FRIDAY PAPER

UNDERSEAPEST IS CONQUERED SAYS LLOYD GEORGE

BRITISH PREMIER WELL PLEASED WITH WAR OUTLOOK—SINKS SUBMARINES FASTER THAN THEY CAN BE BUILT BY GERMANY

(By United Press)

EDINBURGH, May 24.—The submarine is still a menace, but is longer a peril; it is still formidable for inflicting injury, but it cannot cause the winning or losing of the war.

Premier Lloyd George thus summed up the submarine situation today in a speech at the city hall, accepting the freedom of the city.

The premier declared that the allies are building ships faster than the submarines can sink them and at the same time, the allied navies are sinking submarines faster than Germany can build them. He said that an admiralty report showed that during April a record 141 destruction of submarines was established, while in the same month the output of shipping exceeded losses for the first time since unrestricted submarine warfare began.

Lloyd George said that America's entrance into the war had not yet equalled Russia's collapse. America's accession, he said, has given the allies only about a fifth of the number of men that Germany was able to add to her armies with withdrawals from the eastern front.

EDINBURGH, May 24.—The British navy is now building ships faster than Germany can sink them, he said, of which two—Ostend and Zebrugghe—have been blown.

The premier's declaration that an admiralty report shows a record destruction of submarines during April was greeted with cheers.

"It is April there was the highest output of shipping since the submarine warfare was begun," the premier said. "For the first time, production exceeded losses. That's not a bad record for a government whose faults have been so freely advertised."

"The allies are now building ships faster than Germany can sink them," the premier declared.

Enemy Driven to Offensive

"The Germans recognize the failure of their submarine warfare and are therefore conducting an offensive on the west front. They were driven into that as a last resort to secure victory."

"The submarine is still a menace, but no longer a peril; it is still formidable for inflicting injury, but it can't cause the winning or losing of the war."

THOUSANDS APPROVED IN CITY OF CHICAGO

(By United Press)

CHICAGO, May 24.—A rush of women to employment men over a reserve of 10,000 men over the draft age was rolled on today to hold intact Chicago's business machinery under the iller draft. It is believed 100,000 men are affected here.

Saloons employing 10,000 bartenders were hardest hit. Women's organizations have asserted there will be ample checked bartenders for future American licensers as far as Chicago is concerned.

Stores, clubs and theaters are already training women to replace male help.

CELEBRATION IS HELD AT ROME

(By United Press)

ANNIVERSARY OF ENTRY OF ITALY INTO WAR IS GALA OCCASION

ROME, May 24.—The Prince of Wales arrived from the Italian front today to participate in the patriotic celebration of Italy's entrance into the war. He was given a magnificent welcome by thousands of schoolboys who cheered and waved flags.

The tribune, commenting on the American celebration of Italy's day, said today: "President Wilson was perfectly right in his assertion that part of the big heart of America throbs in the Italian army. Not only the army, but the whole population, nurtures the cordial and grateful sentiments toward America."

Ideals Are the Same

"The present celebrations further strengthening the bonds between the two allied nations will have far-reaching and lasting effects. America will never grant Italy's land in a cordial grip because Italian civilization, just as American civilization, is based on liberty, justice and right."

"Italy Day is the gratifying result of President Wilson's own initiative and personality activity, and is backed by the whole-hearted support of the generous American people. The Italians hope that on Italy Day, when the tri-color is welded with the Stars and Stripes, Americans will understand and appreciate Italy's heartfelt gratitude and friendship."

UTAH MURDERER PAYS PENALTY

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, May 24.—Howard De Weso was executed at the state prison here at 6:55 o'clock this morning by shooting, for the murder of his wife, Francis Fisher De Weso, September 25, 1916. His last words were: "I am not guilty. That's all I have to say. Let her go, boys."

The murdered woman was a former wife of Henry W. Fisher, a New York haberdasher, who eloped with De Weso to Reno, Nev., where she secured a divorce and then married De Weso. Her murder was the son of Dal De Weso, wealthy orchardist of Canyon City, Colorado, and well known hunter for the Southwestern institute.

WORK OR FIGHT IS ALL RIGHT FOR I. W. W.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The full force of Provoost Marshal George Fox's draft order, "work or fight," will be used against the I. W. W. and kindred organizations, officials of the board declared today.

The powers conferred on local boards to enforce the regulations will deal a knockout blow to the activities of the I. W. W.

It will be practically impossible under the new regulations for the members of the I. W. W. to desert parts of the country last year when harvesting was delayed because thousands of I. W. W. refused to work.

NATION-WIDE PROHIBITION PHOENIX, Ariz., May 24.—National prohibition was formally ratified by Arizona this afternoon when the house of representatives of the state legislature passed the ratification resolution with but three dissenting votes. The senate adopted the resolution unanimously yesterday.

POLES OUVI BATTLES MOSCOW, May 17.—Battling to head the German ultimatum ordering them to disarm within 24 hours, the second Polish army gave battle in the vicinity of Kiev, according to a dispatch from that city today. It is reported that 15,000 soldiers participated.

REGULATION CLOSES TWO BAKE OVENS

ONLY ONE OF THREE LOCAL SHOPS HAS ANY OF FLOUR ALLOWANCE ON HAND FOR QUARTER ENDING AUGUST 1, OF FISCAL STATE

The ovens of two out of Twin Falls' three bakeries are still today because the proprietors have used all of the flour they are entitled to buy up to August 1, under the food conservation regulations.

"Closed until we can get more flour" is the sign that appears on the door of the First Premium Bakery, 211½ Main avenue west, A. Swania, proprietor. During the first quarter of last year Mr. Swania purchased a car load of flour. Under the conservation regulations, the second quarter of last year, he purchased 70 per cent of the amount purchased during the corresponding quarter last year. Mr. Swania was unable to buy during the first quarter of this year, 70 per cent of a car load of flour for the reason that if he had done so, he would have had in his possession more than 30 days' supply which is prohibited by the regulations. Since he bought practically no flour during the second quarter of last year, Mr. Swania can buy this week until the end of the second quarter on August 1.

Business Grows Too Fast

Because of the increase in the business of the Home Bakery, 133 Shoshone street west, 70 per cent of the amount of flour purchased by the firm in the second quarter of last year has been sufficient to produce the output for less than one month of the corresponding period this year. At the beginning of the second quarter of this year this institution was entitled to buy 140 barrels of flour. Up to the present time 93 barrels of this amount has been used. The proprietors expect to use the balance of their flour allowance in the manufacture of pastries, and will endeavor to make arrangements for receiving a supply of bread from bakeries in Pocatello or Salt Lake.

One Has Big Surplus

The Royal Bakery, 120 Second street east, W. Z. and John Smith, proprietors, is said to be the only bakery in southern Idaho with a surplus allowance of flour. W. Z. Smith said this morning that his firm had approximately 250 barrels out of the allowance for the second quarter to draw from. The reason given is that last year the Royal bakery output was around 2000 loaves daily. The output has been reduced very largely this year for the reason, Mr. Smith said, that the use of the required amounts of substitutes has reduced production to the level of inferior quality, and for the further reason that the management deemed it advisable on May 1 to advance the price of loaves from 8c to 10c. As a result, loaf—a part that was not taken, by the other local bakeries.

JURORS WEEP AS STORY UNFOLDS

(By United Press)

WAUKESHA, Wis., May 24.—Grace Luak, school teacher slayer, was expected to reach the climax today in her recital of her middle-aged excursion into violent romance. In her witness stand story she had reached the point where she was about to tell of her husband's death. Her husband, Mrs. Robert, wife of her lover, and attempted suicide.

Mrs. Luak appeared today to have recovered from her ordeal on the witness stand. According to an agreement of her emotions, seven women fainted. Numbers were weeping as Grace Luak's story of shame was told, every word at the cost of an effort. Two jurors wept.

LOYD GEORGE SAYS CONSPIRACY EXISTS

EDINBURGH, May 24.—"There is no doubt of the existence of a conspiracy for a great upsurge in Ireland," Premier Lloyd George declared at a luncheon here today.

"I have read the evidence. The nationalist leaders are not implicated."

STRIKE WINS BOGE

CHICAGO, May 24.—Wages of 681 to 432 a week will be paid 40,000 Chicago teamsters and truck chauffeurs beginning Monday. According to an agreement reached by federal mediators a week ago. A short strike for $3 a week increase resulted in winning a $3 boost.

MUTINY LAYS GRIM HAND ON GERMAN WAR FORCES

WHOLE DIVISION REVOLTS

Advices to State Department to Effect That Sixty Soldiers Were Shot and Thousand Imprisoned Following Outbreak Upon Receipt of Orders to Leave For Front.

WASHINGTON, May 24.—Mutiny has broken out among German soldiers in the east, according to state department messages today.

The Russian wireless message dated May 19, said a German division at Dvinsk on the 17th, revolted when ordered to leave for the west front.

Sixty soldiers were shot and more than one thousand put in prison to await court martial.

Others made demonstrations against the action of the German commanders. The fifty-sixth infantry regiment at Wessenburg and other German regiments organized meetings to protest against the continuance of the war.

IRELAND WAITS WITH INTEREST FOR EVIDENCE

LEADERS SAY THEY WANT TO KNOW WHAT GOVERNMENT HAS IN SUPPORT OF ALLEGATIONS

DUBLIN, May 24.—Sinn Fein nationalists are uneasy, awaiting the government's next move. Their principal concern seems to be that the government will not say that the Sinn Fein leaders are innocent.

Many young Irishmen are applying to get into the American army. The nationalists are counseling against this, however, saying such a move should be put off until home rule is secured.

"Meanwhile the government is rounding up the last of the alleged plotters. About a dozen persons were arrested yesterday and last night and were immediately deported."

No Trouble Over Arrests.

"There will be no trouble over the arrests," said a member of the nationalist conference. "We are waiting and watching and playing a bigger game—fighting cooperation."

"It's the government's next move. We will not let them bait us into a disadvantageous position for the fight against cooperation, when it comes."

The reported impending publication of the evidence against the alleged pro-German plotters is awaited with the greatest interest, as it may widen the gap between the Sinn Fein and the nationalists, or may cause a split in the Mansion House conference.

"The refusal of the government to allow representatives of the Irish people to forward an appeal to President Wilson who is the champion of the rights of nations—unless the appeal is endorsed by the military government of Ireland—is a notice in the allies that the principles for which they are fighting do not apply to Ireland," declares the Freeman's Journal.

Predicts Bad Effect.

"It will have a more prejudicial effect on American opinion than any mission."

Other newspapers say the lord mayor's uncertainty of his reception in America does not wish to go there, as had been planned.

The Mansion House conference alluded every figure of nationalist aspirations in England, France and America," the Irish Times declared.

"The conference is aware of this, for the lord mayor has signed a 'trivial, silly' statement to avoid the actual of an interview with President Wilson."

TROOPS TO OBSERVE MEMORIAL DAY

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN LOBBAINNE, May 24.—The American army is planning a Memorial Day celebration. Following the custom back home, the graves in certain localities will be decorated with flowers and flags.

French soldiers will be thus remembered, as well as Americans.

The chaplain in this sector will hold special services in memory of the Americans who have already fallen in battle.

HUNS AGREE TO LEAD DRIVE

By WILLIAM PHILIP GIBBS (United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, May 24.—The Germans themselves disagree as to the time and place of resumption of their offensive.

Some enemy prisoners say the next assault will be in the north, with Calais as the objective; some say Amiens and Abbeville will remain the objectives; while others say the Rhims area will be the scene of the next drive. Still others have heard rumors of substantial operations of all these. The one thing that most of them agree on is that Field Marshal Mackensen is in charge of the drive.

Fooling the British

Stories are told of German troops to keep up the morale in the interior, from which most of the recruits now are being drafted. Most of these recruits are told they are wanted only for work behind the lines. But the drafts no sooner reach the battalions than they are split up among the divisions, and sent to replace casualties.

The briefing was early today hid its face over the battalions. Heavy clouds, thickened rain, but the wind blowing a half gale, drove them off by midnight, leaving the lines smothered in sand, but much cooler.

"The first time since May 12, the air was comparatively free of war planes."

Men Placed Break Down

I continue to hear stories about German plans breaking up in mid-air. In one battle this week three were plainly seen to go to pieces when fired into. This was when a British formation, returning from a bombing raid, was attacked by twenty enemy scouts. One of these dived on a British two-seater. The British machine gunner fired one round into it when it came, causing a fire and dropped. After falling about two thousand feet, it broke into several pieces.

Another German scout, when given two short bursts by a second British gunner at close range, dived, then the planes folded to the ground in three widely separated places.

A third scout, attacking another British bombing plane, received two British machine gun bullets.

Allied armies say these occurrences are becoming constantly more frequent. German pilots place the blame on faulty material, hasty construction and bad workmanship.

TAX MEASURE TO BE ENACTED AT THIS SESSION

WASHINGTON, May 24.—That a tax bill must be forced through this session of congress was the word conveyed to Representative Kitchin from the treasury department this afternoon following a conference between Secretary McAdoo and President Wilson.

Kitchin, in announcing receipt of the word, declared he had not yet been able to talk with McAdoo personally, but that he held little hope now of averting the proposed measure.

It is probable members of the congressional finance committee will see the president late this afternoon and receive the verdict.

The bill is actually passed, it will be because President Wilson stands unqualifiedly behind McAdoo in the fight. McAdoo today laid before the president facts upon which the treasury department based its plan for a new tax bill now. He then dug up to the president "for a decision and the president is understood to have reiterated his previously announced stand—support of McAdoo's contention."

Mr. Miss Mottisms

The decision, if for a bill, means that members of congress will undoubtedly be delayed in getting back home for the fall campaign, which consideration has been largely responsible for the bill or opposition on the bill.

Kitchin, however, declares he is still unconvinced as to the necessity for the bill.

"If the president desires the way and means committee will work on the measure but I intend to tell the house that no real reason for the bill has been given me. I will lead the fight only if the president comes out unambiguously in favor of the measure. Our conference last night indicated that the president did not favor the measure but was misled by Secretary McAdoo's decision."

FIFTY SEVEN NATIONS IN BIG ATTACK

FRENCH FOREIGN LEGION IN RECAPTURE OF HANGARD WOOD CONTAINED MEN OF NEARLY ALL NATIONS, MANY FROM SOUTH AMERICA

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE FRENCH FOREIGN LEGION IN THE FIELD—Fifty seven nations were represented in the famous French foreign legion when on March 26, in one of the bloodiest battles of the German offensive, it took Hangard wood. This action, with the simultaneous British attack on the left, which resulted in the recapturing of Villers-Bretonneux, completely wiped out the progress the Germans made in their second drive against Amiens.

In this historic battle of all nations—the details of which only became known when the legion was replaced by American units and was withdrawn for repositioning Central and South American countries were represented.

The legion, in fact, is now largely recruited from these Latin-American countries of the new world. The nations in this category which have declared war against Germany, thus are enabled to contribute much military help.

South America Represented

Soldiers from Argentina, Brazil, Venezuela, Chile, Colombia, Uruguay, Peru, Cuba and Mexico attacked themselves with traditional legionnaire heroism. Sergeant Gelas, who was found wounded during the legion's capture of Fort de la Motte in August, recently has been declared missing from which he has now recovered. Captain Robiner received a citation for his gallantry.

Following the legion's capture of Hangard wood and portions of the Villers-Bretonneux plateau, the Germans launched seven successive counter attacks without forcing the legionnaires to flinch, despite the latter's extremely heavy losses. Yet when the battle was over and the legion was ordered to "clean up," they insisted on remaining out on the shell-wreck battlefield to recover the bodies of their dead. All of the bodies were thus found and carried off.

More Honors Coming

As a result of this battle, the legion which already has six citations entitling each member to wear the red "fourragere" of the Legion of Honor, is assured a new one. No other French unit has ever attained such an honor.

Only three Americans still remain in the Legion. All are expert machine gunners and each has the cross de guerre. They are now awaiting transport to the American Army.

Among the other nationalities which participated in the great battle are Canadians, Filipinos, Japanese, Armenians, Russians, Luxemburgers, Spanish, Italian and Swiss. The three latter comprise many contingents in the Legion. All of the Polish and Czechs recently were transferred to their own separate armies and are now fighting on the French front.

TROUBLE COMING OVER DUTCH SHIPS

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, May 24—A second shipping controversy is impending regarding disposition of Dutch ships formerly under charter by the shipping board, and not included in the recent requisition by the American government.

The owners of seven Dutch vessels, aggregating forty thousand tons, whose charters have expired, have refused to re-charter them to the shipping board. Not having been included in the requisition order, they cannot be forced into American service at present.

This government, it is understood, has refused to allow those ships to load and clear for Holland—the result being that they are tied up at Atlantic ports.

Charters of several other ships, which soon will expire under similar conditions, will not be renewed, it is said. This will leave several thousand tons of shipping tonnage without a requisitioning order in made. Such action, however, will be resisted even more strongly than the first refusal, officials declare.

With the food situation in Holland daily becoming more acute, the result towards the United States is increasing. It is feared officially, and any further delay in the vitalizing program will accentuate the crisis.

RUSSIAN PRISONERS IN TERRIBLE STATE

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, May 24—Like men back from the grave 1,000 Russians—the first detachment of exchanged war prisoners—have reached Petrograd, where they are pitifully begging for even a crust of bread.

State department advisers describe their plight as shockingly wretched, saying they were "veritable walking dead men."

Under-slept and abused in the Prussian war camp had wasted them till they were starving, diseased and ragged.

With Petrograd suffering from a famine, the scant attention is doubtless. No railroads are available for them and they grovel in the streets for the smallest bit of sustenance.

Germany apparently is following out an announced policy of sending back to Russia only those who are too feeble to be of further use in German mines and prison camps.

A surprise party was given for John Parish at his home five miles northwest of Twin Falls, on May 18. The occasion was his thirtieth birthday. The evening was spent in playing games and singing patriotic songs. At the close of the evening refreshments were served. The invited guests were Mary Humphrey, Valma Parish, Margaret Bogue, Fannie Humphrey, Elizabeth Williams, Florence Humphrey, Wilma Parish, Eleanor Finch, Nellie Dwyer, Elizabeth, Harvey, Dillard Bogue, Joe Swift, Gladstone Woodhead, James Bogue, Walter Leith, Paul Kaup, Arthur Slater, John Balck, and David Humphrey.

The Misses Sylvia and Mabel Miller will entertain at a Red Cross benefit party this evening at their country home west of town. Each young lady invited will bring a pie, which will be scattered off.

PREDICTS NEXT GERMAN DRIVE ABOUT JUNE 1

CHIEF OF BRITISH MILITARY MISSION IN UNITED STATES SAYS IF IT FAILS, HUNS WILL ATTACK ITALY.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, May 24.—The third of Mackensen, "Germany's storm and perhaps final great drive on the western front" will be launched about June 1, according to the prediction of General W. A. Bridges, chief of the British military mission here.

Should Mackensen fail to break the allied line at his objective—the Ypres salient and around Amiens—an Austro-German offensive against Italy probably will follow, General Bridges declared. He expressed complete confidence in General Foch's ability to stem the invaders in all events.

"The enemy has now on the western battle line, 1,600,000 bayonets. The drive probably will come about June 1. It may break before that or it may be delayed—but it's coming," said Bridges. "We expect the enemy to make his greatest effort around Ypres and northward of Bethune, in the vicinity of Hasbrouck, while a subsidiary drive, on a smaller scale is expected at Amiens."

Now Training Men

The newly reorganized German division and the remnants of the divisions engaged in the recent drive are being put through a course of training in open warfare and maneuvering, British military officials declare. Their training has virtually been completed and only the most radical change in plans will hold Germany's greatest efforts to break through to the channel ports.

"Germany is insisting that Austria start activities against Italy," Bridges declared.

"Should a statement be reached again in the west it will mean an Austrian drive."

"Should a determined effort to crush Italy be made by Germany, the allies would find it imperative again to lengthen their lines."

TURFMAN BUILT OFF

NEW YORK, May 23.—The horses of R. G. Virell, Canadian turfman, are ruled off the tracks today, following the astonishing reversal of form regulation yesterday by Brusseau, one of the Virell stallions, when he won the Turfville steeple chase from a classy field. DR. SWANB, THE OPTICIAN

Is at his office this week, Room 15, over Booth's store. Headaches and nervousness often come from eye strain. We get relief in such cases with properly fitted glasses. J. T. Evans—Adv.

To the Public, to the Council of Defense of Twin Falls County, and to the Members of the First Methodist Episcopal Church of Twin Falls, Idaho:

Do you believe in fair play? Do you believe in justice? Do you believe in the spirit that underlies American laws and institutions? If you do you will read this statement and give it fair consideration before you pass judgment. This is all I expect—I ask nothing more.

I am a native born American citizen. I address you as such without fear and without apology. My parents were born in Germany, but they had in their hearts the same honest, God implanted love of freedom and democracy that caused your fathers and the fathers of all good Americans to turn their faces toward this country. To them, as well as to your fathers, America meant liberty and freedom. More than forty years ago the autonomy of the German Empire became so unendurable to them that they determined they could no longer live under the influence of Prussianism, and they turned their backs on Germany and came to America. They willingly adopted this country as their home and a place to rear their family; and neither they nor any of their children have ever set foot on German soil since.

I was born in the State of Michigan, under the folds of the American flag, and I love that flag as a Christian loves his Bible. I have no other flag and no other country, and I want no other. I yield to no man in my allegiance to both. Now that my country is engaged in a holy war to preserve the sacred liberties of mankind, all that I am and all that I have, even to life itself, is dedicated to my country's service. I believe in the necessity and justice of this war, and if I had ten thousand lives they would all be cheerfully offered to my country for the furtherance of the righteous purposes for which our boys are carrying our flag on the bloody fields of France. I have endeavored to do my part to help in this cause. In all of my public and private utterances I have held our country up as the model of all that is good in human government, and I have tried by example, as well as by precept, to teach patriotism and love of country to all with whom I have come in contact. In public and in private, in the home and in the pulpit, I have denounced the unholy purposes of the German Empire in this war.

I am a poor man, but to the extent of my ability I have bought Liberty Bonds and have contributed to Red Cross, Y. M. C. A., and other war funds. I have given cheerfully of my time and service for days at a time in Red Cross work, and in the performance of other patriotic duties in connection with this war.

I have tried to live patriotically, and teach patriotism in my private life. I have already preached a series of patriotic sermons, which I had planned would be in the nature of an introduction to other and more vigorous sermons of the same character. What I have done, I have done from the sense of duty, and without advertising or boasting of my purpose, believing that true patriotism consisted in doing rather than talking about what one should do.

Notwithstanding the fact that my life here has been an open book; that I have had no other thoughts or purposes than those outlined in the foregoing statement, some one or two hysterical women and some misguided or misinformed individuals have seen fit to make certain insinuations against me, reflecting on my patriotism. These insinuations have been made rather by way of rumor and innuendo, than by direct accusation. I have done my best to trace these dastardly rumors to their sources—but without success. The cowardly character-assassins who repeat these stories, as is usual with their kind, do not have the courage to come out in the open and make their accusations against me but choose to "gum shoe" around spreading the poison of their falsehoods by insinuations rather than by direct statements.

My first thought was that these cowardly attacks should not be dignified by any reply from me, and I had intended to completely ignore them; but in view of the more recent developments I have determined to give to the fair-minded people of this community, a frank and fair statement of my position as hereinbefore mentioned, as relating to the present war. One or two other facts need to be mentioned to more fully set forth my attitude.

A dissension arose in the church over what was purely a church matter, and entirely foreign to any attack upon me. Some four or five men, members of the church Boards, saw fit to array themselves against the pastor on this church matter, which matter need not be stated at this time; suffice to say that the leaders of the opposition to the pastor, acknowledge that more than eighty per cent of the church members were, and are at the present time, with the pastor. These same four or five men, with one or two others, who are not members of the church Boards, and who never attend the church services or take any active part in the work of the church, are the very persons who, I am informed, appeared before the Council of Defense and made their accusations against me. From the rumors that have come to me relative to their testimony I charge them with falsehood, distorting my statements, omitting whole phrases and adding matters that were never uttered by me in public or discussed in any conversation between us. I say most emphatically, that such men, authors of such diabolical statements and actions are not only assasinating my character, but are the worst kind of traitors to our flag; and are the best kind of sly agents that the Kaiser can have in this country. It is worthy of your notice that, as I am informed, every person who has testified before the Council of Defense against me, with but one exception, are members of the Methodist Church; the majority, strange to say, are members of the official board, where the trouble above referred to originated. By this means of insidious activity I am convinced that good men on the Council of Defense have been misled. To deprive the country of the service of men in my position, with a congregation as large as we have is a very serious matter.

It is not the question as to whether I have made any mistakes, but it is a question as to purity of motives. I would be a strange kind of man if I had made no mistakes, but as to my motives I challenge any man to have a higher aim and motive in his desire to do good to the largest number of people and through these people to his country. So I challenge these men to come out in the open where they will be amenable to the courts of our country.

The following action of the church Board will show that I am correct in my position as above set forth. Acting upon the advice of Bishop Cooke who, in response to a petition signed by about three hundred of my loyal supporters, all adult members of the First Methodist Episcopal church asking the Bishop to see that I, at my request, be given either a church or civil trial to vindicate me of these purported charges. The Bishop sent a telegram stating: "If Bent desires to vindicate himself, call in District Superintendents Gillilan and Baker immediately, and proceed according to the Discipline." Acting upon this telegram, a meeting of the church Boards was called for Tuesday evening, April 23, 1918, with but two or three men absent. Dr. Gillilan representing Bishop Cooke and Superintendent Baker representing the Pocatello District. The law of the church regarding the trial of a minister was read by Superintendent Baker. He then called for any charges that were to be filed against me. He was informed that there were no charges and that we all knew that there never would be any.

This action of the church boards was confirmed and approved by the regular monthly meeting of the official Board May 7, 1918, and made a part of the permanent records of the church. I judged that this action closed the matter as far as the church is concerned.

The foregoing statement with others that need not be stated here will explain the motive of those wholly responsible for the vile slanders that have been circulated against me. I understand, however, that various people who have not been influenced by the slanders and false stories, above referred to, have wondered why I was not present on the platform during some of the patriotic meetings which were held in the church. It is true that at various times some members of the church boards who have seen fit to array themselves against me for one reason and another, have, without consulting me, used the church for patriotic meetings. In the calling of these meetings, although I was the pastor of the church, I was completely ignored and was not consulted, nor was I invited to be present at the meetings and I inferred, and I think justly so, from the actions of those in charge of these meetings, that their purpose was to completely ignore me and deliberately affront me. I now realize that all of this was apparently part of their scheme to put me in a bad light, but I did not realize it at the time and felt that rather than go where I was not wanted or where my presence would precipitate a controversy, I would rather endure the affront that had been aimed at me, in silence. However, I showed my sympathy with the meetings by attending as a private citizen, taking my place in the congregation. From the foregoing any fair-minded person will understand why I was absent from the platform. Perhaps I was unduly sensitive, but as to the correctness of this conduct, I will leave it to you to judge.

In addition I might say that the spirit of justice and fair play is part of the make-up of every decent American; and I believe that the majority of the citizens of this community are decent Americans; I am therefore appealing to their sense of justice and fair play. Up to the present moment there has been no tangible charge against me—nothing but kitchen gossip and slanderous innuendoes.

It is one of the principles of our Government, and one which is as old as English liberty, and one which has been written into the laws of our country, that to quote the Sixth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States, "the accused shall have the right to be informed of the nature and the cause of the accusation; and to be confronted with the witnesses against him." I claim this right as an American citizen. I have been slandered and threatened and have even had the threat of physical violence held before me and it is intimated that I should resign and leave Twin Falls and never preach again during the war. To do so would be to admit that there was some foundation for the insinuations that have been made against me. Would you who read this be parties to forcing an innocent man to endure this humiliation? Do you justify these proceedings? Do you justify condemning a man without a hearing? Do you justify the assassination of character either on the street corner or elsewhere without giving the accused an opportunity for defense. I know that the fair minded, red blooded, American citizens in this community will not tolerate any such proceedings and whether they do or not makes little difference to me, I do not, for my part, propose to quit under fire, particularly when the fire comes from a wicked ambush. Intimidations have been resorted to; I do not propose to be intimidated by these cowards who dare not meet me in the open. Until there is a conviction by the proper church tribunal, I refuse to resign from my pulpit. I shall continue to lift my voice in the defense of my country and in preaching the gospel of Christ and Him crucified. I shall continue to endeavor to bring unity and brotherly love among the people of this community. My record is clear and clean, as I fear no man. All that I ask is a square deal. I want to meet my accusers face to face and be judged after a fair hearing. I expect nothing more and I can demand nothing less. My cowardly detractors are taking advantage of the war spirit and feeling in the community and are using it as a shield to further their own purposes and to shield themselves against the demands of justice that would overtake them if it were not for the war spirit that is so justly abroad in the land and which has its effect upon all of us.

I wish to extend my sincere gratitude to those members of my congregation who have so faithfully upheld my character and standing as a man and a patriotic citizen and who assembled in my absence and drafted a petition to Bishop Cooke, that unquestioned patriot, who by his voice and every action is using his utmost power in behalf of America in this great struggle. As I said in his presence and the presence of the congregation, after a most powerful and patriotic address by the Bishop, I stand squarely with him in every word of his in the address.

For the information of those not members of my congregation, I wish to state that those of my congregation standing by me, have about sixty-one members of their families in the Service (a number of whom were volunteers in the service of their country); while but two are in the Service from the families of those in my congregation who have appeared as witnesses against me. It would probably be interesting reading for the public if those of draft age among my congregation who have appeared against me would authorize the publication of their Questionnaires and answers. It is credible to believe that those having about sixty-one members of their families in the service, would stand by me unless they knew my stand in public and private was beyond question as regards my loyalty to my country.

HEARST VS. ROOSEVELT

(Detroit Saturday Night) "When William Allen Randolph Hearst's New York American printed President Wilson's Memorial Day proclamation, it omitted the resolution of congress asking him to recommend for that day 'fervent applications to Almighty God for the aid of a well-favored and just cause and His blessing on our arms.'"

Similarly, the Hearst papers keep up a battery of patriotism while attacking Roosevelt and cheering the Russian Bolsheviks, who have done so much to strengthen our enemies.

Similarly, when Louis Brannock drew a cartoon for the Hearst papers illustrating the alliance between Uncle Sam and John Bull, the Hearst paper changed "John Bull" to read "Jean Bull."

Similarly, for these and many other such offenses against decency which have been a disgrace to American journalism.

Unhappily, Colonel Roosevelt's demand that Postmaster-General Burleson proceed against the Hearst papers has degenerated into a political party.

A Bit of Progress

By KATHERINE BATES

"The moonlight fell so softly on the pile of gunnysacks crowding the little wharf that the man leaning against the pile of sacks could hardly believe that it was May, and not July."

"It would take me no time to make this pay," he said. "I don't want this here for the lot of old Virginia needs in an Iowa man—J. Archibald Jernigan could make his pile here, but none of these lay Southern truckers will make their call."

"Don't mind me, it's the girl calling," "I heard you talkin' to yourself, but I reckon I'd let you come over if you wanted to."

"You are a long ways from home," she observed. "From Wellsville, Iowa. Pins state, Iowa."

"An aunt just died down there—in Norfolk—consumption. Doctors sent her here, no money spared, none sent, but she came on and buried her best coat tomorrow. Aunt that brought me home."

"Did you walk down yonder road?" she asked, with a sudden increase of interest. "Sweet homynocks it is all in bloom over there, gullies with the red road just gullies with it, and yellow juncos climb' up every thing as it looked, didn't it?"

"I'll be back to the market in five minutes," she said. "I'll be back to the market in five minutes," she said. "I'll be back to the market in five minutes," she said.

"There's a reason," he said gallantly. "I'm looking for an admirer, and respected, quite a few," he said. "Yes, I reckon I am," she agreed.

"Well, there's English walnut—this sort and hard and you climate order be in bloom here," he began. "In Iowa he was warned to use tobacco in the land in his wisdom as eagerly as ever breath in drink in the gospel. But the sound of a horn at last broke in on the conference, and Lanthe lay awake to her feet."

"Ma's blawed me up—well, in certainly obliged to you. You don't know any more for another time?" "I don't know as—"

"Well, good-by," she interrupted. "Pres' will be obliged to you."

"Come along to supper," she suggested. "I don't talk to you as if you know much, or maybe I'll suspect Pres' didn't make up those nose news notices."

For many weeks after this Mr. Jernigan stayed in Norfolk, although he was badly needed at Wellsville. He spent his mornings conscientiously in the night months of the neighborhood—Soldiers' home at Hampton, Fortras Monroe, Hygala hotel at Old Point, every one of which would have been run by a greater benefactor than an Iowa man had been at the head of the afternoon he taught Lanthe Yarborough the essentials of progressive trucking. Her father had taken a liking—naturally—to him, and often referred to him as a matter of course. After supper he and the father sat on the front steps and smoked, while he watched a little grimy—lanthe and Pres' Lewis sauntering by the river. Pres' was a tall, dark, lazy-looking fellow toward the river, but he was a shrewd and accepting another man's cerebral fruits. He profited by the hints Lanthe gave him during the river bank strolls, and when Mrs. Yarborough was through with the dishes he would take the father and the step, and new ideas scattered. Over the porch of the little house grew a Maracantha Nio rose, its hundreds of buds making the air sweet, but Mr. Jernigan was a little short of not let him enjoy the sweetness. Yes, his heart was bitter. He said to himself as he sat listening to Pres' talk, at watching Lanthe crush the rose leaves against her cheek, that his ventral refers to suffer as a matter of good sense. "Waste is what I can stand—owe that to the back-Act bringing up Aunt Mary had—waste it surely would be for him to get that fair-gower of the South."

"You're a long ways from home," she observed. "From Wellsville, Iowa. Pins state, Iowa."

"An aunt just died down there—in Norfolk—consumption. Doctors sent her here, no money spared, none sent, but she came on and buried her best coat tomorrow. Aunt that brought me home."

Blind Guided by Magnetism? One of the many explanations that have been offered to account for that migrating birds are able to find their way by night and in cloudy or foggy weather is that they are sensitive to the magnetic field of the earth. This suggestion was put forth by M. A. Thaulow, a French physicist, who declares that certain species of the Frigatebird possess the occurrence of magnetic storms. He also asserts that the general use of wireless telegraphy has diminished the reliability of these birds to a surprising extent.—Popular Science Monthly.

Of the 1,000,000 school children in New York City 110,000 are undernourished and in need of attention, is the condition of 800,000 others is only "passable," according to Dr. Henry Dwight Chapin, head of the children's bureau of the Postgraduate hospital. This medical man said such is the maintenance of children is caused by war prices. He said that the disparity between wage increases and the mounting cost of food has caused the children to be undernourished and instead of milk, which had increased from 10 to 15 cents a quart in the last year.

GIRL IS WITNESS AGAINST FATHER ON GRAVE CHARGE

FOURTEEN YEAR OLD DAUGHTER ACCUSES M. O. WINKLE OF ATTEMPTING STATUTORY CRIME

Charged with the attempted commission of a statutory offense, M. O. Winkle, aged 39, a farmer residing for several weeks past two and one-half miles west of Tuhl, was brought to the Tuhl jail Thursday afternoon by Deputy Sheriff J. F. Baymiller of Tuhl, and committed to the county jail to await trial in district court.

Appeals for Help
His daughter, aged 14, is the complaining witness. Her letter appealing for help and asking that her father be punished was brought to the attention of Deputy Sheriff Baymiller by a neighbor to whom it was addressed.

Tells Story to Officers
Before Prosecuting Attorney E. L. Stephen, Probate Judge O. P. Duvall, Probation Officer John H. Ault and Deputy Sheriff Baymiller, she told her story Thursday afternoon in the probate court here. She said that her father had twice attempted to assault her, the first time on Wednesday last week and again on the following day. Her mother, she said, had been in bed for about a year. There are two younger brothers, aged six and twelve years, she said. She talked freely to the officers, telling them that since the death of her mother, she had been brusqued by her father and had ever mistreated her prior to the date of the first alleged offense, and said that she had not then understood the probable motive for it.

Statements of the girl were corroborated in important particulars by her brother, whom the daughter of the neighbor to whom she addressed her appeal for help.

In Default of Bond
Complaint in the case was signed by Deputy Sheriff Baymiller. A preliminary examination was held Thursday forenoon before Justice of the Peace J. C. Washburn in Tuhl, as a result of which Winkle was ordered committed to the county jail in default of furnishing bond in the sum of $1000, to which he was admitted.

The penalty on conviction of the crime with which Winkle is charged is imprisonment in the state prison for not less than five nor more than 15 years.

PATRIOTISM MOTIF OF LODGE EVENT

ROYAL NEIGHBORS DELIGHT LARGE AUDIENCE

One of the most impressive patriotic entertainments given by a Twin Falls lodge was presented by the Royal Neighbors last night to a large audience of members gathered here to attend the convention, accompanied by relatives and friends of the order.

The program held in the Moose hall was under the supervision of Mrs. E. J. Thompson, chairman of the entertainment committee and Mrs. Bickford. Both efficient women to whom much credit is due.

The opening number was a short tableau in which Mrs. Starr took the place of "Liberty" in a charming manner.

The speaker of the evening, Attorney E. M. Weyer, was introduced by the Boy Scouts, Mrs. Bickford and Mrs. Parsons introduced the five graces of the lodge. They were: Faith, represented by Mrs. Cora Cronce; Endurance by Mrs. Nancy Jansky; Unshakness by Mrs. Leimner Gouge; by Mrs. Gentry; and Modesty, by Mrs. Minnie Stevens.

Dorothy Kendall, Martha Kendall, Florence Bickford and Thelma Heartfield sang "Just a Baby's Prayer at Twilight" in a delightful manner. Miss Marlon Wasson sang "Little Boy Blue," and the Starr boys gave a violin and cornet duet accompanied by Vera Cook at the piano.

Following the program the Small Red Cross nurses and P. Boy Scouts marched onto the platform in true military style. The little ladies who took the part of nurses were Florence Bickford, Marie Mills, Thelma Heartfield, Ruth Snow, Ellen Deitrich, Caro Thompson, Helen Heartfield and Ruth Van Asselja. The Scouts were Paul Decker, Jack Decker, Ralph Ormsby, Ella Wood, McRoberts, Earl Bickford, Jim Purdy, Joe and Buster Dues, Ross Green.

Mrs. Elmer Bickford acted as pianist for the entire program.

A reading, by Miss Slater, a recitation by Blanche Patton, a vocal solo by Byrardine Patton, and a piano solo by Miss Brady were other features.

Special exercises held by the Woodmen in the Masonic hall were well attended and a large class of new members taken in. The banquet held in the Herriott building, which was decorated in patriotic colors, was the big feature of the evening and 315 persons were seated at the long tables.

DONATION OF BOOKS REACHES 1000 MARK

MRS. JESSIE FRASER, LIBRARIAN, REPORTS ON RESPONSE TO THE NEED OF MEN IN CAMPS

The number of books brought to the Twin Falls public library the past few weeks has now reached the one thousand mark, says Miss Jessie Fraser, librarian. There has been a very generous response, most of the books being such as one could creditably place on the shelves of an up-to-date library. There has been a large proportion of fiction, some history, poetry, and scientific works.

These have all been prepared, with book plates, pockets, and cards, according to the instructions of the American Library Association. The Boy Scouts have aided in the distribution of folders, and collection of books, for packing, while the girls have helped with the preparation of the books for shipment.

More books will be needed, so after you have read your latest fiction, or war books, pass them on, for the best is none too good for the boys in the camps, on the ships or at the front.

Can't Fight Capitalists With Money in Pennies

GERMAN GOLD IS NECESSARY TO SUCCESSFUL PROSECUTION OF I. W. W. PROGRAM. WRITES ONE OF DEFENDANTS IN OHIO-GO SAEB TAGE TRIAL—ATTORNEY SAYS IT WAS A JOKE.

(By United Press.) CHICAGO, May 24.—(German gold) to keep the I. W. W. afloat was mentioned in the government's evidence against 118 leaders of that organization on trial here for alleged anti-war activities. Dan Buckley, arrested in Minnesota in the wholesale raids on the I. W. W. last September, was charged with writing a month previously to Joe Foley, who was indicted but escaped. "If we have got to put up arms of money for every vagrant case, we will need a large supply of German gold in order that we may keep afloat. The Kaiser has evidently forgotten us and we can't fight the capitalist class with our pennies."

Defense Attorney George Vandover declared that this was a "joking remark" on Buckley's part. The prosecutors read the letter to the jury with out comment. Buckley's letters read as evidence today constituted "muscular unionism," a new term which the government insisted meant sabotage.

Scientific Sabotage. "Mr. Block and Mr. Schisorbill (I. W. W. slang for opponents) must receive large doses of scientific sabotage," read the letter. "We have been too ladylike in the past. We must enforce muscular unionism." Buckley was wrath at what he termed "the persecution of our members in Montana." He suggested in a letter that "it takes something else besides legal means to stop these officials from imprisoning our members. It seems to me there is a species of animal in and around Montana called the Sab-cat, and cultivate the habits of this peculiar animal."

And later he wrote George Barnes at Portland, Ore.: "Instead of spending money on lawyers, a few sab-cats could obtain better results."

Toed to Create Work. "Sab-o" was even used in the moxie to "create more work," according to a letter Peter McAvoy, San Francisco (I. W. W.), was charged with writing at Los Angeles in April, 1916. "Sab-o has been a great factor in forcing the master to make pictures," said the letter to Hayward.

Activity to organize the Japanese on the Pacific coast was described by McVoy. In one letter he asked for I. W. W. literature to send to Russia.

"We have set out to capture California, and there is nothing going to stop us," was McVoy's boast to Hayward in December, 1916, in a letter remarking that members were going to establish the orange grove. The government continued its efforts to show that the I. W. W. organization worked against conscription, as charged in the blanket indictment.

NEW GERMAN PLAN OF ATTACK FAILURE

By HENRY WOOD (United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE FRENCH ARMYES, April 30. (By Mail)—Gen. von Hutler's "new method of assault," constituting the latest product and the latest hope of Prussian militarism, has just met its Waterloo at the hands of the stolid French poilus on the LaFere-Amiens front.

Successful to an astounding degree in the capture of Riga, this new method applied on the western front has cost the German armies to date half a million men, has shattered Ludendorff's Kolossal conception of crushing the English army and marching on Paris, and has wrested from Germany her last dream and hope of a successful termination of the war on the western front. Although Von Hutler's "new method of assault" was known in its general lines to the Allied commands as a result of its first try-out at Riga, it is only since its application on the French front that all of its details have become known. Its collapse is all the more humiliating owing to the fact that General Von Hutler was called from the Riga front to command himself the troops, that, applying his method, were at first called to the English front at St. Quentin and then march down the valley of the Oise on Paris.

Had Advanced Confidence. It is known, in fact, that it was largely on the confidence that had been aroused in this new method that the consent of the Imperial government was obtained for the big Ludendorff-style plans of a western front offensive.

Von Hutler's new method differed in one great fundamental respect from its immediate predecessors with the German Imperial command, in that the Germans, having only in the west established the dogma that the only way to crush the enemy's lines was by heavy artillery, came back with Von Hutler's recommendation to the attainment of this end by massed attacks of light artillery.

Beginning with this change in the fundamental idea, Von Hutler then grouped about his plan all of the various methods and means of warfare that the present great conflict has developed from the English tanks to German flamethrowers, welding them into a whole which he and the German staff became convinced would constitute an absolutely irresistible, crushing force for any antagonist against whom it might be directed. The first artillery battery seemed to demonstrate that Von Hutler was right, but the second one on the French front developed that the French poilus is rightier.

How Method Worked. The detailed application of Von Hutler's method both at Riga and on the Western front in the region of Saint Quentin was as follows: First of all, the troops to participate in the attack were drilled and rehearsed for months in advance in the part they were to play, until each was letter perfect.

When the hour set for the attack arrived, the German artillery began its short preparation. In order to avoid losing the benefit of a surprise attack by the old time artillery preparation of several days, Von Hutler planned by a "distracting" concentration of guns to accomplish in a few hours the previous work of days.

In addition this artillery preparation extended to an extreme depth to the rear, demoralizing the second and third lines at the same time as the first. To prevent the enemy's guns from interfering and silencing the German batteries, gas shells were showered all over the enemy's artillery lines rendering it impossible for the gunners for several hours to serve the guns. First of all, the assaulting troops which were kept concentrated in the rear until the moment of attack, were then hurried up under cover of the night and of this short artillery preparation.

Infantry leaped forward in dense masses. Each division had two regiments in the attacking line and one regiment in reserve. All of the forces available were thrown into the fight, regardless of loss, for the purpose of completely erasing the enemy at the very first onslaught, the infantry proceeding in three and four waves at very short intervals behind each other.

With the capture of the first objective, riflemen, machinegun men, and portable machinegun marksmen immediately opened a barrage of bullets between 1,500 and 2,000 yards in advance. Under cover of this curtain of steel, the second wave of infantry passed over the first one galloped the second objective and then in turn opened a barrage of rifle and machinegun fire at another 5,000 yards in advance. The third wave which followed, leaving the third objective, opened its machinegun barrage, and so on ad infinitum.

Nothing Interfered. Nothing was allowed to interfere with the progress of these waves of assault. When they encountered machinegun nests, or centers of resistance that failed to be wiped out, they were merely left behind to be taken care of by troops especially designed, equipped and trained for that purpose. These were armed largely with grenades, 105 millimeter gas and trench mortars. Every point where a few men were still holding out with a machinegun or a few rifles and grenades was attacked by superior numbers and forced to give in.

Each wave of assault as it passed forward was accompanied by a contingent of very light artillery, consisting principally of trench mortars mounted on wheels and baby cannons similar to the French's famous "Trenchmortar" or 37 caliber.

The use of the trench mortars with these waves of assault was essentially original, the mortars instead of firing up into the air as customary, being used instead to fire straight ahead at distances of 100 to 200 yards.

In addition to this "light artillery" every three battalions likewise was accompanied by a battery of the German 77 field gun, a supplementary company and a half of machineguns and half a company of engineers.

Then last, but not original of all in the conception of their use, came the tanks. Almost without exception, these were tanks which had been taken from the English in previous offensives, and repaired until they were again fit for use.

Tank Use is Different. But where both the English and the French have used their tanks for leading an assault, and especially for smashing down the barbed-wire entanglements for the infantry to pass through, Von Hutler's method was for the tanks to bring up the rear and complete the cleaning up process, as any points of resistance that might have escaped the troops especially charged with that task.

It is in this that in the first few hours of its application against the English front at St. Quentin it met with a degree of success. Whether this success was due purely to the effectiveness of the method or whether other causes combined to force the English retreat remains to be established.

Had the method met with the same complete success on the western front, it had the method met with the same complete success on the western front, it had the method met with the same complete success on the western front, it had the method met with the same complete success on the western front.

But having failed to meet with complete success, it developed at once its greatest inherent weakness, that of opening up to a constant and very great political masses and columns of human beings to be raked to the extreme degree by rifle, machinegun and artillery fire.

Flame's Poilus were not slow to take advantage of the opening, and as a result not only does the German offensive stand checked today, but Von Hutler's method stands doomed, and with it not only Ludendorff's colossal strategic and tactical plan, but Germany's last hope of converting France, England, Italy and Belgium into a second Russia.

PLAN DETAILS OF RUSSIAN HELP

(By United Press.) WASHINGTON, May 24.—New and vastly important developments in the allied policy of "more help for Russia," are expected this week. President Wilson and Ambassador Besseling have had a long conference looking to the furtherance of positive aid to the Russian people. Money, medicine and military relief figure in the new program. As one small part of the new program, American railroad men will probably be sent again soon into Russia to help her untangle her war-wrecked railways. Members of the Stevens railway commission and a considerable portion of the workers engaged in the original reconstruction task, quit the country when it was in its greatest turmoil. Now it seems likely the task can be resumed. An important commission will be sent to Russia soon, it was stated in official circles today.

Would Have Allies Begin Action Against Bolsheviki

NEW AGITATION UNDER WAY TO PROVIDE MILITARY FORCE TO BE SENT INTO RUSSIA WITH IDEA OF CAUSING REVULSION OF FEELING AGAINST TROTSKY AND LENINE.

By J. W. T. MASON (United Press War Expert)

NEW YORK, May 24.—A new agitation to attempt to persuade the allies to send a military expedition into Siberia is gathering headway.

It shows evidence of being due primarily to a desire to discredit the Bolshevik and drive them from power. A strong force sent into Siberia to overthrow the Bolshevik might possibly be successful in causing a reaction against Trotsky and Lenin in Moscow and Petrograd, but there is no certainty as to this result. The two leaders of the Bolshevik have successfully withstood far more serious developments much nearer home.

Even with Trotsky and Lenin overthrown, there is no guarantee that Russia's affairs and Russia in her entirety might throw herself unreservedly into Germany's arms.

Germany too often. The one basic fact in the situation is that if the Russian people really desire to ally themselves with Germany, no army sent into Siberia can prevent them. Russia is too big and Germany is too near for that. The Russians are now anti-German because German militarism has fixed upon a policy of ruthless enmity toward the Slavs. But, if the allies engage in a Siberian demonstration, there is every reason to expect that Russia agitators will charge that the western Democratic nations are as imperialistic as Germany.

Under this accusation the Russians may despair of disinterested assistance from any quarter, and may plunge prematurely into the sphere of Futuristic influence. The treatment of Russia by the allies is a matter that requires the utmost delicacy. It is properly an American war problem since America is in the way to help save the world for Democracy. In the final adjustments after the war, if Russia is found to be alienated from the western Democracies, the result would be exploited by Germany, and would have grave consequences.

Patience is Required. Russia cannot be treated like a naughty child to be spanked into good behavior. The allies cannot spank Russia without hurting themselves. Patience and far-sighted vision of the new Russia that will arise in the future must be the guiding factors in handling the situation. There is something sacred about a revolution: Moments sometimes come to be created even to its excess.

Inside Flower Box.
So many people fail to recognize the decorative qualities to be found in the use of the all-year-round flower boxes. And there is no doubt at all that flower boxes make a room look more cozy and homelike. Consult a florist regarding the sort of flowers which will grow well in your window, and consult a carpenter about making the necessary window box. Your room will be a more beautiful and desirable place.

Be Your True Self.
The charm of gentleness is very real. No matter how thoroughly you imitate something which you are not the imitation will differ in some fashion from the original. This is because the imitation is governed a little by the basic qualities of the imitator.

Much Nutrition in Barley.
Although barley has long been known for brewing and malting, it is clearly to be highly nutritious. Its food value ranks practically the same as that of wheat. The pearl barley in soups and in cereal form are widely used, but the barley meal should be better known. It can be readily ground at home in hand mills. And, anywhere that whole wheat flour or cornmeal can be used, with one exception, barley meal will be found a perfectly satisfactory substitute.

His Opinion.
Doctor Eaton, a former president of Madison university, was beloved by the students. One day a student who had spoken in debate asked him what he thought of the effort. The doctor looked at him and then said slowly, "Edward, if you would pluck a few feathers from the wings of your imagination and stick them in the tail of your judgment, you would make better speeches."—Christian Register.

Sleep, the Restorer.
"Early to bed, early to rise" is an aptly maxim for the nervous patient to follow, for sleep is undoubtedly the greatest health restorer in the world. Be sure that there is plenty of good fresh air in the bedroom, and often a hot bath taken before retiring will relax tense nerves to such an extent that sleep comes very readily.

Endurance Through Faith.
Human beings have endured unconquerable miseries and grown strong even as they suffered. And they have not only endured all things but loved all things. No address when it came has been able to dent the spirit which, looking beyond the present grief, has detected behind whatever barrier of blackest cloud the clear shining of the sun or the beacon of the stars of night.—Richard Burton in the Bellman.

Stars Not Visible From Well.
That stars are visible in the daytime from the bottom of a deep shaft or well has been generally believed since the days of Aristotle, but there is not the slightest foundation for the idea. Baron Humboldt, who spent a good deal of time in mines himself and questioned miners in various parts of the world, found no instance in support of this belief, and it has since been thoroughly exploded. But, like many other "exploded" ideas, it flourishes just as vigorously as ever.—Popular Science Monthly.

Forced to Assert Himself.
Harry's mother dressed in her new suit, furs, and hat, took him for a visit to the neighbors. Of course, they were glad to see her and chatted fully five minutes; no one noticing Harry, who was standing just inside the door. He watched them for a moment more, then leisurely strode up and said: "Here's ole Harry." It was the attention from then on.

Wind's Velocity.
It has been estimated that a gentle wind travels about five miles per hour, a high wind about 30 to 45 miles per hour, and a great hurricane 100 to 100 miles per hour. The velocity of the earth on its own axis exceeds, it is believed, 1,000 miles an hour. The velocity of the earth around the sun is calculated to be 68,000 miles per hour, and the velocity of the moon to be 2,278 miles per hour.

Coffee Cultivation.

The British successfully introduced the cultivation of coffee on the island of Ceylon, where it became the foundation of the prosperity of that island and from where it passed to India where it was cultivated with success, especially in the districts of Madras and Malabar.

MARINES FORM THEIR SLOGAN, "FIRST TO FIGHT"

Not all of the boys in the United States Marine Corps could be taken over in that first hatch that landed a hard punch on the Kaiser's jaw. They all wanted to go, but there were important duties which would keep a number of them at home for the time being. Here are some of the "Sea-Soldiers" at Mare Island, spelling out the boys' motto on a hill slope.

BASEBALL PLAYERS WORRIED OVER NEW RULING

MEMBERS OF THE PROFESSION WILL RECEIVE NO SPECIAL FAVORS AND THE GAME STANDS ON UNCERTAIN GROUND BY NEW DRAFT ORDER

By H. C. HAMILTON
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, May 24.—Professional baseball was abruptly worried today, following publication of the protest marshal general's statement that baseball players would be included in the new draft order.

The professional baseball will be treated the same as amateurs which received the same consideration as baseball in the war tax, was the hope of those prominent in the game, but it was admitted the game, as well as every other professional sport, is standing on insecure ground.

There is little likelihood that the parks will be closed on the initiative of the owners, for such a step would be more costly than to continue, even with attendance falling off on account of disintegration of the teams. Overhead expenses are tremendous at all big league parks and at most minor league parks there is such an outlay that suspension would be ruinous.

World Mean Heavy Loss

The huge National League park at Boston would represent in itself a loss of thousands if allowed to remain idle. Its owners would be faced with a loss far greater than would be the case if allowed to continue. The Polo grounds represents a great expense. The Yankees pay a rental there of $200,000 annually.

It is hoped among followers of baseball here that test cases will work out the salvation of the game, taking some players, but leaving sufficient for the magnates to continue their businesses.

ANNOUNCES PURPOSE TO REOCCUPY PULPIT

REV. C. L. BENT TERMINATES VA. CATION GRANTED BECAUSE OF ILL HEALTH

Announcement that he will occupy his pulpit at the Twin Falls Methodist church, both morning and evening services on Sunday next is made by Rev. C. L. Bent, who was granted a vacation last March until such time as he should recover his health.

The morning service will be in the nature of a benediction service in conformity with the plans of the Methodist war work conference of Washington, D. C., and at the evening service the service flag of the church will be unveiled in a dedication. Special visitors would be extended to parents of the men who are represented by stars on the service flag, and to patriotic organizations.

In announcing his return to his pulpit, Mr. Bent says: "Acting upon the last conversation we had before he left Twin Falls, in March, wherein he stated that when I had become sufficiently rested from the nervous strain under which I had been working, I would be back in the city, I am glad to say that I have the strength for the work required, and I therefore shall occupy my pulpit at both services next Sunday."

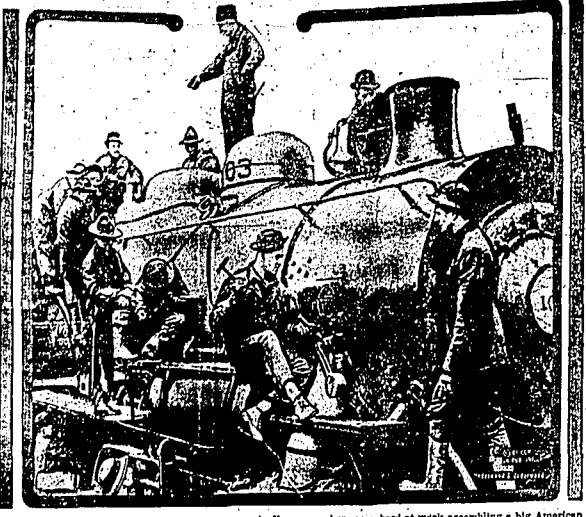

TO GET EARLY HISTORY OF WRITERS IN IDAHO

For the purpose of obtaining the undisputed facts concerning the early history of the first white settlement in the state of Idaho, so that those facts may be placed correctly in the records of the church, Andrew Jensen, assistant historian of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, will leave Twin Falls, Friday, May 24, to accompany Mr. Jensen to Lemhi, Idaho, next Friday, May 31. This place, then known as Fort Lemhi, was the scene of the first attempt made by members of the church to make a permanent settlement in Idaho. About 100 men and women, under the command of Thomas S. Smith were sent there in 1855 by President Brigham Young. In this band was Lewis W. Shurtliff, who is to accompany Mr. Jensen to Lemhi Friday.

For the first two or three years the colonists met with decided success, being on the most friendly terms with the Shoshone Indians, but early in 1857 trouble occurred and some of the settlers were massacred by the red men. Many of the buildings were burned and otherwise destroyed and no attempt was ever made to again rebuild. Shurtliff managed to escape and returned to the state of Idaho for the purpose of explaining many of the obscure points in the founding of the colony that he is to accompany Mr. Jensen.

Mr. Jensen will also be assisted in this work by the members of the Idaho State Historical society.

The Berlin communique also reported the repulse of French attacks along the west bank of the Aves, southeast of Amiens.

Field Marshal Haig said that hostile raids were repulsed at Arveloy wood east south of Hebuterne during the night of French troops made a successful raid east of Leclot.

Only intermittent artillery fire at different parts was reported by the French.

AMERICAN FLYERS DEFENDING PARIS

(By United Press)

PARIS, May 24.—An American air squadron cooperating in the defense of Paris, it was officially announced today.

Of the thirty German airplanes which participated in the second raid on Paris Wednesday night, only one reached the city, so a certain number of the fifty-four airplanes which opposed them.

The one plane that reached the city dropped several bombs, killing one person and injuring twelve. Other bombs were dropped in the suburbs, where there were a few victims.

The Echo de Paris warns Germany that the British are beginning to carry out a carefully conceived air offensive and that "France's turn will come soon."

Father of Punctuation.

The present system of punctuation, now used in all modern languages with but insignificant variations, was introduced in the first half of the fifteenth century by a Venetian printer named Aldus Manutius. He is the real father of punctuation marks—of the full stop, comma, semicolon, colon, question and exclamation marks, apostrophe and inverted commas. Manutius' system was adopted later by all printers until it finally established itself throughout Europe.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

"Irish" Potatoes Unknown in Ireland.

"We speak in this country of the Irish potato," remarked H. O. Connor, a native of Ireland, at the Raleigh. "Nobody in Ireland would know what is meant by an 'Irish' potato. There is a distinct variety of potato in Ireland—the Champion, which is the potato we call in America the Irish potato; the White Rose, the Leather Coat and the Skerry, which is a cross between the so-called Irish potato and the yam."—Washington Star.

Choosing a Wife.

It was Sir John More, father of the more famous Sir Thomas, who said: "I would compare the multitude of women which are to be chosen for wives unto a bag full of mackerel having among them a single eel. Now, if a man should put his hand into this bag, he may chance to feel the eel; but if it is a hundred to one he shall be stung by a snake." Sir John had undoubtedly lighted on a "snake," which accounts for his lack of chirality.

Japanese Teas the Best.

One feature which marks tea curing in Japan is the proverbial cleanliness of local tea associations, but also the people. The rules of sanitation are strictly observed by the tea growers of Japan. "Not only the health and sanitation of workers are strictly examined by local tea associations, but also the process of curing is inspected with great care. Japanese teas have never been artificially colored as have teas from some other countries.

SOLDIER'S SON DOES BIT FOR RED CROSS

MASTER GEORGE FORBES CONTRIBUTES FURNITURE OF FURNITURE—ALL DONATE AT ARMYIAN

(Special to The News)

ARMESIAN CITY—Master George Forster, son of Lieutenant James W. Forster, who is with the American expeditionary force in France, contributed five coats, his earnings from the sale of pelts, to the second Red Cross war fund drive. The drive brought in from this community about $280, with better than one-half of the amount in cash. Everyone contributed. A few people were away from home, but they will be waited upon later.

North American Moose.

The moose is the largest living representative of the deer family, and is found in North America. The elk is native of northern Europe and is considered by many zoologists to be the same species, except that it is smaller. A full grown moose may be six and one-half to seven feet tall at the shoulder and weigh 1,000 to 1,500 pounds. On account of endurance and strength the moose is frequently symbolic, persons of unusual power being said to be "as strong as a bull moose."

Unsatisfactory Visit.

"Congressman Trouble writes that he is my representative and wants to serve me," said Mr. Dubuick. "What are you going to ask for?" "Nothing," the last time I visited Washington, with the fond expectation of hobnobbing with the great, he turned me over to his secretary, and the most important person I met was a hotel doorman."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Meat Superfluous.

Among the Hindus and Egyptians the moose was carried to the moon. De Gubernate says: "The pagan sun-god crushed under his foot the shadow of the night. When the cat's away the mice will play. The shadows of night dance when the moon is absent."

LIEUT. RHYSDAVIDS

Second Lieut. A. P. F. Rhys Davids, D. S. C., M. C., is one of the noted officers of the British Royal Flying Corps who has helped keep the allies supreme in the air. He has recently been reported missing. He has crossed the German lines on offensive patrols on 54 occasions and has accounted for 22 enemy planes, including the crack German pilot Schafer and Voss. This British official portrait was drawn by William Orson, R. A.

Boy's mother is teaching him to stay in front of his own doorstep, and it is evident, from the following incident, that she has succeeded. I don't go so far.'"

'STELLA MARIS,' MARY PICKFORD'S LATEST PICTURE AT THE IDAHO IS JUST PLAIN GREAT

There's no use talking. "Stella Maris" makes our stock of over-worked adjectives look sick. We'll pass 'em up entirely and simply say that in our humble judgment there hasn't been a "better one" in town in a long, long time, and then we don't remember what one it was! Those who saw it last night will tell you the same thing.

VAUDEVILLE EVENINGS AND SATURDAY MATINEE

Just one word more about this program. It starts at 7.30, and shows tonight and Saturday. Children's matinee Saturday, with the vaudeville program.

Now for next week. Commencing Monday, the Idaho will show:

CHARLES RAY IN "THE HIBRID MAN." Charles Ray, well-loved screen star of "The Pinch Hitter," "The Godfather," "The Son of Ed," "The Boy," and "The Boy," is to appear in his very latest picture, "The Hibrid Man."

"The Hibrid Man" was directed by Victor Scharstinger under the personal supervision of Thomas H. Ince himself. There is a delightful love story running through the production; in fact, it is for the beautiful daughter of his employer that Ray makes the big sacrifice which forms the basis of the story.

BENNETT OGDEN'S FAVORITES IN "BATTLE ROYAL"

There are 10 winners in picture comedies whose grotesque antics are more heartily appreciated by the public than any of Ben Turpin, Fatty Wood and Charles Lyon, the three players in "The Battle Royal." In the latest Mack Bennett comedy, which has their origin in the jealousy of Lynn when his wife mimes Turpin, who has been badly misled by his steward handling the non-payment check. There is a wild chase in which Turpin is getting the better of the jealous husband with his mite when a coterie of ducky pugilists enter the ring and make things lively for all concerned.

GREEN DITCH RIGHT OF WAY

Suit has been filed in district court here by Warren B. Hoag of Kimberly against Harry N. West and J. G. Bradley to secure an easement across lands owned by the defendants for right of way for an irrigation ditch to serve the lands of the plaintiff. The complaint, which was filed Wednesday by Sweeley & Sweeley, recites that an agreement existed with the defendant Harry whereby the use of the ditch in question is secured to Hoag, but that negotiations to a similar end with West have failed.
