

TEN CONTRACTORS TO BID ON ROADS

Much Interest Is Being Displayed in Plans for Highway Construction Work.

Ten contractors have asked for specifications on which to base their bids for construction work on approximately 27.5 miles of roads to be built in the Twin Falls highway district and there are two bidders for the work of building two steel bridges in the vicinity of Twin Falls. It is estimated that the construction work on the road alone will amount to about $475,000. This amount will be spent largely for labor as the Twin Falls district will furnish much of the materials required.

In all probability the contracts will be let at the meeting of the committee of the Twin Falls highway district which is to be held in the district office next Monday, and it is anticipated that work will be commenced soon after the letting of the contracts.

The road work is to be let in two contracts, one of 12.2 miles in the vicinity of Hansen and Kimberly and the other of 15.3 near Twin Falls. These roads will connect with the state highway, bids for the construction of which will be let by the state.

The Heleneck Construction company which has the construction work on the Warren Construction company, is expected to start work on paving in the Twin Falls paving district next week.

NEBRASKA CONSTITUTIONALISTS APPROVE INDUSTRIAL CODE

LINCOLN, Neb., March 9.—The state legislature would have power to create an industrial commission to enforce laws for determination of controversies between employers and employees in any business or occupation "affected with a public interest," under a proposal approved by the state constitutional convention today. Legislation against "unfair business practices and unconscionable gains affecting the public welfare" would also be possible.

The measure is a substitute for a proposal introduced yesterday and which it was proposed to give the legislature power to enact law against interruption in production and distribution of essential commodities. It will have to be finally approved by the convention and the voters before it would become effective.

WOOD PLEADS FOR SOUND CONSERVATIVE GOVERNMENT

KENOSHA, Wis., March 9.—A plea for a sound conservative government was made by General Leonard Wood, candidate for the republican nomination for president, in an address tonight.

"It is no time to loose talking, shallow-thinking or rash experiments," he said. "We want to get down to basic principles. They are homely and unattractive to those who seek materialism, but they are extremely attractive to those who believe in ordered government, founded on law and order, based on respect for property and the rights of individuals, and opposed to all class legislation."

General Wood said the radical element was still a factor in this country, but had been greatly exaggerated. The merchant marine built or acquired by the government during the war should be sold to American firms and fly the American flag, General Wood said.

farmer population. For when it comes to real radicalism, the farmer has always been the leader in this country. A few instances will suffice. Who produced the populist party, which, a generation ago, threatened to carry the country and elect its president? And what radical party is now in complete control of one state and spreading its doctrine of radicalism all through the middle west? The Non-Partisan League.

Since the populist and non-partisan league movements have been among the most radical of all political phenomena in American history, would it be fair to say the farmer is immune to radicalism? Stand-patism is not the exclusive gospel of any class, except so far as there are always those in any land who cannot learn and decline to be taught.

SMOKING OLD WOMEN.

The number of women who smoke habitually is on the increase. In spite of the campaign against it, more women today are ordering their cigarets regularly and as a matter of course than ever before.

The reason for it is not far to seek. With most women it is an outward and visible sign of inward rebellion which has been seething unexpressed for many years against the double standard which gave men freedom and condemned women to restraint. Since it is a reaction, it will tend to the extreme opposite for a while. Then presently it will probably swing back to normal, and most women will realize that they don't care about smoking after all, and drop it.

There is one argument which might hasten the process. Unless it is very speedily controlled, the tobacco habit may become one of the hardest to throw off. Now a pretty, arch young woman, or a beautiful mysterious older woman, may look very intriguing—whatever that is—with a cigaret between her lips; but suppose the habit "gets" her, as it has most men. How will she look 20 years later with a cigaret between her lips, when her youth and beauty are dimmed? Not captivating nor stimulating to the imagination, certainly. She will be just an old woman who smokes.

Better think it over, girls, and quit while the quitting is good. An elderly lady of dainty habits can be charming—but an old woman who smokes?

GOOD SEED FOR YOUNG GARDENERS.

If children are to be encouraged in gardening they should be provided with good seed, proved by testing.

Experienced farmers and market gardeners discovered long since that many of the failures were directly traceable to planting seed of poor quality; as a result the business of testing seeds has been highly developed for their benefit.

To the amateur gardener the disappointment of not reaping fairly where he has sown is as great to as to his more experienced elder, and perhaps greater. He has not the schooling in disappointment to tide him over failure.

Mr. McAdoo suggests that the United States may buy some of the British colonies, Jamaica for instance. But wouldn't that be a rum deal?

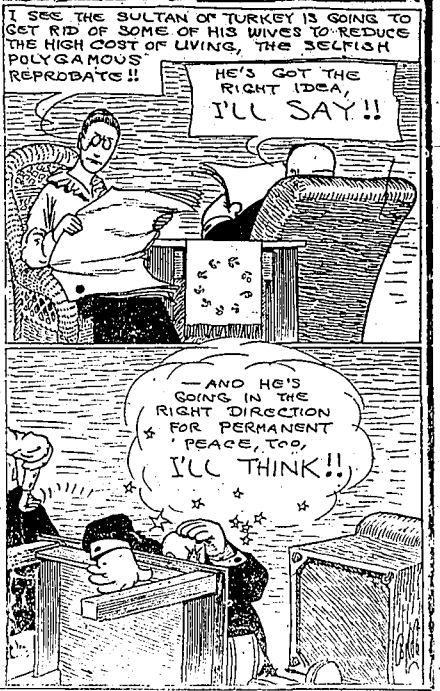

Germany is preparing to put her war culprits on trial. Will she convict them or herself?

Some people are beginning to call it the "feline" government instead of the "L. n. e." government. Every time you kill it, the darn thing comes back to life.

OUTBURSTS OF EVERETT TRUE

MISS STOKES WILL BE GIVEN ANOTHER HEARING

By the Associated Press. ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 9. Mrs. Louise Stokes, millinarian New York merchant, convicted in Kansas for mail fraud, for violating the espionage act, today was granted a new trial by the United States circuit court of appeals here in an opinion reversing the verdict at the trial court.

The opinion asserted "there was substantial evidence in the trial in support of the verdict against the defendant" but that District Judge A. S. Van Valkenburgh's instruction to the jury was prejudicial to Mrs. Stokes. It declared Judge Van Valkenburgh acted correctly in overruling objection to the case from the jury and in overruling various other objections by the defense.

ELECTRIC TRAINS ARE USED ON COAST

Columbian Leaves Tacoma Behind a Power Driven Locomotive—Runs for 207 Miles.

SEATTLE, Wash.—Electric locomotives driven by current generated by water power, today for the first time pulled trains over the coast division of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway. The Columbian, the company's ocean train, was the first to leave Tacoma on the coast end, behind an electric locomotive.

Electrification of the coast division, which extends 207 miles from Tacoma to Otello, central Washington, makes a total of 647 miles over which the Milwaukee lines operate electric locomotives. The Montana and Rocky mountain divisions from Harlowtown, Mont., to Avery, Idaho, were electrified in 1915 and 1916. Steam locomotives are still used on a gap between Otello and Avery. Electrification of this gap is being rushed.

No helping engines will be used. It was announced, to assist the electric locomotives pull the trains up the 2.2 per cent grades of the coast division, the heaviest on the system. The electric engines, it was estimated, will make the grade at about 25 miles an hour.

When the Avery-Otello gap is closed the Milwaukee will have 600 miles of its western lines electrified. From 90 to 95 electric locomotives will be doing the work of about 250 steam locomotives before the electrification. Substitution of water power for steam costs the 500 miles some approximately 200,000 tons of coal and 40,000,000 gallons of fuel oil annually, the company estimates. Glacial streams of Mount Rainier will supply some of the power which will be used to drive the engines. On the west end the power will come from the White, Puyallup and Sumner plants of the Puget Sound Traction, Light and Power company.

On the east end it will be furnished by the Long lake plant of the Washington Water Power company. The White and Puyallup plants are on streams fed by glaciers.

Electric trains will not run into Seattle until a stretch 12 miles long from Bolton Junction is rigged with poles and trolley wires. The work will start as soon as the company arranges for a long time lease on the line.

GOVERNMENT EMPLOYEES SEEK A LARGER BONUS

VALLEJO, Calif.—Provisions for a $240 per year bonus for government employees in a bill reported to the house of representatives has led to redoubled effort to have the bonus increased to $480, according to a civil service employe, here.

Federal civil service workers in all parts of the United States are reported to have joined in a movement to show that the $240 bonus granted a year ago is not sufficient to meet the increase in the cost of living.

At the Mare Island navy yard here 60 per cent of the classified civil service employes are said to resolve the laborer's wage of $2.10, or less. This is held responsible for the frequent changes in personnel.

Mexico after November 20, 1920, in case the scheduled summer elections should fail to take place or in case the successful candidate should fail to present himself for oath of office. Possible conflict between two articles of the constitution of 1917 is pointed out in an article recently published in Excelsior, of Mexico City.

"Article 82 contains the absolute prohibition that any one who has held the high office of president of the republic shall not hold it for another term." Excelsior says, quoting a number of legal experts.

"But Article 81 reads: 'If at the beginning of a constitutional (presidential) term, the president-elect should fail to appear, or if the election should have failed to take place by December 1, the person whose term is about to expire shall cease to function, and there shall be named to the presidency, with title of provisional president, such persons as may be chosen by the congress of the union.'"

It is argued that Article 84 contains no provision that prohibits the outgoing president from being named provisional president by the congress in the event the contingencies specified in the article should occur.

The weight of opinion, however, according to Excelsior, is that the spirit, if not the letter, of the constitution is opposed to the continuance in office, even by congressional authority, of a person whose term as president is about to expire.

No Other Light Car Offers So Much

Unusual power and control, quick pick-up and extraordinary acceleration to real speed, are features inherent in the Cleveland Six and features with which Cleveland owners are delighted.

Many a Cleveland Six owner has said, "It would be hard to tell you what a good car the Cleveland honestly is. It's wonderful."

The Cleveland is wonderful because it is a splendidly developed and finished product, not a car rushed into the market. Three years ago the plans for production of this car were far advanced. But, with war approaching, production and marketing were delayed though experimental and engineering work were continued and test cars kept on the road. When war ended, came the Cleveland.

Built in a fine big factory, with all conditions and equipment assuring the very best of manufacture, and built by men whose successful experience had been wholly in the production of fine cars, the Cleveland Six began rolling out to the world last August. Since then thousands have gone to delighted owners, and thousands more are going every month.

There isn't any other light car that will give you so much of all that you wish, and at such a fair price.

Come let us show you what a car the Cleveland is

ADMIRAL OUTLINES NAVY'S "WEAKNESS"

Declares His Critics are Based on "Failures" of First Six.

WASHINGTON, March 8. — Admiral Sims, in his opening statement today before the senate committee investigating his charges that the navy department failed to cooperate fully with the allies during the war, outlined the specific points on which he based his criticisms and promised that beginning tomorrow he would present evidence in support of each contention.

In opening his testimony Admiral Sims denied intention of inviting an attack on the part of the navy played in the war or of hindering its efforts, inasmuch he be was "unable indignantly to express" his admiration of the navy's efforts. His criticisms, he said, were directed at the failures pursued in the first six months of the conflict.

Only a high sense of his duty as a naval officer and solicitude for the future naval policy of the country, he said, impelled him to point out grave mistakes in naval administration. Basic criticisms of the navy's policies were said by the admiral to be:

That during the early period of the war the department violated fundamental principles of warfare leading to a prolongation of hostilities and needless loss of lives and money.

That the policies of the department in the last half of the war were identical with recommendations rejected during the first six months.

That if the department had proper plans when the nation entered the war they should have been placed in effect at once.

That mistakes, if any were made, should be carefully reviewed to avoid a future recurrence and to help mould future national defense policies.

The United States entered the war with the navy unprepared, he said, although war had been a possibility for two years and American forces on the sea were not in a state of readiness. Owing to these conditions, the witness added, lack of proper organization in the navy department and because of other factors with which he was not familiar, it failed for at least six months to throw its full force against the enemy.

his standing room for 15,000 more, thus enabling 50,000 people to attend Olympic games daily.

Pavilion wherein dressing rooms of the athletes are being put up measure 80 yards and contains six dressing rooms of 14 yards by 7. Bars, cafes, restaurants are being arranged for the benefit of spectators.

The arena itself measures 150 by 102 yards. The Stockholm stadium was 116 yards long by 77 yards wide. The width of the rushing track circling the stadium is ten yards. For the hundred yard and hundred metre dash, however, a straightway chute directly in front of the principal stand, the southern one, measuring 120 yards in length with a width of 14 yards is being prepared. The circular track measures 410 metres or about 450 yards. The football field is 116 yards long by 44 yards wide.

PHILADELPHIA — Coach Baltzell of the University of Pennsylvania has several athletes on his track team who hope to represent the United States in the coming Olympic games at Antwerp.

In Earl Eby, the intercollegiate 400 metre champion and recent winner of the Millrose 500 yard event in New York, Baltzell believes that he has the logical successor to "Ted" Meredith, who started the athletic world in 1912 by winning the 400 and 500 metre event in Stockholm.

Besides Eby, Pennsylvanians has four star quarter milers in Elmer South, Andrew and Maxwell. "Nixy" Gilbert Eby or Maxson, an anchor man this quarter would be strong enough to represent America in the 1,600 metre relay.

Two others, Sherman Landers and Everett Smealley are likely to make the Olympic team. Landers is a fine mile walker, running broad jumper and the national high-jumper and jump title holder while Smealley has shown remarkable ability over the hurdles.

PHILADELPHIA — The Morning Bell theatrical society of San Francisco, a Chinese dramatic and educational organization, plans to enter the motion picture field soon.

This would widen its theatrical activities which are now limited to a "season" of about one week each year when a series of modern dramatizations of ancient Chinese legends are presented. The proceeds from these performances go to the maintenance of the Morning Bell Chinese School, a free night institution for Chinese children who attend American public schools in the day. Special teachers are brought from the far east to impart to them the language, customs and traditions of China.

"Here is where boys and girls study the old philosophies of China's immortal writers, whose works rival those of Socrates, Homer and the Bible," according to the principal. "More than that, modern Chinese is offered, so that no student may lack the essence of a liberal Chinese literary education."

The Morning Bell playhouse is hidden away in the heart of San Francisco's Chinatown in Haight street, a blind alley, so small and insignificant that it is not mentioned in the city directory. No glimmering lights in front of the theatre blazon the name of the principal actor or that of the current production. Haight street is so dim by night that it might be designated, in the Oriental manner, "The Street of a Thousand Shadows."

The actor's lines are in Chinese; their garb is that of their native land. Most of the music is produced by Chinese instruments. Not all, however, for during the recent season in the Chinese New Year, the audience was entertained between acts by selections of American popular music, played on an accordion.

The audience is drawn from all portions of San Francisco's large Chinatown; the best-dressed who of wealthy silk, tea and curio merchants sit near the boxes of laborers and bankers are mingled with coolies—not on the bamboo mats of China, but on rows of twentieth century American theater seats. Some in the dience are dressed in the flapping gowns of China; others appear in auditoriums dressed in the flapping oriental attire. Some much American candy; others nibble at dried pumpkin seeds during the scenes.

"The Roots of Lotus," an ancient Chinese legend, modernized by C. H. Chan, who played the leading role, was one of the dramas presented during the recent season. All the characters, including those called for actresses, were assumed by men. It was explained by officials of the Morning Bell society that there are no actresses in China, because dramatic profession is not held in high esteem there.
