

LAND SUSPECT OF AMSTERDAM STORE ROBBERY

OFFICERS BELIEVE THEY HAVE ONE OF PAIR WHICH ELUDE SHOTS AND PURSUIT

E. B. Carroll, 25, one of the two men whose attempt to burglarize the Amsterdam store at Amsterdam early Friday morning was frustrated by stockholders of the institution who stood guard in an adjoining building against suspected robbery during the night, taken in custody Friday afternoon at Rogersburg by Deputy Sheriffs John M. Beck and W. B. Lawrence, who were called by the men on guard after their shots had failed to take effect and the would-be burglars had used their escape. Carroll was armed with a .38 caliber revolver when he was arrested.

Prior Burglary Successful
On the preceding Saturday night the Amsterdam store had been burglarized, the thieves gaining entrance by picking the lock of the door and opening the door from which about $500 in cash was taken. The thieves of the Saturday night burglary made good their escape.

Suspicion of stockholders in the institution were acted Thursday afternoon when two strange men were observed with apparently no business in the community, and the organization of the volunteer guard resulted.

Shot Goes Wild

At about 3 o'clock in the morning, the men on guard observed the two men or ruffians at the door of the store, one standing at some distance from the other with a view evidently to giving warning should their purpose be discovered. The call of the men on guard to the would-be burglars to stop and give themselves up was disregarded. They broke and ran. A. E. Kunkin, one of the watchman, fired one shot at a shot gun at the man who had been named as the man, but without hitting him. The sheriff's office was communicated with after attempts at pursuit of the pair had failed.

NEAR ACCIDENT AT BAD BRIDGE CROSSING

Dr. P. F. Albee of Beck Creek Is Fringed of Trouble Balling into Conine South of Kimberly

Skidding as it emerged from a mud hole at the south side of a bridge across the Perris conine, the truck of the two and three-quarters miles south of Kimberly, an automobile driven by Mrs. D. P. Albee, Friday afternoon, crashed through the bridge railing, pushing her husband, Dr. P. F. Albee, of Beck Creek, a former county commissioner, who stood on the bridge, through the rail and into the stream below, and was stopped with the front wheels protruding over the edge of the span. Neighbors and rescue by members of the crew and Dr. Albee freed himself from the wreckage of the bridge rail, and climbed out on the ditch bank. He received painful bruises. One of the front lights of the car was bent, but not broken. The car was not overturned. The bridge was said to have been in bad condition for two months past.

REVIEW HISTORY OF DEPORTATION

CHICAGO, July 6.—The story of the wholesale deportation of L. W. W.'s from Milwaukee, Ark., in July, 1917, was told in federal court here as part of the defense of the 100 leaders on trial here.

A. B. Embury, witness for the defense, one of the deported, told the story. He testified he was herded with scores of others into a box car, by armed guards, and was employed by the copier printing companies. "We didn't get water for hours," Embury said. "We were imprisoned in a park for a while. Our guards ordered some tubs of water and told us to drink out of the tubs." The witness claimed several L. W. W.'s were badly battered by their guards. "There were some broken bottles and a few pieces of wood. The soldiers treated us all right when they took charge of us. We had tents and plenty of food."

PROMINENT FIGURE HELD FOR ACTION

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., July 6.—Carpenter William J. Kessel and his baggage are held under guard at Angel Island following Kessel's arrival from the Orient. He was not permitted to communicate with friends here. Kessel was prominently mentioned in connection with the Hindu revolt plot here. He was sent to Batista to become master of the Maveck. He had been in the United States, however, the Dutch authorities had interned three of the Maveck crew. Government witnesses testified that the crew dumped overboard most of the Maveck's machine gun, but a few ammunition machine guns were packed down submarine and several light field pieces.

SAYS FORMER BUNNY STEERED HIM WRONG

HANS T. JENSEN, DISCHARGED SOLDIER, PLEADS GUILTY TO PASSING BAD CHECK

Sentence of imprisonment in the state prison for from one to 14 years was pronounced Friday afternoon by District Judge W. A. Babcock upon Hans T. Jensen, former United States soldier, who pleaded guilty to passing a forged check in the sum of $70 at the Idaho Department store on June 18, on the afternoon of the day he was paroled by Judge Babcock after admitting his guilt of passing fictitious checks in Bush.

Officers Credit Story

After passing the check Jensen boarded the train for his parents' home at Belmont, Utah, from which place he was brought back Wednesday in custody of Probation Officer John H. Ault. Jensen told the officers that upon being released by the court on the day of his second offense he met with another man, one of whom had been a member of his regiment; that they gave him liquor and that they persuaded him to draw the bogus check. The trio estranged together, he said, and when they reached Poestello, the two took his money and new clothing from him, leaving him only enough money to pay his fare to his home. The officers are inclined to credit Jensen's story. They have the names of his alleged companions and are investigating.

Shows Honorable Discharge

Jensen showed the officers his honorable discharge from the United States army, showing that it had been issued on account of his physical disability, and that he had served in General Pershing's command on the Mexican expedition in 1916. He had registered under the draft regulations and was endeavoring to enlist in the navy, his letter from his Utah home to Sheriff Kendall, as chairman of the local board, requesting clearance for this purpose, being the first intimation to the officers of his whereabouts since the commission of the offense to which he pleaded guilty. He was at work on his father's farm near Belmont when Probation Officer Ault arrived there to take him in custody. He goes out to visit frequently when the officer appeared.

STILL HOPES FOR RUSSIAN FRONT

By ED L. KERN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, July 6.—Alexander Kerensky, former Russian premier, and the factions he represents, still regard Russia as at war with Germany and will do everything in their power to re-establish the Russian front.
This declaration was made to the United Press by Dr. David Soskice, Kerensky's private secretary, who was regarded as the most authoritative exposition and interpretation of Kerensky's attitude.
"Kerensky desires the right of the Bolshevik usurpers to be considered as the voice of Russia," said Soskice. "That belongs only to the Constituent assembly, which has separated from the Bolshevik regime and the separate peace negotiations of the Bolsheviks."
The assembly, although dissolved, still meets secretly. Just before Kerensky left Moscow it repudiated the Brest-Litovsk treaty and asserted that Russia is still at war with Germany.

End Drawing Near

"Kerensky declares Bolshevism is now universally hated by the masses as well as by the classes. It has lost the support of the workmen as well as the peasantry. Its days are numbered."
"If the final blow against the maddest tyranny Russia has ever known is delayed it is because the democratic parties have to grapple with not only the Bolsheviks but the results of their destructive work—famine, anarchy and universal chaos. The task is colossal, combining the overthrow of tyranny with organization of supplies and reconstruction of the Russian front against the German armies."
"Kerensky's own words before he left London were:
"Russia's future is extrinsically intertwined with the future of the western allies and also with the future of the world's democracies. The western allies and Russia must cooperate. The Russians are ready to discharge their obligations, but the support of the allies is indispensable."

TELEGRAPH WIRES IN POOR SHAPE

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Telegraph communication in Russia is in a chaotic condition. It was stated at the state department today. Official communications and dispatches are as much as three weeks late. Dispatches from Ambassador Francis, dated June 21, have just been received. One from Ikrutsk dated June 8, stated that all communication with Volozna, where Ambassador Francis is stationed, and Moscow has been cut off.

FIRST BALL PLAYER TO GET HIS NOTICE

DALLAS, Texas, July 6.—The first indication of the status baseball players may have under the "work or fight" ruling of the war department was received here when Sam Lewis, pitcher for the Dallas (Texas League) club was summoned by his local ball and ordered to engage in an essential occupation or be placed in class one.

Lewis, who is married and has one child, had previously been in class four. He will appear.

OFFICIAL TERMS RECEIVED

WASHINGTON, July 6.—Terms of the Ukraine-Russian armistice, recently completed, were received officially at the state department today.

LITTLE CHANGE OF DROISIVE RESULT

WASHINGTON, July 6.—The spectacular move of Czech-Slovakia in Russia, resulting in the defeat of the Bolshevik and German forces, holds out slight hope of being either a great or important action.

This gallant band of 50,000 Slavs was merely fighting its way to Vladivostok when the battle took place. Russian forces failed to rally around them as had been hoped and eventually show that they lack the strength to serve as a force which might eventually set up a government—unless the allies help.

This was the sole new development today in the tangled Russian situation. Other developments are holding up President Wilson's decision as to the best course to pursue in Russia. Having once set forth a tentative plan for aid to be now "watchfully waiting" again to see where best economic assistance may be advanced.

HORROR TALES OF AUSTRIAN VICIOUSNESS

ESCAPED PRISONER TELLS OF TREATMENT ACCORDED WOMEN LASHED, MEN STARVED

(By United Press)

ROME, July 4.—Horror tales that rival those which come from Belgium are drifting out of the district where Austrians have been fighting. An Italian soldier today related terrible spectacles of his comrades after he had served in the Austrian army and later been taken prisoner by the Russians. He is now a member of the Italian army, where his sympathies always have been.

"I was forced to take the oath of loyalty to Austria," he said, describing his induction into the Austrian army. "When I took a medical examination the doctor asked me, 'How do you feel?' I answered, 'I feel like a man who has just been through the mill.' The doctor gave me a little lead pills administered through the back of my Italian dog."

Large numbers were condemned for political reasons. They were sent in groups into Galicia, and throughout the journey were subjected to insults and constant brutalities. Some times they were held in cattle trucks, guarded by soldiers, with fixed bayonets.

Almost Starved as Try

"In this manner they journeyed for weeks over the Hungarian plain, over the Carpathians and the lowlands beyond, with nothing to drink except a mess tin of dirty soup into which the guards put for amusement. Attached to Hungarian and German companies in the ratio of one man for each platoon they lived hideously in the front line trenches, treated as traitors, insulted and maltreated by their German and Hungarian comrades."

"In 1914 at the time of the Austrian defeat in Galicia, two soldiers, fatigued from the long march, fell out. When they got to camp 'field punishment' was ordered for them. This is a barbarous torture much practiced in the Austrian army. A stick is fixed in the ground and has a pulley fastened to the top.

Horrible Methods Used

The victim's hands are bound behind his back and a rope is run over the pulley behind him up until he is standing on the tips of his toes. There he is left. Only the strongest endure it for long. I stood it two hours my second day."

"At Trent, the famous martyr Battisti was tied to a cart and dragged through the city. Officers spat on him and their wives jabbed him with bayonets and umbrellas. A Czech soldier moved by the sight, shouted: 'Long live Battisti; long live Liberty!' He was at once arrested and shot."

"Today the manhood of the Trentino is destroyed. Only two months after the outbreak of the war, the Austrian government found it necessary to assure the people that only 14 per cent of Italian soldiers had been killed. This percentage has increased at a high rate. In defiance of the law, classes which could not be called up in other sections of Austria were called up in this district and 200,000 men were mobilized and sent to the trenches where many of them were killed. More than 100,000 of our people, a third of the population, have been massacred."

Wounded Lashed with Whips

"At Adena, a village in the Lagarina valley, the major is commanded in the habit of making the women who had remained pass in line across the square. He chose the one that pleased him best and if she did not submit, she was given twenty-five lashes and then interned."

Damiano Chios, an old school mate of mine, sentenced to death, was placed in front of a firing squad and tortured for ten minutes while the command to fire was withheld.

Wounded and discharged soldiers are interned and the separation allowances are not paid their families.

"It is our conviction that unless we crush Austria the strongest claim of a dominant race to the right of tyrannizing over the world will be made good."

The race is not always to the swift—but most always.

That hare and tortoise race would hardly be classed as a sporting event now.

It is the man who delivers the goods who has the blue ribbon pinned on him in this year of our Lord.

If you are running a square race young man, and the race goes to the tortoise, what you need is another job.

Try the want ad way.

FALLS HEAD FIRST INTO WHIRLING SAW

RICHARD STALEY OF KIMBERLY IS VICTIM OF FATAL ACCIDENT AT JARRIDGE MILL

(Special to The News)

KIMBERLY, Richard Staley, 34, was instantly killed Tuesday when he was drawn into the saw in a sawmill at Jarbridge, Nevada, which, with his father, N. T. Staley, and brother, M. S. Staley, all of this place, he has been operating there for several months past. The verdict of a coroner's jury empaneled at Jarbridge was that death was accidental. Mr. Staley fell head foremost into the saw and the blade passed through the skull a little to the right of the nose.

Funeral services for Mr. Staley held Friday morning from the Kimberly, Id. S. church, were largely attended by neighbors here, among whom he was held in high esteem.

Mr. Staley was unmarried, but was to have been married soon to a local young woman.

Ambrose, 31, who received a dishonorable discharge April 28 from the United States navy, was arrested here at the person suspected of burglarizing Fred Larson's pool hall at Acapulco Tuesday morning. The establishment was entered at about 4 o'clock in the morning, the burglar cutting the screen with his pocket knife and unfastening the back door. No money was taken, and only a few small articles, such as tobacco, cigars, pipe and chewing gum were seized.

Ambrose was arrested when he was found asleep at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning by Sheriff Purcell. He served for three years in the navy.

TWINS DECIDE TO GO TO WAR

PARENTS CHIEFLY INTERESTED IN METHOD TO BE EMPLOYED TO TELL THEM APART

By FRED S. FERGUSON (United Press Staff Correspondent) WITH THE AMERICAN FORCES IN PICARDY.—When you go to war twice at the same time in the same outfit, maybe you can consider you really are doing your part to win the war. As least Walter and Albert Grierson are inclined to feel that way about it. The only way it can be done, however, is to be a twin.

Walter and Albert are twins. Their father and mother live at 3314 Lucas avenue, St. Louis. And if Mr. and Mrs. Grierson think they had a hard time telling Walter and Albert apart when they were little, they ought to see the sergeant and company commander trying to tell them apart now. After you know how to identify the twins, it's easy, Walter (or is it Albert) has a mole on one foot. But the sergeant can't tell the twins to take off their shoes every time he wants to pick one of them for some particular job. The result is that Walter and Albert are fighting the war both together and separately, for themselves and for each other, and in addition are—and also is—carrying on a mail courtship.

Do the Girls Know?

They are writing Glendine and Geraldine Doolittle, who live in Charleston. Glendine and Geraldine are twins. Walter or Albert is writing Glendine and Albert or Walter is writing Geraldine.

Walter, or Albert—anyhow one of the twins—first told the story of the war in the windows of the United Press kiosk on warm evening in Picardy. Wagons, guns and camions were rolling and rumbling by. The twins are with an engineering outfit and it was too noisy for them to get out for their work of stringing wire, and digging trenches and dugouts. As Walter, or Albert, talked of Delmar, the bridge, the river and other things of home, the other one came up. It was like seeing double. Their air hits were even at the same angle.

Nobody Knows Difference

"You see, it's like this," said Albert. "When Walter"—that identified Albert—"is working and is tired, and I'm fresh, I slip out and relieve him, and nobody knows the difference. Then, if I get tired, he comes out and relieves me, and so long as one of us is where one or the other is supposed to be—well, there you are."

No one in the company knows one from the other. On one occasion a new sergeant was in charge of the detachment working on a dugout. Albert and Walter were working from opposite sides. Just as Walter left the dugout with a "digger" filled with dirt, Albert left the other end of the runway and came down another pathway with his empty. The sergeant didn't know there were two of them. Every time he looked up he saw a Grierson loading and starting off with a wheelbarrow. The sergeant figured this man Grierson was doing twice as much work as any other man on the job, and went to the lieutenant to tell him about it. Then he learned there were two of them.

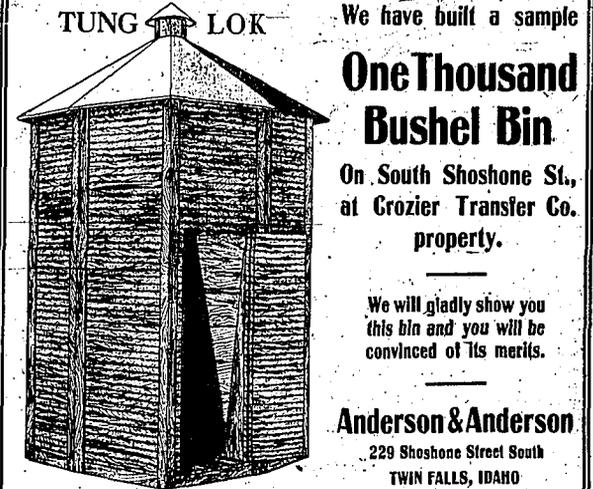

They Worked in Banks

Before enlisting in the army together the Griersons worked in different banks in St. Louis. It so happened that each was at the bank window in his respective bank. Depositors with accounts in both banks began to consider taking the pledge if they went from one bank directly to the other, until they learned how things stood.

The sergeant and the company commander have given it up. They judge Albert and Walter to work, and so long as a Grierson is there that is good enough.

RAINLESS WEEK TELLS ON SOME IDAHO CROPS

Second Alfalfa Crop Grows Haying Operations in Brigidale Districts

According to a summary of weather and crop conditions in Idaho for the week ending Tuesday, issued by Clinton E. Nordquist, meteorologist for the weather bureau, the week was practically rainless throughout the state, and the lack of moisture is diminishing all crops, especially in the western counties. There was a high percentage of sunshine but temperatures were generally moderate for the season. The weather was very favorable for all outdoor activities.

Harvesting of the first crop of alfalfa was rushed and most of this crop in the early districts has been secured in good condition. The yield is fair to good. The second growth is coming on very fast in the irrigated meadows. In the higher, mountain valleys the first cutting has just begun; this is somewhat later than normal. Haying operations were handicapped by winds and shortage of labor in the Jerome district.

What Maturing Fast

The warm dry weather has hastened the maturing of wheat. Harvesting has begun in the lower valleys of Nezperce county. The yield of winter wheat is good; spring wheat only fair. Harvest will begin in Washington county about the eighth, in Bannock county by the twentieth, and in Payette county by the twentieth. The crop in the main is in good condition; but in some localities persistent drought will cut down the yield materially. In Bear Lake county, both winter and spring wheat was damaged slightly by frost on the twenty-ninth. Oats and barley are reported in good condition throughout the state, but in Boundary county these crops have been severely injured by aphides. Corn is making splendid growth.

Irrigated pastures are growing well. In the eastern counties the range is in good condition and stock are thriving well; in the western counties, the range is drying up rapidly and in some places is beginning to fail, and stock are making only slow gains, if any. Deer flies are very numerous and are troubling stock. Some lambs are being shipped from Camas county.

In the valleys of the Lewiston district, cherry picking is about over, but on the benches the season is at its height. From 30 to 90 per cent of a fall crop is reported. A good crop of cherries is being marketed also from Clearwater county.

Potatoes are growing well and most truck crops and gardens are in fine condition. Canary peas are a short crop. Sugar beets are in fair to good condition, but in the Idaho Falls tract the fields are said to be exceptionally weedy.

ASYLUM MUST RECEIVE BROWN

JUDGE BABCOCK FORCES STATE TO CARE FOR PATIENT

(Special to The News)

In compliance with a writ of mandamus issued Friday by District Judge W. A. Babcock in the case of Frank M. Kendall, sheriff of Twin Falls county, against B. M. Jackson, superintendent of the state insane asylum, Blackfoot, filed by Prosecuting Attorney Frank L. Stephan, the doors of the state institution will be opened to receive William M. Brown of Murtagh, who was adjudged insane after a hearing here on June 2, and who since that time has been cared for in the county jail. Superintendent Jackson refused to admit Brown to the asylum because of the fact that he is bedridden through paralysis.

In response to protest from county officials, Governor Alexander ordered an investigation in the case, with the result that the superintendent's explanation was accepted by the executive.

Brown is 64 years of age and unmarried. His condition is becoming worse, according to the statements of physicians who took part in the hearing as to his sanity, and it is stated that he has threatened his attendants.

Her mind went back to the summer just past and the several summers before when she had helped with the party dress; had returned to the mountain for the wedding, taking with her from her own store of furniture enough to make comfortable the tiny two-roomed house that was to be.

She met him often in her wanderings about the mountain, but aside from the pleasure of an occasional meeting she never felt that she had met him and her eyes were held by the dominant gray ones of the man standing in the doorway.

"She felt as if he was reading her very soul. Filled with resentment, the lady glared down at her feet until she was uncleanly gazed. Indignantly she stretched her feet under the chair.

"Elin told me you had gone, why?" he had asked abruptly. She had looked at him coolly, critically. "X is big, I knowed but powerfully big man, control'd his thiv with his blue blousin' shirt open at the throat and sleeves pushed, carelessly back from his muscular arm.

YOUTH'S CONFESS THEFT OF AUTOS

STATEMENTS CLEAR UP MYSTERY OF LATELY LOST CARS

The record of the office of Sheriff F. M. Kendall for accounting for missing and stolen cars was cleared up Friday when three young men who were arrested here Thursday by Deputy Sheriff John M. Beck on a charge of stealing automobile tires from W. J. Friday at Rogerson, confessed to Sheriff Kendall that they had stolen the cars lost here recently by James A. Campbell, manager of the Home Plumbing & Heating company, and Albert Belgiman. The offenders are A. N. Klam, 19, C. Klam, 16, both of Filer, and E. H. Dean, 17, of Oakland, California. They admitted that they had taken the cars and driven them to California, where they had sold them and invested the proceeds in another car which they drove back. A charge of grand larceny has been filed against them.

The Campbell car was missed on the night of June 16, and the Belgiman car was taken about a week prior to that time. Both cars were taken from the streets of Twin Falls.

NEWS and COSSIP OF WASINGTON

Just Why Jimmy and Leo Didn't Get That Raise

THIS is the story of a case of mistaken identity. Jimmy and Leo were out in one of their employer's automobiles early the other morning—so early, in fact, that the streets were pretty clear of people. "Gee," said Jimmie, "look at the pretty little dog. Whis, it looks like—"

"It belongs to the boss," finished Leo. "Let's catch it and take it back to the office, and maybe we'll get a raise."

Jimmy and Leo descended from the car, and with soft tread, made for the dog. But that creature was wily and eluded their grasp in a graceful but effective manner. Into the automobile he hopped, the two boys, and after a few preliminary bangers the car sped after the dog. Catching a dog in an automobile is not as easy as it sounds. The dog took it easy and kept to the sidewalk, making the downtown blocks without any trouble.

Then he ran into a yard, up the front steps, and into the vestibule of a fine-looking house.

"Now we've got him," whooped Jimmie.

Concealed in the vestibule, the dog had little chance, indeed, to escape the triumphant youths. They grabbed him up and made off with him.

Indignant bark and wily yelp awoke the neighborhood.

A window went up in the front of the house.

"Let go my dog! Let go my dog! Oh, make them bring back my dog!" screamed a voice from the window.

"The woman's crazy," said Jimmie. "It ain't her dog; it's the boss'."

"Let 'er go!" yelled Leo, and the car shot away, with the dog yelping in vain.

"The boss will be there by the time we get back," said Leo.

The boss was there, all right, and he was waiting for them.

"Yes, here's your dog," said Jimmie full of pride.

"It isn't my dog," said the boss. "It belongs to Mrs. — on Sixteenth street. She just telephoned in here and said that two young thugs had stolen the dog out of her front yard and laid carried it off in one of our wagons."

QUARTERMASTERS' TRUCKS STREAMING TO SEABOARD

Detroit and Michigan, being the stronghold of the motor car and motor truck industries, have been called upon to mount great numbers of both cars and trucks for army service, both in the United States and overseas.

Early last January began the movement of these vehicles from Detroit to points of embarkation. Indeed, the first of motor vehicles over the road has been a boon to the government by affording a very large measure of railroad relief.

Many Detroit factories are working on government contracts and much of the war material they produce is sent forward in the motor trucks produced in the same city.

When the forward movement began last winter it was necessarily slow. Now production has reached a high point, and both cars and trucks are moving to the seaboard in a steady stream, long trains leaving Detroit every day in charge of army officers and army drivers.

New Use for the X-Ray.

Interesting experiments have been conducted at Munich and Vienna in the examination of old portraits with Roentgen rays. One of the curators of the art museum used the X-rays on an old Madonna portrait and discovered evidence of a later overpainting. In Vienna Prof. Max Drerik applied the same X-ray to a picture of the Madonna school, which had been badly disfigured by later attempts at restoration. The X-ray photograph disclosed perfectly the original contour of the miniature.

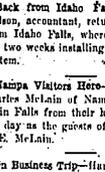

Powerful Pump.

Your heart is a very busy organ. While you breathe once it beats four times. At each beat it sends four pounds of blood through your veins and arteries. The weight of the circulating blood is 20 pounds. When you run your legs and the other parts of your body need more blood, so your heart must pump faster.—Popular Science Monthly.

Watch Your Imprints.

A child's mind is plastic. The impressions received while young are lasting. When he is in the process of making, it is soft and pliable; but once it is dry, it becomes so hard that a workman can hardly bring it with a hammer. But, while it was soft, a child laid its hand on the material; in a few minutes the cement hardened, and the imprint made by the child's hand was still there.—Ernest M. Glenn.

Boy, Look Up Present Address of Joe Mulhatton

HAVANA, CUBA.—Natives of a small island off the west coast of Cuba were recently terrorized by the most diabolical piece of crookedness and terror which a gigantic animal of the dinosaur or diplosaurus species suddenly crawled forth from the sea and continued to make its slow and destructive way toward the principal village on the island. The island is not more than 20 miles in circumference and is mostly given over to the cultivation of grapefruit.

The monstrous creature, described as being more than 60 feet in length, according to its imprints in the soil over which it passed, and weighing many tons, has been pronounced by scientists of this city to be a genuine and probably the only living remnant of the gigantic reptilian that prevailed in the western part of the United States in prehistoric times, the bones of which are still being unearthed from time to time by scientists and archeological explorers.

The monstrous specimen that has almost depopulated the island alluded to through false flight of scores of natives by small boats to a neighboring tale, broke down fences over which it crawled, knocked over and outlaid, and trampled under its great and big swarth legs through fields of crops.

While it has been pronounced to be the only known living specimen of the frightful-to-the-extremest gigantic amphibian diplosaurus, so far as is known, and while it disappeared after crossing the narrow point of the island, those who saw it and so far recovered from their fright as to be able to discuss it, declare that it was the most terrific thing they have ever seen of its kind in the world, and all agree that it had eyes that shone like searchlights, and huge teeth and muscles exactly like the caterer's.

Its whinings and other noises as it passed over the island were not as unmeaning to the natives as was its mammoth size, which was awe-inspiring. Some of the natives declare they will never return to the island.

YOE WAR, NOT HELP

(Dr. Alton Englebert Taylor)
 We hear entirely too much of the civilian point of view toward the conduct of the war and the maintenance of the peace of the nation in war. There is too much individualistic selection of the work that each must do, and the conditions of its fulfillment. The boys who go abroad become mobilized units in a national program. They are not to be lost! The soldier accepts what is offered him in pay, clothes, food, toll, danger, instruction, and pension. Have it the right to stipulate the exact terms on which I will support him? In a smaller sense, we do not see of us share with the soldier the privilege of service, fidelity and sacrifice? We risk so little and stipulate so much; he risks so much and stipulates so little. When it falls to the lot of your boy to go over the top or to carry on, do not look to the right or to the left to see what others are doing. Across the sea, from the Yanks to the plains of Flanders, American boys are doing their best. Do not trust us, behind their backs, to do our part. Our part is to work for war and not for self. Peace, force work to the utmost for them, work to the utmost for us.

BOX CARS FOR WHEAT MOVEMENT

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Arrangements are being made to take care of the necessary requirements for box cars for moving wheat with reasonable promptness, according to advice received by the Department of Agriculture from the Railroad Administration. The box car situation is reported to be about as follows: The total number of cars has been at one period within the past three years. On May 1 box cars were to move wheat territory, and wheat-carrying roads are expected to have on their lines more than the normal amount of box cars owned by wheat. Cars are being parked in the wheat-leading territory which, it is pointed out, was impossible last year. The Railroad Administration says that it will continue to move cars in wheat-leading territory as long as there is any indication that additional cars will be needed. Through cooperation with the Food Administration grain-corporation officials the wheat territory is being developed to what the seaboard will be prevented.

The Farm Bureau has taken this up through the Grain Corporation and expects that some of those box-cars will be parked in Twin Falls.

Wagon Box Lining to Save Grain

In support of the nation-wide effort to prevent waste of food, Frank Brodus, a Bohemian farmer living in Oklahoma, urges cloth or canvas linings for wagon boxes during threshing and grain handling seasons. "From twenty-five to fifty bushels of wheat would be saved daily on the average farm at the time of threshing," Mr. Brodus believes, "if such linings were used to the bottom of wagon boxes to keep grain from slipping under the openings. Few farm wagons used for hauling bundles are grain tight. Canvas cloth should also be used at the threshing machine where the bundles are unloaded, especially when the season is dry and kernels of wheat drop from the stalk upon more touching large quantities of grain are lost in hauling wheat from the field to the machine and in the threshing operation."
 This suggestion reached Washington, where it secured the hearty endorsement of the U. S. Food Administration.

Urges Use of Boxes For Handling Grain

Use of sacks called useless, extravagant and wasteful, according to Federal Experts.
 Denouncing the use of sacks in the handling of grain as useless, extravagant and wasteful, Mr. H. H. Green, manager of the grain operations of the National Food Administration, urges farmers to handle their crops in tight wagon boxes, and eliminate as far as possible the use of sacks.
 "Sacks have never been as scarce as at present, and prices are practically prohibitive," the grain manager for Utah declares.

He adds, by way of suggestion, that where sacks are to be used each of these containers be carefully examined and all holes thoroughly repaired before any attempt is made to use them. He also suggests that every old bulwag sack be impressed into service.

"The practice of using sacks for handling grain is an extravagant one," he writes, "and the cost of sacks is high. Mr. Green announces, "I would urge farmers throughout the state to use wagons boxes in hauling crops from the threshing machines. Many an old wagon box will render good service if the bottom is covered with this strip of sheet iron or tin, the bolts tightened and joints battened by using strips of cloth. Sacks are seldom seen at a threshing machine in important grain regions."

"In the shipping of grain good repairs should be used to catch the waste in." By such a plan the waste in Threshermen's Shop.

The Threshermen's School conducted last week by Mr. B. M. White, of the U. S. Food Administration, Grain Corporation, was well attended and very interesting. "Wednesday" meeting at Elmer was attended by 44 men and at Kimberly, Thursday 31 and at Buhl, Friday by 72. Everyone feels that it was well worth while and the State Department have arranged to have Mr. White do similar work in other points in the state.

During the week ending June 29, the farm labor office sent out 69,375 men and 2 married men, while they had 84 applications for work by single men and 9 by married men. This makes a total of 627 single men and 64 married men placed to date—and 493 men and 96 married men applying for work.

FOOD FACTS OF WORLD SCOPE

More Eight Canadian Regulations
 New Canadian food regulations now in effect limit the amount of fat and sugar which may be used in the manufacture of pastry, confectionery and ice cream. The manufacture of some of these products is entirely prohibited. The average consumption of candy and confectionery is limited to one-third the monthly average used by them last year.

Italy Depends on Imported Food

Although crop conditions in Italy are reported as generally favorable and the area sown to cereals about equal to that of the United States, home-grown food and imports combined are still insufficient to meet demands.

And that the Food Conservation Committee may have some idea how the volunteer service of conserving food is being applied by the Twin Falls county women.

Penalties Fixed

The President's proclamation fixes penalties for all individuals and corporations operating stockyards, or dealing in livestock in connection with those who fall to secure licenses by July 27.
 The recommendation of the Committee on Meat Policies, which the President adopts and puts into effect, is as follows:
 "The stockyards should be placed under license and regulation by the Department of Agriculture, which should also establish a governmental system of actual grading under suitable regulations and methods of price reporting of actual transactions. Daily reports should be made on distribution and destinations of livestock; means and other products from principal packing points."

Food Conservation Important

Much enthusiasm was manifest at a State meeting of the five District Home Demonstration agents and the two County Home Demonstration agents together with the State Extension workers at Boise. Miss Birdseye from Washington related the reports of the Idaho workers, and gave them valuable suggestions, while other states are doing, along conservation of food, fuel, time, money, health and clothing. Her message carried the necessity for broadening our vision of war work, of mutual helpfulness, of responsibility. She commended the spirit of the Red Cross, but emphasized the fact that more people were starving for lack of food than are suffering from wounds. Here lies the responsibility of the women of this County to conserve what Twin Falls of this county's so that vast quantities of vegetables and fruits do not waste. Are we doing all we can? How many women of this county are canning, drying, and conserving? Are they contributing for their own use, for the relief of others?
 Can we decrease the 750,000,000 cans of vegetables that were shipped in this country last year?
 This problem of conservation of food is being continually worked on by the many loyal housewives. We now need a report of their services in order that they may receive the same credit and

His Submerged Log

The Columbia was a three-deck excursion steamer, 150 feet long. It was owned by the H. P. Mohl Excursion company of Peoria and was under charter to the South Side Social club of Pekin.

The vessel was returning to Pekin from Al Fresco, a summer resort. A dense fog lay over the river. With the excursion starting on the upper deck to the strains of a band, the Columbia ran onto a sandbar. She was promptly backed off, but immediately lay on its side. Later reports indicated she had struck a submerged log and torn a hole amidships.

Not Overboard

Pauline Stricklen, the excursionist who was the only one of the crew to keep the deck log evenly-balanced.

Less than five minutes after she had struck the bar the Columbia overturned in mid-channel and sank. A dozen of men and women had leaped into the water and others were thrown into the water when the boat turned over. Many were between decks and it was believed certain that they went down with the boat.

Shrieks of dozens of survivors who were paddling about the wreck were heard in the village of Wesley, opposite which the accident occurred. Several hundred boats put off from the shore to pick them up.

Calls for help were sent by telephone to Peoria and Pekin and launches started for the wreck from those points. A special train carrying nurses and physicians was dispatched from Peoria.

Scenes of Horror

August M. Mery of the Columbia, saw his wife weep from his eyes into the muddy waters of the river. She was unaccounted for today and Mery believed she was drowned. "I rushed to her as I saw her today when we struck," Mery said today, "and came upon my wife in a crowd of crying women. I seized her dress just as a big wall of water swept over the deck. She was carried against the rail and overboard in my arms. 'If I could do I saw her sink. Then the boat settled and I jumped.'"

Many Jump Overboard

Mrs. Elizabeth Frew, a stewardess, was asleep when the boat struck. She hurried to the deck and tried to calm the terrified women passengers.

the rail," said Mrs. Frew. "They were struggling and clanking each other. Many jumped overboard. I saw some of them go down. Others swam around, crying, until boats picked them up. Soon I found myself in a boat. Opl, how do you get there?"

Casualties May Reach Hundred
Coroner Clay of Pekin said today that it was impossible to make accurate estimate of the death toll. He believed it would reach one hundred. He had been told by members of the crew that scores of persons were below decks when the boat struck. If that is true, he said, probably few of them escaped.

Many survivors were still huddled on the river bank at daylight. They were being taken to Pekin as fast as motor cars could make the run. With estimates of the number of the dead were made by those who escaped. Many as many as less than 200 survivors had been accounted for out of the 450 said to have been aboard.

Divers Called
Telephone messages were sent to Chicago for professional divers. The boat lay in midstream with her superstructure above water. Expert swimmers were trying to locate bodies on the upper deck. Most of the victims, however were believed to be on the lower decks, and it was regarded as unlikely that many other bodies could be recovered without diving apparatus.

Coroner Clay swore in a jury at Pekin early today and stated he would begin his official investigation during the morning. His first witnesses were expected to be Captain Henry Hensley, one of the Columbia's owners, and Thomas Williams, her pilot.

PROFESSIONAL DIVERS - OR WAY TO WRECK

CHICAGO, July 6.—Harry Halderman, professional diver, who brought up scores of bodies from the steamer Chicago, that was wrecked in the Mississippi when she overturned in the Chicago river two years ago, started for the scene of the Columbia wreck today with his diving apparatus. He was accompanied by Alexander Dahlstrom, another diver.

Captain John Anderson of the U. S. coast guard service and nine men also are en route to Peoria to aid in recovering bodies of the victims.

Judge Jesse Black, chairman of the Red Cross for Peoria County, telegraphed Chicago Red Cross officials today, asking that blankets and other supplies be sent to Pekin.

G. S. Stillman, director of civilian relief for the Red Cross in Chicago, started en route for Pekin with five Red Cross workers.

They took the needed supplies. In his telegram, Judge Black estimated the number of dead at 50 to 75.

Scores of small boats were circling about the wreck at noon searching for victims. Many survivors, some of them in pitiable condition from injuries and lack of food, were taken to Pekin in automobiles.

The Columbia was carrying the members of a Pekin social club, homeward bound on a river excursion, when she struck a submerged log on an spitbar in a dense fog. She lifted and sank in five minutes, with scores of persons on board.

Seek to Identify Dead
Robbing crews thronged the three underwater establishments in Pekin, where the bodies were removed for identification. Men and women, half blind with excitement, clamored for a morgue to another searching for loved ones.

Half the population of Pekin hurried to Wesley at daybreak and gathered hysterical crowds on the river bank. Several women collapsed. Soldiers from military camps near Pekin were sent to Wesley to protect the bodies.

View of the Corpses
A small boat was sent ashore to "view" the corpses.

Impact Light
The boat sank within five minutes after water was discovered in the hull of the Columbia was the statement made by Allen L. Davison, second engineer on the steamer.

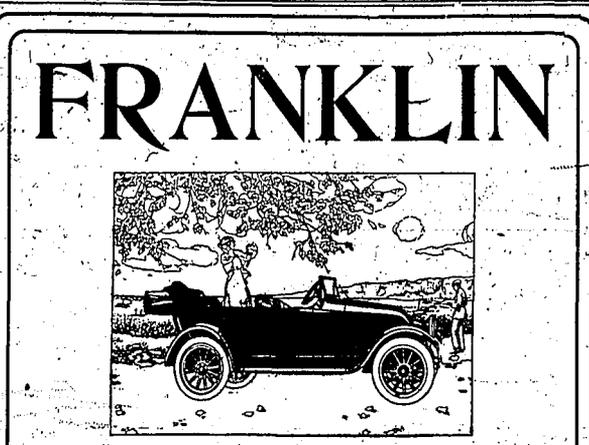

"We were traveling under a slow bell through the dense fog," he said. "I felt a slight shock but paid little attention to it. It was hardly noticeable. Then I received a signal from the pilot to stop and back the boat."

"Within a few seconds I received another signal from the pilot to go ahead slowly. Henry Tripler, a watchman, then came down into the engine-room and asked that the light be thrown into the hull of the boat.

"When I looked in there I saw the hull half full of water. We were then backing away from the Wesley City shore and headed in the direction of the other shore. Within two minutes the boat listed to the starboard side and I climbed up over the railing on the other side and jumped into the water."

Why Franklin Owners Are Franklin Enthusiasts

A noticeable fact about Franklin owners is their enthusiasm in speaking about the car. Not in fact at all strange.

If you had a car that gave you 20 to 25 miles or more on a gallon of gasoline, would you talk about it? I rather think you would.

If your car delivered regularly 10,000 miles or more to the set of tires, it is certain you would take great satisfaction in that fact—particularly at a time like this.

These facts are regular—to be expected—Franklin performances. They are not expected of other cars. Franklin owners being only human after all, are naturally enthusiastic over their own good fortune, and commiserative over the comparative ill-fortune of other car owners.

Waste nowadays is unwarranted. The Franklin does not waste. It delivers efficient motor service economically.

It is easy to drive, safe in operation, supremely comfortable as a vehicle for business or pleasure, sturdy in construction, light in weight, long lived and maintains its primary value through the years.

Come look at the Franklin. Ride in one—drive it. Like good wine, it needs no hint—the Franklin needs no boasting.

ARMS AMERICA TO HELP

But the majority must rule. Details of the Bohemian-Czech battle at Vidvostock indicates that the defeat of the Reds was decisive. A fortnight ago the Czechs, acting at the behest of the allies, issued an ultimatum to the Red guards to cease arming German prisoners of war. The demand was unheeded. At 10:30 o'clock of the morning of June 30 the Czechs attacked. Six hundred Bohemian soldiers immediately surrounded. The rest of the garrison took refuge in a block house. Two hours bombardment forced them to capitulate, those not surrendering retreating to the westward along the trans-Siberian railroad. Most of those who escaped are believed to have been Germans.

LAND MORE TROOPS

According to advices received from both Great Britain and France expect to land several thousand troops in Siberia. Italy for the present will be represented by the Danzans, while the Czechs-Slovaks will represent the Balkans. Just what part Japan and China will play has not been learned. This will be announced after the president gives his decision as to the attitude of the United States.

Diplomatic officials, however, are inclined to believe that Japan's army of 500,000 and China's potential army of nearly a million will be used to the best advantage.

DID NOT COMMIT SELF

Diplomats here not advised of the inter-allied council plans nor see why President Wilson failed to mention Russia in his Mount Vernon speech. Knowing that the address would be prepared before the arrival of the council's decision, friends of the president urged him to say nothing that would in any way commit this country to a definite policy.
