FIRST AMERICANS NOW IN BRITISH FRONT LINES

Arrival of First of Men Just 11 Days After Movement Begins—Will Probably Be Brigaded With British Troops for the Present—Morale Is of High Character

BULLETIN BY WILLIAM PHILLIPS SIMMS

United Press Staff Correspondent WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, APRIL 10—THE FIRST AMERICANS HAVE ARRIVED AT THE BRITISH FRONT. THEY IN CLUDE INFANTRY, ARMED AND EQUIPPED.

General Pershing, conforming with General Foch at the front March 28, placed the entire American expeditionary force at the disposal of the allies. Three days later, staff correspondents with the American army of the Toul front reported great forces of all branches of the service leaving that sector for the Picardy front. All the roads in that part of France were blocked by moving men and equipment, it was said.

TODAY'S NEWS TODAY IF YOU WANT TO READ TODAY'S NEWS TODAY, YOU CAN DO SO ONLY BY SUBSCRIBING TO THE TWIN FALLS DAILY NEWS.

THE NEWS RECOGNIZES NO COMPETITION IN THE DAILY AFTERNOON FIELD IN TWIN FALLS COUNTY. THERE ARE BUT TWO WORLD-WIDE NEWS WORKS OF THE NAME OPERATING IN THE UNITED STATES.

DID THIS EVER OCCUR TO YOU?

Did you ever see a Twin Falls date line, on a Twin Falls news story, in any large eastern newspaper? Did you ever wonder why this was not? Occasionally happenings of almost nationwide news interest occur in the Twin Falls Country, yet rarely if ever is there a line of news printed about Twin Falls in any newspaper outside of Idaho.

It will be different now. In assuming the privileges and responsibilities of the leased wire service of the United Press, the Daily News also obligates itself to the care of this Agency in the matter of news originating in this field.

This fact alone makes the United Press connection worth thousands of dollars to the Twin Falls country.

AMERICANS ARE IN THE FIGHTING ON SOUTH FRONT

TAKE PART IN HEAVY ARTILLERY DUELS SIDE BY SIDE WITH VETERANS OF FRANCE

PARIS, April 10.—Great mutual artillery fighting along a wide front held by French and American troops, from south of Verdun, to east of St. Mihiel, was reported by the French war office today.

Along the left bank of the Meuse, in the Apremont forest and in the vicinity of Fleury, there was great mutual artillery fighting, the communiqué said.

The Meuse flows northward through St. Mihiel and Verdun. It is on this sector that American troops look on with interest for the Meuse-Argonne forces for the battle in Picardy. Apremont is five miles southeast of St. Mihiel. Fleury is 14 miles east of St. Mihiel. Both of these places are in that portion of the line officially referred to as the "Toul sector."

AMERICA TO STAKE ALL ON RESULT

ENGLAND'S ACTION IN RAISING ARMY AGE TO FIFTY YEARS BRINGS HOME FULL REALIZATION OF SERIOUSNESS OF SITUATION

(By United Press.)
WASHINGTON, April 10.—With Germany staking all on the western offensive, the Allies and America have answered that they, too, will stake all and do it now.

That was the view Washington took today of the Lloyd George address, following President Wilson's "force" address and his pledge to double quick the sending of American forces abroad.

The crisis came home with full force today from England's action in raising the military age to fifty years and her proposal to conscript Irishmen.

President Wilson cleared the way by all-clearing the idea of a political offensive against Austria and by declaring that heretofore unaided France is America's ally. Lloyd George, authorities pointed out, staked his all in forcing the conscription issue.

Only a really grave need for men would force these steps.

The shelving of General Gough, leader of the beaten fifth British army, the appointment of General Foch as chief strategist, evidently surprising the Versailles cabinet plan—revealed the features of the western battle. Britain has moved to the front and close to a fatal configuration, according to military men.

Something went wrong with the Fifth army, they say. And Lloyd George himself pointed out that only part of the story of that western hell has been told to date.

Now it is revealed, however, to convince military authorities here that England and France have drawn heavily on reserves to halt the German drive before Amiens.

America will play a vast part in the coming days. Her troop shipment schedule is geared high and she will have a surprising representation on the West line in the next three or four months.

This addition, with Britain's new men, is expected to check German ambitions.

Problems Hard to Solve
The situation in England and Ireland, aside from the question of furnishing Americans more rapidly, offers embarrassing problems for American statesmen. The alien draft treaty, while not now mentioning Ireland, is so framed that when conscription is introduced in Ireland, it can be used against Irishmen here.

The general belief here is that conscription in Ireland will stick and that in time the agitation which it will subside. America will probably take no steps to draft Irishmen until this question is reached.

STUDENTS READY TO GROW SUGAR BEETS

Twenty Enroll Here as Club Members Agreeing to Raise at Least One Acre

Twenty students of the Twin Falls schools have enrolled as members of the sugar beet club, agreeing to raise at least one acre of beets this season. The members of this club will raise more than the acre required, and one boy will undertake to grow five acres. E. E. Demann, high school agricultural teacher and director of the boys' club, stated. Effort has been made to enroll only members who will persevere in their efforts throughout the summer vacation, and on that account the membership is not as large as it would have been otherwise.

In the several boys' and girls' clubs which will prosecute home work in gardens and fields, kitchen and sewing room during the summer vacation, there are now enrolled about 600 pupils of the Twin Falls schools, and it is expected that 500 more will be added within the next few days.

WATERWORKS CONTRACT REGARDED WITH FAVOR

Twin Falls Enterprises One of Few in the Country With the Money to Pay on Hand

Contracts for the installation of the filtration plant and improvement and extension of the Twin Falls municipal waterworks system are regarded with high favor among contractors, because the enterprise is one of the few of similar proposition in the country that has the money available to pay for the work.

Harris & McDonnell, engineers, of Kansas City, have the work in charge for the city, wired City Clerk W. A. Minnick Monday that they had sent out specifications on the contract to 104 contractors and manufacturers of materials that will be employed in the work, and that their office work was overworked to the utmost.

More than a dozen contractors of Idaho and Utah have applied direct to city officials for specifications.

The bids are to be opened by the council at its meeting on April 18, at which time it is probable that the contract will be let. It is available for the work on deposit in Twin Falls banks $475,000 raised from the sale of a bond issue voted in January.

WHEAT FOR EUROPE

"No corn can be shipped across the Atlantic for two months after the first of April, because that is the germinating season for corn and it will not stand shipment."
"Now, in this period of extreme difficulty in Europe, the time when the morale of the civil population of our allies is at its lowest ebb, it does not stand for me to say, 'You can wait two months and then you can eat corn.' It is for us to say, 'You shall receive every solitary grain of wheat that our ports can handle.'"

DOUBLING THE SHIPS

"Every shipment of wheat that we can send from our ports is a shipment saved from the Argentine. Every ship can do double duty for us from our ports. It can do from the Argentine. Every time that we send a shipment we save two ships from the Argentine. Every time we save a ship we save the transport and the supply of one regiment of American soldiers."

LEAVE DETACHMENT, INCLUDING SEVERAL TWIN FALLS BOYS AT NEWPORT NEWS, VIRGINIA

Word from Lieutenant Arvin D. Boudas received here by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Boudas, is that he is to be sent to Newport News, Virginia, on April 4. Lieutenant Boudas had been several months in charge of a detachment at Newport News, and had been there to care for five of the Fifty-first army division. Several Twin Falls boys are in the detachment. Lieutenant Boudas said that only officers called with him on the transport that left April 4. Other Twin Falls boys in the detachment, therefore, remain in this country.

The unit of which Sergeant Wise is a member is made up of the Twin Falls mail and headquarters company of the Idaho regiment. Sergeant Wise has been detailed to duty in the telephone company of his company, and has been sent to training school to acquire proficiency in the technique of that feature of the service.

SEASON OPENS FOR HIGH SCHOOL NINE

First Contest Is Scheduled Against Rupert—Boise and Caldwell Expected to Game

The season for the Twin Falls high school baseball team will open Friday when it goes to Rupert for a game against the Rupert high school team. Local players have little information relative to the strength of Rupert's side, but are prepared, after several weeks constant practice to meet strong opposition.

Boise and Caldwell high school teams have requested games with the Twin Falls team, but no definite arrangements for such games have yet been made. Coach O. E. Demann said Tuesday.

U. S. OFFICER INJURED AT FRONT FIGURES IN NEWS

HUSBAND OF HOLLISTER WOMAN ONE OF FIRST AMERICANS WOUNDED

STOOD THREE FEET FROM SHELL EXPLOSION—LETTERS WRITTEN PRIOR TO INJURY TELL OF LIVING IN DUGOUT

Following is an account, taken from the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, telling of the injury of Lieutenant W. A. Belsey, formerly a doctor of St. Louis, who last summer married a Hollister young lady, Miss Virginia Cavannes. Mr. Belsey was formerly a teacher in the Hollister schools, and still resides at that place with her parents. A photograph by Underwood & Underwood, depicting current-day conditions, shows Lieutenant Belsey in a London hospital. The caption reads: "First of the Americans wounded in the General Offensive at Cambrai to Arrive in England Receiving Treatment in a London Hospital."

Lieutenant Wallace A. Belsey, a former St. Louis city hospital intern who received a commission in the United States medical corps last June and was sent to France with the British forces in July, is recuperating in a hospital in London from shell wounds received at Cambrai while going over the top with his battalion of direct-attack bombers, according to word received by friends here. The shell struck about three feet from him, and he jumped away, carrying with a deep wound in the neck and slight cuts.

Lieutenant Belsey was married to Miss Virginia Cavannes, of Hollister, Idaho, just before he went overseas after an engagement of four years. Miss Cavannes came to St. Louis to be married two days before she departed for Washington, where she followed. They were married in Washington on June 27.

Wrote of Living in Dugout

In a letter, written before he was wounded, Lieutenant Belsey tells of his underground quarters just behind the lines. "My home is at present in a hole about two feet by seven feet, just high enough to stand in. Floor is damp, everything damp, including my clothes and blankets. At that it is quite pleasant, with candles and some reading matter to spend evenings. Oh, when it is dry enough, we sit up on top and watch the 'very lights' (star shells), the flashes of guns and the like."

"We are entirely surrounded by our own batteries, and so can easily see the actual flashes of some of them. The whistle of shells is getting quite familiar now, and even the Hun's 'crumps' (bottle shells) explode around just frequently. None of them has been very close so far, though I have dodged shell fragments at times. It is a quite a sight, I can tell you, to see a big shell explode. I am about two miles back from the Hun trenches and have already been up in our own front line trench. Nothing happened here, but I can readily imagine what might have occurred."

"You folks at home cannot even imagine what a gigantic and horrible thing this war is. Surely the boys who are engaged in it will be fed up on bloodshed for years to come, if not forever."

Nothing happened here, but I can readily imagine what might have occurred. He also talks of heavy wooden shoes used to wear under high boots during cold and wet weather. He said it takes about two months for mail from the United States to reach him.

Law Barrage Fire

In another letter, also written before he was wounded, he tells of interesting things he saw and heard "on days of work." He says that he has seen several un wounded Hun prisoners, "he writes, 'I have had the satisfaction of informing them that I am a Yank, just to see their incredulous amazement. I have seen the so-called 'barrage' have seen men 'go over the top.' I hear, though I have not seen them, that the Hun 'Yank' airplanes about. As yet have not

Help the Red Cross

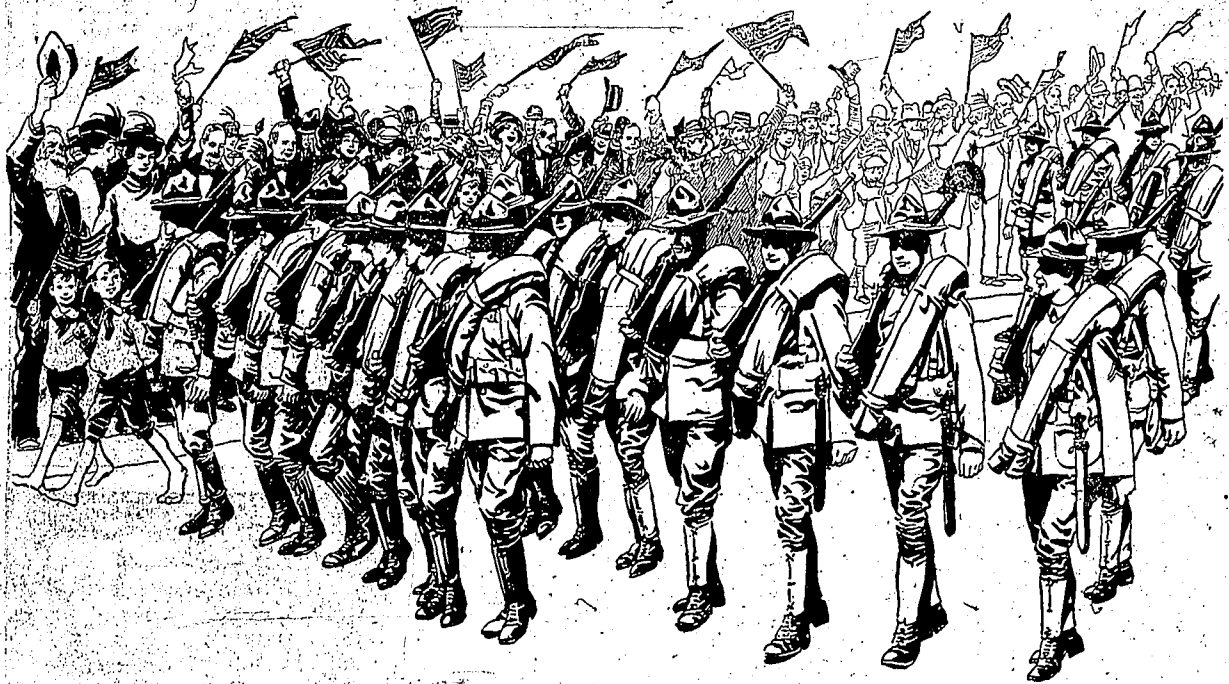

T. J. Woods has written fire insurance in Twin Falls County for thirteen years and two months.

To my old customers and others I announce the following proposition:

ON EVERY POLICY OF NEW BUSINESS GIVEN TO MY OFFICE DURING THE NEXT NINETY DAYS, I WILL DONATE ONE-HALF THE COMMISSION TO THE RED CROSS.

I represent that of the strongest Bond Companies and this offer applies anywhere in the county. Telephone or write and your business will be taken care of as cheer. If you don't carry your fire insurance with me, now is a good time to start.

T. J. WOODS

Will You HELP Bring Back The Boys of This Community?

Our boys, the boys from this town and this county and this state, are fighting the Huns. They are in the trenches in France, they are sailing the U-boat-infested seas, they are going "over the top" in the face of German cannon and machine gun fire.

Many, many more of our boys are now training and will soon be in France, and more are yet to be called.

And, remember, these are our boys; those who are near and dear to us. They are doing their ALL. They are giving their ALL. They are prepared to make the extreme sacrifice that our homes, our town, our nation, may escape the ravages of the Hun.

We want them—one and all—to come back to us—

Will You Help to Bring Them Back?

Will you help to provide them with the things they need, with clothes and food and munitions, that they may complete as quickly as possible the terrible task assigned to them?

Will you support our boys while they are fighting for us, fighting the German autocracy that seeks to destroy our ideals of liberty and justice?

Compared to their heroic sacrifice our part is but small—that of providing the funds to keep them equipped; to build and man the ships that will transport their food, their clothes, their guns and their ammunition, and to pay for these things.

Yes, we, the people of this community, will support our boys.

We will do it by buying bonds of the Third Liberty Loan; by buying all these bonds we can; by making such sacrifices as are necessary to do this. That will be our support for Our Boys.

NEWS WANT COMPLETE

It is to be regarded as a matter for congratulation that, for the present at any rate it will not be necessary to add to the mechanical equipment of The News in order to take care of the Daily News. Later, as the field expands, this will be a very important part of the news service. The extent of The News facilities may be judged from the fact that this year alone it has been over $10,000. The News, this company has for years paid the highest taxes, both state and national, of any publishing and printing plant in this section of the state.

IN WISCONSIN

The fact that over one hundred thousand persons in Wisconsin last week cast their ballots for a man whose principal claim for support was that America should withdraw from the war, produces a peculiar state of mind. One is apt to wonder why Wisconsin as a state is so very different from other states.

As a matter of fact Wisconsin is not greatly different, only more was spent freely and every effort made to use by clever but unscrupulous politicians to bend the public will, and to the extent of the figure mentioned, they were successful.

The great disparity could not be away from the plain and loyal course, and probably never again will so large a minority in any state be drawn so far from the trend of public approval.

The Bolshevik buldog to Russia, not America, although there are a few of him in Wisconsin.

GENERAL WHAT'S-HIS-NAME

The number of persons who are trying to tell us how to pronounce Gen. Foch's name is almost as great as that of inventors who say the ideas of the 70-mile German gun was stolen from them. A biographer of the allied generalism writing in the New York Times declares it's long "fo-chay", "foash" or "foach," you cannot be sure which. Le Courier des Etats Unis, a French paper published in New York explains that it's "Fuch", rhyming with "chuh". Stoughton Leuzanne of Le Matin, Paris, who ought to know, insists it should be rhymed with "boah".

Finally, Miss Margaret Clement, who to live in the same town with the general, says that positively it's "Fawh", and nothing else.

University Cooks Give Hints to Housewives in War Time

Lawrence Hansen, food administration chief in Twin Falls county, has received the following war time recipes and accompanying conservation orders from the extension department of the University of Idaho, which is doing much toward the spreading of information valuable to the housewife pledged to the conservation program.

WAR RECIPES

Ground-Rice Muffins
butter; 1 teaspoon sugar; dash salt; 3 eggs; 2 level teaspoons Calumet baking powder.
Mix together the butter and sugar. Pour on enough boiling water to moisten the rice, stirring all the time. Cool and add the yolks of the eggs, beaten, creamed butter and sugar; then enough sweet milk to form a batter, beating thoroughly; add the baking powder and mix well. Fold in the whites of the eggs, well-beaten. Bake in gem pans in a quick oven.

Bye Gums
1 1/2 cups rye flour; 1-3 cups white flour; 3/4 level teaspoon Calumet baking powder; 1/2 cup molasses; 1/4 cup milk; 1/2 cups melted butter.
Sift the dry ingredients, add molasses and melted butter and mix. Bake in hot oven in buttered gem pan twenty-five minutes.

Corncorn Muffins
2 cups corncorn, 2 cups flour, 1 tablespoon sugar, 4 level teaspoons Calumet baking powder, 1/2 cup melted butter, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, 1 cup wheat or rye flour.
Sift the dry ingredients, add melted butter and mix. Bake in hot oven in buttered gem pan twenty-five minutes.

Staplers
1 1/2 cups Indian cornmeal, 3/4 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons butter, 3 eggs, 1 cup milk, 1 cup wheat flour, 3 level teaspoons Calumet baking powder.
Mix together meal, salt and butter; pour on slowly stirring boiling water to thoroughly moisten the meal. Cover; let stand over night. Add the eggs, well beaten, milk flour—the first half cup of flour being mixed with the baking powder—to make a very thick drop batter. Drop by spoonfuls on a hot greased griddle, cook slowly till brown, turn and brown on other side.

Indian Griddle Cakes
1 cup Indian meal, 1 cup flour, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon butter, 3/4 level teaspoon Calumet baking powder, milk.
Put Indian meal into a mixing bowl and pour over it enough scalding milk to make a stiff dough. When it cools add the flour and enough cold milk to make a thick batter; add the eggs, well beaten; the butter, melted; the salt, and baking powder. Drop on a hot greased griddle, bake slowly till brown, turn and brown on other side.

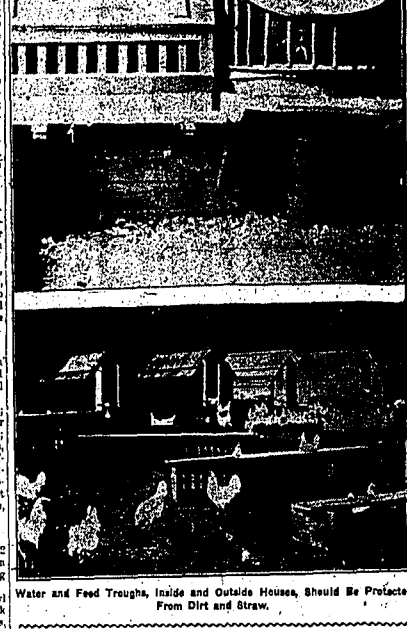

Hominy Gums
2 cups cold hominy, 3 eggs, 2 cups milk, 1 cup cornmeal, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup sugar, 3 level teaspoons Calumet baking powder, 1 tablespoon melted butter.
Put the corn meal in a mixing bowl, pour over it scalding milk; beat thoroughly. Drop by spoonfuls on a hot greased griddle, cook slowly till brown, turn and bake in a hot oven. This recipe when thinned with more milk makes delicious griddle cakes.

Physiology of Eating PLAYS IMPORTANT ROLE IN BREAD ALLOWANCE
In attempting to prevent the wasting of food in restaurants and at the same time allow for the appetites of hearty eaters, the office of the state food administration has many problems to solve. It is assisting the people in understanding the complex workings of rules and regulations an explanation of the kind of lunch which has been given out for publication. It reads:

There is a certain psychology in the United States food administration's view of the bread allowance for groups of public eating places. It has been determined that no person should be served with more than one-half loaf of bread, and that a portion should consist of not more than two ounces of bread containing wheat flour or two ounces of any other cereal. It is suggested that a portion should consist of two ounces of a single variety of bread made from common, oatmeal, rice flour or other wheat substitutes. If more than one variety is ordered, however, the portion must remain at two ounces, as in the case of wheat bread or rolls.

SOLDIERS ARE TOO BUSY TO WRITE MANY LETTERS HOME

If letters from your friend, your son, your husband, your sweetheart, your brother, or your sister are slow to come through me, and they will all be short. If there is just a little word to do the number of letters, probably will be about the same. If the command has been to do nothing at all—say it is resting after a period in the line—it may get many as 200 letters in a day to come.

TRAINING LITTLE CHILDREN

Modern ideas in regard to children are often a matter of controversy. It is not possible to plan for a certain set of feeding, sleeping, bathing and airing, for regular habits by the foundation of most days. Mothers are also inclined to the mother, resting her nerves and giving her time to herself, which in turn again leads to the benefit of the child.

We were glad to visit the reservation again. It was very pleasant because of the old Chief Garry's home.

Points Out Bad Practice in Marketing Produce

John T. Cairns III, Director of Extension Division, University of Utah, Makes Observations on Problem of Interest and Value to Farmers Generally

Applicable and valuable generally to the farmers of southern Idaho as to those of Utah are the observations on the marketing of farm products by John T. Cairns III, director of the extension division, University of Utah. He says:

There are several bad practices in regard to marketing our produce which have been in vogue in Utah for years. Chief among these is the system of contracting or selling months ahead of delivery. This is done with wheat to which is one of the methods that has lost the producer much money during the last few years. The man who buys your produce months ahead of delivery is a speculator who is acting on a raising market. There are many men who are anxious to keep well informed as to supply and demand and so are in touch with markets everywhere. Well equipped with definite knowledge as to the world conditions, these buyers place the farmers at a great disadvantage. The farmer has not time to stock up, in detail, nor can he keep in touch with the world's production—and demands, as well as the man who makes his business his profession. Each buyer is a specialist on one product and buys that only, while the producer has many things to sell and naturally is not an expert in all. As a result, they are with plenty of money and probably more information as to conditions, the buyer meets the farmer at a time when he is in a hurry to get his product to market. It usually is an uneven proposition all around, and so has led to the building up of great fortunes by the speculators. These are the contractors. These men, who really do very little of the work of the world, become speculators, and the farmer loses the producer's share so the products for less than their real value.

LACK OF SUFFICIENT OXYGEN CAUSES AIRPLANE ACCIDENTS

(By United Press)

MINNEOLA, La., April 10.—They stood in a compact little group on the wide sweep of level ground that marked the training ground of an aviation field...

The group was watching the tiny dragon-fly that was skimming far above. Admiration showed on each countenance as the fragile thing climbed to a dizzy height...

Now the drooping of the motor has stopped as the pilot shuts off the engine and begins to roll down from a great height. Faster and faster dashes the frail thing toward earth at terrifying speed...

Too late. He is too near the ground now to straighten out. They can see the liver working dully to make a safe landing. Some stand breathless, awe-stricken. Others grin from the sickening sight.

With a sound of splintering wood the airplane hits the ground, with terrific impact making smoke curl up from the mass of splintered wreckage. Spurred to the necessity of immediate action, the men race to the scene a bare 200 yards away, and begin to work frantically to release the poor lad buried beneath that tangled mass of wood, canvas and wire.

Lyng amid the wreckage, his face and head gashed by splinters of wood, he glances about with eyes that flash white and drawn. Tenderly they lift him out and place him in the ambulance.

"He'll live if nothing inside is injured," said the officer who wore the insignia of the medical corps. "High altitude probably reduced the pressure and made him lose control," mused one of the officers.

"That must have been it," affirmed another. "For the motor was O.K. when he was taken down before last, and his controls seem to be all right. Guess he couldn't stand the pressure. It's funny that high altitudes do to some people."

In many lands, on many fields, the same accidents were chronicled for the first three years of the European war. Always either mechanical defects or reduced pressure from high altitudes caused the trouble.

Finally it occurred to members of the army medical corps attached to aviation sections that perhaps there was another cause that made apparatus sound men lose control of their airplanes. Tests were made.

Aviators were being maimed and killed because of the diminished percentage of oxygen at higher altitudes. They remembered the difficulty in breathing related by mountain climbers, acrobats and others who reached the rarified atmosphere of unusual heights.

What really happened? Just this: The lungs require 21 per cent of oxygen to do and less accurate in doing it. He flounders at the controls.

Sight becomes less keen, especially at a short focus. His attention on the aerial, which shows his height, is not so constant; his hearing is affected so that he cannot distinguish by the sound of his motor whether it has accelerated or slowed. Equally he fails—and the machine plunges to earth. It has been recommended that all aviators be tested and classified as to ability to stand lack of oxygen. Those who cannot go to greater heights because of its effect on their efficiency, will be kept in bombing and observation machines, which fly at comparatively low altitudes. Those who can go to great heights without being affected will be chosen for the fast battle and scout planes, which must fly in squadron formation, which, like a chain, is only as strong as its weakest link—in this case: the aviator who will first succumb to want of oxygen. Naturally, a remedy for this condition has also been suggested. It is to have each airplane carry a tank of oxygen, or height indicator. As the average aviator begins to "break up" or become less efficient, at 12,000 feet, at this point the indicator of the aerial will automatically open a valve connected with the oxygen tank, and the aviator, breathing through a mouth-piece, will be supplied with the normal amount. As the height increases, as indicated by the aerial indicator, the valve will be opened wider and a correspondingly greater amount of oxygen will be administered.
