SEVEN MILES GERMAN GAIN

Final British Retirement Increases the Salient Immediately South of Ypres and Indications Are that Former Fighting Ground Will Again Become Active

Character of Warfare Ranges from Hand-to-Hand Attacks with Bayonets to Heavy Artillery Bombardments at Long and Short Range--Stubbornly Resist Enemy

(By United Press.) THE BRITISH CENTER IN THE YPRES MATTER HAS BEEN PUNISHED BACK SEVERE MILES FROM THE ORIGINAL LINE ALONG THE LAYES RIVER. IT IS SHOWN BY KING'S OFFICIAL STATEMENT TODAY.

The communique reported "severe, continuous fighting" in the neighborhood of Merville and Neuf-Berquin last night. Merville is on the north bank of the Lys, three miles due west of Estaires, and seven miles west of the Laves along which the line ran at the beginning of the battle. Neuf-Berquin is a mile and a half northeast of Merville.

FIGHTING IS REDOUBLED IN STRENGTH

ARMENIERES IS AGAIN A SEETHING HELL OF STRUGGLING ARMIES WITH ENEMY ADVANCING STEADILY AT SEVERAL POINTS

BY WILLIAM PHILIP BIRMS--United Press Staff Correspondent WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, April 12.--The battle around Armentieres has been resumed with redoubled fury.

The enemy has passed the Liane and Lawe streams, in the direction of St. Venant (seven and a half miles west of Estaires, on the Lys canal) and are advancing beyond Stenwerk, toward Bailleul (seven miles northwest of Armentieres and three miles beyond Stenwerk).

Some ground has been lost in order to conform to the movement to the south. When I left the Armentieres area today fighting appears to be dying down, following the British withdrawal.

Armentieres was threatened after the capture of Ploegsteert and the enemy advance toward Stenwerk. The evacuation was ordered early Wednesday afternoon.

Airplanes Take Part In the fighting throughout the day. The Germans ferried Louck, wading across near Lestram (a mile south of the Lys). But their exploit was extremely costly, the British machine guns slaughtering them in great numbers. Although wave after wave came up they were unable to advance beyond the village.

The battle around Armentieres is less severe and on a smaller scale than that for Arras. The former really is two independent, synchronized battles, one on a ten mile front south, and on a six-mile front north of the city.

No Fixed Objectives Some German prisoners taken at Ypres declare there were no fixed objectives after the initial ones. They were ordered to push on as far as they could.

This morning, east of Ploegsteert, there was a terrific German bombardment.

A German officer, taken prisoner, declared the Germans were ordered to capture Amiens today at all costs.

The flag is 38 inches wide and 54 inches long. The body of the flag is white with a broad red border, and is crossed by three vertical stripes denoting the third Liberty Loan.

Stars, to be placed on the flag of each district denoting its quota also will be awarded, and an additional star for each time the quota is doubled.

Clover's Record Imparting The Clover district was the first of the smaller districts to report its quota filled. H. C. Beinke, chairman, on Thursday turned in subscriptions to $55,000 worth of bonds. Its quota is $55,000.

Record of the Clover district is noted with special interest at headquarters and elsewhere for the reason that its population is largely German-American.

HEAVY AIRPLANE TOLL

(By United Press.) WASHINGTON, April 12.--The French brought down twenty-eight German airplanes during March, eight of them downed at night. Six hundred two brought down by anti-aircraft defense of Paris during the raids on that city, March 11 and 12, according to official dispatches here today.

CALAIS SAFE IN OPINION OF WAR EXPERTS

GERMANY MEETING WITH MORE STUBBORN RESISTANCE IN NORTH THAN OBTAINED NEAR AMIENS--DRIVE GRADUALLY LOSING FORCE

(By United Press.) WASHINGTON, April 12.--Germany will not push her way through to Calais.

That was the view of military strategists today, based on the brief developments of the Flanders drive, coupled with the experience of the past.

While still making progress and in a tactical position to continue it for a time, the German is meeting more stubborn resistance than in his pounding for Amiens. There are some evidences, too, that his punch is weaker.

The thought here is that he may run a line out further across the map pointing at Calais, just as he did at the outset of the war, but it is regarded certain now that he cannot reach the channel port if that is his objective. In the 1914 campaign he was no longer pushed across France, only along the Paris and the other toward the channel.

Defenses Is Gallant In this battle, the danger point at Amiens and Calais--the cross-lying gaps on the battle line gave a taste of some encouragement from the gallant defense of the important points along the Flanders sector.

The frequent question, "why have the allies failed to counter attack?" is best answered by Lloyd George's recent speech, military men say. They pointed out today that though the Versailles council saw to it that no substantial counter strike could be made, the allies of reserves a risky venture. And the violence of his prodigal hunt for slaughter made it necessary to use a vast force, merely to check him.

Good Time Coming However, some strategists say that with Americans, British and Irish strengthening the reserve, it will still be possible to make a dash for the Rhine. He has been driven on and on, and if the reserve is strengthened fast enough, the time will come when a blow can be dealt against him at a vulnerable point, it is believed. This may be done by the British, but in the meantime the Allies and America will be able to check him before he reaches vital spots.

Loan Drive Head Denies Hoarding G. D. Thomas Says Rumor Is Absolutely False--Uses Substitutes Instead of Wheat

Branding as absolutely false, gossip that food administration officials had uncovered in his cellar a hoard of flour in excess of the amount any one consumer is permitted to hold, G. D. Thomas, chairman of the Liberty Loan campaign in Twin Falls county, said today that he had not stored the declaration.

"I am making this statement not for my own protection," Mr. Thomas said, "but because reports have come to me that this falsehood is current and is damaging the Liberty Loan drive. I want to brand it as an absolute lie."

LABOR STANDS STEADFAST FOR COMPLETE PEACE WILL EXTEND ITS HAND TO GERMANY ONLY WHEN PEACE IS DECLARED, SAYS JAMES WILSON, HEAD OF THE AMERICAN MISSION (By United Press.) LIVERPOOL, April 12.--James Wilson, president of the Pan-American League of North America, acting as spokesman for the American labor mission, declared today that "American labor is ready to extend its hand to German labor as soon as peace is signed--not before." Up to that point, he said, "America will spend its last dollar and shed its last drop of blood." The American delegation came here to confer with the workmen of other allied countries. "American labor was never before so united in support of our government and its war policies, and it is going to stand absolutely to the finish," declared Wilson. The laborites will be the guests of the house of commons Monday. George M. Barnes, labor cabinet member, may make a speech to twenty in the party, composed of many professions. LABOR WORKS FOR COMPLETE VICTORY WASHINGTON, April 12.--The American labor mission arriving today in London left this country about two weeks ago to carry to English labor the principles of organized labor here. According to the American Federation of Labor here today, it will not offer advice to British or French workmen but will give assurances of mutual interests and the necessity for complete victory without resorting to a patching peace through conferences with workers of enemy countries. The American representative, in presenting their war attitude, will stand rigidly by their determination not to participate in the new Stockholm initiative now under agitation in Great Britain. French and Italian labor representatives are expected to confer with the American mission in England. The mission is as follows: James Wilson, president of the Pan-American League of North America, chairman. William D. Johnson, president of the International Association of Machinists. George L. Berry, president of the International Printing Pressmen. Martin F. Ryan, president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Carmen. John P. Frey, editor of the International Workers Journal. JEROME MAN IN CUSTODY AS BIGAMIST

FERDINAND REHBEIN, ARRESTED IN PORTLAND, TO STAND TRIAL IN THE COURTS OF TWIN FALLS FALLS COUNTY, WHERE ALLEGED FRAUDULENT MARRIAGE TOOK PLACE

Berndinand Rehbein, formerly a blacksmith in Courne, Idaho, will be tried in courts in Twin Falls on a charge of bigamy preferred against him Wednesday by the Twin Falls county prosecuting attorney's office upon complaint of Robert H. Smith of Jerome, brother-in-law of Mrs. Ethel Shepard Smith, the woman whom Rehbein is alleged to have married here on August 28, 1917, while yet the husband of another woman.

Ready to Return

Rehbein was arrested Wednesday evening in Portland, Oregon, by police officers acting under telegraphic instructions of Sheriff Keadall. He indicated his willingness at that time to return to answer to the charge without recourse to the proceedings. Sheriff Keadall left Thursday evening for Portland to bring Rehbein back.

Delays Divorce Action

Statement of the complaining witness to the prosecuting attorney is that Rehbein, at Meyer, Ohio, in April, 1916, married one Nora Gledetler. On August 28, 1917, he secured a marriage license in Twin Falls and was married here to Mrs. Smith, a widow, whose husband, an electrician, had been killed in an accident.

Not until March, 1918, did Rehbein take steps to dissolve the bonds of his first marriage, according to statement of the complaining witness. Then, in Multnomah county, Oregon, filed suit for divorce from the first Mrs. Rehbein.

Trick to Prevent Marriage

Attempt to prevent the marriage of his daughter to Rehbein was made by the father of Mrs. Smith, who knew her father's name, by writing her to Twin Falls for that purpose, arriving here after the ceremony had been performed. He followed the couple to Multnomah county, Ore. Rehbein left his newly gained wife and proceeded to Portland. A short time later she followed him to Twin Falls. Following her, persuaded her to leave Rehbein and make her home with relatives in Oregon, where she has been since that time with her five year old son, Ray Smith.

World Protect Boy

The complaining witness avers that Mrs. Smith and her son were left completely unprotected from her husband, which Rehbein is disputing. He was induced to take the initiative in the action against Rehbein, he says, in order to protect the interests of his brother's son.

GOES TO CANTONMENT FOR-Y. M. C. A. TRY OUT

Rev. O. T. Anderson Quits Pulpit For a Time to Work Among Soldiers.

Rev. O. T. Anderson, pastor of the First Baptist church, will leave Monday for Camp Lewis, American Lake, Washington, where he expects to remain for two or three weeks in army Y. M. C. A. work at the cantonment. He does not feel, he stated Thursday, that it is the duty of wisdom to resign his pastorate here and go definitely into the Y. M. C. A. work until he has engaged in the work for a while, and the Y. M. C. A. permits such a course. "If it seems best for me to remain in the work after he has tried it, he does not," Mr. Anderson said. "If one decided that he is not adapted to the work, which involves physical hardship to a degree almost equaling that of the soldier, he is free to return to his former work."

EMPEROR OF AUSTRIA FRIENDLY TO FRANCE

Remarkable Letter Officially Made Public by President Poincare Shows Extent of Sympathy Between Dual Monarchy and Germany—Deplores State of War.

(By United Press.)

PARIS, April 11.—Emperor Karl of Austria a year ago declared his personal belief that France has a right to Alsace-Lorraine, and that the complete sovereignty of Belgium and Serbia should be restored.

This declaration was made on March 31, 1917, in a letter from the emperor to his brother-in-law, Prince Sixtus DeBourbon, who communicated it to President Poincare, by whom it was referred to the French premier.

The letter, which was officially made public here, follows in part:

"No one can contest the Austrian military advantages, especially in the Balkans. France has shown strength and resistance that is magnificent. We sorely deplore her army's bravery and her people's sacrificing spirit. It is particularly agreeable to me to find that in the face of so many and so far-reaching adversities, there are no true divergencies in views and aspirations between the separate France and Austria-Hungary."

To Support French Rights

"I believe I am right in hoping that my sympathies for France, with which which prevails in the whole monarch, will avoid ever returning to the state of war for which the responsibility is not incumbent upon me."

"I beg of you to transmit sincerely and unreservedly to President Poincare that I will support by every means, and by exerting my personal influence with my allies, the rights of France regarding Alsace-Lorraine."

Re-establish Serbia

"Serbia should be re-established in her sovereignty. As a pledge of our good will, we are willing to grant Serbia her natural access to the Adriatic, and also large concessions, asking only as primordial and essential conditions that Serbia shall cease her relations with Austria-Hungary and with the powers aiming at Austro-Hungarian disintegration."

"I beg to have referred this to France and England, to prepare the ground for an understanding on the basis which official parties may begin—I hope they will end in general satisfaction."

CALLS ON FARMERS TO PLEDGE ALLEGIANCE

Security to Crops Afforded by Irrigation Entails Responsibility.

BOISE—A special plea to the irrigation farmers of the seven states comprising the twelfth federal reserve district and especially to the irrigation canals of California to pledge their allegiance to the United States government, known by purchasing Liberty bonds of the third issue, was made today by D. O. Lively, director of the agricultural division of the twelfth federal reserve district.

"The irrigation farmer, above all other men of the soil, is in a position to buy Liberty bonds," said Mr. Lively. "His crops are assured. He can closely estimate his returns and is in a position to provide in his budget for the purchase of bonds."

Mr. Lively will attempt to reach each irrigationist directly by lists furnished through the University of California, but in the event he does not succeed in reaching any individual, he makes this plea that the farmer go to his bank and do his duty by buying just as he would go to the polls and do his duty by voting on election day.

LIBERTY LOAN IS GROWING STEADILY

FIGURES OF TOTALS NOW REACH GREAT SUM AND END NOT IN SIGHT

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 12.

America's third Liberty Loan drive promises to be its greatest.

Returns to the treasury department today indicated that not only great cities—but counties and in two cases already reported, "whole" states—have oversubscribed their quotas.

Oregon was the first state to go over. Official reports today showed that subscriptions to total $19,044,000 the Oregon quota, taking $19,405,000. Oregon's name takes first place on the honor roll of states.

Potlatch, Oregon, is the largest city thus far officially "going over the top" of the original assigned. Many other cities ranging up to the Oregon metropolis have done likewise in campaigns which for enthusiasm and systematic planning have not been equaled during previous loans.

Oversubscribed First Day

Some indications of this spirit is found in the case of Lynn, Mass., where citizens campaigned all Friday night and before nine o'clock Saturday morning—the hour the loan officially opened—the city had oversubscribed its loan quota by hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Many cities are holding up all parts of their official subscriptions for fear it will slow down the drive. Officially the totals given out by the treasury department show subscriptions of about $20,000,000.

The most significant part of the great response, it is stated, is the great answer of the country's farmers. In the grain belt—where politicians here have cried that the farmer with his wheat price fixed can't make a honest living—the dollars are rolling into the government coffers by millions. One of the states unofficially reported to have oversubscribed its quota—already is a mid-western grain state.

Rogan Is Effective

The same enthusiastic reply to America's appeal for dollars—"Come and join the Kaiser Will!"—is found everywhere. The Liberty Loan officials here are demanding official check-ups on all reports that there may be no false optimism. But indication of the nation's faith is found here where "a single theater" the subscriptions thus far have been four times what they totaled in the entire last campaign.

HE WAS A PACIFIST BUT CHANGED MIND

(By United Press.)

CHICAGO, April 12.—Dr. Emil Hirsch, internationally known as a Roman Catholic pacifist, made an anonymous attack on his loyalty to the United States, the statement that "he stands squarely behind President Wilson." Dr. Hirsch from the pulpit in Sinai temple, Chicago, will make a formal statement to his congregation in reply to a small minority's petition seeking his removal after thirty-seven years' service.

"I have been a pacifist," he said, "but now am not more so than President Wilson. I consent fully in every respect to the war which has been waged in Germany and in which I have learned to love the German people; but I am unalterably opposed to Prussianism."

HOUSE OF BISHOPS ADOPTS RESIGNATION

SPUR WOULD OPEN IDAHO COAL MINES

FUEL ADMINISTRATOR F. R. GOODING ENCOURAGED AS RESULT OF MEETING WITH RAILROAD HEADS HOLDING KEY TO SITUATION.

GOODING—(Idaho, I believe, is approaching a new birth industrially and in its manufacturing sense.)... statement of Federal Fuel Administrator F. R. Gooding on his return from Salt Lake City, Tuesday. His visit to the Utah City was in connection with the fuel administration for Idaho, and more particularly with the proposal to have a spur track built from the coal mines in Teton Basin to Driggs, the present terminus of the road. Mr. Gooding said:

Supply For South Idaho... While in Salt Lake a committee of representative citizens from the various communities close to the mines and including representatives from Blackfoot, Idaho Falls, Rigby, Rexburg, St. Anthony, Ashton and Driggs, headed by Mr. Talbot, the owner of the mines, met with Mr. F. R. Gooding, vice president and general manager of the Oregon Short Line company, and presented petitions from all these communities asking for the construction of the spur to open the mines to the markets of the southern part of the state.

Presents State's Claims... I was honored by selection as chairman of the meeting, and assisted as well as I was able in presenting the claims of the state to the railroad company. At the conclusion of the meeting, Mr. Fiat, who had given close attention to all that had been said, explained that it would be necessary to give the matter further consideration before making a definite determination, but also said that he felt it would not be very long before a definite answer could be given. Mr. Talbot and the great number of petitioners. There was a feeling among those present that the railroad company would make the improvement.

Importance of Project... I doubt very much whether the great majority of the people of Idaho entirely appreciate the importance that the opening of this coal field would and will have upon the coming growth of the state. Naturally first in importance is the certainty that will be brought about relative to fuel supply for future use. It will greatly solve in the future a grave menace which we have had to face, and from which we have suffered during many years. As fuel administrator, it is in this phase of the question that I am chiefly interested.

That my interest as a citizen of Idaho is also very great. No state can get very far in the way of permanent and valuable development until its fuel supply has been secured. If possible within her own borders. Industry and manufacture both depend in the largest possible sense upon this great necessity of life.

Business Confidence... I feel that the Oregon Short Line Company should build this spur. It is true that the company has been a vital factor in the development of the southern and central portions of the state. It has built many branches and thus made possible the development and settlement of what would otherwise still be waste places. But the state has also done much for the company. The Oregon Short Line has long and truly been known as the "Broad Basket of the Union Pacific." It is well to remember that neither men nor railroads can live by bread alone. It is a life and a life and a well, and that the opportunity is now being presented to benefit the state community upon which it depends while profiting itself.

JUVENILE OFFENDERS TAKE COURT'S TIME

Wednesday was a busy day in the juvenile department of probate court. Juvenile offenders held before Judge Duvall on that occasion pleaded guilty to offenses, ranging from truancy to forgery.

An 11-year-old boy confessed, when confronted with the testimony of several witnesses, that he had yielded to temptation when a neighbor completed covering the garage with a coat of pearl gray paint at an expense of $200, and had dabbed streaks of black paint across it. His father agreed to stand the expense of repainting the building.

Three other boys sold stolen new bureau to a man in exchange of the amount and had spent for the "gang," but one 11-year-old boy cashed a check which he forged for $5 to secure his share of the fund. He told the officers that the other boys, including O. Edwards, formerly a hotel manager of Rigby, had not been accomplices in the forgery. In the consideration of the youth of the offenders, they were released on probation. They are required to report at regular intervals to Probation Officer John A. Aull. The three youths were admonished by the court and sent back to school.

RIGBY HOTEL MAN BELIEVED... Mr. O. Edwards, formerly a hotel manager of Rigby, was held in custody Friday evening for Salt Lake, where he will complete his sentence in the marine corps.

NO CHANGE OF ORANGE IN THIS MAN'S PLANS

LINCOLN, Neb., April 12.—Grover Cleveland Alexander, drafted for two months into the army at Camp Funston, according to word received here from St. Paul, Neb., Alexander is home today. The call is expected to be issued about April 23, which means that Alexander would leave the position on about April 29. The clerk of the county exemption board says there is practically no chance of anything doing which would excuse Alexander from being sent with this quota.

IRISH CONVENTION ENDORSES PLAN

PROPOSED SELF-GOVERNMENT ARRANGEMENTS PASSED BY VOTE OF 100 TO 43
(By United Press.)
LONDON, April 12.—The plan for proposed self-government of Ireland was adopted by the Irish convention, 100 to 43. It was officially reported by that body today.

The convention report provides for the establishment of a parliament for the whole of Ireland, with full power for all internal legislation, administration and direct taxation. Self-government, the report said, is to become a law immediately.

The Ulsterites filed a dissenting minority report.

The Irish convention report submitted today declared that body voted, 51 to 17, that any constitution measure must be submitted to the Irish parliament before it can be enforced.

The parliament, according to the report, will consist of a senate of sixty-four members and a house of commons of 200 members. The senate will be representative of commerce, industry, labor, county councils, churches, universities and the peerage.

The Ulsterites agreed to guarantee the unionists forty per cent of the membership in commons.

The question of ultimate control of the customs excise was postponed. In the meantime, it will be controlled by the imperial parliament.

CONCRETE SHIPS ARE GIVEN ENDORSEMENT

(By United Press.)
CHICAGO, April 12.—Delegates to the Chamber of Commerce of the United States prepared a resolution today giving Congress to appropriate $50,000,000 for the construction of concrete ships. This action followed an address by Leslie Combs of San Francisco, who financed the building of the big cement ship "Faith."
Combs visualized for his audience a concrete hulk of ships over the Atlantic, the links of which could be replaced more rapidly than the Hun could destroy them.

Buds and Flowers in Cooking

The French Canadians are said to use the acid flowers of the redbud, or Judas tree, in salads, while the buds and tender pods are packed in vinegar. Honey locust pods, often locally called "honey-suckle," contain a sweetish, thick, chesapeake pulp, which is often eaten. The seeds of the mesquite furnish the Mexicans and Indians with a nutritious food. The Crookes of Louisiana, famous for their cooking, are reported to use the young buds of the sassafras as a substitute for okra in thickening soups.

To Remove Smoke Stains

This suggestion will be beneficial to housewives who have had the convenience of electricity or the modern gas fixtures. Frequently the ceiling above an old-fashioned gas jet becomes discolored from smoke and heat. The discoloration may be removed if a layer of starch and water is applied with a piece of flannel. After the mixture hardened it should be brushed lightly with a brush. No stain or mark will remain.

Washing Catch Fish With Hands

Fishing in Samson suits is often done by the women, and without nets, boats or hooks. They simply wade into the water and form themselves into a ring. The fishes being so plentiful, they are almost sure to impetone some in the ring. These women are very quick and active, and every time they catch a fish with their hands they simply throw it alive into the basket on their back.

Mercurius

In the mythology of ancient pagan Rome Mercurius, or Mercury, to give the English form of the Latin name, was the divinity of commerce and gain, and was identified by the Romans with the Greek Hermes. A temple was built to Mercurius as early as B. C. 606 near the Circus Maximus, and an altar of the god existed near the Porta Capena by the side of a well. His festival was celebrated on May 25, and chiefly by merchants who visited the well near the Porta Capena to which magic powers were ascribed.

Beecher Street

By E. RAY BAKER

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

If Ethel Drayton had done some real reasoning instead of looking at the clock and acting on impulse, it is likely that her bark of romance, with Cliff Edridge in command, would have sailed serenely down the river of agreeableness into the sea of matrimony without encountering a storm. On the other hand, that kind of journey would not have been real romance—it would have lacked zest—so perhaps it is just as well that Herman Hartell came over to Ethel's desk that dreary, rainy afternoon in April and unfolded the secret.

"I have something to say," began Hartell as he brushed a hand carelessly over his miniature mustache and looked down at Ethel's curly brown hair coiled on the back of his neck. "I have a little knob that served as a pencil holder. 'Nevertheless,' he went on, 'I feel in duty bound to say it.' Ethel jerked a sheet of paper from her typewriter and turned her black eyes on all the back of his neck. The tiny, brilliant ring of hair on Hartell's upper lip forced a smile to her face, but this was dispelled when Hartell explained:

"It's about Clifford. You see, last night when this conversation was taking place, the subject of the remains sat on a high stool at the other side of the Lewis Wholesale Paper company's shipping office and poured over a file of orders. He had a head-aching desk approach the stenographer's desk, and he frowned. Hartell leaned over Ethel's chair as he revealed the secret, and Cliff rubbed his brown hair with one hand and thumped on his desk with the other. Half an hour later Cliff slipped from his stool and into his light overcoat. Carrying his hat, he approached Ethel, who was all the way at her typewriter. He passed and smiled pleasantly, but she continued rattling the keys.

"You needn't trouble yourself to wait for me," she informed him in icy tones without pausing in her work or looking up. "I'll be a little late, and Mr. Hartell has promised to see me home." Cliff's smile vanished. Before he had a chance to reply, she had slipped a tag from a finger of her left hand and looked into his eyes with a stare creased with ice. "I can't wear this any longer," she said, "after the way you have acted lately. I have heard that all men must now wear hats, but I assure you that my man won't. If you can't gamble and carouse, you can't expect to become my husband. I have learned all about your going to a saloon or gambling den on Beecher street almost every night, and that's enough for me. Good-night."

Cliff stumbled down the steps to the street and walked three blocks, heedless of the pouring rain, before he came to himself and toward the ring clasped in his hand. Then he stopped, dazed still in the middle of a street crossing, undecided whether to leap in the river or go back and throw Herman Hartell from the roof of the six-story Lewis building. He decided to do neither; instead, he headed for Beecher street. Ethel completed her work and was escorted to her rooming place by Hartell. "Don't the door she took his hand as she went upstairs." "You don't know how I appreciate the revelation you have made to me. I know it must have been hard for you to come and tell me about seeing Clifford go into that terrible place so many times and be grateful to me for it." "Don't mention it, please," protested Hartell, striving unsuccessfully to reach his mustache with his tongue. "I couldn't bear to see you throw yourself away on a worthless fellow. I saw him and many blocks by stepping through Beecher street to the wine shops and that's how I happened to notice him there." The next day, Ethel failed to appear at the office, telephoning that she was sick from her headache. The succeeding day was Sunday. The rain had ceased but the weather had turned chilly and the sun hid behind clouds. Ethel listened in vain for the door-bell. On the telephone, hoping Cliff would appear as he had done each Sunday for more than a year. Then she had told him it was all over; nevertheless, she had expected him to come and make some kind of a protest and attempt an explanation. The morning passed very gloomily for her. Early in the afternoon the landlady summoned her to the telephone, and Ethel tripped over a chair in her haste to answer the call. "Would I call on you this afternoon?" "I'm sorry," she replied, "but I'm too ill to entertain." And she went back to her room to gaze thoughtfully at the picture of a man-behind, smiling youth.

Curious when it was explained that the family lived on Beecher street. They walked past the gloomy, rickety wooden dwelling through throngs of dirty wrecks who peered and made faces at them, and finally came to a dingy opening that proved to be the entrance to a light of stairs. At the top of these the girls stumbled, their way lighted by only a few rays that sifted through the cracks in the dimly outside wall. One of the party knocked at the door that confronted them at the top of the stairs.

"Persons entered on the floor evidently those of a child. Some one fumbled at the knob and the door was swung open to reveal a chubby, round-faced boy of about four years. A malmed, disreputable toy bear was suspended by its feet from one hand of the boy, who blinked curiously at the four visitors. The opening of the door heralded a warm, pungent odor to penetrate the hall and each of the girls involuntarily shuddered.

"The lot, who was clothed in a nondescript suit of several materials and colors, turned and called: 'Come right in,' answered the voice. 'I am ill and cannot come to the door.' The girls entered and noticed that the pungent odor increased. The room was permeated with an unhealthy warmth, caused by keeping all the windows closed and thus conserving the heat radiated from the small wood stove.

The design of the wall paper had at that time been eradicated by accumulation of smoke, grease and dust. On one wall was a framed picture of a young man and woman, evidently a bridal couple. A row of picture postcards was the only other decoration. A table occupied the center of the room, and nearby were a three-legged stool and a dilapidated rocking chair. The floor was covered with a matted rug carpet.

"I'm ill," called the woman, from the dimly lit corner of the room. "Don't look around. I'm too ill to keep the place clean, and Jimmy here is too young." The girls found her lying on a narrow bed, or rather a bunk, "She was frail and emaciated, but she carried a pleasant smile of greeting. Jimmy hovered near, still clinging to the bear. Ethel, a lover of children, picked him up in her arms. "My, my, what clothes!" she murmured to herself, but Jimmy overheard her.

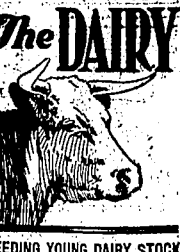

"I'm gonna have new suit," he announced. "Mya's gonna bring it." "Who do you—?" Ethel began, but at that moment Jimmy, hearing faintly some words of the mother, stumbled from her arms and dashed toward the door. "He hears his man," explained the woman on the bed. "Nearly every night he brings on the street a different cap or something to wear. He found Jimmy on the street one night and came home with him. Jimmy told me his man was going to bring him a new suit today.

The door was swung open and a young man entered, placed a bundle on the stool and gathered the little boy in his arms. "My man," breathed Jimmy, hugging the newcomer, while Ethel started forward in amazement upon recognizing him. "Cliff!" she cried.

Clifford Edridge placed his human burden on the floor and stared in astonishment that equaled her own. "So it was decreed that a home of poverty should be the setting for a proud, sensitive, impulsive girl to ask forgiveness—and get it. Let Children Pick Clothes. Every young man when he or she was a child how irritating it was to have our parents pick all our clothes without giving us any choice in the matter. In the Woman's Home Companion a writer says: 'Now, what a nuisance for the boys is this. Take your own with you when you buy their clothing. Commit their tastes somewhat. Don't let them select any thing ridiculous,' but give them a choice of half a dozen sensible coats or hats for what they may be. Don't scold them too much if they come home with the straps on their bloomer trousers unhooked so the trousers legs are almost long. No doubt the captain of the baseball team and all the other fellows have their hats. Or if your boy comes up the street with his cap over his right ear, while you are telling him that he looks 'just like a little street tough' remember it was the style that day, yourself followed last winter, and that 'what all the fellows do' means just as much to Johnny as Paris notes do to you."

Snakes. An explanation of this hallucination is offered by the result of French experiments a few years ago. Sixteen alcoholic patients were examined with the ophthalmoscope, and it was found that the minute blood vessels in the retina of the eye were congested. In this condition they appear black, and are projected into the field of vision, where their movements resemble the squirming of serpents.

Professional Diogenes. "Diogenes can't beat business is loomin' in a right important," remarked Mr. Ernest Plickley. "I specks dare gotta be some 'scussion' about 'my employment.' " "What's the matter with your job?" "It's all right," replied he. "I don't want to be called 'a mule driver' no mo'. Hereafter I want to be 'titled to as a pilot.'"

FEEDING YOUNG DAIRY STOCK

Where Milk is Not Available it is Economical to Supply Protein by Use of Legumes.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture)

It is a common practice among dairymen to feed skim milk until the calf is approximately six months of age. Usually the time of weaning depends upon the availability and cost of the milk. In its abundance it furnishes the greater part of the protein necessary for the growth of the animal. If no milk is fed it becomes necessary for the protein to be provided from some other source. Probably this can be done most economically by the use of some legume, such as alfalfa, clover, soy beans, or cowpea hay. When hay of this sort is not available it is necessary to provide the bulk of the protein through a grain mixture. In either case plenty of roughage should be supplied by the growing heifer at all times. During summer when good pasture is available, the heifer needs no supplementary feed, although a little hay and grain are sometimes advisable late in the season to insure steady growth.

Part of the roughage should be silage, if it is available. A heifer of six months to one year of age will consume from 6 to 16 pounds of silage a day. The grain mixture used may be made up of (1) 3 parts of cracked corn, and 1 part wheat bran; (2) or 3 parts cracked corn, 1 part wheat bran, and 1 part ground oats; (3) or 3 parts cracked corn, 1 part wheat bran, 1 part ground oats, and 1 part linseed meal; (4) or 4 parts cracked corn, 1 part wheat bran, 1 part ground oats, and 1 part blood meal. Either 1, 2, or 4, together with all the alfalfa, clover, or cowpea hay that the heifer will eat, makes a good ration. In case no leguminous hay such as that just mentioned can be obtained, No. 3 is advised, because it contains more protein. Another excellent grain mixture, to be used when silage is lacking, is composed of 2 parts of cornmeal, 2 parts of linseed meal, and 1 part of bran. The quantity of hay to be fed depends very largely upon the individual animal's growth and condition, as well as upon the price of the grain. Some feeders desire a rapid growth of the young animals, and for this reason feed heavily with grain, while others are satisfied with a slow growth and try to carry their young stock largely on roughage. Either extreme is unwise and a medium course between the two is advisable. A safe rule to follow is to feed one pound of grain for the first hundredweight of the heifer and one-half pound for each additional hundredweight.

After the heifer reaches one year of age, the following ration is suggested by the Cornmen, fed according to the rule just mentioned, together with all the alfalfa, clover, or cowpea hay that the animal will consume. If no leguminous hay is available, grain composed of 2 parts cornmeal, 1 of bran, and 1 of linseed meal, gluten meal, or cottonseed meal, and 10 to 20 pounds of silage, together with all the dry roughage that the animal can consume, will be found to be adequate. Each animal should receive a gain of at least a pound a day from the time of weaning to the time of first calving is a good average for a dairy heifer.

SHIPMENT OF DAIRY CATTLE

Do not ship fresh cows long distances unless in express cars under particularly favorable conditions. The agencies involved usually handle such operations to valuable purposed individuals. Time and time again, as a result of being shipped shortly after freshening or so as to calve in transit, fresh cows have been ruined so far as the next lactation has been concerned.

THERE ARE BIG PROFITS IN OIL

A GROUP of men, all residing in the Twin Falls country, have organized a company under the name, The Twin Falls Oil and Development Co., which has acquired a half section of land in western Wyoming in a territory surrounded by highly successful oil fields. Options on four thousand acres more are being taken over. Geologists claim that this property is ideally located and evidences big possibilities. To the north lies the big Piney field, where the Cretaceous well is producing 280 barrels of oil per day at a depth of 865 feet; to the southwest are the famous Fossil fields and the Spring Valley fields.

NOT a Promotion Scheme But a Development Project

This company is not organized for the primary purpose of selling stock. It is composed of men who after carefully investigating every phase of the project, concluded that its possibilities were such as to warrant the investment of their time and money. It is a development company. Within the next few weeks drilling will commence on this property.

MEN YOU KNOW

The men interested are all men you personally know, or have heard of—successful business men of Twin Falls, Buhl and other nearby cities. They are in it because they are confident it is a money-maker. They have put up their hard-earned money for the property and initial drilling expenses. The remainder of the development expense will be raised by the sale of stock, and if you act quick, you will get in on the ground floor with them. IF THEY WIN YOU WIN.

CAPITALIZATION

The company is capitalized at $400,000, two million shares of par value of twenty cents each. The first 100,000 shares will be sold at five cents per share. This is a REAL GROUND-FLOOR opportunity.

WHAT OTHERS HAVE DONE

All big fortunes have had small beginnings. The largest oil companies in the world today were little once, and once there was a time when their stock could have been bought for a trifling amount. Dodge Brothers, multi-millionaire manufacturers of the Dodge automobile and large stockholders in the Ford works, got their start from an insignificant investment with Henry Ford. Oil stocks that today are selling for hundreds of dollars each once sold for five and ten cents a share.

HILL 63 IS IN BITTER STRUGGLE

FAMOUS FIGHTING AREA SHELTERS LITTLE COLONY OF LOYAL BELGIANS WHO STOOK SINCE BEGINNING OF THE WAR

(By William G. Shephard, United Press Staff Correspondent)

CHICAGO, April 12.—Hill 63 has not been mentioned yet in the dispatches covering the Armenteres fighting, but it surely is in it, because it broods over Ploegsteert wood.

Newspaper correspondents who have been there know all the foreign folks in this district. For Hill 63 has protected their homes through all the long hard months of the war and they have pursued their lives under its shelter just as if the German trenches had been miles away instead of only yards.

Widow Biemy had a little shop along the country road at the foot of Hill 63. She's Belgian, erdy fish of her, and she loves America.

She took me into the yard the children-trooping behind us, and showed me a well kept grave bordered with violets and crocuses. On the grave cross was marked:

"Here lies Patrick O'Reilly, of the Seaforth."

Was Friend to Children

"Mr. O'Reilly used to visit at our house," explained the widow. "The children used to run out to meet him as he came from the trenches. He loved to play with them. One day he was killed by a shell. We told the soldiers if they wouldn't bring his body to our farm so that we could care for the grave. And now, you see, we keep it clean and green and beautiful."

The communique don't say whether Hill 63 is still sheltering this little colony of Belgian folk who live at the edge of Ploegsteert wood.

STATE AND NAVY DEPARTMENTS ANTICIPATE NOTIFICATION BEFORE THE DAY IS OVER

(By United Press.) WASHINGTON, April 12.—Both the State and Navy departments anticipated early today that they would be advised before night as to the reported landing of American marines at Vladivostok.

It has been known for some time—though confidentially—that the United States was represented in the squadron flying the Siberian port, but officials suspecting Americans would not land there unless American lives, as well as property, were endangered.

It is anticipated that the reported American action will be seized upon by the German agents to inflame the Russian people. This will be offset, however, by an American statement as to the necessity for the action. Anarchy has been rife at Vladivostok and it is expected that Americans would join the Japanese and British only in case of extreme necessity.

STAGE IS SET FOR WILLIAM J. BRYAN

SAN FRANCISCO, April 12.—With the Hindu-robed plot trial ending an end, the jury had its first verdict to return today while it awaited arrival of William Jennings Bryan. This verdict will be the jury's own desire to hear thirteen lawyers argue the case. Judge Van Fleet told the jurymen to decide whether they should be sentenced to exorbitant and he would abide by the decision. It was predicted there would be no exorbitant.

DAY NURSERY STRUCK BY LONG RANGE PROJECTILE AND TWENTY-ONE WOUNDED, MOST OF THEM CHILDREN—FOUR PERSONS KILLED

PARIS, April 12.—FOUR PERSONS ARE DEAD AND TWENTY-ONE WOUNDED, MOSTLY CHILDREN, AS THE RESULT OF A REBEL STRIKING A DAY NURSERY DURING THE LONG RANGE BOMBARDMENT OF THE CITY, LATE YESTERDAY.

Successful surprise attacks north at the Ailette river and west of Belle-d'Espérance (in the Tabare sector, where American artillery is engaged) resulted in the taking of some enemy prisoners. The French war office reported today. French patrols took some prisoners in the Nogent-sur-Oise-Casny-sur-Sec sectors.

Women and Little Babies It is now the glory of Kultur to kill women as well as little babies whose eyes are scarcely opened to the light," said Le Matin, editorially today. "The hospital was filled with women taking a rest with their babies in the cradles near them. The afternoon was ideal—the sky was blue and the windows were open to let in the sunlight and fresh air. The crying of new born babies mingled with lullabies. The daily visits of relatives and friends had just ended, and the nurses were tending the wards when a shell fell, blowing up a great hole in the floor. A baby and two women were killed and eleven injured."

Advertisement for Goodrich tires featuring an image of a car and the text 'BEST IN THE LONG RUN', 'A Message from America's Roads', and 'SECURE certainty of service in Tread Tires. They give sure service because it is proven service. Their endurance and mileage have been proved in the one way to assure mileage to the motorist, on the car on the road.'

HEARLEN to that 1918 message, the roads of America send American motorists. Last year Goodrich, launching six Test Car Fleets in six widely different regions of our country, took Goodrich Tires, and with light and heavy cars mauled them over sand, gravel and rock roads of plains, deserts and mountains, to try out—

GOODRICH TESTED TIRES

What those tires endured doubled Goodrich's pride in its tires. They fought America's roads through 4,178,744 tire miles. They conquered the roads of America in that phenomenal mileage, those BLACK SAFETY TREADS and SILVERTOWN CORDS.

Let American motorists listen to this message from America's roads. It means time and money saved them. They get lasting service with the tires that have won the title, "America's Tested Tires."

A Leaking Faucet

When the faucets in the bathroom or kitchen leak or do not allow the water to flow freely they need a new washer, and the washers cost five cents each. If you put on the washer, turn off the water, the rod is usually under the sink or in the basement, and unswear the faucet; take off the worn-out washer and slip on a new one and turn your water on again and presto! the work is done and no repair bill to pay.
