

TWIN FALLS RECRUIT WOUNDED IN FRANCE

JOHN E. DRINKWATER, WHO ENLISTED HERE FOR SERVICE WITH TWIN FALLS UNIT, INJURED IN ACTION

The first victim of a Hun bullet, so far as is known here, from among the men who have enlisted in the army from Twin Falls, is John E. Drinkwater of Cedar Point, Kansas, a nephew of J. E. Weaver, 2344 Fourth avenue east, who called here July 25, 1917, for service with the unit that was Company D of the Idaho regiment. General Pershing's casualty list issued Sunday includes Drinkwater's name as one who has been wounded in action in France.

Drinkwater embarked with members of the Idaho regiment for Europe, but was left at a hospital in Liverpool, England, when his comrades went on to France. Upon his recovery he was assigned to duty with another field artillery battery, the designation of which is not known here.

hold out two months longer than the Americans, at the present rate of arrival, will give them an invincible and crushing superiority.

French Retain Valleys

As a consequence the French are resisting in the battle with extreme energy, equalled only by the profligality with which the Germans are rushing up their last reserves. No longer is it a secret that the French expected the greatest attack and were fully prepared as effectives and material would permit. It is likewise known that the Germans know the French expected and prepared for the attack, yet, facing the heavy losses which such a situation necessarily must entail, the enemy unhesitatingly attacked. They rushed up reserves to replace their losses until more than twenty divisions (240,000 men) have been fed into the battle to date.

Fight to the Last

On both wings, where the French are doggedly holding their positions, the fiercest attack and were fully prepared for two hours, day and night, since the battle began.

Try to Force Oise Valley

The Germans still are making their greatest effort in the Metz valley for the purpose of reaching the Oise above Compiègne, thus forcing evacuation of the entire Metz valley, and, at the extreme northern point, Carlewood, on the east side of the Oise, and Mount Renaud, on the west side, have to date borne the German advance into the Oise valley.

Military experts think it most probable the Germans will launch a second converging attack from east of Noyon, with identical objectives of attacking the Oise from the east and forcing evacuation of the Noyon salient.

Boches Lose Effectives

From prisoners and other sources, it is established that the boches are suffering a severe crisis in effectives. Many companies go into action with only eighty or a hundred men. The wounded are forced to feign to the fight as soon as they are cured. The losses in infantry officers are so great that cavalry officers are now substituting.

Among two hundred prisoners interrogated, a fourth were in the 1019 class. The prisoners also included miners who heretofore had not been sent to the front. The fifth division of the Prussians, which is one of Germany's finest body of troops, lost fifty per cent of its effectiveness during the march on the Somme and lost thirty more in the Chateau-Thierry drive, it has been established.

French papers circulating the region of Vouzy and Morecourt report heaps of German dead, often lying in four or five successive windrows. South of Faverolles, 670 unburied dead were counted.

Social Structure and Criminal

It is a herculean task to bring about reform in the administration of the criminal law. But the dawn of a better day is at hand. It is becoming generally understood that the criminal is one of the by-products of an evil social system, and that to the improvement of our social structure will be found the solution of the problem of the criminal.—Alexander Karlin in the Humanitarian.

At the Depot. "Cheer, dear," said young Mrs. Torline, "that young man in the bureau of information wouldn't answer a single question I asked him this morning."

"Whaddya get him?" "I asked him how long the government will operate the railroads and whether trains will run any faster and fares be any cheaper. All he would say was that he didn't know. I believe that young man is being cheated."

Boats Hard of Trained Cattle. The versatility of cattle is being demonstrated by a farmer in West Brookfield, Mass., who is said to get entertainment as well as profit from his Guernsey herd. The farmer has taught his herd to do various tricks, such as rolling a barrel around the barnyard and the like, and he has a special wooden platform whereon the cattle have their particular places and performances.

The Perennial Pest. The wuz of the agent is heard on the breeze. He professes insouciance to lame, hot and blind. With sweet air ring singing to us he appeals to buy books and also automobiles, and rat traps and razors and cures for the itch, and pretty old socks that will make us all rich. While we yet have a nickel his hanger's as wild as the fond mother's yearn for her long absent child. He comes in the morning and lingers all day. His full name is legion, and he's with us to stay.—Kansas City Star.

Trees and Lightning. There is a strange superstition relative to the liability of trees and being struck by lightning. All kinds of fleas have been advanced along these lines. The ancient Romans believed that the mulberry, laurel, peach, larch and box trees were lightning proof. Not a few foresters of modern times are of the opinion that certain trees are more or less liable to destruction by lightning.

Daily Thought. The meaning of music goes deep. Who is there that in his world can express the effect that music has on us? A kind of inarticulate, unfeeling speech, which leads us to the edge of the infinite and lets us for a moment gaze into that.—Caryle.

Really Man's Friends. If the snakes, owls and hawks were able to write and vote, they would probably undertake a "campaign of education" on their own behalf, for better public understanding or seek protective laws in congress. As man is the only writing and voting animal, it is clearly his duty to understand the snakes, owls and hawks. With understanding will come intelligent protection.

Literary Man Fond of Cats. Johnson's successor in Shakespearean scholarship, the late Doctor Furness, confessed that he could not work without having his big black cat somewhere about the library.—William Butler Yeats likes cats; and he has remarked with a fine touch of natural observation, "There is a time at twilight when all cats are gray and all men are handsome."

Romance. There are many ardent suitors for her hand. And they sent her orchids and violets and lilies and roses. All save one, a poor young fellow, who sent her but a simple little bunch of daisies. "She married the man who sent the orchids.—George Jean Nathan in Puck.

Cautious Speculator. It is announced that the eggs of the crocodile are good to eat. But will crocodiles quit laying as soon as the price of eggs goes up the waz hee do? We must know this before we order a flock.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Won't Go. "This thing can't go on!" exclaimed the able clerk, vainly trying to get a number two shoe on a number four foot.—Boston Transcript.

The Password for Tires

CHALLENGE every tire before you buy. Make it give the watchword of tire quality, Tested. Make it show the counterweight of tire supremacy, the Goodrich trademark. If a tire answers "Goodrich Tested," buy it. It is a friend.

It will give you full and lasting service because its service, put to the nation-wide road test of Goodrich Test Car Fleets, has measured up to the Goodrich standard of tires, the Tested-of—

GOODRICH TESTED TIRES

There is no risk with the tire that can give the password "TESTED," for no weakness, no structural failing, could hide itself during the month to month, season to season, testing of the Test Car Fleets.

SILVERTOWN COARDS, and BLACK SAFETY TREADS, challenged America's roads, and under light and heavy cars fought sand, gravel, and rock, in rain, mud, snow, and slush, and defeated them. The spiral-wrapped, cable-cord tire body stood staunch against the hammering of mountain trails. The close-clutch, cross-harred, non-skid black safety tread, baffled the teeth of desert and prairie paths.

Demand this password of all tires before you buy, and you will get the durability, dependability, and economy of the tires which the roads of every region of our land proclaim, "America's Tested Tires."

WHAT I THINK OF TWIN FALLS

WRITTEN BY AN HABERNER, A NEWSPAPERMAN-AND, AT HIS REQUEST, PUBLISHED ANONYMOUSLY.

PAYING THE PIPER

The good old days are gone when the minor politicians can secure the support of the county newspapers in exchange for a dollar and a half order for campaign cards...

While the News does not profit immediately by the precedent thus laid down, the future may have something in store. And, aside the coffers of the News are not enriched by the commissioners' action...

But the downright funny part of the program was the demand made by the Republican owners of the official Democratic organ for a raise in pay...

Notwithstanding the poor railroad facilities which your city has to contend with, it is almost marvelous in its growth. If anyone should have told me, or told you, that less than fifteen years ago this very same location was nothing but a small hamlet...

COURTESY AND THE FLAG

We will do well to bear in mind the careless handling of the flag, throwing it down where it will be entangled or carelessly selling it...

Display Old Glory from its own pole by day only, with the union, or blue field, at the top of the pole. The reversed position has a special significance...

If no staff or pole is available, have the flag undraped against a wall, right side out, which will bring the union to the upper left hand corner...

For draped decorations and proper expression of the patriotic spirit, use the red, white and blue without staff and give the flag an elevated, conspicuous position.

OWARDLY BLENDED

Blinco is interpreted generally as giving assent. This at least, is certain: if we sit silent under a friend's confession or criticized, our agreement is assumed. Such silence may be misleading...

It must have been about the ninth night that I crossed into Luxembourg, but through this principally I officially neutral, it offered me no safer haven than Belgium...

CHAPTER VIII

Nine Days in Luxembourg. I was now heading northwest and I thought that by following that course I would get out of Luxembourg...

The sun could just reach me through an opening in the trees above and I took off at my toes except my shirt and hung them on the bushes to dry in the sun.

Afternoon I awoke from one of those naps with a start. There were no dozes felt from me!

It then occurred to me that if the tree upon which they were working should happen to fall in my direction it would crush me to death!

All the next day I spent in a forest, to which my night's travel had brought me about 5 o'clock in the morning.

One time I was very near to the end of my march for a dry spot which was the cause of my being out of the leaves were beginning to fall...

I wandered around through the woods for two or three hours looking for shelter, but without any success...

Once I came very near to the end of my march and heard voices of men and dogs in the distance...

Effective Thursday-morning, May 11, and continuing until the completion of road improvement work now in progress, the Shoshone falls grade, will be closed...

By Order of the County Commission

Indeed, I had me a lot better not come out of the hole. You can't realize how here and there small articles of debris had been dug, which at a dry night might have cradled a weary airplane...

After what seemed like a year or more, night finally came, and with it some faint, sparkling clouds and still more rain. There, at that moment, the sky, of course, and that made it dark, because without the aid of the stars I had absolutely no way of knowing which direction I was going.

Shortly afterwards it began to rain and about 4 o'clock the men left. I would try to keep them that way as long as possible. I accordingly took off all my things and made them into two bundles, planning to carry one load across and then swim back for the other.

The river was quite wide, but from a fairly good swimmer and I figured I could rest awhile after the first trip before going back for the second bundle. The first swim was uneventful.

Along Thursday-morning, when I had had a fair sleep, I had composed a note to get a fairly good top of my journey—perhaps seven or eight miles—began to recognize certain objects as familiar landmarks. At least, I thought I had seen them before.

That was the last time I ever took my shoes off on my feet, and I remember so well that I figured if I took my shoes off I might not be able to get them on again.

This night the stars came out; I looked at my friend, the North Star, and tried to make out a few more stars when one is making only seven or eight miles a day, or rather a night, especially when each day keeps him from the place where he is bound to go to endure. I believe, then the actual hunger, and the accompanying worry naturally reduced my weight.

All the next day I spent in a forest, to which my night's travel had brought me about 5 o'clock in the morning. I kept on my way through the woods until daylight came, and then, thinking the place would afford fairly good concealment, I concluded to rest until night.

Effective Thursday-morning, May 11, and continuing until the completion of road improvement work now in progress, the Shoshone falls grade, will be closed to traffic of all sorts except those of the hours of 6 o'clock p. m. to 8 o'clock a. m. Mondays and Saturdays and 8 o'clock a. m. to 10 o'clock a. m. Mondays and Saturdays.

reasonable price for his labor and for his many differences in the cost of your business buildings, hotels and banks stand as representative of liberal minds; minds that have shown an excellent foresight, as to what the future of Twin Falls has in store for it. Your water system is splendid and it means a great deal in this part of the town. Your places of religious worship are undoubtedly of the finest, nicely located, and they, also, stand as a credit to both the city and the state.

High Cost of Living Same. Taken all in all, I am unable to see any great difference in the cost of living either here or in New York City. While the price of one thing may differ, it is easily made up by the difference in another article of necessity.

When I left New York, the weather was extremely warm, so I bought an ordinary straw hat, which so many of the New Yorkers wear, and thought I would be in it in style here, but it was foolish. I want to tell you of one thing I observed, was wearing a straw hat as Mr. Thomas missed, "A donkey's breakfast."

Since my arrival here, I have had an opportunity to visit the Salmon River Dam, which is located some 35 miles southwest of Twin Falls. My object in going there was two fold, I wanted to see the great engineering feat which had been accomplished in erecting the dam, and, as you may suspect, I wanted to do a little fishing.

"TARZAN OF THE APES" A keenly anticipated public is awaiting the opening performance of "Tarzan of the Apes." The book and story had more readers in this city, perhaps, than any other fiction dunder and anyone who has read the story and has not seen the film production of it, it is without doubt the most unusual tale, the most weird series of adventures and the most sensational and startling in character of all the many tales of the dark and dreaded jungle ever conceived.
