

WOMEN'S CLUBS TO ELECT NEW OFFICERS

General Federation Delegates Prepare for Battle of Ballots. Interest Is Intense.

DES MOINES, June 21.—Voting for officers of the General Federation of Women's Clubs will begin early tomorrow at the biennial convention, and continue the greater part of the day. More than 1,500 delegates are eligible to vote. Mrs. T. G. Winter of Des Moines and Miss Georgia A. Bacon of Massachusetts were the only two nominated for president. Their respective supporters and campaign managers were working hard tonight to get the uninstructed and doubtful voter in line before the polls open tomorrow.

The nominating committee, this afternoon reported the names of Mrs. W. J. Jennings of Florida and Mrs. Eugene Reilly of North Carolina as candidates for first vice president. The Alabama delegation nominated Mrs. L. J. Haley from the floor. Mrs. Reilly then requested that her name be withdrawn.

The result of the election probably will not be announced until Wednesday.

Consider Child Welfare. Child welfare as a home economics problem was considered at one of the sectional meetings of the General Federation of Women's Clubs this afternoon. Mrs. Ira Couch of Chicago declared that malnutrition was the source of the majority of children's defects. Malnutrition, she declared, is caused by physical defects, lack of home control, overfatigue, faulty food habits and faulty health habits.

Eighty per cent of the school children are defective, she asserted, but only three per cent of the cases of malnutrition could be traced to actual poverty. Proper study of home economics would remedy many of the defects from which children suffer, Mrs. Couch said.

TOURISTS' PARK IS POPULAR ENTERPRISE

Newel S. Wright, secretary of the Twin Falls Chamber of Commerce, is in receipt of a letter from George B. McGinty, secretary of the national commerce commission at Washington, stating that the time and place for the rehearsing in the standard time zone investigation has not yet been set, but that it would most likely be held in Boise.

The "Blue Card System" inaugurated by the chamber of commerce to do away with beggars and fakers is destined to be a huge success as it is meeting with the hearty co-operation of each member of that organization. The auto tourists' park established by the parks bureau of the chamber of commerce is doing a large business. During the first month after its opening 225 cars stopped there, after as many as 12 and 14 cars remaining overnight. This park is located in the locust grove between the terminals of Fifth and Sixth avenues east.

JAPANESE ARE ANGRY. TOKIO, June 20.—Indignation caused by the massacre of the Japanese garrison at Nikolayevsk, Siberia, by Bolsheviks has been voiced at almost daily mass meetings here. This culminated today in a resolution arranged by advocates of universal suffrage that 20,000 people were present. Following speeches blaming the government for the massacre, many of the crowd tried to reach Premier Hara's residence to demand his resignation. The police, however, dispersed the crowd.

FORMER PRISONER ILL. THE HAGUE, June 21.—The former German prisoner is reported in a very serious condition, and the former Crown Prince Frederick Wilhelm has been ordered to his bedside. He is said to have become worse yesterday.

TRIAL RACE POSTPONED. BND HOOK, N. J., June 21.—A rain squall caused postponement today of the second trial race between Sir Thomas Lipton's Shamrock IV, challenger for the America's cup and the 23-meter Shamrock.

STRONG PLEAS MADE FOR MORE SYMPATHY

DES MOINES, June 22.—A plea for more sympathy between youth and older people, and also between the native born and alien here to be adopted as a citizen was made by Mrs. Percy V. Pennybacker of Austin, Texas, at the evening session of the General Federation of Women's Clubs' biennial convention.

Mrs. Pennybacker spoke at the session set aside for discussion of community service. She declared that the door of sympathy between youth and middle life, and between youth and age too often was closed. In 90 per cent of the cases, she said, age was to blame.

Speaking of the actions of young persons today, she said young women would think "she would consider it terrible to sit at home, but she would consider him 'short' if he did not take her somewhere."

"The greatest of all professions is homemaking," Mrs. Pennybacker said. She urged a better understanding between men and women, saying it would save many homes from being broken.

"No woman has a right to marry unless she has some knowledge of the psychology of childhood. Too long have we trusted to maternal intuition," the speaker asserted.

Mrs. Pennybacker called attention of the duty of parents to children, in contrast to the duty of children to parents.

Respect must be earned and deserved and not demanded, she said.

WIT THAT LIVES

Collection of the Best of Mark Twain's Humor.

Gathered by Albert Bigelow Paine, the Great Humorous Best Friend—His Brilliance as Editor of Agricultural Paper.

Albert Bigelow Paine, who was a constant companion of Mark Twain for years, who wrote his life and recently edited his letters, has now gone through the writings of the humorist and gleaned the choicest bits. These bits, the "distilled wisdom of many volumes," he has brought out in a small book called "Moments With Mark Twain." The following extract, "How I Edited an Agricultural Paper," is taken from his sketches written in 1857:

In about half an hour an old gentleman, with a flowing beard and a fine but rather austere face, entered, and down at once he sat. He seemed to have something on his mind. He took of his hat and set it on the floor, and got out a red silk handkerchief, and a copy of our paper.

He put the paper on his lap, and while he polished his spectacles with his handkerchief, he said, "Are you the editor?"

"I said I was."

"Have you ever edited an agricultural paper before?"

"No," I said, "this is my first attempt."

"Very likely. Have you had any experience in agriculture, practically?"

"No; I believe I have not."

"Some instinct told me," said the old gentleman, putting on his spectacles and looking over them at me with asperity, while he folded his paper into a convenient shape. "I wish to read a paper that must have made me have that instinct. It was this old fellow. Listen, and see if it was you who wrote it."

"Turnips should never be pulled; it injures them. It is much better to send a boy up and let him shake the tree."

"Now, what do you think of that?"

"For I really suppose you wrote it."

"Think of it. Why, I think it is good. I have no doubt that every million and millions of bushels of turnips are spoiled in this township alone by being pulled in a half-ripe condition, when if they had sent a boy up to shake the tree—"

"Shake your grandmother! Turnips don't grow on trees!"

"Oh, they don't, don't they? Well, who said they did? The language was intended to be figurative, wholly figurative. Anybody that knows anything will know that I mean that the boy should shake the vine."

"Then this old person got up and tore his paper all like small shreds, and stamped on them, and broke several things with his cane, and said 'I don't know much as a cow; and then went out and banged the door after him, and, in short, acted in such a way that I fancied he was displeased about something. But not knowing what the trouble was, I could not be any help to him."

Forest Figures.

The quantity of lumber cut every year in the United States is three times the natural growth. At the present rate of destruction the forests will have disappeared in less than a generation. The center of the lumber industry has been pushed rapidly westward until today it has reached the state of Washington and is approaching the Pacific coast. Every year some 30,000,000,000 cubic feet of wood is cut in the United States, the crop being valued at nearly $2,000,000,000. The most serious threat upon the forest resources is for railroad ties, and the demand is constantly increasing. In spite of the apparently universal use of coal for heating, the United States still burns up in the course of a year 90,000,000 cords of wood. There are at present upward of 200,000,000 acres of land set aside as national forest land in the United States, Alaska and Porto Rico. The government appropriates more than $2,000,000 a year to protect and cultivate these forest lands—Boys' Life.

Graves in House of Commons. Great graves, with real grass growing upon them, are surely an unusual sight, even in the halls of the British house of commons, where many strange objects from time to time have been on show. At one end of this apartment there have been for several days past displayed models of the war graves which have been designed for the war graves commission, which is arranging the battlefields cemeteries in France. Members of the house of commons are thus enabled to see exactly upon what model the graves and the simple memorials are to be carried out.

Would Have Meant Dual.

In the heat of argument in court at Kinsale, one lawyer said to another, "It is the meanest thing I ever saw done by a practitioner in court, but I could not expect decency from you when your family from your resting. We do not know who you are, or where you came from, you workhouse bent." Instead of settling it at the time, in Irish fashion, a lawsuit has resulted, the aggrieved party claiming damages for slander—Exchange.

Some Show.

"I wonder if there will be much lightning this summer?"

"Why, it's got to strike somebody, you know."

WILL INVESTIGATE ETHIOPIAN ORDER

Chicago Police Threaten to Probe Society That Is Said to Have 'Fostered Mob.'

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, June 21.—With R. D. Jones, said by the police to be the white leader of an organization advocating return of negroes to Abyssinia, Grover C. Redding, and seven negroes, under arrest in connection with a riot last night in the Chicago black belt that resulted in the killing of two white men and the wounding of several negroes, police and federal officers began investigating the "Star Order of Ethiopia," whose members were reported to have participated.

Redding, who was said to have been head of the "modern educational and religious bureau of Washington, D. C.," had been ejected from a meeting of Abyssinians the previous Sunday. According to the police Jones identified Redding as a member of the "Star Order of Ethiopia," as a leader of a parade in the negro quarter last night and the man who burned an American flag, which set led to the rioting. Redding denied participation. The police were still searching for Joseph Ferno, who is said to call himself the "great Abyssinian," and his son. According to reports they were fantastically garbed, also were leaders of the parade.

According to the police, Jones arrived recently with flamboyant documents proclaiming him representative of Abyssinia and authorizing him to encourage racial emigration.

Officers Were Warned.

Jones said he had warned federal officers last week of the proposed parade but declared no attention was given his statement.

Packages of pamphlets explaining "Egyptian secrets" were taken from Redding. They were held as evidence of his alleged activities.

The inquest into the deaths of Charles Hoyt, night store clerk, Robert L. Ross, a sailor, riot victims, was postponed until June 26, at the request of the police who said they had three of the men believed to be implicated in the shooting under arrest when several hundred policemen were rushed into the quarter. After a night of unrest, the negro district was quiet today.

Several negroes and a white policeman were beaten in minor street fights following the disturbances.

While the police were quelling alleged leaders of the Abyssinian cult, E. J. Brennan, chief investigator for the department of justice, started an inquiry on behalf of the government.

"If any foreigners participated in the riot," he said, "they can be deported. If they were American citizens the disrespect they showed to the flag constituted the sufficient violation of the espionage act to warrant their prosecution."

He said investigation would be made to determine just how far the Abyssinian movement has spread.

Not Racial Riot.

Resolutions denouncing Jones as a "white leader" responsible for creating unrest among "the negro population" were passed today by several negro organizations. They said that the riot was not caused by racial feeling.

Jones was identified in New York dispatches as "Rev. Dr. R. D. Jones, secretary of the League of Darker People."

He was said to have been the chief speaker Sunday at a meeting to urge Mayor William Hale Thompson to become a candidate for president on a third party ticket backed by the "solid Irish and negro vote."

State's Attorney Hoyne today received a telegram from New York signed "Black Star Line, Inc. Marcus Garvey, president," saying that Redding "has often used the name of the Black Star line corporation. This man has been operating all over the United States and is a fraud."

The police said tonight two negro witnesses identified Redding as the man who killed Ross and Hoyt.

Redding protested his name was George Brown and that he had just come to Chicago from St. Louis.

Jones admitted to detectives he was witness identified Redding as the man who killed Ross and Hoyt.

PYTHIAN KNIGHTS ATTEND CONVENTION

Grand Chancellors Make Addresses, Officers for Idaho Grand Lodge Are Elected by Delegates.

W. A. Minick, W. E. Nixon, J. S. Waters and L. S. Ayotte returned Sunday from Kellogg, where they have been attending the convention of the Pythian Knights of the United States. During the convention they were honored by speeches from the grand chancellors of Washington and Oregon and by the grand officer of the imperial palace D. O. K. K.

In the competitive work for rank the loving cup was won by the team delegates of Southern Idaho. In the near future several contests will be held by the different teams. In the southern Idaho division to determine which team will have permanent possession of the cup.

In the elections P. W. Mitchell of Nez Perce was chosen grand chancellor; Hale Horne of Shoshone vice grand chancellor; C. W. Culp of Rothrum was re-elected master of exchequer; F. W. Volghander of Kellogg grand keeper of records and seals; G. M. McKenna of Nampa grand master at arms; W. A. Minick of Twin Falls grand inner guard, and W. M. Farmer of Blackfoot grand outer guard.

There were delegates at the convention from parts as far west as Mountain Home. The trip from Pocatello to Boise and return was made in a special train under supervision of W. A. Minick of Twin Falls.

Through the efforts of delegates from southeastern Idaho Rupert was selected as the place for the convention next year.

Mr. Minick, who was also a delegate to the democratic convention at Lewiston, was unable to attend it because of poor train connection.

Two Unsuccessful Candidates Ask Court to Make Committee Show Where Money Has Gone.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—William V. Mahoney and Miss Cora, Leonard Thomas, unsuccessful candidates for places on the District of Columbia delegation to the "democratic" national convention, filed suit in the district supreme court today against Judge Robert E. Mattingly, president; John P. Colpoys, secretary, and 15 other members of the democratic central committee of the district.

The plaintiffs ask an accounting of funds handled by the central committee and demand pro-rata reimbursement for all candidates in the recent democratic primary to the extent of the difference between deposits made by the candidates, which are estimated in the complaint at $4,225, and the cost of the primary, which is placed at not more than $850.

Charges of irregularities in the conduct of the primary, at which eight delegates were chosen also are made. Mahoney and Miss Thomas aver that the official ballots were not numbered and were not counted at the polling places but were returned to the headquarters of the central committee for tabulation. It is charged ballots were transferred by unattended judges and clerks, who, it is alleged, were selected by the defendants.

NO SESSION OF COUNCIL.

The city council was unable to meet last night as they did not have a quorum. Councilmen C. B. Channell, J. S. Russell and C. B. McMartin were not present.

Driving an automobile without a license or with numbers that are illegal is getting to be an expensive procedure in this city.

In Judge Duval's court two defendants were assessed fines for the violation of the law regarding automobile licenses.

Frank Mellin did not have the right license number on his car and entered a plea of guilty to charges filed in court. He was fined $25, which he paid.

Mrs. Ernest Egan was driving with out a license at all and this not being in accord with the law of the state she was called into court and on entering a plea of guilty was assessed a fine of $25.

Final Shipment of Material Received and Will Be Sent to Regiments Speedily.

The last installment of supplies for the primary election which is to be held on the third of August has arrived and the material will be sent to the precinct registrars in a short time by the county clerk and recorder.

The supplies are sent to the counties from the election officials in Boise and distributed to the various precincts by the local officials. The supplies are sent to the registrars sealed and the transmission of the documents requires considerable care on the part of the officials. With the delivery of the supplies just received the election material of the primary will be all ready for the use of the voters.

PUT "ON MAP" BY CANAL

Pitcairn Island Made Part of Call Through Construction of "Big Ditch" Across Panama.

Man moves in a mysterious way his business to perform. Or, if his ways are not mysterious, the consequences of them are likely to be so.

For more than a hundred years Pitcairn Island was reckoned one of the most isolated, out-of-the-way places inhabited by man. To the voyaging pharisee, it wasn't even on the road to nowhere. Everybody knew of the island, and how it was peopled by folk descended from the mutinous sailors of the British ship, Hooty, and their Tahitian wives. According to accounts, the mixture has resulted in a decidedly handsome population, but those accounts were few and far between, for not once in 20 years did any ship other than some wandering whaler or petty trader blow from the island, touch at the place.

From this almost planetary isolation, the little isle has been plucked by the Panama canal. If it is not an anticlimax what is? But Pitcairn is found to be on the direct route from the Pacific end of the big ditch to the principal Australian ports. It will become a port of call, a watering station, a place to rest fresh fruits and green vegetables, and something it will develop the usual characteristics of such localities, not excepting profiteers and local curio makers. Progress has its price and the Panama canal is no exception.

A Real Grievance.

The railroad official invited the stern citizen to communicate his troubles.

"I want you to give orders," demanded the citizen, "the engineer of the express, which passes through Elm Grove at 11:35 be restrained, and blowing his whistle on Sunday mornings."

"Impossible!" exploded the official. "What prompts you to make such a ridiculous request?"

"Well, you see," explained the citizen, in an undertone, "our pastor preaches until he hears that whistle blow, and that confounded express was twenty minutes late last Sunday."

—New York Central Magazine.

Giving to Get.

The average business mind is a paradox. Under the usual "nose-to-grindstone" conditions, resulting from the tendency to "do it all myself," and hesitation to delegate responsibility, we find in all lines of business too high a percentage of men who are the most perfect examples of chronic selfishness and suspicious greed. And yet it is these same men who, when they are shown how to drop their needless burden, are the most valiant of them for the better order of things under the banner of "Giving to Get."

The narrow selfishness becomes intelligent selfishness, with realization that under true co-operation each always gets more than he gives.—Murray Springer in Forbes Magazine.

Memorial to Norsemen.

Nearly five centuries before Columbus sailed to America, according to some historians, a party of Norsemen landed on the northeastern coast of the continent, and a few years later established a colony. As a memorial to these early explorers a rough stone tower has been erected at Akurendale, Alaska, where it is believed to occupy the same site as the legendary settlement. Investigation has failed to reveal any traces of building ruins in the vicinity, but has resulted in the finding of several old stone walls, which are thought to have been constructed by the inhabitants of the ancient village.

Strength in Faith.

It is the man or the woman of faith, and hence of courage, who is the master of circumstances, and who makes his or her power felt in the world. It is the man or the woman who lacks faith and who as a consequence is weakened and crippled by fears and forebodings, who is the creature of all passing occurrences.—Exchange.

Inevitable.

"They say that Washington never told me," estimated the Red Chevrolet, "but I don't believe it possible. Why, look here, when he got his discharge somebody was bound to ask him to tell about his war experiences, and—"

"No, sir, Washington just must have lied some,"—The Home Sector.

A HUMAN HEAVEN.
The Churchman wants to humanize heaven. "Rows of saints kneeling in perpetual adoration do not, as a continuous occupation, appeal to most people," says the writer.

"Heaven to attract must be attractive. We confess that certain hymns and teachings about heaven have left much to be desired. Heaven must be presented as exceeding all that we can desire; it must not be painted as something which we can not imagine ourselves desiring.

"In spite of the doctrine of the incarnation, there has been always among Christians a tendency to make God, heaven and the church inhuman. To some people human matters are unhalloved.

"More people, we believe, will want to go to church if they are taught to meet a human God there and to act like human beings in his presence, and more people will want to go to heaven, if heaven is described in the churches as a desirable place to live in. Let us dare to believe and trust that we shall have fun in heaven."

Most people will probably agree that he is right about it, though some good folk who cannot help thinking along traditional lines may be horrified at the apparent familiarity implied. The view here expressed is indicative of a great deal of modern thinking on theological subjects. There seems to be a widespread desire for a simpler, more natural treatment of such matters, and literally a more human conception of the Creator. As a practical church policy, for this present generation, it seems to promise success. And if humanizing heaven will help to angelize this wicked old earth, let it be done.

MANY SWITCHMEN GO OUT ON STRIKE

Numerous Railroads Are Affected by Walkout of Men; Who Declare Move "Unethical"

By the Associated Press.
HOUSTON, Texas, June 21.—Yard switchmen estimated to number 250, walked out in Houston terminals today. The roads affected are declared to be the Southern Pacific, the San Antonio and Arkansas Pass, the Gulf, Colorado and Santa Fe; Southern Bell and Terminal, and the International and Great Northern. Pickets have been placed on all road leading into Houston and incoming trains informed of the strike.

Officials of the International and Great Northern road deny any of their men are out, while those of the Southern Pacific claim that only one-half of their forces have quit. Fifty leaders deny these claims and state that 95 per cent of the men on all roads are out, and that the balance will quit before morning.

The movement is not classed by the men as a strike, the men simply quitting work and "taking a vacation," as they express it.

SUSPECT IS ARRESTED.
PITTSBURGH, June 21.—Officials of the Pittsburgh police department announced late tonight that they had arrested Oscar McGivick, negro of Chicago, who is wanted in connection with Sunday's rioting. He was arrested on instructions from the Chicago police.

RABBI WISE OBJECTS TO "CIGARETTED DARLINGS"

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., June 21.—The college men cannot center any devotion to society until the colleges are freed of "pampered, petted, cushioned and cigarette darlings," Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of the Free Synagogue of New York, told the graduating class in the 25th annual commencement at Stanford university here today. It was the largest graduation class in the history of the university, 474 receiving degrees.

"A considerable number of young men in the college today are suffering to share for doing their way through neither tolling nor spinning," Rabbi Wise said.

"There can be no relation between the colleges and the social order until the colleges can help men attain the spirit of self-control. There are too many young rich barbarians in our colleges who must be taught this art of art."

TWIN FALLS WINS IN GAME WITH DEFENDERS OF KIMBERLY
Sunday afternoon at the local ball park marked a day of grave disaster for the Kimberly ball team. They were massacred, quartered and buried by the local team. The game was well played with errors by both sides. The local team did really more work than necessary on such a hot afternoon as we had Sunday, scoring five more runs than were needed to secure the victory of the day. The final score was 7 to 1.

The local team is endeavoring to line up some more victims for the coming Sunday so as to get in good shape to give the local fans some real bait by the Fourth of July.

FUGITIVE EVADES AN ARMED POSSE

Whites Hunt for Black Man With Bloodhounds and Automobiles: "World Gladly Hang Him."

WILMINGTON, Del., June 21.—After being surrounded in a swamp near Laurel, Del., by an armed posse of 500 men, Isiah Fountain, condemned negro fugitive from the Eastern Md. jail, succeeded in breaking through the net driven by his pursuers shortly before midnight. Following an exciting chase in which bloodhounds and automobiles figured prominently the fugitive was again cornered in a woods near Hickman, Md.

Swearing vengeance and with open threats of lynching if the negro is caught, the posse has surrounded the woods.

Fountain was convicted for criminal assault upon Bertha Simpson, 15-year-old white girl, in Trappe, Md., on April 19 and was awaiting execution. Several weeks ago he made his escape from the Eastern jail but was soon captured.

BIBLE FOR CHINA

New Translation Has Been the Work of Many Years.

Said to Be the First Ever Put into the National Language of the Race, and Almost Perfect Literary Production.
After continuous labor extending over more than a quarter of a century by Chinese and foreign scholars, the announcement is made a new translation of the Bible has been completed for the Chinese people. The publication of this translation at an early date, under the title of the "Revised Mandarin Bible," is announced by the American Bible Society. The completion of the work will, it is stated, place this particular version in the hands of more individuals than were ever reached by any other translation. There have been Bibles in China for many years, of course, millions of them, but the forthcoming issue will be the first translated into the national language of the Chinese, and it is claimed that it will be the most nearly perfect literary production in the Chinese republic.

It will be interesting to many observers the word over to take careful note in the years to come of the effect of this translation upon the masses of the people of China. From the point of view of the western world, China is not rich in literature. This estimate is not disputed by many of the Chinese educated in America and European colleges. Confucius, when he edited what the Chinese designate the sacred canons, in the fifth century before the Christian era, presented the model of Chinese literary form, and reached, in the belief of his followers, the pinnacle of philosophic wisdom. These classics, including the works edited and actually written by those who called themselves his disciples, possibly excel in literary merit at least, the works of any other ancient civilization, and it is true that no other written works have for so many centuries molded the character, culture, morals and government of so great a nation. The veneration given throughout the centuries to the wisdom of Confucius has, because of the constant study of his philosophy, preserved the language almost unchanged for three centuries, and set a permanent standard in the nation's literature. In one of the books of this great series, that known as the "Analects" of Confucius, in which his sayings and maxims are recorded by his disciples, there are given what purport to be accounts of the habits and records of the teachings of the great Chinese moralist. In it there is found the sage's text on altruism, called the golden rule in Chinese form, which, translated, reads: "What you would not others should do unto you, do not unto them."—Christian Science Monitor.

The Longest Tunnel.
The longest and largest tunnel in the world will probably soon be built under the Hudson river to connect New York with New Jersey. There are several tunnels large enough for railroad trains but the new tube under the river is to be thirty feet high and two or three large tunnels or automobiles to run abreast. The tunnel will be much more than a mile in length and thirty feet or more in diameter. It is estimated that 10,000 vehicles can pass in both directions every hour in such a tunnel, which is more than twice as many as pass up and down Fifth avenue, probably the busiest street today in the world. The great problem of the tunnel is to provide ventilation, since the tube will be 3,800 feet long between the ventilating shafts. Fresh air will be forced in and the bad air allowed to escape by elaborate system of pipes.—Boys' Life.

To Irrigate Egypt.
A project for obtaining control of the waters of the Upper Nile is being seriously contemplated. The work will extend over a generation, and involve the expenditure of tens of millions of dollars, affecting the entire future of irrigation throughout the Nile basin. A commission has already been formed and consists of three members: an irrigation engineer, nominated by the government of India, a president, and a British physicist, nominated by the University of Cambridge, and an irrigation engineer, nominated by the government of the United States, constitutes the third member.

Jimmy's Role.
"Billy's mother heard a great commotion in the yard when he was playing with some other boys. Looking out, she saw him chasing one of his playmates around the yard, who was making an outcry at every jump. "Why, Billy," she called, "whenever you are doing?" "Oh, I'm running a blind pig and Jimmy's playing he's the pig," was the breathless reply.

JURISTS CONSIDER COURT OF NATIONS

International Judges in Fair Way to Secure Adoption of Host-Philimore Plan of Action.

THE HAGUE, June 21.—The conference of international jurists, gathered to discuss a fair way today for an agreement on the adoption of what may be called the Host-Philimore plan for a high court of nations. Though all arrangements are tentative, the plan, submitted by Lord Phillimore, representing Great Britain at today's session would give the League of Nations council, which is controlled by the big powers, the right to name the panel from which the assembly of the league in which all nations will be represented, would choose perhaps 16 representatives. The assembly could accept the panel in its entirety or in part, or reject it and submit a panel of its own. In the event of conflict, these candidates who appeared in both panels would probably automatically be chosen, while the conference comes from the council and assembly would select the others.

Lord Phillimore and Elinor Root, former American secretary of state, are in harmony, it is said, on the adoption of this plan, which emphasizes the view long held by the American jurist, namely, that it is only by a compromise between the interests of the large and small nations that working arrangements for the high court can be reached.

The greatest desire of the jurists has been to preserve, if possible, complete separation of the political question of the league from the abstract justice of the high court. The plan was submitted today only as a rough draft and much is required to be done before it is worked out or adopted. But the jurists were inclined to treat it favorably.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grand-mother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage. Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply, moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

on an executive committee to have general charge of the campaign, but its personnel will not be made public until tomorrow to permit Chairman Hays to communicate with the proposed members and ascertain whether they will serve. It was understood, however, that among members appointed was Harry M. Daugherty, of Columbus, Ohio; pre-convention campaign manager for Senator Harding. Under a rule adopted by the Chicago convention, the committee is to be increased to 15 members, the five new members to be women.

The conference was the first formal meeting between the republican presidential nominees and members of the national committee.

Mr. Hays issued a statement today praising Senator Harding and Governor Coolidge, the vice presidential nominee, as men measuring "up to every requirement of a presidential candidate."

"I'm strong for Senator Harding on the front porch campaign plan," he said, adding that Governor Coolidge held a similar attitude. Such a method, he asserted, "is the only proper way for running a presidential campaign."

Mr. Hays told newspapermen that the center of activity for the campaign would be Chicago.

He said, however, that the New York office would be no less important than in the past. Headquarters also will continue to be maintained, he said, in Washington and San Francisco with a branch in Denver.

In declining to discuss campaign issues, Mr. Hays said he felt compelled to do so until after Mr. Harding had made his speech of acceptance. The chairman said he expected Mr. Daugherty to take more than an advisory part in the campaign.

Chairman Hays in his formal statement said:

"Senator Harding possesses just those vital qualities of mind and heart necessary today and in the time just ahead. His poise of mind, his soundness of judgment, his hold on fundamentals, his appreciation of the needs of today and of tomorrow, his love of the people from whom he came and of whom he is one, and his faith in them; his magnificent grasp of large affairs, his great native ability and his training in statesmanship, his respect for the opinion of others, his experience and success in the handling of men, his proper appreciation of his country's position as a responsible factor in the world's future, but with the fullest realization of the absolute importance of our own supreme national alliance, his sterling Americanism, his righteous character and manhood, and with all, his thorough humanness qualify him in the most exceptional degree for the tremendous responsibility which will soon be his. He will make a splendid candidate and a great president. The country will love him, honor him, trust him and follow him, just as all who know him, love and trust him, and the world will honor him.

Then, too, if Governor Coolidge who have a candidate for vice president that measures up to every requirement of a presidential candidate. Fortunately indeed, is the country."
Senator Smart, said Mr. Harding a farewell visit before leaving today for Utah.

GOVERNOR STEPHENS WRITES TO COLBY

Asserts Japanese Menace to State and Favors Law to Deny Them Certain Rights.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 21.—The influx of Japanese into California has brought about "glaring conditions" and it has become necessary to protect the sovereignty of the state against this "growing menace" through diplomatic negotiation or strict exclusion, Gov. William D. Stephens said in a letter addressed to Secretary of State Colby today.

Governor Stephens expressed the hope in the letter that the initiative measure now being projected in the state to deny Japanese the right to purchase or leasehold would be acceptable to the electorate by an overwhelming majority. While California harbors no animosity against the Japanese people, he said, the state does not wish them to settle within her borders and to develop a Japanese population in her midst. He asks that immediate negotiations be entered into with the empire of Japan to make impossible any further "excesses" of existing immigration agreements and to make such agreements as rigorous as possible.

"Twenty years ago our Japanese population was nominal," the letter states. "Ten years ago the census reports of the United States government showed a Japanese population in California of 41,356. A computation and survey recently made by the board of control of the state of California indicates that the Japanese population has been more than doubled—amounting now to 87,278. The last figures available indicate that the Japanese population comprises between 30 and 35 per cent of the total Japanese population of continental United States."

Governor Stephens said he feared that the initiative measure, if passed, might fall short of its purpose through the Japanese retaining possession of agricultural land through personal employment contracts, and that therefore government action was necessary.

THEY WANT LA FOLLETTE.

"Senator Robert La Follette is the presidential choice of an overwhelming majority of the people of this state and we pledge our delegation to work for his nomination."

The Non-Partisan league of South Dakota has officially selected the 10 delegates to attend the Chicago convention.

STRONG FOR WRITTEN WORD.

Puritans, Unlike the Cavaliers, Early Evincing a Pronounced Liking for Literary Expression.

If there was ever a race that knew the value of the written word, it was the Puritans of New England. For the arts of music, drama and painting he cared little; he connected them with his dearest foe, Antichrist, or as Cotton Mather preferred to call him, "the devil's eldest son." But of the impulse to expression in the form of literature he was not only permitted by his creed he was personally conscious. He was not hampered by the conception already shaping itself in the minds of his Cavalier brethren in Virginia that the production of literature was a bit unworthy of the attention of a gentleman. The Puritan had that more democratic view of life which has ever been the prime essential of great creative effort. "Writing concerning with the other world," projected itself into the somber, horror, sometimes beauty. And if the first fruits are often repellent to us, it must always be remembered that his impulse, when it ceased to be a mere impulse, became a motive force of art and produced the supreme creation of "The Scarlet Letter."

Some ingenuity has been expended in the effort to draw a distinction between the social and economic conditions of the Pilgrims at Plymouth and the Puritans at Massachusetts bay, but from the standpoint of literary expression they are one people. Chastened by their enemies in England, the Puritans, and the Puritans adopting the same in the first and greatest of their books, William Bradford's account "Of Plymouth Plantation." These three words comprise the title of the manuscript whose history reads "The Pilgrims at Plymouth and the Puritans at Massachusetts bay," by Arthur Hobson Quinn in Scribner's.

Tuberculosis in Cattle.

The bureau of animal industry of the department of agriculture reports that tuberculosis in cattle was responsible for the condemnation of more cattle slaughtered under federal meat inspection last year than all other diseases combined. Information from the bureau shows that 50,477 carcasses of cattle were condemned in post-mortem inspection and of that number 37,000 were the result of tuberculosis. In addition 53,652 parts of cattle carcasses were condemned for the same cause. The bureau points out that tuberculosis in cattle and hog cholera and swine are the two most serious contagious diseases affecting meat animals, and there is evidence that a heavy loss occurs on farms in addition to condemnations at establishments where government inspection is maintained.

Augmenting Foliage Growth.

In the course of experiments with intensive horticultural methods a Canadian agronomist has developed an interesting way of forcing foliage growth. His method is simply to make a number of horizontal perforations in the main root of the plant. Naturally, his experiments were made with lettuce, parsley, and other plants valued solely for their leaves. Working with several parsley plants, for example, he forced growth to 32 inches in diameter and 18 inches in height, in cases where similar untreated plants measured respectively 22 and 12 inches.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Far From It, G. L.

According to William J. Linton of Ketchikan, Alaska, Ketchikan is one place where there is no need to worry about the high cost of living. He says: "You could come to Ketchikan and build your own shack in the country near by, catch the fish as quickly as you could cast your line in the rippling streams, shoot deer and other game enough to last you for months, make your own maple sugar, render your own tallow, trade some extra fish for bread or flour, trade a little meat for furniture or make it yourself, and be comfortably happy."

Some Chance for Him.

When Jack Jolly, the golf ball manufacturer, was in town last fall a friend with whom he was playing said: "Jack, do you think I'll ever learn to play this game?" "How old are you?" asked Jack. "Forty-two," was the reply. "Well," retorted Jack, "I have a friend in Scotland who was 81 years old his last birthday and he says his game is still improving."

RUSS FEAST DAY

Pretty Ceremonies Described by American Traveler.

Singing and Dancing by Peasant Girls and Boys Chief Feature of the Occasion—Survival of Primitive Customs.

It was the Feast of Transfiguration, and from all the countryside around came the poor, the crippled and the aged. Again and again we heard the tapping of a cane and a plaintive voice asking alms of the peasants. Even the Christ's sake. "Yehshu said," dropped a few kopaks into his bag, he thrust before them. The women followed with large pieces cut from the black loaves, while Ivan in each sack solemnly deposited a great green cucumber. This year cucumbers were scarce, as it was from Ivan, a true gift of love. But whether we gave cucumber or bread or kopaks, the peasants were all the same, singing and dancing of the peasant. Even the roughest, poorest Russian peasant is moved to profound pity by the spectacle of human misery. His own life teaches him the meaning of pain and privation, but they do not dull his sympathy. They make him more sensitive to the sufferings of others.

Now from the farther end of the village came the strains of music. There was a chorus of young voices, accompanied by the thrumming of the balalaika, the clanging of cymbals and the thrumming of the bouben, a kind of tambourine. Clearer and clearer came the music until suddenly around the corner of the church emerged the procession of priests and singers. The girls were in the gay, rich costumes of the peasants, and the boys wore smocks of green and orange and brightest blue, belted by cords with tassels end. The instruments were in the hands of the boys. The girls sang in response to the priest. He was a clean-looking, round-faced man of seventy, one of the last to be invited to the feast. In a clear, lusty voice with an abundance of emotion he sang old folk songs, adding new verses of his own, as he strode along. Three times they circled the village green, and then gathering on the grass before the church, they sang and danced till morning. The rush and the flying of the dancers, the flung, colored costumes in the light of the pine torches, the laughter and matches of song rising out of the dark, the young lovers with their caresses frank and unashamed, the church bell at intervals giving like a great temple gong, and the startled light which overheard made an impression of primitive energy and beauty. I was carried back across the centuries to the days when the race was young and the men drew life and inspiration directly from the soil.—Albert Rhys Williams in Yale Review.

In the Limelight.

Wagons are treacherous devices. My own experience with one was in a brief June just before I reached the bustling corner in town. I did not know that the beast I gave the "wagon" had done any damage to either of us, and so, when I swung into the main intersection I planned a perfectly snappy turn.

Around came the steering wheel and I felt it lock. I felt for the brake, but in my excitement struck the gas and began circling the traffic cop at breakneck speed. He dodged me at least three times before I stopped, the exact center of downtown attention. Then he regained his breath and raised his voice for all the world to hear.

"If you are finished with this ground exhibition," he advised, "please go somewhere else so the traffic can get by."—Exchange.

Necktie Banks Now.

The latest thing in coin-saving devices is reported by the woman who are drifting into Virginia, Minn., in increasing numbers. Instead of the old scheme of carrying their shawls in their wooden socks, loose in their pockets or in a wallet, the lumber jacks and miners now carry it in their neckties. They insert the bills in the lining of the necktie, pin the tie and then tuck it in the front of their shirt. The natives live in the fact that one has his bank directly in front of him at all times. Incidentally, wood workers are wearing neckties this year than ever before.—Philadelphia Record.

Houses for Scotland.

Scotland is undergoing an almost ceaseless agitation for more and better houses, and the inquiries are more numerous than ever for American lumber, hardware and machine tools. With the war low Scotland needs more than 100,000 new homes. In many cities six and eight families have been living in small dwellings, sometimes one or two families in a room. The Scottish program for 1920 calls for 10,000 houses.

Famous Holliston Elms.

Elms at Holliston, Mass., planted about the year 1747 have been nominated for place in the Hall of Fame of the American Forestry association at Washington. They may have been six or seven feet in circumference during Washington's time.

The Idea.

The "backer-of-the-show" complained that his cnic was dough. "I suppose the star gave him to understand that is what angel wings generally turn out to be."

Mrs. Burton E. Mores was hostess yesterday afternoon at her home for the members of the Monday Reading club. The afternoon was spent in discussing the events of the day. Those present were Mesdames Alken, Scott, Beaver and Langley.

The Twentieth Century club met in the city park yesterday to discuss and vote on the advisability of buying the C. A. Blair home for a clubhouse. After a lengthy discussion it was voted down. The Blair home on Third North was also offered but it was decided that nothing further would be done in the matter.

The club then talked of raising money, a set amount, each year and place this out at interest and buy a home when a sufficient fund had been raised. This plan was well received.

A birthday dinner was held Sunday at Calvin Orchard, Kimberly, honoring Miss Pearl Pussey. The afternoon was spent under the great spread of orchard trees with games. A birthday dinner was served, under the tree on a table covered with a large birthday cake. Kimberly guests were Mr. and Mrs. Will Halden and two children, Mr. and Mrs. Pussey and Clarence and Jacob, Mrs. H. Weaver and Mr. and Mrs. S. A. Powe of Twin Falls.

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, June 21.—Striking railroad employees tonight claimed large additions to their forces and complete tie-up of the lines entering this city within 24 hours. On the other hand, railroad officials issued optimistic statements in contradiction to the strikers' claims.

The strikers declare nearly 3,000 men are out. The railroads reported marked improvement in the situation in the freight yards.

In a statement tonight the Pennsylvania road said in three shifts today only 1,151 men failed to report for work.

Officials of the Reading claim only 400 of its men are out, while the Baltimore and Ohio reported a "negligible" number quit.

Strike leaders tonight declare "the delay of the railroad labor board in adjusting their grievances is the cause."

REIGN OF TERROR EXISTS IN CITY OF LONDONDERRY

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, June 21.—Dispatches from Ireland are evidently undergoing delays. Telegrams to the news agencies filed at midday occupied five hours in transmission. They confirm reports that the normal life of the city has been suspended in Londonderry, with all vehicles withdrawn from the streets and shops and banks are closed. The quays being under fire, employees have been obliged to cease work. Thousands of factory girls likewise, during the firing were seen fleeing terrified.

Organized groups of men were observed kneeling and firing valleys at the word of command.

BEHIND LAW INVALID

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—The state supreme court today declared unconstitutional the state soldiers' fund act of 1915 which provided for a $10,000,000 bond issue to purchase land for entry by men who served in the military forces during the war. The proposition was to have come on the ballot at the November election.

The measure was enacted by the Non-Partisan legislature in 1919.

QUAINT OLD ENGLISH CUSTOM

Dwellers in Cornish Village Maintain Their Right to the Status With Reverence.

In Launceston, a small town in Cornwall, one thing and one old custom have remained in spite of the fact that it is a contributor to London County Life, who relates a curious survival of the old days when Oliver Cromwell and his troops were in the town. The custom is that of the three windows at the east end of the parish church, is a little less than life-size, and represents the Magdalen as lying face down in an attitude of grief. By her side is what is described as a skull or the box of ointment.

What is still more interesting is the large number of stones, pebbles and pieces of slate always to be seen scattered about the church, and the figures or upon the sill of the window above. They represent the triumph of custom or superstition. The people believe that if you cast a stone up at the figure and it comes down, it will get your reward. If you touch the statue with disrespect you will suffer. The stones on the window sill represent failure; those on the figure, success. The people of Launceston are reluctant to talk about this belief of theirs. If you ask, they will half shyly tell you that the children believe it, and that they remember that when they were children they threw a stone at the figure and it came down. A pair of boots or a coat of some kind. "And did you get it?" you ask. "You will generally be told, 'Yes.' If you watch, you will see that the children still believe it, and that some of the 'oldsters' have long since passed school age. The stones are always there, always increasing. Of the many stories I heard of the Magdalen of Launceston one was of how the narrow, worn old boy, many years ago, came running home from school, and passing the statue, jumped at it to hit its face. He told me that it might have been that or it might not, but before he was out of the churchyard he had slipped and his head was in bed for many days. No one seems to know how old the custom is, but the statue itself is not old as ecclesiastical figures could be.

Power From Gas

The question of transmitting power long distances by means of gas made in the coal fields is raised in the engineering supplement of a British paper. One of the objects sought in erecting the proposed gas pipelines in England and distributing electricity from them, is to save the cost of conveying coal to individual factories. It is possible that the same advantage may be realized by transmitting gas instead of electricity.

It is suggested further that the gas now made in a multiplicity of gas works scattered all over the country could be generated on modern lines in large works on the coast. The writer calculates that the money spent on the carriage of one year's coal by one of the London gas undertakings would alone suffice to pay for a main line enough to bring from Yorkshire all the gas made in the year.—New York Post.

Nitrates From the Air

When Thomas Edison was asked recently what he considered the greatest inventions since the electric light, he mentioned first wireless telegraphy and second the American process for making nitrogen from the air. Before the war we depended upon Germany for our supply of nitrogen, and especially for the fertilizers which made our farms so productive. The Germans had deposits which they only need dig out of the ground to sell at enormous prices. Today there are great plants in the south where the air is put under pressure and frozen to a liquid form from which in turn the nitrogen is extracted. The supply is of course absolutely limitless. By increasing water falls to which plants the work is done very cheaply.—Boys' Life.

Cannaries Betrayed Burglars

While on patrol on Henry street one night recently the constables were followed by another. Above him half a dozen men were flying about. Killed investigated and found that the exodus of canaries was from a bird store. And in the semi-darkness, he saw five men moving about who were arrested. They were locked up on charges of burglary.

Rice Long Cultivated

Rice is generally considered to be a native of China, but it is the fact that Emperor Chin-Kong, who ruled 2800 years before Christ, established a ceremonial ordinance which prescribed that the emperor should sow the rice himself, while for other kinds of seed may be sown by princes of his family.

And in America

In Japan planting means delight and usually signifies a greeting. In West Africa it denotes attachment. In the New Hebrides it is evoked by anything beautiful. With the Bautes it is a sign of cordial agreement.

PROMINENT ENGLISHMEN GUESTS OF AMERICANS

LONDON, June 21.—Arthur J. Hall, lord president of the council of the British cabinet; Herbert A. F. Fisher, minister of education; Sir Henry W. Thornton, general manager of the Great Eastern Railway, and Ambassador Davis were principal speakers at the fourth annual dinner of the American university union tonight. Vais, Harwood, and Princeton had the largest delegations.

Mr. Hall was entertained by the college songs and yells, but made a serious speech later, dwelling on the advantages of the individuality of universities and addressing the assembly of professors and students between British and American colleges.

SMITH ISSUES ULTIMATUM

By the Associated Press.
BALTIMORE, June 21.—Pennsylvania railroad officials declared tonight that the trainmen's strike insofar as it affects the road here, was virtually ended with the return of work today of more than one-half of the strikers.

This action, they explained, followed the issuance of an ultimatum by G. M. Smith, superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio, that all men who did not return by 4 p. m. could consider themselves out of the service.

Heads of Church of England

The highest office in the Church of England is held by the archbishop of Canterbury, officially known as primate of all England, in distinction from the archbishop of York, who is simply primate of England. The jurisdiction of the latter extends over the province or county of York, which includes ten dioceses in that part of England from the Humber to the Tweed and embraces the Isle of Man as well. The rest of England is under the jurisdiction of the archbishop of Canterbury. That dignity, however, as primate of all England, is supposed to possess a certain authority over the church in the whole country. His precedence on all public occasions, not only of the archbishop of York, but of all the nobility save the immediate members of the royal family. He crowns the king, but the queen is crowned by the archbishop of York.

Worth Paying Premiums For

A $5,000 life insurance policy was taken out on a boy exhibited in Portland, Ore., recently. This boy is a White Leghorn, owned by Doctor Tanager of Kent, Wash. She set a world's record for production by laying 330 eggs in 365 days ending September 15. This is about four times the production of the average hen. Her owner consented to allow her to be placed on exhibition by one of the poultry feed companies. But stipulated that she must be insured for $5,000.

YARDMEN'S UNIONS ARE TO ASK MODIFICATION

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, June 21.—Independent railroad yardmen's unions will ask the democratic party during the San Francisco convention to guarantee a modification of the Esch-Cummins law if it is returned to power. William Lock, attorney for the striking yardmen declared today. A protest also would be made, he said, against what he termed "unwarranted delay" in the decision of the labor board.

Edward J. Gull, treasurer of the Detroit yardmen's association, in a statement today charged that the board's work was being held up by the big "brotherhoods, which, he said, had threatened to call a strike if the board decided to reinstate their receding members.

MINNESOTA SCENE OF CLOSE CONTEST

Complete Returns Needed to Tell Who Is Victor in Race for Republican Nomination.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 22.—Two candidates, one endorsed by the national non-partisan league, led the field for the republican gubernatorial nomination when returns on yesterday's primary had been received early today from one-sixth of the state.

It became apparent that, not virtually complete, returns had been received would the outstanding basis of the election be determined—whether the non-partisan league, sweeping down from North Dakota, would capture the republican state ticket nominations.

J. A. O. Proulx, endorsed for the nomination by the statewide party elimination convention in May and now state auditor, had a lead of more than 10,000 votes over Dr. Henrik Shipstead, non-partisan league choice, in the republican gubernatorial contest, with 450 precincts out of 1,105 in the state had been heard from.

The count from these precincts was Proulx 27,687 and Shipstead 20,084, with the other four candidates trailing the nearest of the contest commanding 10,000 votes. The returns, measured in precincts, were about one-half from the rural communities, with the others from Hennepin and Ramsey counties, in which are located Minneapolis and St. Paul respectively. The returns on the democratic gubernatorial contest were slower, and while L. C. Hodgson, recently re-elected mayor of St. Paul, held a narrow margin lead, he was crowded by two other candidates and the nomination was clearly in doubt.

COMMISSION HEARS HEAT RATE CASE

Power Company Wants Higher Rates; Consumers-State School Asked Would Be Exorbitant.

Upon paper of the Idaho Power company, hearings were begun yesterday before state utilities commission on the application of the power company for permission to raise the heating rates.

The hearings are being held in the county commissioners' rooms in the court house. The full membership of the commission is on hand and sitting.

Petitioning power company opened with a showing corresponding to that made in its application for right to increase irrigation pumping rates. The position taken, however, was attacked by Attorney John W. Graham for the consumers of Twin Falls, Paul Haddock for Shoshone, consumers and Green for Buhl consumers, on the ground that contracts made for heating were based primarily on the proposition of the company and with the statement that the current use was in fact a by-product, that the equipment used in providing pumping would be idle during the winter months, and that its use for heating houses was a saving even at a very low figure, which the company had named and with which it solicited contracts and with which it induced people to build houses without other methods for heating.

The hearing will last for several days. A large number of consumers of Twin Falls are attracted from self interest, many of them being in the hands of many marching patrols and Shriners here from every state in the Union, the annual imperial reunion of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, had become fairly launched tonight, although the official sessions will not begin until tomorrow.
