United Press War Summary

WESTERN FRONT The Germans, apparently in an effort to flank the allies south of Noyon, are driving westward toward the Oise in the Ailette region, resulting in a further consolidation of the British and Alsace fronts, southwest of Nancy-Chateau.

ATLANTIC FRONT

The enemy, who was last officially reported six miles north of the Marne, has made a further slight advance toward that river, the French commander said. This was the only German progress noted on the Alsace front.

FRANCY FRONT

On the west flank of Alsace front, the French are still holding the outcrops of Soissons. On the right flank, the allies not only have held but the French took Hill 105, three miles west of Rheims, by a counter attack.

RUSSIA FRONT

Henry Wood, calling on the French front, said the allies' military authorities believe the Germans will try to take Rheims by a wide encircling movement down the Aisne river valley, to the southwest. Wood also described successes of thousands of refugees driven from their homes by the German advance.

RUSSIA FRONT

A Rome dispatch said the pope had received a telegram from Cardinal Luini, stating that he would leave Rheims on the 31st of May, and that the pope is willing to let the Germans go there without the famous cathedral there.

FRANCY FRONT

Eighteen persons were killed and injured in today's long range bombardment of Paris—on Corpus Christi day. A church was also struck.

FRANCY FRONT

German prisoners said they were told that the attacks in that sector were for the purpose of taking prisoners, so as to get information regarding movements and also to harass the Americans there so that reinforcements would be sent by the Americans in Picardy.

Held up by the British to the north and west of that city, the enemy plans a wide encircling movement to the southeast, hoping to surround it, military authorities believe today.

MORE SPEED CALLED FOR BY PRESIDENT

URGES CONGRESSIONAL LEADERS TO CLEAR DECK FOR NEW TAX MEASURE

(By United Press)
 WASHINGTON, May 31.—President Wilson and congressional leaders urge that more speed be applied to the army bill and other measures so that congress may get home within the new tax bill if it committee.

Two recesses are in prospect—one as soon as pending measures can be passed, possibly about the middle of June, and the other in August.

The president is understood to have impressed congressional leaders with the importance of the work members can do by impressing those at home.

"Just why a tax bill is needed, that is what we must prepare to buy bonds more generously than fall then carry that victory is assured to the side, whose morale is highest; that though the American war machine suffered at the beginning because of mistakes, it is beginning to gather momentum and if everybody will get behind and push it soon will be crushing the foe."

Following the passage of the army bill today, the house will adjourn until Monday.

STANDARD WAGE PLANNED

(By United Press)
 WASHINGTON, May 31.—Standardization of wages of common and unskilled labor, to halt the enormous labor turnover that is slowing up war work throughout the country, was under consideration today by the department of labor.

Such a move is essential to equal distribution of the present labor supply, officials of the department say, because of varying rates and inequality of working conditions.

Under the standardized wage plan, a carpenter, for instance, would get the same wage in California as in New Jersey. This would automatically take away the temptation to large groups of labor to concentrate in one district at the expense of others.

Miss Pamela French, Dean of Women of the University of Idaho, met the girl graduates of the class of 1918 of the high school at the home of Miss Burd Wall yesterday afternoon with the object of impressing upon them the necessity of attending higher institutions of learning for the good of the nation at this time. Particularly the state university, that they may become acquainted with state needs and aid in state cooperation which they will be called upon to do in the near future. It is planned by the University to send a representative to meet with the young men of the graduating class here who are eligible to enter the University. Miss French spent Tuesday and Wednesday here, leaving today for Burley, where she will address the Women's club.

CHICAGO GRAIN

(By United Press)
 CHICAGO, May 31.—Grain futures slumped heavily on the board of trade here, heavy selling being induced by several conditions. With cash corn 5 to 10 lower, good germination reports from the corn belt and indications of much heavier receipts, prices dropped soon after the opening. The New York market was reported flooded with enormous supplies of corn, rye and barley flours.

June corn opened late at 81.25, down 1-8, and dropped another full point by 10:15. July corn was down 1-8 on the opening, 81.25, and later fell 3-4 additional.

May oats opened at 75, down 3-8, and later lost 1-4 additional. June oats opened down 1-4 and later fell 1-4 more. July oats were 63.34 at the opening, down 1-4, and later was 1-3-8 still lower.

Provisions were strong despite a weak hog market at the close.

RICHENBACHER IN THRILLING AIR BATTLES

RESQUES COMRADE FROM HUN PLANES TWICE IN HOUR—TACKLES FIVE SINGLE HANDED

(By FRANK J. TAYLOR (United Press Staff Correspondent))
 WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN LOIRRAINE, May 31.—One American air squadron established the record of ten flights in one hour this morning. Lieutenant Eddie Rickenbacher of Columbus, Ohio, and Jimmie Misspent of Brooklyn figured prominently in two of the battles, the former saving Misspent's life twice. The Americans drove down at least four enemy planes, while one of our planes was destroyed and the pilot captured.

Rickenbacher to Rescue
 Shortly before eight o'clock this morning Rickenbacher discovered Messner diving after a German plane with a second German plane diving after Messner, all firing.

Rickenbacher immediately dived on the second plane, chasing it away and relieving the pursuit. Both enemy machines disappeared in the distance.

A few minutes later Messner was sent out with a patrol to protect a British bombing squadron returning from an excursion behind the German lines. A German patrol of six machines—two biplanes and four monoplanes—suddenly swooped down on the British arm. The Americans dashed to the rescue and a free-for-all fight ensued, eight kilometers (five miles) behind the German lines.

LOSES TOP WING

A German airplane killed with Messner's machine and was damaged so badly it fell. The top wing of Messner's plane was torn off and he started to struggle toward home. This was exactly the same manner in which he landed his last visit a month ago. As Messner was nearing the American lines a German biplane attacked him. He was unable to maneuver and was in grave danger.

Just then Rickenbacher, who had seen the German plane, dived to his rescue. He fired his machine gun and forced one down, saw Messner struggling to escape his pursuer. Rickenbacher drove straight at the boche forcing him to the ground and saving Messner's life for the second time within the hour.

Lands Behind German Planes

While this was going on, another patrol from the same American squadron encountered a German patrol. One American aviator was forced down and landed between the German trenches. The Germans immediately opened fire on a flight which he had just started. He was unable to maneuver and was in grave danger.

The American artillery immediately finished his machine to prevent it from falling into German hands.

Tip Over Enemy Plane

American aviators have invented a new way of harassing their German opponents without using guns.

"Seeing the Huns to death," they call it. The trick consists of getting "on the tail" of an enemy plane and chasing it to the ground until it tumbles.

An American lieutenant drove one to within 500 yards of the German trenches this morning. The boche finally tipped over and fell.

DECLARES HUNS PERSONIFICATION OF THE EVIL ONE

AUDIENCE ON MEMORIAL DAY HEARS MILES CANNON—BOY SCOUTS PRESENTED WITH FLAG

Asserting that the present conflict in which practically all of the civilized world is engaged against the forces of the Emperor of Germany is simply a re-enactment and the final manifestation of a struggle between the opposing powers of antiquity and democracy that has resulted in all the wars since the time of Christ, Miles Cannon of Weiser, addressing an audience of approximately 1200 persons assembled in the Methodist church here Thursday afternoon on the occasion of exercises in observance of the fifty-first annual Memorial Day, declared that the struggle would end with the flag of the United States floating over Potsdam palace.

Times For Peace Talk

"I would not have anyone entertain a moment's doubt but that the final outcome will be decisive victory for the allies, but no man should be allowed to suggest peace until peace terms are written in Potsdam palace with the Kaiser a fugitive from justice," Mr. Cannon declared.

The speaker was introduced by Captain G. Longley, chairman of the meeting, following the reading of General Logan's order providing for the observance of Memorial Day by W. W. Humphrey, chaplain of the local post, Grand Army of the Republic, and the reading of Lincoln's Gettysburg Address by Mrs. Herman Schorger. Invocation in which prayer was made for the ultimate triumph of the forces of democracy in the cause of righteousness, was offered by Dr. A. H. Brand, pastor of the Presbyterian church. The meeting was opened with the singing of "The Star Spangled Banner," under the leadership of a choir and with music furnished by the Twin Falls band. Other vocal numbers were given by a quartette and a male quartet, and the assemblage was dismissed after singing of "America."

Scouts Receive Flag

Immediately prior to adjournment, Captain Longley, in behalf of business men who has contributed for the purpose, presented to the Boy Scouts of Twin Falls a large, hand-made United States flag, delivering it with the injunction that they "Be prepared and carry it high." Response was made by Scoutmaster V. H. Decker.

The American Covenant

Defining his subject, "Our Covenant of Liberty," as the principle of equal rights of humanity to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness, established by the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Mr. Cannon said that the first great test of this principle in this country had come when Fort Sumter was fired upon. Addressing the members of the Grand Army present, the speaker continued, "In every nation today except those under the domination of the Emperor of Germany, all people are raising their voices in solemn protest of the wrongs of this great army. Hereafter, we are bound to our aviators of the nation; now we honor you as the saviors of civilization. "Your heroic deeds demonstrated that the nation and the principles upon which it is established should stand; this generation is called upon to make good the decision of 1865.

German Predicted Rebellion

"The doctrine of independence is not new," the speaker declared, referring to the enunciations of Rousseau and John Knox, and continuing: "Early in the eighteenth century a German author and the house of Hohenzollern and predicted that if the oppression of the common people were not relieved they would rise and crush despotism.

Hobbes' Theory Preserved

"Through the house of Hohenzollern everything that is predicted has happened in all these wars, has been brought down to the present generation.

"George III, at the instigation of the Hohenzollern, undertook to re-estate in England, everything that had been relegated by the bill of rights, England would not lead him her military power, and he handled it as German kindred, and sent the Hessians here in an effort to crush out democracy in America.

"The theory that the might of the German sword will command respect has produced a wonderful citizenship. From the date of the inauguration of Washington as president of the United States, Germany has engaged in 16 wars, every one of which has been based upon the spirit of greed and lust for power.

Step Was Frustrated
 Four weeks before the assassination of the Austria-grand duke in July, 1914, it had been decreed that the boards of Germany should be set loose to exterminate the principles of human rights, accomplished in the government of the United States.

"It is the solemn duty of all those in authority in this country and especially the influence of the great country interest to direct their strength to the strengthening of the common purpose shall be continued for a period of 20 years if necessary to accomplish our purpose.

"The soldier cannot fight without bread from your fields, and labor in the shipyards. He is helpless without the unyielding and patriotic support of every citizen.

Double Benefit of Hoarding
 "I am inclined to doubt the advisability of saving money and buying gold certificates during the present emergency. For the assembling of all the strength of this country for one purpose, business should be good. Money should be required to make and accumulate profits sufficient to carry on the war indefinitely.

"It is imperative that rich and poor, high and low, shall unite in the development of a human character under our flag—dedicated to the principles of equal rights for all and special privilege for none—a character strong enough and determined enough to perpetuate your flag of Gettysburg. And then when peace does come, as it surely will, it will be a peace in keeping with your efforts and in keeping with the highest ideals of this nation."

This is without a question one of the most astounding stories of air and land adventure written since the war began. A fier under the British flag, O'Brien, after a hard fight with several Boche machines was finally wounded 8,000 feet in the air, brought down and captured.

While being taken to the prison camp with a German guard beside him with gun loaded ready to shoot, he made his escape by jumping through a window.

After 72 days of crawling and slipping by night and hiding by day—bleeding, wounded—passing sentries boldly—fighting Germans—he crossed the boundary into Holland.

No wonder he was received with joy by the English public—no wonder audiences all over the United States listened breathlessly to his story. YOU can read it now for we have secured it for our next serial.

This foug-limbed, hawkfaced daredevil lieutenant—they could not keep him out of war—they could not kill him—they could not hold him! Read his story, it is a splendid proof of that indomitable spirit that makes America unconquerable, invincible.

BRITISH WARM IN PRAISE OF AMERICANS

SPIRIT BACK OF THE YANKEE ATTACK BOTH A THREAT AND PROMISE, THEY ASSERT

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS (United Press Staff Correspondent). WITH THE BRITISH IN FRANCE, MAY 30.—The British, from Italy down to the soldiers, is enthusiastic over the way the Americans licked the Germans in the Meuse river region Tuesday morning.

When I entered a room filled with British officers yesterday, they were so spontaneously broke out in a storm of handclapping. They had just heard that the Americans had taken Cantigny, and it was their way of showing their pleasure.

"Predicts Bigger Things" "It is not the size of the spirit that counts in that life, but the spirit back of it," said one. "It is both a threat and a promise."

He meant it was a threat against Germany and a promise to the allies of bigger things in the future.

"I have known Cantigny well. It is a village which boasts a chateau situated on a spur about 150 feet above the valley of the Aisne, below Meuse river. With Grivepaille and Meuse-St. Georges, it is one of the most important points in this part of the line.

"Watch Outcome In South" The British army is largely watching progress of the battle on the Aisne, where already four British divisions, the Eighth, Twenty-first, Twenty-fifth and Fifteenth, have measured steel with the German stormers, against the continued rush of Hindenburg's fourth and sixth armies. The British are ready to respond to any call Foch may make.

"Huns Hold Up Reserves" Huge forces of German reserves apparently remain inside the Meuse river, which within equal distance of the Amiens front or the Soissons-Rheims sector. There is reason to believe these are backed by tremendous quantities of materials of all sorts and guns of all calibers, held in places where they can easily be swung to the westward or southward.

CAMP DIX PLANTS 400-ACRE GARDEN

Soldiers Doing Their Bit In More Ways Than One

(By United Press) CAMP DIX, N. J., May 31.—A 400-acre war garden is being cultivated here, and it's going to be a beauty.

The military area is not doing things by halves, or even by four-fifths, these days, and when Lieut. C. E. Edmond Tompkins, quartermaster of the 400-acre garden, was ordered to put a backyard garden, back of a barracks, a backyard suitable to the family he has to feed. Nothing less than 400 acres would do.

The nation war garden commission, Washington, conferred with the military authorities, and strategists that a train of motor trucks to Camp Dix, loaded with plows, seeds, fertilizer, harrows, hoes, and all the other gardening tools needed to start off the kitchen garden for this happy family of 400,000 soldiers in training.

Pleas of farmer soldiers are in the camp, and itching for assignment to the plowing and harrowing jobs, where they will "show off" to the city soldiers. The valuable farm training, is to a warrior.

Uncle Sam is planning a big war garden for each cantonment, not only as a food conservation measure, but as a means of helping solve the food transportation problem.

IT'S DEATH FOR FIDO TO LOOK SHEEPISH

(By United Press) PORTLAND, ORE., May 31.—A dog won't even have a dog's life if it is Oregon any more.

If Fido licks his chops, or even glances in a sheepish way, signifying physical repulsion, "ling" or "dead" that is, if a sheep-owning farmer happens to be about, and in a state of mind that would kill a dog.

Atty. Gen. Van Winkle has ruled that a farmer is lawfully justified in killing a dog if he even suspects that the dog has been attacking sheep, and that the dog's licking his chops may be taken as evidence of criminality on the part of the dog.

OVERMAN TO WEED OUT THE LOBBYISTS

Improprietous Influences Looked For In Connection With New Revenue Measure

WASHINGTON, May 31.—Warred of the descent upon congress of a swarming horde of tax bill lobbyists, leaders today called on the lobby committee to stand guard over the frames of the new bill.

Senator Overman announced that the lobby investigating committee of which he is chairman will begin work about the time the house ways and means committee open hearings on the bill June 6, and will continue its work until it has completely weeded out all improper influences attempting to shape the revenue law.

ENGINEERS HOLD HUNS TWO DAYS IN HOT FIGHT

ACTING BRIGADIER GENERAL TAKEN PRISONER—WATCHES GERMAN MACHINE IN OPERATION—ESCAPES BY TAKING REFUGE IN AMUNITION DUMP

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON.—Shortly after the beginning of the present German offensive on the Western Front some American engineers took part in what probably was the most romantic and picturesque action of the war.

It happened when the hard-pressed British Fifth army broke under the early assaults of the overwhelming German forces, leaving a practically undefended gap. Dohly would have been fatal, but there was an officer capable of meeting the emergency. This was the general commanding the engineers of the Fifth army.

He hastily collected a force of Canadian and American engineers, and some tunneling companies. With this emergency "search army" he held the break for two days. Fortunately, he was given ample artillery support, and he commanded a lot of machine guns from a school in the rear. The only trouble was that few engineers know how to operate machine guns, but he succeeded in finding some instructors, and these dashed up and down the line, showing one group how to load, another how to sight, reloading a jammed gun here, and some places shot paralyzing an obstinate crew to allow its over-hauled weapon to cool.

Was Bitter Fight

It was a marvelous fight. The Germans came on in seemingly overwhelming and unending force. They would break through the line, but the British force would dash forward, catch the enemy on the flank and force him to retreat. Thus the battle swayed back and forth for two days, at the end of which time the general in command was completely knocked out from lack of sleep, and had to be carried to the rear. Brig. Gen. Calvo, however, opportunely arrived on the scene, just back from

Each will be an independent economic unit as far as possible in production of war goods.

A MILLION MEN IN FRANCE, SAYS SENATOR LEWIS

DEMOCRATIC WHIP IN MEMORIAL DAY ADDRESS SUMMARIZES ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF NATION

(By United Press) CHICAGO, May 30.—America has an army of 1,400,000 on foreign soil and has become the second naval power of the world, Senator James Hamilton Lewis declared in a Memorial Day address in Evanston.

By December 1, he said, the army in Europe will equal the British in size, if transportation is made available.

"We have 160 warships and 50 others in European waters, manned by 50,000 men," the senator said. "We had 70,000 men in the navy when war was declared. Now we have 400,000. We will have 500,000 before October."

Pace Only With Victory

Analyzing the present German drive on an effort to force the armistice into a speedy peace, the Democratic party whip in the senate quoted figures to show what America is doing to prevent such an ending. His address was a denunciation of the present financial departments of the administration.

Lewis declared 1,700,000 tons of shipping have been completed, a record exceeded slightly only by England.

"In ordnance we have spent $776,000,000 for protecting," Lewis testified. "The ordnance department in its first year contracted expenditures of $3,000,000,000. We have delivered two million extra rifles. We are making one thousand rifles each day."

"We have delivered 100,000 machine guns. By July 1 the production will be 18,000 a month.

"The nation has spent $500,000,000 on motorization of artillery, building vehicles faster than they can be shipped. Contracts have been let for 100,000 pounds of explosives. We have contracted for 3,500,000 rounds of small arms ammunition. Our production in this is greater than that of France or England."

America has become the great credit nation of the world, Lewis claimed, bringing back billions of American currencies from foreign countries.

BAN ON RACING PROVES DETRIMENTAL

(By H. C. HAMILTON) (United Press Staff Correspondent) NEW YORK, May 31.—Opposition to racing in certain sections of the country is a serious menace to the future of remnants for the United States cavalry, in the opinion of more than one man who has no mercenary reason for wishing racing to continue.

Unless racing is encouraged breeders will be discouraged. Without the test that comes from horse racing, the strains of stamina and speed cannot be traced. Consequently the best breeding stock cannot be brought out for use of the army.

These statements certainly are borne out by the examples of care in breeding set by the governments of England and France. In the latter country it has been made practically impossible to take a mare to another country.

Supply Is Low

In England just as much care is being exercised. A prominent Englishman was sent to this country at the outbreak of the war to obtain cavalry for remount purposes, but he found that it was practically impossible to get enough horses of the kind wanted to make it worth his while to search for them.

It may be argued against this that cavalry is becoming obsolete in the war, yet records show that it was a detachment of cavalry that closed a serious breach in the British lines during the fierce recent fighting near Amiens. Fifteen new cavalry regiments have been authorized for the United States.

German cavalry has been in action recently, and French horsemen played an important part in the gallant defense of the French lines during the fierce fighting in the big offensive.

DEATH SENTENCE NOT SIGNED BY SUPERIOR JUDGE

(By United Press) SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., May 31.—The death sentence pronounced on Thomas J. Mooney will not be signed by Superior Judge Griffin, until the supreme court has had an opportunity to set on the "irrevocable" writ of habeas corpus.

This was decided today following a conference between the judge, the defense attorneys and the prosecuting attorneys. The writ of habeas corpus is a writ of the supreme court, and a decision that he has no authority to grant a writ on the defense's application of fraud on the part of the prosecution.

RESTRICTIONS TO TIGHTEN ON MEAT INDUSTRY

WANT MEAT PRICES TO PUBLIC LOWERED—MAY MEAN GOVERNMENT OPERATION

(By United Press) WASHINGTON, May 30.—Stricter government regulation for packers is urged upon President Wilson today by the special meat commission headed by Herbert Hoover, which has just submitted a revised report on the meat industry.

Government operation is not urged unless regulation fails.

Searching investigation of the retail end of the meat industry extending down to the small town butcher and meat seller, was urged by the commission. Better and cheaper means of distribution are desired. Its recommendations in substance are:

Continued regulation of the packing industry by food administration.

Licensing and regulation of stockyards by the department of agriculture.

Bi-monthly audits of packer's profits.

Control of packer's profits to prevent excessive charges.

Placing meat prices to the public on the same basis as those to the government.

The commission consisted of Food Administrator Hoover, Secretary of Agriculture Hixson, Secretary of Labor Wilson, Chairman Tamm of the tariff commission and Chairman Colver, of the federal trade commission.

Sharp differences of opinion arose within the commission during its investigation, it is reported.

Several members held out for government operation of packing plants. One member proposed operation of one plant as an experiment.

Chairman Hoover, it is understood, favored regulation only, believing that the packing industry is too complex to permit of government operation.

That shall not sell a soldier's property because of failure to pay the taxes, national, state or local.

That shall not settle a law suit against a soldier during his absence.

THE IMPOSTOR

By AGNES G. BROGAN.

Rev. Robert Carvel read the letter and gazed into the fire. Its appeal was pathetic enough and he had no idea of refusing...

From his boyhood he had been sorry for the sister whose impulsive act had exiled her by a stern father's decree...

'You will try to make it up to her,' his mother had whispered at the last, and here today was his first chance of doing so...

When he had answered the letter in a labored spirit of welcome, Rev. Robert went to consult his housekeeper, Mrs. Moffat, disliking innovation.

'She would arrive at the parsonage upon the following evening.'

'Nervously apprehensive, the minister prepared to meet the incoming train: one must be instant in one's expectations of a vaudeville singer's daughter...

'What is it?' asked Moira, troubled. 'We dress more quietly here,' he stammered.

'You will please, then, answered, suddenly recalled, said you; there is a gray dress in my trunk.'

Thereafter she was studiously garbed in gray. Gray upon Moira seemed to acquire a festive air.

'She had laughed aside his first suggestion of calling her "Mrs. Gray"...

'The voice of that girl would coax the birds from the trees,' she said, but she is shy about your hearing.'

'As the last fitting note died away, Robert Carvel went in and stood looking down upon the gray-clad girl...

'You should not have done that,' she murmured. 'But why not?' he usually questioned the minister. 'You are my sister's child.'

'When Moira covered her face with her hands, "It has all been an acted lie. I so longed for a home, a real home and good friends. I expected to find you older, more like Lady, to make me happy, as I had made him. I loved your sister Elizabeth; she raised me. From a child I called her mother; I was three years old when she first saw me. My father had died, and Moira smiled through her tears..."

'Good-by. Will you forgive me?' Robert Carvel took the trembling hands in a firm clasp, steadily his shining eyes met hers.

Might Call This One 'Story of Real Hard Luck'

KANSAS CITY.—The empty, purple-colored motorcar rested against the curb at Eleventh and Walnut streets. A large tire was stripped in the rear tire tracks...

As the camera snapped there was a shrill cry from a good-natured man, expensively dressed, who stood on the curb. 'So,' the woman exclaimed, pointing a finger at the good-natured man, still seated beside the girl...

The woman, dashed explanations, disappeared in the crowd. And the man, red-faced, pressing the electric starter, refusing to answer "good-by," of the three girls, who fled into the department store, where they are employed.

IN THE LIMELIGHT

JOINS THE AMERICAN ACES

Several months ago a party of young men in Amsterdam, N. Y., bade good-by to a comrade who was starting for a Southern aviation camp preparatory to service with the American Flying Corps in France.

'I'll try to give a good account of myself, fellows. So long!' the young man shouted as he swung aboard the train. After months of waiting, comes the word that he has made good, far from dispatches state that Lieut. H. Clay Ferguson, an American aviator, had bagged five German planes.

It was his last encounter with a German Gota Lieutenant Ferguson's machine was riddled with bullets from a machine gun, one of which lodged in his leg. He eluded his opponent, however, and landed safely within his own lines.

Meantime he had won recognition as an American "ace."

Lieutenant Ferguson is twenty-seven years old. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Adon C. Ferguson, who reside on a farm about five miles east of Amsterdam. He was graduated from the Amsterdam high school in 1910. During his school days Ferguson was one of the stars in athletics. In 1914 he was graduated from Yale university with the degree of bachelor of philosophy.

Ferguson was employed in New York when the United States entered the war, and immediately enlisted in the aviation service. At the Southern training camp he displayed more than ordinary proficiency.

WASHINGTON CITY SIDE LIGHTS

Rather Rough on Waiter, but "Orders Is Orders"

The manager of a Washington hotel has insisted upon strict observance of the food administration's rules from the beginning, so that two men, apparently of the class that are in Washington on business just now, who did not seem to care anything about food conservation, were responsible for the discharge of a waiter the other day.

The two had ordered a hearty luncheon, and after the meal had progressed somewhat they summoned the waiter and told him to bring some more bread. He hesitated.

'Well, protest you. Bring the bread,' said one of them, and the waiter hurried off. He came back with a plate of biscuits. At the next table, however, sat an official of the food administration. He beckoned to the head waiter, said something in an undertone, and in a few minutes the waiter who had served the forbidden bread rushed back to the table where the two men were and smiled apologetically.

'You gentlemen have cost me my job—serving that bread was against orders.'

'You called for the head waiter of the room and protested that the waiter was not at fault, but they say.'

FRUIT FOR HOME USE BUT LITTLE TO SELL

Guy Graham, the Horticultural Inspector, Reports on the Great Loss by Frost. DOISE—Southern Idaho will produce plenty of fruit this season for home consumption, although all crops will be light as a result of frost, reports received Tuesday by Guy Graham, state horticultural inspector, indicate, says the Boise Statesman. The prune crop will show the heaviest loss. The state horticulturalist estimates this season's production of 100 carloads—only one-fiftieth the normal crop. This large shortage will undoubtedly hamper the packing and drying industry this fall.

The present estimate of the peach crop is about 60 cars, compared with the normal crop of 500 cars. The next 10 days will disclose the fate of the apple crop, according to Mr. Graham. At present an estimate of the crop is impossible, as many blossoms which have been injured by frost may survive. Within a short time fully injured buds will drop from the trees, and an estimate will be made from those remaining unharmed.
