EXPLOSION AT LOCAL PLANT KILLS ONE EMPLOYEE

AMMONIA COMPRESSOR AT LINCOLN PRODUCE BLOWS UP, CAUSING INSTANT DEATH OF CHAS. H. PARRETT, FOREMAN—CAUSE IS MYSTERY

Charles Herman Parrett, foreman at the Lincoln Produce & Refrigerating company plant in Twin Falls, met his death Sunday afternoon as a result of an accidental explosion of a compressor used in the manufacture of ice at that plant, according to the verdict returned at 10:30 o'clock Monday morning by a coroner's jury composed of L. M. Dow, J. H. Jensen, O. W. Weymann, D. A. Seaman, Max Pink and Jake Fritz, all of Twin Falls.

The explosion of an ammonia compressor in the ice-making department of the Lincoln Produce & Refrigerating company, 307 Seventh avenue west, at about 4 o'clock Sunday afternoon, caused the instantaneous death of Charles Herman Parrett, aged 34, 307 Third avenue west, foreman in the plant for the past three and one-half years. A fragment of the device struck Parrett in the head, crushing the skull. He dropped dead beside the engine. Fragments of the wrecked machine were scattered by the explosion through the roof of the building and for a distance of 200 yards outside.

Parrett was in the building and in the vicinity of the appliance when it exploded, President Willot Hanco, Harry Smith, a button-maker employed in the plant for seven months past, and Charles Abbott, an employe in the plant for three months past. All three testified at the coroner's inquest held Monday morning, but none were able to explain definitely the cause of the explosion.

Searching for Leak
Mr. Hanco stated that they were endeavoring to locate a leak in the brine tank, which is a part of the ice-making machinery, and that for this purpose the compressor engine was to be reversed. It was of the opinion that Parrett had reversed the engine without operating a certain valve that Charles Abbott had afforded an outlet to the excess pressure that would have resulted. Parrett stood with his hands on two valves just before the explosion occurred, Mr. Hanco said. He was unable to tell which valve had been operated.

The device is one in general use in refrigerating plants. Mr. Hanco said, and Parrett was familiar with it, having received instructions in its operation from the engineer who had charge of its installation. Parrett was a steady, painstaking and competent employe, Mr. Hanco said, and not one who would have taken unnecessary risks.

Shelf First Notified
After the explosion Mr. Hanco and Smith carried the body of Parrett out

AUSTRIANS SLOWLY GIVE GROUND IN FACE OF DESPERATE DEFENSE

ENEMY PRESSURE CONTINUES STRONG ALONG ENTIRE BATTLE FRONT BUT MOVEMENT IS CHECKED IN ADVANCED AREAS SOUTH OF MONTELLA AND TROOPS SUCCEEDING IN CROSSING PIAVE RIVER ARE BEING GRADUALLY PUSHED BACK

VIENNA, June 17.—The Austrians have taken 12,000 prisoners in the Italian offensive, the central portion was officially announced today. The exploits on the west bank of the Siller river was reported: "West of San Dona, on the lower Piave, we have wrested more ground from the enemy, capturing Capo Billa," the statement said. "Our prisoners now total 12,000."

THE ITALIAN ARMBIES IN THE FIELD, June 17.—The Austrian pressure is continuing strongly along the new battle front in the Asiago region with the greatest force exerted on both sides of Brentano. It is still possible that the line will flow backward and forward, but the situation seems assuring.

The enemy, with sixty divisions, 720,000 men, has not succeeded in passing the advanced areas south of Montello, where they succeeded in crossing the Piave in considerable numbers. They are being gradually pushed backward toward the river.

The Italian reaction on the lower Piave came more quickly. The Austrians who crossed the river at several points between Gianfella, Sossano and San Dona di Piave were counter attacked and driven back almost immediately. The Germans have been carefully trained for this drive. One of their objectives, it has been stated, is the plain southeast from the mountain. They also intended to reach Treviso the first day, an advance of fifteen kilometers (about ten miles).

THIRD OF ATTACKERS FALL BEFORE AMERICAN DEFENSE

PRESENT IDEAL TARGET FOR YANKEE DOUGHBOYS
ADVANCE OF EIGHT HUNDRED OF ENEMY ALONG HALF MILE FRONT LITERALLY OUT TO PIECES BY WITHEBRING RIFLE AND MACHINE GUN FIRE—OVER THREE HUNDRED KILLED AND WOUNDED—AMERICAN CASUALTIES LIGHT

By FRANK J. TAYLOR (United Press Staff Correspondent)
WITH THE AMERICAN ARMBIES IN FRANCE, June 17.—More than a third of the large force of Germans, which attacked at daybreak yesterday was wiped out, it was established today. Eight hundred men participated when the attack was made on a half mile front, flanking the sides of the village. The enemy losses were estimated at more than 300, as a result of the American rifle and machine gun fire. Our losses were light and we took eight prisoners.

Both armies maintained a terrific barrage during the attack. The Germans began to bombard the town held by the American holding Xirway at midnight and continued throughout the morning.

A group of about 100 enemy troops crawled across No Man's Land, with the assistance of a barrage. They evidently expected to pick the American sleep. The Germans were discovered just before daybreak. The Americans immediately opened deadly machine gun fire from numerous points simultaneously.

Storm Troops Charge Across
One wave of infantry, leading storm troops, charged across No Man's Land toward the American trenches with the newly risen sun directly behind them. The Germans were an ideal target. As they crossed the flat country, the Americans waved them down in heaps. The wave was completely broken, with the exception of a small group which reached the village. These were quickly ousted in bayonet fighting. One hundred and fourteen American killed Xirway against nearly 900 Germans.

Our artillery threw an intense box barrage around the German attackers, cutting off their retreat. Following the close fighting on the storm and main lines of Xirway, the Americans drove the enemy back across No Man's Land, until stopped by the American box barrage. This practically annihilated the Germans, who were forced to run through it.

When our barrage opened then clean to the Rhine it had not been for our own barrage," said one doughboy, "but it got them." The Germans carried a number of machine guns on stretchers, but were unable to use them. They were forced to retire so rapidly that they left many of their wounded behind them.

Twelve German prisoners said the object of the raid was to take American prisoners, but they did not do it. It is believed from this that they intended to hold Xirway permanently. Prisoners' reports show that the Germans were trained for this attack more than a week. Smoke screens were used to hide their movements from American observers.

ALL QUIET ALONG MONTIDDIER FRONT
WITH THE AMERICAN ARMBIES IN FRANCE, June 17.—The American front at the edge of Montididier offensive front are now also on the shadow of a storm cloud which possibly will break before Amiens. This sector is quiet, but it is an ominous quiet. The artillery is silent and airplanes scarcely fly in the sky. Beneath the quiet, however, the keenest alertness lies. As on the Marne front, certain French units are serving under American commanders in the Montididier salient now.

STRIKE IS IN-HANDS OF COMPANY HEADS
ST. PAUL, Minn., June 17.—There will be no strike of commercial telegraphers if the commercial companies agree to abide by the ruling of the war board, President Knocconcamp of the operators today wired President Wilson.

In reply to a letter from the President Knocconcamp, a detail of operation allowed the French to widen their positions and take a hundred prisoners and a number of machine guns. The communique said "German raids failed in Courieres wood and the Yvelles."

Harry Lauder is a big hit in Picnic party. Men back from working all night on supply trains, or doing a trick back of the lines in the region where the German hordes are being barred from the road to Paris. But the Salvation Army smiles and does its best, and in return is well loved by the soldier.

The Army in Picardy is typified by Miss Langdon Van Norden, in charge of the work. The Salvation Army "huts" is an old ramshackle French house in a little village just in the rear of the lines. The streets about it are ankle deep in mud. French colonials had been billeted there when the Americans came in. The house was filthy; Miss Van Norden and her army, numbering two, cleaned it. A photograph was grinding away in one of the rooms almost before the first man to march in had been packed off. There came the work of getting supplies. It meant dangerous drives over shell-worn roads in an automobile to get them, but they were brought up. More cleaning, and soon the old house was the soldier's "social center" in the village.

Doughnuts and Pies
On the front northwest of Toul, the Salvation Army was—and is—famous for its doughnuts and pies. Men coming out of the trenches there can always count on doughnuts and pie when they get back the Army hut. In Picardy this is impossible, but Miss Van Norden and her fellow workers endeavor to keep everything else that a soldier might want—tobacco, candies, cakes, writing paper, candles and anything else that can be obtained. In the "reading room" is the graphophone. The soldier knows he is always

Non-Partisans Seek Minnesota Control.
Big Political Contest Being Staged in Minnesota For Control of State Government
(By United Press)
ST. PAUL, MINN., June 17.—The National Nonpartisan league, organization of farmers and workers, is fighting the second big battle of its history at the polls in Minnesota today. In the primary election it is trying to secure political control of the state.
The league won a similar fight in North Dakota two years ago. It claims a membership of 200,000 in twenty states; its chief membership at present being in North Dakota and Minnesota.
Many of the league's workers and officers have been up in jail by state and local authorities during the bitter campaign preceding the primary. The authorities charged dilapidating the league charged persecution. Its candidate for governor, C. A. Lindbergh, is arrayed against the present incumbent, J. A. A. Burquist, for the Republican nomination. All the other league candidates are running for Republican nomination.
The National party appears on primary ballots here for the first time, with I. O. Haug, Red Wing, as its candidate for attorney general, and its only candidate for any office.

SNAKE RIVER ON A RAMPAGE

South Fork out of Banks and Bogue Farms Under Water

RIOBY, Idaho.—The South Fork of Snake river, which enters this valley fifteen miles east of Rioby, is out of its banks, due to the exceptionally hot weather of the past week. The weather was cold during April and May and the snow, which was not as deep in the mountains as a year ago, did not melt then, but a week ago it began melting rapidly and the river has now assumed unusual proportions.

At this time it is considerably higher than a year ago and many farms along its banks are under water. Several bridges have gone out or have been damaged. Travel has been stopped over some part of the railroad and the bridge north of Rioby has gone out. Unless cool weather comes soon, many thousands of dollars of damage will be done to farms and bridges.

Reports received here today are to the effect that the great Jackson lake reservoir at Jackson Hole, on the headquarters of the South Fork of the Snake river is full, and to protect it, water must be turned down the river, which it is claimed, may raise the river another foot.

If this is done, untold damage will result in the upper Snake river valley. At places now the river is a mile wide and has been transformed into a mighty, rushing torrent.

MARTIAL AIRS LEAD MARINES TO BATTLE

SEA-SOLDIERS HAVE SONGS AND LYRICS OF THEIR OWN A PLENTY—SOME BY MEMBERS

He's a soldier and a sailor, every inch
 He's a fighter for his country in a pinch;
 And the foemen do not figure
 When his fingers on the trigger—
 He's a "go and get 'em demon,"
 That's a cinch.

He's as handy on the land as on the sea,
 And he often does the work of infantry;
 He can shoot and swim and paddle,
 He's at home when in the saddle,
 And he fits in well as field artillery.

There's a "bet you I can lick 'em" in his mind,
 He can live upon a cracker and a bean;
 He's as willing as he's ready,
 And his gun trained eye is steady—
 Here's to Billie Blue, UNITED STATES MARINE.

That's one of the war songs of the sea-soldiers, written by Ray L. Hoppman, and sung by Billie Blue Marine all over the world. The United States marine has a wonderful record, crowded with loyal service and honorable tradition.

Perhaps in every country and every clime the spirited strains of martial music have led the soldier to heroic deeds of valor. Way back in 1902, to what historic fervor the 22nd people awake, when 1500 Frenchmen marched from Marseilles to Paris, singing the triumphant ballad known as the "Marseillaise."

Only enough, the British soldier does "tipperary" to lighten his footsteps as well as his heart while he tramped through the lanes of France toward the trenches. There is no hint of storming barricades or charges across shell-torn fields in the lyric, whatever may be the true cause for its popularity, there is something in the swinging lilt of the catchy tune that made Tommy adopt it for his battle-song.

What could be more inspiring than "Dixie," and what a glorious reception it receives wherever the band plays the popular southern melody! Perhaps our own warriors abroad will accept it as the true fighting song of the American people, and "go over the top" chorally with the chorus of the immortal national air. Not that the "Star-Spangled Banner" or "America" will ever be forgotten, but "Dixie" is very popular, and deservedly so.

Our own sea-soldiers, the United States Marines have songs and lyrics

A plenty. Some of them have been written by regular troops who have found the deeds of "Billie Blue-Marine" an inspiration to their presence. Some have been written by the "ambitious warriors," themselves; for the Corps has its quota of poets who can both write and fight with all their might. The World's First Torpedo Failed

ITS inventor, David Bushnell, an American, in 1776 attempted to sink the British warship, Eagle.

Bushnell towing his torpedo, charged with powder by means of a long semi-obscure cable, planned to fasten it to the hull of the attacked ship with a steel plunger; then explode it by clock work.

His torpedo—too much of an experiment—failed.

THE LULL ON THE WESTERN FRONT

Military men have explained away each successive German drive with the assertion that the territory gained was not commensurate with the cost in effectiveness which the enemy has been made each time to pay.

The argument is not entirely reasoning, particularly now that the economy has advanced its lines to such an extent that a repetition of any of these drives may prove very costly to the Allies.

The reasoning that a little ground was not worth the terrific loss of life that might be necessary to retain it, held good at one time, but whether it continues to hold good now is an entirely different question.

Costs are a small item in warfare. Victory is what both sides are striving for, and if the German war machine can flow its way through to the Channel ports, or through to Paris, it will have won the war.

Foch's strategy of giving ground in exchange for terrain was convincing as long as the German lines did not move up to within striking distance of a vital spot.

When, however, those lines have gradually been pressed forward to within a few miles of such important railway centers and strategic points as Hazebroeck, Arras, Amiens, Compiègne, not to mention Rheims and Verdun, the situation may be just what we should recognize as serious.

Where will the Germans strike next? Will it be at Hazebroeck in a rush for the channel ports, at Compiègne in a dash for Paris, or will it be farther east?

No longer can Foch await the development of the German attack before strengthening the line where the attack falls. Time will not permit. The first Hun onslaught, unless driven back from the start, will carry with it, an important advantage.

Hindenburg has been working with a purpose—a bigger purpose than some have been willing to give credit for. It will not suffice to say that he has been picking the weakest places in the Allies line only to be able to send back into Germany reports of victories.

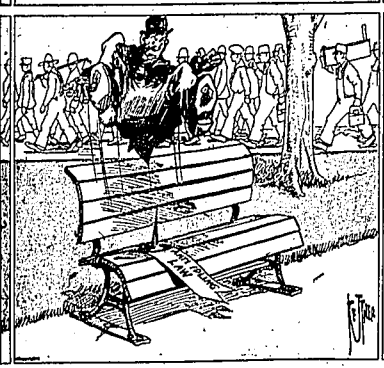

Hindenburg has gained no objective of great consequence, to be sure, but he has advanced his lines to a point where, under cover and well-lighting rapidly, he will be able to develop an offensive at any one of a half dozen places at the will of the victor.

Hindenburg's race is against America. The decisive stroke must be launched before America's rapidly increasing force becomes of vital consequence.

The Allies' strength was augmented by a quarter of million Yankees during May. Hindenburg is aware of this, and of the menace to his plans those arrivals constitute.

Today's lull on the Western front will not last long.

Work or Fight

The customary summer race met opening July Fourth has been dispensed with and the attention of the management will be concentrated on the matter of providing a real county fair.

The indications were never better. There is a healthy interest in the proposition on the part of farmers and stockmen and evidence of a genuine desire to help manifested over the whole county.

A county fair is a co-operative effort. It can succeed only in the degree to which it is supported by the people living in the country which it represents.

But there is little fear of such a result here. There has been a steady though gradual growth in public confidence and esteem from the first. Last year's fair was better than the year before.

Probably in no single direction have such strides been made as in the manufacture and use of various poison gases, in the business of modern war.

Much of the German plans since the beginning of the present offensive have been directly traceable to the use of gas.

Territory over which the Hun wishes to advance is drenched with a gas which disappears quickly. Where no advance is planned the gas problem and there is no question but what eventually the problem will be solved, but in the meantime hundreds of lives are being lost and thousands of fighting men incapacitated for periods carrying out of German plans and offensives.

There is one point in connection with the matter of gas on the West front which is of more than passing importance. The use of gas depends upon the question of winds, and it has been found that the prevailing winds are from the Allied lines towards the German and not from the German in the direction of the Allies. This is not an established rule as to wind move-

"Tenant in apartment Four D, Marbridge court," whispered vociferous Nathan, the young man who worked the switchboard at Curtis & Carter's real estate office.

"What's she like?" queried the youngest member of the firm.

"Oh, well, I should well talk to her—I'll bid her a little, and maybe that will keep her quiet," and sulking over the matter for a few days with his right hand, Mr. Carter reached out with his left hand to take the receiver of his hook on his desk phone and the operator connected him with the tenant in apartment Four D.

"I didn't catch the name—Miss Crosby—I certainly am sorry. But you'll have to see Mr. Hoover about that. "So—so you took my invitation seriously, did you? I'm glad." He laughed with embarrassment and the girl spent her blue eyes on the ground.

"I've called on all my friends. You see I don't know many people in town, and I've shopped till I've bought a trunkful of things I don't need. They spent hours in church and other hours in the museum and the public libraries. So your invitation was very welcome."

THE WAR TODAY

By J. W. T. MASON (United Press War Expert)

NEW YORK, June 17.—General Foch has solved the new problem of defense created by Von Hindenburg's bloody strategy of reckless attack.

The defeat of the Germans before Compiègne means primarily that Hindenburg can no longer hope to make large gains in western France without General Foch's consent.

The essential difference between the German offensive toward the Marne and the drive for Compiègne is that the former was a surprise and the latter was not.

A German effort to reach Amiens or France, can, therefore, be no more than a duplicate of the drive toward Compiègne.

General Foch is prepared for it. Hindenburg undoubtedly realizes the terrible consequences in his failure to capture Compiègne.

Why Called "Bloodhounds"

Bloodhounds were first known as southcooks, owing to their ability to track the deer, wild bear or the wolf. When the wounded game broke away it was lost these good-nosed dogs were in tracking the quarry by the blood trail, and hence they were called bloodhounds.

HAZELTON RAISES BIG FLAG WITH CEREMONY

Gift of Commercial Club is Hoisted White Bank Plays National Air

HAZELTON—On Flag day, Friday, Hazelton had a "flag raising." A beautiful American flag was presented to the town by the Commercial club, and H. K. Belmont presented a service flag.

The stars and stripes were borne by eight girls, all dressed in white and red, with the flag by eight boys led by the Hazelton band, all marching from the school house to the flag pole, where appropriate services were held. The band played the "Star Spangled Banner" while the flags were being raised. After which Rev. G. S. Bahngold offered prayer and Prof. John Wilson gave a four minute talk. M. J. Sweeney of Twin Falls gave a very fine address. Hazelton's service flag contains 39 stars.

The two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Simpson was taken to a Salt Lake hospital this week. Complications set in after an attack of pneumonia.

Run Down Battery MUST BE RECHARGED

It is commonly known that a man who has been without food for a long period cannot immediately resume heavy eating without serious results. Scientifically the reason for this is that the system is not prepared for sudden overloading. He must be fed small quantities of food frequently in order that his system may adjust itself to changed conditions.

Argument can be an exact parallel when applied to storage batteries. An exhausted battery which is a completely exhausted condition, or what is commonly known as "starved" cannot be brought back to normal again simply by running the engine and generator.

Many car owners believe that they can recharge an exhausted battery by this method. This practice, however, is a mistake, the direct result of which is to shorten the battery's life.

The only way to properly recharge an exhausted battery is to have an expert remove it from the car and charge it from an outside source at the proper rate, carefully adjusted to meet the changed condition of the battery.

"Our customers," says Mr. Dow, the local Willard representative, "are completed in every respect, with the most modern type of delicate electric instruments. We have found many cases where a battery had to be recharged very carefully in order to preserve its life. This calls for a great deal of care and constant watching on the part of our men, all of whom are experts in their line."

DEFENDS BOARD IN OUSTER PROCEEDINGS

JUDGE J. B. BETHWELL GOES TO SALMON CITY IN TRIAL OF LEMMI COMMISSIONERS

Judge James R. Bethwell leaves Tuesday for Salmon City, Idaho, where he will appear as one of the attorneys for the Lemhi county commissioners who are the defendants in ouster proceedings which come on for trial on June 20 in district court there before District Judge Harry E. Bangs.

The action brought by William Smith and other taxpayers of Lemhi county, who allege, as the basic case in their complaint, that the commissioners have been derelict in their duty by reason of their appropriating some $40,000 for improvement of a state highway between Salmon City and Challis without first securing an appropriation for the purpose from the state highway commission.

It is argued that the state highway commission agreed to appropriate funds for this purpose as soon as it should acquire funds.

The appropriation for the Salmon road made by the county commissioners was for the money received through the sale of a road bond issue in the sum of $150,000.

State and federal appropriations for the improvement of another state highway in the county, known as the Lemhi highway, were secured and the commissioners appropriated about $10,000 out of the proceeds of the bond sale for this work.

Further complaint against the commissioners is made on the grounds that they failed to erect signs at cross roads; failed to erect signs warning campers to extinguish fires; failed to keep a separate account of road matters and that they collected and expended fees improperly.

It is argued that the defendants demurrer was heard some six weeks ago. The demurrer was overruled.

OWES ESCAPE FROM INJURY TO WATCH

TIMEPIECE IN POCKET OF HENRY WELCH STOPS BULLET FIRED BY CHAS. BRONKHORN AT BUREAU

Henry Welch, a carpenter, of Buhl, is congratulating himself over a narrow escape Saturday evening from injury in a shooting affray, while his assistant, Charles Erickson, formerly a carpenter and now recently a shop helper in the employ of J. I. Gray, Buhl, is a prisoner in the county jail, charged with assault with intent to kill.

The shooting took place at about 8 o'clock Saturday evening at Buhl, Erickson it is said has been on a protracted spree and Welch had undertaken to straighten him out. Erickson resented Welch's interference and, grabbing a 25-30 caliber rifle, fired one shot at him. The bullet struck Welch's belt on the left side, tearing a hole in his canvas trousers and glancing upward, making a neat notch in his shirt pocket. The watch was a Christmas present to Welch and highly prized by him, but since its destruction by the bullet probably saved his life, he considers it a sacrifice well made.

EXAMINING INTO SPEECH BY DEBS

CLEVELAND, June 17.—Federal Attorney Worley today was examining the reports of federal agents who heard the address of Eugene V. Debs, former Socialist candidate for president, at Canton, Ohio, yesterday.

"I find that Debs said anything that violates the espionage law," said Worley, "I'll bring it to the attention of the federal grand jury at once."

Debs spoke in Canton to an audience of about 2,000, most of them delegates to the state Socialist convention. He must be extremely careful what I say and more careful how I say it," Debs said in his address.

Debs made it clear that he has not repudiated the Socialist party's platform, which pledges cooperation in service and other war measures. His position had been misrepresented to discourage members of the party and "to make it appear that we are divided among ourselves."

EXPLOSION AT LOCAL PLANT

(Continued from Page One) of the building on the platform outside. Mr. Debes communicated by telephone with Sheriff Keadell, asking him to come down and investigate the circumstances and communicate with Councilor C. J. Crosby. The body was removed to the Crosby undertaking establishment, where the inquest was held this morning.

AUSTRIAN ASSAULT PLANNED TO FORCE HER WITHDRAWAL

Germany Would Weaken Allies by Compelling Peace With Italy—Plan fails

By J. W. T. MASON (United Press War Expert)

NEW YORK, June 17.—The present Austro-Hungarian offensive against Italy undoubtedly is by order of Germany as a final desperate effort to weaken the allies through forcing Italy to withdraw from the war before American forces can become effective. Hindenburg has taken a blind chance on his new blood spilling to compel Austria to force to slaughter themselves in what will almost certainly prove a futile adventure.

The allies have been given splendid opportunities to increase dissensions in Austria-Hungary by holding that along the Italian front. A slight gain of territory by the Austro-Hungarians with the capture of a few thousand prisoners will never be accepted by the Emperor as sufficient justification for a heavy slaughter of Hapsburg troops.

The capture of Venice in itself would be without military value to the Austro-Hungarians, because nobody in Austria-Hungary believes it would be retained after the war.

"Length of the Law"

The laws, "The length of the law" owes its origin to the enormous length of some of the parchment rolls upon which the ancient statutes of Great Britain were inscribed. The present-day official title of the "master of the rolls" is a reminder of this ancient custom. Some faint idea of the bulk of the English records may be obtained from the fact that a single statute, the land tax commissioners' act, passed in the first year of the reign of George IV measures when enrolled upward of 600 feet—McMahon Sunday Herald.

Some Heat

It has been estimated that the total amount of warmth diffused by the Gulf stream would cause a river of metal as large as the Mississippi to flow, or would raise from a constant winter to a constant summer temperature the whole of the air that rests upon the British Isles and France. The fog that hangs over England is an object lesson, to a great part, owing to it, and through it the western coasts of Ireland enjoy a temperature two degrees higher than those on the East.

Fascinating Screen Facts

When "Believe Me, Xantippe," was a successful New York play, every one said it had the best catch title of any play of the season. Thousands of people went to it because the title aroused their interest. The play has been made into a Paramount picture, with Wallace Reid as star.

Coming: "Uncle Tom's Cabin" Surely good. Well, it's true Paramount has screened this famous American drama with Marguerite Clark as the star. J. Scarle Dawley, who has directed Miss Clark in her recent screen successes, repeated here.

Charles Stumar photographed "The Biggest Show on Earth," the new Paramount picture from Thomas H. Ince, starring Edith Bennett. Stumar is an expert and has done some of his best work in this film, which entitled so small difficulty, particularly in the scenes showing Miss Bennett as a lion tamer in a cage with a lot of big jagged beasts. A CIRCOUS LOVE STORY—PRODUCED BY THOMAS H. INCE—STARRING EDITH BENNETT

"THE BIGGEST SHOW IN TOWN"

This is the story of a circus girl—a lion trainer, whose fortunes are followed with remarkable fidelity to truth. To save her father's circus from being wrecked by an angry mob, she enters a cage filled with lions and subdues them by the mere force of her glance. Al G. Barnes' circus in winter quarters furnished the setting for the story.

The story of the photoplay is a beautiful one and there are many tense situations which hold the interest to the last scene. It is filled with life and animation and will prove of intense interest to the old and young alike.

It will be shown at The Idaho Theatre, with the usual Vaudeville program, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Capo-to-Cairo Rhodes"

So they called him, meaningly, when Cecil Rhodes, idealist and patriot, empire builder and adventurer, dreamed a railroad through the African sands that should run straight from the Cape of Good Hope to the shores of the Mediterranean. "Nonsense!" said the British government, forgetting that this man's "nonsense" had given the empire a territory greater than France, Germany, Austria-Hungary and Italy, all together. So Cecil Rhodes merely went out and built the railroad that turned a desert into a nation—World Outlook.

Bristol Long Famous Port

Bristol is one of the ancient ports of England, and three or four hundred years ago it was second only to London. From the very outset it has been connected with trade on this side of the Atlantic, and, in fact, it was out of Bristol that John Cabot sailed in 1497 on the voyage that brought him to the coast of Nova Scotia and was, therefore, the first to reach the mainland of this continent.
