HEAVY PRICE IS PAID BY AMERICANS FOR VICTORY IN RECENT FIGHTING SHOWN IN HOSPITALS—PEOPLE CHEERED AS FIGHTERS PASSED

By LOWELL MELLETT (United Press Staff Correspondent) WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, June 8.—Gaily moving Paris ambulances pulling toward Paris along a perfect French highway between rows of tall trees, today showed the price Americans are willing to pay to stop the German rush.

French Pay Tribute It seems the story of the marines' heroic work, in what history may term "America's second Lexington," had spread through the intervening country, and France, to whom heroism might well be an old story, was quick to pay tribute.

Artillery, machine guns, rifles and bayonets figured in the four days fighting that saw, almost without a pause, the first day's machine guns and rifles the second; while the third and fourth days found closely fighting, due to the German counter attacks.

SAYS GERMAN MORALE HIGH

PROFESSIONAL LECTURERS ORGANIZING AMONG TROOPS WITH LURING TALKS OF AMERICAN INFELICITY

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS (United Press Staff Correspondent) WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, June 8.—The spirit of the German army seldom was keener than it is today. It would be playing Germany's game to try to make everybody believe otherwise.

Even on the Somme, Lyt and Aisne it had its effect. Besides, professional lecturers are circulating among the troops, backing them up with moral statements. These indicate that the war is almost over; that Germany is invincible; that those fighting in self-defense; that the United States is all "hot air"; that more Americans are sunk in the sea than arrive in France; that Americans cannot arrive in force before Germany has the allies licked; and that those who do arrive are necrotic, unable to stand shell fire, are generally untrained and inefficient.

FRANK H. BUHL

DIED AT SEASIDE, CA., JUNE 7, 1918.

SPECIAL HONORS PAID TO MEMORY

BODY OF FRANK H. BUHL WILL LIE IN STATE SUNDAY—BURIALS SUSPENDED

(By United Press) SHARON, Pa., June 8.—The body of Frank H. Buhl, retired steel manufacturer, lies in state today at his home here. The millionaire philanthropist died suddenly at 4:30 a. m. yesterday, following an attack of acute indigestion of five hours' duration. It is estimated his gifts to charity total more than $5,000,000.

Last of Trimmings Frank H. Buhl was the last of the (Hiramite) composed of Peter L. Kimberly, Stanley H. Miller and himself, which organized in 1910 the Twin Falls Land & Water company for the purpose of reclaiming the arid lands of the original Twin Falls tract, an undertaking that is unparalleled in respect to the possibilities of its scope and the degree of success that has attended its fulfillment in the United States.

RESOLUTION Adopted by Board of Directors of the Greater Twin Falls Club in Special Session June 8

WHEREAS the mortal activities of FRANK H. BUHL are at an end; AND, WHEREAS, the people not only of our City but of this entire territory known as the Twin Falls Country, connected with thousands of homes which he made possible, earnestly desire to pay tribute to his memory;

That in Mr. Buhl we recognize a genuine and great benefactor of the race—one who by the combination of his means, his energy and his business ability turned the worthless desert into a fertile and wealthy valley of productive farms and progressive cities, occupied by a prosperous people who are contributing from their undertakings to the maintenance of the State and Nation and to the further promotion of public affairs; That we deeply deplore his death but express our gratitude that he was permitted to live and to leave his property and his life to his loved and ambitious in relation to the reclamation and development of this valley in a measure even beyond his most sanguine expectations;

CAR TURNS INTO RIVER, TAKING TOLL OF LIFE

THOMAS MCKENNA VICTIM OF AUTO ACCIDENT ON JARBIDGE ROAD—OTHERS ESCAPE

Thomas McKenna, aged about 55, for two years salesman for the Poetello Security Trust company, was killed at 4:30 o'clock Friday afternoon when the heavy car in which he and four others were on the road to Jarbridge, Nevada, slipped off a shale rock embankment about five miles from that town and overturned, falling six or eight feet into the waters of the Jarbridge river. He was caught in the top of the car.

Driver Hurt But Escapes R. B. Freeland, secretary of the Poetello Security Trust company, who was driving the car, slipped from the wheel when he saw that the car was turning over. He was caught by the right leg in the car, and carried down into the water, but managed to free himself and escaped with minor injuries.

The other occupants of the car who escaped unharmed were L. B. Forrest, another salesman of the Poetello Security Trust company, Grover Tanner, manager of the Jarbridge Telephone company, and an unnamed man who was picked up by the tractor.

Deceased Well Known Here As a salesman for the Poetello Security Trust company, which some time since undertook the sale of the Blue Pacific addition, formerly known as the "Pavino Eighty," in Twin Falls, Mr. McKenna had been in Twin Falls much of the time for more than a year past, and was well known here.

ARRESTED AFTER CHASE BY MOB ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., June 8.—Fritz Flage, a German, in whose room at the Atlantic coast, a code book and blueprints of coast fortifications for two years ago and under which the "Times" puts each report of proceedings into type and publishes the same for one-third legal rate (30 cents per inch for 8-point type, 37 1/2 cents for bold type), were released after an investigation and was re-arrested on information furnished by his landlady.

County Served With Ultimatum. To the Honorable Board of Commissioners of Twin Falls County, Gentlemen: Calling your attention to the existing method and rate of payment for the publication of the proceedings of your body, made in conformity to action made by you on the "Times" puts each report of proceedings into type and publishes the same for one-third legal rate (30 cents per inch for 8-point type, 37 1/2 cents for bold type), we desire to advise that this rate is not only below the actual cost of production, but is properly subject to change from the fact that the "Times" now has nearly double the amount of subscribers had at the time such arrangement was made—thereby greatly increasing the value of its advertising space. The "Times" therefore proposes that it will, subject to your order and direction, continue to publish

FORMOST GERMAN ADVOCATE OF CRUELTY SAYS SUBMARINE WILL COMPEL COAST DEFENSE

(By United Press) LONDON, June 8.—Doomed by the most formost German advocate of "rightfulness," believes the submarine operations in the western Atlantic will force the United States to withdraw its chief naval forces to defend its coast. The German press sees it in close connection with the west front offensive, through the possible torpedoing of American transports.

HUN OFFENSIVE MUST BE STARTED AT ONCE QUESTION IS: WHERE?

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS (United Press Staff Correspondent) WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, June 8.—Hindenburg's third offensive is at a standstill. When and where he will begin his fourth is the question occupying the allied commanders.

CONGRESS MAY BALK AT TAX

EIGHT BILLION DOLLARS ABOUT TWO TOO HIGH, SAYS SENATOR SMOOT

(By United Press) WASHINGTON, June 8.—Congress is inclined to balk at Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo's demand for eight billion in war taxes. This sum, double the present revenue, is higher by $2,000,000,000 than is necessary, some members declare. Secretary McAdoo has included in his estimate of $2,000,000,000 for the year's expenditures about $6,000,000,000 for loans to the allies. Senator Smoot, senate finance expert, said today:

"These loans should not be figured in establishing the sum to be raised by taxation on the basis of McAdoo's for the year's expenditures about $6,000,000,000 for loans to the allies. Senator Smoot, senate finance expert, said today:

YANKEE TROOPS GO FORWARD IN FACE OF

AMERICAN MARINES AND INFANTRY ENGAGED IN DESPERATE HAND TO HAND ENCOUNTER—ENEMY ADVANCE BLOKED AT EVERY POINT

By LOWELL MELLETT (United Press Staff Correspondent) WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, June 8.—Up the main axis of the front, the American troops today, German counter attacks were blocked by the American advance.

Artillery fire, which has been incessant along the front throughout the night, increased violently about 4 a. m. At that moment the right wing of the marines attacked in the south part of the wood, where the Germans had retained a foothold. The success of this attack has not been fully reported, although numerous prisoners have been sent back.

Man Power to Waste In 1917 the Kaiser had on the west front 128 German divisions (1,538,000 men) and in Russia, the Balkans and Armenia 77 divisions (2,544,000 men). Since then the Kaiser has actually used against the allies between 100 and 170 divisions (1,820,000 to 2,040,000 men), or over 35 more than he had holding the entire front at this time in 1917.

There are now between the North and Southwest fronts two more divisions (2,400,000 men) and it is estimated that there are slightly under thirty-five divisions (420,000 men) still on the east front.

May Draw More Hindenburg still has a colossal army, but only a few absolutely fresh divisions are now in reserve and have not been used in the last three months. It is calculated that nearly twenty divisions must all the while have been in quiet sectors. More than twenty divisions have not been in the fight for some weeks and doubtless are under-going refitting and special training, making a total of perhaps fifty fairly fresh divisions (600,000 men) available in addition to those already on the battle fields.

LLOYD GEORGE WELL PLEASED

British Premier Pays High Tribute to American and American Fighting Men

(By United Press) LONDON, June 8.—"One of the most encouraging things in the superb valor and trained skill with which the Americans have participated in the struggle and defeated the foe," declared Premier Lloyd George in speaking at a dinner of the Printers' Pension Association last night. "It is most encouraging because they are arriving steadily in a great flow. It is in France, certainly, I met a statesman who had just returned from the front. He said he was full of admiration for the Americans and that their fighting was most encouraging. We are passing through a business time and the crisis is not passed, but with a stout heart we will put it through."

MANY JOY MARINES (By United Press) CLEVELAND, Ohio, June 8.—The gallant work of the marines on the Marne front, this week brought a big boost in France, certainly. I met a total of 195 recruits were shipped to camp in the last three days.

TOTAL SINKINGS OF WEEK NOW TOTAL TEN

(By United Press) NEW YORK, June 8.—Ten vessels, totaling slightly more than 29,000 tons were lost as a result of German submarine activities in American waters during the week ending June 8, according to unofficial figures compiled here. During the week ending June 1, 49 reported 219 tons of shipping. One of the biggest ships was the New York & Porto Rico Steamship company's liner Carolina. The toll of life so far is known to total 19, although the German navy has, in addition, a number of ships have been reported attacked unsuccessfully.

WAR WORKERS OF COUNTY INVITED FOR FLAG DAY

PLANS FOR OBSERVANCE OF EVENT HERE PROVIDE SECTION IN PARADE FOR RED CROSS UNIT

Red Cross chapters, branches and auxiliaries of Twin Falls county will be invited to take part in the observance here on Friday, June 14, of Flag Day, under the auspices of the local lodge of Elks. A section in the parade, which is to begin at 3 o'clock in the afternoon, is to be reserved for them and it is suggested that the members shall appear in white dresses and aprons, wearing the regulation headbands.

Thrift Stamp Girls

Another feature of the parade is to be the section allotted to the Thrift Stamp girls, to be organized under direction of A. Gubner, county War Savings Stamp director. After the parade these girls will circulate among the people in attendance at the exercises, selling Thrift Stamps.

A novel suggestion that may be carried out in the parade is that a section be reserved for citizens of foreign birth, who, by their appearance on this occasion, will manifest their devotion and loyalty to the land of their adoption.

The members of the Grand Army of the Republic and of the Ladies of the G. A. R. have been allotted a place in the parade and cars will be provided for their conveyance.

For Mothers of Soldiers

The mothers of men in the military or naval service also are to be given a prominent place in the parade, and arrangements are being made to provide cars for such of them as desire them.

Invitations will be extended to the several civic and fraternal organizations, not only of Twin Falls, but of the entire county as well, to attend and take part in the parade and exercises.

The parade is to form in the vicinity of the city park under direction of Sheriff Fred M. Kendall, who has been designated as marshal of the day, and will return to disband at that place, where an open air concert will be given by the Twin Falls band immediately thereafter.

Subsequent Exercises

The subsequent Flag Day exercises at which Ex-Governor James H. Hawley of Boise, and others are to speak, are to take place in the city park beginning at 8 o'clock in the evening. A dance in the Elks' hall to which the public is invited will be the concluding event of the day.

SUN IS DARKENED BY MOON TODAY

PATH OF TOTALITY OF ECLIPSE MISSES TWIN FALLS ONLY BY NARROW MARGIN

The eclipse of the sun this afternoon will be visible as a partial one throughout the United States, but along a comparatively narrow belt, extending from Golden Gate, California, in the north, to the Gulf of Mexico, in the south, the sun will be completely obscured by the moon's disk for a short time, or within this zone the eclipse will be total, according to Dr. J. H. Moore, of the Elks observatory eclipse section at Golden Gate, California, in an article written by him for the Payette Independent.

The path of totality passes diagonally across southern Idaho and in this state is only a little over sixty miles in width. It includes within its limits the towns of Weiser, Payette, Halley and Pocatello. The total phase will occur in Idaho points shortly after 5 o'clock p. m.

The moon's disk will begin the transit at the sun at about 4 o'clock, and it will be of interest to those who have the time, to follow its progress as it gradually obscures more and more the sun's surface. For this purpose, a smoked glass should, of course, be used.

Deaths

Mrs. Mary J. McCracken

At the home of her son, J. L. McCracken, 405 Third avenue west, where she had made her home since October last, when her children and grandchildren, including with whom she had previously resided, was claimed by death, Mrs. Mary J. McCracken died Friday evening at the age of 61 years. Her birthday was in April.

The funeral services in charge of Dr. A. H. Brand, pastor of the Twin Falls Presbyterian church, will be held at 8 o'clock Saturday evening from the residence of Mr. McCracken, and interment will be in the Twin Falls cemetery.

Dr. H. McCracken of Pocatello, a grandson, arrived here at noon today to attend the funeral services.

PUTS BAN ON SOME RACES

FAIR ASSOCIATION SEC. RETARY ISSUES STRINGENT REGULATIONS

Permission to use the race track on the Twin Falls county fair grounds at Elger for "matched races" will be given by Secretary J. M. Markel upon application, when such races appear to be honestly matched, but no permission will be given to run such races during working hours.

Hangout for Loafers

This is one of the provisions of regulations governing the use of the fair grounds which have just been issued by Secretary Markel. These regulations will be enforced during the season prior to the fair. The grounds have been used very largely as a hangout for loafers, Secretary Markel says, and such races have been run at times that interfered with the regular employment of the community.

Other provisions of the regulations are as follows:

- The grounds of the Twin Falls county fair belong to the county and are maintained by taxation.
- The control of the grounds is vested in the president and secretary of the board of directors.
- The track and bars may be used only by securing the consent of the secretary, who will keep a record of stalls assigned. Occupants of stalls must not make alterations without first securing consent of the secretary.
- Stalls, other than those assigned, must not be made use of for the purpose of depositing refuse of any kind.
- The track will be kept in such condition, and shall be worked at such times, as the secretary may direct.
- Automobiles and other heavy vehicles of this conference may be briefly summed up as follows: Because our conditions are changing constantly the conservation of dairy products is not desirable at the present and the widespread belief that it is helping the nation to conserve them is not true.

DON'T SUBSTITUTE FOR DAIRY PRODUCTS

IDAHO FIELD DAIRYMAN SAYS 'SOME CONSERVATION NOT BENEFICIAL—GIVES REASONS'

(By F. R. Canamok, Field Dairyman)

During these times of stress and trials when every American is, or should be, interested in doing everything to benefit the United States, we may in our enthusiasm fail to get the true viewpoint of our needs for conservation and increased production.

In addition to the difficulty encountered in making these needs most appreciated, the many trade substitutes that are advertised so extensively may mislead us into using inferior food that does not assist in our food conservation.

"An illustration of this harmful practice is the present situation of dairy products and their substitutes.

"At the dairy conference held in Chicago April 12 and 13 the situation was given careful consideration by the delegates from the dairy interests all over the United States. The recommendations are as follows:

- Permitted to use the track for "matched races" will be given by the secretary on application, when such races appear to be honestly matched, but no permission will be given to run such races during the working hours.
- Prohibits "Fixed" Races
- Any person, other than a jockey, who shall "fix" a race or indulge in unparliamentary practices shall be barred from the use of both track and bars.
- The grounds shall not be made the loafing place for unemployed persons.
- Gamblers, bootleggers and dissolute persons will not be tolerated, and persons found habitually loitering about the grounds will be reported to the proper authorities.

Wanted to Agriculture

The reason for this is the changed conditions caused by the over supply of dairy products which cannot be kept and stored indefinitely and the insufficient shipping facilities to relieve the excess supply. If this condition is not relieved, the dairy industry will suffer irreparable injury and since the dairy industry is a vital and necessary one in our agricultural development and on account of the present need of food to supply the allies, special efforts must be made to correct this condition.

In addition to the above reasons it has been demonstrated beyond the slightest doubt that the substance called "vitaminic," which is contained in dairy products, is essential to the proper growth and development of the human race and that this substance is not obtained in the substitutes.

Therefore, use all the dairy products you need and you will be doing your best for your country. The Food Administration does not desire that you use inferior substitutes for dairy products and conservation does not mean the annihilation of an agricultural industry essential for the food supply of the world in the present crisis.

Drink more milk, eat more butter and cheese and do not be misled by products and conservation does not mean the annihilation of an agricultural industry essential for the food supply of the world in the present crisis.

The University of Idaho extension division will be glad to lend any assistance to those who may desire references for the use of dairy products or give any assistance to any branch of the dairy industry of the state.

Most Make Up Loss

European nations, realizing the value of the dairy cow, have continually attempted to maintain the number of cows as far as it has been possible to do so and America must make up for the loss that they have sustained, through increasing instead of decreasing the number of our dairy cows. The number in the U. S. will decrease unless the returns from the product is sufficient to offset the cost of production and this in turn depends on the amount of surplus stored up or in other words—the supply and demand.

Therefore, use all the dairy products you need and you will be doing your best for your country. The Food Administration does not desire that you use inferior substitutes for dairy products and conservation does not mean the annihilation of an agricultural industry essential for the food supply of the world in the present crisis.

PERSHING TO DIRECT WORK OF RED CROSS

MRS. W. F. EDWARDS REPORTS TO TWIN FALLS CHAPTER ON SYSTEMATIZATION OF EFFORT

Measures that have been adopted by the American Red Cross to bring about more thorough systematization of its work...

There is much more definite plan for the future than there has been in the past. The quotas will be more in the nature of emergency calls...

The Red Cross is asked to deliver on September 1, 100,000 refugee garments including bayonets and 80,000 hospital garments...

Refugee Work Neglected

In the past the refugee work has been neglected. Too much has been done for the soldiers themselves, in proportion to what has been done for their families...

Message in Garments

You have no idea of the strange un-acceptable things that are sent in. You have no doubt all heard such remarks as 'If I was in the position they are in, I would be glad to get anything.'

Headquarters to Supply Material

In regard to materials, the quotas will not be sent out until the materials are in the warehouse from which to make them.

MAIL IS H

When your crop is devastated and you find you can't carry that message...

You never before had so much invested in your crop and you never had such large hospitals and you for money...

You can't afford to take the chance. Think it over on your wheat, beans, etc., before it is too late.

Landlord or tenant can insure a share of crop and pay insurance only on the part insured.

WORK OF RED CROSS APPRECIATED BY EVERY MAN IN ALLIED ARMIES FROM TOP TO BOTTOM—INTERESTING CHAPTER FROM ONE DAY'S WORK IN STATION ON FRENCH LINE OF COMMUNICATION

By GEORGE BUCHANAN FIFE (Written for the United Press)

BEHIND THE AMERICAN FRONT IN FRANCE, May 18. (By Mail.)—If the censor would look the other way for just a moment it would tell you the exact thing in the world to tell you the location of this particular American Red Cross canteen. But, as he never does...

The canteen was settling into early evening quiet. Only two of its many tables were occupied. At the counter across the lower end of the room one of the canteen workers was bent over able to buy all things needed direct from factories. This will control prices. Their aim is to furnish both garments and gauze cut, but it will take some time to work this out. We are asked to send in everything we have finished and not to store. They have a chance in the near future to make a large shipment when crops begin to come in, the space will be so limited that they wish us to think out shrewdly.

Record of Division: Mrs. Hilton said that this division has furnished out of 700,000 yards of material, 350,000 garments; 800,000 yards of gauze, 3,000,000 dressings; 150,000 pounds of yarn, 80,000 sweaters and 140,000 pairs socks. It is doing business on a $5,000,000 basis.

The salvage department is very flourishing, bringing from $100 to $1800 a month into the chapter. No scraps over hair combs, are too small. Their slogan is "Save the small scraps to win the big one."

Formerly the surgical dressings have been made according to the ideas of foreign surgeons. Now that our own surgeons are there, we have some new dressings to make that will be more convenient for them. These we learned to make, and the Spagnano was made of these the northwest division has an allotment of 500,000 to be made as soon as possible.

Knitting Trouble Prevalent: There has been more trouble with knitting than any other part of the work. The knitters being the slowest to give up their own individual ways...

Would Train Draft Men: Headquarters very anxious that all men in the draft shall have the instructions in first aid before leaving home, and we are urged to see that this is done, and the physician who in this work in charge is asked to enlist the aid of other physicians, if he is unable to give the required time.

One who says that all communities have classes in home care of the sick and dietetics, even when a certificate is not desired.

ordered most of the men back into their cars. With such a crowd of eager men there were more than two hundred on the train, an engineer detachment...

The door at the lower end of the long room was suddenly opened in great haste and the head of one of the graduates of the U. S. Provest Marshal's office next door popped into the light.

"There's a train just coming in with a lot of our boys on it," he cried. The account book closed with a snap. The humming ceased. The foot-leader sprang from her chair. Quick foot-steps sounded behind the partition.

Only Ten Minute Stop: "Do you stop about ten minutes." "Which track?" "Last one over, Miss."

If angels were endowed with the priceless gift of profanity, this answer might have received its proper due. Instead, however, it was accepted with a surprisingly mild comment, which, for all that, came valiantly through the partition.

With only ten minutes in which to get food to "a lot of our soldiers" which might mean thirty or three hundred—and every last one of them hungry as a bear, the canteeniers had not a moment to lose. While some were piling the reserve stock of jam, cheese and ham sandwiches in large baskets, others were filling tall, pitcher-like metal pots with coffee and chocolate from the purring steamers gathering up cups.

Traveling Under Difficulties: In pairs, with the baskets swinging between them, the pitcher-pots weighing them down on the other side, the tin cups clanking, they ran across the narrow roadway between two tall, white, humped and scrambled through a doorway and raced out upon the platform.

The nearest track was empty, the next-hold a long train of tightly coupled black freight-vans—the cars with the most important cargo in the second row beyond the freight!

Now, to meet women a freight train presents itself as a formidable wall; not so the Red Cross engine. So, when the four canteeniers had located their all unsuspecting guests, they dashed for the nearest opening between two coupled freight vans.

A tall, lean sergeant pushed through the group and held his hand to the trim of his hat. "Gee! I help you ladies!" "Indeed you can't get some of your men to take this down along the cars?" she thrust a coffee pitcher in his hand and here's a basket of sandwiches. We'll go up the other way.

By this time the entire place was in a good-natured uproar. To reduce the confusion and the crowding and to make distribution easier, the sergeants doorway as usual, this time, however, with the announcement that the train bringing in the American soldiers had only about one hundred and fifty aboard and that they would not pull out till 2 o'clock in the morning. All Hands Hungry: I was in the canteen when the detachments came in, headed by the captain a lieutenant, and a sergeant. It was as jumpy a crowd of tall, brown, lean-jawed Americans as one might ever hope to find. And it came in wondering at the place in which it found itself after eight hours of wear, lumpy travel with no sleep, and a drop save on a very distant horizon.

When the men came in there were six or seven French soldiers at one of the tables in the rear of the room. As the Americans flowed back in that direction, with the filling of the tables nearest to the floor, the poles instantly got up and one of them beckoned to a soldier and indicated the vacant places.

"That's all right, you keep it," the soldier replied, shaking his head. The Frenchman insisted, and so did the American, the former with much gesturing and the latter with perfectly good and unintelligible English. Finally the American turned to one of his fellows and said, "Say, Phil, get out your pocket-compass and tell this guy they're all right but we don't want to take their places."

But the Frenchman did not wait. He went up to the American, took him by the arm and insisted upon leading him to the table beckoning in the direction followed pointing to the empty chairs. The invitation was too gracious to be declined and as the Americans took the places the first of them thrust out an impulsive hand and grasped the pole by the shoulder.

"I know you don't get me, old man," he said slowly, "but I want you to know that I think you're all right, a regular fellow, see?" Enlisted Men First: And there was something in the tone of his voice that must have reached the pole. While the men were receiving their soup and sandwiches and coffee, the top-berth was everywhere about the room and neither he nor the two commissioned officers had either bit or up until the last enlisted man had been served.

"Don't you believe for one little minute that we'll ever forget your kindness," a soldier called out from the threshold. "And you just bet that I'm going to write home to the folks in Wyoming all about it!" "Thanks, and tell your mothers, all of you, that the Red Cross will take care of you every time it gets a chance!" came in answer.

COOL WEATHER IS FAVORABLE FOR GRAIN

Idaho Cereals Have Rooted Deeply and Headed Well, Says Weather Observer

The cool weather has been rather favorable for fall sown wheat, barley, and rye, says Clinton E. Nordquist, of Boise, meteorologist for the United States weather bureau, in a summary of weather and crop conditions in Idaho for the week ending Tuesday, June 4. The cereals have rooted deeply and are well headed, and are in excellent condition. They are heading in the warmer valleys. Spring wheat and oats are doing well in the irrigated sections, but in the dry farm districts, except where rainfall has been ample, conditions are not so favorable.

Getting Hay in Clearwater: Irrigated meadows and pastures are in good condition. The first cutting of alfalfa is being harvested in the Clearwater valley. The crop is not quite up to the average. Alfalfa has suffered frost damage in many localities, and its growth has been retarded generally by cold weather.

The lower range, especially in the western counties where there has been little or no rain recently, is drying badly and as a result cattle and sheep are being crowded into the summer range from ten to fifteen days earlier than usual. The upper range is in excellent condition and feed is ample. Stock has filled out in good shape and is doing well.

Fruit Prospect Not Improved: The fruit outlook has not improved much. There will probably be prunes and apples enough to supply local needs. In some orchards a 5 to 10 per cent crop of prunes is reported; on the Bowdoin bench estimates run as high as 25 per cent in some orchards. The few prunes left in the Western districts are dropping badly. The apples that escaped the freeze are growing nicely. Small fruit prospects are fair.

Sugar beet prospects are only fair. The crop was damaged by wind in Minidoka county and many fields will be plowed up and planted to potatoes. Good stands are reported in the Idaho Falls and Jerome districts, but in the former damage is threatened by cut-worms, which are very numerous. Thinning is in progress in Franklin county.

THESES ENLIST AT SUPPER

(Special to The News) RUFFERT.—The applications of three theses to the Red Cross for enlistment in the quartermaster corps, to leave on Sunday morning next, have been received by Private G. B. Fyfe, of the army recruiting station at Twin Falls, who spent the week here. The theses are William Green, George Nickerson, and Harold Lamb.

CRIMES AND PENALTIES

It is not without genuine regret that one learns of the fatality of a recent product of the over busy rummer factory...

The Kaiser has received a world's better in life beyond the grave. For the world believes that the innocent millions of France and Belgium and Armenia and Serbia and Roumania ought to have a chance to enjoy what was stolen from them by the Hun...

But, although the chief of the Hun has escaped thus far unscathed, there is no sympathy to be wasted over the fates of the millions of his followers who have paid and are paying the penalty of their blind obedience to his will...

The path of democracy and of humanity in the present crisis is plain. The war must be continued until, in the words of Secretary Lansing, "the Hun is sick of war and wants no more of it."

ONE REASON

If there is one single characteristic more than another of which the American people are possessed, it is probably that of purpose.

America was slow to get started. Of that there can be no doubt; but once it is, it is equally true that America will never quit until the job is finished.

It is "mail day" at a camp in France. The boys are crowding up to a hole in the wall and reaching out for the precious letters as a miser clutching for gold.

The Russian situation and the views of Lord George, the crop prospects in Italy measure very small along side of news about father and mother and Aunt Lida and the local ball team, and the girls who sit on the front porch and knit.

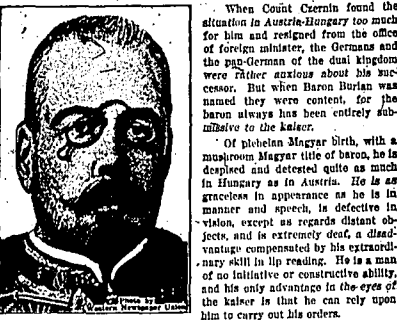

All the others squatted around, simply eating up the messages from back home and he off by himself, blue as indigo, wondering what is the idea and why they have forgotten him.

PEOPLE TALKED ABOUT BURIAN, TOOL OF THE KAISER

When Count Czernin found the situation in Austria-Hungary too much for him and resigned from the office of foreign minister, the Germans and the pap-German of the dual kingdom were rather anxious about his successor.

HAPPENINGS in the CITIES

Youngster Hadn't Much to Give, but He Gave It

DETROIT.—Holding tightly to a tattered book and with a bundle of papers under his arm, a small and very brown and dirty, curly-headed boy strolled up to a group of soldiers standing at the door of the armory Saturday, pulling at the coats of the men to attract their attention.

"Get along out o' here, sonny, we don't want any papers," said one, as the lad wriggled his way person into the group.

"Kiddie, you're alright; come here and let me see the book," said one of the men. The book, thumbed and dirty, with its gay-colored pictures streaked and partly obliterated, was a collection of Mother Goose rhymes.

"What are you, anyway, boy, an Italian?" asked a soldier. "New, I ain't an Eretalian; I'm a Serb," replied the lad.

The men then bought all the youngster's newspapers, carefully took the treasured old book into the armory, and sent the boy away happy with his pockets bulging with apples, popcorn and candy.

THE BREED HAS RETURNED

Adrian Smith and Gillian had told us that the dark ages were gone, never to return; that modern Europe was in no danger of the waste which had befallen the Roman empire.

The performance of stamps was first completed in England in 1833, for receipt and draft stamps, and for postage stamps in 1851. Prior to that period stamps were separated by means of scissors or a knife or similar means, and in some cases those of a required size were removed to the use of a roulette, a kind of cyphered formula with small cutters, making a series of cuts between the stamps.

At the Garden Gate

By GEORGE ELMER COBB

(Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union)

Bruce Tyrell and Alda Wrenn were acting out a sweet little love story all by themselves. So far they were only friends to each other, but their mutual conclusions revealed to them that they were fast drifting into that delightful phase of super-existence where life is one rose-tinted, delicious whirl of ecstatic joy.

It was by mere chance that Bruce had become acquainted with Alda. The biggest minstrel Hillsboro had never known was on the program in active display, one evening after Alda, who he was absolutely enraptured upon a rise of ground near the roadside, with no shelter except an open stock shed.

When Count Czernin found the situation in Austria-Hungary too much for him and resigned from the office of foreign minister, the Germans and the pap-German of the dual kingdom were rather anxious about his successor.

Of plebeian Magyar birth, with a mushroom Magyar title of baron, he is despised and detested quite as much in Hungary as in Austria. He is a man of no initiative or constructive ability, and his only advantage in the eyes of the Kaiser is that he can rely upon him to carry out his orders.

"Something ought to be done for those refugees. They'll begin to get frightened soon. There may be no danger but there will be some waiting soldiers and little tots when it begins to get dark."

Bruce studied the watery waste between the shed and the schoolhouse, and then tried to calculate how far the floating, flat stilled platform might be above the water level.

"You are Mr. Tyrell," spoke the other. "I have heard Alda talk of you. I have heard Alda talk of you and have seen you once or twice before this. I also know you are her close friend."

"How can we ever thank you for your wonderful work?" she flattered, as she stepped upon the raft. "What is that?" she asked, with a quick backward glance. Then she shuddered. A grinding creak had sounded out; the underpinning of one end of the schoolhouse had given way.

were so very close together that he seemed to whisper to her at times. Then as they arose to separate, Alda seized both hands of the handsome young fellow and held in a fervent clasp, meanwhile looking earnestly into his eyes.

"Who can he be? And she?" reflected Bruce in a troubled way. "Can it be possible that her heart is already engaged and that I am blindly hoping for a love that can never be mine?"

"I can hardly break the engagement for this evening," mediated Bruce, "but tomorrow?"

"I had better wait to attend a party at Wildwood, a few miles distant on the trolley line," Bruce called for her that evening. Never had she looked so beautiful.

"Oh, yes, I had it when I got aboard the car." She shook her dress and they peered through to the trolley station. It was bright moonlight, but their searching eyes discovered no trace of the missing article of jewelry.

"That's all right," he said, "I'll return and wait till the car comes back on its return trip. It may be that you lost the locket on the car."

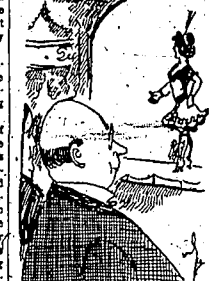

"That's a minute, please," spoke a voice behind him as he neared the Wrenn home, and Bruce faced a new, astounding circumstance. Turning, he confronted the original of the photograph.

"You are Mr. Tyrell," spoke the other. "I have heard Alda talk of you. I have heard Alda talk of you and have seen you once or twice before this. I also know you are her close friend."

PROCLAMATION

On June 14, 1777, the Congress of the United States at the suggestion of General Washington, declared the national flag to consist of thirteen stripes, seven of which are to be red and six white, and thirteen stars on a blue background.

The flag represents the nation. It is a symbol of our unity and our common purpose. It is a symbol of our freedom and our independence. It is a symbol of our strength and our courage.

To every loving American, to every man, woman and child, to every American citizen, to every American representative government, let us all join in the prayer that the flag may be a symbol of harmony in mechanical construction, is depicted, although she may be naturally respectful on account of the strength the represents, in all foreign lands and courts.

Issued at Twin Falls, Idaho, this 8th day of June, 1918. E. F. BRACKEN, Mayor.

HEAPS OF DEAD LEFT ON FIELD

GERMAN RUSH IS STOPPED—AMERICAN SOLDIERS SHONE CREDIT

By LOWELL MELLET (United Press Staff Correspondent) WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, June 8.—We have obtained our object—no objective, as we had no objective. We simply were determined that the German rush should be stopped. It's stopped.

The lull in the fighting in the middle of this morning, permitted us in checking up of the results of the four day operation. Three Divisions Defeated It is now positively known that the Americans defeated three divisions (300,000 men) of Prussians and Bavarian Infantry for three successive days. They took hundreds of prisoners and left heaps of German dead on the field.

Americans Exceed Orders While the marines were thus occupied, the Americans on their right showed forward almost four miles instead of the two, and a half that had been ordered.

SUN GAZERS GATHER TO STUDY SOLIPSE

DEWEY, June 8.—Astronomers from everywhere are here today to view the total eclipse of the sun from the mountain peaks in the vicinity of Denver.

The telescope at Denver University is in great demand, because of its accessibility, but only a few of the high degree will be permitted to look through it during the afternoon.

Scientific expeditions from universities throughout the world have invaded the Pacific Northwest also. Many astronomers have set up their telescopes in eastern Oregon, where clouds, which are rare at this time of year.

The sun, why it is there and what it is made of are questions upon which every scientific total eclipse is expected to throw light.

Miss Lovie Williams entertained here last Tuesday afternoon at a Ken-Ed party, and Miss Helen Porter of Washington, who is the honoree of Miss Hester Warner for one of her parties, was the guest of honor.

PLEADS GUILTY TO STATUTORY CHARGE

A. L. RISSEB, FORMER CHIEF DEPUTY SHERIFF, ADMITS GUILTY DURING SELECTION OF JURYMEN

Twenty-four hours after the first jurymen in the trial of his case had been called, and before the entire jury had been secured, A. L. Risseb, former chief of police, pleaded guilty to a charge of violation of a statutory offense, entered a plea of guilty in district court here at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon.

Deprived of Course of Events Risseb was much affected when taken from the court room Friday noon over a difficulty experienced in securing a jury.

Second special venire summoning five men as prospective jurors in the case had been called when the plea was entered.

At 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, on the second day of the trial in district court here, A. L. Risseb, formerly chief of police of local church choir, charged with commission of a statutory offense, the forty jurymen called on the regular panel and the first special venire had been exhausted and their replacement one place to be filled in the jury list.

EXODUS AMONG BYSTANDERS

The court instructed the bailiff to select a candidate for the place from among the bystanders. A general exodus of the spectators resulted.

The court thereupon ordered a second special venire to summon five men for jury duty in the case to report at 3:30 o'clock.

Ninth Chair Hoodoo

The ninth chair, during the process of selecting the jurors in this case, has been occupied by fourteen men. When the second special venire was ordered, all the other places were occupied by prospective jurors who could be dismissed only by preemptory challenge of attorneys for the state or for the defense.

"OLD WITTING OF THE HUN"

BY LEUTENANT PAT O'BRIEN

CHAPTER I.—Introduction, Pat O'Brien tells of the purpose in writing the story of his adventures.

CHAPTER II.—Tells of his enlistment in the Royal Flying Corps, his training in Canada and his transfer to France for active duty.

CHAPTER III.—Describes flight in which he was shot down by German airplanes and his final flight in which he was brought down wounded within the German lines.

CHAPTER IV.—Discovers that German hospital staff barbarously neglected the fatally wounded and devoted their energies to making the wounded prisoners returned to the firing lines.

At this time in this prison camp there were a French marine, a French flying officer, two Belgian soldiers, and of the United Kingdom from Canada, two from England, three from Ireland, a couple from Scotland, one from Wales, a man from South Africa, one from Algeria, and a New Zealand soldier, the latter being from my own squadron, a man whom I thought I had never seen and he was equally surprised when brought into the prison to find me there. In addition there were a Canadian and myself from the U. S. A.

It was quite a cosmopolitan group, and as one typical Irishman said, "Here, and we have every nation that's worth mentioning, in a large camp of Germans with us whites." Of course this was not translated to the Germans, nor was it ever spoken in their hearing, or probably would not have had quite the same effect.

Each man in the prison was made to uphold his native country in any argument that could possibly be started, and it goes without saying that I never took a back seat in any of them with my main forerunner, the Canadian, Fred and Chittam, coming in on my side. But they were friendly arguments; we were all in the same boat and that was no place for quarreling.

Every other morning, the weather allowing, we were taken to a large swimming pool and were allowed to have a bath. There were two pools, one for the German officers and one for the men. Although we were officers, we had to use the pool occupied by the men. While we were swimming a German guard would stand across his knees at each corner of the pool and watched us closely as we dressed and undressed. English interpreters accompanied us on all of these trips, so at no time could we get away without their knowing what was going on.

Whenever we were taken out of the prison for any purpose they always paraded us through the most crowded streets—ordinarily to give the population an idea that they were getting lots of prisoners. The German soldiers we passed on these occasions made no effort to hide their smiles and sneers.

The Belgian people were apparently very curious to see us, and they would run up to us in numbers whenever the word was passed that we were out. At times the German guards would strike the women and children who crowded too close to us. One day I smiled and spoke to a woman who was in the crowd, and a German made a run for her. Luckily she stepped into the house before he reached her, or I am afraid my sanitation would have resulted seriously for her and I would have been powerless to have assisted her.

Whenever we passed a Belgian home or other building which had been wrecked by bombs by our aircraft, our guards made us stop a moment or two while they passed sneering remarks among themselves.

One of the most interesting souvenirs I have of my imprisonment at Courtrai is a photograph of a group of us taken in the prison courtyard. The picture was made by one of the guards, who sold copies of it to those of us who were able to pay his price—two mark pieces.

One of the camera I suppose we all tried to look our happiest, but the majority of us, I am afraid, were too sick at heart to raise a smile, even for this occasion. One of the Hun guards in whose picture I am standing directly behind him, attired in my flying tunic, which they allowed me to wear all the time I was in prison, as is the usual custom with prisoners war. Three of the British officers shown in the picture, in the foreground, are clad in "shorts."

Through all my subsequent adventures I was able to retain a picture of this interesting picture, and although when I gaze at it now it only serves to increase my gratification at my ultimate escape, it fills me with regret to think that my fellow prisoners by this very high and make wonderful speed

But we had no chance to put this idea to the test.

I worked out another plan by which I thought I might have a chance if I could ever get into one of the German aircraft. I would conceal myself in one of the hangars, wait until one of the German machines started out, and as he taxied along the ground I would rush out, shoot at the top of my mind and point carefully at his wheels. This, I figured, would cause the pilot to stop and get out to see what was wrong. By that time I would be up to him, and as he stopped over my head the machine I could knock him senseless, jump into the machine and be over the lines before the Hun could make up their minds just what had happened.

It was a fine dream, but my chance was not to come that way. There were dozens of other ways which we considered. One man would be for endeavoring to make his way right through the lines. Another thought the safest plan would be to swim some river that crossed the lines. The first of making one's way to England, a neutral country, occurred to everyone, but the one great obstacle in that direction, we all realized, was the great barrier of barbed and electrically charged wire which guarded every foot of the frontier between Belgium and Holland, and which is closely watched by the German sentries.

This barrier was a three-foot affair. It consisted first of a barbed wire wall six feet high. Six feet beyond that was a three-foot wall of wire powerfully charged with electricity. To touch it meant electrocution. Beyond that, at a distance of six feet, was another wall of barbed wire six feet high.

Beyond the barrier lay Holland and liberty, but how to get there was a problem which none of us could solve and few of us ever expected to have a chance to try.

My chance never came. I expected.

CHAPTER VI. A Leap for Liberty.

I had been in prison at Courtrai nearly three weeks when, on the morning of September 24th, I and six other officers were told that we were to be transferred to a prison camp in Germany.

One of the guards told me during the day that we were destined for a special camp in Brussels. They were sending us there to keep our aircraft from being bombed.

He explained that the English carried German officers on hospital ships for a similar purpose and he excused the German practice of torpedoing these vessels on the score that they also carried munitions. When he pointed out to him that France would hardly be sending munitions to England, he lost interest in the argument.

Some days before I had made up my mind that it would be a very good thing to get hold of a map of Germany, which I knew was in the possession of one of the German interpreters, because I realized that if ever the opportunity came to make my escape, such a map might be of the greatest assistance to me.

With the idea of stealing this map, accordingly, a lieutenant and I got in front of this interpreter's window one day and coughed in a very hot argument as to whether Heidelberg was on the Rhine or not, and we argued back and forth for some time. The German came out of his room, my hand, to settle it. After the matter was entirely settled to our satisfaction.

tion, he went back into his room and I searched when he put the map down. When, therefore, I learned that I was on my way to Germany, I realized that it was more important than ever for me to get that map, and with the help of my friend, we got the interpreter out of his room in some pretense or another, and while he was gone I confiscated the map from the book in which he kept it and concealed it in my sock underneath my leggings. As I had anticipated, it later proved of the utmost value to me.

I got it done too soon, for half an hour later, we were on our way to Ghent, where we had to wait for several hours for another train to take us direct to the prison camp in Germany, two other prisoners were added to our party.

In the interval we were locked in a room at a hotel, a guard sitting at the door with a rifle on his knee. It was here I had done my heart good for the rest

FISHERMEN CROWD ROOK CREEK STREAMS

Opening Day of Season Is Marked by General Exodus of Describes of Walton.

(Special to the News) ROCK CREEK—Saturday and Sunday were the opening days of the fishing season and the canyon south of here was full of cars, wagons, horses, bicycles and motorcycles until there was standing room only. With the removal of the trout for a number of seasons and such crowds every Sunday, it is small wonder that there are no fish large enough to be called by that name. At this rate the supply will soon be exhausted, as there from a distance pay no attention to the law in regard to the size of the fish which may be taken, anything long enough to be caught is kept.

The wooden shoe outfit left Sunday for the spring runoff. Because of the scarcity of help, they will not take a mess wagon this year, but will join with the Shoshone outfit, which now has one of the grand rigs for the same reason, hoping will be more popular than usual.

The stock men have been busy during the past week hauling salt to the mountains and distributing it as the forest ranger directs.

NEWSPAPER MAN LOSES ONE EYE

FLOYD GIBBONS OF OHL CAGO TRIBUNE INJURED BY HUN FIRE.

(By United Press)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, June 8.—The circumstances of the wounding of Floyd Gibbons, correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, were related today by one of the officers who accompanied him. They were on their way to visit an American machine gun emplacement on Thursday evening. As they were crossing a small open space in Busseron wood, a hidden machine gun opened fire on Gibbons and the effects dropped in the grass and lay quietly for a while.

Presently, some decided to jump and run. This apparently included Gibbons and one of the officers. Five minutes later they heard Gibbons say: "I love 'em all." They asked him where he had been hit. He replied: "In the eye."

They decided to let Gibbons lie in the grass until dark. When they crawled over Gibbons was helped to an ambulance in which he was taken to a Paris hospital.

Gibbons lost the sight of one eye. He also has a slight wound in the arm.

GOLD CUP WAS JUST PEWTER

KAISSER'S OMT A JOKE BUT RED CROSS BENEFITS JUST THE SAME

(By United Press)

NEW YORK, June 8.—Here's the real up-off on the Kaiser:

Remember that solid gold cup he presented to Wilson Marshall, the American yachtman, for winning the race across the Atlantic, back in 1905?

It was designed by the Kaiser himself and was reputed to be worth $5000.

Marshall donated it to the Red Cross and it was auctioned, say, for $25,000.

The cup recently was broken up to obtain the gold for other purposes. The result was only officially announced today.

The "solid gold" cup was just excellent German pewter—worth at least $7.

EVERYONE READY TO VIEW ECLIPSE

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, June 8.—At five minutes of three today the people of Aberdeen, Washington, will greet the eclipse of the sun, which will move from the east to the west coast of the United States. It will leave this country at Orlando, Florida, at about 6:30 this evening.

A party from the United States Naval Observatory here created an observatory in Baker Park, from which they will observe the phenomenon.

The different western points, which the eclipse will touch are:

Aberdeen, Wash., 2:55 p. m. (Pacific time).

Baker City, Ore., 3:03 p. m.

Pocatello, Idaho, 3:12 p. m. (mountain time).

SAMUEL GOMPERS REPLIES TO HUNS

(By United Press)

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 8.—"Back here, you Hunks, you're a lot of you," says Gompers, "but you've done the honors of democracy and peace-loving people. Back into your own country, learn the meaning of respect for your fellowmen, and then we will be able to talk peace with you, and make a profit out of it."

This was the expression of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, here for the annual federation convention, when told that Germany might launch another peace drive.

The general belief is that if McAdoo can get along with whatever additional tax a stiff message in preference and income levels will bring, there will be no difficulty in getting the bill through quickly. But if it becomes necessary to broaden the field of taxation and include new articles, a long fight is certain.

The ways and means committee continued hearings today.

GERMAN SEAPLANE SENT TO BOTTOM

(By United Press)

AMSTERDAM, June 8.—One German seaplane was set afire and sunk when seven German and five British seaplanes fought a night engagement off Vlieland island, the Handloberd declared today.

Two British planes landed on Dutch territory and their crews were interned. Vlieland is an island off the entrance of the Zuider Zee.

PLEDGE OPPOSITION TO CONSCRIPTION

(By United Press)

DUBLIN, June 8.—Women throughout Ireland will sign a solemn pledge against conscription tomorrow on the festival day of Saint Columbkille.

Many churches will be utilized as gathering places. Afterward there will be floral processions. Irish leaders have appealed to the women to observe fast as a national prayer day "for deliverance of Ireland from perils."

The pledge to be signed reads: "Because enforcement of conscription without consent is tyrannical."

"Resolved, that we will resist; that we will not fill the places of men deprived of work through refusing enforced military service; and that we will do all in our power to help the men who are suffering through resistance."

The demonstration will be particularly significant because war propaganda, including conscription, are attributed to Saint Columbkille.

United Press War Summary

1400th day of the war; 80th day of the high offensive.

France

French forces co-operating with the American marines of Chateau Thierry made further advances on the northern portion of the front, at the same time repelling two violent German attacks on the southern portion.

The French have improved their positions west of Soissons. Artillery was active in the Aisne region of the front.

Germany

The British made successful raids near Hulluch, between LaBassee and Lens. The German artillery was active north of Albert.

Flanders Front

British patrols inflicted casualties on the enemy in the Strasselee sector, in the northern portion of the front.

France

A French commission has prepared for the defense of Paris.

Germany

Reports from neutral sources persist that the German navy is preparing for a major stroke against the combined British, French and American sea forces. The German high seas fleet is said to be under orders to move at any time.

Russian

Ukrainian peasants are burning the forest, ending German and opposing German dominance.

Petrograd

Workmen are trying to induce the Russian peasants to send bread into the city for the starving population. If negotiations fail, force may be employed.

PETITION FOR IRRIGATION DISTRICT IS HELD UP

The hearing on the petition for the establishing of an irrigation district embracing part of the second congressional district came up before the pending county commissioners on last Monday, says the North Side News, Jerome.

Strong opposition to the formation of the district developed when it was learned how the creation of the district would affect the tract, and especially as to securing farm loans. Signers of the petition representing 18,000 acres filed with the board their withdrawals, and they were represented before the board.

There was a lively time before the board and a half-dozen of considerable length by those promoting the district. Both sides had retained legal advice board and a talkfest by those promoting the district of considerable length. Both sides had retained legal advice and the attorneys were also present and took a hand.

The result of all this was that the board of county commissioners was thrown into some confusion, also, and decided to go slow at least. Hence they reserved decision on the petition until they could advise with their county attorney, who was not present at the meeting, as to whether the board had jurisdiction in that matter and also as to the effect the withdrawals would have should they be legal and in proper form.

Action will be taken in a few days, but as a matter of law The News is informed that the board has thirty days in which to act on the petition if it cares to avail itself of the full time allowed.

HIS LITTLE FLING

By JACK LAWTON.

(Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union)

Richard had lived an uneventful life. Raised by two exacting aunts, he had grown up to be a man of existence. Marie, his sister, had shared the same monotonous but comfortable fate. Any custom but that of the little town's conformity was frowned upon.

Richard passed duty through high school, entered the Grovetown bank, became chief clerk and continued passively his daily routine.

Marie taught eventually in the school and read at times from books approved by the two dominating ladies. Marie's life promised so blood exactly into what there was today.

The Grovetown schoolgirls of the day had grown up and stood him smilingly now upon the streets; there his interest ended.

Perhaps it was the first breath of spring that turned him, to rebellion, or perhaps the sentence of a story.

"One must have his little fling," the story had insisted, and Richard realized suddenly and indignantly that he had never had any "fling" at all.

Everything had been arranged and ordered for him.

"Going to spend my holiday week in the city," he told the banker abruptly and departed. By long distance phone he later notified his astounded family.

"Do you suppose he has gone to see the dentist?" Marie asked.

"Urgent and private banking business, undoubtedly," declared the older aunt.

But Richard had gone to "have his little fling." His vision of an untrammeled good time was rather vague. There would be vaudeville shows of course, famous movies and meals at the biggest hotels. "He repeated having an accurate idea of the city's joys things alone was not satisfactory. "If one knew a companionable man or—Richard actually blushed—"an exceedingly attractive girl like the boss of the stores" and that was all of his meditation.

"Why, she objected, "I might be married."

"But you are not!" Richard questioned.

"No, I am not," the girl admitted. She considered, "I have an engagement to this evening; would tomorrow afternoon do?"

He agreed with alacrity.

Dashed Richard passed out of the glittering dining room. "How remarkable it had all been! Never before had he freely indulged and talked with a young woman who had always been an uneasy desire for fight. Now his one desire was to see again this dartsily lovely creature. If he might only persuade her to accompany him through various pleasure trips of the week to come. And there it was, only to persuade. One might almost imagine her as eager for companionship and free-hearted amusement as himself. Twice she had permitted him to see her at the home where she was to give a host. A home in a fashionable district it was, but all that Richard could learn of the girl was her name, Faith Stanton. Of her own home life she was reticent.

Richard had introduced himself by card. Miss Stanton did not further present him to her hostess. But of the girl's life or people Richard cared nothing. With the headlong impulsiveness of this his first adventure he had fallen irreversibly in love.

Then, before he himself knew what he was doing, Richard proposed.

The girl's prompt and flat refusal brought him quickly to earth. "You do not know me at all," she alighted. "I am very different from what you think. Nothing could have been further from my heart's desire."

The Grovetown home when he returned seemed duller than ever, the bank routine more distasteful.

Then, one day, a familiar tone at his window arrested his aching heart. "Come here," called a voice. He was in the city, standing at a school friend's wedding when it met you, wanted to know how it would seem to live as other girls do, and she let me wear her clothes." Faith touched her hair with a grimace. "Mother's maid was me was it."

Through the barred window Richard caught and held the girl's hands. "Oh! I'll be whiskered." "Oh! I'll be coming to see you tonight."

There is progress in everything. Yesterday's methods are crude today. Science, improved equipment, new and latest ideas in service are available in every line of endeavor.

GENERAL PERSHING DIRECTED ATTACK

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, June 8.—General Pershing, commander-in-chief of the American forces abroad, personally directed the attack that resulted in the capture of Cantigny, a few days ago, the senate military affairs committee was told today at the meeting of the war council.

Something to do.

Santa Maria.

Santa Maria, Columbia is one of the great banana ports. After the days of the Spanish Main, when it was the scene of hot fighting between Spanish and English, and won a place in the romance of Kingsley as the setting for the great battle, Santa Maria sank into a tropical slum that lasted until the banana-business was put on a world wide basis by a great corporation. The banana shippers awoke her, and now there is a great air of activity and bustle in the old bay.

People Who Are Too Good.

We have in this world all kinds of organizations for making bad people good and good people better, but I know of none for making too good people—well, let us say, normal. We have all known people who would have been great. Santa Maria sank into a tropical slum that lasted until the banana-business was put on a world wide basis by a great corporation. The banana shippers awoke her, and now there is a great air of activity and bustle in the old bay.

Removing a Broken Caster.

A broken caster may be withdrawn from the leg of a piece of furniture by tapping a hole in the center of the stanchion, and threading in a machine screw, thus securing a screw hole under the head of the screw. One side of the washer is supported by a block of wood, or leather, while a claw hammer, or "jimmy," is used to pry out the broken part.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Little Doubt About It.

Mary and Bobby were playing on a pocket fence when Mary accidentally slipped and her little dress caught on one of the pickets and held her suspended about ten feet from the ground. Bobby tried to rescue her, but in vain; he could not release her, so he said: "Never mind, Mary, I'll go and call a plumber." And poor little Mary, hanging by the lone picket, replied earnestly: "All right, Bobby, and I'll wait for you here."
