POCELLI SECURES REPUBLICAN MEET

State Central Committee Decides To Have Nominating Meeting In Southeastern City.

C. A. Robinson, state central committee chairman for the republican party in Twin Falls county, returned yesterday from Boise where he attended the state committee meeting.

While in Boise Mr. Robinson made a hard fight to secure the nominating convention which will be held in August for Twin Falls, but was unsuccessful. Pocello secured the convention after it had been urged upon the committee that the southeastern city had not had a republican gathering in 14 years, while Twin Falls entertained this party four years ago. During the roll call when it became apparent that Pocello would win, Mr. Robinson withdrew. Twin Falls name and on his motion the selection of Pocello was made unanimous.

On Thursday evening republican leaders from all parts of the state gathered at the Owyhee hotel for the annual Lincoln day dinner. Address, as were made by prominent men to the party on the national and state issues. Because of the large attendance it was necessary to have an overflow crowd cared for in another than the main dining room.

Coeur d'Alene city won the convention which will elect delegates to the national convention in Chicago. This convention will meet on April 28. While the election law adopted at the last session of the legislature provided that expenses of delegates would be paid from state funds and an appropriation was made for this purpose the republican state central committee voted that delegates to the Coeur d'Alene convention will pay their own expenses.

Well known Twin Falls republicans who attended the Lincoln day dinner were S. L. Hodgins, Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Sweeney, John Graham, W. P. Guthrie, Frank Stephan and Mr. Robinson. Other republicans who were in Boise during the session of the state committee were A. R. Read, E. A. Winters and L. L. Breckenridge.

WESTERN CONGRESSMEN WORK FOR GOOD ROADS

In a letter received from Addison T. Smith, Newell S. Wright, secretary of the chamber of commerce, was yesterday informed that western representatives were making every possible effort to secure increased road appropriations, but that because of a deficit of three billion dollars congress is determined to cut down all appropriations and that their efforts might fail.

The roads and bridges bureau of the chamber of commerce recently petitioned members of congress to increase the appropriations for this work. The city council and several other local organizations also made similar petitions.

START INSPECTION OF SEEDS SHORTLY

F. F. Sheehan Notifies County Agents Strict Observance of Rules Will Be Required of Dealers.

Information was received yesterday by L. W. Coleman, county agricultural agent, that the state pure seed department of which F. F. Sheehan is the head, will shortly begin its work of inspection.

The letter stated that the department intends to check up closely on the seed of low quality which is liable to come into the state pure seed department of which F. F. Sheehan is the head, will shortly begin its work of inspection.

Mr. Sheehan calls attention to the following resolution adopted at the seed growers meeting at its session in Pocatello:

"Whereas, The county agents of the state through the farm bureau are making it possible through their efforts to build up the pure seed industry of the state.

"Resolved, That we commend them and urge that our program in seed improvement be made a part of their official projects to help place Idaho where she belongs on the seed growing map."

GRUWERS WORK FOR NAMPA SEED SHOW

Campaign to Be Actively Carried Out During Year by State Bureau.

BOISE, Idaho—An active and definite program for the Idaho Seed Growers' association for this year already is under way, which, it is expected by the officers of the association, will make the seed show in Nampa in 1921 even more successful than any that yet has been held.

Four specific lines of work growing out of the interest shown in the pure seed movement throughout the state, and from discussions held at Pocatello, have been announced by B. F. Sheehan, field agronomist of the University of Idaho extension division who is secretary of the Idaho Seed Growers' association. The objects are: To compile and publish the discussions, minutes and resolutions of the joint conference; to increase inspection and certification work; to list the certified seed growers in a pure seed catalog, and to market certified seed as Idaho seed.

Each speaker has furnished a type written copy of his speech delivered at the seed show. These discussions cover the best seed industry, seed potatoes in Idaho, seed certification and inspection, federal grain standards on the Pacific coast, the small seed situation in Idaho and others information of interest to the seed growers of the state. The compilation of these with the minutes and resolutions will be sent to all members of the Idaho Seed Growers' association immediately upon publication.

Field inspection for certification is to be carried on through the county farm bureau. Farmers who are interested in growing certified seed will take the work up as a project. When the time for field inspection comes, the county agent is to be notified. The field agronomist or his assistants will then make the inspection and suggest plans for roguing, if necessary, and give such other information as may be necessary to assist in securing certified seed.

The association plans to publish the list of certified seed growers as a means of furthering the dissemination of pure seed of the varieties which have proven most successful for the various sections of Idaho. By this means it is expected pure seed can be easily located and orders can be readily filled.

The Idaho Seed Growers' association plans to assume an aggressive policy for placing the Idaho certified seed on the markets as an Idaho product. "There is every reason to believe that there always will be a heavy demand for pure seed," says a statement from Mr. Sheehan's office. "Not every section of this country can produce the small seed, so must rely upon the intermediate country for their supply. The soil and climatic conditions make Idaho supreme in the production of bright-colored, high quality seed. This live seed has therefore been mixed with eastern, dull-colored seed and consequently not recognized and sold as an Idaho product. The hotels in the east place on the menu, Idaho baked potatoes, 25 cents. This speaks well for the Idaho potato. We also have the unexcelled seed here, and a concerted effort necessary to secure clean lots, plant in clean fields and reap the clean product, and the result will be a natural boost for the pure seed industry in Idaho."

WILL BECOME TENT CITY, "PREDICTION FROM ALASKA"

SEATTLE, Wash.—Hyder, Alaska, center of the Stewart river, mining properties, will become a tent city rivaling Nome and other famous "strike" towns if the expected spring influx of prospectors is realized, according to James W. McDonald, planner of the Klondike, who was in Seattle recently.

"The world is going to see another tent city in the spring," Mr. McDonald said. "Hyder's future is assured, and there is every indication that when the snow goes off thousands of people will flock to the little town."

Most of the newcomers will be disappointed, Mr. McDonald asserted. Hundreds of them are used only to placer mining, while the Stewart river properties are all hard rock. The district will not be fully developed for five years, he said.

INDUSTRIAL ROBBERY.

Here is a story that might be told in future years as symbolic of 1919, and, so far, of 1920:

John Brinsmead and Sons, British piano makers, have announced their intention of closing their factory and retiring from business. Their closing will turn adrift employes who have been with them for 40 years. They set forth these reasons:

Before the war they were turning out one piano a week for every six employes. In 1918 they were producing only one piano a week for every 12 employes. Now they are producing one of every 18 employes.

The employes, of course, are all paid a great deal more than they used to be. As a result of raised wages, combined with multiplication of workers, it costs as much merely to polish a piano now as it cost before the war to make a complete piano, including materials. A director says:

"It is simply a question that we cannot go on making pianos at the present high cost and selling at the outrageous figures we do at a loss. We shall not recommence manufacturing, if we ever do, until we can manufacture economically and can sell at prices that will not be robbing the public."

"This is no quarrel with our workers. We have no difference with them. It is simply an unfortunate state of events that we are drifting into by the whole tendency of labor at the present time, which is to force prices up to such an extent that it is impossible to manufacture any more economically."

Here you have a situation that exists not only in the piano industry in Great Britain but in many industries in many countries, and which is today a significant and menacing fact in American life.

High prices are generally held up as evidence that the dealers or middlemen or manufacturers are "robbing the consumer." Here is a case when the manufacturer admits the "robbery" and is ashamed to charge enough for his goods to make a profit, but reveals the patent fact that he is not the real robber."

BACON FOR OTES.

"Bringing home the bacon" has a new significance in at least one part of the world. It is charged by the Germans that the Danes are using "gifts" of bacon, sausage, butter and even clothing to secure votes in the Schleswig plebiscite.

The province which before the war was under the German government, but in an earlier day was a part of Denmark, is, by provision of the peace treaty, to decide for itself to which nation it will adhere. That the campaign is being waged in earnest may be assumed from the nature of the German accusation against the Danes.

It isn't likely that the outside world will have much sympathy with the German cry; it is but human nature to believe that the Teutons would have given bacon, butter or eggs, or even sugar, for votes, but for the very adequate reason that they haven't got those commodities.

And if conditions in Schleswig are as bad as they are portrayed in the rest of Europe, it would be a stout and unyielding conscience that would balk at acceptance of a side of bacon for a vote in these days. The German in Schleswig who brings home the bacon today is likely to be more of a hero to his family than a villain in the eyes of his community.

ORDINARY VIRTUES.

A national organization of insurance men is taking up the work of Americanization and what is no less important, of strong Americanism. Believing that it is not only the alien who needs attention, but also that every native American should exercise a positive influence in the great work of establishing law and order this organization issues frequent appeals to its membership and to all members of the insurance fraternity. One of the most recent appeared on the cover of an insurance magazine, but is worthy of greater publicity. It is headed, "Just Ordinary Virtues":

What the world needs today is honesty, industry and thrift;

An honest dollar's goods at a fair profit;

An honest day's work for fair pay;

Thrift without penury—no needless waste;

These are the good old-fashioned virtues possessed by our forefathers.

In addition the world needs a universal and overwhelming sentiment against those who won't work.

May all insurance men take pride in supporting with earnest and loyal patriotism the principles upon which the nation was founded, fervently and forever denying that equality of opportunity means destruction of individual opportunity or that liberty means lawlessness.

"God grants liberty only to those who love it and are always ready to guard and defend it."

SEND A VALENTINE.

Send a valentine, and feel youth and love creep back into the heart as the breath of spring creeps back into the wintry world.

There is one man who is poor, who always has been poor and always will be, because he lacks the money-making touch; but every Valentine's day he sends a bunch of violets to his wife and takes her out to luncheon. If times are unusually bad it is a little bunch of California violets and lunch at the self-serve. If times are easy it is a smashing big bunch of English violets and the nicest cafe in town. And somehow all the privations and disappointments and envies have never been able to drive love out of that household. He may be nearly smothered under bills, but he awaits his time, and about February 14 out he crawls, plumes his wings and once more makes life worth all its costs.

If you don't want to send a sentimental valentine send a funny one. Not one of the old horrors which made capital out of misfortune, but one of those laugh-provoking things with which the counters abound. There is something about choosing and sending these bits of foolish paper which contains a deep psychology. Try it.

It is proposed that the United States should have a navy three times as large as we had at the beginning of the recent war to cost a billion dollars a year. Where's the fight

An eastern woman raises bees for their stings. From the stings is extracted the purest formic acid obtainable for the manufacture of drugs. With a wood shortage imminent can't somebody take to raising dogs for their bark, or chipping sparrows for their chips?

Belgium, straining every muscle to increase output and export, has buried politics, according to a news dispatch. Again where Belgium leads the way the world can well afford to follow.

Unfortunately the man who eats ripe olives full of botilnus bugs is never a Bolshevik.

While we are considering presidential candidates, let us not forget that the kind of congress we have is important.

OUTBURSTS OF EVERETT TRUE

SMOLDERING FIRES OF DISCORD IGNITE OVER CABINET CONFERENCES

day that he received this letter from the president Mr. Lansing announced that he had written other cabinet officers that he would not call any more cabinet conferences for the present, but no explanation was offered. Inquiry at the White House brought only the statement that Mr. Wilson himself probably would call and provide at the next session of his official duties.

OF LONG DURATION.

But the differences between the president long pre-dated the first cabinet call by Mr. Lansing, which was issued last October 5, seven days after Mr. Wilson returned from his western speaking tour and took to his bed. They began at the peace conference in Paris, as Mr. Lansing disclosed in his final letter to the president under date of yesterday, and had continued since that time—one of the chief differences being over the governments' attitude toward Mexico.

The First Meeting.

When the cabinet met on October fifth, Joseph P. Tumulty, private secretary to the president, issued a formal statement explaining the reasons for the conference. He said:

"The cabinet was called to consider questions in which more than one department was concerned and also to discuss the industrial conference." He referred to the first conference called by the president with the hope of allaying the industrial unrest.

In his statement Mr. Tumulty said that Rear Admiral Grayson, Mr. Wilson's physician, was present and suggested that only urgent matters be brought to the president's attention. Thereafter until this week the cabinet met more or less regularly. During the coal strike it met twice a week in an effort to avert the walkout of the miners and several weeks ago it was decided to have meetings every Tuesday and Friday.

WILSON KNOWS OF MEETING

During the coal wage controversy the president was said at the White House to have been advised of the meetings and that he had been kept informed as to the progress his advisers were making toward a settlement of the controversy. He finally took the matter out of the cabinet's hands and suggested a settlement which the miners had accepted.

The correspondence between the president and Mr. Lansing which resulted in Mr. Lansing's resignation was made public tonight at the state department an hour after Under-Secretary Polk had conferred at the White House with Secretary Tumulty. Mr. Lansing, in his final letter to the president, said that "in thus covering our official association, he felt that he should make public a statement in which had proposed recently showing that he had not been unmindful of the continuance of our present relations with the president and that it was his duty to bring them to an end at the earliest moment compatible with the public interest."

CONSCIOUS OF FOOLISHNESS.

"Ever since January 1919," Mr. Lansing continued, "I have been conscious of the fact that my resignation was disposed to welcome my advice in matters pertaining to the negotiations at Paris, to our foreign service, or to international affairs in general. He added that he had followed his personal inclination he would have resigned while in Paris, but that he had refrained because he felt it his duty to "cease any embarrassment in carrying forward the great task in which you were then engaged."

Again Mr. Lansing said that while he had been "surprised and disappointed" at the frequent disapproval of his suggestions, he had never failed to follow the president's decision, "however difficult it made the conduct of our foreign affairs."

Mr. Lansing accompanied the preident, to Paris in December, 1919, as one of the American peace delegates, but his friends have said that while Mr. Wilson was at the peace conference Mr. Lansing was virtually without authority and that naturally he felt this keenly since the other allied and associated countries were represented by their premiers and not the heads of their governments.

Mr. Lansing finally returned from Paris before the work of the American peace delegation was concluded, being succeeded by Frank L. Polk, under-secretary of state. The friction between himself and Mr. Wilson continued after he came back to Washington.

William C. Bullitt, of Philadelphia, formerly employed by the American peace commission in confidential capacity, testified before the senate foreign relations committee last September concerning reported differences between the president and his secretary of state on the peace treaty and the league of nations covenant.

Bullitt told the committee that Mr. Lansing had expressed to him opposition to the ratification of the treaty and covenant in a conversation in Paris the day Bullitt resigned from the American mission because he was not in sympathy with the treaty and league.

Mr. Lansing was on a vacation at Watertown, N. Y., at the time Bullitt testified and when shown the testimony there, he declined to comment. During the president's illness.

BEET GROWERS WILL MEET IN POCATELLO

State Farm Bureau Calls Gathering at Gato City on February Twentieth.

Word was received yesterday by L. W. Coleman, county agricultural agent, that a meeting is called by President C. B. Ross of the Idaho state farm bureau, for representatives of counties interested in beet growing.

The meeting is to be held at Pocatello, on Friday, February 20. Each county interested may send as many delegates as it wishes to the convention, all voting to be done on a basis of one vote to a county.

It is suggested that each community engaged in beet raising hold a local meeting early in the week of February 15 and elect delegates to attend the Pocatello meeting, at which time one or more delegates could be elected to attend the state-wide convention at Pocatello.

Problems to be considered at the Pocatello meeting are: Price of beets, contracts, increased acreage, and distribution of pulp.

SHOULDERING FIRE OF DISCORD IGNITE OVER CABINET CONFERENCES

The Mexican issue again came to the front with the kidnapping and subsequent arrest of American Consul General Jenkins in Mexico. After the Jenkins case had been discussed at cabinet meetings presided over by Mr. Lansing, the state department sent a note to Carranza bluntly warning him that further "molestation" of Jenkins would "seriously affect the relations between the United States and Mexico, for which the government of Mexico must assume sole responsibility."

Wilson Takes Charge.

President Wilson was advised of a situation which apparently had grown acute and he was said at the time to have personally taken charge of the matter. The Mexican government delayed its reply for some time and subsequently Jenkins was released on bail furnished by J. Slater Hansen, without the consular agent's knowledge. Jenkins case still is pending in the Mexican courts, having been transferred from the Puebla state courts to the federal supreme court, which the state department has contended was the only tribunal with jurisdiction in the case. No further action has been taken by the American government so far as has been announced.

While a few members of the cabinet have conferred with Mr. Wilson since he was taken ill, it was said tonight that Mr. Lansing had not seen him and that whatever business he had had with the president had been carried on by duly correspondence. Before the president left on his western trip, however, Mr. Lansing, after his return, presided over a standing engagement to see him daily and he visited the White House each noon to discuss foreign and other affairs.

The correspondence.

The state department issued the following statement:

Secretary Lansing has resigned and his resignation has been accepted, taking effect today. Following is the correspondence between the president and Secretary Lansing:

Mr. Wilson's First Letter.

The White House, Washington, February, 1920.

My dear Mr. Secretary: It is true, as I have been told, that during my illness, you have frequently called the heads of the executive departments of the government into conference? If it is, I feel my duty to call your attention to considerations which I do not care to dwell upon until I learn from you yourself, that this is the fact.

Under our constitutional law and practice, as developed hitherto, none but the president has the right to summon the heads of the executive departments into conference and no one but the president and the congress has the right to ask their views or the views of anyone of them on any public question. I take this matter up with you because, in the development of every constitutional system, custom and precedent are of the most serious consequence, and I think we will all agree in desiring not to lead in any wrong direction. I have therefore taken the liberty of writing you to ask you this question and I am sure you will be glad to answer.

I am happy to learn from your recent note to Mrs. Wilson that your strength is returning.

Cordially and sincerely yours

WOODROW WILSON.

Lansing's Answer.

Hon. Robert Lansing, Secretary of state.—The Secretary of state: Washington, Feb. 9, 1920.—My dear Mr. President:

It is true that, frequently during your illness, I requested the heads of the executive departments of the government to meet for informal conferences. Shortly after you were taken ill

October, certain members of the cabinet, of which I was one, felt that, in view of the fact that we were denied communication with you, it was wise for us to confer informally together on inter-departmental matters and matters as to which action could not be postponed until your medical advisers permitted you to pass upon them. Accordingly, I, as the ranking member, requested the members of the cabinet to assemble for such informal conferences, and in view of the mutual benefit derived from the practice was continued. I can assure you that I never for a moment entered my mind that I was acting unconstitutionally or contrary to your wishes and there certainly was no intention on my part to assume powers and exercise functions under the constitution exclusively confined to the president.

READY TO RESIGN.

During these troublous times when many difficulties and vexatious questions have arisen and when in the circumstances I have been deprived of your guidance and direction, it has been my constant endeavor to carry out your policies as I understand them and to act in all matters as I believed you would wish me to act. If, however, you think that I have failed in my loyalty to you and if you no longer have confidence in me and prefer to have another conduct our foreign affairs, I am, of course ready, Mr. President, to relieve you of any embarrassment by placing my resignation in your hands. I am, as at ways, faithfully yours.

ROBERT LANSING.

Answer Disappointing.

The White House, Washington, D. C., Feb. 11, 1920.—My dear Secretary:

I am very much disappointed by your letter of February 9th, in reply to mine asking about the so-called cabinet meetings.

You kindly explain the motives of your meetings and I find nothing in your letter which justifies your assumption of presidential authority in such a matter. You say you "felt that, in view of the fact that you were denied communication with me, it was wise to confer informally together on inter-departmental matters, matters as to which action could not be postponed until my medical advisers permitted me" to be seen and consulted, but I have to remind you, Mr. Secretary, that no action could be taken without me by the cabinet and therefore there could have been no disadvantage in awaiting action you were to maintain until consulting what action could not have been taken without me.

STARTED IN PARIS.

This affair, Mr. Secretary only deepens a feeling that was growing upon me. While we were still in Paris, I felt, and have felt increasingly ever since, that you, secretary of state, and your acceptance of guidance and direction on questions with regard to which I had to instruct you only with increasing reluctance and since my return to Washington I have been struck by the number of matters in which you have apparently tried to forestall my judgment by formulating action and merely asking my approval when it was impossible for me to form an independent judgment because I did not have an opportunity to examine the circumstances with any degree of independence.

I therefore, feel that I must frankly take advantage of your kind suggestion that if I should prefer to have another to conduct our foreign affairs you are ready to relieve me of any embarrassment by placing your resignation in my hands, for I must say that it would relieve me of embarrassment, Mr. Secretary, the embarrassment of feeling your reluctance and divergence of judgment, if you would give your present office up and afford me an opportunity to select someone whose mind would more willingly go along with mine.

I need not tell you with what ro-lucance I take advantage of your suggestion, or that I do so with the kindest feeling. In matters of transcendent importance like this, the only wise course is a course of perfect candor, where personal feeling is as much as possible left out of the reckoning.

Very sincerely yours,

(Signed) WOODROW WILSON.
Hon Robert Lansing, Secretary of State.

Lansing Resigns.

The Secretary of State, Washington, Feb. 12, 1920.—My dear Mr. President:

I wish to thank you sincerely for your candid letter of the 11th in which you state that my resignation would be acceptable to you, since it relieves me of the responsibility for action which I have been contemplating and which I can now take without hesitation as it meets your wishes.

I have the honor, therefore, to tender you my resignation as secretary of state, the same to take effect at your convenience.

In thus severing our official association I feel, Mr. President, that I should make the following statement which I had prepared recently and which will show you that I have not been unmindful of the continuance of our present relations was impossible and that I realized that it was clearly my duty to bring them to an end at the earliest moment compatible with the public interest.

Ever since January, 1919, I have been conscious of the fact that you no longer were disposed to welcome my advice in matters pertaining to the negotiations in Paris, to our foreign service, or to the international affairs in general. Holding these views, I would, if I had consulted my personal inclination alone, have resigned as secretary of state and as a commissioner to negotiate peace. I felt, however, that such a step might have been misinterpreted as a withdrawal from the international affairs of the United States and that it was my duty to cause you no embarrassment in carrying forward the great task in which you were then engaged. Possibly I erred in this, but if I did it was with the best of motives.

When I returned to Washington in the latter part of July, 1919, my personal wish to resign had not been changed, but again I felt that loyalty to you and my duty to the administration compelled me to defer any action as my resignation might have been misinterpreted into hostility to the negotiation of the treaty of peace or at least into disapproval of your views as to the form of ratification. I therefore remained silent, avoiding any comment on the frequent reports that we were not in full agreement. Subsequently your serious illness, during which I have never seen you, upon which upon me the duty—at least I considered it to be my duty—to remain in charge of the department of state until your health permitted you to assume again full direction of foreign affairs.

Believing that that time had arrived, I had prepared my resignation when my only doubt as to the propriety of placing it in your hands was removed by your letter indicating that it would be entirely acceptable to you.

CHALLENGES STATEMENT.

I think, Mr. President, in accordance with the frankness which has marked this correspondence and for which I am grateful to you, that I cannot permit to pass unchallenged the implication that in calling into informal conference the heads of the executive departments I sought to usurp your presidential authority. I had no intention, no such thought. I believed then and I believe now that the conferences, which were held, were for the best interests of your administration and of the republic and that the belief was shared by others whom I consulted. I further believe that the conferences were proper and necessary in the circumstances and that I would have been derelict in my duty if I had failed to act as I did.

I also feel, Mr. President, that candor compels me to say that I cannot agree with your statement, that I have tried to forestall your judgment in certain cases by formulating action and merely asking your approval when it was impossible for you to form an independent judgment because you had not an opportunity to examine the circumstances with any degree of independence. I have, it is true, when I thought a case demanded immediate action, advised you what, in my opinion, that action should be, stating at the same time the reasons on which my opinion was based. This I conceived to be a function of the secretary of state and I have followed the practice for the past four years and a half. I confess that I have been surprised and disappointed at the frequent disapproval of my suggestions, but I have never failed to follow your decisions, however difficult it made the conduct of our foreign affairs.

I need hardly add that I leave the office of secretary of state, with only good will toward you, Mr. President, and with a sense of profound relief.

Forgoing our differences and remembering only your many kindnesses in the past, I have the honor to be, Mr. President, Sincerely yours, (Signed) ROBERT LANSING.

Resignation Accepted.

The President, The White House.

The White House, Washington, Feb. 12, 1920.—My dear Secretary:

Allow me to acknowledge with appreciation your letter of February 12, it now being evident, Mr. Secretary, that we have both of us felt the embarrassment of our recent relations with each other, I feel it my duty to accept your resignation, to take effect at once; at the same time adding that I hope that the future holds for you many successes of the most gratifying sort. My best wishes will always follow you, and it will be a matter of gratification to me always to remember our delightful personal relations. Sincerely yours, (Signed) WOODROW WILSON.

Hon Robert Lansing, Secretary of State.

MINOR BASEBALL GENTLEMEN'S DEAL

Arbitration Board to Be Appointed by Leagues to Settle Disputes.

By the Associated Press. CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—The major league minor leagues decided at their annual meeting here today to continue to work under the name "gentlemen's agreement" which prevailed last year. With the exception that an arbitration board will be appointed to handle all disputes. This board will consist of two members, who shall include the chairman of the national commission, which position has not yet been filled, and one representative from the minor leagues. At any time this board is unable to reach a decision, a third referee, a man not connected with any baseball organization, will be chosen to cast the deciding vote.

John Heydler, president of the National league, suggested that the arbitration board be known as the Baseball Arbitration Board of America. Last year the major and minor leagues came to the parting of the ways, but it was agreed in New York at the league meeting of the National and American organizations that the ma-fore would respect the contracts of the players in the minor organizations. Under this agreement, which was not in written form they operated in 1919, and it was hoped they would get together here at this time and put the agreement into writing. Today's meeting merely passed on what had transpired at the gathering last night, with H. B. Johnson, president of the American league, John Heydler, president of the National league and Barney Dreyfus, Pittsburgh, August Herrmann, Cincinnati, members of the National league committee, appointed yesterday in attendance.

The action was taken at today's meeting, however, is not final. The presidents of the two major leagues told the committee from the minors that they would take up with the club owners the question of entering into an agreement with them. The sentiment of the American league it was said, was not to enter into written agreement, until after the National Federal league split had been disposed of.

The meeting today brings to a close a series of gatherings of baseball presidents, managers, managers, players and baseball writers, which has been the greatest in the history of baseball. However, a few of the club owners will remain here for tomorrow when August Herrmann, the retiring chairman of the national commission, will meet with the other members of the commission, Mr. Johnson of the American league and Mr. Heydler of the National league. Mr. Herrmann is desirous of having the members of the commission check his accounts at their chairman, and also dispose of some other details which have been in the commission hands.

Several club members are anxious that the election of a successor for Mr. Herrmann be made soon, and it was indicated that the selection might be made during tomorrow's session.

EUROPEAN RACING TEAMS MAY COME

Postponement of Grand Prix Results in Plans to Compete at Indianapolis.

PARIS.—Forty-seven French manufacturers having voted to postpone the Grand Prix de France from 1920 to 1921, the International 500-mile race on the Indianapolis roadway for a cash purse of $50,000, will afford the sole opportunity of the year for European racing teams to come to a decisive engagement.

Manufacturers in favor of racing are the strongest and most powerful in Europe, including such companies as the English Sunbeam, the Italian F. I. A. T., and the French Peugeot, Delage and Ballot. However, in a test of voting strength, they found themselves in the minority and accordingly will have to seek foreign soil in 1920 on which to decide their claims to world supremacy.

Despite the official decision of the French makers more racing cars are being built this year than ever before in the new 182 inch specifications of the Indianapolis race and the Grand Prix de France, whenever it is finally decided that the latter race should be run. By competing in the Indianapolis race this year the more farseeing manufacturers, discern an opportunity to test a march on their less progressive rivals, enabling them to put cars into the 1921 Grand Prix that will have had an entire year's seasoning.

Another reason for not waiting until the Grand Prix of 1921 is that a number of American manufacturers are expected to invade Europe with racing teams at the first opportunity and that to withdraw from competition for a year would give America too much of an advantage in developing and perfecting her racing models. More severe competition is expected to materialize in 1921 than in any quarter this year than ever before.

UNAFFECTED DECLARES ARMOUR

Cost of Live Meat Animal in No Way Dependent on By-Products, Asserts Packer.

CHICAGO, Feb. 13.—The future trend of meat prices cannot be greatly affected by the segregation of lines of business not allied with the packing industry, in conformity with the recent agreement with the attorney general, J. Ogden Armour, president of Armour and Company, meat packers, declared in a statement tonight.

"The cost of the live meat animal is dependent largely upon the cost of corn and other feeds, and labor and such factors as taxes and freight rates," Mr. Armour said. "These factors are not affected by the arrangement brought about by the attorney general."

"If the farmer's cost of production decreases through decrease in the price of corn or labor or other things he has no reason to expect cheaper meats."

Mr. Armour's statement said that the cost of the raw material represented about 85 per cent of what the packers get for the finished product, that the meat and by-product business today was being conducted on a margin of approximately 15 per cent gross. Out of this 15 per cent, he said, was paid labor and other costs of manufacture, all distributing and selling charges and taxes, the residue representing profits.

"Inasmuch as some 85 per cent of the wholesale cost of the finished product is represented by the cost of the raw material purchased by the packers, it is evident that in this 85 per cent lies the answer as to whether prices will go up or down," the statement said.

The packers hope that the new arrangement will not make necessary any increase in the gross margin on which meat is handled. It must be evident, however, that some way must be found to make up for the loss occasioned by our getting out of the grocery business. If a sales organization works only part of the time as during a dull season—the expense of distribution naturally is increased.
If the withdrawal from the grocery business makes it impossible for us to operate our plants or refrigerator cars at or near capacity it cannot help but increase our overhead charges and increase must necessarily be reflected in the cost of product we manufacture.

have an effect upon the price of meat.
The stockyards have been operated efficiently and the cost of the animal received has been remarkably low.
If the yards in the future are conducted with economic efficiency, expenses will not advance enough to have an appreciable effect upon the price of meat, but if efficiency is lessened, and if costs materially increase, the price of meat will be affected adversely to the best interests of the consuming public."

The statement declared that no other essential industry has perfected its organization and operation to a point where it maintained itself and provided a profit as well as a gross margin. The net profit in the meat packing business had represented, over a period of years, only about two per cent on the volume of business transacted, it was declared.

OPPOSE REMOVAL OF JOSEPH BYRNE

Head of Irish Constabulary Filled to His Office Claim.

DUBLIN, Feb. 13.—Dismissal of Sir Joseph Byrne, the inspector general of the Royal Irish Constabulary, has provoked an outcry in all sections of the Irish press.

Sir Joseph has been at the head of the police since the Irish rebellion, and has administered all the police measures taken to suppress the Sinn Fein party. His friends say that he has never disobeyed any government order given him. Nevertheless his dismissal is treated as if it were the work of a powerful official.

It is no secret that he disagreed with the government on its question of enforcing conscription for the army last year, and reported strongly against the possibility of being carried out. There is reason to suppose also that the various measures lately taken for the protection of the police, the arming them with machine guns, forth, seemed to him more likely to unlike the position of the police difficult and dangerous.

The explanation of the dismissal most widely current is that the government contemplate further measures which would take the police still more of a military force, and possibly associate soldiers with them in the execution of their duties, and that Sir Joseph Byrne disapproved.

Among the supporters of the government the opinion prevails that the dismissal is due to disappointment of the government at the failure of the police in the past three years to prevent desertion and secure the punishment of crime. Crime, they say, has increased, and none of it is detected.
Nobody has been punished for any of the outrages that have taken place, and the identity of their authors remains a mystery.

CONSTANTINOPLE IS LESS PICTURESQUE

Oriental Past Taking Up European Fashion Declares
Observers.

LONDON.—Constantinople is much less picturesque than it was before the war; yet, the extreme charm of the city is still there. In the past, writes anonymously an allied official of high rank in the Pall Mall Gazette.

"When I stood on the famous bridge over the Golden Horn," he went on,
"the incredible diversity of orientals one was always wont to see passing was there, but at least 75 per cent of them were dressed as Europeans.
Some no longer even wore the fez."

"A businesslike air pervades the principal thoroughfares, not because the Turk himself has suddenly developed high commercial instincts, but owing to the great influx of business men from the allied and neutral countries."

"All commodities command the most exaggerated prices. Great quantities of goods have, however, begun to arrive, so that prices will soon begin to decline."

"On the other hand, the working wages have reached a stupendous figure. The man who before the war would have earned the equivalent of five shillings, at present refuses to do the same work for less than four or five pounds per week. Cabinet reached the supreme height of extortion at Constantinople."

Shipping is fairly active in the port. Several allied warships lie in the Bosphorus. The historic Gashan is in the Gulf of Imiti.

"The British are engaged in rebuilding the road to Therapia. It is singularly new and interesting to witness the spectacle of British, French and Italian troops in the streets; Carabiniers in kilts, Royal Italian Carabiniers, and sturdy French police marching by with their band."

"The Sultan, of whose impending fate we hear so much nowadays, still rides in state to the Selamlik every Friday. The psychology of the Turk in Constantinople appeared to me to denote indifference, in the sense that they did not seem to care much what political future awaited them. Although the Asia Minor Nationalists were said to be more or less active, there was no evidence of their activities in Constantinople. There the young Turk is the least inviolable."

"Of the Germans not one is left.

RETURN FROM THE AUTOMOBILE SHOW

Twin Falls Well Represented at Gathering of Car Enthusiasts at Salt Lake.

Several of the Twin Falls automobile dealers and others who have been in attendance at the Salt Lake automobile show returned yesterday, others will follow today, with the exception of Les E. Morrill, who will depart tomorrow bringing a new car for delivery. O. G. McNeill and F. G. Johnson, also of the Morrill organization, will accompany him on the road trip.

Frank Magel and J. A. Barrett were of the party who returned yesterday. They report a highly satisfactory trip and numerous new engagements which they will in due course, devote to the auto fanciers of Twin Falls.

J. A. Coburn, of the Reynolds Brothers agency, Glenn street, local representative of the Motor Mercantile company, Nichols, of the Intermountain Electric company, Manager Parley, of the Gooding Motor Company's Parley branch, Wendell Allen, of the Allen Oil Company, and Merlin Bailey were of the Twin Falls visitors, all of whom were quartered at the Newhouse hotel. Mrs. Allen and Mrs. Bailey accompanied their husbands on the trip.

Twin Falls was much in evidence at the big function and at the banquet, Wednesday evening. It was manifest from all angles that Salt Lake distributors are paying especial heed to the Twin Falls country. This country, with more automobile licenses than any county in the state, and indeed with more licensees than Utah, have attracted notice from manufacturers as well as agencies, wherever there is a car, there is an interest in movements and activities in Twin Falls.

Both at the show and about the banquet board, especial attention was paid to Twin Falls. The "extra", which appeared in the banquet hall during the festivities and was spread upon the banquet tables paid heed with quip and jest to the Twin Falls representatives, many of whom were mentioned.

shared with the home folks the de-humors of the banquet.

URGES CAUTION IN BUYING CLOVER SEED

Fifty Per Cent of Samples Analyzed Contain Noxious Weeds.

BOISE, Idaho.—That Idaho farmers must exercise caution when buying cloverseed this spring is clearly shown from tests being carried on in the state seed laboratory, says a statement from the office of the state seed commissioner.

"Some 50 per cent of the samples already analyzed have been condemned because of the presence of noxious weeds," says this statement.
"Dodder has been the worst offender and farmers should protect themselves against this weed."

"Cloverseed is scarce and is also high priced, so it is important that farmers pay particular attention to the quality of the seed they buy.
Farmers should buy on grade from reliable sources and then have their seed analyzed by the state seed laboratory. A test costs nothing and it allows the farmer to have absolute check on the kind of seed he is getting."

"When seed is purchased, inquiry should be made as to where the seed was grown. In every case seed grown in this country or in this particular section is preferable to foreign seed.
If purchasing seed from the farmers in the community obtain a test on the seed and make sure the lot doesn't contain innumerable noxious weed seeds."

"With clover seed at such a premium, unusual care should be taken to get the most out of the seed sown.
It will not do to throw expensive seed on poorly-prepared ground, as was often done when clover was cheap. The seed bed should be clean, firm and well prepared."

"Farmers are usually satisfied with seed of an inferior grade. This is one of the places where a farmer should not economize. The use of poor seed is an expensive way to practice economy. In the long run, seed of the higher price and naturally of the better grade should be used. Too often, yields are cut down by the use of poor seed."

Men and women of the two leading

The first action of the club was to Resolutions were adopted urging the

AMERICAN CRITIC WOULD AMEND KING'S SPEECH

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—Horatio A.
Bottomly, member of the house of commons from South Hackney, and editor of John Bull, which periodical has been actively critical of the United States recently, offered in the house today an amendment to the king's speech in which the member deals with the relations "between Great Britain and the United States." Mr. Bottomly's amendment expresses regret "that while in his majesty's speech there is an assurance of the excellent relations which exist with all our allies no mention is made of the great republic of the United States of America and no indication is given of the present condition of the negotiations with that power, either in relation to the peace treaty or the league of nations, by which such treaty is governed, and which, according to his majesty's gracious speech at the opening of the present parliament, constitutes the only hope of saving mankind from the recurrence of the scourge of war."

DESERTERS TAKEN BY MEX.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 13.—Three negro deserters from the American army have been captured near Mexico by Mexican troops, according to a report received at the war department here. Orders have been issued to prevent other members of the same outfit from entering Mexico should they also desert.

Following the appearance of two United States airplanes over San An-dro Nalca, Chihuahua, orders have been issued to watch carefully for the appearance of others and capture the pilots if they land. A new protest to Washington is being formulated by the Mexican government.

SILVER SLUMPS IN LONDON.

LONDON, Feb. 13.—The slump in silver today to 84 3-4 apparently was the result of unloading by nervous holders, owing to the absence of buying from Chinese quarters and the fall in Chinese exchange.
