Would Goad Germany Into a Sea Fight and Proceed Against Her with the Combined British and American Fleets --- Preliminary Plans Are Daring

Land Fighting Quiets Down on Every Front with Allied troops taking the Offensive with Good Results --- Raiding parties Do Good Work --- American Soldiers take Active part in Local Fighting

(By United Press.) The British navy, in its challenge to the German high seas fleet, is becoming increasingly daring. Following the destruction of enemy armed trawlers in the Cottogot April 15, six hundred miles from an English base...

The measure of courage necessary for this operation is evident from the fact that the shore batteries in these Belgian ports are known to be among the most powerful in the world, and the ships, to have accomplished the desired blockade, must have been sunk well in shore.

Warships Stand By The British forces, the admiralty said, consisted only of "auxiliary vessels" and six obsolete cruisers, five of which constituted the blockading fleet, in addition to the "covering ships."

They Wash Sea Fight All indications point toward a deliberate attempt by the British navy to goad the Germans into a sea fight of more or less major proportions, in which the enemy high seas fleet would be opposed by a combined British and American squadron.

Block Enemy Craft LONDON, April 23.—British naval forces, in a daring raid on the German mainline bases at Ostend and Zeebrugge early this morning, sank five concrete-filled ships in the channels to block the egress of enemy craft.

ENEMY LOSSES GREATER THAN FIRST THOUGHT

AMERICAN TROOPS GIVE EXCELLENT ACCOUNT OF THEMSELVES IN ACTION MOST SEVERE

(By Frank J. Taylor, United Press Staff Correspondent.) WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN LORRAINE, April 23.—The American official report on Saturday's engagement northwest of Toul follows: "The losses sustained by us were no larger than could reasonably be expected. The engagement was the most severe in which the Americans have participated. The enemy's losses were much greater than he had anticipated, as is evidenced by more than 300 dead in the American trenches and in No Man's Land."

Artillery Does Good Work "Heavy damage was inflicted by Franco-American artillery where the lines join."

He Didn't Time A grenadier, who was in the front line, asked if he was scared, replied: "Didn't have time; I was too busy fighting. I had two green men with me, so I had to get them an example."

SABOTAGE, ESPIONAGE AND WOMAN ALIEN BILLS GIVE GOVERNMENT POWER TO HANDLE SITUATION—OHAM-BERLAIN BILL DEAD

(By L. C. Martin, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, April 23.—Thoroughly equipped with all necessary powers for the first time since the war began, the government today began a more rigorous campaign against enemy spies and plotters. With President Wilson's signature to the sabotage bill, and with the espionage and woman alien measures now law, department of justice officials informed congressional leaders they believed they now have all the power they need to cope with Germans within the nation.

The Chamberlain bill, giving military courts martial jurisdiction over espionage cases now tried by civil courts, was dead today, a result of President Wilson's personal opposition.

Overman Bill a Compromise While the president's influence effected passage of the Chamberlain measure, his "no compromise" attitude in the same letter, regarding the Overman empowering bill, has not materially helped that measure. The Overman bill will pass but only as a compromise.

The house military committee today heard Secretary of War Baker in a lengthy session. Baker was to tell the committee how many soldiers the department plans to put in the field and the committee is ready to vote for any appropriation needed. It was generally believed Baker would recommend an army of from 3,000,000 to 5,000,000.

BRITISH TROOPS OUTNUMBERED AT NEARLY ALL POINTS

WAR OFFICE REPORTS RECEIVED INDICATE LIKELIHOOD OF ANOTHER GERMAN DRIVE

(By United Press.)
NEW YORK, April 23.—The Germans are preparing for a third drive to be launched against the British between Arras and the Somme, according to official British war office reports received here today.

The operations on the west front are proceeding according to reports. The Germans are now preparing a further offensive between Arras and the Somme river.

"It is extremely probable that the British will make this third great effort on a similar scale."

The British are greatly outnumbered at the Somme, adding that on March 21, Germany had 83 surplus divisions concentrated in the angle where the British and French lines joined. "The enemy is prepared to attack both fronts as a consequence of his central positions and excellent railway system. He can concentrate in Picardy against the British or in the Champagne against the French quicker than the allies can shift reserves," said the report.

British Losses Heavy

The British losses have been exceedingly heavy, the cable states, and as a result of a month's continuous fighting Haig's army is "very tired."

"The exact casualty count is given," the communique states. They have fought an entire month against German forces three times their strength. Almost the entire British army has been engaged. One-fourth of the French troops have been engaged and their losses are less than one-fourth of those suffered by the Germans."

According to the cable, the Germans concentrated 2,000,000 troops against Haig's army, intending to completely annihilate it by one master stroke.

 condition of German military power.

The casualty results alone, therefore, of the fighting which would mean a German defeat even if the Germans had retained permanent possession of a sector of the American front. The highest strategy confronting General Pershing is the strategy of killing General von Hindenburg and his troops in the American trenches to be killed, instead of waiting on the defensive in their own trenches, the Germans are playing General Pershing's own game for him.

Fritz Grows Nervous

Nervous activity of this kind by the Germans is sure to continue. Frequent assaults of the character of the Siegfried adventure can be expected during the period of final trench training of the American forces. Every one of them will mean a German slaughter of thousands of men for America, regardless of any slight change that may result in the hands of the battle front.

It Costs Many Men

This spirit of restlessness in the greatest fault of the German militarists and by its operations is making the British situation so bad. That is the reason why they embarked on their submarine warfare which forced America into the war; that is why they started their present west front offensive which is proceeding without adequate preparation for the terrible slaughter of German military power; that is why every major mistake of the German military has been committed.

Huns Must Kill

A kind of neurotic irresponsibility prevails at German headquarters. The higher command is thinking always in terms of the justitia. This is a dangerous trait. It means Hindenburg and the Hohenzollerns cannot restrain their minds for killing over more Germans than their means of trying to win the war. Each German assault, therefore, still results in German deaths must be regarded as a German contribution to democracy's eventual triumph.

ORGANIZED BARBARITIES STILL COMING TO LIGHT

NEW YORK, April 23.—Describing what he called German atrocities, Frank Whitlock, United States minister to Belgium, indicates the Prussian horrors were conducted with Prussian efficiency as part of the plan of campaign. "While wars in Belgium were still over, the German army was writing in Everybody's magazine for May, which appears today, he tells how carefully organized barbarities followed in the wake of the German drive, being especially cruel after each German defeat.

Picturing what occurred when the French resisted a German attempt to bridge the Meuse, August 23, 1917, Whitlock says:

Used as Human Screen

"People were held there, evidently as a sort of screen, while the Germans began to construct a temporary bridge over the river. The Germans sent a citizen to Dinant, one of the prisoners, in a boat across the river to inform the French that unless they ceased firing the civilians would be shot. But a few stray bullets still sped across the river. The prisoners were massed together—nearly ninety of them, old men and young girls and boys, little children and their mothers' arms. A platoon was called up, the colonel in command gave the word to fire, and the gray soldiers in cold blood shot down those ninety persons as they stood huddled together there. Among them were two children under the age of six years, six of them little babies whose mothers, as they stood up to face their pitiless murderers, held them in their arms."

Murder All Night Long

The fate of the town of Anlene, before it was a place of 7500 people, is cited by Whitlock as an example of what happened when the Germans were thrown back in an attempt to cross the Meuse as a temporary bridge.

"All night the killing and pillaging went on," he says. "The crowd was ordered to walk toward the Place Tilleul. Those who did not walk fast enough were shot down. A Finnish clockmaker came out of his dwelling supporting his aged father-in-law; he was ordered to hold up his hands, but he could not do so without totting the old man fall, so a soldier struck him in the neck with an axe. Arrived at the Place des Tilleuls the women and children were separated from the men. Hysterical, the soldiers picked out thirty or forty men and shot them down in cold blood. And all the while, day and night, in the flaming streets, the pillaging and the murder went on. The man who described it all to me had a vivid memory of a tall, red-headed soldier, who was particularly conspicuous by the ferocity with which he wielded the axe and mutilated his victims, a baby among them; in the arms of his mother."

Kill Out of Beverage

Speaking of the destruction of Bortmechelen, near Malines, Whitlock says that every time the German army was thrown back upon it, they burned forty houses.

At Dinant, Whitlock declares: "Women and children were forced to stand by and witness the murder of husbands and fathers. One woman, Madame Alina; who had given birth to a child three days before, was borne forth on a mattress by German soldiers who told they would compel her to look on while they shot her husband, but her cries and supplications finally made the soldiers to spare the husband's life."

"In the little graveyard beside the church at Taniais there are hundreds of new-made graves," writes Whitlock. "The crosses stand in a row. They are all neat, of painted wood, alike except for the names and ages—from 13 to 84. But they all bore the same date, August 22, 1914."

SERIES OF CRIMES MAY BE EXPLAINED

LONG PERIOD OF DISAPPEARANCES AND MURDERS BELIEVED TO BE SOLVED BY ARRESTS

DETROIT, Mich., April 23.—After confessing that he burned the body of Augusta Sivilang, New York, after enticing her from New York with a million-dollar note, Schultz, suspected head of a "murder plant" at Royal Oak, committed suicide in his prison cell here this afternoon.

Schultz crawled under an iron bed, lifted it and dropped it on his head. His skull was crushed.

(By United Press.)
ROYAL OAK, Mich., April 23.—A murder plant, white-gala, was enticed and slaughtered for what money and other valuables they possessed, was located at Helmut Schultz, his wife Helen and their 18-year-old daughter, Detroit. The plant included a crenatory where bodies of victims were disposed of, police think likely.

Make Horrible Find

A charred bone, resembling a human pelvis, and a bank of hair—containing a few reddish strands—was found today under a pile of ashes in the rear of the Schultz home. Miss Sivilang had a natural hair.

Loot, including three women's watches and quantities of women's jewelry, has been found in the house.

Schultz, an alien enemy, worked as a mechanic in the Ford plant in Detroit under another name. He is said to have been educated in Heidelberg. He is suspected of connection with the German underground railway in this country.

TRAILING ARBUSUS FLOWERS.

"We mustn't waste any more time," whispered one of the trailing arbusus family to another.

"No, we mustn't," said the other. "We must wait for we are first to awaken every year."

"And all the families in this part of the world," said the first arbusus, "obtained the second arbusus, 'some' children came here to look at us."

"Oh, dear, I'm a little shy," said the first arbusus. "They said to each other: 'It must be too soon, they aren't ready yet.' They looked under some of our leaves and several of us were trying to keep them from seeing us, so we would not disappoint the children."

"Many of our sisters and brothers were picked and I believe they came out later on in water."

"But those same children have come back every year, and now they are almost grown-up. They always say, 'Here is the first place we find these lovely spring flowers. And so we know what is expected of us.'"

"How did you learn all that?" asked the first arbusus. "I was the first to look at the world I've had."

"It's my first look, too," said the second arbusus, "but I almost fell for it. I know all about the world, for the leaves have whispered to me when we were under the snow all about the glorious world."

"Ah, yes," continued the arbusus, "every year as our family goes away as the different flowers are picked, they whisper to me and tell me."

"Don't forget to tell the buds in the spring that they must be the first to come out. It's expected of them. Remember to tell them."

"And so we know we must come out soon."

"Yes," said the first arbusus, "that's why I'm out. I thought perhaps you were just then before."

"Just then they heard a rustling of leaves and then some laughter."

"Oh, dear, I'm a little shy," said the second arbusus. "I must hide."

"And it hid a little under the leaves. Most of the arbusus family are shy, and they always hide under the leaves. But once they are picked and put into water they are shy no longer, and they give a glorious fragrance all around them, to let grown-ups and children know how happy they are when they give pleasure."

"We must look under the leaves," said one child. "I've heard this is the place where they come out first every year."

"The arbusus flowers nudged each other and rustled a trifle under their leaves. 'It's just as I said,' the second arbusus whispered.

"Yes, it is," said the first arbusus. "Won't they love it when they see us smiling because we've had a little taste of hide-and-seek—that's all!"

"Look!" exclaimed the children. "Here! Here! Lots of them. Oh, aren't they beautiful, the lovely pink sweet flowers?"

"The flowers smiled. "Good morning, children," they seemed to say. And how bright and pink and happy they looked.

"It's true," said one of the children. "This place is famous for the first arbusus of the year."

"When I thought the leaves to themselves, and the roots which were left behind, they were left behind. They will have to tell the flowers carrying the Big Bunches get Bunches."

"How sad it would be if we ever lost our fine reputation!"

"But I'll hurry things up next spring," said one of the roots. "So will I," said another.

"And off the children went, carrying the biggest bunches you ever did see of trailing arbusus flowers. And the flowers whispered secrets to the children, but at the children's understanding flower talk, they didn't know that they were hearing secrets."

"This is what the flowers were saying: 'We hide our heads under the leaves because we're shy. We love children and the whole beautiful world, so pick lots of us, and we'll be bright and gay.'"

"But the children only knew that the flowers were very, very fragrant, and oh, so very sweet!"

Hold Up Your Head. There's a moral effect in standing erect. One who is standing in slouching finds it easier to be downhearted than another whose eyes seek the inspiration of the blue skies and the stars. There seems to be some connection between a curving spine and a yielding will. Young people who are inclined to underestimate themselves need to learn to hold up their heads in a literal sense, and a revival of their self-esteem is likely to follow. With shoulders back, chest distended and head up—nothing equal to things which otherwise would be overwhelming.—Girl's Companion.

THE WAR, THE FARM AND THE FARMER

By Herbert Quick Member Federal Farm Loan Board

The farms of this country could carry the war to a victorious conclusion even if all the rest of the nations should quit. The rest will not quit; but we could win it without them if we had to do it. The farmers of the United States can whip Germany. We can whip them with guns. We can whip them with our products. We can whip them with our money.

Every farmer in the United States must remember that the war has a first mortgage on every cent he has. The last spare cent in the pockets of every farmer in America should be devoted to the war.

The Kaiser began foreclosing his mortgage on our farms when he declared ruthless submarine warfare. The war is our answer to his bill of foreclosure.

Our contribution is, first, our sons and brothers for the trenches; second, the best point of food production which we can give to the world's hungry labor supply, utilizing the men, women and children and the townspeople about us; and third, money for Liberty Bonds.

This is the crucial year of the war. Our soldiers are at the front, hundreds of thousands of them in the trenches, and a million more ready to go. The whole burden of carrying on our own part in the war, and of aiding our sister nations in arms, rests on the United States Treasury.

If the treasury falls or falters or finds itself unable to respond to every call upon it, the war is lost. Do you realize that?

Your son, and all the nation's sons, are relying on the United States Treasury to furnish things with which they may fight.

Their lives are lost if the treasury fails. Our country is lost if the treasury fails. Germany wins if the treasury fails. Therefore every cent you can raise and scrape together belongs to the treasury, that our soldiers may come back to us alive and victorious.

This back to us alive and victorious. This back to us alive and victorious. This back to us alive and victorious. This back to us alive and victorious.

We must give into the United States Treasury in subscriptions to Liberty Bonds.

(This is the last of a series of three articles by Mr. Quick.)

While Gerard was our ambassador in Berlin, the Kaiser said to him one day that he would stand no nonsense from America after the war.

Do you know what that means? It means that the Germans intend to subjugate this country if they come out of this war victorious.

The German Imperial government has reached the superiority of Germany to all the rest of the world. The German nation is drunk with imperialism. One of their great writers expressed the prevailing official view in 1903, when he wrote:

"The Teutonic race is called upon to create the earth with its rule, to exploit the treasures of nature, and of human power, and to make the positive races servient elements in its cultural development."

Whoever has the characteristics of the Teutonic race is superior. All the dark peoples are mentally inferior, because they belong to the "negative" races. The cultural value of a nation is measured by the quantity of Teutonism it contains.

Are you one of the dark races? Are you willing to be rated as one of the "servient elements" in Germany's cultural "development"?

You began to be one of the "servient elements" when peaceful people were slaughtered as they carried your produce to market. Was it because you belonged to a "negative race"?

This war is for the purpose of paying to that insane claim, with the roar of a hundred thousand cannon—"NO!"

Never since the Turks threatened to overwhelm Europe was the world in such danger as now. Germany must be defeated this year. Unless we win our place in the world is lost, and our history as one of the "servient elements" begins.

We must withhold nothing from the support of this war. We must give our money, we must give our labor, we must give our lives. We must give into the treasury of the United States every cent we can spare.

This summer the support of the war is up to the farmers and the farm-loans. We must never allow our farmers to fail!

WANTED FROM FARM, FACTORY AND FIRESIDE

A plea comes to us here in America from those who have suffered the torture of organized Hun brutality, that you, on the farms; you, in the factories; you, the fathers and friends of brave boys "over there"—that YOU will come to the rescue with your money—today. Don't wait. Help shorten the horror. You are not asked to give—billions. Buy Liberty Bonds—all you can afford.

A DIFFERENCE

Seeking some sort of a plausible explanation for its "bargain sale" subscription rate, a competitor lays considerable stress upon the idea which it expounds in the following words—conspicuously displayed:

"SO THE SUBSCRIBER INSTEAD OF THE SOLICITOR GETS THE $2.50"

Aside from being a covering up process, it is designed to make subscribers to THE DAILY NEWS believe they have been imposed upon.

This insinuation, however, THE DAILY NEWS sees fit to answer—and to make its answer doubly effective—

It Will Give $50.00 to Any Person, Firm, or Corporation Proving that it is Paying or Ever Has Paid $2.50 for a Subscription to Any Solicitor, Employee or Any Other Person and It Will Give Another $50.00 to the Red Cross When Any Such Proof is Produced.

As a matter of fact—well known by everybody in the Twin Falls country—THE NEWS is the only newspaper in Twin Falls that has not resorted to silverware, millinery, cut glass and automobiles to sell its product. THE NEWS has never been "thrown in," "sent free," or WISHED OFF on people who were admitted only by the desire to help a friend win a prize. Nor is it sent to people with the expectation of effecting an "adjustment" with them later.

The News Has Always Been Sold on Merit Alone. It Continues to be Sold on Merit Alone and It Will Continue to be Sold at a Rate Commensurate With the Service It Believes the People of This Community Demand in a Daily Newspaper. To Do Less Would be Unfair to the Community.

USES GUN TO END CONTRACT WITH EMPLOYEES

GIRL GOES BAREFOOT ACROSS FIELDS FOR AID WHEN PARENTS ARE THREATENED

"Get out of this house or I will kill you," Arthur Miller, alias Herman McDaniels, is alleged to have said, flourishing a loaded .32 calibre automatic revolver and addressing Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Gummerson and their 19 year old daughter, Olga Gummerson, in a farm house six miles northwest of Twin Falls at about 10 o'clock Monday night. The girl, scantily clad, made her way nearly a mile across the fields to the home of E. J. Malone and communicated with the sheriff's office. Miller, still flourishing the gun, was arrested by Sheriff Kendall a few moments later. Charge of disturbing the peace was filed against Miller this morning by Prosecuting Attorney Frank L. Stepihan.

Told Employees to Leave
Miller is said to have lashed the Walter Parish farm, where he made his home with the Gummersons, whom he had employed to assist him with the farm work, and where the alleged girl took place Monday night. Dissatisfaction arising between Miller and the owner of the farm is said to have resulted in Miller's announcement a few days ago to the Gummersons that he was going to give up the place and that they would have to look elsewhere for employment. The Gummersons say that they were employed by Miller to work for eight months and that they had been in his employ less than five months when he announced his change in plans. They were unable to secure other employment at once and stayed on at the farm.

Disconnected Telephone
Monday night, after the Gummersons had retired, Miller came to the house in company with the girl and "went into the dining room and began disconnecting the telephone, while Curtis held a light. The sound awakened Gummerson and he went to the dining room door. Miller produced the revolver, Gummerson says, and threatened him. After the girl had left the house, Gummerson and his wife escaped through a window in the bedroom. They were met by the sheriff and accompanied him back to the house.

Faked Bill Defenses
Miller told the sheriff that he had produced the revolver in self-defense. He said that Gummerson had threatened

BUG INVESTIGATOR'S SEARCH REWARDED

DR. J. E. WODASADLEK DISCOVERS APHIS 70 DAYS EARLIER THAN FOUND HERETOFORE

Discovery of "thriving" specimens of the clover aphid family was the reward Saturday evening at the end of two days' search for the insect last night by Dr. J. E. Wodasadek, head of the department of zoology and entomology of the University of Idaho, upon his arrival here Thursday to continue and amplify investigations in this field begun last year by A. C. Durfill.

In Unexplored Field
The work in which Dr. Wodasadek is engaged in one that is practically unexplored. Entomologists have discovered no methods of controlling or eradicating the insect pest that, in this district two years ago, did thousands of dollars worth of damage. Study of the life history of the insect is one of the important preliminary steps of the work. Dr. Wodasadek stated yesterday that his discovery Saturday of aphid reveals the fact that the adults of the species survive through the winter season. It also makes it possible for him to observe a period of the life history of the insect, beginning 70 days earlier than has been possible for any investigator in the field heretofore. His Durfill, who came here late in April last year, to make investigations relative to the aphid pest, was unable to discover any specimens of the pest until June 19. His notes, therefore, necessarily omit an important reference to a period in the life history of the insect.

Dr. Wodasadek's discoveries of aphid were made in the vicinity of Twin Falls, one at the southeast corner of the city and another at the northwest end of Main avenue.

Specialist on Bugs
Dr. Wodasadek is eminently qualified by his training for the work in which he is engaged here, and about which he is enthusiastic. Before becoming a member of the faculty of the state university he was an instructor of the University of Wisconsin, where he specialized in entomology, securing his degree of doctor of philosophy upon the merits of a thesis entitled, "The Behavior of Insects, and other facts, with the connection between the application of various stimulus to leave Missoula of insects."

REAL SEA STORY IN NEW PROTOPLAY

William Russell's new play, "The Sea Master," showing at the Orpheum Wednesday, matinee and night, one day only, is one of those sea yarns that grip the imagination with their swaying sails, and bucko mates, corks on the rope and or belaying pin, and harried skipper—his seventy-foot yard-arm and seething forecastle compartments.

Mr. Russell has been provided in this play with one of the most vivid plots so far furnished him in his American Mutual series. The story has to do with "Bull" Dorgan's falling in love with pretty Emily Gordon, and carrying her off to sea with him aboard the lugger, "Southern Cross." Despite his brutality and his jealous doubts of her, Emily at last learns to love this big two-handed sailor for the sterling qualities he manifests under her gentle influence.

Mr. Russell is supported by that clever young actress, Francis Billington included in the cast are such capable people as George Fisher, Clarence Burton, Perry Duke and Ross Carlson.

The play was directed by Edward Sloman, one of the best known men in his line in the business—Adv.

CITY GETS FIGURES ON INSURANCE BILL

WOMEN'S COMPENSATION TO COST MUNICIPALITY SIXES A YEAR

It will cost the city of Twin Falls $1345.68 to insure its employees under the terms of the Idaho state workers' compensation law, according to figures furnished City Clerk W. A. Minick by State Insurance Commissioner C. O. Broxon. The law, which became effective the first of this year, provides that municipalities and some other corporations must take policies from the state insurance fund. Some questions arose between the city officials and the insurance commissioner relative to this feature of the law, and the city, in consequence, has deferred payment of its premiums until now—when the payments for the first two quarters of the year are due and payable.

FIREMAN'S RATE HIGHEST

The highest rate of insurance is assessed in the case of the members of the fire department, of whom there are 10. The rate in their case is $610 for each $100 worth of insurance carried. The rate for policemen is $300 per $100, while the lowest rate is for clerical assistants in the city clerk's office, whose rate is seven cents per $100.

Employers to Be Protected
The city's liability insurance bill is estimated on the basis of 22 employees, classified as follows: Firemen, 10; workmen superintendent, street commissioner and employees in those departments; 9; policemen and police judge; 4; clerical assistants in the clerk's office; 4; sewer department; 2; city engineer and wagonmaster.

FOREGO LODGE SESSION TO INVEST IN BONDS

EARLY RESULTS KNOWN BY THE VOTE INDICATES FAVORABLE ATTITUDE

As a result of a suggestion made in the local lodge by W. A. Minick, past chancellor and representative to the grand lodge, Knights of Pythias lodges throughout the state are balloting on the proposition of dispensing with the session of the grand lodge this year and devoting the money, aggregating about $2000, that would be expended in per diem and mileage expenses of delegates, to the purchase of Liberty Loan bonds. The grand lodge at its session last year voted to meet this year in Twin Falls on June 19.

A district convention of the order which was to have convened on Saturday next at Hallory, has been called off in pursuance of the suggestion that Liberty Bonds should be purchased.

Out of 43 lodges in the state, 14 have replied in regard to the proposition, nine of them favoring abandonment of plans for the grand lodge session, and five declaring for the session.
