BOLSHEVIKI IS APPROACHING FINAL DAYS OF LIFE

RUSSIA THREATENED BY FOREIGN IMPERIALISTS ON NORTH, WEST AND SOUTH—COUNTER REVOLUTION IS STEADILY GAINING STRENGTH

EDITOR'S NOTE

Joseph Shaplen, who has been in Russia seven months and who obtained the first authentic description of the aims and plans of the Bolsheviks, through an exclusive interview with Trotsky, has succeeded in penetrating the armies of the warring factions and reaching Stockholm. From this central city he is sending us the following comprehensive dispatch on present conditions in Russia. All direct dispatches from that country have been subjected to delays of many days and even weeks for some time past.

By JOSEPH SHAPLEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

STOCKHOLM, June 10.—The counter-revolutionary movement in Russia is growing. The Bolsheviks are living their last days.

In the present regime is overthrown by the combined efforts of other revolutionary democratic parties, there will be a counter revolution of the monarchial supporters in Moscow and Petrograd, similar to that which occurred in 1917.

Sporadically, aided by the bourgeois and cadets, is ruling Ukraine and has victoriously restored the old regime. Mensheviks in Finland and Krassovsk in the Don regions, have triumphed like him. In a similar way the provinces of the Baltic region have been occupied, while the provinces of Pskoff and Minsk are under the banner of Austro-German imperialism.

Russia is threatened by foreign imperialists on the north, west and south. The Turks are again advancing in the Caucasus, aiming to unite at Odessa with the Germans, who are advancing from the north.

With unbroken cunning, by friendly visits through General Alexander Mikha, Germany is gradually approaching the heart of Russia, in order to pierce it at the desirable moment.

Alliance of German and Russian troops fronts—the inner and the outer—are preparing for a final and complete counter-revolution.

Last week, in Moscow, a plot was discovered in which hundreds of revolutionaries aimed to kill the republic and restore the monarchy, thus causing uprisings in Moscow, Petrograd and other cities, in co-operation with German bayonets.

Need—An Undertaker

It is still impossible to forestall immediate developments, but it is certain that the brief respite is nearing its end, however much the Bolsheviks seek to lengthen it. The Bolsheviks themselves admit:

"We already are a corpse, but there is no one to bury us."

The Bolshevik regime, due to methodical violence similar to the old czarism in its efforts to pierce us, is universally hated. The proletariats are leaving the Bolsheviks en masse.

All factory workers in Petrograd have organized. Their conference demands a council, democratic forms, abolishment of the Week-Lidovsk treaty, and formation of a national, Socialist Russia, in order to restore industry, inaugurate social reforms and end civil war.

The Bolsheviks planned to dissolve the conference but got cold feet. The conference is planning a general strike unless the Bolsheviks yield.

Facing Final Battle

There is no doubt that the Russian revolution is facing its final battle, in the country revolution and German intrigue. This will decide the fate of democracy in Russia. The forces at the disposal of the soviets are too weak to meet the situation. Both the proletariat and the peasantry are deserting the Bolsheviks, they finally realizing the Bolsheviks are on the verge of being overthrown.

PARIS IS AGAIN OBJECTIVE OF HUN STRATEGY

By J. W. T. MASON.
(United Press War Reporter)

NEW YORK, June 10.—Von Hindenburg's new offensive between Montdidier and Noyon is an attempt to capture the important French communications center at Compiègne and duplicate Von Kluck's famous advance on Paris during the early weeks of the war.

Return to Former Plan
Hindenburg is returning, in fact, to the original German strategy of 1914, in all its details. This month's advance to the Marne is no more than a repetition of the plan directed over the same ground in the summer of 1914 by the Saxons general, Von Lossow, while the present advance against Compiègne is acceptance of the strategic policy of Von Kluck. Both Von Hase and Von Kluck are now in retirement because of their failures. Their impetuous efforts were ordered by General Foch's famous counter offensive south of the Marne and General Foch now faces the same situation that confronted Marshal Joffre in August, 1914.

Back Against Time

Ever since the time that the Germans now, as it did then. The operation in 1914 to capture Paris and so end the war in the west before Russia could develop her major offensive. In the same manner, Hindenburg is now attempting to reach Paris in the hope that he can no longer war before America's major offensive begins. There is this difference, however, between the situation then and now:

The allies had no large force of reserves protecting the rear of the front. In 1914, while General Foch's principal reserve strength is at present concentrated southwest of Compiègne, where he is strongly blocking Von Kluck's old pathway to the capital.

Gain will Come High

At no point south of Amiens are the allies better prepared to resist the German advance than between Montdidier and Noyon. Every hundred yards gained by Hindenburg in this sector can only be at a cost in casualties equalling the highest slaughter of German manpower during the First offensive. General Foch has a special railway service running into the Compiègne for the rapid movement of troops.

PLAN NEW METHOD OF U-BOAT DEFENSE

By CARL D. GREAT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 10.—New secret methods of operating against the German coastal U-boat raiders were unveiled today by the operations section with the advice of the naval commanding board, these plans have been communicated to Rear Admiral Cameron Winslow, inspector of Atlantic naval districts. He spent the week-end conferring with Admiral Benson, chief of operations and left last night. The reports are said to be in final stages. All naval districts have been told to report all incidents off shore and these will be carefully reviewed here in order to bearing on the general situation.

United Press War Summary

Fourteen hundred and eighty day of the war; eighty-second day of the big offensive.

Pleasantry Front

The new German drive between Montdidier and Noyon, constituting the fourth west offensive, was begun Sunday morning and left last night. The Germans gained only about a mile in this offensive.

Marne Front

Flanders Front

British troops made a successful raid northwest of Bapaume.

Lorraine Front

The Germans are continuing their concentrations opposite Toul and Nancy. Premier Clemenceau announced that he is satisfied with the situation resulting from the new German drive.

Russia

Joseph Shaplen, coming from Stockholm, where he has just arrived from Russia, said the Bolsheviks are on the verge of being overthrown.

WOULD REACH OISE VALLEY BY NEW ROUTE

THIRD ATTACK GOING FORWARD BETWEEN MONTDIDIER AND NOYON INDICATES THE HUN VIEW THAT THIS CONSTITUTES EASIEST WAY

By HENRY WOOD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES IN THE FIELD, June 10.—Folled in their march to penetrate the Oise valley from the north and thence from the east, the Germans have launched a third great attack between Montdidier and Noyon for the purpose of reaching the Oise from the west.

The Germans began Sunday's attack with ten divisions (120,000 men), but suffered such heavy losses they were forced to engage other divisions before night.

Part of Paris Plan

The German staff apparently is ultimately convinced that the Oise valley offers the most likely opportunity for advancing toward Paris.

The present attack was for the purpose of linking up the Montdidier salient, created by the Germans in their first offensive, with the Chateau-Thierry salient created during the past two weeks' advance.

Sunday's attack, launched by General von Hoyer, followed the same tactics which caused the heaviest preceding offensive efforts. They made an initial strike through Swampy attack. German infantrymen leaped to the assault in successive waves.

French Do Good Work

Despite the Hun's efforts at secrecy and their use of gas, French artillery was able to maintain a constant preparation throughout the enemy bombardment.

The desperate efforts with which the Germans launched their new assault is indicative of their realization of the absolute necessity of ending the war before "America's full strength is in touched."

Owing to an extremely heavy concentration, the French were able to inflict terrific losses on the Germans from the moment the attack began.

HEAVY DAMAGE IS CAUSED BY FLOODS

TEN THOUSAND ACRES OF FARM LAND UNDER WATER—BUSINESS COMPLETELY STOPPED

By United Press

MUSCATINE, Iowa, June 10.—More than ten thousand acres of farm land are inundated here it is estimated $200,000 damage has been done to crops as the result of floods caused by the Iowa river at Wapella, Chicago, Muscatine and Oakville. The levee at Wapella yielded before the immense pressure of the flood early yesterday. All business had been suspended in Wapella Saturday to permit the entire community to help fight the flood. Railway services here have seriously crippled, practically all trains being detoured through Muscatine.

AMERICANS REPULSE GERMAN ATTACK

By United Press

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Reports Sunday of another German attack north of Chateau-Thierry was reported today in General Pershing's communication.

Southwest of Chateau-Thierry, the enemy made a fresh attack during the night on our positions in the vicinity of Bourchenes," the statement said.

The attack, which was preceded by artillery preparation and accompanied by heavy machine gun fire, broke down by severe losses to the assailants. In this region and along the Marne sector the day was marked by decreased artillery activity.

ROOSEVELT INDISPOSED

PREPARE TO LAUNCH BIG NAVAL ACTION
(By United Press)

MILAN, Italy, June 10.—Reports are in circulation here that the German admiralty is preparing a huge naval strike against the allies.

Orders are said to have been given the high sea fleet to be in instant readiness to move. Numerous high German naval officers have been recalled from Switzerland and all forms of absever have been suspended.

SERIOUS REVOLT AMONG AUSTRINIANS

By United Press

LONDON, June 10.—A serious revolt has broken out among the Austrian troops concentrated on the east front, according to an undated dispatch from Klief, received through Moscow today.

NEW REGISTRANTS MAY VOLUNTEER

Can Join Navy or Marine Corps With Permission of Local Employment Boards
(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Under a new ruling made by the provost marshal general which was announced today, the twenty-year-old registrants may voluntarily enlist in the navy or marine corps after securing permission from their local boards.

Reports from all over the country show registration of the 21-year-old men is less than expected. Official figures show less than 500,000.

By United Press

WASHINGTON, June 10.—That President Wilson and Secretary of Labor Wood have successfully acted to avert a strike of commercial telegraphers was indicated in high official circles today.

MANY CHILDREN ARE KILLED BY HUN FIRE

By United Press

PARIS, June 10.—The bishop of Soissons has reported a hundred children in his diocese have been destroyed by the Germans and that many women and children have been killed by German aviators.

"What a wonderful claim toward glory for Germany," he is quoted as saying.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL AMERICA SUCCESSFULLY WEATHERS ALL STORMS

By United Press

WASHINGTON, June 10.—Financial and commercial America is ready for the fight to the finish. Accomplishing an almost complete economic readjustment in thirteen months, American business has set a record in meeting war conditions. In the nine federal reserve bank statements, details are presented showing the gradual decrease in commercial mortality as evidence that business men have been able to cope with war problems.

Exclusion of banking and other fiduciary suspensions, the first three weeks of May show only 694 commercial failures. In the same period of 1917, 841 firms were forced to close.

Crop conditions have improved decidedly in the last month. The labor question still threatens to hamper the war effort, but there are indications of improvement. Wages, generally, are on the increase.

Practically complete cessation of building activity, except for government work, according to the report of the Federal Reserve bank, has been averted by the government officials to conserve money, men and materials.

HUNS GAIN ONE MILE IN COMPARISON WITH 3 MILES ON FIRST DAY—FRENCH AND AMERICANS CONTINUE TO ADVANCE

By FRANK J. TAYLOR
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LOBBRADE, June 10.—American observers report continuation of the German concentration of troops opposite the Toul sector and further east, opposite Nancy. Bombardments and airplane battles are increasing.

Military men still hold the opinion that the Germans are not contemplating an attack in these sectors, but more likely fear an American push.

The Journal de Geneve, in a recent issue, announced that the Americans are holding forty kilometers (about 25 miles) of front in Lorraine.

According to prisoners, it is now necessary to take one of the present German divisions to make one of complete strength. The enemy lines are still sparsely held. American patrols find it difficult in overrunning Noyon's land. The first two Hun trenches are almost deserted every night.

Hold Fast on Marne

While the fourth attack of the German organization was breaking out between Noyon and Montdidier, the American organization to hold firm on the Marne.

In addition to beating off the enemy attacks on Bourchenes (five miles west of Chateau-Thierry), and an assault against Hill 204, they advanced and occupied the edge of the wood of Vaux (two miles west of Chateau-Thierry), which was still occupied by the Germans. Later they returned to their own positions from this latter advance.

The heaves continued to shell Bellefontaine but the marines were still holding that place.

The American lines in Plenny (west of Noyon) and northwest of Montdidier, were bombarded in conjunction with the German attack between Noyon and Montdidier.

MINE OWNERS CAN FOLLOW UP VEINS

Supreme Court Sustains Ruling of Nevada Courts in Mining Claim Case
(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, June 10.—The supreme court decided today that the owner of a mining claim on whose property the "apex" of an ore vein lies has the right to follow that vein into, and through an adjoining claim.

REPORT SINEING OF SUGAR SHIP

LEWES, Del., June 10.—A sugar ship was torpedoed and sunk off the Virginia coast at 10 o'clock today, according to a pilot who arrived here this afternoon.

Members of the committee announced that a number of hearings will be held before the finance committee members.

Others stated that conditions are nearly improved.

Shipments of battle planes to the front abroad can be kept up steadily, committee members are convinced, and before long this will obviate the need for French and British planes on the American coast.

MOMENTUM OF NEW DRIVE GIVES OUT QUICKLY

HUNS GAIN ONE MILE IN COMPARISON WITH 3 MILES ON FIRST DAY—FRENCH AND AMERICANS CONTINUE TO ADVANCE

By United Press

PARIS, June 10.—The new German drive between Montdidier and Noyon showed down before the French resistance yesterday evening and last night, the French official communique indicated today. Gains of but a mile were made in the center and the allied wing in comparison with the initial penetration of three miles.

Simultaneously American and French troops advanced again northwest of Chateau-Thierry, taking 250 prisoners and 30 machine guns.

French Concede Losses

On the left wing several violent attacks were broken up by French fire. Courcelles-Bryennes was taken and several times lost and finally was held by the French.

On the right the French held south and east of Ville (three miles southwest of Noyon) taking five hundred prisoners.

In the center, new German forces made slight progress reaching the southern outskirts of Cuvilly (eight miles southwest of Montdidier), Beasnois-Matz wood (a mile and a half southwest of Cuvilly) and the same distance southwest of Reasnois-Matz (village) and Balinges-Chataux (four miles south of Lesval).

Between the Ourcq and the Marne, German losses were reported: east of Vincy (two miles west, and north of Chateau-Thierry).

"French and American forces gained ground near Buglars (seven miles west and north of Chateau-Thierry), capturing 250 prisoners and thirty machine guns."

LONDON REPORT

By United Press

LONDON, June 10.—The initial momentum of the new German drive between Montdidier and Noyon, carried the Germans forward to a maximum depth of about three miles in the center, while the wings, as in their previous drives, were held with unimportant gains. It was indicated by the night official reports.

The greatest penetration was made at Beasnois-Matz and Marouillet-Motte, where the Germans obtained a foothold, the French war office said. On the right the enemy reached Beasnois, LePrény and Montcoron. On the right they reached Beval, Canteau-coast and Ville.

Referring to this attack, the German war office announced that "west of the Oise, we have captured the heights of Gury and adjoining enemy lines." Gory is two miles north of Marouillet-Motte, and represents an advance of only a mile.

HARD TO FORECAST RESULT OF RAIDS

BRITISH OFFICIAL SAYS POSIBLY EXISTS OF TRANSFER OF U-BOATS TO THIS SIDE

By ARTHUR E. MANN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
LONDON, June 10.—"It is too early yet to forecast what the presence of a German submarine off the American coast may portend," said Sir Eric Geddes, first lord of the admiralty, in an interview with the United Press today. "On the one hand it may be merely a sporadic raid similar to that carried out by the U-53 earlier in the war, or it may mean the beginning of a serious submarine campaign off the American coast. "The vigorous and successful British anti-submarine campaign in our waters has made submarine operations very costly to the Germans and perhaps they calculate on getting better results along the American coast. In this, however, they will be undoubtedly disappointed, since all our experience over here has been placed without reservation at the service of the American administration, which will thus be able to use its anti-submarine measures on practical results. "There is no indication that there has been a sudden increase in the number of enemy submarines. On the contrary, there is no doubt we are sinking submarines faster than the Germans are building them. "Must Make Short Visits
Sir Eric pointed out that there is some advantage in forcing the submarines to operate farther from the American bases. "The longer they have to travel to reach the operating zone, the less fuel and supplies they will have and consequently the less time they will have to spend in the operating zone," he said. "In reply to a question regarding the type of submarine appearing in American waters, the first lord declared: "Possibly a submarine of the converted Deutschland type is being used. "It is a hull of the old, but probably of a type with a long cruising and operating radius." "Sir Eric said it is possible the Germans might have been able to establish a fuel depot on the American coast at some isolated point, but he does not believe a submarine base has been established. "A submarine base means more than a fuel depot," he said. "That includes a repair dock. After a submarine has been out for three weeks it usually needs overhauling. It is pretty difficult to establish such base on a small coast. There would be no much chance of establishing it on a less carefully guarded coastal coast."

PLUNDER FREELY SHOWN

DUBLIN, June 10.—The women's anti-conscription pledge was generally ignored throughout Ireland, it was ascertained today. There were no disorders. "Within the frontiers of a desolate, God-forsaken jungle on the dark, silent coast of Africa the giant of a white man, reared by an ape mother, roams and kills. He slays the lion and tigers with his bare hands, the jaguars flee at his terrible cry, the massive elephants fear him. The dreadful gorilla and stealthy panther are but babes in his hands, all the terrible beasts of the jungle skulk away at his approach. Then comes the beautiful white girl, and Tarzan of the Apes takes her to his breast and covers her face with kisses. This astounding picture coming soon for two days only. THE WAR TODAY

By J. W. T. MASON
(United Press War Expert)
By J. W. T. MASON
(United Press War Expert)

NEW YORK, June 10.—Continuation of the American assault northwest of Chateau-Thierry can be expected if General Foch wishes to persist in his efforts to shove the Germans back from the Marne and re-establish the availability of his Marne communications. The immediate purpose of the brilliant exploits of the American marines in the vicinity of Torgy is to swing the German front so far backward as to pinch the Germans out of Chateau-Thierry. Outfanking operations of this character present the only practical means of expelling the Germans from the present German position along the Marne cannot be assumed by a frontal attack except at a cost of very heavy casualties. The allies would have to cross the Marne in the face of concentrated machine gun fire, which could not fail to exact a costly toll. It is not a part of General Foch's strategy to duplicate Von Hindenburg's policy of frontal slaughter. For this reason a frontal attack across the Marne is not to be expected. The two flanks of the German Marne salient open to far more dangerous assaults. It is along the west-south flank that the Americans are now operating. This is the better side because it is in direct touch with a perfect system of communications. The Americans have now worked their way to within four miles of the main highway connecting Chateau-Thierry with Soissons. The cutting of this road by American marines would seriously interfere with movement of German supplies into Chateau-Thierry and would begin to threaten the whole system of communication with the German Marne front. The only important railway running through the German lines to the Marne is less than a mile east of the Chateau-Thierry-Soissons road. Its capture by the Americans would compel evacuation of Chateau-Thierry unless Von Hindenburg is prepared to run the grave risk of the capture of the town and entire garr. Chateau-Thierry has been to three heavy reinforcements into the sector under American fire. Any further American fighting in that area must be against increasing odds. The enforced abandonment of the Marne front by Von Hindenburg would cause great depression in Germany and the Kaiser's general staff will do all it can to hold fast for the time being.

BOLSHEVIST IS

The terrible consequences of the bread-bank crisis.
There is complete disorganization of Russia's financial and economic life in most districts, the Bolsheviki remaining in power only because of their "iron discipline" as a slogan as daylight they will be unable to solve the colossal problems.
Not Too Late Yet
Only the combined democratic elements will be able to organize a real army to end the disorganization of the whole of Russia. It is not too late to accomplish this, through a united democratic government, but the Bolsheviki prefer to swallow daily ultimatums from Germany. The Bolsheviki press also has surrendered, and is concentrating its attack on the members of the light and the Mensheviki, knowing the peasantry and workmen are going to the latter.
Petrol and Moscow are now short. The former is virtually starving, the population getting about an eighth of an ounce of bread a day.
Soon, however, something will burst. The workmen themselves are preparing to overthrow the Bolsheviki to save the republic before growing counter-revolution restores the monarchy.

Beyond All Price.

Gifts from the hand are silver and gold, but the heart gives that which neither silver nor gold can buy. To be full of goodness, full of cheerfulness, full of sympathy, full of helpfulness, causes one to carry with him blessings of which he is himself unconscious as a lamp-light of its own shining. Such a one moves on his man life as stars move on dark seas to bewildered mariners.

Carillon.

This is the name given to a set of bells arranged in such a way as to be capable of giving forth a regular tone, or melody. A much greater number of bells is required for a Carillon than is hung for a general peal of bells. A large peal of bells consists of 10 or 12, while a Carillon may consist of as many as 30 or 40.

Discovery of Easter Island.

Easter Island was discovered nearly 200 years ago by the Dutch Admiral Roggeveen, who cast anchor there on Easter Sunday, whence it derived its name. He found it more largely populated than it is now. But he and his crew must have seen and marveled at its bold rock sculpture, its terraces and walls, its picture writings. Many of these, which are the world-famous relics of Mexico and Peru, while they are strangely akin to them in conception and design.

Proper Care of Palms.
To make palms thrive in a drawing room, sponge the leaves once a week with lukewarm water to which a little milk has been added. After this milk the pot in lukewarm water high enough to completely cover it for two hours. This is the only satisfactory method of watering; and many plants are killed every winter because people neglect to water them properly. Pouring a little water on the plant is of no use, and standing it in a saucer of water does very little good.

BOMBS LEAVE NO SCARS IN LONDON

OVER ONE HUNDRED ATTACKS TO DATE BUT WAR WOUNDS HEAL QUICKLY.

(By United Press) LONDON.—It takes a long time for a building to be torn from war-wounds in three days of labor shortage but, considering the number of bombs that have been dropped on London, there are few outward signs that the Metropolis has been under 100 bombardments from the air.

Once a Zeppelin dropped a huge weight of high explosive among the middle of a place made famous by the song "Tipperary." It was one of the heaviest blasts London ever experienced, and two miles away it sounded like the roar of a great pile of lumber falling down. For a block the chunk of steel, and there wasn't a whole pane of glass for several hundred yards.

Two Englishmen who were in New York at the time heard about this bomb from some American news just over a week ago. Three months later they returned here and took the first opportunity to go down and look over the ruin.

Same Old Storm Here

Their information seemed to be wrong, however, for the same old drop from the trunkstore and the tea-shop which were reported to be badly smashed looked just the same as they looked a year ago. The customers were filling in and out and the streets were busy with shopping, as of old. Even the signs on the buildings seemed to be the same.

There was a slightly different look about the corner but it was hard to put your finger on it. As you studied it a while you could see that the stores had a new appearance, and that the old signs had lost that jaggedness.

They were in the big window, and had been broken in the same old way. The shapes the filling to represent the contents of the original—where the damage had been more serious the architectural experts rebuilt the damaged portions in exact reproduction of the original. The old signs were replaced.

Just A Bit Fresh

Today that corner looks just as it did a year ago before the bomb dropped there except that there's an unusual freshness in the architectural details.

It may be pride and perhaps it is just expediency that causes the English property owner to heal wounded buildings as he does. Some people think that the British is able to legitimize the bomb's damage by the fact that the second day after the war and point out that what London was not reduced to ruins—wasn't even altered by the raids.

In some places there are whole rows of wrecked cottages. It seems appropriate that German bombs should first strike the little houses, for the little are so fragile and the wrath of a bomb so powerful. The mighty German smashed the little Belgians. Yet the bombs are not nearly so effective against the average strength of a big office building which the little are held and battled to a standstill by forces of equal size.

One old building of historical importance has not been repaired, where a Zeppelin bomb smashed up some ancient stone railings and carved figures. The copper on the corner says that the government intends to preserve this building in this condition as a war relic.

"I don't think they'll be using it as evidence to show to the Germans and neutrals after the war," said the cop.

GRAIN SAVING WOULD SUPPLY COUNTY'S NEEDS

MORE EFFICIENT THRESHING IS URGED AS MEASURE OF WAR-TIME ECONOMY

Indicative of the importance of the threshermen's school which the Twin Falls county grain threshing committee organized under the direction of the federal food administration, is arranging to hold in Ellers on June 20, 27, and 30, County Agent Donald McCrean has compiled figures showing that a saving of one per cent of the wheat crop grown in Twin Falls county this year will mean a saving of 45,000 bushels of wheat worth $90,000 and an amount sufficient to make 3,000 sacks of flour, which is more than required to supply the consumers of the county for one year. The wheat crop in this county this year will total 4,200,000 bushels, which is double the amount grown here in 1917.

Waste Figures High

Grain loss in threshing, throughout the United States, amounts annually to three per cent of the crop, according to estimates prepared by the food administration. In Twin Falls county the waste has been in some instances as high as 10 per cent, County Agent McCrean says, and in one case it has been called to his attention, fully 50 per cent of the grain went through the separator with the straw.

At the school in Ellers, experts will be instructed by the instructor in matters affecting the most efficient operation of their machines.

In connection with the threshermen's school, a grain grading school also will be held, if arrangements to this end are arranged with success.

County Committee Helps

In addition to the instruction given by expert threshermen, the threshermen of this county will be given the advice and assistance as required, of the county grain threshing committee, which is composed of County Agent Donald McCrean, County Food Administrator C. E. Munson and T. H. Irwin. The last named member, who, according to the regulations, must be a retired thresherman, was named by the county council of defense at a recent meeting.

Encouragement Given Plan

Plans for holding the school are progressing favorably. In response to the invitation of the county committee, Captain H. E. Quomburg of New York, in charge of the grain threshing division of the food administration, advises under date of June 7, that he has referred the request to Idaho Food Administrator B. F. Biehl, and that if the school is recommended by him, an expert instructor will be sent from Washington to assist with the school.

Representative Allison T. Smith, is a regular of the same date, advice that he has conferred with food administration officials in regard to the request, and that he hoped to be in a position to give news of their favorable action in the next few days.

Oodets to Parade—A section in the Flag Day parade in Twin Falls has been reserved for the high school and grain schools, who for several months past have been instructed in the school of the soldier under direction of Sergeant W. They will be named on this occasion with the "dummy" rifles recently bought for them by subscriptions of local business men.

CONGRESSMAN'S SON REGISTERS FOR DRAFT

Walter Shoup Smith, younger son of Representative and Mrs. Addison T. Smith, was one of the registrants in the Castleford district Wednesday under the selective service regulations. His attempt at voluntary enlistment from the Twin Falls unit of the Idaho national guard regiment was called into question last March, 1917, was defeated because of defective records. Later he attended school at Ames, Iowa, and is working now on a farm south of Hull.

The other registrants in the Castleford district were: Augustus Arville, Castleford; Tolla Drew Davis, Castleford; Charley Huston Siro, Berryville; Admarus and Herbert George Nanz, Highland Park, Illinois.

Murtough Lists Five

Five young men were registered Wednesday under the selective service regulations at Murtough. They were: Wyatt Mastor, Joplin, Missouri; Owen Foster Hoskins, Miller; Louis Lewis Jain, Murtough; Charles Jackson Egbert, Murtough; Jesse Bryan Strong, Murtough.

Three at Hollister

BURLEY OFFERS COUNTY OFFICES FREE OF CHARGE

At a meeting, Tuesday, the Burley city council passed a resolution in which they offer to furnish quarters for the county officers and the court room for Cassia county for five years for the sum of $500, or $100 per year, if the county seat is moved to Burley, this fall, says the Burley Bulletin.

The council also voted themselves to call an election to enable them to donate free of charge to the county a portion of the block in which the city hall is located as a site for the courthouse when same is needed. The resolution also sets forth that the campaign for the removal of the county seat shall be carried on in a fair and friendly manner and in a spirit of cooperation throughout the county.

Notice of the intention to circulate the petitions calling the question to a vote at the coming general election are now out.

TOWN FOLK WILL GAIN

(By United Press) ROCK HILL, S. C., June 10.—Plans are being made here for a community cannery to take care of surplus from war gardens so there may be no waste of food. An expert from Clemson college has commended the city on its fine showing of home vegetable plots, which have been aided by fine growing weather.

F. M. Powell, acting secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, has been supplied with a lot of free garden and canning manuals from the National War Gardens Commission to help the city farmers. A series of home demonstrations are being given throughout the summer so pretty shelves may be filled with garden products.

Musk A Chinese Monopoly

Musk is one product of world commerce in which China practically enjoys a monopoly—not a large one, to be sure, since the annual output is at best only some $100,000 gold, but the product itself is worth many times its gold value in these days of high exchange, says the Far Eastern Review, Chunchin.

Pith returned Saturday evening from Oakley, where he spent last week on a similar mission.

Three Brothers Would Enlist.—The local group of three brothers who have applied here for enlistment in the marine corps since Sergeant W. B. McCraen was placed in charge of the local recruiting station, appeared Saturday in the persons of Forbes Alvin Christopher, Orville Charles Christopher and Leo Adolph Christopher, all of Burley. Two of the brothers were accepted for enlistment, but the third, greatly to his disappointment, was rejected on account of physical disability.

Will Break Army Horses.—Tex George Martin, of Hagerman, who was during the winter and spring employed by the Sioux Hole Cattle company at Rock Creek, left here Saturday evening for Jacksonville, Florida, where he will enter the regular service of the national army quartermaster corps. His work there will be to break horses for the army. The local board granted permission for his special voluntary enlistment in this branch, permitting him to serve at an occupation with which he is most familiar.

SLIGHT DEFECTS BAR TO ENLISTMENTS

Hagerman Boys Meet Better Disposition at End of Journey Here

Disappointment at the end of a thirty mile automobile trip awaited Harry McCrow and Edw. E. Nantz here, Wednesday, when they applied at the local recruiting station for enlistment in the army. They had been directed to report here by the postmaster at Hagerman. On account of physical disabilities, neither could be accepted. McCrow has one stiff finger on his left hand, and Noble is unable to pass the eye-sight test with his right eye although the vision of his left eye is normal.

To remove marks and discolorations from brass or silk ornaments, picture frames, etc., dissolve a piece of soft soap the size of an orange in a pint of boiling water, then add a tablespoonful of ammonia. Osgood Orange Toughest of Woods

One of the toughest of woods is that of the so-called Osgood orange, which, however, and an orange at all, but belongs to the nettle family. Some idea of its strength may be had from a report made last long ago by the forest service, which shows that a block of timber long 2 1/2 inches by 2 inches in cross section, when bent breaks under a stress of 18,000 pounds.

Word Has Had Many Meanings

The term "pocket handkerchief" is one of the queerest in our language. In the first instance it meant (concealer), a covering for the head; then it became handkerchief, a covering for the hand carried in the hand, and at length pocket handkerchief, a covering for the hand held in the hand and kept in the pocket.

Destructive Grasshopper

The average grasshopper weighs one-thirty-second part of an ounce and is capable each day of consuming its own weight of corn or wheat or foreign crops. Thus it would appear that the number of these insects eaten by nesting birds daily would be able to destroy 37,200 tons of crops yearly, at an average of $10 a ton, $374,320.

LABOR MEN TALK OF WINNING WAR

ANNUAL CONVENTION OF AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR OPENS AT ST. PAUL

(By United Press) ST. PAUL, Minn., June 10.—Labor's part in winning the war is the chief topic of discussion at the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, which opened in the Metropolitan Hotel here today, to remain in session until June 22.

For the first time in the history of the federation, it is said, the federation convention was not addressed by the governor of the state in which it met. J. A. Burnquist, governor of Minnesota, was not invited to welcome the delegates, as a result of long standing ill feeling between him and the Minnesota Federation of Labor.

Representatives of the British and Canadian labor assemblies will talk during the convention. A representative of the federal government is expected later today. Carl Van Dyke, congressman from this district, came back from Washington to talk.

The only important convention fight, it was predicted today, will be those to elect Frank Morrison, secretary, and J. P. Valentine, third vice-president of the executive council.

Miss Maud Egan and Sergeant W. B. McCraen Are United in Marriage

In the presence of a few relatives and immediate friends at St. Edward's Catholic church recently at 5 o'clock Saturday evening, Miss Maud Egan of this city, became the bride of Sergeant William B. McCraen, who has been in charge of the local marine corps recruiting station since it was opened here on June 23, 1917. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Father N. P. Hahn. The young couple left in a motor car, after the ceremony for a brief wedding trip, returning to this city Sunday evening.

The bride has been for nearly three years just a stenographer in the employ of the Irrigated Lands company, and has made her home here with her sister, Mrs. Frank Keckwith. She is widely and well known among the younger people of the city.

Responsibility the Cure

If there is anything that shows what a man or woman really is it is responsibility. It makes those taking a stand in the fall of things they can really justify their claims. If a person who consistently boasts his greatness can stand under the test and burden of responsibility, then his success is assured. If he falls in this test he loses his friends. Until such persons regain their position they are despised and rejected.

Grateful Wildcat Gets His Benefactor in Trouble

SAN FRANCISCO—Fred Hall, pioneer of Shingletown, Cal., is sorry now he befriended a female wildcat two years ago. Hall was traveling along Battle creek on his snowshoes one day when he came upon a wildcat and her two young cubs...

Since then, the mother wildcat and her cubs—now grown to full size—have paid Hall regular visits. Each time they bring Hall a present of some dead animal—not always freshly killed animal, but a deer in his possession...

Needless to say, the game warden did not believe Hall's story. But Hall asked them to remain a day or two and see for themselves. The officer accepted the invitation and two days later the three wildcats appeared...

...inches, and spent a couple of cans that night, after which I perhaps ten miles before daylight. I located in one of my bushes, lying there all day in my wet clothes and finishing my sausage for food. That was the night I made up the name distance, but became very hungry and thirsty before the night was over.

For the next six days I still figured that I was in Germany, and I was living on nothing but cabbage, sugar beets and an occasional carrot, along with the goat milk I got out of the fields. The water I drank was often very rank. One night I lay in a cabbage patch for an hour lapping the dew from the leaves, with my tongue!

During this period I realized that I must avoid meeting anyone at the guard's. I was in the enemy's country and my uniform would have been a dead give-away. Anyone who captured me or who gave information from which my capture would be known might have seen a handsome reward. I knew that it was necessary for me to make progress as fast as possible, but the main consideration was to keep out of sight, even if it took me a year to get home; which was my objective.

From my camp I estimated that I was about thirty-five miles from Strasbourg when I made my leap from the train, and if I could travel in a straight line I had perhaps one hundred and fifty miles to travel. As it was, however, I was compelled to make many detours, and I figured that two hundred and fifty miles was nearer the extent of the journey ahead of me.

In several parts of this country I had to travel through forests of young pine trees about the size of a child. They were very close together and almost as if they had been set out. They proved to be a serious obstacle to me because, I could not see the stars through them and I was relying upon the heavens to guide me. I knew I am not a navigator, but I tried to follow the stars when I was free. I did not know the stars when I was here!

I believed it rained every night and day while I was making my way through Germany and Luxembourg. My tentative program at this stage of my journey was to travel steadily all night until about six in the morning, when I would commence looking around for a place wherein to hide during the day. Low bushes or woods back from the road, as far as possible from the traveled pathway, usually served me for this purpose. Having found such a spot I would drop down and try to sleep. My overcoat was my only covering, and that was usually soaked through, either from the rain or from sweating.

The only sleep I got during those days was from exhaustion, and it usually came to me towards dusk when it was time for me to start again. It was a mighty fortunate thing for me that I was not a smoker, because I have never used tobacco in any form. I was very fully repaid for whatever pleasure I had foregone in the past as a result of my habits in that particular, because my sufferings would certainly have been much more had I had had to endure a craving for tobacco.

About the sixth night I was so drowsy and exhausted when the time came for me to be on the move, that I was very much tempted to sleep through the night. I knew, however, that that would be a bad precedent to establish and I wouldn't do it.

I plugged wearily along and about 11 o'clock, after I had covered perhaps four miles, I set down to rest for a moment on a stack of brush which was sheltered from the drizzle somewhat by other stacks which were stacked there. It was daylight when I awoke, and I found myself in the German back yard. You can imagine the state of my mind when I got up out of that neighborhood and I made up my mind right there and then that I would never give away to that "ired feeling" again.

In the daytime, in my hiding place, where it happened to be, I had plenty of opportunity to study my map, and before very long I knew it almost by heart. Unfortunately, however, it did not show all the rivers and canals which I encountered, and sometimes it fooled me completely.

Meaning of White Spots on Nails.
One who has white spots on the nails should not become alarmed. These do not point to an early death, but are rather due to inferior nutrition and may be regarded as a warning that poor health, mental or physical, may be expected unless it is guarded against.

The Missus on Charge.
The editor of the Jefferson Review recently took his first vacation in a large number of years, and in his latest issue remarks: "That visit of ours has a queer way of running business. She handles all the money she takes in, but doesn't pay our bills. Works all right one way, but has kept us busy since we got home."—Oregonian.

Taste and Imagination.
Taste is merely a matter of imagination, says scientists and it is asserted that tests have been made where chopped olives and been called raw potatoes, but this was when the serving apparatus was out of commission. People do not know what tastes are.

Bought Information.
It was at a Shakespeare club in a small country town. The president of the club, a young lawyer, was giving the views on the Shakespeare-Sacco controversy, and closed his argument thus: "I feel sure Shakespeare wrote the plays, because he was a lawyer. No common man could have written them." A third little woman, catching his eye, inquired anxiously, "Are there then no uncommon men but lawyers?"—Judge.

Monkeys Cleverly Trapped.
Monkey hunters went about in boots, which they take off in sight of the monkeys and plaster the soles with gum. The imitative animals, when the tent is clear, come down from the trees and on the boots. Thus they are trapped, for they can no longer climb.

LOYALTY KEYNOTE OF LABOR SESSION

ORDINARY TROUBLES ARE BURIED UNDER PATRIOTIC DISCUSSIONS

(By United Press)

ST. PAULI, Minn., June 10.—American union labor opened its "win the war" meeting today when the delegates to the 25th convention of the American Federation of Labor went into session here. Ordinary labor troubles were buried under patriotic discussions of securing maximum production.

Loyalty to the government was the theme of opening addresses.

There were early hints of federation politics when it was whispered that Secretary Frank Marshall would be opposed for reelection. The Typographical Union is expected to nominate its secretary, J. W. Hays, for the place. Elections will be held near the close of the two weeks' session.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Cooler Weather Predicted—Fair and cooler weather tonight and Tuesday is forecasted for the Twin Falls district in the prediction of the United States weather bureau transmitted this morning through the local telephone exchange.

Takes Remains to California—The remains of Thomas McConna, head salesman for the Borate Security Trust company, who was killed Friday afternoon when an automobile in which he and four others were driving five miles north of Jarbidge, Nevada, tumbled over into the river, were taken to Los Angeles, California, for funeral services and interment Sunday evening by his wife.

Nine Go to Shipyards—Nine Twin Falls men enrolled as common laborers by George B. McGraw, district examiner for the United States employment service, left last week for Seattle to work in the shipyards. Those who left Friday were James Fisher, John C. Gottin, and Arthur R. Barker. Those who left Saturday were Albert F. Brown, Ephraim M. Crofts, Amos H. Pettinell, Carl B. Sanders, Frank Wilson, Rufus O. Mullikin.

Farwell for Marine Recruits—A farwell to men recruits will be given this evening for several recruits for the marine corps from among well known young men of Twin Falls, who are leaving for Salt Lake to complete their enlistments and receive assignments to training stations. The band and escort will assemble with the recruits at 5 o'clock at the intersection of Main avenue and Shoshone street, and march to the depot. Among those who are leaving are Ismael W. (Ace) Ganger, Thomas L. Gault, Albert Herbert L. Conger, Withur R. Leonard, Earnie A. Bailey, Guy E. Harris, all of Twin Falls.

Four Sentences Two—Judge W. A. Babcock in district court here Monday morning pronounced sentences of three months imprisonment in the county jail upon A. L. Risser, formerly director of a local church choir, who entered plea of guilty to commission of a statutory offense; and sentenced a sentence of from one to 14 years imprisonment to the state prison upon J. A. Treadwell, convicted of passing a fictitious check. Risser has been a prisoner in the county jail since the commission of the offense with which he is charged on February 2, 1918, and Treadwell was arrested and brought back from Green River, Wyoming, on May 18, 1918, in answer to the charge on which he was held.

POPULAR-LOCAL PAIR WED IN SALT LAKE

Miss Sarah Higgins and Frank French Are United With Quiet Ceremony

At St. Mark's cathedral in Salt Lake Sunday afternoon, Miss Sarah Inghis Higgins and Frank French, both of Twin Falls, were united in matrimony, the Rev. William McPherson officiating with the double ring ceremony. Owing to the recent death of the bride's father, Dr. T. C. Higgins, the wedding was a quiet affair with only immediate relatives present. The bride and her mother, Mrs. Mary P. Higgins, and her brother, G. H. Higgins and family moved to Salt Lake from Twin Falls the latter part of the week. The bride is a well known and accomplished musician of Twin Falls. After graduating from high school she studied music in New York and Chicago, after which she traveled throughout the United States as a cellist and pianist in lycium work. Mr. French is a native of England. He came to Twin Falls nine years ago and as a contractor and builder has been identified with the development of "progress" in Twin Falls and vicinity. After a visit with friends in California, Mr. and Mrs. French will be by boat to Portland, where they will make their home.

MARRIAGE LICENSES

Marring licenses were issued in Twin Falls Saturday to the following: William B. McCracken and Maud Eggen, both of Twin Falls. Will Hobson, Buhl, and Elsie Chandler, Farmington, Washington. Alford P. Barrow and Ester Howard, both of Buhl.

PERSONALS

Mrs. J. L. Alger of Buhl was in town Saturday. Michael Behrs of Jerome spent Saturday here.

Effective Thursday morning, May 31, and continuing until the completion of road improvement work now in progress, the Shoshone falls grade will be closed to traffic of all sorts except between the hours of 6 o'clock p. m. Saturdays and 8 o'clock a. m. Mondays. By Order of the County Commission—adv.

NAVY OPENS RECRUITING OFFICE IN TWIN FALLS

Traveling Party of Naval Officer and Men Here to Extend Opportunity for Enlistment

An unusual opportunity for men of Twin Falls and vicinity to enlist in the navy is made available upon the arrival here Sunday of a traveling recruiting party of officers and men under the command of Ensign H. M. Delaney, which will spend several days here. Medical Officer S. V. Hooker accompanied the party, and a complete physical examination is given. The recruiting quarters of the party have been opened at 110 Main avenue north.

Thousands of men between the ages of 18 and 35 are needed in the navy for all branches and the navy department has authorized steps to be taken so that the many desirable men in these sections may have full benefit of this preferred branch of our government service.

Qualified trainees in any line are wanted, also men with fundamental experience along certain lines who are desirous of becoming skilled workmen. Officers' material schools have been established and are open to men possessing the necessary qualifications and education.

Authority is granted Ensign H. M. Delaney to give furloughs before reporting where circumstances warrant. The superior pay of the navy and the desirability of this branch has brought a large number of men into the navy in the short time recruiting has been authorized.

Men of experience and character have been attracted to the U. S. naval service for very reason of the active service being for the duration of the war, the balance of the four year enlistment being in civil life subject to call only in case of national emergency. Every opportunity and encouragement is given to enlisted men to qualify for the higher ratings and commissions.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Federation of Rural Women's clubs will meet at their annual picnic Wednesday in the city park. A dinner will be served at noon to the club members and their families, followed by a talk by Miss Margaret C. Cochrane, Washington, D. C., on the national suffrage amendment.

OFFERS TRAINING COURSE

The government's call for trained nurses will take every available nurse. Already the scarcity of trained nurses is felt in civil life both in and out of the hospital. Believing that many girls would be willing to fit themselves for practical nursing at home to meet this emergency, we have decided to accept qualified girls for a six months' course in practical nursing. Only such girls as are qualified for the regular training course will be accepted and a certificate will be issued, giving full credit for the time should the applicant later decide to complete the regular 3 year training at this institution. THE COWARD

By ALICE O. BROGAN.

Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union.

Annie took the elevator to the tenth floor of the great department store. She had decided to have luncheon in the tea room, and continue her shopping afterward. And perhaps the shop for Annie's dress was a secret. Grant Robinson might happen to be there.

Often she had met him in previous days, when after their tele-grams, they would wander happily away together for a matinee. Grant had stopped to buy violets for her then, and during entralling moments in the softly shaded theater, when the music seemed almost to speak to them, he had bent low to look into her eyes, but now—Annie sighed impatiently as she hurriedly searched the crowded tea room—now, all was different. She could hardly tell when the change had begun, but the origin in her mind had been the discovery that the man whom she had made an ideal, was but a coward after all.

"A chain is only as strong as its weakest link," and if Grant Robinson is the weak link of his country, if he had, as he himself confessed, asked for exemption, what loyalty could be expected by the woman who gave herself into his care. Never in so many words had he told her so, but Annie knew—as all women know. The dependence of an invalid mother was excuse sufficient—'if excuse were sought from service; but why had John, the older and more successful brother, been permitted to file in Grant's place? Even as she listlessly read the menu the girl asked herself the question.

There could be no answer but a definite thinking of duty. Grant offered no explanation. A broad figure blocked the sunlight from the window for a moment, and Annie looked up to see the object of her thought standing before her. "This is a pleasant surprise," he said. His voice and his old winning charm: "may I join you?" Coolly Annie nodded.

Keenly from beneath his brows the man studied her face; his own bare recent lines of weariness. Involuntarily her lip curled. "He was looking anxious," so friends had told her: "worried for fear of being forced into war." She spoke cryptically: "You applied for exemption?" "Yes," Grant Robinson answered, "and received it. Mother is dependent."

"John went," the girl burst out, "and stayed at home." "The man sighs," "I stayed at home," he repeated quietly. Then suddenly a white-aproned maid approached the table. "Excuse me," she said, "do you see the people leaving? There is fire in the floor above; it is coming down fast; there will be crowds at the elevators, hurry!"

White-faced, she dashed away, and Annie, with trembling knees, tried to find the great room a babble of excited voices; tables were overturned as the throng rushed heading toward the elevator gates.

"Groggling," Annie put out her hands to the man at her side. "Grant," she breathed. "Calm and reassuringly he clasped the hands in his. "The narrow airway is already dangerously crowded," he said. "The best thing is to quietly wait our turn here. Courage, dearest."

Even in her terror, the word brought a sense of joy. Hours passed, or could it be days and months as the elevator swung silently up and down on perilous jolts. Annie could not see her face burning in her lover's breast; until the guard cried sharply: "Three more." Then she raised her face. Grant and she were standing almost alone. Before them, a man with his frail little wife on his arm.

"Step in, Annie dear," directed her to the girl's dismay. "The little wife faintly beckoned her husband; generously he turned to Grant; down an opposite wall crept a hapless couple of flame. Then he came over their heads in the roped-off street, his smoke-blackened face was unaltered, his true, tired eyes looked patiently face here.

"Annie," he said, "you must believe that I am not a coward. Because I touched me so deeply, I could not give even with you my request for exemption from service. One of us had to stay at home—my brother or me." He laughed shortly. "The blood of my soldier's father runs in my veins. With his old gun to my arms I had vowed to protect my country. Then—no! It came to me. If he remained at home it meant the annulment of his engagement. This was his sweetest's honor." Grant paused eloquently. "I stayed, Annie. It was not an easy thing to do."

Then, there in the wet and crowded street, with fire engines clanging close by, Annie raised her white face and tenderly blessed the man who was her hero.

"LOVE LOOPS THE LOOP"

THE rollicking adventures of a girl who was shipped by express. A cheery picture with a touch of the dramatic.

A Disappearing Island.

At Lake Orion, in Michigan, there is a certain mysterious island which is to the surface each summer, only to disappear again every week. Regularly, along the middle of August, the island bobs up above the waters of the lake, and down it goes again about the middle of February. Once some fragments of that part of the country landed the island with heavy stones, thinking that, when it went down the next time, it would stay down. But, when it was summer once more, up came the mysterious island as serene as ever. This is one of the most famous of the curious world's legends.—Christian Science Monitor.

Happiness.

I used to think if I went great to day and happiness, to press to a high peak, carefree, disdainful of it. But now I see there is nothing so great as it is capable of happiness—to place it out of each moment, and, whatever happens, to find that one can live as if one is happy all the time, and, amidst tumultuous waves of life as it is, that that glow and glimmer under a dark sky; that it is not defeat and weakness which comes out of the signs of adversity, but strength and gladness.—Anne Clifford.

A Novel Treatment.

Wherever there is a bay window no invariably associates it with a window seat. A departure from this is a pointed plant, or a book or two. The American railway commission that was sent over there last year, to go back to Russia, immediately assist in the reorganization of the country's railroads.
