

PALMER WILL RUN FOR THE PRESIDENCY

Attorney General Makes Formal Announcement of His Candidacy.

GEORGIA DEMOCRATS TOLD OF HIS PLANS

Pennsylvanian's Stand Believed to Mean Starting of Fireworks in Democratic Ranks.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 2.—Attorney General Palmer tonight formally announced his candidacy for the democratic nomination for president in a telegram to Hiram L. Gardner, secretary of the Georgia state democratic committee.

Appreciates Honor.
Referring to the petition filed in his behalf for the Georgia primary, Mr. Palmer declared "if the democratic nomination for president is to be given to me, I shall receive the honor with deep appreciation." Holding it to be highly important that an opportunity be given in the primary to "directly pass upon the record made by the present administration."

The telegram from Mr. Palmer said:

"I understand that my friends have entered my name in the presidential primaries. If the democratic nomination for president is to be given to me, I shall receive the honor with deep appreciation. I deem it highly important that an opportunity be given in the primary to 'directly pass upon the record made by the present administration.'"

Attorney General Palmer is the first democrat to place his candidacy for the democratic nomination before Georgia voters.

The presidential primary will be held April 10, and 16 date the names of five electors have been offered in the primary. They are Champ Clark, Governor Edwards, of New Jersey; Herbert Hoover, Robert Lansing; and W. O. McGee.

OPEN THE CAMPAIGN

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The presidential campaign from the democratic standpoint was opened tonight in the opinion of political leaders through acceptance by Attorney General Palmer of a place on the Georgia state primary ballot. The republican campaign has been on for several weeks but the announcement by Mr. Palmer in a telegram to the secretary of the Georgia democratic state committee, the he would be a candidate was the first made by any mentioned of possible choices of the national convention.

Democratic aspirants have held back formal announcements awaiting a declaration by President Wilson and the open candidacy of the attorney general, who is close to Mr. Wilson, was accepted in some quarters as indicating that the president would not enter a third campaign.

With Mr. Palmer's "hat in the ring" politicians here look for formal announcements to come quickly.

SEES POLITICAL CHANGE

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 1.—Signs of a political change in the south and breaking up of democratic control in Texas, Louisiana and other southern states are visible, Senator W. G. Harding of Ohio, republican presidential candidate declared in an address tonight.

"It is gratifying," he said, "to feel a full fellowship in a great political party which has left such an impression of helpfulness that all of the United States are turning to the republicans for restoration."

SAYS LEAGUE BIG ISSUE

ABERDEEN, S. D., March 1.—Senator Hiram W. Johnson of California, opening his campaign in South Dakota for the republican nomination tonight, declared that the biggest issue today is the league of nations and "whether or not what politicians say, the issue will be with the people until they decide it."

GOVERNMENT WINDS UP ITS RAILROAD BUSINESS

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Transfer today of the railroads from government to private control, marked the beginning of great activity at the interstate commerce commission and the closing up of affairs of the railroad administration. Road officials were notified by the commission of its increased jurisdiction under the new railroad law. Director General Elmer confirmed negotiations on 14 compensation contracts by which roads involved were paid the annual rental due for the 26 months of federal operation. Settlement of claims was begun.

The question of operation of the Cape Cod state roads had not been decided tonight. Mr. Hines has no further authority to manage the canal and the secretary of war and owners of the waterway have failed to agree as to the value for government purchase. Department of justice officials who conducted the condemnation proceedings were without authority to proceed further, having carried the case to a jury award, which like the canal owners' proposition, was said not to be acceptable to the war department.

Railroad labor, through its representatives attempted to agree on its next course, as a result of the president's advice that they await the handling of their demands for increased pay by machinery created in the transportation act. It was understood leaders would soon make public their plans.

GIVES STATES RIGHT TO LEVY INCOME TAX

Supreme Court Holds Oklahoma Law Is Valid—New York's Must Be Changed.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Flight of the scales to impose income taxes on non-residents provided they are in harmony with this imposed on residents, was upheld and defined today by the supreme court in two decisions. In a case from Oklahoma, the court held a state had authority to levy income taxes against non-residents on income derived from property within its state.

In a New York case however, the court declared such taxes against non-residents must not be discriminatory. The Oklahoma income tax law was sustained and the New York law was declared void insofar as it denies non-residents exemptions which are given New York citizens. Both opinions were given by justice Pitney, with justice McReynolds dissenting to the New York case. In both suits were involved the exemption, similar to the federal income tax law, provided for married couples living together.

Distinction between the Oklahoma and New York laws, it appears, was that the Oklahoma law gives non-residents and citizens the same exemptions while the New York law denies non-residents exemption granted to its citizens.

In the Oklahoma proceedings, C. B. Shaffer, of Chicago, sued the state auditor to enjoin collections of income taxes levied on income derived from Oklahoma oil wells. In the other case, Comptroller Travis of New York was enjoined by the Yale and Yawco Manufacturing company, having a plant in Connecticut, from collecting income taxes from its employees without giving them exemptions given New York citizens under the New York law.

Recalling that thousands of Connecticut and New Jersey citizens work in New York in competition with New Yorkers and yet the non-residents were called upon under the New York law to pay taxes on exemptions from which New York residents are free, justice Pitney declared the law to be manifestly unfair.

The exemption from New York which that the adjacent states might levy counter discriminations against New York citizens was disallowed by the court with the declaration that "discrimination cannot be cured by retaliation."

An injunction was granted by the court against the New York comptroller, enjoining enforcement of the New York law as against those denied New York exemptions.

OAKLAND, March 1.—Miss Anita Whitney, social worker, convicted of criminal syndicalism, who was sentenced to one to fourteen years, was admitted to bail today in the sum of $10,000, following the report of three physicians to the effect, that "Miss Whitney's health would be impaired by her continued incarceration in the county jail."

FEDERATION PLANS TO FIGHT A. F. OF L.

Commercial Organization to Enter Political Campaign—National-Industrial Organization.

By the Associated Press.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 1.—The commercial federation of America was organized today by representative business men of the middle western states to fight radicalism.

H. M. Hildebrand, of Los Angeles was chosen permanent chairman. He announced a meeting would be held in New York shortly to nationalize the organization.

Speakers asserted the organization must work in the political campaign to prevent such organizations as the American Federation of Labor, the Non-Partisan League, the People's League and the committee of 48 from gaining control of congress.

S. H. Halstead of Pasadena, in an address, assailed organized labor.

"You can play with organized labor," he declared, "but if you do so you must give everything and expect nothing. The American Federation of Labor today is the most dangerous force in American politics. We want this organization to become large enough and strong enough to combat the American Federation of Labor."

Charges that the faculties of many American colleges were "filled with radicals" were made by Mr. Halstead.

"It is imperative," he asserted, "that we launch an active campaign to eradicate from the schools and colleges professors and teachers who are advocating dangerous theories of radicalism. These men are a menace to our country."

The conference ends tomorrow.

TREATY TO BE FORCED INTO THE CAMPAIGN

Senate Leaders Decide to Abandon Efforts to Reach a Compromise.

ACCEDE TO WISHES OF IRRECONCILABLES

Coup Similar to that that Disrupted Bi-Partisan Conference Is Successful.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Convinced that for the present their labors to break the peace treaty are a waste of time, senate leaders moved today to get the treaty out of the way of pressing legislation and to let issues raised by the ratification fight go into the political campaign.

To Drop Compromise.

Under the plan, compromise negotiations on the reservation to article 10 are to be dropped, evidence of the republican reservation program of the last session is to be completed as a formality, and then a final vote is to put the treaty into the campaign.

Some senators predicted tonight a final vote, which it is conceded will record another failure to ratify, would come within three days. Among most leaders, however, the prediction was that the amputating debate would take at least most of the week to burn itself out.

Accede to Irreconcilables.

The decision to ratify was reached when republican leaders, convinced that the democrats would block ratification unless the article ten reservation were modified, determined to insist that the reservation go into the ratification reservation without change. In this reaffirmation they acceded to a demand by republican irreconcilables, who had intimated that they might adopt methods of their own to wreck the republican program.

The coup of the irreconcilables in

EXPORT REPORTS MADE ON NEWBERRY BOOKS

By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, APRIL 18, March 1.—Export testimony on the books and report of Frank Blair, treasurer of the Newberry senatorial campaign committee, occupied much of today's session of the Newberry trial, and as a consequence the government case was not completed.

Tonight, however, F. R. Dalley, assistant attorney general, again said he was within a day of ending the case.

Through Wesley Bennett, department of justice accountant, most of today's evidence was introduced. After pointing out discrepancies between books kept by the Newberry committee and the report filed with the state, Bennett read a communication based on prosecution testimony showing more than $54,000 additional payments he said could not be found in the report. He said of this amount there was a possibility of such items as rent and similar subjects might contain about $15,000 of the purported excess. During cross-examination Bennett stood by his original figuring and explained that the defense was asking him to take certain items out of specific classifications and apply them to the $54,000 without offering anything to stop gaps created by this method of figuring.

FRENCH R. R. STRIKE IS BROUGHT TO END

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, March 1.—The strike on the French railroads ended tonight. The executive committee of the general federation of labor issued a statement that the federation of railroads men had advised the committee it had obtained satisfaction for all claims. The committee which had already taken steps to co-operate with railroaders, the statement added, took note of the situation thus arising.

Further Time with his proverbial acythe reviewed the procession of children which represented the months as follows:

Arthur Siffer as January appeared reading many good resolutions; Virginia Carlson as February carried a birthday cake celebrating the anniversary; Frank Penney came in "Like a lion and went out like a lamb"; Betty Lou Weaver was the dancing April sunshine; Esther Jensen brought forth May flowers; Virginia Duvall represented June, the month of roses; Robert McClure as July brought Independence; Francis White, carrying a sheaf of wheat, represented August; Earl Dooley as September brought baskets of fruit as offerings to Father Time; Mary Jane Heinicke, decorated in autumn leaves, was October; Marian Hobbs and Wallace Cooper, dressed as Puritans, represented November, bringing memories of the first Thanksgiving; while Loren Irving as December carried a Christmas tree.

Much can be said of the toast given. Mrs. Arthur Sever as toastmistress, was introduced by Mrs. H. J. Young, and the following list of toasts were responded to: "Our Birthdays," Mrs. C. H. Robinson; "Cherries," Mrs. J. D. Barnhart; "Mantles of the Heroes of '76," Mrs. W. S. Hill; "Cockpit Hate," Mrs. C. H. Kringle; "The Presidents," Mrs. A. E. Siffer, and "Inticheta," Mrs. I. E. SWEDISH EXPLORER TO STUDY INDIANS

Dr. Bolander Will Be Accompanied
On Trip by Intrepid Wife.

STOCKHOLM.—Dr. Gustaf Bolander, Swedish explorer, who some years ago made a notable journey of exploration to Colombia and Venezuela, will start again shortly for those countries to study the Indian tribes in their northern territories. As before, Dr. Bolander will be accompanied by his intrepid wife.

During the last trip they lived for a year with the Indians on the Sierra Nevada de Santa Marta. Later he prepared facts said to prove that these Indians were closely related to the Incas.

Dr. Bolander told a correspondent of The Associated Press that the new tour of exploration would be directed mainly toward a study of the tribes between the Magdalena River and Lake Maracibo. These parts of the world, he said, were wealthy and had a big population when the Spaniards first crossed over. The conquerors, however, soon laid waste to the country, and the Indians now are found only in the isolated mountains and the jungles. There are as yet large unknown territories, especially on the frontier between Colombia and Venezuela.

"The Indian tribes living here are of great interest and among them I expect to find traces of an old mountain culture," said Dr. Bolander. "From the mountains here where the folk of culture lived, the enlightenment of the so-called gold-age was widely spread. The tribes were in possession of so much gold when discovered that the Spaniards they will have exchanged the precious metals for objects of copper and iron."

DECLARE WAR ON THE PREVAILING DRESS MODELS

RIO JANEIRO, Feb. 28.—A campaign against prevailing modes in feminine attire in large cities of Brazil has been inaugurated by the Catholic clergy.

One bishop recently advised his clergy to deny communion to those who presented themselves unsuitably attired, while an archbishop, in a pastoral letter, made the exaggeration of fashioning the subject of a pastoral letter.

Monsignor Nixiana, S. J., the vicar general, declared there was an excess of nudity in feminine garments, profoundly dangerous to morals. The hint of the climate, he said, was made the pretext for lamentable excesses.

TO MAKE EFFORTS TO EXPLORE CLIFF CITIES

BALT LAKE CITY.—Efforts to reach and explore ruins of ancient cliff cities, known to exist in Zion canyon, Utah's newly created national park, in the southwestern part of the state, will be made during the coming summer by a party of archeologists, several of whom are attached to the University of Utah here. The cliff cities never have been visited because of their inaccessible locations on the high bluffs. It is hoped, however, that the difficulty will be overcome by the lowering of the explorers from the tops of the cliffs by ropes. Long range photographs taken show that the cities are large and their adobe houses are clearly outlined and appear to be in perfect preservation.

SECRET OF SMOKE SCREEN DISCLOSED BY BRITISH NAVY

LONDON.—The secret of the smoke screens used with such great success by the British navy in the raids on Ostend and Zeebrugge is definitely disclosed. They were produced from an acid, which has to be burned in the presence of a sufficient amount of water vapor, otherwise the smoke produced, over the sea, is liable to be somewhat thin on a dry day. Commander Brock, who sacrificed his life in the assault on the German defense at the Belgian port devised the plan to feed the acid in a fine spray into the funnel of a destroyer, where the temperature was sufficient to vaporize the acid, and the water vapor present completed the formation of the cloud.

HOUSE REFUSE MILLION DOLLARS TO FIGHT WETS

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The house unanimously refused to appropriate one million dollars for use until July 1 in attempting to prevent the smuggling of liquor over the Canadian and Mexican borders. Provision for the appropriation had been inserted in the general deficiency bill by the senate.

Chairman Good, of the appropriations committee, said the expenditure would be useless.

Representative Cannon, republican, Illinois, declared that "nothing short of arming the navy and the coast guards" could stop the smuggling of liquor into this country so long as there was a demand for it.

MANILA, P. I.—The Philippines sent 25,514,387 cigars to the United States last year, 2,719,158 less than the year before. Technically the vessel will be named in honor of the town of Cody, Wyoming, which was named in honor of Buffalo Bill. Representative Mondell, republican, Wyoming, persuaded the board to choose that name.

Collars do unexpected things. Long, slender collars roll; slim lay-over collars announce a note of feminine daintiness. There is a little Medici collar and a small collarless effect. Dreams of an elegant small boy rise about the Lord Byron or Peter Pan collar, primly set upon a little tailored suit.

Sleeves also present surprises. Some fit snug and close, some follow tailored lines while others bell, in a fascinating way, at the wrist. A three-quarters length sleeve puts in an appearance, jauntily, with the Eton jacket of short box model.

By way of trimming for the suit the belt stands forth, first as a standard of trim efficiency. Belts come in dozens of new striking forms, oddly cut, oddly arranged and oddly fastened. Then there are belts of leather and belts of metal, Russian and Moroccan in origin, bringing with them a breath of the old world, or, once more, of the exotic strangeness that is in our midst.

For further trimming the dressier suits resort to all manner of rich devices—braids, stitchery, fringe, pipings, cordings, plaits, tucks, buttons, buckles and silk embroideries. Metallic threads appear, too, in the embroideries and manage to play a stellar role effectively.

JUDGE LINDSEY—AND OTHERS.

In Denver there grew the work of a great man. His works were written not on the pages of the statutes of the commonwealth wherein he labored, but in the hearts of a grateful people. He reclaimed children from vice. He won them from the streets. He taught them the virtues of good citizenship. He won their friendship, and held it. In their troubles they went to him, sought the great man who builded juvenile Courts in America. They knew he would guard and observe their confidences. And many a man now lives a man and upright life, and many a woman lives happily with her children because of the work of Judge Lindsey.
Judge Lindsey did not make public the bribes told him by the trembling lips of the youthful sinners. He knew that such publicity would tear away the hope he cherished, and clothe the erring in the tatters of contempt. He wanted to save the youth lives of usefulness. He succeeded.
No abuse here; No exposure of horrible examples. Love came from confidence served.
Bellicose verbosity never saved a sinner.

DIPLOMATIC DRYNESS.

It appears that even the foreign embassies and legations at Washington are to be oases in the great American desert. It was expected that those sacred places would not be affected by prohibition. They are naturally exempt from the prohibition law, since they are constructively foreign territory, and diplomatic representatives are privileged to bring in what they like from abroad. Foreign diplomats, moreover, and generally associated so closely with the more curious sorts of alcoholic beverages that it might suppose it impossible to practice the art of diplomacy without their aid.
It is astonishing, then, to learn that the pro-said aids are being given up voluntarily. The foreign representatives have sided, with apparent unanimity, that they will conform to the letter of the national prohibition amendment, refraining from importing wines and liquors under cover of their diplomatic immunity.
Their reasons are not altogether idealistic. One contributing factor is said to have been the pressure put upon them by Americans to import liquor for the benefit of the latter. This has got to be a nuisance in some cases. Moreover, the act of serving liquor at the embassies and legations is much increased since there remain so few places in Washington where Americans may relieve their thirst.
Self-defense alone, however, would fully account for such self-deprivation on the part of Washington's diplomatic population.
DAY-DREAMING LABOR.
Europe is poor, so poor that it is taken as a matter of course that the United States for the present at least will not demand payment of the interest due on the money lent during the war. The interest is being added to the principal, to draw more interest.
As Congressman Rainey of Illinois pointed out to a Connecticut audience the other evening, Europe has one valuable asset. The countries over there still have an abundance of labor, both skilled and unskilled. But, as the congressman says,

"most of it is following the leadership of demagogues and dreaming of the overthrow of all government and the distribution of wealth."
It seems to be true, lamentably true, that the rank and file of labor, not only in European countries, but right here in America as well, seems to have no conception of the basis of wealth. The worker does not seem to realize that labor is the foundation stone of capital, that without labor there can be no capital, that without labor nothing can be produced. The average worker is woefully ignorant of, and refuses to become interested in, the delicate mechanism of the whole body of our civilization.
If there be no labor, there will be no goods, and the world will starve. A starving world will soon lose its hold on civilization.
It is only by dint of constant labor that we can hold fast that which the labor of others has provided for us.
STOP BELSHAZZARING.
Old King Belshazzar sat around reveling in luxury and eating high-priced food, and refused to be convinced by the handwriting on the wall. The result is famous in history.
Right now there are a good many honest American citizens in very much the same situation. The men who have their fingers upon the pulse of business and finance have issued warning after warning that hard times are coming, but the people are too drunk with war profits and high wages to see what is written upon the wall of the future, and continue their orgy of spending, regardless.
Everybody hates the pessimist, everybody hates the killjoy who warns of the wrath to come; but there is one thing that everybody hates worse, and that is to be up against hard times with no balance in the bank.
Hard times means the shutting down of industries, the curtailment of business, the releasing of employees, the lowering of wages. Everybody knows this, but how many people are getting ready to face such a condition?
The best thing about facing the condition and preparing for it is that these are the very best measures for forestalling it. They are not the pessimists, after all, who warn of coming financial stringency, who preach thrift and economy and saving. Heeded, they are the advance agents of prosperity; disregarded, their warnings may prove in realization as unpleasant and fearful as they sound. Better stop Belshazzaring while yet there is time.
RELEASING USELESS EMPLOYEES.
The new secretary of agriculture, Edwin T. Meredith, made this statement shortly after assuming office:
"Business men must look to the operation of their establishments, no matter in what line they may be engaged, and see that no useless employee is retained to add to the cost of distributing what the farmer produces. Useless employees must be released from nonproductive work that they may go into productive work and add to the sum total that may be distributed among all."
Well, the secretary of agriculture is a business man, of reputed ability and success. Therefore, he should take his own advice. Let reform, like charity, begin at home. If the department of agriculture is anything like the other departments at Washington, Mr. Meredith will soon discover there are all around him "useless employees" who "must be released from nonproductive work that they may go into productive work and add to the sum total that may be distributed among all." Why not go ahead and set a good example? Let us see an example, E. T.
—Maybe congress would be willing to vote for universal political training. An then, again, maybe not. It would provide too much competition.

ROMANCE STARTED BY WAR HAS A HAPPY ENDING
ROSE LAKE, Idaho.—A war period romance culminated December 11, 1919, when Ralph Englebreton, prominent in the musical circles of Rose Lake, was married to Miss Edna Le Dinzel of St. Briens, Old Brittany, France, the ceremony taking place in Paris. Mr. Englebreton met Miss Le Dinzel while a member of the "twentieth engineers" A. E. F. in France. He was discharged from the service in November, 1918, and after a brief trip to Rose Lake, returned his steps to France to claim his bride. On December 24 they embarked on a long honeymoon, which included a visit to Mr. Englebreton's parents in his native country at Christland, Norway, and later a visit to his sister at Copenhagen, Denmark, then a brief tour of England and westward over the Atlantic. During all their sea voyages on both the Baltic and the Atlantic ocean they encountered terrific storms, reported to be the worst in many years. The voyage across was most dangerous and rough. The young couple are now established in their home at Rose Lake, having arrived a few days ago. Mr. Englebreton is employed by the Rose Lake Lumber company in a position he occupied before the war.

GAIETY IS PLEASED.
NEW YORK, March 1.—A decree by the United States supreme court dissolving the United States Steel corporation, would have been a "catastrophe," Albert H. A. G. chairman of the corporation's board of directors, declared in a statement tonight.
"It would seriously have interfered with industrial progress and prosperity," he said. "The decision as made will immeasurably add to the general feeling of confidence in the value of property and in the opportunities of business enterprise."

move by which several speakers who they ended the "billionaire" compromise negotiations by his "billionaire" pressure to bear on republicans' leaders when an agreement seemed imminent. Holding the balance of power, their votes have to be counted by the republicans to adopt any of the proposed reservations, and in addition they are understood to be in a position that if their count was disregarded, they could talk the treaty over into the campaign.
The senate took no action on the treaty today, the session being out short by adjournment on account of the death of Senator Bankhead.

TO ATTEMPT TO HAVE BASEBALL TEAM HERE

Dyed-in-Wool Fans Secure Council's Permission to Have Sunday Baseball.

Dyed-in-the-wool baseball fans met at the chamber of commerce last evening and discussed the advisability of having a league team here. After much discussion, it was decided to attempt the formation of an organization here contingent on two things—the obtaining of a $1000 fund and permission from city council to play Sunday baseball.

The contingent of fans waited on council and was informed that the three members present had no objection to the playing of the game on Sunday.

Committee member Bussell was the first to give his approval. "I see no objection to Sunday games," he said. "Neither have I any objection," said Commodore Breckenridge. "You can have your Sunday games as far as I am concerned."

"I see no reason for not having Sunday baseball," said the mayor.

The committee in charge of the arrangements will shortly make a canvass of the situation and endeavor to raise the necessary funds.

Jack Gardner, former big league player, who is visiting Twin Falls, was present at the meeting last evening. Gardner was formerly with Pittsburgh, Brooklyn and Philadelphia. He urged the use of as much local talent as possible by the team.

WOBBLES RECITE TALE OF SHOOTING

One of I. W. W. Defendants Acknowledges Firing from Hillside.

By the Associated Press. MONTPELIER, Vt., March 1.—Four of the ten Industrial Workers of the World go trial here on a charge of murder in connection with the "armistice day" shooting at Centralia, Wash., were called as witnesses for the defense today. One of the four, Bert Bland, testified that he fired from four to eight shots at men in uniform of soldiers who appeared to be attacking the I. W. W. hall.

Three of the four defendants declared the shooting which resulted in the death of four former soldiers and the wounding of others, began after marchers in a parade had started toward the I. W. W. hall.

Similar testimony on this point was given by Dr. Frank J. Blackford, one of the marchers. He said that he had passed the hall when he heard a commotion and with others ran toward the hall. He said he had received the front of the hall when he first heard shots but did not know if they were the first fired.

Bert Bland testified to having shot at the former soldiers from Bonanza hill about 1200 feet from the hall. He said shots also were fired by Loren Roberts, another defendant, and Ole Hansen, who has not been apprehended. He said they began shooting after they had seen men leave the parade and rush toward the hall and after they had heard shots fired from within the hall.

O. C. Bland, another defendant, admitted having gone to the Arnold hotel to protect the I. W. W. hall from an expected raid but declared he fired no shots, having cut his hands in sticking the muzzle of his rifle through a window pane.

James McInerney also denied having fired any shots though admitting he was armed with a revolver. He said he was in the hall during the shooting but did not know who fired the shots.

Michael Sheehan, the defendant, testified that he was unarmed and took no part in the shooting.

He reports that it will be advisable to purchase an entire herd rather than attempt to secure one or two animals from various herds.

Pen-Picture by Late Colonel Roosevelt Describes Him As "Admirer" Of England.

NEW YORK.—An intimate pen-picture of the former emperor of Germany, drawn by Colonel Roosevelt in a letter to Sir George Otto Trevelyan in 1911, which shows him in the light of an "admirer" of England appears in the March number of Scribner's magazine out tomorrow.

It is the concluding portion of Roosevelt's personal 25,000-word account of his travels in Egypt and Europe following his return from his memorable African hunting trip.

The former president wrote that William agreed with him, during the course of a long interview at Potsdam that war between England and Germany would be "an unspeakable calamity." The colonel said that Prince Henry of Prussia, of whom the kaiser was "rather jealous" was "a more really powerful and cold blooded man" than the emperor and that of the two, he was the more hostile to England.

Referring to his visit to Berlin, following "delightful" receptions in Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Norway and Sweden, the colonel wrote that the German authorities and people showed him every courtesy and civility but that, excepting the university folk, "they really did not want to see me." America, he said, was very unpopular in Germany. The upper classes regarded democracy, he said, as "irregular, unnatural and debasing." The lower classes, on the other hand, were socialists who regarded him as an enemy rather than a friend.

The middle class looked upon me as a representative of an America which consisted of business rivals whose rivalry was irritating and obnoxious."

An interesting sidelight on von Tirpitz, then the secretary of war, was afforded by the colonel's reference to an interview with the man who later inaugurated the ruthless submarine warfare.

THE BOYS IN THE OTHER CAR

Von Tirpitz, he said, was intensely interested in the voyage of the American battle fleet around the world, and he told the former president that he did not believe "we could do so successfully" adding, that the British navy and foreign office had felt the same way. "He said he expected Japan would attack the fleet while it was on its way round. "I told him," he wrote, "that I had not expected such an attack, but that I had thought it possible in other words, that I thought the chances were against it, but there was a chance for it. My point of view at the time the fleet sailed, was that if the Japanese attacked it, it was a calamity that they were intending to attack us at the first favorable opportunity."

"I had been doing my best to be polite to the Japanese and had finally become uncomfortably conscious of very, very slight undertones of veiled (irritation) in their communications in connection with things that happened on the Pacific voyage and I finally made up my mind that they thought I was afraid of them."

"Every article of trouble with the Japanese government and the Japanese press dropped like magic as soon as they learnt that our fleet had actually sailed, and was obviously in good trim. As I told von Tirpitz, I thought it a good thing that the Japanese should know there were fleets of the white races which were totally different from the fleet of poor Hottentots." Von Tirpitz and William, he said, told him that they regarded the voyage of the fleet as having "done more for the peace of the Orient than anything else that could possibly have happened."

Other portions of the colonel's letter to Sir George teem with anecdotes and references to his association with European exiles. The simple, unaffected democratic simplicity of the rulers of Norway impressed him deeply. At Christiana, he wrote, "we were at once taken to the palace, where we stayed, and I could hardly speak too strongly of King Haakon. Queen Maud and little Olaf. They were dark, we were genuinely sorry when we left them, to think that we would never see them again; if ever Norway decides to turn republic we should love to have them come to live near Sagamore Hill."

"Norway is a funny a kingdom as we ever imagined outside of opera bouffes—although it isn't opera bouffe at all, for the Norwegians are a fine, serious, powerful lot of men and women. But they have the most genuinely democratic society I've found in Europe, not excepting Switzerland; there are only two or three states in the American Union which are real democracies. They have no nobles, hardly even gentry; they are peasants and small traders. On this community a royal family is, suddenly plumped. It is such as if I'm not should offend; try the experiment of having a king. Yet it certainly seemed as if the experiment were entirely successful."

FURGES CLUB IN LONDON FOR LONELY COLONIES

LONDON.—The average Englishman's aloofness is contrasted unfavorably with the hall-fellow-well-met manner of the average American by Sir Thomas Macdonald, high commissioner for New Zealand, who is planning to found in the heart of London what he calls a great imperial and social club for visitors from the Dominions.

"The Englishman's heart is good and his friendship, when you have once got it, is warm and invaluable," said Sir Thomas in an interview with the Daily Graphic, "but you have to overcome the formality first. This proofness, I know, is doing harm. Colonial visitors to London find themselves lonely and friendless. "Years ago I set out to find my friends in London, it was hopeless. I got tired and went to the United States where I found the Americans friendly and homely, and have never forgotten it. It is much the same today. The various societies and clubs here do good work, but the right spirit is missing somewhere."

The proposed club is to be a 1,000,000 pound fund for a social center with 500 bedrooms, a restaurant, and rooms for receiving, entertaining and business.

COUNCILMEN ENJOY A SOCIAL SESSION

Absence of Quorum Precludes Action on Several Pending Matters.

Without a quorum present Mayor Eldridge and Councilmen Breckenridge and Russell held a "social" session of council last evening.

Much time was consumed in consideration of proposed changes in milk ordinances. Health Officer Murray told of some of the obstacles that he had encountered in efforts to enforce the present ordinance. The matter was laid over until a quorum could be met.

Council also planned to pass an ordinance raising water rates, but because of the absence of a quorum could not do so. Discussion was had on the proposed changes.

C. E. Booth, chairman of the city bureau of the chamber of commerce, accompanied by Secretary Wright, appeared before the councilmen to urge the elimination of several tattered liberty bond signs on business blocks. He urged that council make arrangements to mark the streets. He was assured that proper action would be taken to carry out both suggestions. The police will take down the signs while the city engineer will handle the street marking question.

The councilmen present also discussed better fire equipment. It was unanimously agreed that the city had outgrown its present equipment and that steps should be taken to secure that which is more up to date.

MATURE PLANS TO RAISE S. A. BUDGET

War Mothers to Conduct Doughtnut Sale Saturday—To Use Special Huts.

Twin Falls War Mothers through their organization will conduct a doughtnut sale for the Salvation Army in Twin Falls Saturday, following a canvass of the residential districts of the city Friday by representatives of the American Legion, for the purpose of raising $2,500 to care for the expenses of the Twin Falls Salvation Army corps for the eight months following, March 1st. Members of the Building Trades Council were assigned the task of routing Salvation Army huts on prominent corners of the city for use during the doughtnut sale.

Above is the action taken Sunday afternoon at the meeting of the joint committee called for the purpose of perfecting plans for raising the budget for the Salvation Army in Twin Falls.

The meeting was attended by delegations from the War Mothers, the American Legion, the advisory board of the Salvation Army and other bodies.

The budget is small, but it will be ample to care for the entire expenses of the Army in its initial period, estimated at $435, at Eldridge's, establishing it in its work and meeting the financial demands for the period of eight months to the end of its fiscal year.

Already the little band is working diligently. It has cared for a number of destitute cases, has provided food and clothing in cases where illness had shut off the earning ability of family heads, has bought medicine, bedding and other necessities, and in many ways has shown its ability to meet the demands upon it.

Ensign and Mrs. Nation have established themselves in a very little cottage opposite the Lind garage. Their telephone number is 710, and they are ready to answer calls day or night.

An Appreciation

We have sold the Vincent Furniture Company business to Messrs. R. N. Sneddin and R. M. Baggs, and have turned over the stock of Furniture and kindred merchandise to these gentlemen.

In retiring from active business in Twin Falls, we desire to give expression of appreciation to the public for the courtesies extended and the trade enjoyed. We have indeed enjoyed the relationship which came from dealing with the people of the community, and are hopeful that our successors will enjoy in full measure a continuance of the public confidence.

There have been many changes in the four years we have been engaged in the furniture business in Twin Falls—changes which have marked effect upon all lines of merchandising. During all of these we have never permitted the character of our merchandise to deteriorate, and it is pleasing to say that our successors will follow also the line of 'carrying' merchandise of unquestionable merit.

Yours very truly,
