OFFICIAL ANNOUNCEMENT BY CHIEF OF STAFF MARCH SETS FORTH ACCOMPLISHMENTS OF AMERICANS IN PRESENT OFFENSIVE

By JOSEPH SHARLEN
United Press Staff Correspondent
WASHINGTON, July 20.—The American divisions engaged on the larger front of the present offensive are the First, Second, Third and Fourth regiments, and the 26th and 28th national guard. In addition the 42d national guard is on the right flank—the Chateau-Thierry together with a colored regiment from the new 93d division. Official statement of the American forces now battling in the great offensive was given by Chief of Staff March today in his weekly conference with press correspondents.

At the same time he revealed that the maximum penetration of 4th Franco-Americans was 7 miles.

Large Number Engaged
Nearly 170,000 actual fighting Americans are engaged in the main drive. The last official dispatches received at the war department today declared the fighting was still in progress, with the capture of guns and prisoners in very "hopeful" numbers.

German Try Advance
Along the Marne between Chateau-Thierry and Rheims the Germans made an advance of four to five miles on a 23 mile front. The terrain there is difficult with hills and woods.

This general movement has been brought to a standstill. The Germans in their offensive claimed they had as an object the smothering process of squeezing off Rheims, which is very well organized for defense, even to the extent of house-to-house defense, which had heretofore made it impossible to get at.

As soon as the German advance between Chateau-Thierry and Rheims had been brought to a standstill, Foch struck hard along the western side. The front over which we advanced was 22 miles.

Seven Miles on Average
The maximum penetration as reported officially was to a depth of 10 miles, with a general penetration of seven miles.

In this advance there were six American divisions and one regiment of colored troops. The regular colored troops referred to above were on the allied right, but March did not delegate the particular outfit.

Incidentally March stated we have now shipped more than 1,500,000 troops abroad.

BATTLE RAGES FOR POSSESSION OF VITAL POINTS

HIGHWAY FROM SOISSONS TO CHATEAU-THIERRY IS SCENE OF DESPERATE STRUGGLE

By FRANK J. TAYLOR
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
WITH THE AMERICAN ARMS BETWEEN THE ARNE AND THE MARNE, July 20.—The Franco-American offensive late last night was developing into a desperate battle for possession of the important highway from Soissons to Chateau-Thierry. Some allied units already have crossed the road, especially French cavalry. The Germans have been strongly reinforced by reserve divisions. The element of surprise long since was lost to the French and Americans, and the fighting is now man to man and gun to gun.

The battle is particularly sanguinary south of Soissons, where it is raging through villages, woods and fields of grain. One American brigade captured more than 2,000 Doctores in this region.

German Rush Aid
The Germans are attempting to rush their artillery, men and supplies along the whole front, under the terrible shell fire concentrated on their lines of communication by the allied guns. At the south end of the battle line, American units in conjunction with the French, advanced northwest of Chateau-Thierry. Last reports declared the fighting was increasing in intensity east of Courchamp.

Between Chateau-Thierry and Rheims, especially in the vicinity of Dormans, American units are helping to hold back the waning efforts of the Germans to push ahead. According to the latest advices, the fighting there is now purely local in character, on a scale hardly larger than riding. The enemy efforts there have been growing lighter and lighter in the last four days.

AUSTRIA ADMITS OUTLOOK BLACK

RUSS STRIVE FOR DECISION BEFORE U. S. CAN GET ACTION

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Declaring that Germany is today "striving for a decision before the weight of the United States can be felt," Austrian newspapers admit that the outlook for the Russian empire is dark.

"The Austrians are transforming the situation," declares the Vienna Arbeiter Zeitung. "Late reports agree that there is no longer doubt, but that America has a million men in France. The political as well as the military situation is changed by this."

"The participation of Americans in the struggle increases to a gigantic extent the intensity of the efforts which Germany must make. Germany today is finding herself confronted with three nations whose population is three times her own, whose talents for organization and economic forces are equal to the organization and economical power of Germany."

"Though the Germans are maintaining their positions there is a limit to human endurance and it can be easily understood why the supreme command of Germany is striving for a final decision this year."

"It is now a question of securing this before the weight of the United States can be thrown on the balance of the allies."

DEATH OF ROOSEVELT IS CONFIRMED

PARIS, July 20.—Confirmation of Lieutenant Quentin Roosevelt's death during a battle Sunday near Chateau-Thierry was contained in a note dropped by a German aviator to the aviation camp to which he had been driven, the Journal announced today.

LOWE CHANCE FOR GERMANY TO RETRIEVE HER LOSSES

FAILURE TO STRIKE SHARPLY AND AT ONCE MEANS FAILURE OF HINDENBURG'S ENTIRE PROGRAM FOR THE WHOLE YEAR

By ED L. KEEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, July 20.—Germany's lone chance of retrieving the offensive and continuing her offensive is to strike soon with full force working like lightning. Failure to do this means that Von Hindenburg's 1918 offensive dreams, with Paris and the coast ports as objectives are shattered.

Already the French and Americans have begun the looping movement designed to trap the Huns located in the pocket between Soissons and Rheims. Along the whole front the signal is awaited from Foch to begin the drive against the Boches. Tommies and colonial on the British front are thrusting here and there to keep in trim.

Position Grows Desperate
The Germans' position is growing more desperate each day. The passing of time witnesses a constant increase in air raids on German territory. Every now and then the allied aviators go a bit further. Talk is growing regarding the possibilities of raising Berlin and Vienna.

Germany undoubtedly has several punches left, but the freshened allies have the "duck and hit" game down to a science. Morning newspapers reporting the circumstances at Cambrai, cautiously advise the public to await developments.

"It is still within Ludendorff's grasp to concentrate his strength for a thrust that will lay every resource to the allied defense," declared the Daily News, but the day is past when the Germans can hope to reach the ultimate objectives of their offensive.

Man Power Dwindling
"Foch has forced the enemy's hand and has deprived him of the initiative," the Mail said. "Ludendorff's position is desperate."

ALLSHIE AND SMITH PLACED IN NOMINATION

Former Will Make the Race for Senator; the Latter for Representative in Congress

The nomination of James F. Allshie of Coeur d'Alene on the Republican ticket for the senatorial short term, to succeed the late Senator James H. Brainerd, was filed at the office of the secretary of state Thursday afternoon by R. O. Jones, campaign manager for Judge Allshie.

Neither of the candidates has filed his acceptance, but is expected to do so within a few days.

GERMAN FORCES DRIVEN OUT OF SOISSONS BUT ALLIED TROOPS HAVE NOT YET ENTERED

WASHINGTON, July 20.—The war department today expected news that American and French troops have entered Soissons.

Official word received late yesterday from the war department has been forwarded to the Germans was followed in the dispatches that the allies could enter Soissons almost at will. Although the capture of the town was announced in official diplomatic circles, these dispatches still lacked war department confirmation early today.

CASUALTIES ARE MUCH LIGHTER THAN EXPECTED

PARIS HOSPITALS RAPIDLY FILLING UP BUT NUMBER OF AMERICAN SUFFERERS SMALL

By WEBB MILLER
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, July 20.—The backwash from the battle on the American front in flowing into Paris. American Red Cross hospitals are filling up as cases which can be transported are rushed from the dressing stations at the front direct to Paris. All the American hospitals are scenes of intense activity. The staffs are putting up cots on every available spot. While this preparation is going on, however, hospital officials declare the number of casualties, considering the extent of the American operations is wonderfully small. But this is the first time our boys have participated on such a large scale and the hospital facilities are strained.

Stated Passing Ambulances
At twilight yesterday long lines of American ambulances crawled slowly along a boulevard in the eastern part of the city toward the hospitals. Crowds of promenadeers halted and walked to the edge of the sidewalk. Many had reverently military men saluted each ambulance. Old men raised their hats while women waved handkerchiefs and children tossed their own messages into the American ambulances. Bandaged and severely military men saluted each ambulance. Old men raised their hats while women waved handkerchiefs and children tossed their own messages into the American ambulances. Bandaged and severely military men saluted each ambulance.

As the news of the Franco-American successes spread through the city it was the American ambulances. Bandaged and severely military men saluted each ambulance. Old men raised their hats while women waved handkerchiefs and children tossed their own messages into the American ambulances. Bandaged and severely military men saluted each ambulance.

Red Cross is Active
The American Red Cross is meeting the emergency in a wonderful manner. Doctors and nurses are working day and night. Twenty thousand pounds of surgical dressings and five tons of general food have been rushed to the front.

Two new hospitals of nearly a thousand beds have been opened in the environs. Another will be ready Monday.

United Press War Summary
(149th day of the war; 125th day of the big offensive.)

Alme-Marne Front
The Franco-Americans continue to drive forward on practically the whole front between Soissons and Chateau-Thierry. While their progress is somewhat slower than in the first two days of the offensive, they have taken Neuilly-St. Front and have made other gains. Announcement by the French war office of the capture of Neuilly-St. Front, which Americans first took yesterday, indicates the line are continuing to fluctuate, owing to counterattacks by constantly increasing enemy forces.

Marne Front
Franco-American forces are attacking on the fifteen mile front from Fosseux eastward to Oeuilly in an effort to break through the entire south bank. Good progress is reported.

France
Long lines of ambulances are coming into Paris from the front, bearing the American wounded. Two American hospitals have been established and another is being fitted out.

FRANCO-AMERICAN LINES ARE GRIMLY MAINTAINED

FORCES OF THE ALLIES FACE GERMAN RESERVES IN TENS OF THOUSANDS

INITIAL SPEED OF FRANCO-AMERICAN OFFENSIVE SLOWS DOWN BUT ALL GROUND TAKEN IS HELD — FRONT FROM SOISSONS SOUTH TO CHATEAU THIERRY IS SEETHING HELL OF STRUGGLING TROOPS — MORE TOWNS OFFICIALLY ADDED TO CAPTURED LIST

The Allies, while continuing their advance between the Aisne and the Marne, are now attacking along the whole Marne river front, in order to remove the most serious present obstacle to reduction of the whole Soissons-Rheims salient.

The Franco-American offensive south of Soissons naturally has been unable to maintain its initial speed, owing to the tens of thousands of German reserves flung against them.

The situation regarding Soissons itself appeared to be in doubt today. The Paris communique, issued at 1:15 p. m., did not claim its capture, but both French and British officials gave out statements in Washington late yesterday, stating that it had fallen. Battle front dispatches received early yesterday described the destruction of ammunition and supplies in the city preparatory to its execution.

Three Perish in Sinking of Cruiser Sandiego
The entire crew from Soissons south to Chateau-Thierry apparently is in an almost constant state of flux. The French war office today again announced the capture of Neuilly-St. Front, which the Americans first took in their rush there. The war office also announced that the allies had "reached" Vieux-Annouillet. Announcement of the capture of this town was made yesterday, both by staff correspondents and by the allied high command. The assault south of the Marne is designed to throw the last of the Germans on the south bank south of the river.

Work of U-Boat or a Floating Mine Probable Cause of Disaster Off Fire Island — No Signs of Submarines Reported

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Three men are known to have been killed by the explosion when the Sandiego was sunk, the navy department announced this afternoon.

The men are: Thomas E. Davis, engineer, Canton, Ohio; Frazier O. Thomas, machinist's mate, Charleston, W. Va., and James F. Rochet, engineer, Blue Lake, Cal.

American naval vessels last night found and destroyed five or six mines in the same vicinity in which the Sandiego was sunk, the navy department announced today.

The mines located last night were exploded, and it was stated officially this morning they were of German make. Whether they were laid when the first submarines reached the coast or distributed by now U-boat visitors is not known.

A statement by the navy department says: "The captain of the Sandiego reports that he is inclined to the belief that the ship was sunk by a torpedo. There are no conclusive factors, however, on which to base definite opinion at present in view of the following circumstances: No Signs Visible. First, no torpedo wake was seen. Top-Shelf Reserves
It is not enough to have "reserves on reserves" of substantial canned for winter; housekeepers should add top-shelf "reserves" for special occasions and emergency demands.
Fruit Leather
Now is the time to revive such old-fashioned delights as "fruit leathers" and fruit peels. "Leather" may be made from berries, cherries, figs, apricots, peaches, and blue plums. Overripe peaches and apricots are best for leather and all fruits should be thoroughly ripe. Mash to a pulp, spread on lightly oiled platters and dry in the sun or the dryer. When dry, sprinkle with sugar and pack away in jars or very tight boxes lined with waxed paper.
Peaches or half and half peaches and figs make delicious leather and need only a sprinkling of sugar.
Serve this leather in winter instead of candy or with cranberry and nuts for dessert. Fruit leather may be soaked in water and used for pies, short-cake, puddings and sauces. When used for this purpose omit the sugar.
Maximum Ginning With Minimum Sugar
Fruit Juice—Sterilize and bottle fruit juice for jellies, beverages and sauces.
Fruit Pulp—Reduce fruit to a thick pulp and bottle or can for winter pies, sauces, marmalade.
Fruit Syrup—The last butter is made without sugar. Honey or corn syrup may sweeten it.
Dried Fruits—Drying is the simplest method of preserving fruit. Wash, dry and sugar.
Wheatless Demonstration
The demonstration at Hollister Thursday, the speech was well attended, and great interest was shown by all present. Wheatless yeast bread, oatmeal crisp, barley dour biscuit, oatmeal muffin, and corn flour cake were made by Miss Deming.
The women here showed the desirability of establishing a hot lunch as a conservation measure to increase the use of perishable foods and decrease the use of war breads. This is practical not only from the standpoint of conservation of food, but also of health.

A Good Wheatless Yeast Bread
If you like brown bread you will find this bread especially delicious.
One cake of yeast soaked in 1 1/2 cup of water; 2 cups of rolled oats soaked with 1 cup boiling water; 1 1/2 cup oatmeal; 3/4 cup corn flour, or rice flour, or cornstarch; salt.
When the rolled oats have cooled add the yeast, molasses, and barley flour to make a sponge, let rise. When light add 3/4 cup corn flour, or 1 cup of rice flour or corn flour and barley to thicken. Put immediately into greased baking powder, or coffee cans. Bake in moderate oven an hour. When cans are used the top hard crust can be cut off.
This bread was started in the morning.

Dubess Soup
One-half onion; 1 egg or 2 egg yolks; 2 tablespoons fat; 3-4 cup grated cheese; 2 tablespoons onion; 1 teaspoon salt; 1 quart milk; Paprika.
Directions—Cook the onion to the fat until tender but not brown. Remove the onion, add the flour, then the milk gradually, stirring out lumps. Add the tapica and seasonings and cook 15 minutes. Pour the soup over the egg, beaten with 1-4 cup of cold milk. Add the grated cheese and serve immediately.
Tapica may be used for thickening soups, gravy and white sauce. Cook the white sauce in a double boiler allowing one tablespoon of tapica to one cup of milk.
Fruit Molds
Three level tablespoons tapica; 1

"DEBULPHATING"—A QUER WORTH THAN THE DIBRABE
Mixed in with the helpful information in the popular scientific papers is a good deal of battery advice that should not be followed. Read it if you will—but don't take it too seriously until you have an expert opinion.
This sound advice is given to car owners by Geo. M. Dow, local Willard expert.
Writers of these rather misleading articles on battery care usually go to explain how some very simple chemical can be added to the battery to produce results that seem little short of wonderful. Usually the instructions are made vague enough and enough "ifs" and "howevers" and qualifying phrases put in to make you think that it is your own fault if through a trial of the cure you succeed in ruining your battery. Most of the writers of these popular battery articles play safe by being rather indefinite.
As a matter of fact, there is no material that can be put into a battery to cure the ills that have been caused by neglect or abuse. The best course to follow is to have your battery inspected every week or two by an expert, which would enable you to steer safely clear of any serious trouble. If for any reason this is not done the one thing to remember is that the only remedy for battery trouble is pure water, charging, and, finally, expert attention at the hands of a man who knows his business. Chemicals and extra acid never do anything but ruin batteries.

The object of the ladies who called upon the merchants the past week, soliciting an article from their stock for the Red Cross shop, was twofold, says Mrs. Kennedy Packard. Primarily it was to advertise the existence of this new enterprise, which in its obscure location, attracts no attention from the passing public.

GUNNER DEPEW

Albert N. Depew

EX-GUNNER, AND CHIEF PETTY OFFICER—U. S. NAVY
MEMBER OF THE FOREIGN LEGION OF FRANCE
CAPTAIN GUN TURRET, FRENCH BATTLESHIP CASSARD
WINNER OF THE CROIX DE GUERRE

SYNOPSIS.

CHAPTER I—Albert N. Depew, author of the story, and his wife, Mrs. Depew, were in the United States Army, serving four years and attaining the rank of chief petty officer, first-class gunner.

CHAPTER II—The great war started after he had been honorably discharged from the navy and he sailed for France with a determination to enlist.

CHAPTER III—The French Foreign Legion was recruited in the dreadnaught Cassard, where his marksmanship won him a Croix de Guerre.

CHAPTER IV—Depew is detached from his ship and sent with a regiment of the Foreign Legion where he finds himself in the front line trenches.

CHAPTER V—He is detailed to the machine gun squad and makes the acquaintance of the wonderful French gunner, Dimuzet, before seeing any of the battlefields. Before seeing any of the battlefields he is ordered back to his regiment in the front line trenches.

We were at our work when this Swiss "went west," as the limes say, and we tried to keep up his jokes and say the same things and so forth. But they did not go very well after he was dead. He got hit in the same charge in which the chaplain was wounded. He was one of the bunch that charged before the order was given, when the chaplain got it, and was running pretty near me until we got to the Boche wire. I had to stop to get through, though most of it was cut up by artiller-

try here, but he must have jumped it, for when I looked up he was twenty or thirty paces ahead of me. We got to the German about that time and I was pretty busy for a while. But soon I saw him again. He was pulling his bayonet out of a Boche when another made a job at him and stuck him in the arm. Then the Boche made a swing at him with his rifle, but the Swiss dropped on one knee and dodged it. He kept defending himself with his rifle, but there was another German on him by this time and he could not get up. The corporal of our squad came up just about that time, but he was too late, because one of the Boches got to the Swiss with his bayonet. He did not have time to withdraw it before our corporal stuck him. The other German made a pass at the corporal, but he was too late. The corporal beat him to it and felled him with a terrific blow from his rifle butt. The Hun was pretty thick around there just as another fellow and myself came up. A Boche swung his rifle at the corporal and when he dodged it the Boche almost got me. The spring took him off his feet and then the corporal did as pretty a bit of work as I ever saw. He jumped for the Boche, who had both feet, landed on his face with both feet and gave it to the next one with his bayonet all at the same time. He was the quickest man I ever saw.

There was a couple of well-known savate men in the next company and I saw one of them get under Fritz's guard with his foot and, believe me, there was some force in that kick. He must have broken the German's chin clear through the back of his neck.

We thought it was pretty tough luck to lose both the chaplain and the village in the same charge, along with half of our officers, and then have to give up the trench. Every man in the bunch was sore as a boil when we got back.

CHAPTER VII.
Stopping the Huns at Dixmude. I was standing in a communication trench that connected one of our front-line trenches with a crater caused by the explosion of a mine. All around me men of the third line were coming up, climbing, digging, hammering, shifting piles, moving sandbags up and down, bringing up new timbers, reels of barbed wire, ladders, cases of ammunition, machine guns, trench mortars—all the things that make an army look like a general store on legs. The noise of the guns was just deafening. Our own shells passed not far above our heads, so close were the enemy trenches, and the explosions were so near and so violent that when you rested your rifle but on something solid, like a rock, you could feel it shake and hum every time a shell landed.

Our first line was just on the outskirts of the town, in trenches that had been won and lost by both sides many times. Our second line was in the streets and the third line was along at the south end of the town. The Huns were hard at it, shelling the battered remains of Dixmude, and to the right stretcher bearers were working in lines so close that they looked like two parades passing each other. But the bearers from the company near me had not returned from the emergency dressing station and the wounded were piling up, waiting for them.

A company of the Two Legion Stragglers had just come up to take their stations in the crater, under the parapet of sandbags. A shell landed among them just before they entered the crater and sent almost a whole squad west, besides wounding several others.

Almost before they occupied the crater the wires were laid and reached back to us, and the order came for us to remain where we were until further orders.

Then we got the complete orders. We were to make no noise but were all to be ready, in ten minutes. We put on goggles and respirators. In ten minutes the bombers were to leave the trenches and the order was to explode and then we were to take and hold a certain portion of the enemy trenches not far off. We were all ready to start up the ladders when the order to dig section over to cover and we sneaked up to me and whispered behind his hand, "Do a sport, Doc; make it fifty-dirty and gimme a chance."

I did not have any idea what he meant by "Do a sport," but I got to get back to get to the squad. Then the bombers came up to the ladders, masked and with loaded sacks on their left arms. "One minute now," said the officer, getting on his feet and shouting to the men, "The order is to dig section over to cover and we sneaked up to me and whispered behind his hand, "Do a sport, Doc; make it fifty-dirty and gimme a chance."

Up toward the front the bombers were fishing in their bags and throwing, just like boys after a rat along the docks. The black smoke from the "Jack Johnsons" rolled over us and probably there was gas, too, but we could not tell.

The front lines had taken their trenches and guns on and you could see them when you stood on a parapet running about like hounds through the enemy communication trenches, bombing out dugouts, disarming prisoners—very scary-looking in their masks and goggles. The wounded were coming back slowly. Then we got busy with our work in the dugouts and communication trenches and fire boys, with bayonets and bombs, digging the Boches out and sending them "west." And every once in a while a Fritz on one side would step out and yell "Hemmed" while the next one on the other side, his hat would pop out with a revolver when you started to pick him up, thinking he was wounded.

When we stood side at the entrance to the night while we were lying back in the trench trying not to think of anything and to go to sleep the bombs began to get pretty thick around there, and when I could not stand it any longer I reached out into the bay of the fire trench and right up against the parapet, where it was safe.

Hundreds of star shells were being sent up by both sides and the field and the trenches were as bright as day. All an end-form the trenches out men were dodging about, keeping out of the way of the bombs that were being thrown in our faces. It did not seem as if there was any place where it was possible to get cover. Most of the time I was picking dirt out of my eyes that explosions had driven into them.

If you went into a dugout the men already in there would shout, "Don't stick in a bunch—spread out!" While you were in a dugout you kept expecting to be buried alive and when you went outside you thought the Boches were aiming at you direct—and there was no place at all where you felt safe.

But the fire bay looked better than the other places to me. I had not been there more than a few minutes when a big one dropped in and that bay was just one mass. Out of the 24 men in the bay only eight escaped.

When the stretcher-bearers got there they did not have much to do in the way of rescue—it was more pallbearers' work.

A stretcher bearer was picking up one of the boys when a grenade landed alongside of him and you could not find a fragment of either of them. That made two that landed within twelve feet of me; yet I was not even scratched.

When I got so that I could move I went over to where the captain was standing, looking through a periscope over the parapet. I was very nervous and excited and was afraid to speak to him but somehow I thought I ought to ask for orders. But I could not say a word. Finally a shell whizzed over our heads—just missed us, it seemed like, and I broke out, "What did you see? What's all of the secret?" and so on. I guess I chattered like a monkey.

Then he yelled: "You're the gunner officer. You're just in time—two looted their mortar batteries."

I amly wished I was the gunner officer. I would have enjoyed it more if I could have got back at Fritz somehow. But I was not the gunner officer and I told him so. I had to shoot at him quite a while before he would believe me. Then he wanted me to find the gunner officer, but I did not know where to find him. If I could have got to our guns I guess I would have had another medal for working overtime, but I missed the chance.

About this time another bomb came over and dented out the best friend I had in my company. Before the war he had been one of the finest drivers in the Paris opera houses. When he was with us he used to say that the only difference between him and Carnuso was $2,000 a night.

A polio and I dragged him into a dugout, but it was too late. One side of his face was blown off. The whole right side of him was stripped off and four fingers of the right hand were gone.

WHOLE MARNE RIVER

THE MARNE, July 20.—Bitter fighting is under way on the entire front of the Marne region, though the Boches back toward the river.

Americans and French have advanced in the Marne region, throwing the Boches back toward the river. To the northwest the fiercest fighting is centering on the line south of Boissons. A mile and three-quarters has been made south of the Marne.

One American unit, fighting southwest of Boissons, captured 91 officers and 2,798 men. Another captured 21 officers and 3,220 men. French Americans captured a colonel, two majors and sixty men, trapping them in a dugout.

By JOHN DE GANDY United Press Staff Correspondent Make Steady Progress

PARI8, July 20.—French and American troops are nearing the highway from Chateau-Thierry to the north. The French are pushing the Boches back toward the river. To the northwest the fiercest fighting is centering on the line south of Boissons.

Between the Aisne and the Marne the capture of Noyally St. Front seriously threatens the enemy hold on Ouchy-Le Chateau (eight miles eastward).

French Hang On

Despite furious fighting, the French are clinging to the suburbs of Boissons. Less than two kilometers (a mile and a half) from the city proper.

Originally a simple, tactical maneuver, the allied counter offensive has become quickly one of the decisive, strategic operations of the war. It already has resulted in completely stopping the German offensive and demolishing the enemy's plan for a general attack on the front toward the Boches. It has been striving since March.

THREE PERCENT

Second, no surviving evidence that a periscope was seen. Third, no submarine appeared, in spite of the fact that three unarmed rescue ships were in the vicinity for about two hours. Fourth, the ship was struck on port side about beam, which discourages mine theory. Fifth, weather was fine, smooth sea.

Navy officials here, however, are still undecided as to the cause of the sinking of the Sandiego. While Captain Christy of the rescue believes torpedo struck his ship and sent it to the bottom, no one saw a submarine, a periscope or a wake, it was said.

Furthermore, three vessels standing by were not attacked. No internal explosion occurred, officials are positive. The Sandiego was going at the rate of fifteen knots an hour and sank in fifteen minutes, Admiral Palmer said. The sea was smooth and weather fine. The rescue of the crew were transferred to the U. S. S. Man.

All reports say the Sandiego men handled themselves splendidly, taking their stations as though only going through daily drill.

Colored Men Called

A call for the enrollment of 58 Negro colored men of the first registration for Camp Lewis during the five day period beginning August 1, received Thursday by the assistant general, and allotted to 12 counties, will take three from Twin Falls county. Six colored registrants have been placed in class one in this county.

CALL FOR 10,000

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Protest Marshal General Crowder has issued a call for 10,000 registrants for limited service to contrast July 25 to August 2.

PENETRATION BY YANKEES

Logan, Texas, was revealed as the British training center and it was made known that a unit from that organization took part with the Australians in their fight last week.

The 77th division was revealed as the line near Lunville operating as an American unit under its own commander.

Capture of prisoners, March admitted, shows clearly press accounts. The last official reports concerning Boissons declared it to be under heavy bombardment, with the allies very close to the city. (This was a Friday dispatch).

Reviews Situation

March's general review of the situation was in substance as follows: Last Monday the Germans began an attack which covered a sixty mile front about one-half of it was in the very hot country between Chateau-Thierry and Rheims and the rest of it in the Champagne, extending from Rheims to the Argonne.

In the Champagne the positions were held by the French and by an American division—the 42nd—plus a regiment of colored troops from the 88th.

The penetration there was slight. The Champagne district was under charge of the French General Gouraud, one of the most striking personalities of France. He wears five blue stripes, has lost one arm, is a man of determined character, whom the French call "Tres Solides"—every inch a soldier.

Planned Two Offensives

The committee was told that the Germans appeared to have planned two offensives—one against the Americans and reach, to be closely followed by one against the British.

The ability of the British to start a strong counter offensive of their own now depends on how far the Germans have been forced to withdraw men and materials from that sector to reinforce the lines where the French and Americans are attacking.

War department officials admitted it is possible that the Germans claim of 20,000 prisoners is true, but it was stated that if the Germans had taken this number they had done it in the very early stages of the fighting, before the French-American counter attack. The committee was told that the country must prepare for heavy casualty lists which would probably be coming in for the next thirty days. No word concerning casualties has yet been received from General Pershing.

ITALIANS FIGHT BEFORE RHEIMS

WASHINGTON, July 20.—Italian mountain troops have contributed heavily in the defense of Rheims, according to an official dispatch from Rome.

The Italians held the important Bligny sector to the left of Rheims. Their forces were driven from Bligny mountain to the left of Rheims in the first onrush of the Teutons, but they immediately counter-attacked and retook the commanding positions.

BATTLE RAGES FOR POSSESSION

Prisoners report withdrawal of German artillery and infantry concentrations north and northeast of Chateau-Thierry to meet the Franco-American threat southwest of the city.

Bring Down German Plans American planes brought down 300 more German planes this morning while patrolling east of Chateau-Thierry. Our aviators report there were four enemy machines along the battle lines, they evidently having been withdrawn to other sectors. An American unit notified the commander of an encircling that three German observation balloons near Chateau-Thierry were "seeing too much." Twenty minutes later all three were blazing wrecks on the ground.

Incomplete figures today show that American units have captured more than 5,000 Germans, including numerous officers. Among the latter were several majors and a lieutenant colonel. The capture will be greatly augmented when the count is completed. Additional prisoners are constantly being picked up.

Bear Areas Busy

The areas in the rear of the allied line are almost as busy as the front. Hundreds of streams of supplies, artillery and men are rolling forward, while similar lines of motor trucks are moving to the rear, carrying wounded. Shells burst all about. Trees are stripped, their roots resemble toothpicks, while substantial buildings are reduced to shapeless heaps of rubble. The men are excited. At the prospect of getting into the fight, as they arrive at the front, and are constantly cheering and singing.

The Americans who swept forward with the French from three to five kilometers of the first day near Chateau-Thierry are impatient because they are holding the pivotal sector and must wait until those comrades further north swing in, encircling the Germans.

All Boats Bowed

Allied airmen report heavy concentration on the roads extending northward from Chateau-Thierry, while prisoners say the Germans are hastily removing guns and material in an effort to save them. Every prisoner expressed amazement at the rapidity and unexpectedness of the allied attack. The doughboys report that most of the prisoners were taken when the first wave caught the Boches asleep in their dugouts. Many machine guns were taken before the Germans had time to remove the protective cases from them.

Photographs Advance

An advance of one American unit is preserved for posterity through the bravery of a movie man—an officer. He advanced ahead of our line before the infantry charged, and coolly set up his camera, and clicked off a few hundred feet of film as the men stormed the German positions. One scene shows our men attacking a machine gun, in a church tower with the Boches panic-stricken, trying to get their gun into action. The operator's audacity was amazing.

"It wasn't anything," he said modestly. "The folks back home ought to be able to see Yankees whipping the Germans."

Happy Anywhere Now

A chap known as the home-lick doughboy no longer is homesick. He says he is happy anywhere. He went over with the first wave and helped chase the Germans over three hillsops. He got five himself. His party was obliged to come back when couriers were sent out to recall his company, which was advancing too rapidly.

One unit attacked in the entire day's objectives by 10 o'clock in the morning. It started at 5. One company stormed Torcy and took the town in ten minutes, holding it against a heavy counter-attack.

The doughboys say the Germans won't fight with the bayonet, preferring to surrender if it is impossible to fight in mass formation behind guns and howitzers.

BRITISH TROOPS MOVE FORWARD

LONDON, July 20.—British forces in capturing Metzeraen advanced in front of more than two miles, Field Marshal Haig reported today.

"As the result of yesterday's operations, the line in the Metzeraen sector was advanced on the front of 4,000 yards," the statement said.

"The village of Metzeraen and a group of buildings to the southwest, known as Lewaton, are now held by us. Our prisoners number 436."

AMERICANS BEGIN DAY'S WORK EARLY

ATTACK ON WIDE FRONT JUST BEFORE MIDNIGHT EAST OF COEURVRES

By FRED B. FERGUSON (United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE AMERICANS BETWEEN THE AISNE AND THE MARNE, July 20 (11 p. m.)—American troops attacked on a front of several kilometers southwest of Boissons late last evening.

Fighting was still in progress at the hour of calling with the Americans advancing. The assault was made east of Coeurvres, near Misny-Aux-Bois, and extended over a wide front to the southward. Misny-Aux-Bois is more than four miles southwest of Boissons and the Marne line between the Aisne and the Moselle is only a few kilometers, especially in the region of Boissons.

German counter attacks in the region of Boissons continued and were repulsed. The French and Americans pushed further advances northeast of Chateau and east of Couchamps.

(This indicates new Franco-American advances on various portions of the front of about 10 miles. Chateau is five miles southwest of Boissons and two miles south of Misny-Aux-Bois.)

Veray is two miles south of Chateau. (Chateau is twelve miles south of Veray).

LONG CHANGE FOR GERMANY

Jemhoff has no time to give but until his forty reserve divisions, 400,000 men) are used up and beaten we must not loosen our suspense."

"The taste of victory is so good it will tempt the victor to think the turning point of the war has arrived," said The Graphic. The latest French communique reported the capture of 17,000 prisoners and 300 cannon in the Aisne-Marne drive. Opposed to this was the German claim of more than 20,000 prisoners. It is known positively however, that the enemy's claims have been extravagant throughout the present operations.

Scotch and Australian troops in a minor operation astride Metzeraen, in Flanders, captured that city yesterday morning taking nearly 400 prisoners and a great number of machine guns.

"After Binny's double-header with Philadelphia we will close the ball park, permitting our players to comply with Secretary Baker's ruling," said a cablegram received here today from J. C. Dunn, Chicago, owner of the Indians.
