BELIEVE RAISE IN DRAFT AGE IS VIRTUAL NECESSITY

WAR DEPARTMENT LIKELY TO ASK CHANGES IN LAW TO INCLUDE MEN UP TO 45 OR 46 TO CONFORM WITH ALLIED TREATY OBLIGATIONS

WASHINGTON, June 13.—That the war department will ask changes in the draft law, so as to include all men between the ages of 18 and 45 or 46 years, was the forecast of well-informed congressional leaders today.

The new legislation would place the draft on the same basis as that of Britain and facilitate the operation of the inter-allied draft treaties. It is expected to be launched in the December "short session."

"Provisi Marshall Crowder has no desire to go into deferred classifications," said Representative Kahn, of the house military committee today.

SEARCH FOR BOY WITHOUT RESULT

The disappearance of Philip Rendahl, 14, the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. N. Rendahl, 259 Washington street, who has been missing since 9 o'clock Tuesday morning, when he left alone on a fishing trip to Rock Creek near this city, remains an unsolved mystery, despite diligent search being made by the police. Boy Scouts and citizens, together with the relatives.

PARIS, June 13.—French forces, following their first counter attack on the eastern wing of the new line front, last night hurled the Germans back across the Matz river.

"There was no new German attack on the western flank and in the center. On the Matz river, a vigorous German attack against Boursches and Belleau wood was broken up by American and French troops who held all their newly won positions and inflicted the heaviest losses on the enemy."

COMPARATIVE LULL WEST OF MONTDIDIER

WITH THE AMERICANS WEST OF MONTDIDIER, June 13.—A comparative lull has settled over this sector again and only minor fire is being exchanged between the American and German lines.

A new case of a booby being hanged was revealed last night. One who was taken prisoner saved the life of his American captor.

SHIP UNDER SHELL-FIRE

NORFOLK, Va., June 13.—Captain Wade of the American steamship Elward Pierce reported today that his vessel was under shell fire for two hours and was disabled by the bursting of the light of one of the torpedoes.

UNITED STATES TROOPS ALONG THREE-MILE FRONT BETWEEN BOURSCHES AND TOBOY

By LOWELL MELLETT (United Press Staff Correspondent) WITH THE AMERICANS ON THE MARNE, June 13.—At 1 p. m. The American holding the three-mile front between Boursches and Toboy repulsed two German attacks in their twenty-five day and night of fighting.

The bombardment of Boursches, in which some eight-inch shells were used, was believed to preface an attack in force. But the only fighting that followed was when a company of German appeared at the edge of the city early this morning, due to losing their way.

Four hundred mounted Germans were sighted south of Boursches, (two miles northeast of Boursches) yesterday evening. The American line scattered them with heavy losses.

There are numerous evidences of the arrival of a fresh German division (10,000 men) opposite this sector. It has not yet been identified.

TWENTY-NINE PLANES DOWNED IN FIVE DAYS

LONDON, June 13.—British airmen, assisting the French on the western portion of the new Oise front, have destroyed 29 enemy planes since the drive started last Sunday. It was officially announced by the war office today.

EIGHT COACHES ARE PILED UP IN DITCH

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, June 13.—Eight coaches of the U. S. G. train No. 1, Denver to Salt Lake, went in the ditch outside of Salt Lake at 10 o'clock yesterday, killing one passenger, severely injuring ten, and slightly injuring about 75. The division engineer, the cause of the wreck is unknown. All but passengers declare "backsliding" of the coaches was responsible. The engine and tender remained on the track.

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR IN DORSES PROPOSED TRIP TO ITALY BY GOMPERS

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 13.—Resolutions requesting a new trial for Thomas J. Mooney, convicted of murder in connection with a bomb explosion during a preparedness parade in San Francisco, were brought before the American Federation of Labor convention here today.

Other resolutions considered today urged the government to aid in establishing an independent Bohemia and endorsed a proposed trip to Italy by President Sumner Welles to explain America's war aims to workers there.

Ben Schlesinger, New York garment worker, was one to vote against it. Frank Duffy, Indianapolis, chairman of the committee on organization, refused a vote for it.

SECRETARY MADDO IS FAR FROM WELL

WASHINGTON, June 13.—Forced again to leave his various desks here and return to White Sulphur Springs for further rest, McAdoo's physical condition caused some uneasiness among friends here today.

(Advice from Austria, received through Rome yesterday, stated that practically all of the dual monarchy has been declared in a state of siege, only a few regions being excepted. The reported conditions which have led up to this situation are described in the words of an American newspaper man, as described in the following dispatch.)

By JOSEPH SHAPLEN (United Press Staff Correspondent) STOCKHOLM, June 13.—The growing seriousness of the food and political situation in Austria-Hungary was revealed today by an Austrian newspaper, a staff correspondent of the Vienna Arbeiter-Zeitung.

The food situation in Austria-Hungary is again very serious," he said. "The food situation is always worse than it is in Germany. The Austrian government under pressure of the January strikes gave the workmen many good promises. None of these was fulfilled. They were given expectation of food from Ukraine, which in view of the increasing revolts against the central empires and Rumania, is no more than pipe dream."

"The price of flour in Austria is now 14 francs a kilogram (about $140 a pound). Butter is 40 francs (about $400 a pound) and a fair quantity of Vienna's population is not getting over 35 per cent of the normal rations. The major recently demanded that the government act immediately to prevent the most serious consequences of the present situation is likewise critical, as a result of publication of Emperor Karl's letters. The meeting of the reichsrath (congress) has been postponed indefinitely because of the movement of the Serbians, Croats and Slovaks for secession from Austria and unification in a single Serb nation is growing rapidly.

"Recently there was a severe battle between the Austrians and the Serbians in Vindisch-Graetz. There are the most serious disturbances at Lofbach. The Bohemians are demanding complete independence. The Austrian Socialists are talking in strong language, but there is no hope of peace. Germany refuses to listen to a democratic peace.

SET WEEK FOR SIFTING OF DRAFT DEFERRED CLASS

LEGAL AND MEDICAL ADVISORY BOARDS TO ASSIST IN RE-EXAMINATION OF CLAIMS

In pursuance of instructions of the adjutant general, the local board for Twin Falls county has designated the week of June 17-21 as "Class One Week," during which time a thorough re-examination of questionnaires filed by registrants under the military draft in this county, together with their classifications and physical examinations will be made.

Appeal is Required
In this work the local board will be aided and assisted by the recommendations of the legal advisory board and of the medical advisory board. In any case in which the local board's action is in variance with the recommendation of either of the other boards, County Attorney Frank J. Dwyer is the official appeal agent for this county, and it is to be effected simultaneously in each district throughout the county.

Uniformity the Aim
In respect to this undertaking, the post adjutant general has issued instructions, which have been transmitted through the several state adjutants general to the local boards, portions of which are as follows:

When the next quota bill, applicable to the strength of Class 1 in the committee and before the House for discussion the strongest argument made against it was the charge of unfairness in basing quotas on Class 1 because of inequality of the work of the boards showing wide variance in strength of Class 1 among counties and other jurisdictions where conditions were substantially equal.

This argument was met by the proposition that the war department proposed making corrective proceedings, nationwide in its application, for the purpose of removing this inequality where it was not justified by unequal conditions.

After conferences with representatives of each of the states adjacent to Washington, this office has reached the conclusion that the corrective procedure can be made most effective by revision by the local board with the hearty and active assistance of government agents and members of legal advisory boards.

Recommended to Local Board
You will, therefore, after having taken such preliminary steps as may be necessary to insure immediate active and hearty cooperation on the part of government appeal agents and members of legal advisory boards, immediately proceed to a careful examination of all the questionnaires and records in the classes hereinafter indicated and make such recommendations to the local boards as they may deem necessary in all cases in which they are satisfied that reclassification should be made. They should make complete investigation and, if necessary call upon the registrants for additional information in all cases which in their judgment require further investigation.

Government appeal agents and members of legal advisory boards should direct special attention to the following classes of cases:

Class 2-A and B, Class 3-A-B and C, Class 4-A. The number of registrants are now in class 4 who should be in Class 1. Government appeal agents must present all of the facts ascertainable to the local board for the purpose of obtaining quick action but should be instructed to appeal every case where the reclassification is not convincingly correct.

The activities of local boards, appeal agents and members of legal advisory boards is not limited to the same, corrective measures should be applied to all other cases of deferred classification when the same appear necessary.

Local boards should set aside a special book in case of "Class One Week" to conduct examinations of doubtful cases. If the number presented is large the local board should divide itself into committees of five to conduct examinations and to hold hearings and then report to the board.

Physical Qualifications
Also instruct the registrants to re-examine the new standards of physical examination, now being issued, all doubtful cases which may have fallen into Group B, Group C or Group D, either under the original examination by board or upon rejection at appeal with the particular purpose of finding men physically fit for general military service who may have been placed in one of the above mentioned groups and of removing to Group C as qualified for special and limited military service such men as may heretofore have been totally rejected or placed in the deferred. Removable group.

MUNITIONS SHIP VICTIM OF SPY

FLORENCE H. SUNK IN FRENCH HARBOR WITH HEAVY LOSS OF LIFE, BY INTERNAL EXPLOSION.

(By United Press)
PORTLAND, Ore., June 12.—The American munitions ship Florence H., which was destroyed by an explosion in a French harbor with the loss of many lives, was the victim of a German spy, according to letters received here today.

Mrs. John W. Cudaby, mother of Howard L. Cudaby, a seaman who died in the explosion that destroyed the Florence H., received two letters from seaman friends of her son on the ship. Both letters declared a German spy shipped with them at an American port and waited until he reached the French port to do his destructive work in order to take his own chances for escape would be good.

The letters stated the spy did not destroy the ship through motives of patriotism toward Germany, "but for 'greedy gold.'"

There were seventeen persons on the Florence H. when it was destroyed and two-thirds of these are said to have been killed.

SEVEN INDICTED FOR CONSPIRACY

SAN FRANCISCO, June 12.—Four men and three women are under indictment here charged with conspiring to receive President Wilson and his cabinet in connection with the Hindu revolt plot, which led to the conviction in April of 29 Hindus, Germans and Americans.

Among those indicted yesterday are William A. Webber, San Francisco attorney, and Mrs. Webber. The others are Salendra Nath Ghose and Agnes Smalley, arrested in New York during the progress of the Hindu plot trials; Tanakaichi Dano, now serving 22 months in federal prison on the plot charge; Pulla Bohari Ghose, alleged to have been the leader of the Hindu-German plots in the middle west; and Bluma Zelenka, reputed Bolshevik leader here.

The seven are alleged to have started a campaign to raise $100,000,000 in the United States for the India Nationalist party and to have falsified fraudulent passports on the state department.

SENATE REJECTS OPEN DIPLOMACY

WASHINGTON, June 12.—The senate today rejected a record against open diplomacy. By a vote of 50 to 23 it rejected the Borah amendment for public consideration of treaties.

The senate by this action, accepted the president's own construction of his prerogative in speaking of January 8, when he had Congress in favor of "open covenants of peace, openly arrived at" and that hereafter, diplomacy "must proceed along in the open."

PUT STRIKE UP TO FEDERATION

(By United Press)
CHICAGO, June 12.—Following its endorsement by the Order of Railroad Telegraphers on the attitude of Commercial Telegraphers Union in its controversy with commercial telegraph companies, President S. J. Koenekamp of the Commercial telegraphers will leave Chicago today for St. Paul to confer with officials of the American Federation of Labor.

The railroad telegraphers formally agreed that they will refuse to handle commercial company telegrams. There is no likelihood of a walkout by the railroaders men in the event of a telegraphers' strike because they now are government employees.

The national war labor board was scheduled to meet today in Chicago. It is regarded possible that the board might consider further the telegraph situation.

THINKS DECISION WOULD NOT PASS ON LAW VALIDITY

ATTORNEY FOR CANAL COMPANY DISCOURAGES ACCEPTANCE OF FRIENDLY SUIT

On the assumption that a decision of the state supreme court in certain litigation now before it would determine the constitutionality of the statute known as Senate Bill No. 34 which was drafted for the principal purpose of enabling the stockholders of the Twin Falls Canal company to effect certain changes in its articles of incorporation, a group of individuals to whom the matter had been delegated by the executive committee of the company farm increase, petitioned the directors of the Canal company, who are named as the appellees, at their meeting here Tuesday to take over the responsibility and expense of continuing the prosecution of the suit.

Attorney Gives Opinion

The directors have taken no definite action in the matter as yet, although Judge James R. Bethwell, attorney for the Canal company, in conference with them Wednesday afternoon, expressed the opinion that the directors could not legally make an appropriation for this purpose, and furthermore, that it was unlikely that the supreme court in this case, would pass upon the constitutionality of the law in question.

History of Litigation

The law is one drafted by a committee named by the stockholders of the Canal company at their annual meeting in 1915 and passed by the 1916 session of the state legislature. Under its provisions a meeting of the stockholders was called by the Canal company directors to convene, here in October last year to "initiate" such changes as were desired in the articles of incorporation. This call was issued at the instance of Captain John E. White, then president of the county farm bureau, under whose leadership a program for reorganization of the Canal company management and operation was introduced and adopted.

The litigation now before the supreme court arises out of the contention made by certain stockholders that the October meeting was without jurisdiction to adopt the amendments proposed at that time, and that less than a majority of the stockholders were represented at that meeting.

The question of the constitutionality of the law—now which this meeting acted has a bearing on the litigation only in that this law provides that adoption of amendments may be made by vote of less than a majority of the stockholders. Judge Bethwell is of the opinion, since District Judge W. A. Babcock in deciding the case took into consideration only the alleged irregularities of the meeting, that the supreme court in either sustaining or overruling Judge Babcock's decision would not pass upon the constitutionality of the law.

Individuals Ask Aid

The appeal of the supreme court in the case was made by Captains White and others prominent in the farm bureau organization, and was endorsed at one time by the executive committee of that organization.

At a recent meeting the farm bureau executive committee, which has undergone a change in its personnel since the action was instituted, delegated the matter of continuing the litigation to following individuals who on Tuesday petitioned the Canal company to take over the matter and prosecute the action as a friendly suit for the benefit of the stockholders: Mrs. John

E. White and the following members of the farm bureau executive committee: President W. F. Alworth, Secretary E. P. McPherson, Frank DeKlotz and Luke Sonner.

FARM CLUB BOYS IN CITY AT WORK

Leader George E. Denman Says 92 per Cent of Students in Twin Falls Are Active

Out of an enrollment of 485 students of the Twin Falls schools in the boys' agricultural club, 92 per cent of those residing in the city of Twin Falls are carrying on club work during the summer vacation with some excellent results, according to the statement of George E. Denman, high school agricultural teacher, who has been designated by the board of school trustees and state university extension department to supervise this work during the summer months.

A large proportion of the club boys in the city are caring for gardens, while some are raising poultry, and in one or two instances they are keeping sheep on the lawns at their homes, Mr. Denman states.

In the country districts, throughout which Mr. Denman expects to make a

NEED STONE, STEPS FROM MOVING AUTO AND FALL RESULTS IN FATAL INJURIES

(Special to The News)

The citizens of Kimberly were shocked to learn of the accidental death of Ned Stone Tuesday afternoon. He was an employe as deputy sheriff guarding the syphon the past few weeks and came to Kimberly in an auto with Mrs. J. E. Sovereign and son, who was driving, and were in the front seat, Mr. Stone and C. A. Benson being in the back seat. When at a point about a quarter of a mile from his home on the road northwest of town, he asked to have the car stopped and he would walk across to his home. He opened the car door soon after the gas was cut off and brakes applied, and before the car came to a stop either stepped or fell from the car, striking on his head in the road, the occupants of the front seat not knowing he was out until the car stopped, when he was discovered lying in the road unconscious several feet behind the car.

Dr. J. N. Davis was summoned and when he was found to be bleeding from the ears, he advised that he be taken to the hospital at Twin Falls, where he died Tuesday afternoon without regaining consciousness. He was about 32 years old.

Ned Stone was one of Kimberly's best citizens, having lived here the past seven or eight years. He was an older and clerk of the Christian church, and was a trustee of the Old Fellows lodge here. He leaves a wife, two sons, Charley and Albert, a married daughter, Mrs. Walter Dodd, who lives in Canada, a daughter, Christine, at home, and a daughter, Kenn, living in Canada.

In case the children living in Canada do not come, the funeral will be held at the Christian church Thursday afternoon. If they come, it will be held Saturday, services to be held by Rev. V. A. Beckman. The Old Fellows will conduct the services after leaving the church and interment will be made in the Twin Falls cemetery.

"TARZAN" AT THE ORPHEUM

Tarzan, as readers of the story will remember, is the son of Lord Grey-stoke, who went to Africa on a secret mission for the British government. Africa in 1897 was torn by European savages, atrocities in the Belgian Congo, Jameson's raid on the Boers; slave trading, with the concomitant brutalities by the Arabs.

The officers mutiny, slay their brutal officers in fair fight and then maroon Lord Grey-stoke and his wife. A boy is born in the jungle; the mother dies and the baby is carried off by a mother ape, who has just lost her young. The film traces the growth of the boy—half ape, half human—till his twentieth year.

A counter melody is being played in England, where Lord Grey-stoke's brother assumes the title after having married a haramite. Their child is a petted brat. News is brought to them by a sailor, Hinnus, that the heir to the Grey-stoke estate is alive in Africa. The haramite's sister has Hinnus incarcerated as a lunatic for ten years, but a vengeful mad serf finally helps him escape. He tells his story to a scientist, a fingerprint expert, and the Grey-stoke solicitor, with the result that a party is made up to seek out Tarzan in his jungle home.

Attorney C. A. Bailey and Companions at Fairfield Have Fortunate Escape From Injury

Attorney Clarence A. Bailey, who is associated with the firm of Walters & Hodgins, Twin Falls, was one of a party of three which narrowly escaped serious or fatal injury in an automobile accident near Fairfield, Idaho, Monday evening. The car, which was being driven at a considerable rate of speed over a poor road, struck a bridge, throwing Mr. Bailey, who was alone in the rear seat, violently against the seat, with the result that his face was bruised and lacerated. The other occupants of the car, George Hollis, cashier of the First National bank at Fairfield, and Attorney Boyle of Hally, who were in the front seat, escaped without injury. The car was considerably damaged.

Mr. Bailey was in Fairfield appearing in the trial of a law suit. He returned to Twin Falls Wednesday.

Effective Thursday morning, May 8, and continuing until the completion of road improvement work now in progress, the Shoshone falls grade will be closed to traffic of all sorts except between the hours of 8 o'clock p. m. Saturdays and 8 o'clock a. m. Mondays. By Order of the County Commissioners—adv.

RUSSIA-LOOKS TO AMERICA FOR AID

U. S. GOVERNMENT WILLING TO ASSIST IF MEANS OF DOING SO CAN BE FOUND

By CARL D. Groat (United Press Staff Correspondent) WASHINGTON, June 13.—The American government is striving hard to make some arrangements whereby aid, even troops, may be sent to Russia under Russian-American leadership.

The government plans to be able to announce July 4 that a million men have left American ports for Europe. Thereafter it will have to cut down on the pace set on the May and June road so that supplies can be forwarded.

This will give the opportunity of selling Russia with other troops. Many difficulties stand in the path, it is admitted, but the government leaders are doing their utmost to reach a solution.

The United Press is able to state that the tentative proposal which has received greatest support here shapes up thus: The empty troop ships would be used to convey some American troops to Russia. They need not constitute a vast force.

Loyal Russians, available allied troops, and Japanese and Chinese troops would compose the balance of this great international expedition. Its purpose would be rescue work. There would be a guarantee against territorial aggrandizement.

The fact that troop shipments to France will slump after the first of July explains apparently Secretary Baker's recent reticence about newspaper predictions concerning the fall and winter troop figures. He warned that events might make it impossible to live up to the newspaper reports. Now it is found the supply question must be given attention.

As soon as supplies are replenished, heavy troop shipments will be resumed.

True Gospel of Work. Work is the glory and delight of life, and the only acceptable excuse for being in this world, and the object of all practical investigations of the principle of fatigue and recovery is to find out not what is the most possible amount of work that a human being can get along on, but what is the greatest amount that he can do without decreasing his working capacity. Such is the gospel of work, which those who are not of the elect may regard as hard doctrine.—Exchange.

Reached His Capacity. The first floor of the home was reached at the rear by climbing a flight of stairs. YANKEES LIVE IN ANCIENT TOWNS OF HISTORIC FRANCE

LIFE OF AMERICAN OFFICER WITH AMERICAN TROOPS FULL OF REMINDERS OF HOME

By FRED B. FERGUSON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN PICARDY—The young American officer in France again is getting accustomed to wax flowers in glass cases, such as he used to see about his grandmother's house. They are just in the decoration of the room assigned to him as a billet. He is also getting blasé and ceasing to wonder at old French mirrors that would cost more at home than the house in which they hang in France. They are also to be found in billets in villages some distance back of the line. There are also the French beds—built so high as to make a full precocious, and topped by fat eiderdown.

But as you grow nearer the front, billets become squalid and more barren. There's where officers and men hit the bars and the bare floors. That's in the reserve positions. You move up, again and you may be in a cellar, if there are no dugouts.

The villages occupied by the Americans in Picardy as they were moving into the line were the oldest of France—travelled fighters from home had seen. Some of the houses were tottering to an early fall. The villages had not been touched by the flames of the war. They were, and were sinking down to a rest. The outer walls of some of them were of clay and straw. This apparently is an effective mixture, but it won't last long. Some of those houses had been up only 50 years.

With the line only a short distance away, many of the villages had been practically evacuated by civilians. There were no stores. Nothing, but places to sleep. In the farming villages, the houses in France are more interesting than in England. The houses are built of stone and have a hollow square. There is the hazyard, ducks, geese, rabbits, chickens, dogs, horses—everything but human beings.

In looking for the United Press billets in the villages, the Americans have made a mistake and have gone into a horse's stall close by, but it was good horse. The geese isolated on wandering in, so when it became evident they could not be repulsed, an order was given to shoot them. With the barn rat, it wasn't possible to be so considerate. No one with an army mind has a rat or two running around the floor. But when the rat stops and starts to make a meal of the corn, it is a pest. The housewife with you, it has gone far enough.

But the American officer is welcome in the French village. The housewife not only will do her best to make him comfortable, but all the animals join in the welcome. The barn cat will pick a place just outside his window to crawl about 4 m. Then the dog that he petted the night before will stick his nose in the window, bark a couple of times just to make sure the visitor is awake, and then he will have his ears scratched again. All these things were done for a mere correspondent, so an officer is certain of a royal welcome.

"OUT WITH THE HUN"

By Lieutenant PAT O'BRIEN

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I—Introductory. Pat O'Brien tells of his purpose in writing the story of his adventures in the Hun zone.

CHAPTER II—Tells of his enlistment in the Royal Flying Corps, his training in Canada, and his transfer to France for active duty.

CHAPTER III—Describes flights for which he was awarded the George Cross and his final flight in which he was brought down wounded within the German lines and was held a prisoner of war.

CHAPTER IV—He is taken to the German front camp at Douai. He begins planning his escape. By great care he escapes through a mine and gets away two daily rations of bread.

CHAPTER V—Discovers that German soldiers start their meals by drinking a glass of beer and eating a slice of bread. He is captured and taken to a camp near the front. He escapes through a mine and returns to the front lines. Witnesses that the death of his best comrade, Lieut. John Smith.

CHAPTER VI—He contemplates a map of the front and decides to attempt a trip on a train bound for a prison camp near the rear. He escapes through a mine and witnesses the train in traveling at a rate of 30 miles an hour.

CHAPTER VII—For some days he travels through the night, guided by the stars. He escapes through a mine and witnesses the capture of his best comrade, Lieut. John Smith.

Anyway, they muddled me indoors, gave me my first hot meal in more than a month! True, it consisted only of warm potatoes. They had been previously cooked, but the old woman warmed them up in milk in one of the dented kettles I had over seen.

The woman of the house had a head, although I think it must have been for lack of it rather than because she begrudged it to me. For if ever a man showed he was finished, she showed it. I swallowed those warm potatoe bits ravenously and I drank four glasses of water, one after another. It was the best meal I had had since the "baquette" in the prison at Courtil.

The woman of the house was probably seventy-five years old, and had evidently worn wooden shoes all her life, for she had a callous spot on the side of her foot the size of half a dollar. It and looked so hard that I doubt whether you could have driven a nail into it with a hammer!

As I sat there drying myself—I was in no hurry to leave the first human habitation I had entered in four weeks of night, but apparently I was happy lit and the unknown troubles and dangers that lay ahead of me. Here, for more than a month, I had been leading the life of a hunted animal—yes, worse than a hunted animal—scarcely a word of food, several creatures were unmercifully for the life they had taken from me. I was clothed for winter, and that was not the slightest reason to hope that conditions would grow any better.

Perhaps the first warm food I had eaten since my capture, but apparently I was not longer than was absolutely necessary.

As I approached the door I got a glance at myself in a mirror. I was the whitest sight I had laid eyes on! The glimpse I got of myself started me back as much as if I had seen a dead German helmet. My left eye was fairly well healed by this time and I was beginning to regain sight and I, but my face was so haggard and my beard so long and unkempt that I looked like Saint Clavis on a hat!

As they let me out of the door I pointed to the opposite direction to the one I intended taking and started off in the direction I had indicated. Later I changed my course completely to that of my nose, but apparently I was not longer than was absolutely necessary.

The next day I was so worn out from exposure and exhaustion that I threw away my coat, thinking that the less weight I had to carry the better it would be for me, but when night came I regretted my mistake because the night was fairly well heated by this time and I was beginning to regain sight and I, but my face was so haggard and my beard so long and unkempt that I looked like Saint Clavis on a hat!

As they let me out of the door I pointed to the opposite direction to the one I intended taking and started off in the direction I had indicated. Later I changed my course completely to that of my nose, but apparently I was not longer than was absolutely necessary.

I then began to discard everything that I had in my pocket, finally throwing my wrist watch into a canal. A wrist-watch does not add much weight, but when you find along another week not eaten for a month it finally becomes rather heavy. The next thing I discarded was a pair of flying mittens.

The mittens I had gotten at Camp Borden, in Canada, and had become quite famous, as my friends termed them "snow shoes." In fact, they were a ridiculous pair of mittens, but for the Belgian who had worn it. Some days later I got a scarf from a Belgian peasant and with this equipment I was able to conceal my uniform entirely.

Later on, however, I decided that it was too dangerous to keep the uniform on anyway and when night came I dug a hole and buried myself. I never realized until I had to part with it just how much I thought of that uniform. It had been with me through hard trials and I felt as if I were abandoning a friend when I parted with it. I was tempted to keep the wings of the tunic, but thought that would be a dangerous concession to sentiment in the event that I was ever captured. It was the only distinction I had left, as I had given the Royal Flying Corps badges and the stars of my rank to the German flying officers as souvenirs, but I felt that it was safer to discard it. It finally turned out, through all my subsequent experiences, my escape would never have been jeopardized had I kept my uniform but, of course, I had no idea what was in store for me.

There was one thing which surprised me very much as I journeyed through Belgium and that was the scarcity of dogs. Apparently most of them had been taken by the Germans and what are left are beasts of burden who are too tired at night to bark or howl at strangers. This was a mighty good thing for me, for I would certainly have stirred them up in passing through back-yards as I sometimes did when I was making a short cut.

One night as I came out of a pond it was so pitch dark that I could not see ten feet ahead of me and I was right in the back of a little village, although I did not know it. I crawled along fearing I might come to a crossroads at which there would in all probability be a German sentry.

My precaution served me in good stead for had I come in the main street of the village and within twenty feet of me, sitting on some bricks where they were building a little store, I could see the dim outline of a German spiked helmet!

I could not cross the street and the only thing to do was to back track. It meant making a long detour and losing two hours of precious time and effort, but there was no help for it, so I plodded wearily back, cursing the Huns at every step.

The next night while crossing some fields I came to a road. It was one of the main roads of Belgium and was paved with cobble stones. On these roads you can hear a wagon or horse about a mile or two away. I listened intently before I moved ahead and hearing nothing concluded that the way was clear.

As I emerged from the field and got my first glimpse of the road, I got the shock of my life! In either direction,

Diagram Showing How O'Brien Lost Precious Hours by Swimming a River and Later Finding That He Was on the Wrong Side and Had to Swim Back.

As soon as darkness fell, however, I crawled out of my hiding place and worked up to the line and got a pair of overalls for my industry. The pair of overalls was the first bit of civilian clothes I had thus far picked up. I was in a hurry to get into them, but I had found that the prison and concentration camps were rather small and very short, but when I put them on I found that they hung down far enough to cover my breeches.

It was perhaps three days later that I planned to search another house for further clothes. Entering Belgian houses at night is anything but a safe proposition, because the families are so numerous, and as many as seven or eight sleep in a single room. The barn is usually connected with the house proper, and there was always the danger of disturbing some dumb animal even if the inmates of the house were not awoken.

Frequently I took a chance of searching a back yard at night in the hope of finding food scraps, but my success in that direction was so slight that I soon decided that it wasn't worth the risk and I confined myself to live on raw vegetables that I could pick up with safety in the fields and the occasional meal that I was able to get from the Belgian peasants in the day-time.

Nevertheless I was determined to get more in the way of clothing and when night came I picked out a house that looked as though it might furnish me with what I wanted. It was a moonlight night and I got in the barn. I would have a fair chance of finding my way around by the moonlight which would enter the windows.

The barn adjoined the main part of the house, but I groped around very carefully and as I touched something hanging on a peg I discovered that it was not what I wanted. There in the moonlight I examined my booty and found that it was an old coat. It was too short for an overcoat and too long for an ordinary coat, but nevertheless, I made use of it. It had probably been an overcoat

Prevent Caterpillar Plague.
The greatest thing on earth is a nestling bird. It consumes its own weight of food each day with a daily gain of 20 to 50 per cent in growth. Little else than mouth and stomach, it spends nearly all its waking moments eating. A young robin in captivity requires fifty earthworms per day as food for more. The progeny (scaly) of a pair of European jays are observed by a naturalist to eat half a million caterpillars in a season!

Sawing Through Diamond.
The old proverb about diamond cut diamond used to be true, but today a diamond can be sawed through on a thin disc of phosphor copper revolving about 3,000 times a minute. For many years all diamonds had to be sent to Amsterdam, where the Jews had a monopoly of the trade of diamond cutting. Even the Cullinan diamond was sent there to be "cleared" in two.

Young Diplomat.
David, recovering from a long illness, was given an evening party, much to his delight, and much to the envy of his sister, Mary Jane. While David was drinking his, one murmur, Mary begged for one too, but mother said, "No," whereupon mother heard David whisper to his sister: "Here, Mary, you drink this one quick, and when it is all gone, I'll cry for another one."

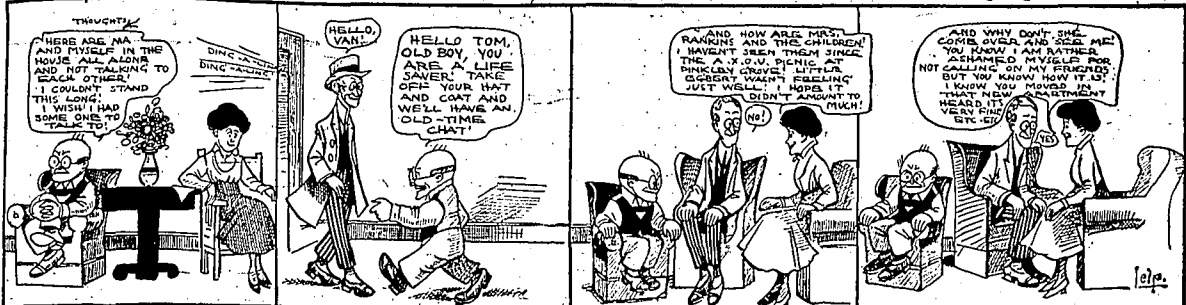

Know What He Needed.
Lawrence was intensely interested in his father's new auto. One day he was walking with his mother on an icy street when a man just in front of them came near falling. Lawrence laughed heartily at the man's wild remarks of arms and legs and the remarks to him: "Nister, you need some skid chains!"

YORK, June 13.—Captured by a German submarine off the Virginia coast, the steamer Vindegen was looted of its cargo last Saturday and sunk Monday, according to survivors.

By FRED & FERGUSON (United Press Staff Correspondent) WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN PICARDY.—Imagine the early moonlight of a warm May evening, you are sitting on a low stone wall, and from a hand range the soft strains of "La Paloma." You may be in a garden in the South, or in New York. All about there are lights. Beautiful American women are about. It is an hour of rest and amusement.

Sixty-eight survivors from both vessels, including a woman and a child, arrived at New York yesterday. They believed all hands had been saved.

No doubt American officers in a certain little village in Picardy imagined such a scene tonight. They had the moonlight, the May evening, the band and "La Paloma," but the stone wall on which they sat was about one of the village duck ponds. The land, instead of being hidden behind a bank of flowers, stood in the open road. The hands were soldiers. Their uniforms were soiled by days of marching. They were on the eve of entering the battle line of nations. But with the roar of heavy guns distinctly audible at the front they gave their evening concert with as much care and enthusiasm as if they had been in a concert hall. Little French towns in the village—played about their feet. An occasional supply wagon or French camion rumbled by, fairly drowning the music, but they played on.

Transfer Copper Cargo The captain of the Vindegen asserted that seventy tons of copper were taken aboard the submarine. Post authorities thought this figure was high but it was pointed out that the merchant submarine Deutschland, if converted into a fighting U-boat, as has been reported, could take about a very heavy cargo.

They Love Band Music The band concert at noon and in the evening was the only amusement possible in this village, which was occupied just before the final move into the line. Every man who could leave his post could be found in attendance.

REDUCTION IN HOG CHOLERA LOSSES

One hundred and sixty trained veterinarians of the Department of Agriculture are working in states in cooperation with agricultural colleges, state authorities and local veterinarians, to control hog cholera. The effectiveness of their efforts and the success of modern methods of combating cholera is shown by the fact that during 1914 the hog mortality from disease was 7,000,000 head, as compared to 3,000,000 in the year ending March, 1918, 90 per cent of the deaths being due to hog cholera. The losses in 1914 were equivalent to the normal consumption of pork and pork products by the entire population of the United States for 37 days.

MOVING ARMY OF LABORERS TO HARVEST WHEAT

In the central western states will be supplied by an army of workmen moving from Texas to North Dakota with the season of harvest. Definite plans for distribution of this labor have been ordered by the Department of Agriculture's farm help specialists co-operating with the Department of Labor and with county agents in those wheat-producing states. It is estimated that 80,000 men will be advised to harvest the wheat crop in Kansas, and that about 30,000 of this number will be furnished by the towns and cities of that state, while the remainder will go into Kansas from Oklahoma and Texas when the wheat harvest is finished in these states.

SUMMARY OF WEATHER AND CROP CONDITIONS IN IDAHO FOR THE WEEK ENDING TUESDAY, JUNE 4, 1918.

The cool weather has been rather favorable for all crops, wheat, oats and barley. These cereals have rooted deeply and stooled well and are in excellent condition. Spring wheat and oats are doing well in the irrigated sections, but in the dry farm districts except wheat and corn, crop conditions are not so favorable.

Irrigated meadows and pastures are in good condition. The first cutting of alfalfa is being harvested in the Clearwater valley. The crop is not quite up to the average. Alfalfa has suffered frost damage in many localities, and its growth has been retarded generally by cold weather.

The lower range, especially in the western counties where there has been little or no rain recently, is drying badly and as a result cattle and sheep are being crowded into the summer range from ten to fifteen days earlier than usual. The upper range is in excellent condition and feed is ample. Stock have filled out in good shape and are doing well.

The fruit outlook has not improved much. There will probably be prunes and apples enough to supply local demand, but the crop of peaches is reported per cent crop of prunes is reported on the Howell bench estimates run as high as 25 per cent in some orchards. The few prunes left in the Weiser district are dropping badly. The apples that are reported in the Idaho Falls and Jerome districts, but in the former damage is threatened by east winds, which are very numerous. Thinning is in progress in Franklin county.

CONSIDER STEPS

Thomas Moore, fraternal delegate from the Canadian trade unions, speaking before the federation, scored politicians and reviewed the part labor played in the war.

Greetings were forwarded by John Mitchell, New York, former head of the mine workers and J. A. Groves, chairman of the grievance committee of the Ohio Federation of Labor, who were not able to attend.

Secretary Frank Morrison announced that 131 reservations had been instrumental for consideration of the convention.

Regular Annual Affair

The annual fight to revoke the charter of the Steam Shovel and Dredge department was launched this year by W. J. Spencer of the building trades department. The charter was granted by the federation several years ago and has been annually availed since that time. Steam engineers also urge revocation of the charter, claiming it results in strife, confusion and disputes. The matter was referred.

NEW BULLETINS FOR DISTRIBUTION

This is a time when new information regarding conservation is necessary and these bulletins keep abreast with the times so let us have them while they are new. They are yours for the asking at the Farm Bureau office. Twin Falls, or they will be mailed to you on your request. These are the ones recently received:

"Save the Fat," "Save the Sugar," "Potatoes Three Times a Day," "Save the Meat," "Preservation of Eggs," "Stinson Canning."

BREAD

Three cups water, 4 cups barley flour, 3 cups bran, 1 cup cornmeal, 1 table spoon molasses, 5 table spoons brown sugar, 1 full teaspoon salt, 1 cake compressed yeast. This makes two loaves.

Barley flour sours if it stands too long in the raising.

Method: Dissolve yeast in ¼ cup warm water. Mix all ingredients except flour into the three cups of water. When luke warm, add yeast, then flour which has been thoroughly mixed. Use bread mixer, if possible, because it will be sticky. Put into pan immediately, let raise and bake one and one-half hour in moderate oven. This can be made with other yeast but use more than for wheat.

GEN. SIR HENRY RAWLINSON

Twenty-one cows in the Cow Testing Association made over fifty pounds of butter fat in May. Two cows, one belonging to Henry Schick, Buhl, and one belonging to Riley Maxwell, Buhl, made over 70 pounds, which leaves them a net profit of nearly $30.00 each, after deducting feed and cost of production.

Causes of Earthquakes.

Shrinkage of cartilages is the one of the earth's crust from cooling. This process exerts a powerful sidewise pressure on certain rock strata, and at irregular intervals one stratum slips a little over the other. Another cause is the sudden overturn of water into steam in or near volcanic districts. An explosion of greater or less violence is thus produced, and the consequent tremor is transmitted for many miles through the rocks.
