Fathoms.

PORT SALON, Ireland, Sept. 20.—Salvaging $3,000,000 worth of gold, jewels and bullion the White Star liner Laurotic is reported to have carried when she sank the night of January 25, 1917, off Panad Light, one of the northernmost headlands of Ireland at the entrance to Lough Swilly, is being conducted by the salvage ship Lacer.

The princely cargo, lay at a depth of 22 fathoms. The gold and bullion were contained in the strong chamber mid-ships rendered almost impenetrable by its thick steel walls and heavily bolted doors. At first portions of the Laurotic's decks were blasted away and a passage was made clear for the divers. On June 29, the retrieving of the treasure began.

The first bucket sent up contained only copper pennies and a few silver coins. Then for several days, bucket after bucket containing three or more gold bars, each worth more than $5,000 were hoisted to the surface and dumped on the deck of the Lacer. The first of these gold-laden buckets came from the crew of the salvage ship, but tossing fortunes about form came to be merely another form of manual labor to these sailormen.

Most of the gold bars were nine inches long, two inches thick and four inches wide and weighed about 24 pounds. For days not one was found as many of them were hurled clear of the wreck by the blasting necessary to make the strong chamber accessible. Several feet of sand have now been washed over the battered bars and waste masses of twisted steel and it frequently requires hours of patient labor to pry them loose. The record day's haul so far had been 47 bars worth approximately $550,000. Thus far several million dollars worth of treasure has been salvaged.

The Lacer carries eight divers. Their "tricks" are so arranged that one diver is at work throughout the day. Each works half an hour and then must spend thirty minutes coming to the surface as otherwise the sudden relief from the tremendous deep-water pressure might cause partial or complete paralysis. They are brought up ten-fathom "hauls" with 10 minute "rest" intervals. When the days' work is over, the day's "catch" if considerable, is delivered to London with an armed convoy.

When first built the Lacer was a square rigged man of war—one of the "Wanderer" built in England, in the shape of the British navy at that time were known—a century ago.

BACK TO GERMANY.

In an article in the Berlin Tagliche Rundschau, a German-American who has returned to his native land says that more than 1,000,000 German-Americans are going to follow his example. He explains their decision.

"Anyone who like myself," he says, "has lived 24 years in America, anyone who has personally experienced how everything that thinks or feels itself German has been slandered in Yankeland, not only during the war but also during the 15 years preceding the war, can understand the poignant homesickness that the German of America now wishes to ally.

"I may be excused from going into the details of the German-American martyrdom; I may be forgiven if to-day I do not point out all the mental torments that the German had to endure from the beginning of the war until the blackest day of the German-American time of suffering—the day of the armistice. And if all America, with its 'nice' president at its head, were to call to me, 'You Germans have had it good here!' I would reply: 'You hypocrites, you! You have slain the soul of every respectable German.'

"No German in the old fatherland need take my word for the shameful betrayal of Germanism by Anglo-Americanism. The martyrs from the 'good' U. S. A. will come here and describe it himself. That is, if the incendiary crowd that rates Wall street, and consequently the whole 'United States, from the president to the last bootblack, is so kind as to allow the 'dunghill' to emigrate."

"Comment on this trade is probably unnecessary. Granting that some German-Americans were treated unjustly in this country during the war—as was inevitable in such circumstances—nearly everybody, including the German-Americans themselves, will probably be surprised to learn that they were ever persecuted during the war.

"If a million of our German citizens choose to return to Germany, there will be nothing to do, but let them go. It is very doubtful, though, whether any such numbers are contemplating an exit. Most of them seem to think themselves well enough off here, especially since they have learned the facts of the war, and know more of the present character and situation in Germany. As for those who do return, this same article contains an ominous though unintentional warning.

The writer, addressing the German public, pleads, "May that just find a heartier welcome to the old Fatherland than I received!" And consider this naive admission: "Germany is a poor country—God ply it! Not only physically impoverished—it is hard for me to write this—but I have found it also morally impoverished." "Moral poverty in Germany? America cannot be so bad, after all.

PUNISHING LOAFERS.

Twelve loafers were recently sent to jail in Detroit. The Michigan judge who sentenced them told them that they represented one of the reasons why he had to pay $10 for a pair of shoes. "You are living without producing," said the wrathful judge.

"This takes one back to the anti-loafing laws of war days. What has become of them and of the lessons of industry and thrift learned then? 'Consistent, steady and increasing production in the big need today as much as it was during the war. The only difference is that then it was production of war materials which was demanded. Today the country needs everything with which to feed and clothe and house and educate and make comfortable its many millions of people.

Able-bodied persons who won't work voluntarily should be made to feel the weight of public disapproval. Anti-loafing laws, of course, may be carried to an unjust extreme. But there is a happy medium of self-respecting industry and constructive production which ought to be pointed out rather strongly to the would-be shirkers.

Now is a good time to start the habit of systematic saving. If times get better there will be unlimited opportunities for men with little capital, and if they get worse there is no friend like money in the bank.

During the war the soldiers stood attention, but now the whole country is at a tension.

CHEVROLETS VICTORS AT SHEEPHEAD BAY

Louis Wins 10 Mile Race While Brother, Gaston, Wins 150 Contest.

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—Gaston Chevrolet won the 150 mile automobile race at Sheephead bay today. The time for the distance, 1 hour 22 minutes 34 1/2 seconds, is a new American record.

Boyer finished second and Ira Vail was third. Louis Chevrolet won the 10 mile race prior to the start of the main event. It was decided in three heats. He finished first twice and second once, for 14 points. Gaston was second with 10 points, with Boyer and Mulford tied for third with seven each.

In the final lap of the third heat, Mulford with his mechanic James Lee, had a narrow escape from serious injury when their car slid up the embankment after a tire had broken.

Louis Chevrolet was put out at the 110th mile, coming into the home stretch, when flames began to burst beneath his car.

The plucky driver sent his car past the stands to the end of the pits near the first turn, when his mechanic, Kenneth Gooden, jumped from the car and stood by while the fire was being extinguished. Both men suffered slight burns.

Louis had been running within a few yards of his brother Gaston up to the moment his car went off fire, both of them being a little more than two laps ahead of the field. Gaston continued at a terrific pace to the finish and was being congratulated on his record-breaking victory when the second and third races completed the full distance.

Lieutenant Art Klein was fourth; Roland Nicholson, fifth; Denny Hickey, sixth; Ralph Moffet, seventh; and William Velere eighth. The other starters did not complete the race.

MONDAY TESTS STRENGTH OF THE STEEL UNIONS

What police arrangements they are making. It was learned, however, that the sheriff of Allegheby county has had deputy sheriffs at the corporation's steel plants sweeping in many loyal workers to do guard duty.

The Jones and Laughlin company, second only in size to the steel corporation in the Pittsburgh district had no information to give out regarding its strike plans beyond the mere statement that it will continue to operate in works as long as it can.

Planters of the Allegheny Steel company and the West Penn Steel company at Duquesne, near here, were closed today to give their employees an opportunity to meet and decide whether they would strike. A vote was taken and one report from company sources said that 70 per cent of the men decided to remain at work. Another report had it that the employees are about evenly divided between Americans and foreigners, and that the Americans voted generally to continue at work while the foreigners voted oppositely. Secretary Foster said he did not believe 70 per cent of the workers voted to strike.

Beyond the coming and going of organizers preparing for the holding of mass meetings in all steel communities tomorrow, there was little information to be had at national headquarters from points outside the Pittsburgh district. Secretary Foster said he had no reports from other parts of the country.

Point Hope for Settlement. Despite all the preparations for the strike by both sides there was still a faint hope in some quarters that the conflict may yet be averted. When this was being stated, Mr. Foster's attention, he shook his head and said there was not a chance of stopping the walkout. President Wilson's name is still frequently heard in the light of possible intervention.

WOULD HAVE U. S. BUY COAL MINES

Union Would Join Railroad Brotherhoods in Campaign for Nationalization.

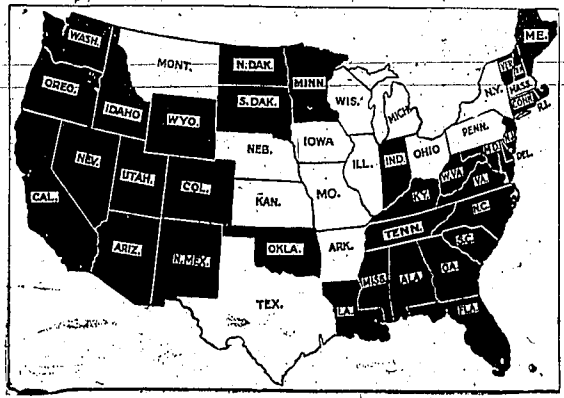

CLEVELAND, Sept. 20.—The convention of the United Mine Workers of America today developed its plan for the nationalization of coal mines, which includes purchase by the federal government of all private mines at their actual value as determined by federal appraisers and operation by the federal government, with equal junior representation upon the bodies administering the industry and fixing wages and conditions of employment. Nationalization of coal mines in Canada is also proposed. The miners offer eight or nine ways to nationalization of railroads, provide the railroad brotherhoods pledge themselves to continue to fight with equal vigor for the nationalization of mines.

The convention further adopted resolutions demanding legislation to take from the United States supreme court the power to declare unconstitutional laws passed by the elective congress calling upon President Wilson to remove Postmaster General Burleson as the "unchristianlike, harsh and malign" opponent of labor; and asking a new trial or full pardon for Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings, the deposit of the espionage act and amnesty for political prisoners. It refused, however to call, as proposed, a general strike and stoppage of all production until all political and industrial prisoners are released and in its resolution on the espionage act declared that any offenders had been justly convicted for interference with the production of the war and that it had no desire to condone such offenses.

The RED-CROSS of PEACE

OPER AIR TREATMENT FOR TUBERCULAR PRISON CHILDREN IN AMERICAN SANITARIUM

By LLOYD ALLEN.

(Staff Correspondent Western Newspaper Union)
(Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union)

PARIS.—Here in Paris Red Cross leaders of the world have taken the first steps in planning a peace-time program of Red Cross activities that will benefit humanity everywhere.

It is an American idea, this coordination of the common campaign against human suffering in all lands, even though such leaders as Henry P. Davison, now give out a hint—that the plan originated in the United States.

Only the first steps in planning a peace-time program of Red Cross activities that will benefit humanity everywhere.

It is an American idea, this coordination of the common campaign against human suffering in all lands, even though such leaders as Henry P. Davison, now give out a hint—that the plan originated in the United States.

Only the first steps in planning a peace-time program of Red Cross activities that will benefit humanity everywhere.

ITALIAN FAMILY FLEEING FROM AUSTRINIANS

CERCLE NAUTIQUE CANNES

For the plan is launched. The international organization was begun at a series of conferences held in the Hotel Regina—headquarters of the American Red Cross in France, with delegates of the French, English, Italian and Spanish Red Cross societies co-operating with the Americans on the grand strategy of the campaign, which in its conceptions and aims is the greatest force that has yet been suggested for the alleviation of miseries that are the burden of the human race.

The outstanding enemies of human happiness everywhere, the Red Cross efforts have come to believe, are that of the most unfeeling diseases: Tuberculosis, malaria, typhus or spotted fever, to say nothing of influenza and venereal diseases.

If these maladies are to be fought successfully, it means that contributory causes such as poor housing conditions, unsanitary cities, neglect of child welfare movements, and inefficient public health organizations must be corrected and eradicated.

Consequently, when the first big gathering of world famous experts was held at Cannes, France, recently to formulate a program for the rescue of Red Cross societies, these fundamental subjects were given a most thorough consideration and the opinions of the experts were co-ordinated on the main features of the forthcoming crusade.

Some of the best minds of the world were brought together for the Cannes conference. Out of the series of meetings some concrete plans developed that will form the foundation for the future work of the Red Cross societies of the world.

One of the main thoughts expressed by Mr. Davison, and approved by other promoters of the plan, was the idea that no Red Cross society will in any measure lose its identity in supporting and co-ordinating its efforts with the league of Red Cross societies. Nor will the national Red Cross organizations seek to usurp the functions of the various agencies already in existence working for the promotion of disease and for the betterment of humanity. Rather will the organizations, like the American Red Cross for example, encourage and co-operate with institutions like the United States public health service, the Rockefeller foundation, and other similar organizations, in the general fight against disease.

One of the important decisions of the Cannes conference was an agreement on the essential plans for curbing the ravages of tuberculosis, which has become more prevalent in Europe since the war on account of the low nutrition value of the diet of the people, and because of the general fuel shortage and the shabby clothing that came into use as a result of the shortage in raw materials due to restricted importations of wool and cotton. While the European populations generally suffered from the cold of winter in their lost houses, their clothes were less warm, and their diet was less heating than in the pre-war days. These conditions, even in the countries like France and England, were serious. And in the neutral countries like Holland and Denmark, where the blockade was tightly maintained, conditions became very difficult. In the countries like Serbia, Poland and Rumania the general destitution became pitiable.

First of all, the campaign plans against tuberculosis contemplate the creation of dispensaries on an adequate scale furnished with laboratories and appropriate equipment and affording provision for early diagnosis by expert physicians. Especially trained nurses are to be attached to the dispensaries charged with the assignment of visiting the homes of tuberculosis sufferers where the necessary care, treatment, instruction and advice can be given to men, women and children so far gone with the disease that they are unable to visit the dispensary.

The second class of the Cannes campaign plans against tuberculosis recommends a system of regular inspections in the schools, where children in the early stages of consumption can be found, thereby making possible the removal of the afflicted boys and girls who by their presence among the healthy youngsters endanger the health of whole communities.

For the advanced and hopeless cases of consumption the creation of an adequate hospital system is suggested.

For cases where a cure is possible, a system of sanatoriums is recommended.

That a campaign of popular education should, in the meantime be carried on for the benefit of the general public, is deemed essential to the plan. In this campaign widespread publicity would be given to the causes and means of preventing tuberculosis—by every suitable publicity agency being utilized for the purpose.

The anti-tuberculosis crusade is being carried out in the most effective manner possible by the employment of the most advanced methods of diagnosis and treatment. The health experts should have at hand an accurate summary of the distribution of consumption in every community. Knowledge of this kind is of the greatest possible assistance in carrying on a campaign. For the local staffs, such information enables the community dispensary staff to locate the breeding grounds of tuberculosis and center its fight on the dangerous sectors.

AN EYE in the AIR

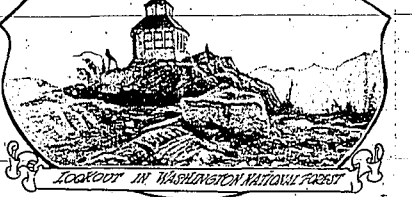

By ROBERT M. MOULTON

FOREST FIRE AIRPLANE PATROL STARTING OUT

Aircraft to Search Out Forest Fires and Outlaw Cotton Fields

LOOKOUT IN WASHINGTON NATIONAL FOREST

REPORTS from Washington seem to indicate that the fire season is going to pieces rapidly from various causes and that September will practically see the last of it. This is especially to be regretted in view of the recent numerous, extensive and disastrous forest fires in the Northwest. The lesson of these fires is that the national forests and national parks must be patrolled by airplanes and protected by wireless telephony.

This is a vital factor in fighting forest fires. They must be detected instantly and combated promptly. In the forest, fire, when sufficient to burn the dunes covered each live pine into a gas retort and the flaming gas, carried by the wind, jumps far ahead of the fire line, to start new fires. A forest fire will run up a mountain slope with tremendous speed, creating its own draft as it goes.

Airplane service would instantly detect a forest fire. It would reach the spot promptly, with smothering gas, fire-fighters, tools, provisions and materials. If the national forests and national parks are worth creating and maintaining, they are worth preserving.

The ordinary forest fire is a calamity. The big one is a catastrophe. In a twinkling the growth of generations is gone. Where a forest stood there is desolation which will last for many a year. The losses in money this season, saying nothing of the damage to human life, would pay for an extensive air service equipment.

That there is a distinct and important place for aircraft in fire protection of timberlands has been recognized by the forestry officials for some time as beyond doubt. It was with this idea in mind that arrangements were made to have army airplanes and captive balloons cover portions of the national forests of California, Arizona, New Mexico and other states this summer. The patrolling was started early in June and has so quickly proved its worth, that it was proposed to extend the service to other points in the East, including one near the White mountain in New Hampshire.

So efficiently is experienced by the service in detecting fires in heavy timber from elevations of 6,000 to 10,000 feet.

At present the forest service relies for the detection of fires partly on patrol, usually by men on horse, motor cycles, or railroad speeders, and partly on watches stationed on lookout points. Already have many points of lookout service over this method.

Lookouts in every broken country, cut up by deep canyons or where mountain ridges obstruct the view, or in flat country that affords no good points of vantage, are often unable to spot up fires quickly by the rising smoke or to locate them accurately. For precise location the system in use depends on triangulation through reports telephoned from separate observation points. Airplanes, however, can use wireless, or even the new wireless telephony, and they can locate fires by coordinates in the same way that gunfire in war is directed to a particular spot.

Experiments made in bounding fires to put them out show the possibilities in this direction. Bombs charged with suitable chemicals for extinguishing fires have been used with good results. At present the only observation balloon used in connection with forest fire patrolling is the one maintained at the Arcadia field, near Los Angeles. This balloon is sent aloft to a height of about 3,000 feet and remains there from 7 a. m. until 6 p. m. In case of fire a report from the balloon, observed by telephone at the army balloon station and transmitted to the forest service at Los Angeles. Another plan is being tested later in the summer is transporting fire fighters by dirigibles from which leaders can be lowered to the ground.

Outlaw Cotton Fields.

The airplane to spy out hidden cotton fields has proved successful. It is the result of an experiment carried out by the federal horticultural board at the department of agriculture, in southern Texas, where the devastating pest of human life, would pay for an extensive air service equipment.

That there is a distinct and important place for aircraft in fire protection of timberlands has been recognized by the forestry officials for some time as beyond doubt. It was with this idea in mind that arrangements were made to have army airplanes and captive balloons cover portions of the national forests of California, Arizona, New Mexico and other states this summer. Lookouts in every broken country, zone by aerial patrol was officially inaugurated and has been in regular progress ever since. Two flights were made later in January for the purpose of outlining a panoramic view of the territory to be under the quarantine lines, to note the character and extent of any forests or wooded areas which might act as a natural barrier to the spread of the pink bollworm by flight of the moth, as well as to secure some idea of the value of aerial observations in connection with entomological scouting and mapping.

These flights were made at an altitude of from 1,500 to 2,000 feet. At this elevation on a clear day a distinct vision could be had of the country over a range of 50 miles, and cultivated fields, buildings, shell roads, railway lines, creeks, and the character of wooded areas, whether pine or deciduous, could be easily distinguished. At the normal speed of the airplane—75 miles an hour—the ground rovers so slowly that the observer has time to get a complete picture of the area and easily to distinguish cotton from corn fields.

Inspector Hensley is enthusiastic in the belief that the airplane will tremendously facilitate all such scouting and reconnaissance work, including mapping.

Similar work can be made of it in other agricultural and forestry surveys, which are analogous to the mapping and survey use made of it for war purposes.

The tests made last year, followed by the more important and systematic utilization of this new means of transportation and observation for scouting and inspection purposes in other fields of research or control work.

Moorish and Arabic Rugs.

The art of rug weaving is said to have been taught the Venetians by the Arab conquerors of Spain. Moorish rugs are still worn by the descendants of this race who live outside the Spanish border. Arabic rugs are woven in the simplest patterns and in straight lines and very bright colors. The patterns often resemble those of the log cabin quilt of our grandmothers. While the figures in oriental rugs each have their own meaning, we must not forget that every color has its own significance as well, which varies in different countries. Just as the figure do. In ancient Babylon scarlet was the symbol of fire. Blue of the sky, and purple of water.

LAND DRAWING!

8000 Acres Carey Act Land Adjoining Twin Falls Tract Will be Opened
TUESDAY, OCTOBER 14, 1919

LEVEL AND FREE FROM ROCK

The land on this tract lies on the northeast slope. It is smooth, the contour is regular, it is free from rock, the soil is deep, there are no broken, irregular coulees cutting the surface, and but little leveling will be found necessary.

The slope is ideal for irrigation, barely enough to carry the water, thus avoiding the inclination to wash the soil. The soil is a deep lava ash, which has been deposited by the winds of the ages, the land sloping northeast. There are no lava crusts or hog-backs.

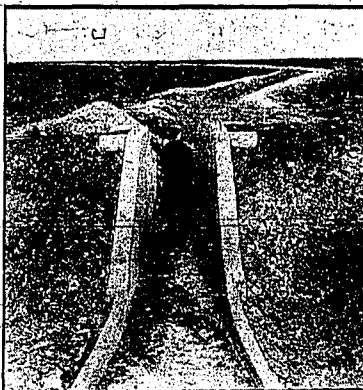

ROSEWORTH RANCH SCENE, CENTER OF PROJECT.

MARKETING CONDITIONS

The tract lies just west of and adjoining the well-known Twin Falls project. The character of the soil is identical and the yield of products will be of the same general character and grade. Twin Falls marketing conditions will prevail, with this difference: This tract adjoins thousands of acres of open range, which gives unsurpassed market for hay and stock feed of all kinds right on the ranch. Not only will the ranchman who raises feed here be able to find range for his own stock, but he will have market for surplus at price not surpassed anywhere in the state.

Water Ready for Cropping Next Spring

Ditches are in on the entire tract, roads are graded on each section line, the great dam is nearing completion, and even as this is being written, water is being accumulated for the irrigation next year. No other Carey Act tract was ever thrown open in Idaho so completely ready for the farmer as this.

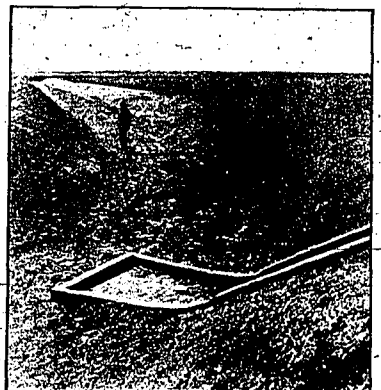

CONCRETE SETTING FOR STEEL HEADGATES

ROAD CONDITIONS

The project lies seven miles west of Castleford. A rock-surfaced road connects Castleford and Buhl with the project.

Roads on the tract have been laid out, graded to the center, all canals and laterals bridged, so that the home builder will settle on a tract with all roads built. This road construction has been thoroughly and systematically done under direction of skilled engineers. Each section line has been taken for a road, the grading has been thorough, sage brush has been cleared, dirt dragged to the center and drainage provided at the sides. The approach to all bridges and culverts across canal and laterals has been made to prevent humping, and the roads are really in splendid condition.

CONCRETE OUTLET FOR MAIN CANAL

THE WATER SUPPLY

The water supply for this project is derived from four streams which meander down from the mountains which mark the rugged border between Idaho and Nevada. A great dam across Cedar creek canyon will store the flood waters of winter, which will be available in addition to the flow of the four streams and their thousands of springs for the irrigation seasons. This dam is an earthen structure, with a series of concrete cores running through it. It is massive, substantial and designed to prevent any leakage of water stored, the concrete cores running far out into the lava walls of the canyon. A further safeguard is obtained in the method of taking water from the dam. Water is let out of the dam into Cedar creek, and is diverted into the distribution canal at a point about 5 miles below the dam.

Thus if there should be any leakage, it will not be lost but will be caught up in the stream before reaching the point of diversion. Water is carried in steel conduit set in concrete along the rugged lands bordering the stream until level land for canal construction is reached.

The canals are in, the ditches dug; the dam will be completed very shortly, water will be available for the coming spring. Inspection of the entire project is invited, particularly regarding the construction of the system which will store and deliver the water. The streams which will be diverted into Cedar creek are House creek, Devil creek and Deadwood creek.

The headgates are of the Burnham type, are constructed of steel and concrete, with patented measuring device, so that each water user may see for himself as often as he desires the flow of water he is receiving, without asking a water master.

WHITE SOX DEFEAT REDS IN OPENING GAME

Game Goes Ten Innings With Kerr and Fisher Hurling in Superb Style Risberg Proves Star

BY FRED TURBYVILLE

It took the White Sox ten innings to down the Cincinnati Reds in the first game of the series by a score of 3 to 1. For nine innings Ray Fisher and Lefty Kerr pitched ball that had the fans keyed to a high pitch. For nine innings Fisher has held his own and in that time had allowed but three hits.

The tenth was a different story however. Kid Glasson's Sox opened up with an attack that put over two runs deep left for two more sacks. When Hugh Bennett, Kerr, Schalk, Smith and scored on Leibold's long fly to left.

Dick Kerr was invincible excepting in the eighth when the Reds tied the score at one all. In that inning Allen single over second. Jimmy Smith ran for him. Fisher singled to left center. Jackson by a superbman effort recovering the ball and holding the risky pitcher to a single. Smith got no further than second. Groh fled to Leibold. Smith scored on Neal's single to center. The Reds had two men left on bases, but Kerr tightened and no more runs were forthcoming.

The Sox scored first in the second. Fishel singled and advanced on an infield's sacrifice. Fisher wild-pitched with an attack that put over two runs deep left for two more sacks. When Hugh Bennett, Kerr, Schalk, Smith and scored on Leibold's long fly to left.

The Reds were threatening in the last two innings, but the Sox were unable to knock him delivery. On the other hand Fisher weakened. He appeared unable to go the full route effectively.

THIS STORY IS NOT A TAKE. THIS GAME ACTUALLY WAS PLAYED—BUT LAST SPRING BEFORE THE BIG LEAGUE SCHEDULES WERE STARTED.

RAIN CAUSES POSTPONEMENT OF GRAND CIRCUIT RACES

The Associated Press. COLUMBIUS, O., Sept. 19.—The first postponement of the grand circuit meeting occurred this afternoon when racers in the 2:03, C. T. Dunlap event, were scoring for the week. A heavy rainstorm drove them to the barn and most of the program went over until Saturday.

One heat had been raced in each the 2:15 pace and the 2:12 trot prior to the storm.

In the 2:15 pace which was a heavy betting affair, Clifford Direct selling for $300 in tickets calling for a total of $1200, finished last and according to the rules of the event raced under the Jones' plan, he was ruled and adjudge to the barn.

Len Todd, somewhat of an outsider won the first heat of the 2:12 trot.

The unfinished program of today and the entire card of Saturday, the 21st race, the 2:00 trot and the 2:07 trot will be offered on tomorrow.

Day 2. Won the first heat of the 2:15 pace. In 2:06 1-4. Len Todd's time in the 2:12 trot was 2:11 3-4.

GLAZE GETS RUSH ON OTHER COLORADO TEAMS

GOLDEN, Colo., Sept. 20.—Coach Ralph Glaze of the Colorado School of Mines, has his football squad well started on its early season training. Glaze is "getting the jump" on other eleven in the Rocky Mountain conference this year by several weeks.

It is felt at the mines that Glaze has the remnants of a championship team to work on. Mines clock runs several points during the week with the announcement that Chester Pittner, fullback for the last two years, will return to finish his education. Pittner has the reputation of making the "going hand" for opposing line men can put well and exercise good head work.

MURDERED WOMAN BURIED IN UTAH

Life Insurance Agent Identifies Body of Man Who Took Out Policy for Mrs. Atlas

Freud Wood and his wife returned from Salt Lake yesterday where they buried the body of their daughter, Mrs. Virginia Atlas, who was murdered at Pueblo, Colo., last week. The woman's husband will return today with the two children. In an interview with The Chronicle reporter last evening, Mr. Wood declared his belief that John Durich, who has confessed to the killing of his daughter, is in reality John Green.

Durich was given a grilling cross-examination Friday for more than an hour by District Attorney F. S. Richards and Sheriff Corlies and D. P. Adkinson of Salt Lake. The man still maintained that there was a mysterious John Green who instigated the murder and the authorities were unable to obtain from him the whereabouts of the man called Green or a confession that the story of Green is a person of his own imagining.

The Utah authorities have practically abandoned the theory that a second man was implicated in the murder. Sheriff Corlies stated, however, that the story of another man to be fiction similar to the story told by Durich.

William Bowman, a life insurance agent, has identified Durich as the man who last July 26, insured Mrs. Atlas's life for $4000, under the name of Mrs. Green. Durich posed as the husband in this transaction.

CALIFORNIA HOPES FOR A GOOD TEAM

First Week of Varsity Practice Has Developed Good Prospects

HEINCKLEY, Cal., Sept. 20.—The first week of varsity football practice at the University of California has just been completed. Although the university opened for full varsity a month ago, regular practice was not started until September 15, on account of a falling rain by the Pacific coast conference to protect coaches which started late.

After two weeks of preliminary work with the inexperienced men who play in the intercollegiate series which has just been completed, Coach Andy Smith has high hopes for the future. A number of new men were suggested to him earlier, who are considered good material for the varsity squad. Among them are James, a transfer from Washington State college, Paul Mohr, of San Francisco, and Matt Hooks to Concord, Cal.

California has two former captains on the team this year. They are Fred Brooks of Los Angeles of the '12 and '13 and "Dinny" Wells of Berkeley, Cal., of last year's team. Among the other players back are "Eric" Tomney, son of the mayor of Fresno, Cal., and Todd Moore of Harkersfield, Cal.

From this year's team the squad are thought to be the best ever built a winner. Six of the men, Major Spratt, Deeds, Bels, Barnes and E. J. Patterson are former members of the San Diego high school state championship team. Other likely looking candidates for places on the squad are Wilson of Davis, Cal., Murray of Lakeview, Ark., Hewitt, of Stockton, Cal., and Howe of Edgewood, Cal.

The first game of the season is scheduled for September 27 when the University team meet a team from the Olympic club of San Francisco.
