FIFTH BIG GERMAN ADVANCE BEGINS ON 55-MILE FRONT ENEMY BELIEVED HELD AT EVERY ESSENTIAL POINT

AUSTRIANS QUIT BY THOUSANDS AFTER PIAVE DISASTER

FORTY-FIVE THOUSAND REPORTED TO HAVE DESERTED--THREE THOUSAND ARRESTED IN BUDAPEST--OTHERS HIDE IN MOUNTAINS

LONDON April 15.--Forty-five thousand deserters from the Austrian army fled inland after the Pieve disaster the Zurich correspondent of the Daily News has learned from neutral sources, he declared in a dispatch today.

Some of these are armed and are hiding in the mountains. Three thousand deserters were arrested in Budapest.

Lack of Harmony in Evidence

Austro-German relations are seriously strained as a result of the Pieve defeat, the correspondent said. German Chancellor von Hertling's recent statements were the result of Austrian pressure designed to bolster up the tottering dual monarchy by showing its only "genuinely disinterested" ally.

Despite the rigid censorship, it is learned that the Austrian losses on the Pieve, exclusive of the slightly wounded, were more than 200,000, of which number 10,000 were drowned.

To Have a Conference

Austrian Premier von Zydor, Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, Durian and Count Czernin and Count Hertling, former Austro-Hungarian foreign minister, are going to German headquarters on an important mission.

BELIEVE DRIVE IS LAST GASP

MILITARY MEN AT WASHINGTON OPTIMISTIC OVER OUTLOOK

By CARL D. GBOAT (United Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 15.--Germany's fifth great attack on the west, opening today, against the Franco-American forces on a 55-mile front, was expected by military men here to be their greatest and last major offensive. It here indicates the Germans have elected to try now for Paris, or to strike so heavily as to draw strength from the north.

Their apparent intention appeared to be the former. If, however, the Germans are seeking to divert strength from further north than he eventually hopes to strike the channel ports.

Military men agree that difficult days are again ahead.

Americans in Good Shape

But, they say, the French and Americans are in better shape to withstand the blow than were the allies when the first great drive started March 21.

This operation, they predict, will be halted. Some ground will be given, but none believes the Germans will win a strategic victory. If he fails, as expected, it is probable that he cannot undertake another major operation this year. That with American strength constantly and rapidly growing, the power balance will swing against him. That means he will be on the defense and that in time he will be defeated.

HEAVY GERMAN AIRPLANE LOSS

LONDON, July 15.--Sixteen German airplanes were brought down by British airmen Saturday, while the British lost three machines, the air ministry announced today.

More than 23 tons of bombs were dropped on enemy targets during the day and night.

ITALIANS AND FRENCH KEEP ENEMY ON RUN

CONTINUED ADVANCES IN SOUTHERN ALBANIA COMPEL FURTHER AUSTRIAN RETREAT, ACCOMPANIED BY BURNING OF VILLAGES

ROME, July 15.--Further advances by the Italians and French in southern Albania have seriously compromised the enemy positions and probably will necessitate further retreat northwards, freeing the Allied communications between Macedonia and the Adriatic, a dispatch from the Italian front stated today. The Austrians continue to fall back in disorder, burning deserted villages which they are forced to abandon. The village of Bulcher is in flames.

Beach Glanak Pass

Italian troops, co-operating with the French, have reached Glanak pass. The French have completely cleared the heights dominating the coast north of the Devoll and Tomorica rivers. British troops in Macedonia made successful raids against the Bulgarian west of Lake Doiran.

MORE TRANSPORT CONTRACTS LET

WASHINGTON, July 15.--To maintain the high transportation speed of troops to France 29 additional transport cars are to be built immediately. Contracts for these were let by the shipping board to the Bethlehem Shipbuilding corporation, Alameda, California.

In addition, Japanese shipbuilders were awarded contracts for thirty cargo carriers, and the Union Contracting & Building company, Morgan City, La., was given the contract for three new barges. The total expenditures involved in the contract for the fifty-three vessels were not made public.

MINISTER DIES

WASHINGTON, July 15.--John D. O'Rear, minister to Bolivia, died yesterday, the state department was informed today. O'Rear, who was working in Mexico, Mo., was appointed minister to Bolivia June 26, 1913.

BOMBARDMENT RESUMED

PARIS, July 15.--The long-range bombardment was resumed this evening after a cessation of two weeks. The gun fire on the battle front has been audible since early this morning.

BRITISH FORCES OCCUPYING KEM

IMPORANT POINT ON MURMAN COAST FORMERLY HELD BY FINNS AND GERMANS

ROTTERDAM, July 15.--British forces have occupied Kem on the Murman coast, according to the Frankfurter Zeitung.

Kem is an important port on the White sea about 275 miles north of Kollas and 375 miles north of Petrograd, on the railroad connecting those two places.

Recent dispatches report that a combined force of German and British troops had reached Kem in their march against the allies and Anti-Bolshevik forces in the Murman region. It would appear that this enemy force either retired before the British or was driven back in fighting.

THE WEATHER

Probably shrewd tonight; Tuesday cooler, is the prediction for the Twin Falls district of the agriculture weather bureau in its forecast transmitted this morning through the local telephone exchange.

BRITISH MAKE GAIN OF MILE IN FLANDERS SECTOR

OPERATION OF A LOCAL CHARACTER COMPLETELY SUCCESSFUL, HAIG REPORTS--CAPTURE RIDGE, GUNS AND 298 GERMAN PRISONERS

LONDON, July 15.--British troops advanced on E front of more than a mile east of Dieckendorp Lake in Flanders, yesterday morning, taking 298 prisoners, Field Marshal Haig reported today.

Gain Objective

"The local operation in the Dieckendorp Lake sector yesterday morning was completely successful," the statement said.

"We advanced on a 2,000 yard front, taking a ridge and wood and attaining all our objectives. We captured 290 prisoners, several machine guns and much other material."

ONLY MILITARY AID CAN SAVE RUSSIAN PEOPLE

IF ALLIES WILL SEND AN ARMY, GERMAN INFLUENCE MAY BE DRIVEN FROM RUSSIA

By JOSEPH SHAELEN (United Press Staff Correspondent)

STOCKHOLM, July 15.--If the allies will send an army to Russia to support the longing to drive the German influence from the Ukraine, the Don and Baltic provinces, and from the Crimea and Caucasus, it will unquestionably arouse spontaneous aid and sympathy, which will prove the downfall of German militarism and save Russia to the world democracy.

In view of the contradictory reports regarding the character of the Anti-Bolshevik movement I have learned authoritatively that the Social Revolutionists are in absolute control of the movement developed the whole of the Volga, Ural and Siberian regions, originally loyal to the Rights faction.

The central executives refused to pledge a revolt against the Bolshevik party and opposed seizing power in the local regions. Then spontaneous uprisings took place, wiping out the Bolsheviks in cities like Nijni Novgorod, Samara and Saratoff.

COMMUNIST ANTI-BOLSHEVICK FORCES

AMSTERDAM, July 15.--General Alford, former Russian chief of staff, has been appointed commander-in-chief of the anti-Bolshevik forces, according to a Moscow dispatch today. He arrived in Omsk with a large army and was accorded an enthusiastic reception.

Omsk is in Asiatic Russia, 1400 miles east of Moscow.

COPENHAGEN REPORTS CAPTURE OF KAZAN

COPENHAGEN, July 15.--Czech-Slovak troops have captured the city of Kazan after resistance, dispatches from Moscow assert.

Kazan is an important manufacturing center, 430 miles east of Moscow. It contains an arsenal and ammunition works.

WASHINGTON, July 15.--Hayti declared war on Germany July 12, the local news announced today.

BIG SHIPYARDS ARE TIED UP BY LABOR STRIKE

3,500 BOILERMAKERS AND IRON WORKERS QUIT AT THREE LARGE PLANTS--ENTIRE PROGRAM IS PRACTICALLY HALTED FOR PRESENT

(By United Press)

OAKLAND, Cal., July 15.--Thirty-five hundred boiler makers and iron workers went on strike early today in three big ship-building plants at Alameda and Oakland. Millions of dollars worth of government ship contracts are for the present practically halted.

The men declare the ship builders, including the Bethlehem Ship Building corporation, three more ship building companies and the Harlan company, have failed to live up to the agreement negotiated by the Navy committee.

A strike vote was taken yesterday at a mass meeting attended by 200 men.

Expect Early Adjustment

Mortimer J. Lasker, federal mediator on the Pacific coast for the war labor board, telegraphed early today to Charles M. Schwab, secretary of the Harlan company, that a contract, which is now in Portland, Feb. 15th, expected to be reached. He called a conference of labor leaders today and it was expected the workers would return to work pending a final settlement. The strike has not been sanctioned by the central labor council of Oakland, nor by the San Francisco council. San Francisco boiler makers said today that they will not strike.

Many Complaints Filed

The strikers assert that more than 700 individual complaints have been filed by boiler makers within the past three weeks or four months. The boiler makers' union contends these "green" men should be paid the full scale. This has not been done, they say. The San Francisco boiler makers recently have been working on an agreement which will provide a sliding scale of wages for green and skilled workers.

CALLS STRIKERS BY HARD NAMES

PORTLAND, July 15.--Referring to the striking ship-builders at Oakland, California, as "damned traitors," Charles Piaz, vice president of the Emergency Fleet corporation, declared today that they will be held in strict accountability.

"The very fact that they threaten to strike is rotten," said Piaz. Piaz's remarks were made before an audience of ship-builders at the Wilson street shipyard here. They were received with a burst of cheers and cries of "Bring them up here; we'll shoot the traitors!"

HUN UNDERSECRETARY THROWS UP POSITION

Von Dem Buscho Latest Potsdam Official to Quit Job

BASEL, Switzerland, July 15.--Herr von Dem Buscho, German undersecretary of foreign affairs, has resigned, according to word received here today. He will retain office, however, until Foreign Secretary von Hints returns from Christiania.

FIRE BELIEVED OF INCENDIARY ORIGIN

ST. PAUL, July 15.--Police today believed incineration the cause of the fire which destroyed $400,000 worth of property in the business district here Sunday.

Explosions in the buildings shortly after the fire broke out were caused by gasoline, police say. Employees in the buildings today said there had been nothing explosive in the stores Saturday.

DRIVE TOWARDS PARIS COMBINED WITH ELIMINATE EFFORT TO CAPTURE REIMS AND DESPERATE CITY AS OBSTACLE TO PROGRESS OF GERMAN HORDES--ACTIVITY IN CHAMPAGNE REGION LINKS UP FRONT OF 250 MILES FROM FLANDERS TO MAIN DE MASSIGES

FIVE PHASES OF THE GERMAN OFFENSIVE

PICARDY DRIVE--Started March 21 on a 50-mile front between Arras and the Oise. Stopped in just one week after the Germans had advanced to about forty miles within striking distance of Amiens.

FLANDERS DRIVE--Started April 9, on a 25-mile front, between the Ypres-Comines canal and Labasse. Stopped in ten days after the Germans had penetrated fifteen miles to within striking distance of Haerbroek.

MARNE DRIVE--Started May 27, on a 40-mile front, between Courcy Le Chateau and Rheims. Stopped in a week after the Germans had penetrated thirty miles to Chateau-Thierry.

OISE DRIVE--Started June 9 on a 50 mile front between Meuzille and Courcy Le Chateau, stopped in three days after the Germans had advanced six miles. They were later pushed back nearly half this distance.

CHAMPAGNE DRIVE--Started July 15 on a 50-mile front between Chateau-Thierry and Main de Massiges. Concluding with initial German gains reported.

HUNS AT VAUX DRIVEN BACK BY AMERICANS

ENEMY STRIKES SNAG IN SHAPE OF YANKEE TROOPS--HEAVY COUNTER ATTACK PROGRESSING AT CHATEAU THIERRY

By FRED B. FERGUSON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE AMERICANS ON THE MARNE, July 15 (2 p. m.)--The Americans shortly before noon launched a heavy counter attack against large forces of Germans who had forced a crossing of the Marne at three points on a four-mile front, east of Chateau-Thierry. The result of this fighting is not yet known.

Shortly before this the Americans counter-attacked at Vaux, west of Chateau-Thierry, completely repulsing the German assault. The Americans caught the Boches in a terrific charge, hurling them back 700 meters (almost half a mile) beyond the point where their attack began.

Fighting Is Hand to Hand

In the Vaux fighting the Americans took 80 prisoners; they fought from shell holes, or jumping into the open, buried grenades and wilded bayonets.

SITUATION IN HAND

The first news of the repulsion of the German offensive was received in this country shortly before 8 o'clock this morning in a dispatch from Fred B. Ferguson, United Press staff correspondent on the Marne front. He described a heavy bombardment from Vaux, two miles west of Chateau-Thierry, to Juliers, followed by a heavy attack at 6 a. m.

"At the time of calling (8:10 a. m.) the situation is well in hand," he said.

"Germans attacked the American positions in the region of Vaux (two miles west of Chateau-Thierry) at 6 o'clock this morning, followed by a heavy bombardment with gas and big explosives. The American artillery responded with a barrage."

Attack Developing

"The attack and bombardment extended over a front of nearly ten miles, following the spur to the huge German salient toward Paris."

The cable was filed before the attack had developed sufficiently to permit of any intimation of the details.

LABOR HEAD TO ADDRESS TWO MEETINGS HERE

A. W. MUIR, OF POCATELLO, IS SCHEDULED AS SPEAKER AT PIGNIO AND UNION MEETING

A. W. Muir of Pocatello, district vice chairman of the federal labor organizations, and his associates are to be the speakers at a labor meeting in the Leveing theatre here at 8:30 o'clock Tuesday evening, following the Non-Partisan league picnic Tuesday afternoon in the city park. At the Pignio meeting, Muir is to speak also. Other speakers at the picnic include H. F. Samuels of Samuels, Non-Partisan candidate for governor; J. M. Baer, Non-Partisan congressman from Boise; N. K. Jones, Justice King of Washington, D. C., secretary of the National Popular Government league; and O. G. Zerk of Kimberly, former senator from Twin Falls county, who has been endorsed for lieutenant governor by the league.

An effort is being made to bring A. C. Towsley, president of the league, to Twin Falls on this occasion, but it is understood that he is to fulfill a speaking engagement in Montana on Tuesday.

HUNS CROSS MARNE

groes of the effort, but apparently as the biggest assault attempted by the enemy since the fighting which occurred soon after the Americans entered the line there.

Two distinct American forces are involved in the new drive, those of the region of Chateau-Thierry and those near Bette du Mesnil, four miles west of Main de Massiges.

Americans Involved

Vaux, which is one of the key positions of Chateau-Thierry, was captured by the Americans about the 12th of June. American advances in this region are the place where the Germans crossed the Marne for the first time since the initial drive of the war and were hurled back by the Americans.

French Lines Hold

The French officials continue, filed at noon, Paris time, announced that the Germans had launched their drive on a front of 80 kilometers, from Chateau-Thierry eastward to Main de Massiges, following a violent artillery preparation, but that the French were sustaining their positions energetically.

"The Germans attacked this morning from Chateau-Thierry to Main de Massiges, using the most violent artillery preparations," the communique said.

"The French are sustaining their positions energetically before the enemy assault on a front of about 80 kilometers (49 1/2 miles). The battle is continuing."

Main de Massiges is in the Champagne region, 32 miles east of Rheims. The latter city is almost in the center of the new drive.

Drive Anticipated

That the drive on the front was not unexpected is revealed by the fact that Ed L. Keen, European manager of the United Press, called on June 29, that he had learned from authoritative sources.

"The enemy will soon launch its final and supreme effort. It is certain that their will be a partial offensive on the northern portion of the British front (France). The location of the main blow is not certain, but it probably will be between Rheims and the Ardennes region (near Verdun), with simultaneous subsidiary attacks along the whole front."

Important Cities in Path

The bombardment of Mainz, 35 miles west and south of Chateau-Thierry and less than that distance from Paris, lends weight to the theory that the new drive is intended, at least in part, as a resumption of the advance on Paris.

In the path of the drive are the important cities of Epervier, fifteen miles south of Rheims, and Chalons Sur Marne, 24 miles southeast of Rheims.

TODAY'S CASUALTIES

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Sixty casualties listed by General Pershing today were as follows:

DOWN WITH JADE, UP WITH GARBAGE

WASHINGTON, July 15.—Jade carvings, lacquered shrines, and carved wood jewel boxes will not help win the war, in the opinion of the American government, but tin cans and garbage will.

In its steady progress toward elimination of the great American waste, the government has put the three former items on the restricted imports list. The latter items are being looked after by other departments of the government.

Tennis rackets, tennis golf, base-ping-pong and bowling balls; almost flour used in cosmetics; metal vases and similar novelties also are on a newly issued restricted imports list.

The department of agriculture announces that if you do not throw away your tin cans, but save them to can the knifer, you may make some money. If you can gather 1,000 or 2,000 of them, free from rust, you may get $12 for them, according to quotations furnished by a smelter.

So worried has the government become about the distasteful waste of beautiful garbage in this country, that the food administration has issued an appeal to the housekeeper, saying:

"One ton of garbage contains: 1. Sufficient glycerine for 14 7/8 millimeter shells. 2. Sufficient fatty acid for manufacture of 100 2-ounce cakes of soap; sufficient fertilizer elements to grow 8 bushels of wheat; a score of other articles valuable in munitions making. 3. If used as bog feed it will produce: One hundred pounds of good, firm, first quality pork. 4. Can you afford to destroy these valuable products when your government needs them to help win the war? 5. Put less in your garbage pail and take more out. But what MUST go in should be kept separate from other household refuse as it can be used again. 6. Remember! Garbage is valuable. Keep it clean!"

BOISE.—Montie B. Owin has received a telegram from San Francisco from the president of the Pacific federal reserve district, asking him to accept the position of chairman of the Idaho state Liberty loan campaign, in the place of Dr. W. Davis, resigned, and he has accepted.

Mr. Owin has been vice chairman of the Idaho committee during the last three loan campaigns and has given much of his personal attention to the work, his banking and other business experience having made him a valued member. Mr. Owin and Mr. Davis have recently returned from San Francisco, where they were in conference with the general committee.

CHALONS DECLARED GERMAN OBJECTIVE

LONDON, July 15.—The Evening News military expert declares the Germans' ultimate objective is Chalons, thus breaking through the French lines. It is not absolutely certain whether this is the main attack, as the Germans prepared for others, notably on the Amiens front, but the new frontage indicates it is the main effort," he said.

HUNS HELD AT ALL ESSENTIAL POINTS

By J. W. T. MASON (Called Press "Win Expert")

NEW YORK, July 15.—2:25 p. m.—Indications this afternoon are that von Hindenburg's new offensive is being held at all essential points.

The failure of the Germans to break the American line at Verdun and their constant attacks in that area strengthen the assurance that Paris is safe.

The crossing of the Marne by the Germans is, however, an unfortunate episode. This success has been confined to a narrow column which produces a dangerous local salient.

The American counter attack may bring about a disaster for those Germans who have risked crossing.

Allies Are Satisfied

The fact that the main German assaults are occurring between Verdun and Rheims is without doubt satisfactory to General Foch. This is the side of the Aisne-Marne wedge farthest away from Paris and the channel ports. The attack in that area means von

SAYS RUSSIANS WILL HELP WIN

JOSEPH GOLDMAN, FORMER RABBI, DISCUSSES EFFECTS OF CONFLICT

Joseph Goldman, formerly a rabbi of the Jewish church in Russia, said a well known Hebrew lecturer spoke Tuesday before a large audience at three different meetings. He spoke in the morning at the Christian church here on the "Home-coming of Israel"; in the afternoon at the Presbyterian church on "The True Life of Russia"; and in the evening at the Filter chautauqua on both subjects.

That the Russian people will in the near future overthrow the Bolsheviki, who were named as a class by the I. W. W. in this country, and resume an active part in Germany, with the result of early triumph of the cause of the allies, was the prediction made by the speaker. He declared it the wish of the United States and of military support to the Russians.

Prophecy relative to the gathering of the Jews at Jerusalem is to be fulfilled as a result of the war, Mr. Goldman asserted. He predicted that 3,000 Palestine will be freed from Mohammedan rule.

HUNS AT VAUX

until the German attack was stopped. The German drive extends from west of Chateau-Thierry to east of Rheims. American troops are involved on both sides of Chateau-Thierry. The Germans apparently are trying to reach Chalons.

Bitter fighting is in progress, especially along the Marne-east of Chateau-Thierry, where an American counter-attack is under way, as this is believed.

Use Pontons Bridges

At daybreak the Boches threw ponton bridges across the Marne. Supported by artillery and machine guns, their infantry rushed across in the face of heavy fire.

The Germans succeeded in crossing the river at three places—St. Mary, at Baugouins and at La Bastonnais farm, north of Vaux. (Vaux is four miles east of Chateau-Thierry. Mary is two miles northeast of Fossy. Baugouins is the same distance northeast of Mary.)

Their first march carried the Germans forward three kilometers (a mile and three quarters). At noon the battle line east of Chateau-Thierry was roughly, from Fossy through Paroy and between Courtemont and Varennes to Reully.

Hun Advance Slowed Down

Paroy is three-quarters of a mile east of Fossy. Varennes is two miles north and slightly east of Paroy, in the center of a sharp northward bend of the Marne. Courtemont is half a mile east of Varennes. This indicates that the Americans were pushed back from the Marne some 1 1/2 miles and a quarter at the point of greatest penetration—Fossy—and held the Germans to even smaller gains elsewhere east of Chateau-Thierry. American positions finally slowed down the German advance. Preparations for counter attack began immediately and the Americans went forward to the attack before the enemy could reorganize his badly shattered units.

Enemy Driven Back

West of Chateau-Thierry the enemy's efforts to recapture Vaux lasted only a couple of hours, after which the American counter attack threw them back far beyond their starting point.

At the end of the day the lines of the country is shaken by the artillery firing, as though by an earthquake. The valleys near Vaux were heavily deluged with gas, forcing the Americans to fight in gas masks.

German losses were heavy everywhere they attacked, but they were particularly severe along the Marne, where the Boches paid a heavy toll for the privilege of bridging the historic river.

Withdrawal of the Americans and the French troops to their right, to the base of the salient formed in the center of the Marne, was effected by excellent order.

SET TENTATIVE PRICE ON HAY AT $16 PER TON

TWO HUNDRED FARMERS, SHEPHERDS AND CATTLEMEN ENDORSE PROPOSAL OF DIRECTOR

The price of hay in the Twin Falls district this year is to be fixed at approximately $16 per ton by Harvey Allred, director of the state farm bureau, who is to determine the exact price at a figure so fixed as to profit to the grower commensurate with that of the industries dependent upon the hay production.

Outgrow Meeting Place
This is in accordance with an agreement reached by unanimous vote in endorsement of the plan proposed by Mr. Allred at a meeting of 200 farmers, shepherds and cattlemen assembled here Saturday afternoon in the high school auditorium. The meeting was held here in the farm bureau office here but was adjourned to the auditorium because of the large attendance. County Agent Donald McLean introduced Mr. Allred at the opening of the meeting, and President W. F. Albrecht of the farm bureau, made a brief talk at its close.

The meeting also voted unanimously that a system of grading the hay crop should be put in also here. The exact price to be charged for hay here is to be determined by Mr. Allred and announced by him about July 20. On the basis of a $16 price for No. 1 hay, Mr. Allred stated, the select grade will bring approximately $17, and the No. 2 grade about $15 per ton.

Sheepmen Draw Fire
Prior to the adoption of Mr. Allred's proposal relative to the fixing of the price of hay, G. Brannon of Buhl, Denver, owners of large bands of sheep, after telling the meeting that he was the first hay buyer in this district last year to pay $15 for hay, warned the farmers against fixing a price so high as to drive out the sheep and cattle men. The firm represented by him filed between 75,000 and 100,000 lambs in southern Idaho last year and paid out $700,000 for hay in this district, Mr. Brannon stated. "The sheepmen make the market," he said. His assertion that his investigation led him to believe that the sheepmen would be willing to pay $10 to $12 for hay here this year was greeted with laughter and hisses.

V. J. Costello of Twin Falls, another sheepman, also drew fire when he declared that in the case of the ads of the hay seller was in no position to fix the price. One farmer retorted that the farmer in every purchase he made confronted a fixed price, and Mr. Allred declared that conditions would be changed through organization of the farmers so that he also might name the price for his product.

Shows Figures on Profits
Mr. Allred gave figures to show the increase in the value of sheep, wool, dairy products, beef and hay, and the increase on an average of the price paid on the farm in three previous years as compared with the prices obtained January 1, 1918. The average increase for the four first named products was 125 per cent each, and the increase in the price of hay was 110 per cent. The difference was 19.3 per cent.

Figures given by Mr. Allred showed that the price of sheep had increased 238 per cent; wool, 285 per cent; cattle, 25.8 per cent; butter, 65.5 per cent.

Depends on Many Factors
The exact price of hay still depends on the factors of the supply outside the state and the crop within the state. His reason for believing that the ultimate price will be higher than $16. The hay crop is below normal throughout the north-west.

Mr. Allred is making a tour of the state with a view to establishing a uniform price for hay throughout the state. At a meeting Friday at Caldwell a tentative price of $17 a ton was determined upon.

WORK OVERTIME TO FILL RED CROSS QUOTA

Curry Women Put in Double Shift—Regular Meeting Day Changed

(Special to The News)
CURRY—Seven members of Curry Red Cross worked all day Wednesday in addition to the regular Friday afternoon in order to get the required work out on time. Hereafter the regular meeting will be on Wednesday afternoon at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. Shepard and children of Hailcy are enjoying a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth.

Lawrence Gabbert is recovering nicely having his tonsils removed. Miss and Rebecca Bowtell expect Friday with friends in Buhl.

Mrs. George Stockberger is a new worker at Curry Red Cross. Miss Pauline Alway is home after spending a year with relatives in Pennsylvania.

Ralph Ingler was called to the city hospital Friday to be with his sister from Hazelton, who is dangerously ill.

Andrew Jackson, great-grandson and namesake of the famous general and president, Andrew Jackson, who fought in the war of 1812 and won the battle of New Orleans, is now a sergeant in the United States Army. His father, too, was a soldier, fighting on the side of the South in our Civil war.

CHEESE MAKING EARLY INDUSTRY

JOHN F. HANSEN TELLS OF ESTABLISHING FACTORY ON COTTONWOOD CREEK IN 1878

Dairying is not a new industry in Idaho. The pioneers of this country brought with them their dairy herds and were provided from their own resources not only with milk and butter, but with cheese products, among them by those who were familiar with the art of its manufacture.

Bad Skins Stop Operations
John F. Hansen of Twin Falls, who came to Idaho in 1875 from Indiana, where he lived at first after emigrating from Denmark, with Mrs. Hansen were the proprietors of one of the first cheese factories in the territory of Idaho, which was established by them in April, 1878, on Cottonwood creek, 25 miles east of Twin Falls, and continued in operation until in the second year of the uprising of the Danesock Indians in 1877, 1878, and 1879, the approach of the redskins compelled its discontinuance.

This was not the first cheese factory in Idaho, Mr. Hansen says. Prior to this time pioneers of north Idaho in the vicinity of Moscow operated a factory producing a product which was known as Clearwater cheese.

Market at Kellon
The output of the Hansen cheese factory was distributed among the sparsely settled community, for the most part through the general merchandise store of Kellon, Utah. "We sold our cheese," Mr. Hansen says, "to Harry Ellsworth at Kellon, receiving 18 cents a pound for it. The same quality of cheese cannot be obtained elsewhere in Utah. It did not use too much water in our product as is done now, and today we pay 26 cents a pound for cheese."

HERDS ARE SCATTERED

With the approach of the Danesocks in 1878, the residents of what is now the Twin Falls country abandoned most of their possessions and fled to the old stage station known as Ten Mile on the Overland train, 10 miles north of Kellon. There were between 12 and 15 families scattered there for one or six weeks. When they returned to their homes they found their cattle scattered and most of their possessions destroyed.

TWIN FALLS COUNTY HAS 150 CARS OF FRUIT

T. W. Potter Says That Orchards in West End of County Much Better Than Other Parts

T. W. Potter of the Earl Fruit company, visited the Buhl country this week with a view of determining the apple situation, says the Buhl Herald. After visiting the different orchards, Mr. Potter says that Twin Falls county will have from 150 to 200 car loads of fruit to ship, as against 400 car loads last year. This he says is better than was anticipated earlier in the season.

"Some of the orchards and the larger part of the crop is in the west end of the county, where the late frosts did not effect the fruit as much as it did around Twin Falls in the eastern part of the county. There have lots of fruit, and they are flying it on the Allred and Hays ranch this week," concluded Mr. Potter.

REGIONS AS SCHOOL DIRECTOR
(Special to The News)
BULL—J. W. Paris, for nine years past a director of the Buhl board of education, has resigned and Charles M. Merrick has been appointed to fill the unexpired term. The board passed resolutions of respect and appreciation of Mr. Paris' service.

GUNNER DEPENDING ON ALBERT N. DEPEW

EX-GUNNER AND CHIEF Petty Officer U.S. NAVY MEMBER OF THE FOREIGN LEGION OF FRANCE CAPTAIN GUN TURRET, FRENCH BATTLESHIP CASSARD WINNER OF THE CROIX DE GUERRE

Copyright 1918 by Albert N. Depew Co. Through Special Agents With & George Hoffman Adams Service.

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Albert N. Depew, author of this story, while in the United States navy, during four years, and attaining the rank of Chief Petty Officer, first-class.

CHAPTER II—The great war starts soon after he is honorably discharged from the navy and he sails for France with a determination to enlist.

But one thing about the legion, that I find many people do not know, is that the legionnaires are used for either land or sea service. They are sent wherever they can be used. I do not know whether this was the case before the present war—I think not—but in my time, many of the men were put on ships. Most people, however, have the idea that they are only used in the infantry.

When my commission as gunner, I received orders to go to Brest and join the dreadnaught Cassard. This assignment tickled me, for my pal Murray was aboard, and I had expected another transfer to his ship in case I was assigned elsewhere. We had framed it up to stick together as long as we could. We did, too.

Murray was as glad as I was when I came aboard, and he told me he had heard Brown, our old pal, had been made a sergeant in another regiment of the legion.

We were both surprised at some of the differences between the French navy and our own, but after we got used to it, we thought many of our customs improvements over ours. But we could not get used to it, at first. For instance, on an American ship, when you are pointing your ear in a nice warm hammock and it is time to relieve the watch on deck, like as you will be awakened gently by a busy orderly armed with a fair sized watch.

Then, too, they do not do any basting in the French navy, and this surprised us. We had expected to go through the mill just as we did when we joined the American service, but nobody along a hand at us. On the contrary, every day about six times, and except on extremely courteous, and the fact that we were from the States counted a lot with them. They used to brag about it to the crews of other ships that were not so honored.

But this kindness we might have expected. It is just like Frenchmen in any walk of life. With hardly an exception, I have never met one of this nationality who was not anxious to help you in every way he could, and extremely generous though not reckless with small change, and almost always cheery and there with a smile in any weather. A fellow asked me once why I was that way, and I told him it was because the French love almost the whole world, and show it. And I think that is the reason, too.

About the only way you can describe the Polka, on a ship, is that they are gentle. That is, you always think that word when you see one and talk to him—unless you happen to see him with a dozen dollars of Frits. The French sailors also come between decks in bunks, instead of hammocks, and as I had not slept in a bunk since my SouthernDown days; it was pretty hard on me. So I got hold of some heavy-lie, which is one-quarter-inch rope, and rigged up a hammock in my spare time. I taught the others how to make them, and pretty soon everybody was doing it.

When I taught the sailors to make hammocks, I figured, of course, that they would use them as we did—that is, sleep in them. They were greatly pleased at first, but after they had tried the stunt of getting in and staying in, it was another story. A hammock is like some other things—it works while you sleep—and if you are not on to it, you spend most of your sleeping time hitting the floor. Our gun captain thought I had put over a trick hammock on him, but I did not need to, every hammock is a trick hammock.

Also, I taught them the way we make mats out of rope, to use while sleeping on the steel gratings near the entrance to stoke holds. In cold weather this part of the ship is more comfortable than the ordinary sleeping quarters, but without a mat it gets too hot.

American soldiers and sailors get the best food in the world, but while the French navy cook was not fancy, it was clean and hearty, as they say down East. For breakfast we had bread and coffee and sardines; at noon a boiled dinner, mostly beans, which were old friends of mine, and of the well-named navy variety; at four in the afternoon, a pint of wine, and at six, a supper of soup, coffee, bread and beans.

Although the French "twenty-two" is the best gun in the world, their naval guns are not as good as ours, and their gunners are mostly older men. But they will give a youngster a gun, and if he shows the stuff.

Shortly after I went aboard the Cassard, we received instructions to proceed to Spain, Italy, the large Italian naval base. The voyage was without incident, but when we dropped anchor in Spain, the Italian port officials quarantined us for fourteen days on account of cholera. During this period our food was pretty bad; in fact, the best became rotten. This could hardly have happened on an American ship, because they are provided with canned stuff and preserved meats, but the French ships, like the Italian, depend on live stock, fresh vegetables, and things which carry on board, and we had expected to get a large supply of such stuff at Spain. Long before the fourteen days were up we were sick of the manna.

It was during one of these pretences that the French officers wanted to find out what the Yankee gunner knew about gunnery. At a range of eight miles, while the ship was making eight knots an hour, with a fourteen-inch gun, they fired three duds—that is, three that hit out of the water. After that there was no question about it. As a result, I was awarded three bars. These bars, which are strips of red braid, are worn on the left shoulder, and are given to you as you receive two hundred and fifty francs, or about fifty dollars in American money, and fourteen days' shore leave.

All this made me very angry, oh, very much, except on two occasions. I saw a merry life for myself on the workshop I could a little thing they can do that will help a lot. I am not trying to be fancy about it, and I hope you will take it from me the way I mean it.

"With a Fourteen-inch Gun I Scored 'The Duds'"

When you say goodbye to your son or your husband or your sweetheart, work up a smile in your face. What you want to do is to give him something he can talk about over there, and something he will like to think about. There is so much dirt, and blood, and hunger, and cold, and all that around you and you have just got to quit thinking about it or you will go crazy. And so, when you can think about something nice, you can pretty nearly forget all the rest of it.

Now, you can take it from me that what your boy will like to remember the best of all his year days with a smile on it. He has got to keep to his hands without a lot of words to remember. If you will excuse the word, but don't forget that the chances are the figures prove it. That will help you some. At that, it will be hard work; you will feel more like crying, and so will be, maybe. But smile for him. That smile is your life.

I will back a mile against the weaps in a race to Berlin any time. So I am telling you, and I cannot make it strong enough—send him away with a smile.

STAKE CONFERENCE COMES TO TWIN FALLS

Members of L. D. B. Church of Two Counties, Coming Here for Meeting.

The Twin Falls organization of the Latter Day Saints' church will host to the Cassia stake quarterly conference which is to meet here two days, July 27 and 28, on the first day in the local church and on the second day in the Idaho temple. President W. T. Jack of Cassia stake which comprises the counties of Cassia and Twin Falls, will preside at the session. The attendance of some of the apostles of the church from Salt Lake, as well as that of a large number of the members of the church is anticipated on this occasion.

Word has been received by friends in Twin Falls from Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hiley, that they arrived safely in France, says the Bulletin.

DEMAND IS GREAT FOR ARMY NURSES. EVERY IDAHO COMMUNITY CALLED UPON FOR VOLUNTEERS TO FILL THE RANKS FOR SERVICE.

On account of the great demand for graduate nurses at the local hospital, the civilian hospital are suffering from a lack of nurses. Calls are continually coming for nurses to take care of the wounded men. It is impossible for these experienced nurses to leave without getting students to take their place.

The woman's committee of the Council of National Defense fully realizes the necessity for recruiting American women in the hospital service. A campaign has been planned to secure the services of at least 25,000 well-educated and capable women. It is estimated that by January 1, 1919, the army will require a total of 25,000 graduate nurses. Of these 15,000 have already been supplied but more are called leave until the student nurses have been recruited.

Search for Eligible Women. It is planned to have the local divisions of the Council of National Defense and other patriotic associations canvass the communities thoroughly. All women between the ages of 20 and 25 will be enrolled who can possibly serve in the hospitals. These women will hold themselves ready for call into any of the training hospitals throughout the United States until April 1, 1919. If in the meantime they have entered any other branch of government work, they will be released from their service contract. Candidates for positions in the hospitals should be at least high school graduates and preferably with college education. However, women will not be refused because they have not completed a four-year high school course. The campaign program begins July 20 and closes August 11.

WOULD COMPEL BOARD TO OPEN HIS ROAD

Appeal to the district court from the order of the county commissioners closing the petition of C. I. Davis asking for the opening of public road on a half-section lying running north and south through section 21, township 11, range 17, six miles south of Twin Falls, was filed Saturday by Turner K. Hackman. The petitioner complains from the court an order compelling the commissioners to open the road.

HELPING THE PRESS

Some idea of the growing costs of the business of publishing newspapers may be gleaned from the fact that the government itself has come to the aid of publishers with a set of rules designed to trim expenses. In the case of a majority of newspapers the new order of things will make but little difference as the proposition of free copies and free service generally has been steadily curtailed for some time past until at this time there is actually very little waste of this sort.

The rules, which follow, are nevertheless interesting:

Discontinue the acceptance of the returns of unpaid copies.

Discontinue the use of all samples or free promotion copies.

Discontinue giving copies to anybody, except for office-working copies or where required by statute law in the case of official advertising.

Discontinue giving free copies to advertisers, except not more than one copy each for checking purposes.

Discontinue the arbitrary forcing of copies on news dealers (i. e., compelling them to buy more copies than they can legitimately sell in order to hold certain territories).

Discontinue the buying back of papers at either wholesale or retail selling price from dealers or agents in order to secure preferential representation.

Discontinue the payment of salaries or commissions to agents, dealers, or newsmen for the purpose of securing the equivalent of return privileges.

Discontinue all free exchanges.

BUIH EQUITY RE-ELECTS LAST YEAR'S DIRECTORS

Also Declares a 10 Per Cent Dividend on Stock Now Held at Discretion of Directors.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Buih Farmers' Equity was held in the Standard annex hall on Saturday afternoon, says the Buih Herald, at which time it was voted to declare a 10 per cent dividend on the stock now held, though the money to be kept in the business until such time as the directors think it opportune to award the dividend.

A report by Manager Forbes advised that the Union had made a net profit to the stockholders of $100 during the past year, besides paying off several thousand dollars worth of old debts. The total sales amounted to $160,400.00 for the year. The report showed the business in good shape, and that the Buih had opened a good business for this year.

The directors of the Farmers' Equity who will hold over for another year, are: Gustav Knapp, president; Albert Winick 2d, secretary; Matthew Bentley, Gordon Bennett and George McPherson.

LESS HAY AND MORE STOCK IN OASSIA

Local Demand Depends on Sugar Factory Operation Says Burley Bulletin

The first cutting of alfalfa on the Minidoka project is practically all in the stack now, says the Burley Bulletin, and while the crop is a fair one, with the exception of a few fields injured by hail, it is very evident to a careful observer that there is far less hay here than at the end of the harvest in past years. This is due principally to the decreased acreage of alfalfa, which is evidenced in extensive wheat fields.

There is no doubt but what the general market for hay throughout the country this year will be good at a fair price, but the local conditions to a great extent govern the price of hay here, and as they are still unsettled, it is hard to say what hay will bring in the stack this fall.

Local Conditions Unstable

General conditions of the hay crop in neighboring states would indicate prices at least as high as last year, but should the Burley sugar factory not run this season, there will be no left pulp here and consequently no cattle fed in the local yards; or if the factory should run only to cut the beets banded in by wagon, the pulp supply will be so limited as to make it hardly worth while for the feeder company to operate and there will be only a small lot of demand for hay, and much of it will have to be shipped. On the other hand, should the Burley factory be operated to cut the beets grown at Twin Falls as well as here, there will be a big demand for hay to feed with the beet pulp and there will be but little hay to ship out. At present good alfalfa is bringing $11 per ton in the field for shipping purposes. There is a good demand and a large part of the first cutting has been sold.

Effect of Stock Increase

While the hay crop will be lighter this year, there is a big increase in the number of livestock on the project farms, especially sheep and cattle. This is due also in Twin Falls country, where even a larger per cent of the alfalfa was plowed up last spring to give place to wheat. In fact, everything taken into consideration, indications are at this time that the farmers will receive a fair price for their surplus-hay, and the advice of State Farm Markets, Director A.H. 4 to hold until they are satisfied with the price seems sound.

HAS SUGGESTION FOR DOUBLING OF PRODUCTION

BUHL MAN IN MILITARY SERVICE PLEADS FOR APPLICATION OF HIS IRRIGATION METHOD

Production of two crops of grain from the same field in the same season is possible under certain cultural methods on irrigated farms according to a member of the selective service contingent which returned from Twin Falls June 23 and who is now in the military service as a member of the 88th Central Postal Directory, 10th Depot Brigade at Camp Lewis, Washington.

A letter under date of July 1, addressed to the citizens of the United States, and received by his father, S. Paul of Buhl, Mrs. Elizabeth, outlines the method under which this result is to be obtained and pleads for his trial as a possible means of meeting the war requirement for increased food production.

Here is his letter:
"I have the most earnest desire that the people at home do their part in carrying out what they have to do. I am willing to help in any way I can with both ends of the burden. I want you to hear."

"I wish to impress upon your mind the need of food production as I had a practical irrigator, having the experience of my father, who has been engaged in irrigating more than forty years, and as I have been a very close observer of the results of the application of water to the arid land at the proper time and season to obtain the most efficient results, and now that I am deeply interested in subsidizing the IRR, (and when we have succeeded it will be a better world to live in), one thing I wish my fellow-farmers to bear in mind and put in practice, as we need the wheat and more wheat; we can get more wheat this year by keeping the ground moist, your wheat will ripen just the same and by so doing it will preserve the roots, cut down on the grain, and get the ground for the irrigator. It will put forth its shoots and make a second crop of grain yet this year, and if not it will make an excellent pasture, the same treatment for oats.

"As you know the war is taking thousands of men out of the fields and other places every month, and those men if they were not enlisted every year, would not and could not possibly get back in the same before the close of the next season, so it is up to you to keep the food production going for another year if not longer.

"If we are not careful and make every effort we can to prevent it, we are going to have a FAMINE which will, when it comes, claim more victims than to one than the war. We boys who have taken up arms in defense of our country, our freedom and liberty, have given up all and I do not get it back as I'm hoping upon you when I ask you to put forth every bit of energy you have to prosecute this war to the end."

NANCY DECIDES

By KITTY PARSONS.

"Why won't you marry me, Nancy?" Is it on account of this soldier fellow you've got in the service that you won't? "I don't know, Dick—I really and truly don't know. I thought I did care for you a few months ago, but now, I'm not so sure—I think perhaps we're not suited to each other any more."

"Then, it is this other fellow. I knew it was and you've never even seen him, either. Why, Nancy, he may be entirely different from what you think him. He might be almost anything."

"But he isn't Dick. No one could be anything that wasn't wonderful and write such beautiful letters—I never read such letters before. I just feel you got to see him before I can make up my mind about anyone else."

"Well, if that's the way you feel about it, I guess we'd better call the whole thing off. I never could write a decent letter myself. When does Sir Galahad return?"

"He gets here some time next week—on sick leave. I'm to meet him the day after he arrives—he'll have tea with me, I think. He may not look like I expect him to at all, but I am sure he does."

"Nancy, promise me you won't go to tea with him till you see what he looks like first."

"Yes, crazy Dick—as if his looks could make any difference in my feelings toward him! His his mind I'm thinking of, not his face."

The week after Nancy's conversation with Dick was a busy one for the girl. Before she knew it, the day came when she was to meet her friend, and Nancy was in a perfect turmoil of excitement. Again and again she went over the picture of him which had formed in her mind, and every detail of it.

She and Harold filed were never talked very much about themselves. Their letters had been more about things and ideas and the great war.

"I had an idea my godmother was much older," he began, when they were seated at a little table together.

"You thought I was old to tell him so though I was really so young, so she only smiled and made no particular remark about how deceptive letters can be. For some time they talked of commonplace, then he said: "You've been so kind, so very kind to me, that I don't think I can tell you how much we fellows over there appreciate the wonderful letters some of you don't write us. Why, many of us don't hear from home for weeks at a time. And those boxes and knitted things, too—I feel I must see you just to let you know what we really do think of you all. Letters can't say half of what you mean."

"It's meant nothing but a pleasure to me," returned Nancy promptly, blushing slightly at his earnestness.
