THE RAILROAD LABOR PROBLEM.

The new chapter of private railroad management under more comprehensive public supervision has opened auspiciously. The Cummins-Esch act is generally approved by the public. It is acceptable to the railroad executives, and though opposed before passage by the railroad employees, is accepted by the brotherhood except one. The maintenance of way men and shop workers will do well to acquiesce.

The important thing is to set up, as quickly as possible, the machinery provided for settling railroad labor disputes. This machinery seems well calculated to serve its purpose, provided wisdom is used in selecting its personnel. There are two boards, one a joint tribunal equally representing the railroad employers and employees, and the other a more formal tribunal giving representation also to the public. It is hoped that ordinarily the two parties immediately concerned may be able to work out their labor problems themselves, through the agency of their dual board. Failing in that, they will refer their disputes to the larger body.

The latter will not have arbitrary power of decision, but it is believed that the publicity attending its inquiries will give unusual force to its findings. Eventually, the government may definitely forbid strikes and lockouts in the transportation industry, but such an extreme solution is not yet acceptable.

The labor problem is unquestionably the biggest problem the railroads face at this time. Problems of financing, of equipment, of improvements and extensions, of service and rates, these can be worked out with less difficulty, because they involve no such complex human factor as the labor problem. The government has narrowly escaped great railroad strikes three times in two years. It would be an overwhelming calamity if the railroad executives were to suffer the handicap of a strike just at the start of the new period.

Every energy, public and private, must be devoted to setting the conciliatory machinery in motion and making it work smoothly. With this labor problem satisfactorily settled, the country could face its other industrial troubles hopefully.

RAILROADS' LAST CHANCE.

Before the war there was much favorable talk of government ownership of railroads, even among railroad executives and stockholders. Now the talk is all the other way. The country has had two years of government operation; and, right or wrongly—rightly, most citizens think—the decision is against it. Public ownership has fewer friends today than it has had for decades.

But the last chapter is not written. Herbert Hoover shrewdly remarked, when the lines were turned back to their owners, "Private ownership is now on its final trial."

The same thought is expressed by President Walker of the Chicago and Alton, who says: "If the private operation be unsatisfactory, the threat of retaking by the government, this time for good and all, will hang overhead. The challenge is for the ablest railroad minds and courageous financiers, under adverse conditions, to render such admirable service that government ownership will not be tolerated."

This is the precise situation. It is one calculated to spur the railroad men to do their best in the way of efficient management. The public will judge them partly by the cost of service, but more by the quality of service. They are handicapped, by the government was handicapped, by insufficient equipment. They have the further disadvantage that the public is probably expecting too much of them. They have the advantages, however, of assured financing and of the increased energy of personnel that is supposed to go with private operation.

The railroads apparently are to have a fair chance to make good.

TO MAKE WAY FOR LIBERTY.

The days are close at hand when everybody will want to spend all the time he possibly can out-of-doors. Why not use these more inclement spring days in disposing of all the accumulation of neglected things, and make way for liberty, so that when summer does come there will be less to prevent the acceptance of its invitation to out-door life and sport?

There is not a house nor a business nor an individual without a list of undone things which are always hampering the consideration of any new move toward ease and freedom. What joy would it mean if all these back-hangers and kill-joys could be disposed of by one, by one, and the mind and conscience liberated?

Half the fatigue in the world comes from the oppression of these neglected small matters. Most of the over-work in the world comes from trying to get them finished up at the worst possible time.

Everybody feels a distinct disinclination to extra labor in the warm weather. This is nature's polite reminder that summer is here, man's natural vacation time. This hint can no more be disregarded safely than any of nature's other hints.

Take the in-between season and get the odd jobs done, the letters written, the repairs made, the books made up. Make way for liberty, and then enjoy it.

PARENTS NEED TRAINING, TOO.

The National Congress of Mothers which met in conjunction with the National Educational Association recently went on program for better training of mothers.

"We shall never have a great nation," said one of their speakers, "without a great citizenry, and we shall never have a great citizenry without a great parentage. You criticize the schools; at least they make an effort. What are the schools and homes doing to train for parentage?"

The congress of mothers has hit upon the weak spot, just as mothers have had a fashion of doing for ages. Much of the delinquency is laid at the doors of the public schools, yet the public school has the child only five hours out of the 24, five days a week, and for not more than 40 weeks of the year. A brief bit of computation will show how much larger percentage of the child's time is spent under non-school influence. If the outside-influence is indifferent or vicious, how is the school influence to accomplish any vital effect? The need for harmonizing the two is plain.

Educating the parent truly is a vital necessity if the child himself is to become in his turn the sort of a parent from whom springs a "great citizenry."

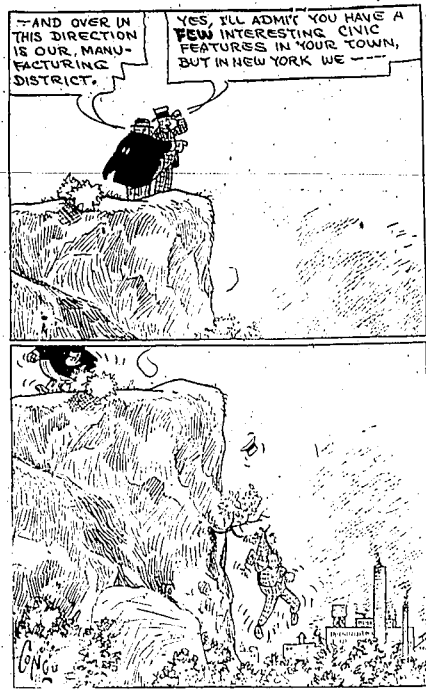

MEXICAN IMMIGRANTS.

Where have most of our recent immigrants come from? The average American would never guess. They have come from Mexico. Both in 1918 and 1919 there were more new arrivals from Mexico than from any other country.

The number, to be sure, is not large. It was only 28,884 last year. Still, the fact is interesting, in view of the standing unpleasantness between the United States and Mexico, and also in view of the fact that Mexican immigration is on the increase, and if present tendencies continue, may soon reach a very considerable volume.

You simply can't see that ring now for candidates' hats.

REPUBLICANS PLAN FOR CONVENTION

Temporary Secretary to Be Selected at Committee Meeting May 10.

CHICAGO, March 8.—Officers of the republican national convention, who will sound the keynote of the 1920 campaign will be selected at a meeting of the convention committee here, May 10.

A. T. Holt of Kentucky, chairman of the committee, so announced tonight after a meeting at which convention plans were laid, the seating arrangements approved and approval of seats and convention at hotels settled.

The Chicago convention will be modeled to seat 12,187 delegates and spectators, approximately 11,000 more than at the convention four years ago.

After providing for the 984 delegates, the alternates and convention aides, the remainder of the seating will be divided among state representatives according to representation on the floor.

Under the same plan, appointment of 2500 sergeants at arms, 400 doorkeepers, 200 ushers, 100 physicians and other attaches will be divided.

The meeting was presided by the monthly session of the national committee. Chairman Will H. Hays reiterated his declaration made public Sunday, that the committee should select the candidate, not select men and women appointed to committee and suggest platform plank to be put at work, and would report to the convention committee on resolutions. Chairman Hays announced.

DECLARES PROPOSALS A NULLIFICATION

everything in my power to remove every obstacle in the way of the adoption of this particular article of the covenant because we made these pledges to them as well as to the rest of the world and it was in this cause they deemed themselves devoted in a spirit of covensure. I should be forever unfaithful to them if I did not do my utmost to fulfill the high purpose for which they fought.

There can be no objection to a platform which what our constitutional method is and that our program alone can declare war on Germany the cause of occasion for war and that it alone can authorize the use of the armed forces of the United States on land or on sea. But to make such a declaration would certainly be a work of supererogation.

I am sure to say reservations that have come under my notice are almost without exception not interpretations of the articles, to which it is proposed to attach them but in effect virtual nullifications of those articles.

Any reservation which seeks to destroy the force of articles of the covenant and life of the covenant itself by a series of alterations which do not guarantee a number of most desirable rights the political independence and integrity of each of its members would be largely more than a farcical scrap of paper, an ineffective operation as the agreement between the Belgium and German articles of the German covenant, in 1914. of the old pretensions of political conquest and territorial aggrandizement. It is a new doctrine in the world's affairs and must be recognized or there is no stable basis for the peace which the world so longingly desires and so desperately needs. If article ten is not accepted and acted upon, the governments which reject it will, I think, be guilty of bad faith to their people whom they induced to make the terrible sacrifices of the war by the promise that they would be fighting to protect the world from the old order of force and aggression.

If America has awakened, as the rest of the world has, to the vision of a new day in which the mistakes of the past are to be corrected, it will welcome the opportunity to share the responsibilities of article ten.

The choice is between two ideas: the old order of force and aggression, or the new order of peace and justice. The choice is between a world of war and a world of peace. The choice is between a world of darkness and a world of light. The choice is between a world of despair and a world of hope. The choice is between a world of death and a world of life. The choice is between a world of pain and a world of joy. The choice is between a world of suffering and a world of happiness. The choice is between a world of misery and a world of bliss. The choice is between a world of hell and a world of heaven. The choice is between a world of perdition and a world of glory. The choice is between a world of shame and a world of honor. The choice is between a world of dishonor and a world of respect. The choice is between a world of contempt and a world of esteem. The choice is between a world of scorn and a world of reverence. The choice is between a world of derision and a world of admiration. The choice is between a world of mockery and a world of praise. The choice is between a world of ridicule and a world of applause. The choice is between a world of contempt and a world of honor. The choice is between a world of dishonor and a world of respect. The choice is between a world of contempt and a world of honor. DAY ARRAIGNS RADICALISM IN ADDRESS

Democratic Chairman Was Greeted With Vociferous Applause.

ALLIANCE WITH LEAGUE OPPOSED

Twin Falls Representatives at Meeting Tell of Attitude of Party Leaders on Bolshevism.

Vice Chairman (Honorable M. Robertson) and Robert H. Stevenson have returned from Moscow, where they attended the meeting of the democratic state committee. The returning gentlemen bring word verifying there was no dissent as to the fact that the meeting, and that the promises of republicans and Roy Jones for a rumpus of some sort, were not made good. Jones and the republican editors of the state endeavored to stir up a row, but failed in their efforts.

There was no division upon lines of candidates. Candidates were not discussed, although the temper of the men in attendance disclosed in the vociferous applause given to the speech of the state chairman, Hon. Jerome J. Day. Chairman Day outlined a bold plan against Bolshevism and radicalism, which meant clearly opposition to any alliance with the Nonpartisan league or kindred body of radicals. His speech can not be misunderstood, nor can the temper of those who applauded its delivery be misinterpreted.

The Chairman's Speech.

Mr. Day said: "In accordance with party policy and legal requirements, I have convened the committee at this time and place. While the new procedure to some extent, the functions and limitations of the committee, yet in the tremendous circumstances now surrounding us, it is fitting that a review of the situation as it appears to your chairman, be stated to you.

Ratification the Cause.
"After years of power in this state, our party was overwhelmingly defeated at the last election. Various causes have been assigned for this reversal of confidence by the people, but in the light of subsequent history, there is left no room for doubt that our overthrow was caused by the public belief that the democratic party had become or was drifting to an extreme and radical position.

A Brazen Attempt.
"A brazen attempt has been made to some extent to exploit the party machinery for the advancement of the poisonous growth of socialism. I, W. W. Day, organizer and leader here. As all these things were the outcome from the Glettoes of Panson and Kussen, or the diseased brain of the oppressed and frozen peoples of other decadent or unimportant monarchies, it is easy to perceive why the imposition of radicalism in the state.

Public View Indicated.
"This revolution was promptly expressed at the ballot box. It is a question that it will continue to be expressed whenever accession demands. The American people are not only not in favor of Panson socialism or Bolshevism, but they are implacably and stoutly opposed to it. Any party, either an individual or a group, who attempt to establish a dictatorial or representative government, to be and so gloriously successful, will finally meet with an overwhelming defeat.

Time to Clean House.
"This hour, so it is most that we set our political house, in order by returning to those safe and sane policies and practices in public life and private performance, which made us so strong and great in the Golden Period following the civil war, we are to establish a new and promising government of more than three times our numbers. Shall we then in the blossom of 'transpiration' demonstration abandon these tried principles, for the generalized theories of the socialist as the means of bettering the condition of those who stand for the thundering SOB of the last election, will be repeated a thousand fold, whenever such atrocious and fatal attempt shall be made? Then let us, as good democrats and loyal American citizens, mindful of the comforts and blessings, which our new world civilization has secured for us, fight with righteous wrath, the foul and unclean spirits of disorder, class hatred, dishonesty and anarchy, which have reared the hateful heads in our midst.

Reach to Eastern Country.
"The deplorable conditions confronting the democratic party at the last election are manifest in a larger form until they encompass the body politic of the state. The successful party at the last election has violated the confidence so overwhelmingly placed in them with utter abandon of regard for the welfare of the people of the state as to probably bring forth the most ineffectual and feeblest regime in our history. They have disregarded the enormous burdens placed upon the nation at large and by their incompetency and extravagance have lessened the ability of the state and nation to fulfill the obligations resting upon us, and that, at the conclusion of the most destructive war that history has recorded.

Time to Retrench.
"Let us return to the faith of our fathers, to the inspiration of the grandest Bill of Human Rights, the Declaration of Independence, to that great instrument of human liberty and progress, by the mind of man yet devised, the constitution of the United States, to the wise and sublime counsels of those glorious patriots, Washington and Jefferson, Clay and Jackson, and Lincoln, uniting our efforts with those devoted citizens who supported them that true liberty and genuine democracy shall not perish from the earth.

Avoid the Politicians.
"Let us look to the real welfare of the people, as against the selfish men serving from that state 17.2 were million of the poll-tax. Let us establish such a foreign policy as shall work no injustice to our weakest neighboring, nor brook an insult from our proud foe.

"Let us work for a great merchant marine, which shall carry the flag of our country as of yore to all parts of the navigable globe, seeking no special privileges, and permitting none.
"Let us scourge from the body politic the paralyzing influences of bureaucracy and paternalism by re-establishing the American principle that the people support the government and that the government support the people, over the argument of despotism and tyranny.
"Let us discard the self-imposed leadership of crack-brained theorists, doctrinaires and knaves.
"Let us develop such domestic policies that the comfort of our people in their homes, their security in person and property under liberty without license, their enabling progress under equal justice, shall continue as in the past, an inspiration and a hope for all mankind. Thus shall we fill alike our duty and our destiny."

By the Associated Press.

TRI-PARTITE BOARD TO BE NAMED SOON

Inter-State Commerce Commission Orders Unions and Executives to Name Representatives.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The 16 railroad unions and the Association of Railway Executives were directed tonight by the Interstate Commerce Commission to make nominations for a tri-partite board created by the transportation act which will attempt settlement of disputes without strikes.

Each side will name not less than six men to be submitted to President Wilson, who will choose the board of nine, divided equally between the public, the workers and the corporations.

The commission said the unions had been chosen to represent labor because the "overwhelming majority" more than 90 per cent of railroad workers, were included in their membership.

Similarly, the Association of Railway Executives was asked to nominate representatives of the railroad managements and owners.

To make the nominations the unions were classified into three groups: Group 1, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen; Brotherhood of Railway Conductors; Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen and the Switchmen's Union of North America.

Group 2, International Association of Machinists; Brotherhood of Locomotives; Brotherhood of Blacksmiths and Helpers; Brotherhood of Blacksmiths and Helpers; Sheet Metal Workers; Brotherhood of Railway Carmen and the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers.

Group 3, Order of Railroad Telegraphers; Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way Employees and Shop Employes; Railway Signal Men; Brotherhood of Stationary Firemen and Oilers; and Brotherhood of Railway Clerks, Freight Handlers and Express Station Employes.

Each group must name at least two members.

SMOKERS' AMERICA BY 1925, JS NOW A PLAN

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, March 8.—A smokeless America in 1925 is the aim of the International Chloride League, organized as a successor to the Anti-Chloride League. It was announced here today.

"Since the first," it is said, and an effort will be made to collect every year in Chicago in the "chloride league" of the league.

"Had he left, are the beginning of 'cancer careers,'" explained Miss Lucy Page Gaston, executive superintendent of the organization, today when the cigarette habit should be abolished.

A campaign for $100,000 to carry on the league's work will begin soon, according to Miss Gaston. The funds are now in effect it is believed in the case as well as the work of the league.

DANIELS TELLS OF NEEDS OF PACIFIC

Declares Immediate and Extensive Enlargement of Naval Docking Facilities Are Required.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Immediate and extensive enlargement of naval docking and basing facilities on the Pacific and legislation to provide a naval reserve force of at least 200,000 were advocated today before the home naval committee by Secretary Daniels.

The secretary asked authority to start construction of a new naval base on San Francisco bay near Mare Island and urged that $10,000,000 be made available at once. He first estimated the cost at $75,000,000 but later said it might be done for $10,000,000.

The new submarine and destroyer bases on the northwest coast, one at Port Angeles, Wash., and the other at Astoria, Oregon, were urged, as well as extensive developments at Hawaii and Guam.

Expressing the belief that in the next year as in the last, the United States would send its troops into the enemy's country, Mr. Daniels said a large navy and strong naval reserve were "absolutely necessary."

BRITISH AMBASSADOR TO U. S. TO GET MORE MONEY

London, March 8.—The British ambassador to Washington will hereafter receive 20,000 pounds sterling yearly. His salary will be 2500 pounds sterling and entertainment allowance 17,500 pounds sterling.

LONDON, March 8.—The British ambassador to Washington will hereafter receive 20,000 pounds sterling yearly. His salary will be 2500 pounds sterling and entertainment allowance 17,500 pounds sterling. Lloyd George announced in the house of lords today.

Sir Auckland Geddes was recently appointed to this post.

The premier's statement reveals that the government has arranged the finances of the office on the basis of doubling that of income tax because of opposition they had expressed to the railroad law. Both $10,000 pounds sterling with a comparatively small allowance. That salary was largely eaten up by the income tax.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 8.—Governor Henry Allen of Kansas was characterized as "one of the worst men our labor ever had," by President Alexander Howat, in his report to the fourth bi-monthly convention of the United Mine Workers of America today.

LONDON, March 8.—The Japanese embassy today issued a statement saying:

"Reference is here circulated in the last few days that Japan bought the victory over Russia in 1904-1905. The Japanese embassy declares this is groundless. Moreover we suspect there is some foul play involved in the rumor."

"The story, of course, is so preposterous and chimerical that it hardly deserves a formal denial."

STOCK DIVIDENDS ARE NOT TAXABLE

Also Report by Some News Agencies Causes Heavy Losses in Wall Street.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Corporation dividends distributed in stock do not constitute "income" and are not subject to federal income taxes, the supreme court decided today in a 4-4 decision.

Provisions for the 1916 federal income tax law levying taxes on stock dividends were declared unconstitutional. The decision also nullified similar provisions of the present law and will involve great loss in revenue to the government and refunds of such taxes already collected. Large financial interests likewise will be affected and extensive "million cutting" is expected.

SOURCE OF REVENUE IS HARD PROBLEM

Souther Organization Are Advised on Best Method of Raising Relief Funds.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—How to obtain new sources of revenue to provide relief for former service men was discussed today by the house ways and means committee, which represented of souther organizations, but without common agreement as to the best mode of procedure.

Many suggestions have been offered in connection with the committee's consideration of more than 60 bills. The problem has been made more difficult, members said, because of the conflicting views of the various organizations had declared the place of relief. There was the promise today that harmony of action might develop.

Colonel Lester E. Jones, commanding the District of Columbia department, American legion, announced that the legion's executive committee would meet March 22 and express their views on relief in close cooperation with all service men organizations containing help from the government.

18TH AMENDMENT BATTLE COMMENCES

Rhode Island Attorney General Declares It Not Basic Addition to Organic Law.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Rhode Island's attack on the prohibition amendment to the state constitution was argued in superior court today, assailed by the complainant as unconstitutional and an invasion of state's rights and defended by the government as a legitimate addition to the state's basic law over which the state held no jurisdiction.

Thomas attempted the session.

H. A. Rice, attorney general of Rhode Island opened for the opposition, and W. L. Patterson, assistant attorney general, replied for the government. Other arguments will be heard tomorrow, as well as appeals from Kentucky and Massachusetts involving the same questions.

Mr. Rice charged there was a constitutional violation through amendments.

"I see more danger in the doctrine urged by the government than any doctrine urged by the demagogues during the war," he said.

"Highly assumed the people, under the north amendment were never intended to be taken away."

Mr. Rice argued that the prohibition amendment resulted from a misapprehension of the law by congress and that the federal government had no authority to make such a change in the constitution. He said the terms of the prohibition amendment are outside the purview of the constitution.

"What about the thirteenth amendment abolishing slavery?" inquired Justice Dundy.

"That was a compromise amendment and corrected an error in the constitution," he answered.

Justice Dundy asked what power could bring about the conditions imposed by the eighteenth amendment.

"There is no power in the constitution to make such a change unless it

MUCH LOST AND WON

NEW YORK, March 8.—Wall street was thrown into a state of demoralization today and many hundreds of thousands of dollars were lost and won within a few minutes of the United States supreme court in the stock tax case and declared stock dividends were taxable.

The service of The Associated Press was accurate in every particular. After its report reached the street, stocks which had broken 2 to 14 points within a few minutes of the selling orders, steadied and began to climb for the value of the session prices continued to strengthen, final quotations for leading shares making substantial gains.

During the declines frightened traders sold almost regardless of value. The thousands of dollars they forfeited were captured on the rebound by others who had refused to sell on the strength of the first and false reports or who were in ignorance of what was happening.
