Much Disputed Measure Now Goes to the President for His Consideration.

CUMMINS LEADS FIGHT FOR LAW'S ADOPTION

Guaranty Provision Warmly
Defended by Iowa Senator
As No Harm to the Public.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—By nearly three to one, the senate tonight passed and sent to the president the modified railroad reorganization bill under which the carriers will attempt to adjust themselves to conditions arising with the end of government control.

Thirty-two republicans joined with 15 democrats in voting for adoption of the conference report, while three republicans and 14 democrats comprised the 17 voting against it. There was never any doubt as to the result, in view of the wide margin by which the Cummins bill, more drastic than the compromise, was passed. The bill goes to President Wilson and the general opinion was that he would sign it, although labor leaders will urge a veto.

Interest Is Lacking.
During the five hours debate, led by Chairman Cummings of the Interstate Commerce commission, senators expressed varying opinions as to the public and the railways would fare under the bill, which was warmly defended and attacked. But the intense interest which attended proceedings Saturday in the house, was lacking, frequent quorum calls being necessary to keep the senate in session. Around six o'clock the patience of the senate apparently was exhausted after much speech making and insistent demands for a vote cut short the desire to prolong presentation of views.

Discussion today related largely to the bill and rate making provisions. Senator Cummins with feeling denounced widespread claims that in fixing freight and passenger charges calculated to give the roads a return of 5 to 6 per cent meant taking huge sums of money from the public treasury. The bill, he declared, would not take one dollar in that way. Such reports, he said, were part of the propaganda put forth in an effort to defeat legislation on the eve of return of the roads to their owners March 1.

PROTESTS ESCH BILL.
CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 23.—Max S. Hayes, national chairman of the labor party of the United States today in a telegram to President Wilson protested the proposed Cummins-Esch railroad bill. He denounced the measure as legislation to benefit special interest and demanded a presidential veto.

Declaring he spoke not only for organized labor but for the public, Mr. Hayes assailed those features of the bill which he said guaranteed railway owners' revenues.

Adoption of the bill, Mr. Hayes said would place on the people the burden of another billion dollars in increased passenger and freight rates. Social unrest, he asserted, was fed by popular resentment of a congress which represented not the masses but a few groups of financial monarchists.

Mr. Hayes declared that the labor party undoubtedly would put in the field a full presidential ticket as well as congressional tickets.

"There is no doubt that the people demand a labor party," he said. "The old parties have failed. The national labor party's convention probably will be held in Chicago in June."

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Feb. 23.—Five inches of snow fell at Lander, Wyo., last night and two inches here. The storm was general throughout southern and central Wyoming, but was accompanied by rain in the north, consequently there is little hindrance in traffic caused by snowdrifts.

UNIVERSAL TRAINING BE BARRED FROM BILL

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Universal military training may not be included in the house army reorganization bill under a plan adopted today by republican leaders calling for consideration of the measure into this week. None of the leaders would deny that omission of a training plan was likely, but asserted no final agreement had been made with advocates of training.

Despite the decision of the military committee adopting universal training principle as part of the country's military policy, effort were made today to prevent the committee decision from appearing in the reorganization bill.

EPISCOPALS RAISE TWICE QUOTA ALLOTTED THEM

In the campaign conducted here in the Association Episcopal church and Sunday school by Dean Albert Cummings, of St. Michael's cathedral, Boise, assisted by Arch-Deacon Howard Stoy of Pocatello for the purpose of extending the Christian work at home and abroad by popular subscription to a nation wide fund was greeted with great success, as the announcement was made that nearly double the amount asked for in this district was received by the campaigners.

The visiting clergymen conducted special services in addition to the regular program during their visit to the church including Eucharist which was observed in the morning and morning prayer addresses were given by each of the church men. The arch-deacon delivered a personal message from Bishop Tourret who was unable to be present in person on account of sickness which he held at Boise. The bishop's speech, however, that he would probably be able to visit the parish within about three weeks and that he felt confident that the present vacancy in the pulpit here could be filled by a worthy and capable man soon.

TORONTO, Feb. 23.—The first administration in the history of the British government composed of farmers was completed today by the election of W. W. Laidlaw, attorney at law, as general in the former-labor provincial cabinet for the constituency of east, Wellington. All members of the cabinet now have been elected to the legislature, called to meet March 5.

STUDY CONSERVATION OF NATURAL GASES

Three Sub-Committees Investigate
Phases of Production, Transportation and Utilization.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Classifying all problems of natural gas conservation under production, transportation and utilization, the special committee on conservation appointed by Secretary Lane following the natural gas conference at Janney, holding its first meetings today, resolved itself into three sub-committees to study these phases of the industry with a view to recommending drastic measures of economy.

Discussions of the committee, of which Mr. Laidlaw, director of the bureau of mines, is chairman, emphasized the prodigious waste in millions of production and utilization of natural gas and need of stringent measures to conserve the fast vanishing gas deposits.

The sub-committees will seek co-operation of public utility commissions and other state agencies in correcting wasteful practices of producers and consumers.

Questions referred to committees included restrictions of the use of natural gas by industry; regulation of the flow of gas; waste in transportation and distribution systems; and means of impressing upon the public its responsibility in conservation. The latter problem, it was planned, will be dealt with by a publicity campaign, conducted by the individual commissions, probably will not complete the formulation of their views of the settlement proposal for several days.

Union officials who conducted negotiations with Mr. Hines were called together tonight, but the nature of the conference was not revealed.

ALLEGED FORGER CAPTURED.
Sheriff A. N. Sprague received word last night at Whitecourt, Washington, of G. W. Lewis, who is alleged to have forged checks amounting to $254 white boys last fall. The man is held in jail with other prisoners, and is being held by the sheriff's office until after his trial today.

RAILROADERS AGAIN TALK OF STRIKING

Union Heads Say Employees
Restive Because of Failure to Win Point.

HEATED MEETINGS ARE HELD BY MANY GROUPS

Foremost Leaders Declare
Talk of Strike is Losing Workers Sympathy of Public.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Railroad labor is not satisfied with the way things are going over its wage demands. This was indicated in conferences today of union officials and general committees, called to pass on the president's settlement proposal. Passage of the railroad bill by the senate tonight only added more bitterness to talk of the union workers.

Brings Strike Talk.
Arrival of committee chairmen—union leaders—closed the rank and file—brought out strike talk. Higher officers were inclined to discount this evidence of the workers' feelings, but hotel lobbies buzzed with possibilities of the situation. There were indications that the union heads who have dealt with Director General Hines were worried lest all that had accomplished might be wrecked. Committee chairmen spoke frankly of the sentiment in the local groups, describing it thus:

"Their temper is not such as to warrant us being optimistic. The union spokesmen believed there was no way to avoid a direct appeal to the president to veto the Cummins bill. They declared it must be done to satisfy the workers who have not had a 'close up' of the situation. But as to hope that the labor union might get the government, there was little expression. Labor's appeal to congress having been assumed, some leaders were said to have shaken the attitude, that the legislature were 'trying to see how far they can go by nagging us.'"

Many Heated Discussions.

Heated discussions marked all conferences of the 15 organizations which met separately. No one was able to finish examination of the documents, transmitted between union officials, the director general and the White House as delegates continued to insist on annulling the unfairness with which congress and the government has dealt with the union. The president's proposal is by no means sure of acceptance by the unions. It drew attack from various angles according to the information which leaked out of the secret meetings.

Strikes Are Improbable.
The risk of a strike talk, as expressed by several union officers, was that the railroad organizations have reason to assert their strength through a walkout, but it was deemed inadvisable by them at least, to carry out such a program. One leader declared that the action of the Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and Shop Laborers, in refusing the recent strike call, had hurt the workers' cause materially. He characterized that sort of thing as "damning us in the eyes of the people."

Leaders were confident of their power to call a strike which would tie up all transportation, but their attitude was that peaceable means should be employed if possible. Because of the dissatisfaction which permeated all meetings, most of the individual organizations probably will not complete the formulation of their views of the settlement proposal for several days.

Union officials who conducted negotiations with Mr. Hines were called together tonight, but the nature of the conference was not revealed.

EXPECT PROPER AUTHORITY TO BE GIVEN COMMISSIONER

MARQUETTE, Mich., Feb. 23.—Federal prohibition enforcement officials here tonight expressed the hope that the iron county prohibition enforcement controversy would result in authority being given United States Commissioner Hatch of Marquette to issue warrants for prohibition law violators direct upon application by government agents.

Commissioner Hatch said today he believed the system of waiting for authority from Grand Rapids, involving more than a week's delay had been a serious handicap to proper functioning of federal machinery.

Neither Commissioner Hatch nor any designate of Leo J. Grove's prohibition agent who notified Chicago officers of the alleged revolt in iron county, received any additional information today on the affair. "No word has come from Grove since he went to Chicago to enlist the aid of Major A. V. Dalrymple, central division chief."

Federal officials expressed the belief that if Grove is not backed by the government in settling the "whiskey rebellion" in iron county, working machinery of the department as far as concerned, would be disrupted.

Whatever the outcome, it was believed that long standing difficulties attending enforcement of liquor laws would be ironed out. These difficulties were said to have been brought about largely because of lack of effective co-operation between local, state and federal officials.

It was learned today that a telegram from Robert S. Marsh, commanding the first peninsula detachment of state police, who is now in Lansing recuperating from wounds received in a fight with bootleggers in iron county last fall, ordered Lieut. Downey, temporarily in charge of troops in this district, to "stay off" the iron river case. Downey, wired Grove not to go to iron river, because the "case was settled."

The wire did not come until "after Grove's departure for the trouble center."

HIGHWAY DISTRICT WILL CALL FOR BIDS MARCH 13

The Twin Falls highway district yesterday decided to call for bids on 30 miles of hard-surfaced road on March 13. These roads are those tributary to the main highway and will be done entirely by highway district funds.

C. B. Channell, chairman of the board, returned Sunday from Boise where he conferred with Colonel Oliver, state highway engineer. It had been planned to call for bids to postpone call for bids until the state was ready to go ahead with the main highway, but as the state has not yet received the approval of the federal government there can be no time set for the opening of these bids.

While this information at hand the highway board decided to proceed with its own work as soon as possible.

DEMOCRATS IN UPPER HOUSE PLAN REVOLT

Twenty-two Said to Be Willing to Accept Republican's Original Reservations.

CAUCUS MAY BE CALLED TO DISCUSS THE ISSUE

Underwood Hinted as Leader of Plan -- Four Republican
Join the Irreconcilables.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Possibilities of a substantial break in the democratic peace treaty ranks in the senate impelled the democrats senators to move today for a caucus to discuss a possible change in party policy, and revived republican hopes that the treaty might yet be ratified with the republican reservations adopted at the last session of congress.

Twenty-Two Plan Revolt.

On the republican side it was asserted that the twenty-two democrats, only a few short of the number required to insure ratification, had signified willingness to quit the lead of President Wilson and to take the republican reservation program as it is. This total, administration chiefs declared, exaggerated, but they conceded that were a vote taken tomorrow on the republican reservation ratification, it would command more than seven democratic votes it got last November.

Movement for a democratic caucus may bring into the open, its sponsors believe, dissatisfaction that has smoldered in some democratic quarters since the president sent his memorable letter to the caucus of November 19 asking that the senators of his party vote against ratification on the basis of the republican reservations. The seven senators who disregard his advice have been active constantly in their effort to dissuade others from the stand then taken, and it has been an open secret that their move, coupled with current political developments, has met with some success.

Has Long Way to Go.

But among both democrats and republicans it is realized that the endeavor to break democratic resistance still has a long way to go if it is to succeed. Sixty-four votes are required to ratify the treaty and although 14 republicans voted for ratification 11 November, party leaders are sure now of the support of only thirty. That leaves 34 to be delivered by the democrats, an even dozen more than the figures which represented the peak of republican ebullience today.

Not for Fear.
In the belief that time is fighting on their side, the republican leaders plan to first clear away collateral issues of treaty objections when the subject comes again before the senate, probably tomorrow. The reservation is considered in the revision of the treaty, which is the basis of the administration's article 10, against which the president has elected principal criticism; out the republicans expect to ask that it be held up until all others have been agreed.

Machine it is pointed out, a democratic caucus may have developed the real strength of the movement away from policy of resistance and put the treaty through. Should a majority of the 47 democratic vote in the senate for such a move, it is expected by the republicans that the effect would be to bring over the votes needed for ratification.

White House May Intervene.
In these "evolutionary" moves, neither side takes sight of the possibility that the White House may again use its influence to stiffen the backs of the administration senators for the president may, if an emergency arises, call upon the senators to ratify the treaty, even if it means the loss of the treaty.

It might take the latter course, however, to express the administration's opinion on the reservation, which is expected to be a move, it is expected by the republicans that the effect would be to bring over the votes needed for ratification.

PREDICTS TERRORS ON IDES OF MARCH

Astronomer Sees Tumult and Violence Then Long Era of Calm and Peace.

The Ides of March, 1920, will bring a period of tumult, turbulence, tribulation and terror such as this old earth has seldom seen, predicts Dr. Frank T. Allen, director of the Astronomical Research Bureau of Washington, D. C.

Through March and April Allen says, this earth will experience the culmination of those astral forces which ever since the summer of 1914 have been chiefly responsible for individual, national and international upheavals that have turned the whole world topsy-turvy.

This, however, is to be the storm before the calm. When it is past, the influence of the celestial spheres, to the conflicting influences of which astrologers attribute the period of disturbance through which we are now passing, will be harmonizing and beneficent and the world will face an era of unprecedented prosperity and peace.

By FRANK THODORE ALLEN.

Director Astrological Research Bureau.

Those who carefully read history and observe the passing of the world events are driven to the conclusion that frequently our earth passes through zones of mysterious influences that very decidedly agitate, infect, inspire and impel both its elements and its inhabitants to abnormal manifestations of unrest and upheaval. Throughout the ages astrologers have observed the intimate relationship of such departures to the configuration of the planetary bodies, and in Commencing with and continuing over since the fall of 1918 Uranus and Saturn have been transiting in close opposition to each other, having already passed the exact opposition three times, each occasion being attended with and followed by a worldwide epidemic of human brain-storms manifesting in various phases of excitement, tumult, rebellion, protest, strikes, race riots and other symptoms of elemental hysteria and turbulence. Coincidentally there has also been a very pronounced renewal of seismic and magnetic activity and disturbance as well as far more than the usual prevalence of destructive storms, involving many disasters upon the high seas.

From February to July of this year Saturn and Uranus will be in unusually close and exceptionally long continued opposition to each other, due to the fact that they both happen to reach their respective turning points at which they appear to stop and reverse their direction, at the same time, in consequence of which they will both remain apparently stationary—as viewed from our earth—for a very long time; with the earth continuing upon the exact line over which their diametrically contrasted influences will be meeting in a head-on collision.

Coincident with this and continuing during quite a large part of the same time, Jupiter and Neptune will be in quite as close and unusually long-continued conjunction with each other while Mars, near to his perigee or nearest point of approach to the earth will also reach his stationary position at a point in exact square aspect to Jupiter and Neptune.

And through most of March and April the astral tremolo, Mercury, will be zigzagging back and forth over the equator in the most effective position for disturbing the earth's magnetic equilibrium.

The practically assured result of these very unusual and intensely acute configurations, involving all the superior planets and the most effec-

In these days of epidemic one should not risk personal and family health by sending garments to irresponsible places.

Germ-laden laundry, returned from doubtful folks, may be more dangerous in your home than dynamite.

Safeguard yourself and family by doing your own laundry the EDEN WAY in your own home.

Clothes wear longer The Eden

Clothes, blankets and linens wear out long before their time if they are scrubbed and rubbed by hand or slashed around in poorly designed machinery. Washed by an Eden, they are gently dipped up and down through hot suds in the same ideal way women use to wash a bit of lace or silk. Falling through the bubbling hot water and soap countless times, they are perfectly cleansed without hard labor, without rubbing or wear and tear, and at surprisingly low cost.

LO, THE POOR KINGS.

The prerogatives of kings are being curtailed these days. Little that is real has been left to these assumed leaders of governments. Even where they are not mere figure heads, ornamental heirlooms kept more for show of magnificence than for intrinsic worth, they are only endured as necessary evils in the absence of a proper spirit to change things.

But the king of England, limited though he has been in power and prerogative alike, has been rated among the exalted of the earth, looked up to as the embodiment of the governmental power in the world's greatest empire. Now democracy, unshackled by the war, rampaging up and down the earth seeking what tyrants it may devour, and respecting no royal personage, stops to snarl a bit, to show its teeth even at the inoffensive George V., king of England, emperor of India, etc.

A leading editorial in the London Daily Express last week, voiced a remarkable protest against the recurrence of the word "my" in the speech of the king to parliament. The paper objects to the king saying "my army," "my navy," "my people," "my possessions."

Truly democracy is in the saddle when a king may not use the personal pronoun even in the most politely fictional sense. The London Express knows that every Briton knows, that nobody takes George's personal pronouns seriously. But the archaism irritates, and the display even of the fiction of royal power is resented.

Pretty soon the king's my's and I's and we's of other hereditary monarchs will suffer the fate of foreign exchange; they will be quoted far lower than the editorial "we" of the editor of the London Express.

LESSON FROM FRANCE.

In an article in American Forestry Colonel Henry S. Graves, chief forester of the United States, tells of the great sacrifice made by France during the war in order to supply her own allies' unprecedented demand for wood. Before the war, he says, "the cutting was regulated that the annual cut and growth about balanced. There was a stable output that was sustained and was being increased year after year." In some regions today 30 years' production has been removed. Where formerly the policy was to cut only trees over 70 years old, now all those over 40 have been cleaned out. Even the state forests, where the cutting was more conservative, will require from 10 to 20 years to recover losses. This great damage to her fine forests was deliberately incurred by France in a time of great emergency and for patriotic reasons.

PRINCELY SELF-SACRIFICE.

"If the allied and associated governments want a victim," says the former crown prince, in his telegram to the heads of the allied powers, "yet them take me instead of the 900 Germans who have committed no offense other than that of serving their country in the war."

Thus Frederick Wilhelm, in what was meant to be a noble "gesture," emphasizes once more his silliness and cowardice.

Frederick Wilhelm himself is on that list of criminals. He is one of the "royal" and "noble" Germans wanted—for war crimes which, both in their greatness and in their pettiness, have no parallel in modern warfare. The prince's specialty, suited to his character, was the burglary of French chateaux, but he himself is guilty of more serious offenses than that. If he is inclined to surrender he might naturally be supposed to surrender in his own name, rather than in the name of his criminal associates. Instead, he remains in hiding in Holland, just as in most of his "fighting" he remained hiding underground.

His gratuitous characterization of the criminal crowd as "Germans, who have committed no offense other than that of serving their country in war" is a cheap insult to the allies which can be passed over with the contempt it deserves, and considered merely as a final revelation of the crown-prince's mentality. The four years' record of German atrocities is printed indelibly on the world's mind, and the allies have the documentary evidence.

The former prince says now that he took his resolution and sent out the telegram "without thinking long about it." That may well be. It is not evident that Friedrich Wilhelm ever thought much about anything.

UNIVERSAL TRAINING.

The public is as slow about making up its mind on some subjects as congress is. One of the issues now before congress and public is the formation of our military policy and universal or compulsory training is much discussed.

There are some persons who favor a strong policy and who would be glad to have compulsory military training adopted. There are also some who are afraid of any sort of compulsory training, however far removed from strictly militaristic practices. There seems to be a vast middle group which favors universal training primarily for the sake of the health and physical development of American youth and only secondarily for the purpose of military preparedness.

Draft statistics showed up a great many minor defects which could be prevented or remedied by the right kind of physical training undertaken early enough to prove of lasting benefit. In the past only a select few have been able to receive such training—the college athletes and the men who have made a hobby of physical training.

It has been argued that military training does not get hold of the men early enough to correct physical defects which are started in careless boyhood. Also strict military training takes under its direction only those who are already in pretty good condition and eliminates as disqualified those who most need the beneficial exercise and routine.

If the public is opposed to anything that savors of militarism, it surely need not be afraid of health. Surely some plan can be worked out which would guarantee healthful physical training for every youth in the land without running to an over-development of militarism.

FISH AND FIBS.

What is there about fishing that leads to fibbing? Here is a question that should command the serious attention of the scientific world.

No man, it seems, however blameless in reputation, veracious in family life or trusted in business word, has ever quite obtained complete belief when speaking of piscatorial achievement. What, indeed, of Jonah?

And now the cables carry the story that the child-like Igorots of Luzon, the queer mountain people who delight in raw dog, fish for bats. U. S. marines who surely may be trusted in such matters, report that this tribe habitually flies kites with hooked and baited tails at dusk, and that the bats of those parts bite viciously and so meet with disaster.

For something like 6000 years, according to a long-accepted chronology, the serpent has been blamed for all evil—has, indeed, been termed the Father of Lies. Is the accusation altogether just in the light of stories such as this?

Is there, perhaps, a deeper ethnological significance in the anecdote of him who asked for a fish and was given a serpent?

BRITONS HONOR GEO. WASHINGTON

Bryce, Burial and American Ambassador Davis Give Toasts

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Feb. 23.—Three hundred guests of lord mayor of London, today honored George Washington as "one of the heroes of the British race," and acclaimed love of justice, freedom of humanity and peace as common bonds uniting the two peoples.

The occasion was a luncheon commemorating Washington's birthday anniversary and marking the first of a series of functions in connection with the tercentennial of the Mayflower's sailing.

Viscount Bryce, former British ambassador to the United States, proposing the toast, "success to the tercentenary celebrations," said the occasion would be celebrated in America and Holland and he hoped it would be celebrated "no less heartily in England." He declared that the two nations must stand for their common ideals in peace as they have in war and declared that "the problems of peace are harder than those of war times."

Lord Burnham, in seconding this toast affirmed: "What we need is understanding, not only of the eye and mind, but above all, of the soul."

The Mayflower's manifest, he added, represented the greatest error of "civilized man's world power in the world's history." He declared "re-establishment of the old Washington home at Sulgrave manor would be erection of a temple to the future of mankind."

American Ambassador, John W. Davis, in responding, said there was no reason why Britons and Americans may not "again re-dedicate themselves to the perpetuation of the ideals for which Washington stood."

Of all the mad, misguided men in the world today, declared the ambassador, he is most mad and misguided who would cast the apple of discord between two English speaking nations.

Lord Reading, proposed "the memory of Washington and the friendship of the British and American peoples."

He characterized Washington as "the man who defeated one of the best men we ever produced."

MARSHALL MAKES ATTACK ON CLARK INTOLERANCE

By the Associated Press.
NEW HAVEN Conn., Feb. 23.—Associations and individuals seeking to enlist the government in aid of their activities, were warned tonight by Vice President Marshall, speaking before the chamber of commerce, that they should take care not to catch prejudices which would create grievances.

Discussing intolerance, Mr. Marshall declared:

"One of the manifestations of paranoia is a fixed opinion that the victim is right and that everybody else is wrong with him, is his personal enemy. Paranoia may be caused by shell shock. Have the thunderings of the cannon in Europe reverberated across the Atlantic and caused many men in America to suffer shell shock and paranoia? Where are the good old-fashioned citizens who used to think men could disagree totally and yet be patriotic?"

DENIES WHOLESALE WASTE IN NITRATES

Representatives of Building Corporation Aver Conditions Proper At Muscle Shoals.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.—Charges of wholesale waste in construction of the Muscle Shoals nitrate plant were denied today by representatives of the Air Nitrates Corporation, the builders before the house expenditure committee.

J. L. Andrews of Sheffield, counsel for the corporation, a subsidiary of the American Cyanamid company, declared there had been no reckless waste or extravagance, that the plant was built on a budget of $20,000,000 while most of the labor was inefficient, the corporation had made every effort to expedite construction without unnecessary tax on the government. "Cost of material, labor and freight was much heavier than the contractors had estimated on," he said, "and this in the total about nine million dollars above estimates. He denied charges of brutality by police and company guards."

Mr. Andrews declared that the corporation lost money, explaining that the company received $1,500,000 from the government for its work, but that much of the expenses of the corporation had not been paid and that after deducting for tax payments, the net result would be a deficit.

The plant, estimated to cost $30,000,000, he said, actually cost $40,000,000. It being explained this increase was due to the advancing cost of labor and materials amounting to approximately $5,000,000 and additions, not included in estimates totaling more than $20,000,000.

(Other officers of the corporation and J. H. Murphy, a former investigator of the department of justice, denied that waste, extravagance and graft had marked this work. E. V. O'Daniel, treasurer of the corporation, denied the government had paid $500 for a portrait of Frank Washburn, president of the corporation.

Mr. O'Daniel also submitted figures showing that the cost of accounting work had been about $200,000, instead of $1,500,000 as had been reported to the committee, and the cost of community work was $2,500,000 instead of more than $4,000,000.

A daily health column conducted by the United States Public Health Service BY DIRECTION OF RUPERT BLUE Surgeon-General U. S. Public Health Service

Somewhere about the end of the sixth month, if the boy has been thriving normally, the first teeth, usually the lower front ones, that were lodged in baby's little jaws when it was born, will appear, and these will be followed at more or less intervals by the upper incisors, then the "back teeth" and, lastly, usually by the canines, or as they are popularly called, the "stomach" and "eye".

The following list shows about the time when these teeth should break through the gums:

Two lower front teeth, at 5 to 7 months.

Two upper front teeth, at 6 to 8 months.

Two more lower front teeth, at 7 to 9 months.

Two more upper front teeth, 8 to 10 months.

Four back (molar) teeth, one on each side of each jaw, 10 to 14 months.

Four more molar teeth back of the others, at about two years.

Four canines (eye and stomach teeth) at 2 to 2 1/2 years.

Time for Permanent Teeth.

Four first molars, one on each side of each jaw, 1 to 7 years.

Two lower front teeth, 5 to 7 years.

Two upper front teeth, 6 to 8 years.

Two more upper front teeth, and two more lower front teeth, 6 to 8 years.

Four bicuspids, two upper and two lower, 8 to 10 years.

Two "eyes" and two "stomach" teeth, 9 to 12 years.

Two upper and two lower second molars, 12 to 14 years.

Two upper and lower third molars, 17 to 25 years.

COMMERCIAL PLANE NAVIGATION REALITY

of War Shows Many Ships On Market Which Are Purchased by Private Interests.

NEW YORK—Commercial aerial navigation became a reality in the United States during the past year. The sudden cessation of hostilities at the close of 1918 threw hundreds of planes into the market and many of these were purchased by private companies and remodeled for commercial use. The airplane manufacturers of those months have been devoted exclusively to the making of war machines, also turned their attention to the commercial possibilities of aircraft and have perfected several standard commercial types. It is estimated that there are more than 2,000 privately owned aircraft in the United States.

Five regular passenger routes were established; the transatlantic service, inaugurated May 15, 1919, between New York and Washington as an experiment, was extended to Cleveland and Chicago and put on a definite basis; and scores of private firms purchased aircraft utilized them for the delivery of merchandise and newspapers and for conducting aerial forest surveys and patrols.

Still greater strides were made in Europe and Australia where there are few thickly populated centers that do not boast of regular aerial commercial traffic either by airplane or dirigible, or both. The delay in the development of aeronautics in this country was attributed by the Manufacturers Aircraft Association today to "the failure of the United States government to establish landing fields, enact regulatory legislation and adopt any fixed policy."

Inspired by aircraft manufacturers, chambers of commerce in at least 50 cities have undertaken to provide municipal landing fields for aircraft built on specified times as plotted by city planners and officials of the army air service, which has assumed official supervision over the project, pending the adoption of official regulatory legislation.

Regular passenger routes already established in this country are between New York and Atlantic City, Mobile and New Orleans, Key West-Havana, San Francisco and Los Angeles and Los Angeles and San Diego, lack of adequate terminal facilities is considered one of the principal handicaps to aerial commercial traffic development. If aerial transportation is to become universal, aircraft manufacturers point out that there must be established adequate airbases with definite marked landing and take-off, convenient to business centers and with facilities for housing the aircraft and their machines and providing them with fuel and repairs. At the height of 5,000 feet, considered the minimum at which commercial planes of the future will travel, landing and take-off, it is not forth that airplane, the motor of which has been stalled, could violate or glide a distance of four to five miles in a horizontal direction.

In addition to the regular routes a company at Seattle has started an international air mail, operating between that city and Vancouver, B. C. Several lumber companies in the northwest are using the airplane for forest patrols and surveys. A Newark, N. J., department store delivered merchandise by airplane to customers in Asbury Park last summer while a large Chicago clothing house made a specialty of delivering clothes to college students within a 100-mile radius of that city. A Canadian aviator carried 400 pounds of furs from Toronto to Newark, N. J., stopping at Clayton, N. Y., to pay customers duties on them. The navy conducted experiments in guiding fishing craft by airplane at Gloucester, while the army conducted a coast airplane patrol between New York and Newport News, Va.

One of the strangest uses for which the airplane is being considered is the spreading of the gospel in the Congo state of Africa. A large American manufacturer received a request for prices from the Congo mission of the Church of the Disciples of Christ, which proposed to replace steep launches with flying boats. The plan has not yet been carried into effect. Airplanes and spare parts, valued at several hundred thousand dollars, were recently sold by American manufacturers to French interests, who are planning airplane commercial routes in the Orient. Delivery of the material has begun.

In Europe three English companies maintain regular passenger and parcel post service between London and Paris and London and Brussels. On one of the trips a grand plan was carried from a London store to its customer in France by airplane. In accordance with British aircraft regulations adopted last April, pilots of these commercial craft are examined, physically and technically, and licensed by the government, landing fields and prominent points along the routes are distinctly marked, standard signals are used and regular airplanes are followed.

Two French companies carry passengers on sightseeing tours over the battle lines and there is a regular service between Paris and Brussels and some of the large French cities. Merchandise carried on the first Paris to Brussels trip included 200 pounds of lobsters. Regular mail service between Paris and Geneva was established last May when a Swiss aviator made the trip of 250 miles in 1 1/2 hours, including 20 minutes spent on French soil as a result of a forced landing in the fog. London, Manchester, Paris and Berlin newspapers are successfully employing airplanes in the delivery of their publications. Zepplines as well as airplanes have been used extensively for commercial purposes in Germany. Although little is known of German aviation development during the past few months, it is reported that several long air routes, including one from Berlin to London via Paris or Brussels and another from Berlin to Constantinople, via Vienna, will be put into operation during the coming year.

Commercial aerial service has been put into operation between Johannesburg and Cape Town, South Africa, and a transatlantic route from Sydney to Port Darwin on the north coast, a distance of 2,500 miles, with stopping points every 200 or 400 miles. Experimental commercial aerial journeys of more than 1,000 miles, also have been made from "Calcutta to other points of India and regular routes now under consideration.

A British company was organized last June with a capital of many millions of dollars for the establishment of airship lines between Australia and the east. Airships of 3,000,000 cubic feet capacity, nearly twice as large as the British dirigible R-34, the first lighter than air craft to cross the Atlantic, are contemplated. These airships would be able to carry 15 tons of passengers and freight and have a cruising radius of 4,000 miles at a speed of 60 miles an hour.

A route from London to New York will be the first to be put into operation. If the company's plans are carried out, Lord Northcliffe recently predicted that the time was not far distant when London morning papers delivered by airplane would be sold in New York on the same evening, allowing for the difference in time.

TUBERCULOSIS PATIENTS CURED

Lives of War Veterans Saved While Men Are Taught Trade Or Profession.

WASHINGTON—Time was when one learned that he had tuberculosis, better known to some as consumption, he made his will, arranged for his lot in the cemetery, and selected his favorite undertaker.

But the federal board for vocational education, in charge of the rehabilitation of war veterans, announces the disease can be cured and that the board will save 55,000 ex-service men suffering from the disease.

These 55,000 patients were taken into the army, navy and marine corps apparently sound, although some were not. The work of perfecting a cure and rehabilitating the men for work that they can stand up under requires from four to five years.

"The board is undertaking the most important piece of work ever attempted in the battle with the great white plague," declares Surgeon John W. Turner, United States public health service reserves. "The board is not only aiding the public health service and the private sanitariums in their efforts to heal, but it is preparing the patients during the cure so that they may earn a better living than they did before, and stay well while they are doing it. In a word, the board is combining vocational training with treatment and is completing the cure of the tuberculosis veteran in an ideal and practical way."

To rehabilitate these tuberculosis is going to cost the government about $500,000,000. While taking treatment and until they are completely cured and are capable of standing alone their expense from $80 to $150 a month, according to the number of dependents they have. The average has been estimated at $125 a month. They are in government and private sanitariums.

SAYS PURCHASE OF W. S. S. WILL EXCEED LAST YEAR

By the Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 23.—Government savings directors of nine federal reserve districts meeting today predicted popular purchases of government savings securities this year would exceed last year's figures.

The conference was called by William Mather Lewis, director of the savings division of the treasury department, to plan for the permanent continuance of the treasury savings department pursuant to the decision of the treasury department of the sale of treasury savings certificates, or savings stamps or thrift stamps will be continued. It was announced that the general scheme decided upon was as follows:

Observation of March 16 as a thrift stamp week in all schools.

Emphasizing the need of the universal adoption of the slogan "produce more—spend less—save more."

Procurement of sale of government securities through banks and post-offices.

STOP LOSS OF IRRIGATION WATER—

Use American Quality Wood Pipe.

If irrigation water is wasted, burned-up crops will result when the hot, dry weather sets in. Much of the annual waste of water is due to evaporation and seepage from open ditches and flumes.

When wood pipe is used, waste is reduced to the minimum because the flow of water through the pipes prevents evaporation and seepage is almost impossible. Pipe does not take up so much space as ditches and flumes and more land can be devoted to cultivation.

Wood pipe is less expensive and more durable than iron pipe. It does not rust, the interior surface will not become rough with age and it offers less resistance to the flow of water.

Our American Quality-wood pipe is ideal for irrigation purposes. It is made of best grade Washington yellow fir, has high tensile strength and because the wood is hard it prevents compression of the steel bands into the staves.

Ask the manager of any Boise Payette yard about American quality wood pipe. He will be glad to give you full information and will assure you prompt service.

Having described an intimate relationship that exists between you and ourselves, even though most of us have never met you personally, we are able to say something that a perfect stranger could not. We want you to feel that through George in his work with us you are provided with friends in us who share your grief and who desire to lessen your grief by rendering some service to you.

We, therefore, individually and collectively as subscribers to and on-behalf of these thoughts, offer you any service we can give you in any way we may feel is helpful and cheer. You may call upon us for anything that is within our power to give in assistance to you in the conduct or arrangement of your affairs and you will be doing us a favor by making known the desire. You can reach us either direct or by telling either of the two good men who represent George's interests here.

Your grief now can only be realized by our Heavenly Father and yourself. We feel powerless to lessen it. We can assure you that He is patient with you at all times and will be always ready to guide your life into quieter waters when you call for His help.

We also know full well many of us by experience that when you have been guided into these quieter waters by His great love, you are greatly comforted by hearing of another less fortunate than yourself to whom you can extend a helping hand. Unselfish services for others is the only real cure for a broken or burdened heart.

Do not be hasty to apply this cure. Wait until you are in a quiet state of mind. Take plenty of time for the adjustment that you will have to experience but feel sure that who have many friends who are anxious to serve you and get you to intrude on your sorrow.

If we have added in the least to your sorrow by our words, forgive us and remember that you have a claim on us because of our obligation to George and you are at liberty to call us to your assistance in any way we can serve you. George was our model, and our standard in most of our business plans and our sympathy for you and yours is deep and sincere.

COUNCIL DECIDES TO RAISE WATER RATES

Increase 25 Per Cent—Ment Ordinance Prepared for Passage Next Week.

City council, on recommendation of the city water department, last night decided to increase the present flat rate for water users in the city 25 per cent over the present price. The necessary changes to be made in the ordinance will be handled by the city attorney and the water works officials. It addition to these provisions, council decided to give the water department the power to purchase and install wherever advisable new water mains in advance of the paving.

During council session the new ordinance was read and a few revisions made after which it was accepted and left for the next meeting when the entire ordinance will be gone over and prepared for publication.

During the session a very good debate had been held, and several embarrassing questions to be asked in regard to the mill and other inspections, and council advised that the matter of adjustment is being left to those who had been the work of engineering by Dr. W. A. Patton, Judge Davis and Mr. Murray.

After a substantial discussion by the members of council and the city attorney, a resolution was favored for assessing the city, S. L. R. AMERICA WILL NOT HAVE ANOTHER SEVERE FLU EPIDEMIC. By The Associated Press. CHICAGO, Feb. 23.—That America will not experience another influenza epidemic that will take as heavy a toll as in 1918-1919, was the opinion of many physicians who gathered here today for the meeting of the American congress of international medicine.

The fight against the disease was won not alone by medical science, they said, but through co-operation of the public.

Reports on the progress made by medical science in treating influenza and data on the isolation of the influenza germ will be presented during the six day session of the body.

The congress is revealing the co-operation of more than 60 leading universities and medical colleges, including thirty state universities, the United States navy and the United States public health and marine hospital service.

PAY TRIBUTE TO DEAD OF LATE WAR

Fitting Ceremony Is Held at the High School Under Auspices of the American Legion.

Solemn tribute to the memory of those who were killed or died in service during the great war was made Sunday at exercise at the high school under auspices of the American Legion.

It was a simple yet fitting ceremony that had been prepared by the committee in charge. Members of the legion gathered at the high school shortly after 2 o'clock. Shortly before three o'clock the legion was forming in a column of twos, marched to the high school building, headed by the American flag and the legion colors. Marching into the high school the service men saluted the Stars and Stripes by taking their hats off as they passed by.

A fitting program was rendered. Rev. Item S. Keyzer, pastor of the Catholic church, pronounced the invocation after the orchestra had rendered a number. The audience then joined in the singing of American songs. Taps were played while those present stood facing the east.

Musical numbers were rendered by Mrs. Lydia Boyd Keogh, Milton Pack and the American Legion quartet. In fitting words, W. A. Moore, pastor of the Christian church, made the address of the occasion. After reciting details of the causes of the war, of some of the hardships and the brutalities of the Hun, Mr. Moore declared that those who had not returned had given their lives in a wonderful cause. He then paid tribute to the young men who did return, declaring that it was these young men who would solve the problems of today.

Because of another statement Dan Chamberlain of the Episcopal church could not remain to pronounce the benediction and Rev. Keyzer took his place.

W. A. MOORE RECEIVES OFFER OF PASTORATE IN OREGON. W. A. Moore, pastor of the Christian church of Twin Falls, yesterday received an offer of the pastorate of the church at Milton, Oregon. Both the church and Sunday school are larger than Twin Falls, although the town has a population of only 4500 people. Mr. Moore has not yet decided whether or not he will accept the place.

BURGESS TO BE BURIED IN HAZELTON ON WEDNESDAY. Word was telephoned to the Chronicle last evening by members of the Hazelton post of the American Legion that funeral services for the late W. M. Burgess, who passed away here last week, will be held Wednesday. The services will be held at 2 o'clock from the Presbyterian church. They will be under the auspices of the American Legion.
