SPEEDY VICTORY IS CHANGING TO BITTER DEFEAT

HINDENBURG'S PROMISES HAVE GONE GLIMMERING

STRENGTH AND MORALE OF GERMAN ARMY IS BELIEVED TO BE DECREASING DAY BY DAY, AND IF ALLIES KEEP UP PRESENT WORK, BEGINNING OF END BELIEVED IN SIGHT—ENEMY SAID TO HAVE LESS THAN A DOZEN FRESH DIVISIONS ON WEST FRONT

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS (United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, June 21.—Today, three months from the beginning of Hindenburg's colossal offensive, his promised "speedy victory" is not achieved.

From now on the strength of the first week of the Somme thrust—three months ago—has not more than a dozen fresh divisions on the west front in no way to participate in the drive. In addition to these, more than thirty divisions have been withdrawn from one sector from the beginning of the end is in sight.

This does not mean that peace will be at hand—but the road to victory ought to be stretched out straight ahead.

The west front is now nothing, ruffling and smoking, like a chain of volcanoes between eruptions.

Germany Is Weaker

One thing is certain. The Germans today are weaker numerically and morally, than at the beginning of the offensive. From prisoners it is learned that fewer German divisions are now on the west front than there were a month ago. Today there are not more than five divisions which have not been in this offensive. Barely a baker's dozen which have not yet participated in the drive. In addition to these, more than thirty divisions have been withdrawn from one sector from the beginning of the end is in sight.

Altogether, Hindenburg has about fifty divisions available for immediate action, whereas 81 were used during the first week of the Somme thrust—three being absolutely fresh and especially trained.

USE OF MESSENGERS WOULD MEAN FRAUD

DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE DON'TUBERS PROBE INTO WORK OF WESTERN UNION

WASHINGTON, June 21.—An investigation by the department of justice is being made today to determine whether government messages were transmitted by the Western Union Telegraph company by messenger instead of wire.

If this were done, it was stated, it would constitute a fraud against the United States, punishable by heavy fine and imprisonment.

Following the seizure yesterday of great masses of messages sent by messenger but not by wire, the government today is determining upon its next step. Postmaster General Burleson will confer with President Wilson late today.

Further investigation by postal inspectors and district attorneys which may have a nationwide practice on the part of the Western Union in delivering inter-city telegrams by post, is continuing, it was stated at the post office department.

FLOOD WATERS AT HIGH POINT

FERRY SERVICE ALONG SNAKE RIVER IS OARRIED ON WITH UTMOST DIFFICULTY

With the reaching of what is believed to be the peak of the flood, yesterday afternoon, all actual danger of serious trouble at bridges and ferries along the Snake is believed to be safely passed. While the water is still higher than it has been in years past, it is apparently not gaining.

Shoshone falls presents the greatest spectacle of the kind within the memory of the oldest inhabitant. The recent rains and unusually warm weather, which caused rapid melting of ice remaining snow in the hills when swollen every stream in this part of the state. The water last evening was within a foot or two of the floor of the Perrine bridge. The ferry at the falls is operated only with the greatest difficulty, while that at Owyhee's has been forced to temporarily discontinue service at various intervals for the past two or three days.

Both the Murtough and Clear Lakes bridges are well above the flood, it is reported.

LONDON, June 21.—The Italians have smashed forward and re-entered Nervesa, it was learned authoritatively today.

Violent fighting is under way in the streets. The Italians are striving desperately to consolidate their success and reach the river.

On the lower Plave the Austrians have been swept back again. The Italians have now regained more than half the ground lost in this region.

The Austrian drive so far is a complete failure, but they may make a great effort to retrieve their reverses. They are reported to have considerable forces in reserve, the greater part of these being in the mountains.

Italians Have Best of It

WITH THE ITALIAN ARMIES IN THE FIELD, June 21 (Night)—Fighting rages incessantly along the whole front line, from Montello to the Adriatic.

The Italians appear to have the advantage everywhere on this front, particularly above Zsonon. Their attacks are carried out with vim and dash, while the less frequent Austrian counterattacks lack spirit.

Open fighting has permitted the Italian cavalry to act as such for the first time since the war commenced. In a certain sector on the Plave 500 mounted lancets made a spectacular charge, burning five barricades and slaughtering great numbers of the enemy. They captured seven prisoners, three cannons and three machine guns.

Bridge Bill Out

It was established that five enemy divisions (60,000 men) are on the west side of the river. A considerable number of these are north of San Donn di Plave, where that temporary bridge have been swept away by the flooded river. The Austrians have succeeded in throwing three new bridges across in the San Donn sector, but the current

GOVERNMENT CAUTIONS AGAINST TOO MUCH OPTIMISM OVER AUSTRIAN CONDITIONS

By CARL D. GBOAT (United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Government authorities are cautioned today against over-optimism as a result of reports of Austrian strikes, peace demonstrations and food riots. Though the state department and other agencies had reports showing unsatisfactory conditions among a considerable number, it is pointed out these reports have preceded every Teuton offensive thus far.

The holding of the Austrian drive against Italy has had a strong reaction within Austria, according to information here. The Austrians are dissatisfied with the slow progress and it is said nothing short of a success there will prevent serious internal troubles. The attitude of officials is based on these things.

INCREASE OF WHEAT PRICE IS LIKELY RESULT

WASHINGTON, June 21.—Increase in the price of wheat to meet higher freight rates and increased production costs is under consideration by the food administration, it was learned officially today.

DECISION OF BERLIN TO SEND FOOD INTO DUAL MONARCHY ESTABLISHES PRECEDENT WHICH CAN ONLY MEAN MORE TROUBLE TO FOLLOW

By J. W. T. MASON, (United Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, June 21.—The seriousness of the domestic situation within Austria-Hungary is revealed by the decision of the German government to send food into the dual monarchy drawn from Germany's own scanty supplies.

The Austro-Hungarian food minister, Pawl, has been in Berlin several days trying to persuade the Germans to send food into the dual monarchy drawn from Germany's own scanty supplies.

LANDED SAFELY BY DESTROYER AT PORT IN FRANCE

ELWOOD AND RAYMOND ROBERTS OF MURTAUGH ON ILL-FATED LINCOLN, SPEND 18 HOURS ADRIPT IN JOY WATERS OF THE ATLANTIC

Adrift together for eighteen hours, several hundred miles off the coast of France, on the same life raft, Elwood and Raymond Roberts, sons of Alex. E. Q. Robert, of Murtaugh, were picked up by two destroyers and with the other survivors landed at a French port. All of the survivors were later returned to New York on a speedy oil burner that made the trip in six days and eighteen hours. The boys have been given a furlough and are expected home for a short visit within the next few days.

The brothers were second-class cabin mates on the Lincoln, having enlisted in this county. They were on their fifth trip, returning home, and had supposedly passed the danger zone when their ship, the Lincoln, was hit by a German torpedo, between Brest and ten in the morning. The Lincoln received about thirty minutes. The company of destroyers which had seen the Lincoln and two other transports through the danger zone last night, on the morning, the other two ships, complying with naval orders, dashed about to escape the same fate. The crew of the Lincoln took to the lifeboats and rafts as the ship went down.

Looking for Captain

The U-boat soon appeared and cruised for some time among the survivors, endeavoring to identify the captain of the transport. The survivors, however, refused to give the Germans any information as to the location of the U-boat. The submarine, abandoning its efforts, pulled off a little distance and waited until four

The money goes to a military recreation fund.

RED CROSS SHOP HAS SUCCESSFUL OPENING DAY

COMMITTEE IN CHARGE IS ENCOURAGED BY INITIAL RESULTS - DEMAND EQUALS GIFTS

Checking up on the results of the first day's business Wednesday evening was a pleasant occupation for Mrs. Kennedy Packard and her assistants in charge of the Red Cross Salvage Shop opened that day under the auspices of the Twin Falls County Red Cross chapter in the little brick building on Second street, north between Main and Second streets.

Interest manifested in the actual returns were not large, but they were in excess of the expectations of those in charge, and there had been evidenced during the day a degree of interest in the undertaking on the part of the public that augurs well for the future success and prosperity of the enterprise.

Long before the closing hour, the last vestige of the cooked foods that had been brought in for sale during the day had been disposed of, although the donations of this sort had been generous. Pies, cookies and salads and fried chickens were snatched up by eager buyers as they were received. There were some sales of wearing apparel, and donations of these articles came in steadily during the day.

Wheat Flax Toast
In the shop there is displayed conspicuously a want list, on which is enumerated a number of articles for which there is the largest demand, donations of which are particularly desired. This list includes eggs, butter, chickens, cottage cheese, cooked foods, of all kinds, and outgrown clothing.

Expect a Ford
At the bottom of the list a Ford car is called for. "That is not a joke," Mrs. Packard said, "because we are going to get it before long."
"What you don't see, ask for—it's here," says another sign on the shop.

JUGO-SLAVS MAY NOW JOIN ARMY

WASHINGTON, June 21.—President Wilson has approved an amendment to the Jugoslav subject of Austria, in the American army. He wrote Senator Hitchcock that he saw no objection to allowing these subjects of Austria to join the American army, as a Slavie legion. The senate committee immediately adopted the senator's amendment to the $12,000,000 army bill to provide for the formation of such a unit. It is estimated that this will add from 300,000 to 600,000 men to the United States army.

HERB'S REAL SEA PILOT

DALLAS, TEX., June 21.—Rev. A. J. Burns, former assistant pastor of Calvary Episcopal church, New York City, has discarded the wings of eloquence and the flights of oratory, and has taken unto himself the wings of an airplane, and is making flights of observation and attack.
He is a real sea pilot now. He didn't have to go to war, but he's still young, and he found a passage in the Book about "putting on the armor of justice," and took it to mean, in the present instance, an aviator's suit. So he joined the aviation corps—not as a chaplain, but as a fighter.

NO ABANDONMENT OF STRIKE ORDER

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 21.—Commercial telegraphers have not abandoned plans for a nation-wide strike, President S. J. Konecny of the Commercial Telegraphers Union said. The date he has set for the strike will not be announced immediately. Refusal of the Western Union to accept the national war labor board's ruling makes a strike necessary, Konecny said.
The union is being aided by the Western Union or the government taking over the telegraph lines will avert a strike, Konecny said.

GRANDY SHOP IN LONDON

LONDON, June 20.—The country has at last had a grand old-fashioned lunch-room in England, the first American-type dyspepsia parlor the country has seen. It was opened here by the food ministry as a national restaurant, offering food at about one-third the average restaurant prices. The whole enterprise is a government affair, and business is booming.

HUN'S HEAVY HUMOR SHOWS IN HIS SLANG

LONDON.—The Hun has his slang, too.

Fritzie's bloodies have had an influence on his wartime lingo of the trenches. He nicknamed the British common shell after his cousin, the "schwarz saan," or black sow. Fritzie's odoriferous step-brother provided a slang name for the French .35 high-explosive shell, which he affectionately calls "stahwiel," or skunk.

He calls the French .75 shrapnel shell the "windhund" or greyhound, and the low velocity missile is a "bludschleiche" or slow-worm. Shells coated with gas are "luftomibuss," aerial omnibuses or "rollwagen," which means pushcart.

The British high velocity heavy shell is called after the grand-daddy of Germany, "schwartz testel," black dog, and the Lewis gun is known as the "hacklefischmaschine" or misceant machine. Machine-guns of other types are called "kaffeemuhle," coffee-mill, "steinklopper," stonecrafter, and "muhmaschine," meaning moving machine. They are called by a word meaning "stuttering auntie," which comes nearest to being like regular whiteman's slang.

Machine-gun companies are especially noted for their devotion to the Kaiser. They call them by a word that they are called the "Murders Club" throughout the German army.

EIGHT DEFENDANTS ARE DISMISSED

BEAVERS DAM UP -RAFT RIVER WATERS

GARD WARDEN J. R. FITZSIMMONS
SPENDS FOUR DAYS DYNAMITING
OBSTRUCTIONS

The waters of Raft river, forty miles southeast of Burley, were made available for the irrigation of a large area of land in crop this week when J. R. Fitzsimmons of Twin Falls, chief assistant deputy state game warden, superintended the dynamiting of nineteen dams constructed by beavers across the river at intervals along its course for a distance of about five miles. The destruction of the dams is effective only temporarily, since the busy little animals began immediately to repair their damaged structures, and later irrigations may require further dynamiting.

Mrs. Fitzsimmons was accompanied on the trip to Raft river by E. N. Day of this city, and was assisted in the work by a number of farmers. He acted under instructions from the state game warden. Four days were occupied in the work.

In some places the dams raised the level of the stream as much as three and one-half feet, the river being a slow-moving one across level lands. In some instances as much as 100 acres of land was inundated back of the dams.

The dams in this section are constructed of a scrub willow, which the ingenious little creatures know off at the butt and feed down stream, anchoring it with the butt up stream by means of mud and weaving a network of moss and leaves throughout. Some of the dams are as wide as ten feet across the top and extend in length for several yards so that the waters of the stream do not flow freely around the obstruction.

In the course of the work of removing the dams, no beavers were encountered because they took flight at the first appearance of the men, and no fish were killed.

STORIES of AMERICAN CITIES

Seem Unable to Get "Hang" of Daylight Saving

BALTIMORE—There is in this city a man who swears he can't get the hang of the "daylight saving" plan. He is a perfectly intelligent fellow, with a keen enough brain, and there is a strong opinion that his inability to understand the "daylight saving" scheme is largely due to an argumentative disposition.

But, however that may be, there is something to what he says. There is going to be a lot of topsy-turvy business resulting from the double-quick of the clock, unless people really do what they are being told to do.

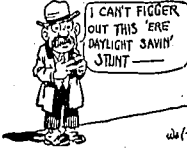

"Set your clock forward an hour and—forget it!"
The trouble is some of these birds are determined not to forget it.

There will be the sports fellow, who, thinking to slip one over on the government, will look at his watch, note that the hands register 1 o'clock, and will exclaim:

"It's only midnight, boys—we've got another hour yet!"

An intelligent-looking man was heard to say:

"I'm not going to be mixed up about this time business—I'm going to carry two watches, one in my left vest pocket and one in my right vest pocket. When I want to do anything I'll look at the one in my right pocket, but when I want to really know what time it is, I'll look at the other one."

Stars and Stripes Waves at Home of Joan of Arc

By FRANK J. TAYLOR
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCES AT THE FRONT.—With characteristic French appreciation, the Stars and Stripes have been placed in a position of honor in the church of the little village of Domremy, home of Joan of Arc.

Across from the iron-fenced yard with the tall evergreen trees and the tiny house once the home of Joan of Arc, is the old church in which Joan used to worship and give thanks for France's successes. In it are the flags of the principal allied nations.

But there is one place different from the ordinary flag hangings on the columns of the old church. It is a sort of special altar in one corner sacred to the memory of Joan of Arc. To the left as you face this altar is a bright new American Stars and Stripes, while to the right is the flag of France with the figure of Joan on her black and gold background on the white bar of the tricolor. There are many tricolors in France, naturally, but this seems the only one on which an additional figure is allowed.

Doughboys Pay Homage

Another bright American flag is in the beautiful church on the hillside back of sleepy Domremy in which Joan saw her visions. Domremy is one of the main roads back of the American sector, and never a day passes without many doughboys and officers stopping to visit the home of Joan of Arc and the church in which she was inspired.

The simple old French woman, a direct descendant of the family of Joan of Arc, whose husband is keeper of the place in times of peace, does her best to explain things to the Americans. She is sorry she cannot speak English, she tells you, but she is "too old to learn it now." So the doughboys listen with respect to her halting French, and never leave without giving the kind old soul a few coppers and many a "merci beaucoup."

TWENTY-THREE WOULD GO TO WAR LATER

Fils Claims for Deferred Induction on Grounds of Being Engaged in Farming

Twenty-three of the 100 class one registrants called to fill the county's quota of 125 to leave here for Camp Lewis on June 29 have filed claims for later induction on the grounds that they are actively engaged in farming crops and that their agricultural services cannot well be disposed with. The local board has ruled in those cases that temporary exemption will be granted first to those registrants who are the owners of the land they are farming, and afterward, if possible, other valid claims will be granted.

Following is a list of those who ask that their induction into the military service be deferred until after harvest: Roland Stricker, Rock Creek; James Volakis, Hollister; Fred McGary, Hanson; Martin Miller, Castleton; Frank W. Hatch, Buhl; Ray O. Edmiston, McEwen, Oregon; Carl Lewis, McEwen, Buhl; Glenn Allen Briggs, Murtaugh; Fergus F. Brigg, Murtaugh; O. C. Durick, Hanson; William Liermann, Jr., Buhl; Noah Musser, Athlens, Kansas; Clyde G. Walker, Hanson; Harold Bryant, Mahan, Filer; William Bruce, Murphy, Idaho; Herbert E. THIEVES BREAK INTO CONFECTIONERY STORE

KIMBERLY—The confectionery store of W. L. Downing was entered by burglars Tuesday night through a side window and numerous articles taken, being mostly cigars, candles, soft drinks. So far about $50 worth have been missed. The authorities are working on the case and it is thought it may prove to be local talent. The house of Ira Atkinson in the west part of town was also attempted to be broken into but was discovered and the burglars scared away before anything was taken.

Thomas Glover has bought a twenty-acre ranch at Orland, California, and will leave in about two weeks with his wife and daughter, Mrs. Quezelo Shaw and her children, where they will make their future home. Kimberly is sorry to see this good family leave Kimberly, but wish them well in their new location. They expect to drive through in their auto.

At the Farm Bureau day here Wednesday the Ladies' Pioneer club worked for the Red Cross by having booths, lunches, and donations. The sales totaled about $300. One attraction in the window of Wilson Brothers store drew quite a crowd, where Mrs. Wiley Coplinger, Mrs. Toland, Mrs. Shively and others were operating the old fashioned spinning wheel, reel, carding the wool, in fact it showed every operation from the wool from the sheep's back to the completed sweater for the boys "over there."

The speaking and demonstrations for the farmers and their wives lasted nearly all day and until near midnight and the large crowd present were well paid for coming out at this busy period and trying new ideas in their respective lines.

A delegation from Twin Falls, including James McMillan and Messrs. Dwyer, Kingsbury, White and others were here Thursday looking after the interests of the Chautauque, good results and Fourth of July celebration—meeting with a warm spirit of co-operation in all lines from our citizens.

President Wilson Indorses Chautauqua

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON
14 December, 1917.
My Dear Mr. Flowers:
It has been on my mind for some time to thank your organization for the very real help it has given to America in the struggle that is concerned with every fundamental element of national life. Your speakers, going from community to community, meeting people in the friendly spirit engendered by years of intimate and understanding contact, have been effective messengers for the delivery and interpretation of democracy's meaning and imperative needs. The work that the Chautauque is doing has not lost its importance because of war, but rather has gained new opportunities for service.
Let me express the hope that you will let no discouragement weaken your activities, and that the people will not fail in the support of a patriotic institution that may be said to be an integral part of the national defense.
Cordially and sincerely yours,
WOODROW WILSON.

WIRELESS NIGHT LETTERS

A new sort of paternalism on the part of the Western Union has been uncovered by the government, according to press dispatches. The company is charged with delivering its so-called night letters by special messengers between eastern cities where train schedules are favorable and where the trip can be made in from six to eight hours.

Newton Carlton, president of the company, declares that "the public need not be surprised at any attacks that might be made against the Western Union at this time, thus admitting that a condition of belligerency exists between his company and the government. That such a condition does exist everywhere, of course, knows that the office is Mr. Carlton's unparliamentary effort to talk the will of the government in the controversy he is having with Western Union employees is another well-known fact.

THE WAR TODAY

By J. W. T. LEBON (United Press War Expert)

NEW YORK, June 21.—Movement of American troops into Alsace is a strategic movement that must exercise a serious influence on future disposition of Von Hindenburg's fast dwindling reserves, and may interfere with plans for a new offensive in western France.

The new American positions are so far away from the present area of activity along the west front as to compel Hindenburg to organize a large-scale reserve force to protect the upper Rhine against sudden American attack. These reserves must be drawn from the central German reservoirs that make good the losses incurred by Hindenburg's futile drives in Flanders, Picardy and Champagne.

Any strengthening of the German positions in Alsace as the result of America's increasing power in that sector must necessarily decrease the striking force of a German offensive towards Paris and the channel north. If Hindenburg prefers to take chances with the Americans and weaken his Alsace line for the benefit of future operations in western France, the Stars and Stripes may be planted on the banks of the Rhine ahead of scheduled time.

American units in Alsace are about twenty miles from the Rhine. Capture of the river near the Swiss boundary might suddenly become an immediate American objective any time in the near future if Hindenburg leaves the pathways guarded only by weak detachments.

Before the German spring offensive began, Hindenburg had a large reserve army stationed near the Swiss border in anticipation of an American attack in that area. There is reason to believe the slaughter of German manpower in Flanders, Picardy and Champagne compelled Hindenburg to deplete these reserves considerably. This is sufficient one of the considerations that led General Foch to send the new American troops into Alsace.

In consequence of General Foch's move, Hindenburg is again compelled to face one of these terrible puzzles that General Foch so persistently forces on the German general staff. If the Rhine is left partly open in Alsace, an American offensive is deliberately invited, while if it is closed with heavy German reserve reinforcements the slim chance of reaching Paris or the channel becomes nil.

(141st day of the war; 92d day of the big offensive.)

Italian Front: The situation becomes daily more favorable to the Italians. Added to desperate resistance, which has prevented the Austrians attaining a single major objective, heavy rains have swollen the Piave river and cut off large forces of the enemy.

French Front: Railing and artillery activity increased on the Somme northward to the Lens sector. The situation is always the same aspect as that which always has preceded a German drive.

Flanders Front: Same condition of affairs as on the Piave front, leading to the belief that a gigantic drive is imminent, which may include both areas.

Oslo Front: French detachment penetrated German positions and held prisoners at various points between Mandelbier and Oslo.

Germany: Peace demonstrations in Berlin, Cologne and Hamburg resulted in several civilians being killed and others arrested by the military police, according to heavily censored dispatches received in Stockholm.

Austria-Hungary: Various organizations openly oppose reduction of the bread ration and demand peace. Ukraine: The anti-German revolution in Kiev is spreading into the province to the eastward. United States: The state department formally added the Spanish embassy to investigate the reported Turkish attack on the American consulate and hospital at Tabriz, Persia. This is believed to preface a declaration of war. Thrive by thrift—by W. B. S.

Fighting Spirit Shown in Veteran, "Only 68"

HE WAS old and weather-beaten—just the sort one would imagine staged at home and took only a passive interest in outside affairs. But his eyes were bright and there was a stiffening of his shoulders as he walked into headquarters and asked if he could see the general. He was told the general was busy, but would see him presently. This claim, which he believed, had come some 300 miles to see the general, and wanted to see him. Just then the general walked out of his office. The old chap sprang to his feet, crying: "Hello, Jack! I see that you are a lurid non, and you are 'Come right on in, Mack,' said the general, and they shook hands. "Come right in. I'm powerful glad to see you. What has brought you so far away from home?" "Well, sir, I don't get so many papers, but I got hold of one (other day) and it said you were a lurid and was going to fight anything that needed fighting, and that you were getting up a parcel of cavalry to go with you. Now listen, Jake; 'cause me, Juro, I want to go, I am only sixty-eight years old, but I can ride a horse with the best of them, and can shoot a rifle against any German I ever saw. I have faced things up to now everything in my own mind. When will you let me start?" Then the general began to explain. The regulations said this and that. No one over forty-five years old would be accepted. But the explanations didn't satisfy. "I am just blessed to go with you, Jake," was the reply to every one. "And don't you remember," said the old man, who had begun to plead in earnest, "the time you stayed at my house when you were running for the senate. You are sort of like you were then—one of us fellows. Why you act at my table and talk to the old woman and the children, and you shoudn't act going to not let me go after that, are you?" Again the general explained the impossibility—that he himself would like to have a regiment of just such men, but the government forbade. And pretty soon the old fellow and the general went out arm in arm, one pleading and the other defending.

RIVER SLOWLY FALLING FROM HIGHEST LEVEL

SERIOUS DAMAGE IS DONE TO FARMS, ROADS, BRIDGES AND CANALS IN UPPER SNAKE VALLEY

IDAHO FALLS, June 19.—Snake river reached the crest of its flood stage and is now steadily receding, the readings of the City Engineer's office at the dam this morning showing a fall of one-half foot since yesterday morning. The fall is slightly noticeable in the increased efficiency of the light and power plant but it will be a few days yet before normal service can be resumed. Reports from the upper country yesterday stated that the river was falling.

The decrease in the stage of the river marks a relief from the highest waters ever known in the Snake. Serious damage was done to farm lands in the upper country, and bridges and roads in every canyon through which the river flows. Canals were damaged in some places, and railroad property suffered from the floods. No estimate has been attempted as to the amount of damage done but it will run into high figures.

Conditions in the canal system around Blackfoot were very serious Tuesday, but with the fall of the river it is believed that much damage has been averted.

Conditions from Roberts this morning indicated relief there from the waters which have inundated the east side of the town for several days. The situation there was aggravated Sunday afternoon by a terrific rain and electrical storm. The new Presbyterian church which was dedicated two weeks ago was struck by the lightning and the farm home of Healy, Glade, north of Roberts, was struck twice.

LANDED SAFELY

o'clock in the afternoon for boats that might be sent to pick up the survivors, doubtless intending that they should meet the same fate as the Lincoln. No other ships in their appearance, however, probably having been warned from that locality. During the night two destroyers came up and began picking up the survivors. The Roberts boys were found about 4 o'clock in the morning, having a total of eighteen hours they had spent on the raft.

Following is the letter received by Miss Gertrude Boers of Murtaugh from Raymond Roberts, describing the attack on the steamship and the rescue:

Got your letter yesterday and was sure glad to hear once more from you. Am feeling fine after my experiences. Well, I will try and tell you about it. You see we had been to Brest and had some back to the States. The country had left us and we thought we were out of the war zone. On the morning of the 21st, about 9 o'clock, I was on watch below when we were hit. One torpedo hit us under the bridge and another in the shaft alley.

Goal Posts Man

I had just got through pulling my rings and was firing wet with water was standing in the coal bunker, where it was cool, with my coal passer. The explosion carried the coal down on us and it almost buried him alive. I was standing under a big beam and didn't get hit. I did get hit. Only big chunks hit me on the arms and legs and bruised me up. I helped him out and up the ladder, then I went back and lifted my safety valve on my boiler. Every light went out below and the water commenced to come in, and they gave orders to come up. Well, when I came on deck I looked around and finally located Elwood and we worked together, throwing our life boards. So we would be together when we jumped aboard.

Finally the captain gave orders to abandon ship, and Elwood and I went over and crawled to a raft:

Nobody was a bit excited. I know a swimmer. I did quite well in the idea of jumping in that cold water. I know as soon as we got on a raft we paddled with our hands away from the ship. She had already sunk almost over with the deck. After we got out about two hundred feet away from the ship, I watched her sink, and honestly I will never forget how she looked going down. The back end of the ship went down first and then she just lurched up in the bow and just all under. The crew structures had got all the main and the big smoke stack. The main made the awfulest noise you ever heard.

Look Their Pictures

Well, after she went down the "sub" came up among us and asked us where our coats were. We took them and thought he was down with her. But of course he and most of the officers had changed their clothes and had on sailors' clothes, and a white cap. Finally the "sub" saw an officer among us that had a gun. He got his uniform off and they made him come over with them. They took our pictures and laughed at us, and once one of them uncovered a gun that was mounted by the conning tower, and then when I thought of it, time had come. Honest, I had it figured if he started in shooting us I was going to struggle and go down. But he was just scaring us. They were only waiting for the other ships to come back and pick us up. They locally they didn't, because he might have got them too. Its number was U. V. 1011.

Destroyers Come Up

Well, about 3:30 or 4 o'clock it went away and we never saw it again. The water was awfully rough and got it on my coat. I didn't have many clothes on, only I had on when I worked below—the very lightest of clothes, not even a top shirt. But some of the boys were caught taking a bath and didn't get any clothes.

Well, about 12:30 that night two destroyers came to pick us up, and really they were the prettiest little things I believe I ever saw—to me, anyway. They got the boys in the boats first and about ten minutes after 4 Elwood and I were picked up. That made about eighteen hours in the water.

When they got us all on we started back. They gave us something to eat, but they didn't have blankets or clothes enough to go to a new. But believe me I was well satisfied to be on the deck anywhere. They took us back to Brest and put us on the a fast oil burner, and there we got some clothes and things. We came over here in six days and eighteen hours. Everybody lost everything he had. I lost all of my money, $208. I had quite a bit loaned out among the boys and will get it when we get paid again. I hated to lose my violin and the guitar, too, and I had some presents for my uncle and mother, too.

I am on a four days furlough now and when it is up they are going to give us a furlough home. Then we can tell you lots of things.

I can just mention how mother almost took it when she heard about it, and in a letter she wrote the 20th she had been sick. Oh, God! when will this war ever end!

Well, you must not worry, because I am in just as much love mother almost took it when she heard about it, and in a letter she wrote the 20th she had been sick. Oh, God! when will this war ever end!

ITALIANS TAKE

is less swift here, owing to the broadening of the river, and the positions are less exposed to Italian artillery fire, because of the latter's greater distance from the bank. The enemy units further north are still in great danger of capture or annihilation through inability to obtain reinforcements to complete their ammunition or food supplies. This is particularly the case just south of Candela, where the Italians drove forward to the river, splitting the enemy forces.

Many Are Drowned

Attempts by the Austrians to cross the river in boats and rafts have resulted in many being swept away and drowned.

Resumption of the Austrian drive southward from the mountain region is expected hourly. This most obvious strategy—success of which would doubtless result in the complete retirement of the whole Piave line—is believed to have been counseled by Hindenburg and Ludendorff, who are reported to have paid a flying visit to Austrian headquarters. In the initial drive last October the greatest enemy effort was concentrated in the mountainous area. But this was naturally anticipated by the Italian command and it was here that the Austrians sustained their most serious reverse. Of the forty divisions (480,000 men) employed, less than thirty divisions (300,000 men) suffered such heavy losses they were compelled to retire.

The committee also received encouraging figures on production of machine guns and all arms ammunition. The monthly production of fifty caliber ammunition amounted to 285,000,000 rounds.

CHICAGO GRAIN FUTURES
CHICAGO, June 21.—Liquidation, began yesterday on the Board of Trade, continued here today and prices on grain futures dropped sharply after the opening. Buying by professional traders later absorbed offerings in corn and the market recovered. Better weather reports from the southwest was the leading factor early in the trading. The heavily wet areas in corn induced selling in oats. Provisions were little affected by grain fluctuations.

June corn was nominal. July corn opened at $1.41 1/2, down 1/8; later, regaining 1/8. August corn opened at $1.45, was down 1/8 and later advanced 1/8.

June oats opened late at 70 1/2c and rose to 72c before noon. July oats, down 1/4c at the opening, 72c, regained that fraction later. August oats opened at 87 1/2c, down 1/2c, subsequently advancing 7/8c.

BETHMAN HOLLWEG IS BEYOND HOPE

AMSTERDAM, June 21.—No hope is held for recovery of Dr. Theobald von Bethman Hollweg, former German chancellor, who is lying ill at Hohenlohe, following a stroke of apoplexy, according to reports received here today.

Reports of German local attempts in Flanders were reported by Field Marshal Haig today.

During the night we captured a few prisoners and machine guns and inflicted many casualties on the enemy in raids and patrol encounters at Aveluy wood, in the neighborhood of Hattener and Boyelles and on both banks of the Scarpe," the statement said.

"Several hostile attempts to recapture the ground gained by us yesterday morning northwest of Morris were repulsed with loss to the enemy. "There is nothing further to report."
