Hun Prepares to Compel Sanction of Shipment Through Neutral Country into Belgium-- Possibility of War Looms Large -- Official Information Lacking

Teuton Diplomacy Again Exhibits Customary Disregard for Rights of Small Countries -- Action Taken to Indicate Desperate Necessity of Decisive Action on West Front Without Further Delay

HUN CAVALRY ON BORDER

THE HAGUE, April 25.—German cavalry has appeared along the neutral border, hitherto guarded only by Landsturm.

A strong German note, demanding a quick reply, has arrived. The main demand is for free transportation of materials through Holland to Belgium.

Westphalia is a Prussian province extending along the greater part of the Dutch frontier. It contains the Rhine valley.

(By United Press.)

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Germany is holding the mailed fist over Holland to enforce the sanction of supply shipments through that country into Belgium.

In her desperate efforts to drive to a decision on the west front, Teuton diplomacy is once more showing its ruthless regard for the rights of neutrals. The situation is fraught with possibilities, but there was a strange dearth of official news here concerning development.

If war comes, Germany would undoubtedly seek to plow through Holland opening up a path to Belgium which she wants for troops and supplies. Holland's border is well protected by high British troops, but it is doubtful that the Dutch could withstand long any serious attempt at invasion.

Holland Will Take Stand

It is held certain here that Holland will not agree to Germany's demands unless she is willing to protect her. Holland knows that if she throws her lot in with the Germans she will be in a position to take virtually all her ships and her colonies.

Hence the little neutral's position becomes gravely dangerous. If it would succeed in bottling up the German U-boat outlets at Ostend and Zebruges, Germany is forced to take drastic action in Holland or see her submarine campaign utterly fail.

Want Military Aid

Military experts here believe that unless allied forces are sent to Holland it would require exactly more than a half million Germans to overrun the little country.

This would depend on Holland's determination, however, to literally "sink or swim." The scheme of defense of the little neutral embodies concentration of her forces in a restricted area-- "the Holland fortress"--comprising the provinces of North and South Holland, with parts of Zealand and Utrecht.

Two-thirds of the area is surrounded by the sea. On the land side are strongly established military works, rendered exceedingly difficult of attack by inundations.

Hard Country to Attack

The German land approaches to the Holland border are hilly. Amsterdam is well fortified and there also are inundation protections which might prove successful attack by the Germans.

Control of the inundations has been entirely in military hands, however, and the fear is expressed here that Germany's long arm of intrigue may have stretched to the point where flooding of the country to prevent invasion may be jeopardized by German agents.

AIKBOARD CHAIRMAN RESIGNS POSITION

(By United Press.) LONDON, April 25.—Lord Rothermere, chairman of the British air board, has resigned, it was stated today. He is a brother of Lord Northcliffe. Premier Lloyd George, in accepting the resignation, expressed his regrets that Rothermere should leave his post after successfully launching the unification of air force.

PRO-GERMAN LIES IN NAILED BY RED CROSS

The devilish subtlety and vicious ingenuity of German propaganda is shown to advantage in the report current in Twin Falls during the past two or three days that instructions in magical dressing class on each other branches of Red Cross activity are under salary and that a large part of Red Cross donations are going to the support of the war.

Those who have taken the trouble to inquire into the matter understand thoroughly that there is not one word of truth in these statements, and that such assertions are lies, pure and simple.

At the same time these reports are having their effect. Any citizen coming into contact with such stories should enter a prompt and vigorous denial of any such rumors and refrain from repeating them under any and all circumstances.

THERE IS NOT A SINGLE PERSON IN TWIN FALLS COUNTY WHO HAS EVER RECEIVED ONE DOLLAR FOR SERVICES RENDERED THE RED CROSS IN ANY SHAPE OR FORM, AND ANY STATEMENT TO THE CONTRARY SHOULD BE RECALLED AS A VICIOUS AND CROCODILE-HEARTED WITH INTENT TO INJURE THE RED CROSS AND INCIDENTALLY, THE AMERICAN GOVERNMENT.

S. S. ST. PAUL AT BOTTOM OF HARBOR

NEW YORK, April 25.—The huge American liner St. Paul sank at her dock at the foot of Twenty-first street shortly after noon today. Her sea cocks are supposed to have been left open, either from accident or design. As far as is known there was no loss of life.

The steamer was coming from the Brooklyn drydock, where she had been undergoing repairs since her arrival from a European port April 15.

The investigation as to opening the sea cocks was extended to the Erie basin where the big liner had laid up.

Suspect Hole in Side

"We believe a hole was left in her side," said one investigator. After a deskocking of all debris, it was announced this afternoon that two of the workmen had been injured.

The St. Paul was towed from the drydock by tug. She started to settle just as she rounded the end of the wharf. Every effort was made to get her into the slip so she would not go down in deep water. As she settled and struck bottom, she careened over on her port side.

A survey was started this afternoon to ascertain the cause of the sinking of the St. Paul and putting her back in service. There is no way of telling how long this operation will take.

The St. Paul has recently been in government service.

As she was warping into her berth alongside pier 51, in the North river, she began to sink. She settled slowly into the ooze of the river bed and is now lying on her side.

IRELAND IS PREPARING TO RESIST

ANTI-CONSCRIPTION ACTIVELY CONTINUES UNABATED--REORGANIZATION OF OLD MACHINERY PROCEEDING, AND GLASH SEEMS CERTAIN

(By United Press.) DUBLIN, April 25.—Throughout Ireland the anti-conscriptionists are quietly and determinedly marshaling resistance to the draft.

A joint "national defense conference" consisting of Dillon and Devlin for the Irish party, Devalera and Griffith for the Sinn Feiners, and Healy and O'Brien for the Nationalists was in session all day yesterday at the Mansion House, working on plans for resistance and co-ordinating the political, ecclesiastical and labor forces.

To meet eventually a proclamation has been issued against carrying arms or ammunition in ten Irish counties.

Ulster Reorganizing

St. Edward Carson ordered his Ulsterites to reorganize their machinery and hold a council meeting immediately after the introduction of home rule, declaring Ulster's position "grave."

Nationalist members of parliament are urging the people to refrain from violence. They report the tension great, however. Priests are directing the collection of a national defense fund in some districts, amounting ten per cent of the valuation. Already large sums have been gathered.

CHANCELLOR HEETING GOES AF-THE-GERMAN NEWSPAPER BE-GAINE OF CHARGES

(By United Press.) COPENHAGEN, April 25.—Chancellor Heeting has taken action against the Deutsche Zeitung because of an article published by that paper charging that German Foreign Minister von Kuhlmann and former Austrian Foreign Minister Cerain, during the Romanian peace negotiations at Bucharest, "abused the courtesies extended to them."

The article declared that Von Kuhlmann was often seen with a well known demi-monde (woman of the underworld) while Cerain frequently visited questionable places of entertainment. It was further charged that Cerain insulted a certain high-born lady.

Other newspapers excused the alleged actions of the two foreign ministers, saying they were as worse than those of the peasants holding their annual meeting in Berlin.

PREFERS HANGING TO LIFE IMPRISONMENT

(By United Press.) SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—Thomas J. Mooney, under sentence of death for participation in the predecessor parade bombing of July 22, 1911, today issued a statement from his cell in the county jail declaring that he would rather be hanged than have his sentence commuted to life imprisonment.

BRIGADED WITH FRENCH IN FIGHTING AT POINT OF NEAREST GERMAN APPROACH TO AMIENS

(By United Press.) HUNS TAKE TOWN PARIS, NEWS OF THE GERMAN SAVERS CAPTURED HANGARDEN-SANTERRE (WEATHER THE AMERICAN AND FRENCH TROOPS ARE FIGHTING SHOULD TO SHOULD) FRENCH WAR OFFICER ANNOUNCED TODAY.

American troops are playing their part in the crucial stage of the greatest battle in history.

On this, the thirty-seventh day of the great German offensive, Hindenburg for the first time is striking simultaneously in Flanders and Picardy.

The immediate objective in Picardy is the important railway and highway center of Amiens. Before this city, Foch is opposing him with a combined force of French, British and Americans. The Americans in this section are brigaded with Petain's men, rather than with Haig's. A French communique described "Franco-American positions" between Hangard-Santerre and Hallies. The other village is only seven miles southeast of Amiens, on the west bank of the Avre. The Americans thus are accorded the signal honor of battling the Germans at the point of their nearest approach to Amiens.

Hangard-Santerre is 8 1/2 miles east and slightly north of Hallies, on the north bank of the Loze.

HITTER FEELING MARKS DEBATE ON SPY MEASURE

SENATOR JOHNSON BACKS UP PRESIDENT—OPPOSITION WANTS CHANGE FOR ACTION

(By United Press.)
 —WASHINGTON, April 25.—That congress is making a travesty of the "war for democracy" was the charge today by Senator Johnson, California, attacking the conference report on a bill to punish seditious utterances and writings.
 "The free speech rule is now for the first time repudiated and denied expression in a law," said Johnson.
 "What harm can be done by preserving a right that has existed ever since the United States was a nation?
 "It was with a feeling of the greatest delight and great security that I read the Washington Post letter of the president published in a stamp of disapproval on the bill presented the other day by the military affairs committee."
 Johnson referred here to the Chamberlain military court bill, killed by the president's disapproval.
 "A national travesty is presented today, when congress in the midst of a war for democracy refuses to allow the people to speak what is true—denied by its action the right of every American to speak the truth."
 Senator Overman, in opposition of the bill, angrily denied that the measure would limit the right of any citizen to speak the truth freely.
 "Today treason is being preached throughout the country in lodge rooms and in various meeting places," declared Senator Fall, New Mexico.
 "We can't handle this situation with silk gloves. What we need is the iron bars of jails."
 "It is true that we are at war," retorted Johnson, "but when did it become a war on the American people, so that the safeguards of the constitution and the rights of the law be denied them?"
 "You are warning, not on a foreign nation, but on our own people. I am warning the doctrine of a military tribunal was repudiated by the president of the United States."

FAMOUS BALL PLAYER WANTED IN FRANCE

(By United Press.)
 NEW YORK, April 25.—Christy Mathewson, famous baseball pitcher, has received an appeal from the American expeditionary forces asking him to "come over" and take charge of baseball in France.
 The appeal was made by the war department board of the Y. M. C. A. after his selection by a vote of a majority of the men in France.

AMERICAN CASUALTIES

TO RE-ARRANGE WORLD CREDITS ON SCALE TO ELIMINATE DETAIL

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Revolutionary changes in the financing of the world war will soon occur, it is reported, if all declared credits which will eliminate the handling of loans by England to the allies has been virtually agreed upon.
 The United States has extended credits of $5,285,000,000 to the allied governments, more than half of which have gone to England.
 Contingent credits would discontinue credit extensions to England and in turn would supply the other allies with funds for their war.
 Great Britain plans to raise her war funds through taxes, "slaying" none of the rest of the world.
 "The suspension of loans to Great Britain has forced immediate action on the part of the other governments that have been looking to her for help."
 Big Purchasing Agency
 England had built up a monster purchasing machine before the United States entered the war.
 "Through loans from the United States the British and all of their allies had advantage of this machine. The problem confronting the allied governments now is how to retain the use of English buying through a different system of credits.
 "The British government has said it stands ready to aid in any way, but until Assistant Secretary of the Treasury

SEAGULLS AID ALLIES HUNT OUT SUBMARINES

(By United Press.)
 PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—In regard to the many reports from abroad concerning the part the common seagull plays in the hunt for submarines, the capture of the U-boat—following the underwater craft in quest of food and "pointing them out" to our destroyers, listen to this "yarn":
 "Boys Frank H. Stewart, president of the Ocean City (N. J.) Fish and Game club, one of the largest on the Atlantic coast:
 "Every gull on our coast is an aviator in our defense and worth almost as much as a soldier or sailor for our protection. You see the gulls live chiefly on the fragments of fish left by the hungry tigers of the sea feeding on schooled fishes.
 "Every boy on the seashore, knows that a diving, searching flock of gulls indicates a school of fish.
 "If the aviator they can see below the surface, but they cannot reason that all things under the surface are not fish. They expect something to appear on the surface of the water following a commotion underneath. That something is food.
 "When gulls detect a submarine they follow it like a school of fish, and if this nation ever is attacked by the U-boats we shall be sorry that we have not ten gulls for every one we have now."

OIL SHORTAGE WILL AFFECT NEWSPAPERS

(By United Press.)
 SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—Fuel oil consumers on the Pacific coast are facing a total estimated shortage of 50,000 barrels of oil a day within the next few weeks, Vice-president K. H. Kingsbury, of the Standard Oil Company of California, told the United Press today.
 This statement was borne out by Professor D. M. Folsom, federal fuel administrator for California.
 The oil shortage may seriously hamper the production of news print paper in the Pacific northwest, they said, and practically every industry listed in the federal fuel administration's priority list as non-essential may have to run on curtailed supplies.

(By United Press.)
 CHICAGO, April 25.—"It's all off," Jess Willard said today regarding his proposed fourth of July bout with Fred Fulton. Despite the assurance of promoter J. C. Miller, who returned from St. Paul today, the champion declared the match couldn't be staged.
 "The opposition encountered at St. Paul and the fact it is growing makes it look as if I will not get a chance at Fulton," he said.
 A permit to stage the fight will be granted or refused after a joint hearing of the Minnesota public safety commission and hearing committee in St. Paul on May 4.

POPULARITY OF BLUE GRASS

Kentucky Soldiers, on Return March From Battle of Tippecanoe, Gathered Seed in Indiana.

The tradition that the Kentucky soldiers who fought at Tippecanoe took back with them the seed that has made blue grass famous in our country, has never been questioned or seemed to require authentic proof, declares a writer. Mrs. Letering says, to her "Authentic Indiana":

"It was on the return march from the battle of Tippecanoe that the soldiers from Kentucky gathered the seed of the blue grass which they found growing in Indiana, and carried it home with them, thinking it was a superior variety because it satisfied the hunger of their horses so well that they would not eat corn. It flourished so well on the limestone soil of central Kentucky that it made that state famous." This statement was based on information obtained from early settlers of Indiana. Kentucky was not known as the blue grass state until many years after the battle of Tippecanoe.

As long as slavery existed, Kentucky, lying south of the Ohio river, was classed as a Southern state. It never was classed as a central Western or middle Western state along with Ohio and Indiana. In the census report of 1910, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Wisconsin were classed as "East North Central states" and Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and Mississippi as "East South Central states."

When Indiana was admitted to the Union, in 1816, it consisted of 18 counties, viz.: Wayne, Franklin, Dearborn, Switzerland, Jefferson, Clark, Washington, Harrison, Knox, Gibson, Posey, Warrick and Perry.

Division of 72 counties out of these, making 92, the boundaries of the original 12 counties underwent material changes.

SAVING RESULT OF BUYING COAL NOW

FUEL ADMINISTRATOR CALLS ON IDAHO CONSUMERS TO PLACE ORDERS EARLY

Saving of at least 45 cents a ton through purchase of coal at prevailing prices in Twin Falls is announced by State Fuel Administrator Frank R. Gooding in a statement issued this week. "As an inducement to the people of Idaho to store coal," he says, "I have asked the dealers of Twin Falls county, and of other counties where there is a corresponding gross margin of profit, to give the people the benefit of the cost of unloading the coal from the cars to the bins, which at the present time is about 25 cents a ton."

Mine Prices a Factor

"Another matter in which there is a great saving at the present time is the price of coal at the mines. The government has fixed the price of all prepared coal from Utah and Wyoming coal fields at $3.75 per ton. Up to the present time the operators have not taken advantage of this increase, but have continued to sell their coal at the old price of $3.30 per ton. I am unable to secure a promise from the operators that the price of $3.30 shall be continued beyond May 1, but consumers can help materially in extending the continuance of this price if they will file their orders with their coal dealers at the earliest possible moment."

A Patriotic Duty "Above everything else, regardless of the saving, let me say to the consumers of Idaho that it is our patriotic duty to make use of the freight cars at the present time so that when they are needed for the handling of our great crops and for other vital necessities, there will be no demand for them to any great extent for the handling of coal to supply the people of this state."

FOLLOWER OF PASTOR RUSSELL ARRESTED HERE

U. S. DISTRICT ATTORNEY AUTHORIZES DETENTION OF P. G. GLOYSTEIN ON FEDERAL CHARGE

Pursuant to instructions of the United States district attorney at Boise, Sheriff F. M. Kendall yesterday arrested Prentice G. Gloystein, of this city, for the part taken by him in the distribution of a paper, said to have been published in Brooklyn, New York, and carrying accusations that the Protestant and Catholic Bery of the United States had instigated government action against members of the International Bible Students' association. He was released from custody on his own recognizance pending the receipt of further instructions from the federal district attorney.

Objectable Publication This association published and sponsored the circulation of a book called "The Finished Mystery" which recently was suppressed. The paper, distribution of which here by Gloystein attracted the attention of local authorities, was headed "Kingdom News," and the subject matter bore the title, "The Finished Mystery and Why It Was Suppressed."

Compelled With Rule Mr. Gloystein has been one of the leaders of the International Bible Students' association here for several years. Prior to the suppression of the book, "The Finished Mystery," he took an active part in selling it in this district. It was reported that he had been arrested in Portland for his activities in this connection. He has been seen, saying that he had not sold a copy of the volume since his suppression.

Says Question Not Political The question involved is not a political one, Mr. Gloystein said yesterday following his arrest. "It does not affect the government on any way or the other. It is purely a religious one and is opposed not by the common people, but by a majority of the professional clergymen who are seeking through many channels to bring pressure to bear upon the government to

BUHL OFFICER HAS RETENTIVE MEMORY LAPSE OF TIME DOES NOT PREVENT PROSECUTION OF YOUTH ON BAD CHECK CHARGE

The fact that Officer A. P. Baymiller of Buhl possesses a retentive memory in respect to infractions of the law was evidenced this week when Fred Hansen, aged 19, returned to Buhl from California and was immediately placed under arrest under warrant issued last November for passing a check without funds at the Citizens State bank at Buhl. The youth was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace L. C. Washburn at Buhl, as a result of which he was sentenced to spend 30 days as a prisoner in the county jail. He began serving his sentence Tuesday.

JURY RECOMMENDS MINIMUM SENTENCE CHARLES FLOWERBET IS FOUND GUILTY OF BATTERY BUT LENIENCY IS ABEAD

Verdict of guilty with recommendation for leniency was returned by a jury in probate court here Wednesday afternoon in the trial of Charles Flowerbet, charged with the misdemeanor charge of striking C. W. Griggs during the course of an argument Saturday over the use of an irrigation ditch. Judge J. P. Davall assessed a fine of $25, which was paid.

Evolution of the Lamp. Dr. Walter Clark of Philadelphia has recently made some interesting investigations to find out how the old-time lighting conditions in his city compare with those of today, says the Popular Science Monthly. He has discovered that until as late as 1885, only flickering sperm oil and candles were in use. Not until the following decade did the "highly improved" kerosene lamp appear. Gas did not come out until the period between 1885 and 1875. And there only the wealthy could use it. It sold at $2.00 per thousand cubic feet. The efficient Welsbach mantle came out ten years later, revolutionizing artificial-illumination. The present gas lamp in 1900 when gas and electricity came into general use, selling at $1 per thousand cubic feet and electricity at 10 cents per kilowatt hour. Since that time the gas mantle and the electric filament have had great improvements. So that today the average family is obtaining about eighteen times as much light as the world of half a century ago.

suppress this Christian and philanthropic work completely. Declares Members Loyal These clergymen have raised a great roar that the International Bible Students are disloyal and against the Government of the United States, and therefore guilty of treason. Nothing could be further from the truth. There is not a disloyal one among the members of the International Bible Students' association here and that is what the government in any sense they recognize the United States government as the best government ever established.

With the Red Cross Work At Home and Abroad

Sewing materials and yarn will be given out by the Twin Falls branch at the Methodist church beginning Wednesday, April 24. Yarn both for socks and sweaters may be had. The room is open to all and any lack of organization of the branch is completed the work will go on as usual. Mr. F. W. Brown has been appointed chairman of the knitting department.

The Parish hall will be used as a cutting, packing and supply house by the Twin Falls chapter. Materials and supplies to all auxiliaries will be sent from these quarters.

The quarterly meeting of auxiliaries will be held Saturday, April 27, at the school hall, at 2:30 o'clock. All chairmen are urged to be present.

The pupils of Mrs. M. G. Batley will give a tea and musical from 2 to 5 o'clock on May Day at the home of Mrs. Batley, on Main avenue north. The proceeds from the tea will go to the Red Cross.

The following donations have been received at headquarters this week: Mrs. Kiesel, $10; Mrs. Pitman, $5; Mrs. O. Gray, $10.

Surgical dressing classes are again at work in Twin Falls, Piler, Kimberly and Hanson. If the same enthusiasm is shown in this department as was shown last month there will be no reason why the classes should not fill her quota by or before the allotted time. The place, the days and the hours are the same.

This month's quota from the sewing department has been finished and shipped, and consisted of 1 box pajamas, 1 box bed shirts, 1 box tape bed shirts, 1 box convalescent gowns, 1 box underwear, 1 box bed jackets.

A quota has also been given the knitting department this week. By the middle of July the following articles are to be completed: 850 pairs socks, 215 sweaters, 65 mittens.

The refuse department has shipped two boxes of completed layettes to headquarters this week. Anyone having old dresses or materials not too bright in color leave same at refuge rooms. This must be washed, pressed, and ripped before leaving and will be made into garments for grown people and children of France and Belgium.

The Review of Odds and Ends

By VINCENT G. PERRY

(Copyright, 1917, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

As he jerked the copy from his typewriter, Grandon Houston jumped to his feet with an exclamation of relief. He had finished his "Weekly Review of New Books" and it was ready for the composing room. Never before had the work seemed so tedious as it had that week. The reading had all been heavy and even a review of the latest news had been a task. He had done his best to put the last book in place among the others he looked at the title and gave a gasp of annoyance. Somehow that was one he had overlooked and it was necessary to write a review of it before the day's work was completed. "Oh, I can slip it in among the reviews next week!" he exclaimed, as he opened the cover to take a peep inside, but the first thing that faced him was a note from the editor, pinned to the cover, containing a review of the book. He looked at it with a gasp. It was for that week. He looked at his watch as he sat down at his desk again. It just lacked thirty minutes of the time he had arranged to meet Marguerite. Could he review the book in the time he had? He looked it over and decided that he could.

To begin with the title, "Odds and Ends," did not impress him very much. The authors, Winifred Shelton, was unknown to him—it was her first book, so doubtless that didn't soften his heart. The publishers were well known, but they had published failures before. He skimmed over the pages, drinking in snatches of the plot as he went. He had passed his decision before he was here through, but there was nothing for it but to read to the end. As he closed the book he looked at his watch. Twenty-five minutes of the time had passed and it would take him the other five to write the review. He doubted that didn't soften his heart more than that he thought as he pushed some paper into his machine. Adverse criticism always took less time to write than favorable ones. He did not care to be in a few words of praise, but he would write something. He did not write enough about "Odds and Ends" to make it necessary to re-read his copy, so when he finished he put it with the rest of the reviews and sent it down to the composing room.

Well, hadn't she who would get discouraged this morning and let it go? He would bring pain to the new writer did enter his head, but he laughed it aside. If she had talent a little discouragement would merely stimulate it, and if she hadn't then she would get discouraged sooner or later anyway, he reasoned.

After climbing up three flights of stairs, hurrying to arrive as near the appointed time as possible, Grandon pushed his way into the editorial room. "Hello, Mr. Perry," said the editor, "Marguerite had waited for him! One look at her, though, told him his hurry had been unnecessary. She was busily typing and there was a stack of uncut books before her that looked like an all-night job. "I'm sorry, but you'll have to wait," she explained as her fingers moved like lightning. "I've just got back from a vacation. If I leave my story to you until the morning I'll have to get up here and I wouldn't do that for anything. If the convention had closed an hour sooner I would have been able to get this in for the morning, but it will have to go over now."

Without a word of complaint Grandon sat down and watched her add a flourish. He knew what it was to look like a triumph smile and she smiled up at her copy. "I've written three more than I should have, but the convention is worth it."

"It is too late to go any place now," Grandon smiled good-naturedly. "I'll go home then and I'll make a little supper for you. I made some muffins this morning and I have some fresh ground coffee. You know the kind of coffee I can make."

"Don't say another word. I'll care in with hunger before we get there if you do," he warned. "Well, probably die of indigestion when we get there," she laughed as she took her coat and turban from her locker and prepared to leave.

It was a cozy little supper they sat down to that night in her cheery room and both were hungry enough to do justice. "Won't it be lovely when we can have a supper together every night?" Grandon ventured as he devoured the last mouthful. "Yes, when we do," she answered, vaguely.

"Why do you talk as if it were so far away?" he asked, without his usual smile. "Isn't it?" "I hope not. It is useless for me to walk as long as I can save than afford to keep a wife and let her see you plugging away at the Star."

"But I love my work," she answered. "I want to be a great writer some day."

"But I do admit it is my work, but deep down in your heart I don't think you think I have any ability at all!"

"That is unfair. That is just a little notion you have got into your head. I think your writing is fine. You have never given me a chance to tell you what I really think about it."

"I answered with a shade of moonlight in her eyes, but she changed the subject so quickly he did not notice it. When Brandon was taking off his coat before retiring, letter on his desk caught his eye. It was a note from the editor. He must have gathered up with his coat when he took it from the chair in Marguerite's room, he decided as he stooped to pick it up.

It was a letter to Marguerite, and when his eyes lit upon one sentence he could not refrain from reading the whole thing. It was from a publishing house, one of the best-known ones, and it contained a book and they had published for her. "Odds and Ends" is one of the best books we have published this season and we think you were unworthy not to have it appear under your real name." The sentence that caused him to gasp. He finished the letter, then dropped it with a groan. The book that the day's work was completed before and his review of "Odds and Ends" would be waiting on Marguerite's desk the next morning.

He couldn't remember just what he had put before her, but he knew it was terrible. He groaned at a hard appearance at the office next morning, and it was with shaking fingers that he opened the paper to read his column. He scanned the page in vain. The review of "Odds and Ends" had been cut out!

"You nearly made an awful mess of things last night, Houston," Brandon turned to face the editor. "How?" he asked. "Why, your review of 'Odds and Ends' was cut out. That story was by local girl—in the city and I'm trying to ease her for our woman's page. Lucky for me I happened to pick up your copy in the composing room last night."

"I should say it was!" Brandon grabbed the editor's hand. "Why, man, you've saved my life! I'm engaged to be married to the writer of that book and I would have lost her sure if that review had not been cut out!"

"She'll be great for our woman's page!" "She'll never write a word for it," Brandon laughed as he ruminated among his books for "Odds and Ends." "Why, your review of 'Odds and Ends' has been cut out. I'm going to get it out of this book, so please come Mrs. Brandon Houston or I'll make my guess."

A Little Girls' Pride. When I was a youngster I was anxious to get a new pair of shoes that my eyes were weak. My mother took me to an oculist, writes Mrs. G. M. Y. in the Chicago Herald, and I noticed after he had tested my eyes and my mother had my consultation. I went home with the oculist with the instruction I was to wear them to school the next day for the first time. I obeyed the instructions. On my way to school I met several of my chums who, of course, remarked about the new addition. I was quite proud of them and said: "Oh, yes, I can see so much better now."

Giggles went around the class and finally the teacher came to see what the trouble was. Then she too laughed. She asked me why I had to have such thick, heavy glasses. Taking them off I discovered only the frames and no glass in them at all.

"The teacher explained that I didn't need glasses and mother had lugged herself with the oculist to cure me of the foolish desire.

How They Do It. "What chance does 'em' take!" you may exclaim when you see a motion picture showing a man and a lion, with a none too pleasant expression, in a hollow log together, each apparently unaware of the presence of the other. It seems a ploy to spoil the effect of such a good thriller by killing the truth about the film. The lion alone was taken during one exposure of the film. When he had bowed himself out of the log and back into his cage the man was allowed to take the center of the screen, or rather of the log, and was photographed in proper relation to the lion, on the second exposure of the same film. But on the screen, of course, they both appear in the log at the same time.—Popular Science Monthly.

Hunted Canton. The old naval cutter is one of the sights of Wel-hel-wei. It was originally a Chinese building, and is still decorated with Chinese carvings and tiles and hibiscus, according to a collector in the show. In the Chino-Japanese war, the antiquated Chinese fleet was blown to pieces by the Japanese. The commander of one of the lost vessels committed suicide in the building that is the place where it was blown to bits. He considered his disgrace. The death of his unken flagman can still be seen projecting bare and stiff in the waters of Wel-hel-wei harbor.

Unusual Incentive. My little niece was given two complimentary tickets to a moving picture show. So her mother told her to call me and ask me to go with her. What she called up I told her I was sorry, but I could not go. "Oh, please go," she insisted, she begged me to go, because she says she was waiting—Oh says Tibbons.

WHAT IS YOUR "SONG OF SONGS" ---SEE THIS ELSIE FERGUSON PRODUCTION

IS YOUR "SONG OF SONGS" MONEY, POWER OR LOVE—SUMPTUOUS FEATURE, NOTABLE CAST, AT THE IDAHO

In "THE SONG OF SONGS" Elsie Ferguson, the noted stage beauty, interprets the part of Lily Kardos, a girl of unusual beauty, who begins life as an alewife for an Oriental store with branches on the boardwalks of Palm Beach and Atlantic City, where she attracts the attentions of wealthy men. Her career is a series of dramatic incidents, and she rises to a commanding position as the wife of ex-Senator Calkins, a millionaire who proposes marriage only after he has been repeatedly repulsed in his wily advances. Through the plotting of Calkins' housekeeper, a former victim of his perfidy, Lily is caught in a seeming compromising position, and in a fit of jealous rage he drives her away.

She plunges into the fast life of the set into which she is thrown and later meets Stephen Bennett, a high-minded young man, with whom she falls in love. Through the intervention of this man's wealthy uncle the shadows of her past are brought up and loom up as a barrier between the lovers. Lily is prevented from suicide by Stephen, who disregards his uncle's commands and rushes to his sweetheart's side in time to save her life.

Short Stories of Plays and Players

Illia Burks is still working on her new Paramount picture, "Let's Get a Divorce," the photoplay written for her by Anita Loos and John Emerson, and expects to finish this week. Illia Burks has personally assisted in the selection of the settings and furniture, and, as the young bride in the story, with a trousseau of extraordinarily pretty clothes, the general ensemble of the picture will be beautiful and artistic. "Sapphire Man" Adolph Zukor presents Ann Pennington in "Sapphire Man" for another Paramount release of the present month. This is an adaptation of the novel "Galvaly Alley," by Alice Higgins. Rich, author of "The Wiggs Stories," Miss Pennington has the role of Nan Molloy, an urban living in "Galvaly Alley," and heading the gang called the Alley Rays. Her part is a child sweetheart, Dan, who works in the shoe factory. Through an escapade which makes appearances seem against her, though she is actually innocent, Nan is com-

IS WOMAN THE CHEF WAR BUTTER?

The much debated question as to whether men or women feel most severely the terrible burden of war has been thoughtfully touched upon in the tremendously patriotic picture, "The Thing We Love," which every good American man, woman and child ought to see and think about. The question is as old as war itself, and the nearest solution that we have ever seemed to reach is that it usually falls equally heavy upon the shoulders of all. This is only one of the many present-day problems in "The Thing We Love."

FIGHTING HEAVY ON WIDE FRONT

AMERICANS ARE HOLDING POSITIONS SOUTH OF SOMME—HUNS ACTIVE

(By United Press)
LONDON, April 25.—American troops are aiding in the defense of Amiens.

The units, the French communicate disclosed, are holding positions south of the Somme and along the Aves, in conjunction with the French.

It was against these positions that the Germans directed their heaviest attacks in the resumption of their offensive yesterday. The fighting is continuing along a wide front there, according to the latest official reports.

"An intense bombardment of the Franco-American positions south of the Somme and on the Aves was followed by a German attack along this whole front by considerable forces at five p. m. today," declared the night official statement from Paris.

"The enemy's efforts were directed against Haillou and Senterre, the region of Haillou and Senterre wood.

Heavy Fighting Continues

"South of the Aves, the battle, which lasted all day, continues. It was particularly stubborn in the region of Haillou and Senterre. After a series of furious assaults, the enemy succeeded in obtaining a foothold in the wood south of the village, as well as in the eastern edge of the village itself, which we are defending desperately.

"In the neighborhood of Haillou the fighting was severe. Several enemy assaults directed against the ridge east of the village were frustrated by artillery fire and counter attacks. Further to the south, the Germans were similarly checked before Senterre wood and Hill 58, which remain entirely in our possession."

Amiens Under Siege

Field Marshal Haig, in his night report, admitted the capture of Villers-Bretonneux, three miles north of Haillou and Senterre, and eight miles and a half east of Amiens.

"After a violent bombardment, the enemy attacked us on the whole front south of the Somme and against the French on our right, about 6:30 a. m. today, and was repulsed," the British night report said.

"Later, a attack on our positions in this sector was renewed with strength and although repulsed with loss on the southern and northern ends, made progress at Villers-Bretonneux, where the fighting has been severe throughout the day. By evening the enemy had gained possession of the village and the fighting was continuing.

British Take Prisoners

"Other attacks by the enemy today on the north bank of the Somme and north of Albert were repulsed. We took a few prisoners."

Regarding the fighting in Flanders, Haig said:

"By a local successful operation this morning northwest of Pithoubers, a post captured by the enemy in this locality on Monday was regained. We captured a few prisoners and four machine guns."

"The enemy delivered a strong local attack without success against our new positions east of Boboeq early in the morning. Our line was maintained and we took 44 prisoners. Additional prisoners were taken in minor enterprises in the Nieppe forest and near Moteran."

Berlin Reports Mideast

"There is nothing new to report for many theaters," was all the Berlin night report said.

The German day report said:

"Fighting activity on the Lys and Somme battlefields was limited to local actions."

now lying on her port side, only partially submerged.

There were many soldiers and policemen was instantly thrown about her. The only information given was a police statement that it was believed her rescuers had been captured. Whether this was through carelessness at the Three Island dock where it was done while she was on route to her berth, is not known.

No Loss of Life

This phase is being investigated by federal authorities.

Ambulances were rushed to the pier, but it was declared there had been no loss of life. Police and military officials were checking up the members of the crew, so that each member will be accounted for.

No one will be allowed to enter or leave the pier until the investigation has been completed.

NATION-WIDE TIE-UP APT TO FOLLOW SUNDAY'S DEMONSTRATIONS

(By United Press)
CHICAGO, April 25.—Strike instructions were being prepared here today by President S. J. Koenekamp of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America.

The instructions deal with possibilities of a nation-wide tie-up following next Sunday's planned demonstrations when members will publicly avow their union membership. Discharges of union telegraphers is increasing numbers.

"The situation is tense," he wired President Gompers of the American Federation of Labor. Koenekamp also communicated with the secretary of war, Provost Marshal General Crowder, the federal war labor board and President Carlisle of the Western Union, warning them of the critical situation.

Government control of telegraphs as a solution was slated at by Koenekamp. The union, however, will bitterly fight any effort by the companies to obtain a government guarantee of profits based on "swollen" earnings of the last three years, he stated.

CONGRESS ON VERGE OF INDEPENDENT ACTION

(By United Press)
BY L. C. MARLIN, United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, April 25.—Surprised and disappointed at Secretary of War Baker's failure to outline any plan for increasing the American army, or to indicate he has such a plan, congress today is on the verge of independent action on the subject.

Though Baker has appeared this week before house and senate military affairs committees, he has not, to quote committee members, "given one new idea on the war."

Baker's reticence on the subject about which both houses were eager to hear, created an immediate demand for positive action by congress to start things moving.

LEADER'S PRESTIGE HANGS IN BALANCE

HINDENBURG NO LONGER POPULAR IDOL AT HOME—GERMAN PEOPLE RESTLESS

BY J. W. T. MASON
(United Press War Expert)
NEW YORK, April 25.—The assembling of the reichstag this week has increased the urgency for a quick German activity along the west front, and it is principally to forestall criticism by the members of the reichstag that Hindenburg is now trying to drive his semi-exhausted troops to a further advance.

A firm stand by the allies at this time and the consequent abandonment by Hindenburg of his offensive will have a pronounced effect on the reichstag. There is no question but that a critical attitude toward the stupendous west front slaughter of Germans is considered wholly inadvisable consideration for the heavy casualties by a growing section of German public opinion. Unless Hindenburg therefore can conjure up a new way of stupendous operations, he must submit to increasing criticism at home that will seriously threaten his prestige.

Government Made Mistake

The reichstag has just heard from Minister of Marine von Capelle about submarine successes. The reichstag, too, is beginning to realize that the government's contemptuous disbelief in America's ability to send a great army to France is being shown to be the greatest blunder of the war.

Von Hindenburg's reputation may even now be on the verge of collapse. There is no doubt but that his unparalleled prestige at least is beginning to tremble with the halt of the German advance.
