

ESSEX CAR MAKES NATIONAL RECORD

Blair Langford Tells About Conditions Under Which Test Was Made.

Referring to his remarkable drive in his Essex car from Twin Falls to Dulh and return, last Thursday morning, Mr. Blair Langford of the Sullaby Hardware company said, "Perhaps thirty-four miles in forty-six minutes does not seem very fast to some motorists especially considering that there are in existence automobile records of approximately three miles per minute. However, if any of them imagine that 46 miles per hour from a standing start with two complete stops and many right angle turns, and over the road to Dulh in its present condition, is not fast, let them try it. I'll wager that they have been somewhere if they do it."

The Johnson Auto Sales company report that hundreds of telegrams are being received by the Essex Motors company at Detroit, from all over the nation, telling of wonderful performances of the Essex car. In this special "watch the Essex Week," these telegrams setting forth both the speed, economy and wonderful endurance of this little car. Two splendid California records have been established according to the following wire: "San Francisco Dealer makes Los Angeles and return with sealed hood, 33 hours, 54 minutes, averaging better than 23 miles to the gallon of gasoline, oil consumed 3 quarts, no water. At the same time Los Angeles Dealer made San Francisco and return over another route 878 miles with high gear sealed, also hood and radiator, averaging 22 three-quarters miles per gallon."

All of the cars used in all demonstrations are standard stock cars without special gear ratios or any other mechanical changes whatever, and all using standard, ordinary grade of fuel.

Concerning local performances to Johnson Auto Sales company, believes that the record made between Twin Falls and Dulh by Mr. Langford will remain unbroken for some time.

JAP WOMEN WITHOUT RIGHTS

Many Restrictions to Be Removed Before There Can Be Thought of Suffrage.

Perhaps it is a little premature for Japanese women to think of suffrage when they are actually prevented from even passively listening to political speeches. It is curious to note in this connection that not a single voice has yet been raised against the legal disability of married women and also against the injustice—or at least the unfairness—to daughters of the Japanese law of succession.

According to Japanese law, married women form a class of incapacitated persons, the other classes under the same category being (1) minors, (2) incompetent persons (idiotics), and (3) quasi-incompetent persons (persons of weak intellect, deaf, dumb or blind persons and spendthrifts).

Married women must obtain the permission of their husbands in order (a) to receive or invest capital; (b) to contract loans or to become surety; (c) to do acts having for their object the acquisition or loss of rights in immovable or important movable property; (d) to make gifts, compromise or arbitration agreements; (e) to accept or waive successions; (f) to accept or refuse gifts or legacies; or (g) to make contracts putting themselves under any personal restraint, and any such act done without the requisite permission may be canceled by the authors themselves or their husbands.—Japan Chronicle.

ALBANIA FIRST IN FIELD

"Dairy Lunch" Well Known in That Country Long Before It Was Introduced Here.

Long before the dairy lunch or the cafeteria, those well-known American institutions into which the American business man dashes willy-nilly at noon hour and helps himself from a tempting array of eats, burst upon the great republic, Albania had them. The "pick 'em yourself" places may have been a novelty in the States

States ten or fifteen years ago, but even then they were an odd institution in Albania.

The carefully scrubbed marble top of the American dairy lunch, resting on a long table of marble front and sides, is replaced in the Albanian one by a dainty piece of rock about six feet long, three feet wide and four feet deep, resting on a bulky jar of timber, which, in turn, is supported by wooden legs—just as bulky.

The whole is as rugged as the mountains from which it all came. In the stone, somewhere back in the past, circular-like excavations were produced at regular intervals. In the bottom of these a hot charcoal fire smolders over which slowly cook the chicken, the turkey, the potatoes or the rice. At one end of the rock are the knives, forks and plates.

Born, Not Made.

From day to day proof is forthcoming that genius is spontaneous and not a slow growth—that it is of the type of Minerva who sprang full-armed from the head of Zeus. This is evidently the case of the genius of the mart as it is popularly supposed to be of the mere esthetic forms of genius. An instance in substantiation of this opinion was recently related by a veteran business man as a side light on the why of the success of a well-known industrial leader.

"I remember him," it was related, "when he was a lad of six years. He wanted to trade a lantern for one owned by a playmate, which he admired. Coming to his father, he asked counsel about the matter and was informed that he should use his own judgment."

"Well, dad," said the boy, "I believe in trade; but couldn't you take the oil out first?"—Wall Street Journal.

Procession of all kinds are to be found in the streets of Stamboul, and with no traffic regulations it is difficult to quite watch headway. In "The Daily Inconstant of Stamboul" in the Travel Magazine, Miss Lucy Garnett finds herself in mixed society. "In company with a large drove of turkeys, we take our way along the boulevard street lined on either hand with shops. Presently the turkeys get into difficulties with a file of humans bearing on their Atlas-like shoulders piles of bedding and curiously ornamented chests and coffers. These hutes and chests constitute the wedding trousseau and 'plenshaling' of a Turkish bride. The turkeys are soon marshaled to be dispersed many times before they are finally landed near the great mosque where they are to be sold in celebration of a Moslem festival.

May Baskets.

Hanging May baskets seems to be a purely American custom, which probably was fostered in New England, at least among all the varied pastimes with which the day has been associated, there is no mention of May baskets in the old histories of the day. In New England, particularly, the May baskets are exceedingly popular, especially in the rural sections. In the country, a girl hangs a May basket on the door of the house in which her lover lives. Then she rings the bell and runs. If he catches her before she reaches home, he is entitled to a kiss.

In the cities, the young folks are usually content to send their offerings through the mail or by a messenger boy.

Cause of Her Tears.

I had watched a small girl sitting on my front steps crying for some little time. I thought she was the little girl who had moved in next door; and so I figured she would run home in a short time and tell her mother her trouble, but as she still stayed there and no one from next door came out I went to investigate.

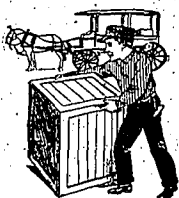

"What are you crying for?" I asked in a kindly tone.

She said: "Well, a while ago I was crying because I bumped my knee, but just lately I been crying 'cause mother wouldn't come and get me and pay 'rention to my crying."—Chicago Tribune.

Smoke Recorder on Chimney.
A new application of the metal selenium, suggested by a French scientist, L. Angel, is to use the selenium cells as smoke recorders in chimneys. A selenium cell is mounted on one side of a chimney or flue; on the opposite side is fixed a lamp. The amount of light falling upon the selenium and hence the resistance of the cell will depend upon the density of the smoke in the flue; the density, therefore, be controlled by the galvanometer records.

Few Finnish Tenant-Farmers.
The farms of Finland are small, though there are many large estates. These have been expropriated by the state, the bill providing that the original owners should be remunerated according to a fixed pre-war valuation. The bill also provides for financing the purchase of these lands by its former tenants and renters. It is estimated that 99.2 per cent of Finnish farms are owned outright by the farmers.

DISTINCTION

General Grant said he would have cherished the distinction of being a successful man of business higher than the renown of a great soldier.

Being successful in business may well be looked upon as a distinction. Assuredly it calls for the coralling of all one's powers and possibilities, and unrelenting effort.

We have figured largely in many business successes. We want to figure in many more.

GOOD HARVEST NEWS.

Reports from various parts of the country where harvesting is imminent or already begun show crops to be heavier than it was believed in the spring that they could be.

Now that crops for transportation of crops, and money for the harvest season, will keep coming along with a fair degree of regularity...

It is another job for pessimism and the doctrine of unbelief. The weather, which did some men's work early in the season, has averaged up just as usual.

PHIVOIOUS EATING.

Speaking of the dancing mania, which is stronger in America than anywhere else in the world, Blasec Ibanes, the Spanish author, flunk himself marvelling at the "dinner dance" particularly.

"You have married dancing and gastronomy," he says, "and in 19 years you will have a nation of dyspeptics. First you eat a course, then you dance. I tell you eating should be made a serious occupation."

The critic is not a physician, but possibly he knows what he is talking about. Dancing is doubtless fine exercise, as is the volaric habit, but the general experience of mankind has never been such as to recommend exercising at meals except with the pigs.

Americans do not seem to be taking their dancing too seriously. A little more respect for food might be an excellent thing. Still, this warning about becoming a nation of dyspeptics is not so fearsome as it might be.

We have always been called a nation of dyspeptics, and have thrived on the allegation, and even taken pride in it. Having endured all these years the hot drinks, cold drinks and miscellaneous gastronomic crimes that are the horror of the Europeans, maybe we can endure the dancing, too.

Convention Names

Moore Makes Charges. "Having that several delegations were packed with government employees, holding out for the nomination of McAdoo, Moore's telegram asserted that the action of the payroll brigade is creating a national scandal to the ruin of the democratic party."

"They know there is no chance to nominate him," the telegram continued, "but hope to bring about a situation where they can beat off the delegates to name candidates where their jobs will be protected."

Justice Moore expressed the opinion that Mr. McAdoo would not be a party to such a deal and urged that in his own and his party's interest he vote in the convention for the nomination of his name.

The result of the Georgia caucus, it was reported, was to give 28 to McAdoo. Massachusetts, it was reported, would throw most of her 36 to Cox. While the caucus was going on, the floor of the convention was discussing the aspect of a country fair ground with a lot of electioneering in progress. Here and there was a speaker on a chair, making a slight speech in his favorite candidate, with an admiring crowd about him. One speaker would try to draw the other fellow's crowd away after the manner of a belly-dancer on one of the Staghorns. The speaker called for order and a start of balloting.

Robinson Not Elected. Chairman Robinson, sitting at ease in his big chair with his hands folded over his stomach, taking a slight speech of a week, smiling and replied: "What's your hurry? Let's wait a moment."

Indiana, the Cox forces said, would come back to them when needed. Some of the McAdoo leaders admitted that Cox might get a majority but argued that would not help him, and they would not weaken and insist upon his setting the necessary conditions for his own efforts and without their help.

At 10:12 o'clock Chairman Robinson returned and decided the convention ought to go back to work. It went into the 30th ballot with Robinson leading. It was like a fresh start toward home after a long and vexatious delay at the roadside.

The faithful Pennsylvanians decided to vote once more for the attorney general on the basis of the split with Robinson. It was forecast, more than 40 to McAdoo.

The shifts and changes of the ballot were important. Alabama, first crack out of the box, broke 16 to 16 for McAdoo, and 16 to 16 for Robinson. Georgia's 28 went solid for McAdoo in the forest and, the McAdoo demonstrators got a great noise out of it.

HOPER OUTPOINTS MARTIN

AKRON, Ohio, July 5.—Captain Bob Hoper outpointed Bob Martin, champion of the American expeditionary forces, in a 15-round contest here today according to ring-side critics. Both tried hard for a knockout.

Hoper won chiefly because he repeatedly beat Martin to the punch. In the third he drew blood and from then on was hammering Martin in the face.

Martin's body blows at times were almost terrific and Hoper cautiously covered his midriff throughout most of the contest.

The first and twelfth rounds were even. Martin had the advantage in the second, fourth and eighth; but the other six were Hoper's.

Hoper's weight was announced at 181 1/2; Martin's 188 1/4.

HOME TEAM DEFEATED; JEROME IS VICTORIOUS

In the basketball game between the Jerome and Twin Falls teams staged at Jerome last Sunday the Twin Falls side won down to their first defeat of the year. The score was 6 to 2.

This is only about the third game the local boys have played this year and although they won all the other contests, they have not had the time, opportunity or financial backing to give the contest the credit show they've good advantage against such an aggregation as Jerome has. In fact, the local boys, under the leadership of Red Bell, are making an extraordinary showing considering the obstacles and handicaps they have to contend with.

Stevens sought to pass a car in front of him, fearing a collision the second occupant of the front seat grasped the steering wheel in an effort to avert the car. The machine left the road, turning over three times. Of the five other occupants of the car no one was seriously injured.

After this he will go in the airplane to Goodhue where he will catch the train for Twin Falls at Granger in the early morning.

Fierce Apparitions.

In the West today a sight of the "rolling cut" presages death or terrible misfortunes. The negatives are dreadfully afraid of possible encounters with it at night. It is white, enormous size and with eyes that glare like hot coals.

William Thompson, a learned student of such manifestations, writes of a phantasmagoric apparition that he saw in Nassau, in the Bahamas, where it is known as the "blubber monster." It glides with a weird phosphorescent glow deep in the daytime, and though looked on many occasions and killed in, it invariably vanishes from view at the first moment—simply melting into nothingness.

DAY SET APART FOR FOOLING

Practical Jokes Common to April 1 Have Been Indulged In for Many Generations.

There is much uncertainty respecting the origin of April fooling when for generations the people of many lands have held it quite permissible to play practical jokes on one another. Some think it had its origin in a mimic play of the middle ages.

It is probable that it is a relic of some old, heathen Celtic festival. It is believed that both England and Germany derived the custom from France. In France one thus makes a fool of another by a "poisson d'April" (an April fish). In Scotland a kowk is the Scotch fool-cuckoo, and also signifies a foolish person.

The members of the J. O. C. class of the Baptist church met at the home of Miss Carmen Sanger Friday evening. After a business meeting the friends enjoyed a social hour of which Miss Hebe Sanger, sister of the hostess, served most delicious refreshments.

INSISTED ON HAVING CANDY

Liberal Supply of Caramels Necessary to Make Horse Pose for Statue of Lafayette.

Horses can be temperamental at times. That was the case with the sculptor, found when he sought to induce a high-spirited animal to pose quietly in his West Fourth street studio. The New York Evening Sun says.

The sculptor was now working on the statue of Lafayette, which is to be presented to the city of Metz, in France by the Knights of Columbus.

An astute carter as well as an artistic horse was needed for reproduction of the statue. After some searching Bob Bartlett got in touch with the proper animal and invited him down to the studio. Part of the door and side of the building were removed to get the horse into the studio and when inside he promptly knocked over several plaster casts of considerable value, especially to the artist.

After a preliminary experiment Mr. Bartlett was delighted to find that the animal was not so temperamental as the wonderfully lined animal would stand contentedly chewing for long periods while the wily sculptor transformed him into a statue, so to speak.

Messages to Mars. Dr. Charles H. Steinmetz estimates that a wireless station for the transmission of signals to Mars would cost in the neighborhood of a billion dollars, rather more than any enthusiast would be willing to spend on the remote chance of establishing such communications.

The Sperryscope (Brooklyn) suggests that transmission of signals by light is entirely practicable. It says:

Presupposing that the Martians possess telescopes which are at least half as powerful as our own, our estimate is that some 150 or 200 of the Sperry light intensifier searchlights might be sufficient for this purpose. If operated together they would appear as a star of the seventh magnitude to the inhabitants of Mars, and a light of such brilliance would, of course, be easily discernible through a telescope in clear weather.

Beautiful Martinique. Martinique, which 38 years ago occurred one of the worst volcanic disasters that human history has ever known, is one of the most beautiful of the West Indies retained by France. In the desperate fighting for their possession. The capital, Fort-de-France, is an amazingly picturesque town at the head of a beautiful bay. Tourists have been invited to visit Martinique an ideal paradise. It is a town full of perpetual summer, with an endless variety of highlands and lowlands. Martinique also has the serpent Eden, which is dreaded for de lance, which is the only poisonous snake found on any of the islands north of Trinidad. It attentively grows to a length of six feet, is quick and powerful, and its poison works almost instantaneously.

Sugar Mills Making Saltpeater. In the sugar factory at Pecky, Bolivia, successful experiments have been made with the manufacture of saltpeater from the waste liquids of the mill. As it is calculated that under normal conditions the best sugar factories of Cochaco-Salvati will produce 6,000 to 7,000 tons of saltpeater annually. This quantity is considered sufficient for the production of explosives. In 1919, a factory with a capital of $1,000,000 was organized to manufacture explosives under a permit of the government. The factory will be located at Paritubito, but the offices of the corporation will be at La Paz.

From the Earth to the Moon. According to the Journal of the Royal Artillery, a shell with a muzzle velocity of five miles a second, if fired from a gun in the direction of an overhead satellite of the earth, and would go round it in a little less than one and a half hours. If the speed were increased to seven miles a second, the shell would go into space altogether.

A most delicious four-course luncheon was served by the hostess, assisted by her daughter, Miss Lurinda Smith. Those present were: Dr. and Mrs. Davis and daughter Margaret of Kimberly; Mr. and Mrs. James Sully and daughter Betty; Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Heron and son Eugene; Mr. and Mrs. David Clarke and children, Mrs. Frank Baker, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Clarke, Miss Irma McKinstry, Miss Bernice King and Ernest V. Odde.

Harding Talks

"Perhaps I had not conveyed my thoughts by reciting to the community of endeavor which made the city we rejoice to host. No superman did it; no one man did it. We worked together, we consulted one another, we consulted men stamped with leadership and in these processes we have achieved, and rejoiced thereof. Now make the application. This wonderful land of ours is but the aggregate of communities, the sum total of cities, villages and farms and the mutuality of interests and the necessary harmony of purpose, if we are to go on, must lie in conference, in council, in the wisdom of plural leadership, in the never-ending righteousness of intelligent public opinion, not in the glory of the superman."

"But I do not mean to drift to things which have the favor of politeness or the seriousness of government problems. Let us forget candidacies and political problems and think only of the grateful waters of our fellowship and renew the intimacy of acquaintance which five years of continuous public service have wrought very much inspired. We are to be neighbors in fact, not merely in title. But let us cling to the naturalness which bespeaks reality."

ARMOUR MURDER IS INTERESTING

Many Crooks and Turns in Pursuit of Man Who, Finally Was Caught.

By the Associated Press. SANTA FE, N. M., July 5.—The crime for which Albert W. Blannett was convicted was the murder of Clyde B. Armour, near Glorieta, N. M., about 20 miles east of here, Oct. 23, 1916.

Armour, who lived at Sioux City, Iowa, where he was employed as chief clerk in the business office of the Northwestern Railroad company, left his home at 20, 1916, according to his mother and sister, on route to California, in a new eight-cylinder automobile.

Armour never reached Santa Fe, but a man representing himself to be Armour arrived here Oct. 23, registering at a local hotel. When he did he committed the first indiscretion which led to his arrest later on, when he started to write "C. D. Armour" the first letter he made was "C. D. A. H. I. S. changed, making a "C" out of the letter "E," which he had written.

He remained here until Oct. 27, going then to Albuquerque, where he sold the automobile for $600. The night of Oct. 30 he boarded a train at Albuquerque and evidently went straight through to California.

Nov. 13 Mr. Armour, who, with her daughter, had reached Fresno, became so alarmed over the failure of her son to arrive that she began investigation. Her son-in-law, Meyer R. Sawyer, went to Nevada, Cal., from which point Mrs. Armour had received a message, purporting to be from her son, to the effect that he had sold the car and would continue his trip to Fresno by train. Inspecting the original of this telegram, Mr. Sawyer at once decided that it was a forgery. Sawyer went to San Diego and Los Angeles and finally came to Albuquerque and Santa Fe.

About this time Armour's two brothers arrived here from Sioux City to take charge of the search. They learned that the man who posed as Armour, during some of his conversations had said that he once lived near Aztec, San Juan county, and mentioned the name of his mother, who had remarried following the death of her first husband, Blannett's father. This is believed to have furnished officers with the clue which led to his arrest at the home of his mother at Friday Harbor, Wash., Dec. 31, 1916, the family having moved there from New Mexico.

After Blannett was arrested he requested permission to step into a cook shack to "say good-bye" to somebody. A moment later there was a report of a gun shot from the interior of the shack. Investigation showed that Blannett had almost ended his life by firing a charge of what into his neck. When asked why he replied: "I couldn't tell mother."

Although a diligent search was made in the mountains east of Santa Fe, Blannett had not been found until Jan. 14 when a dog belonging to Antonio Sandoval y Griego, walked into the home carrying a part of a human leg bone, on which a shoe still remained. Antonio followed the dog and finally had found the bones that remained of Armour's body, in an arroyo 200 yards from the main road. About 20 feet away from the skeleton lay a shot gun and some clothing. Marks on the clothing seemed to indicate that the clothes were Armour's. At an autopsy held later on six shots were taken from the base of the skull, indicating that the fatal shot was fired from behind, the bullet entering and inflicting a wound from which the victim quickly bled to death.

Blannett was placed on trial in the Santa Fe county district court April 15, 1917. His jury returned a verdict of guilty of murder in the first degree. April 24, Blannett when placed on the witness stand admitted shooting Armour but said it was an accident. He said they got out of the car on the back trail and while he was walking behind Armour he stumbled and in trying to save himself from falling the gun he was carrying was discharged.

On appeal both the state supreme court and the supreme court of the United States affirmed the decision of the lower court and ordered the sentence carried out.

FUNERAL NOTICE.

Happiness Not Found in Crowds. Contact with great crowds is no guarantee of happiness. Almost every man at some time or another gets the fever for the great city. If he could only mingle with the crowds that throng the streets and rub shoulders with multitudes striving for success he would be sure to meet in happiness. How rare the awakening must be when he tries it. The great city doesn't know you have entered it. You may be the owner of your own town but you, master of the street of the city and watch the passerby for hours at a time and no one will say a word to you. There is no more lonesome feeling in the world than that of feeling yourself alone in the midst of people. It is as bad as being thirsty in the middle of the desert. Crowds do not give happiness.—Exchange.

UNITED-GENIUS AND BEAUTY

Many of America's Great Men Have Proved That the Two Can Exist Together.

While Socrates had the mind of a god and the form of a satyr, and many from that day on have said that beauty and scholarship do not go together, such is not the case in American history, according to Charles E. Corwin, writing in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer. With few striking exceptions good looking, well proportioned men have been the greatest scholars and statesmen of our country. The average countenance is somewhat sharp, pallid and expressive of energy. Roosevelt had the sharpness of present-day features. President Wilson's chin radiates determination, and Bryan's smile is unique of its kind, but the features are like the present day type.

Among men of letters James Fenimore Cooper bore the palm for beauty. He was large and finely proportioned, his features were of a golden cast, and his clear, gray eyes were radiant with power. Washington Irving was a handsome man, as was also N. P. Willis.

NEW LINES SEEN ON MOON

British Astronomer Makes Public Report Observations of Great Interest to Scientists.

A paper by T. L. MacDonald, read before the British Astronomical association, discloses the presence of a bright border along the dark limb of the young moon. According to Mr. MacDonald this luminosity, which is not visible in all lunations, has a more or less hellelike appearance, and is decidedly brighter than the ordinary earthshine, which always illuminates the darker part of the young moon. The bright border varies in length, not always extending as far as the horns of the lunar crescent, and certain very curious averages of intensity. In general the border is most sharply defined when the moon is 2 1/2 days old, and it begins to become diffuse the third day of the lunation. By the seventh day it is barely distinguishable. Commenting on these observations, Mr. Harold Thomson stated that he had observed the bright border with the naked eye, but it disappeared in the telescope.—Scientific American.

New York and Other Sufferers.

As a result of the great war the population of France has decreased 7 per cent, but the population of some of the large cities of France has made a large increase. Lyons, Bordeaux and Marseilles are of special interest to American investors—who have paid many millions of dollars in purchasing bonds issued by these cities. Their gain in population has ranged from 15 to 20 per cent, the largest being that of Marseilles, and it is perhaps significant that Marseilles is the principal port of France on the Mediterranean, remarks the Boston Commercial Bulletin.

Rare Plants in Demand. In 1921 a scientific man named Drummond discovered one solitary arum plant in the woods of St. Dunmurry parish in Louisiana, and it is cherished today at the Arnold arboretum, New Harvard has written to New Orleans seeking to buy the Louisiana specimen again for the rare Louisiana and the New Orleans Garden society has offered a prize of $5 for the discovery of another arum plant. Harvard also wants Louisiana searched for a certain variety of ash, discovered near New Orleans about a century ago and never seen before or since.

United States Forests. About one-fourth of the United States, or 550,000,000 acres, is in forests. Forests publicly owned contain about one-fifth of all the timber standing. The remaining four-fifths is privately owned. The original forests of the country covered an area of 820,000,000 acres, and contained a greater quantity and variety of timber than on any area of similar size in the world. The present rate of cutting for all purposes exceeds the annual growth of the forests.

His Version. The seventh grade children were discussing the ways to bring down the cost of clothing. The teacher had told them about Irvin Cobb's design to have trousers obliterated into knickerbockers or "pants" as Irvin termed it. They all agreed that this would certainly be a saving of material and then little Jacob suggested a further abbreviation: "we might get out of them most of the pockets," he said. "There ain't nothing to carry in them now since the country's gone dry."—Indianapolis News.

MOTHER SAW TRUTH AT ONCE

No Use Telling Her That Her Boy Had Made a Success in the World of Art.

He was a pianist, scarcely out of his teens. He had been sent abroad by his mother for a four-year course in the chosen art, and there after spent a year on the concert stage, and behind 200, or 300 newspaper reports of his success abroad he was now coming home.

When his train drew into the station and came to a stop the pianist, reflecting the artistic temperament in his hair, as well as in his manner, descended to the platform. At the same time the crowd of enthusiastic newspaper dress made to allow his proud mother to be the first to welcome her son.

When she reached him, however, she gave a gasp and stood stock-still staring at him. The next moment she burst into sobs and fell on his neck.

"Henry!" the good woman cried. "They told me you were doing so well over there and making money plentiful. My poor boy!"

"What's the matter, mother?" exclaimed the bewildered son. "What makes you doubt what they told you?"

"Oh, Henry!" she cried unheeded. "I can see how you've suffered. You haven't even been able to scrape enough money together to get your hair cut!"

DO BRUTES' SPIRITS RETURN?

Abundance of Testimony Seeming to Prove That Ghosts of Animals Have Been Seen.

With such quantities of spirits running around here, why not a few representing departed animals? There is plenty of testimony indorsing animal ghosts. In India there are ghost elephants and ghost tigers that haunt the jungles. And natives of that country are refrained from abusing animals by a belief that the phantom of any mistreated creature will surely come back to bring misfortune to the offender.

Andrew Lang quotes a well-known French officer as speaking of an occasion when the latter was visiting at the country house of a friend and a well-known hark was heard outside the door of the room where the two men sat.

"Why, there's old Peter," said the officer.

"Peter" died since you were here," he replied his friend.

A fox terrier that was in the room whined and trembled violently. The door was pushed open and the pad-pad of a big dog's feet on the floor was heard. No dog was seen, but the invisible ghost of one walked to the hearth, shook itself and then flung itself heavily down. The jangle of its collar being distinctly audible.

WORLD'S GREATEST SALT BED Supply in Lower California; it is Assured, is Beyond Possibility of Exhaustion.

On Carmel Island, in the Gulf of Laredo, Lower California, are the salt beds in the world, being two and a half miles wide. The salt is of natural formation and lies in super-saturated strata 7 inches in thickness and with a strata of water between each of salt. Although the strata of 11 feet have been made without failure of salt, the extreme depth of stratification is unknown. The surface alone is worked and as the salt from this is carried away, the water from the strata rises to the surface, and after coming in contact with the air and sunshine, within a fortnight fills the old strata with new salt. The salt is dug out practically pure and by means of a continuous railroad is delivered on the coast at a cost of but 25 cents a ton. The best misadventures offered to entirely support all the California missions in return for a perpetual grant to them of Carmel Island, for the shipping of Spain and the world the responsibility. It has been said that if all the fleets of Europe gathered there to haul salt they never could exhaust it, not only on account of the great size of the deposits, but principally because the salt is reproduced as soon as taken out.

CELEBRATION AT BURL IS SUCCESSFUL

Several Thousand Citizens of County Enjoy Fire Program; Jerome Wins Ball Game.

BURL, July 5.—Several thousand residents of Twin Falls county gathered here today to celebrate America's natal day. The day was a success in every way, the committee in charge of the various things having measured up to expectations. Previous to the sports a musical and speaking program was given at a session on the main street. Milton Cannon, state commissioner of agriculture, was the principal speaker. The sports program was carried out on Twelfth street. Races of all sorts were featured, following which a water fight was held between two town teams. The main sport feature was a baseball game between Jerome and Burl, both members of the Southern Idaho Baseball League. The Jerome team was accompanied by several hundred fans, who occupied the right center of the grand stand. A merry rooting battle was staged starting from the moment that Burl, Jerome's first man to bat, had been called up until the last run was put. Jerome won both the ball game and the rooting battle. The final score was 12 to 5. The day's festivities were concluded with dancing at the pavilion and fireworks.

BIG CROWD SEES GRAND CIRCUIT RACES

Seven Events in Seven Hours Made Program Interesting to Thousands of Track Devotees.

By the Associated Press. CLEVELAND, July 5.—The 1920 grand circuit harness horse racing season was opened at North Randall track today before the largest crowd that ever attended a meeting here. With a program of seven events it took seven hours to finish the feature event of the card, the $2,000 stake, the 2:08 class pacing, divided into two divisions, each worth $1,000. Red Lancelotti, driven by Charles Valentine, of Columbus, Ohio, won the first division and John Henry driven by Tommy Murphy of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., won the second division. The best time in each class was 2:02 1/4, which quenched the track record for the stake. Valentine was awarded the $2,000 prize because Red Lancelotti won in straight heats and in the fastest average time. Bolt Forest, driven by Murphy in the first division, finished second to Red Lancelotti and Edna Earley was third. The judges fined Murphy $200 for leaving back with the gelding in the second heat. The Grand champion of the 2:04 pace, and Red Lancelotti, were the only winning favorites.

Convention Names

(Continued from Page Four.) A vote for Cox appeared in Massachusetts and Cox got 33 there, enough to put the Cox name on the ballot and it started off with a deafening roar. Red-Castled Band. The band and organ opened up in the droning air "concerning Ohio." The red-castled Cox band marched out of the stadium, it had the same uniform as the rest of the band, and it was the width of the first balcony, and it was a crashing din, one of the Cox boosters brought in a full-blooded drum on a standard and paraded it in the middle of the band. It was about halfway, so he banged himself first on one foot and then on the other on the marching standard and used his feet feathers and whistles to keep his position. While the demonstration for Cox over the Massachusetts gain was proceeding, Pennsylvania completed its caucus. The agreement was to continue to vote for Palmer on the 32nd ballot but on the 40th to split as follows: Cox 16; McAdoo 41; Davis 3; Palmer 13 and one absent. A block of Palmer adherents, believing a deadlock between McAdoo and Cox would not be resolved, decided to keep Palmer's name on the ballot in the hope that the nomination later might come to him. Palmer's friends made the point that he had not withdrawn but had only released his delegates from pledge. Last Time for Palmer. Pennsylvania's vote for the last time went 73 for Palmer, two for McAdoo and one for Cox. A vote was demanded in the South Carolina delegation where McAdoo forces have predominated by a narrow margin and the delegation has been held for him under the unit rule. The South Carolina delegate who demanded the poll withdrew his request. Cox's vote of 46 2/3 was exactly his previous high water mark, as it was on the 19th ballot. A tie between the two candidates was the Cox on each succeeding ballot until a Kentucky woman.

forces, was called to that fact by National Committeeman Guffoy of Pennsylvania, who asked what the Cox forces were going to do about it. Harrison said they were going out for more votes. The convention went into the 40th ballot with Cox the leader over McAdoo once more and with big changes in sight. Hunt Was Tired. When the McAdoo name in Pennsylvania was announced, the McAdoo boosters began a parade but the band failed to join in and McAdoo boosters shouted a demand to know if the band up there belongs to anybody in particular or the whole convention. Chairman Robinson reminded him that the band had been liberal in "depending music" and at the request demand for music which was wanted to stimulate a demonstration, the band and organ swung into the "Star Spangled Banner" and forced everybody to take part in what demonstration there was. In the 41st ballot, Cox made 16 in Alabama, taking them from the 16 which had been going to Davis. Georgia Has Caucuses. During the recess between the 41st and 42nd ballots, Georgia had its caucus and it was decided to stick with McAdoo for another ballot. Some change was hinted at, but not defined. A roll call was ordered on a motion to adjourn until 10:30 o'clock tomorrow morning. Former Governor Fairbank of Oklahoma moved it, and the Cox people opposed it, fearing the effects of an overnight rest on their lead. The motion to adjourn was defeated. Cox people think that their determination to continue striking while the iron was hot and press their advantages. The McAdoo states for most part voted for an adjournment, although some of them did vote against it. The vote unofficial, against the adjournment was 637 to 407. AUDITORIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—The democratic national convention took 34 ballots in its first session today and, failing to find a nominee, took a recess at 4:58 o'clock until 8:30 o'clock this evening. When the afternoon balloting was in the closing stages the Palmer boosters was taking an upward excursion—the first it has enjoyed since it took a dip in the 12th ballot last week. The McAdoo votes had taken the leading place from the Cox votes and the Cox folk finally had regained some of its strength. When the session ended the three principal contenders were probably closer together than they had been for a long time and if that meant anything, it meant that the deadlock was a little tighter. Just An Excursion. The McAdoo people tried to explain the Palmer rise by saying it was merely an excursion to carry the attorney general as far as he could go. They declared the Cox people had done the same thing and they do not put their name over. When the Palmer and Cox boosters had been given a "joy ride" to use the language of the McAdoo managers, it was the plan of the McAdoo people to begin a new drive. Hopes and prospects that the convention might nominate today went glimmering soon after it got down to business. It was apparent that the lines were going to hold. The Cox lines did hold. In the face of the two breaks, McAdoo, one from Indiana and another from Washington. They came back in some other places. Palmer sentiment was rather sagging when the sudden rush of votes into the attorney general's column gave it a sudden rise late today and his supporters were taking new heart. There was no evidence of any plans which would assure that the convention could finish its work tonight. The three candidates have run a wide range in the balloting, Palmer starting out at 256, fell as low as 147 in the second and by the 36th had gotten back to 228. Cox at his lowest mark with 124 in the first ballot. His high-water mark was 468 in the 18th. By the 36th he had sagged down to 377. McAdoo, starting with a lead, was 266 in the first ballot. Cox soon took the first place, however, but by the 32nd ballot McAdoo was not only back in first place, but had struck a high-water mark of 424. During the 36th ballot, the Cox people went into a recess. There was a proposal in the air to see if the New York delegation could not be swung to the Palmer column. The report which went with the story of the conference was that if the search for a dark horse were unavailing the Cox strength might be thrown to the Palmer column. This, of course, was dependent on the Cox managers and convinced they had struck their limit. "DEADLOCK CONTINUED." AUDITORIUM, SAN FRANCISCO, July 5.—Another all-day session and continued deadlock marked the proceedings of the democratic national convention. The forces went in this morning with predictions on every hand that a nominee would be found. Large bodies were said that the convention would nominate within an hour and a half. But it made much progress toward a result that a vote was forced on proposals to suspend the rules and stop or the low mark of 431 succeeding ballot until a Kentucky woman.

GEDDES DECLARES BRITAIN GRATEFUL

Feels Pershing Old Country Will Not Forget What America Has Done; Pershing Gifts a Sword.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, July 5.—Great Britain does not forget those who support themselves friends in the hour of need, Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador to the United States, told General Pershing today in presenting him a bejeweled sword as a gift of the city of London. The presentation was made at the British embassy before a distinguished company. Commenting on the celebration today of America's independence, "wring from an autocratic government by the spirit of individual freedom and in many hands," Sir Auckland recalled in those days "there were many on both sides of the Atlantic who thought action of the former of your constitution right. They are more now," he believes, on either side of the Atlantic," he said, "who does not think that they were right. Though neither you nor we are all of English stock, the memories of Runnymede are a possession of all your people as they are a living memory and possession of all the British people." General Pershing accepted the sword "in the name of the men of America, who, with the men of Great Britain, took the oath of 1776, and the courage and skill that brought a new victory to our race and to all those who seek justice and liberty for mankind. He said: "It is significant that Anglo-Saxon people everywhere wholeheartedly join in celebrating the birth of American independence." nomination was made. The plan failed for lack of the necessary two-thirds vote but it showed the growing temper of the convention. When the day session was drawing toward a close and there were prospects of another session tomorrow, the desperate leaders still were looking for some way to break the deadlock. McAdoo Leads. The McAdoo forces reversed the order of the progression in the allotted time and took the lead in the 30th ballot. McAdoo had the lead to Cox on the 12th ballot last week. Today he regained it and his forces made a great drive to push it on upward. For a moment, when Indiana tumbled in to the 22 of her 72 and Tom Gartin himself cast the ballot, it looked as if a foreseen tide to McAdoo had begun. When, a little later, Washington, which had been seating her votes, cast them all for McAdoo, the McAdoo people were sure the movement was on but it was too late in the ballot to do anything. The Cox people, probably a little nervous, but professing the confidence which the outcome justified, stuck to their own horses and to stand pat and refuse to be stampeded. The word was effective and the blocks which have been the Cox stand were unremoved. The lines held fast. An attempt at a recess during the day was drowned out in shouts of disapproval. Palmer Makes Gains. Palmer forces made steady gains all day but at no time came within the 500 mark. They were within 100 of their highest at any time since the 14th ballot. When Palmer, on the 35th ballot, hit a higher mark than he had at any time since the 11th, the Palmer people set up another demonstration. There was a movement on foot for a recess until 9 o'clock tonight after the 35th, but the Palmer people wanted one more ballot before that and the recess idea was not pressed. The McAdoo people explained the rise of Palmer and the decline of Cox as being what they had predicted. Their line of argument was that Cox had been carried to his high mark by the Palmer people and that the movement which would give McAdoo another run was an effort to carry him along as far as possible. McAdoo managers declared that when Palmer had been given a "joy ride" they would try to give McAdoo another run. While the Pennsylvania man was chanting "Palmer, Palmer, Pennsylvania," to the tune of "Glory, Glory, Hallelujah," the Cox people took a hand at making parody and when the McAdoo people set up a counter demonstration the Ohio and Pennsylvania crowd chanted out a verse which went, "All the Boys Are on the March." They directed their imprecations toward the McAdoo crowd. When the convention got back to order and Alabama was called, Palmer made another gain, taking seven from Alabama. He took them from McAdoo, Davis and Cox. It was the vote which the Palmer people had been promised and was the reason they did not want to recess at the time. A Union Palmer picked up four more in Illinois, taking from both Cox and McAdoo. Kentucky, having cast one vote previously for Miss Laura Clay, cast one for Miss Cora Wilson Stuart. The Kentucky delegation was giving complimentary presidential votes to complimentary women.
