United States Troops Make a Splendid Gain... Clergys and All of Meunieres Wood Taken in Sudden Attack

VIOLENT COUNTER BY HUNS IS BROKEN UP

German Positions up to and Including Fimes Wood Now Menaced -- Railroad Lines Now Under Allied Fire

By FRANK J. TAYLOR (United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN THE FIELD, August 2.—Twenty-five doughboys rescued the civilians of Serigny who hailed the American saviors when the latter divided their meager pack of rations, the first food the French villagers had in days.

In the rear yesterday while on my way to the front lines, I saw a pretty picture of Chateau Thierry. Refugees were still returning to their ruined homes and men, women, children and babies were eating doughboys' food from rolling tins.

In contrast to this picture were hundreds of graves all about with earth roughly heaped above and a helmet stuck. The fallen men's names are stenciled on the crosses above the American graves. The Germans are marked only by Boche helmets.

Many Points Taken Hill 205, four miles northeast of Oulchy-La-Chateau, was captured at 6 o'clock. Gondroux (a mile west of Hill 205), Serigny (two miles east of Gondroux), and Ormeuville (a mile south of Serigny), fell soon after, giving up many prisoners.

The Germans violently counter-attacked from Busancy (eight miles north of Oulchy-La-Chateau) and L'Esquevois Wood (just south of Busancy), but French infantry broke up their efforts.

By evening Ormeuville (a mile and a half south of Ormeuville) and the hills to the northward had been occupied.

As the result of the allied success, German positions up to and including Fimes (twelve miles northeast of Meunieres) are menaced. Railroad lines from that city are subject to direct fire from our artillery.

German planes have made the face of a stiffening opposition. Yesterday morning our left wing attacked northeast of Serigny (a mile and a half east and north of Fere-En-Tardenois), following a smoke cloud which partially concealed their advance.

Francio-British Batteries Installed and at Work Three Hours Ahead of Capture of Ground from Boche

ENEMY COMPELLED TO RELY ON MACHINE GUN

Bravery of Defenses Unquestioned but Stubborn Resistance of No-Avail Against Impetuous Allied Assaults

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE FRENCH ARMS IN THE FIELD, August 2.—General Mangin's army was still advancing early today, utilizing every advantage gained in yesterday's impetuous assault along a ten mile front.

Beating down stubborn German resistance, the allied troops had the satisfaction of seeing the enemy wildly fleeing at some points.

The completeness of the allied success is evidenced by the fact that Franco-British batteries were installed shortly before 8 a. m. on ground from which we had only begun to drive the Germans at 4 a. m.

Rely on Machine Guns The Germans were able to use their own artillery only on the smallest scale, being compelled to rely upon machine guns. These were taken one by one, notwithstanding the Boches dogged resistance.

The enemy's casualties during the day were extremely heavy. The bravery of their defenses could not be questioned, up to the point where it seemed hopeless.

Tired and wrenched of the fatigue of Rhinets and captured hundreds of shells exploding in the ruined towns between the mountain and the city of Rheims. Every now and then one would drop in Rhinets. Twice clouds of dust rose up in front of the cathedral, obscuring the struggle for several minutes. When the clouds cleared away it

ENEMY RESISTANCE GROWS FEEBLE AS VILLAGES CONTINUE TO FALL TO FIERCE ONSLAUGHTS OF ALLIES

Plateau North of Fere-En Tardenois Falls into Hands of Franco-Americans

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, August 2. The German withdrawal has been resumed. Bloody sacrifices at Serigny, Sergy and Clergys were made in the face of steady Franco-American pressure. The advance of the Americans since the capture of Clergys has reached a depth of four kilometers...two and a half miles--in some places.

Steady pressure is pushing the Boches back and has given the French and Americans control of the plateau beyond Fere-en-Tardenois, which commands the country to the northwest. The next German defensive line is likely to be the Vesle river.

The Americans are persistently following up the retreating enemy. A heavy rain fell throughout the night and was continuing today, turning military roads into quagmires and stopping all aerial activity.

BRITISH PRESS WIDE APART ON PARIS PROPOSAL

Announcement of Economic Policy of Allies by Lloyd-George Brings Forth Variety of Views

(By United Press)

LONDON, August 2.—London morning newspapers are divided on Premier Lloyd-George's announced economic policy, some criticizing it, others favoring it. All place special stress on America's attitude, in as much as the United States has not yet spoken regarding the Paris resolutions.

Lloyd-George has gone far toward giving what we have been asking for two years," said the Mail.

"He (Lloyd-George) has swept aside the fears of business men that the control to which they are now subjected is to be perpetuated," the Express said.

"There are good reasons why it is not possible yet for the government to announce a hard and fast policy," said the Graphic.

"Chief among these is that the United States was not a party to the Paris conference. It is essential that the United States should be in perfect agreement. Lloyd George observed that America has not expressed its views. If they have not been expressed officially, they have been expressed unequivocally in President Wilson's speeches. He has said both as a neutral and belligerent that the war should be fought to a finish but that it should be finished when it is fought."

Interpose Question "We doubt if President Wilson views the question from the same angle as does Premier Lloyd George," said the Chronicle.

"Americans attach importance to the economic weapon but they do not want to see it wielded for a vindictive purpose."

"We are unable to gather anything definite from the sibilant utterances of Lloyd George and Premier Lloyd George said. "We are beginning to entertain a prejudice against the sincerity of these gentlemen. We will only believe their intention when it is carried into effect."

"As much as America has not spoken regarding the Paris conference, it will be necessary to find a policy acceptable to America," said the Telegraph.

WOMEN FAINT IN SUBWAY CRUSH

Railway Station Scene of Near Panic Under New Traffic System

(By United Press)

NEW YORK, August 2.—New York's new subway system was opened to its first rush hour crowd today amid the worst confusion ever known in this city's rapid transit lines.

At the Grand Central railway station, where three subway lines meet and spill transferring passengers across narrow platforms and into tunnels there was a terrific crush. Many women and a few men fainted. Ambulances were stationed at the entrances and police reserves descended to rescue those caught in the jam.

No one knew the workings of the system inaugurated today and guards were unable to explain it. Men and women climbed in car windows at transfer points in order to get aboard trains.

Many passengers were forced to pay more than one fare when in struggling about stations transferring; they were forced into the street and had to retrace their steps.

GERMAN POWER FAST DWINDLING

Credits and Debits on Kaiser's Ledger Make Ghastly Showing

(By United Press)

NEW YORK, August 2.—Credits and debits piled for and against Germany since the start of the war has been published here in the New York Staats Zeitung, a newspaper printed in the foreign language.

Credits as compiled by this newspaper, show nothing but liabilities. On the credit side of Germany's ledger are arranged the depopulation of France, Belgium, Serbia, Montenegro and Rumania, the subjugation of Russia, the aid given Bulgaria and Turkey, which has resulted in Armenian massacres, the destruction of millions of tons of shipping and the successful fight carried on by militarists in the rotating against election reforms.

On the debit side stand the sacrifice of the flower of Germany's youth in war, the demoralization of Germany's commerce, the loss of her colonies, the disrepute into which Germany has fallen in America and the growing conviction in Germany that the power of autocratic leaders is dwindling.

BATTLE WITHIN MARNE POCKET, BEGUN YESTERDAY, IS STILL RAGING, WITH FRENCH AND BRITISH TROOPS IN HOT PURSUIT OF FLEEING HUNS —AMERICAN FORCES TAKE THICKETS AND WOODS NORTH OF GOUSSANCOURT-COULONGES ROAD

Many Points of Extreme Importance Are Taken from Hun at Point of the Bayonet

By LOWELL MELLETT (United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE FRENCH ARMS IN THE FIELD, August 2.—The battle within the Marne pocket which began growing in violence again yesterday morning is still raging as this is cabled.

Loss of the important heights of Grand Roisy has forced the enemy back with the French and British in hot pursuit. After fierce combats the allies occupied Hartennes-Et-Taux, village and wood (seven miles south of Soissons) and Contremin (a mile south of Hartennes-Et-Taux).

South of the Ourcq the enemy resistance is becoming more feeble. French and American troops have conquered the thickets and woods north of the Goussancourt-Coulonges road.

Allied Offensive on Marne Creates Consternation Among German Writers

(By United Press)

GENEVA, August 2.—The Marne offensive of General Foch has created a decided impression in Germany, according to travelers arriving at Koenigsberg.

These persons state that Bavaria and Saxony are deeply concerned because it was the troops from that section of the empire who lost most heavily.

General Von Loringhoven, writing in the Mannheim Gazette, deprecates the help of Americans. While admitting Americans are a factor, he writes: "They are untrained and inexperienced. Their numbers are exaggerated by half, but they were sufficient to allow General Foch to take the initiative."

INVESTIGATE CHARGES OF DISLOYALTY

Council of Defense Claimed to Have Charged Pro-Germanism Against Leaders Without Justification

NON-PARTISANS DEMAND ACCUSATIONS BE PROVEN

Stormy Hearing Held in Court Room Thursday Afternoon by Committee Appointed by Governor--Accused to Be Heard that he did not believe the Non-Partisan league a needed institution in Idaho at the present time even if it were exactly what it claims to be; that he believed the league was started originally by persons in sympathy with Germany, but that he had never singled out any one member of the league as one whom he believed to be pro-German. He denied that he had stated to the son-in-law of Jacob Musser of Filer, or to anyone else that he believed Musser was pro-German. Aman was the first witness called by Judge Bothwell, as chairman of the investigating committee. Aman offered no testimony, but after consultation, with Hays, submitted in evidence several circulars and pamphlets issued in opposition to the League. Hannon was called, and, under oath, declared that G. D. Thomas had stated to him that the candidates of the Non-Partisan league for state officers were all good except Zuck, who was pro-German.

Hays Gives His Views

After he had stated his accusations against Ostrander, Dovey and Eszkine, Hays, in response to interrogations of Judge Bothwell and Sunderland, declared that he believed in governmental confiscation of wealth; as well as of men through the draft regulations; that he believed the farmers are discriminated against and that the carrying into effect of the Non-Partisan platform will alleviate their condition, without engendering strife or political measure or when enacted into legislation. He declared that he was in sympathy with the war and that he wanted to see it prosecuted until the enemy was beaten; that he had bought Liberty Loan bonds of the second and third issues and had contributed $100 to the Red Cross. He stated that he did not believe altogether in the principles of the Socialist party and that he had no use for the I. W. W.

Hays said that if the alleged statement of D. A. Gumming, Non-Partisan candidate for attorney general, at American Falls to the effect that "Diosovet is nothing but an educated barbarian," were true, he did not believe that it would result in discredit among the members of the Non-Partisan league for effect their loyalty.

Organizer Gives Record

F. J. Mallet of Hoy, Utah, organizer for the Non-Partisan league in Idaho since January last, was the last witness called by the investigating committee. Under examination Mallet stated that he was four years ago in Utah, a candidate for presidential election on the Socialist ticket, but that he has no sympathy for that element of the Socialist party, that seems to be opposing the war. He stated that he is a farmer, owning a six acre truck farm in the vicinity of Hoy, but that since the first of this year he has been engaged continuously in the performance of work for the political relief of farmers. He stated that he is in sympathy with the war and that he bought Liberty Loan bonds of the second and third issues.

Claims 1,700 Members

He declared that the Non-Partisan league in Twin Falls county has a membership of 1,700, made up of farmers who alone are eligible to membership. In reply to question of Sunderland why is a political organization others than farmers were not admitted to membership in the Non-Partisan league, Mallet stated that lawyers, bankers and men of other interests had their organizations and that they were not free from the charge of exerting political influence.

Initial Step for Cutting Expenses Goes Into Effect

Telephone Lines Will No Longer Carry Daily Weather Report

Elimination of the policy of transmitting department of agriculture weather bureau daily forecasts through the several telephone exchanges is a most noticeable effect of the governmental administration of telephones and telegraph lines which went into effect at midnight Wednesday.

"The policy was eliminated undoubtedly as a measure of economy," O. F. Green, manager of the local exchange, said Thursday. "In our own exchange toll lines have been used on an average of about 20 minutes daily in transmitting to subsidiary exchanges the weather forecasts."

"We are promised, however, that in front growing districts, where there are size storms or other unusual weather conditions in prospect, the forecast will be transmitted in the same manner as before the elimination order went into effect," he stated.

Charges that O. D. Thomas a member of the county council of defense and since 1904 a prominent resident of Twin Falls, engaged in the real estate business, had stated that he knew former-Senator O. G. Zuck of Kimberly, Non-Partisan candidate for lieutenant governor, to be pro-German, and that E. J. Ostrander, another member of the county council of defense, president of the Ostrander Lumber company and a member of the Twin Falls city council; Thomas Dovey, editor of the Twin Falls Chronicle, and Dr. H. R. Eszkine, veterinarian of Twin Falls, had declared the members of the Non-Partisan league generally pro-German were heard at an investigation held in the district court room here Thursday afternoon by a committee appointed by the state council of defense from among its own members and composed of Judge J. R. Bothwell of Twin Falls, Governor A. Sanderlin of Burley, and W. F. Alworth of Twin Falls, president of the state and county farm bureau organizations.

The charge against Thomas was made by W. E. Hannon, farmer residing two miles south of Twin Falls, who testified against Ostrander, Dovey and Eszkine were made by J. W. Hays, farmer residing one-half mile southeast of Twin Falls. Both accusers are members of the Non-Partisan league.

No Corroboration
There was no corroborating testimony introduced in respect to any of the accusations. Hannon declared that the alleged statement made by Thomas was made in the presence of himself and of T. J. Woods of Twin Falls, a former business partner of Thomas'. None of the statements alleged by Hays to have been made by Ostrander, Dovey and Eszkine were made within the hearing of a third person.

The investigating committee, at the conclusion of the hearing Thursday afternoon until 5 o'clock Tuesday afternoon next, when the men accused will be summoned to appear before the committee either to introduce evidence in support of their alleged statements, or to enter such other statements as they may care to make.

Accused to Hays Hearing
O. D. Thomas was in Wyoming Thursday and has been out of town since two days before the passage of the resolution at a meeting here on July 16, on members of the Non-Partisan league and of labor organizations which resulted in the appointment of the investigating committee and the hearing Thursday.

Interment Is Asked
Under the terms of this resolution, which is addressed to the accusers, the signers ask that in case of the failure to prove the charges against the accused, the accusers shall be interned, and in the event the charges are proved true that the same penalty shall be meted out to the accused.

Members of the county council of defense, Elmer Aman of Filer, Non-Partisan candidate for state senator and chairman of the July 16 meeting, together with the 47 signers of the resolution and other persons at interest were cited to appear at the hearing.

Leaguers Are Applauded
The audience was composed largely of the signers of the resolution and of members of the Non-Partisan league, and salutes of their witnesses, namely Aman and Hays, who supervised the presentation of their case and subsequently took occasion to interrogate Alworth and E. L. MacVicar, secretary of the county council of defense, avowed tumultuous speakers.

MacVicar Under Fire
Permission to interrogate MacVicar was asked by Hays, whose questions elicited from the secretary of the defense council the statements that he came here seven years ago from Saskatchewan, Canada and that he is not a naturalized citizen of the United States. Hays sought to place MacVicar in the light of one availing military service, and was rebuffed by MacVicar to his record of war work.

Alworth Demits Interrogation
In response to interrogations of Hays, D. F. Eszkine of Filer, and others, Alworth stated that he had been a farmer west of Twin Falls for nine years; that he had two sons in France and was in sympathy with the war;

GARFORD MOTOR TRUCKS

Pleased With His Garford?

—'It's the Best Thing I Ever Did'

Says Walter F. Mooney, of Plain City, Ohio

Here is what one farmer has done with a Garford. —Bought a 5 1/2 ton Garford in August, 1916. —Founded it over good and bad roads, winter and summer, hauling merchandise. —Made as high as three trips between Plain City and Columbus in one day, —a total distance of 150 miles. Before he owned a Garford, he drove to Columbus with his horse and wagon one day, stayed over night and made the return trip the next day. —Has driven it 21,000 miles. —Has been very economical in its entire cost for oil, gasoline and maintenance. —'It's the best thing I ever did,' says Mr. Mooney. —and on the 23rd of August this year, it will be charged off my books completely and it does just as good work today as the day I bought it.

Here is one more member of the happy family of Garford owners. Garford will help you solve present day problems on your farm. They will save time, horses and make up for men in service. Tell us your wants. There is a Garford to fit your needs. See us today.

IRRIGATION MEANS BETTER FRUIT CROPS

Deputy State Horticultural Inspector Exhibits Good and Bad Apple Specimens

Exhibiting in support of his recommendation that orchards which have not been irrigated before should be watered now, two apples of the same variety, one being two-thirds larger than the other. C. W. Brannon of Rupert, deputy state horticultural inspector, here Thursday declared that the larger apple had been taken as an average specimen from an orchard which had been properly irrigated, and that the smaller one was an average specimen taken from an orchard which had not been irrigated this season. "Approximately 40 per cent of the apple trees of this district have not been properly irrigated this season," Mr. Brannon asserted. "There is no reason why the apples this fall should not pack out from 120 to 125 to the bush instead of 100 to 225 as they have during the past two seasons. Trees not bearing fruit this season should be watered at this time to properly develop fruit spurs for the crop next year," he added.

"OBE UNCONQUERABLE TROOPS"

Germany is reluctant to admit an effective participation of the part of the Americans in the drive that is sweeping them farther from Paris, but because the part taken by the Americans is most disastrous to the ambition of the Hun, they are trying to conceal the facts and maintain the morale of the people at home with false statements, unwittingly hitting upon a characteristic of the Americans that is proving most effective from a military standpoint as a characteristic of weakness.

"If they have any sense left in the entente capitals, they must see that all prospect of America's saving the situation has disappeared. Anyone who knew the Americans in the Boer war..."

"We regret being unable on this occasion to follow the counsel of our masters, the French, but the American flag has been forced to retreat. This is unnecessary, and none of our soldiers would understand their not being asked to do whatever is necessary to re-establish a situation which is humiliating to us and unbecoming to our country's honor."

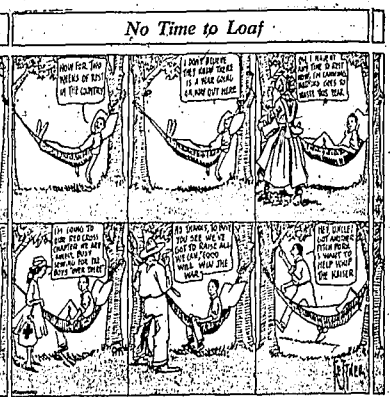

"That was a week ago Monday. They did counter attack, and they are counter-attacking yet. The German pig is stuck and is squealing accordingly."

CAPTURES FATHER AS HUN PRISONER

American Doughboy Identifies Parent in Buncho Brought Into Lines

WITH THE AMERICANS IN FRANCE, August 2.—A doughboy, bringing in a squad of prisoners, was started to find his own father among them. The young American doubted the German's identity until enough confidential information was disclosed to convince him the man was his father, who had returned to Germany several years before and had been forced into the army.

HITCOCK KNOWS THE HUN

"Germany from the inside" is familiar to Senator Gilbert M. Hitchcock. He spent several years in study in the country with which the nation is now at war and knows the German mind. He puts this knowledge to good use in the United States, and understands many of the trick plays that the Kaiser and his cohorts have attempted.

Before the United States entered the war Senator Hitchcock was not considered a strong militarist. Since the declaration of war, however, he has been one of the most constructive members of the senate.

TALES FROM BIG CITIES

Yellow Flag Has Roused Ire of Students

A COMPLETE conspiracy of silence, a destroyed yellow flag, a mystery—and coming events—these elements promise to be one of the sensations of the year at Central high school. The facts are these: At the intercity scholastic spring meet Central high did not participate.

Constitutional regard. Whoever had placed the yellow banner on the halyards which were intended for the Stars and Stripes, had cut the halyards so the flag could not be lowered. An order was issued by Principal Emory Wilson that no retaliation be attempted—but rumors about the school are that McKinley Manual Training school, otherwise known as "Tech," will find her steps painted yellow some morning.

For three weeks it had rained continually, so in a certain camp on the Mexican border they had dug a deep ditch around their camp to drain off the water. One night the rain stopped its downpour, much to the relief of the soldiers, so the next day a soldier asked for leave to visit a nearby town.

Danger in Diseased Tonils. In six persistent diphtheria sufferers reported by two British physicians the trouble was traced to continuous infection of the tonsils.

Flowers on Mountain Tops. It is known that upon many of the summits of the high mountains of the Hawaiian Islands, in the regions of heavy rainfall, are open bogs which support a peculiar and interesting flora.

Fur Full of Electricity. A cat has been in the habit of sleeping on a rubber mat under a dynamo in Cleveland's power house. Somehow the rubber mat and the cat slept on an iron plate. It didn't seem to hurt the cat, but her fur became so charged with electricity that ever since it has stood stiff on end like the bristles of a hairbrush.

His Life's Resort, Maybe. There's one New York man who evidently believes the courts to be omnipotent. He has trustfully asked that an order be issued compelling his wife to keep quiet.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

KING OF ENGLAND LIKE KANSAS MAN

Representative John R. Connelly Gives His Impressions of Royalty

LONDON, August 2.—King George acted like the mayor of a small Kansas town, in the opinion of Representative John R. Connelly, of Colby, Kansas, editor of the Colby Free Press, who today wrote his impressions of British royalty on the occasion of the reception of a congressional committee for the United Press as follows:

"We Americans are not used to meeting royalty, and naturally had some feeling of embarrassment when we met the king, queen, and their daughter. The king, queen and the princess immediately removed this embarrassment. Their greeting was most cordial.

A Kansas Handshake. The king gave us a regular Kansas handshake and then we talked for half an hour. The fact that he spent four years in the navy which he may perhaps have had at once find the subject upon which we were both best informed. He discussed the subject with much interest and understanding.

The king is rather small of stature, not so tall as the queen. He enjoys a good story. He expressed the hope to us that after the war the Americans will not think the British stuck up and that the British will be more tolerant toward the American disposition to assist.

Princess Mary, the only daughter of the king and queen, has four or five brothers in military service.

MRS. HORTENSE WARD

Until the recent passage of a bill granting primary suffrage to women, Texas had a lonely woman voter. Mrs. Hortense Ward, as a member of the Texas bar, could vote at the election of special judges. However she worked tirelessly to enlarge and extend the privilege to all the women of her home state.

Marital Law. Marital law is not a law at all in the usual sense of that term; it is really the non-recognition of law. It is an order in the sun for several hours and is employed in line of extreme need to either state or municipality from without or within, when the general safety cannot be trusted to the ordinary administration of government, or the public welfare demands the adoption and execution of extraordinary measures.

Worth Knowing. Mildew stains can be removed by rubbing a little soap over the fabric and on the top of this a little chalk and lemon juice. Place the garment in the sun for several hours and then wash as usual and the spots will wash.

No Nutrimint in Bouillon. Bouillon has no more nourishing qualities than hot salt water. All the nutriment is still in the meat from which the broth was made. The bouillon is a stimulant, that is all. There is no more horrible waste than to throw away a piece of meat from which broth has been made.

IDAHO MAN HITS OIL IN WYOMING

John Catough and Associates Make Good Strike in the Warm Springs Field

Striking of oil in a well met by one of the first development companies in the Thermopolis, Wyoming, field, in which Twin Falls capitalists are interested, is announced in a telegram received here this morning from John T. Catough, a well known stockman of this district and an official of the North American Petroleum company operating in the Thermopolis Warm Springs field. Following is an excerpt from the telegram:

The North American Petroleum company well number one struck oil at 997 feet in one of the quickest wells drilled in the Warm Springs field. The rig was purchased June 23, was hauled to the field and set up, and the well was brought in July 30.

We will know in a few days exactly what the well will produce.

OFFICER PLEADS GUILTY

Army Quartermaster Captain Admits Implication in Draft

NEW YORK, August 2.—Changing his plea of not guilty to guilty in federal district court here, Captain Aubrey Vaughn, quartermaster's reserve corps, attached to the supply division at Washington, was immediately there after taken to the office of the United States district attorney, where he started a confession which is expected to implicate many others in alleged army contract fraud.

Baited by Frank

Vaughn was indicted jointly with Felix Goulet and David Pedoll, all charged with conspiracy to defraud the United States government in raincoat contracts. Goulet is alleged to have acted as a middleman of various corporations which obtained contracts for the raincoats through him.

Vaughn yesterday pleaded not guilty to the war crime which was charged his plea voluntarily today, it was stated.

Run Positions Menaced

As the result of the allied successes, German positions up to and including Frensch (twelve miles west of East) are menaced. Railroad lines and other communications radiating from that city are subject to direct fire from our artillery. Firms has been a great storehouse for German supplies. The intent to withdraw the army has been able to evacuate this, if at all, is not known.

The American gains were made in the face of stiffening opposition. Yesterday morning, the last fighting at Frensch was over. The French army has been able to evacuate this, if at all, is not known.

The doughboys went forward, filtering through the German positions and gaining all their first objectives without pause. Fighting continued in Neles Forest west of Sennecey-le-Chateau (Sennecey) of Sennecey. Our infantry quickly dispersed the outer line of German machine guns in a hand to hand combat. The advance was discontinued here during the afternoon, owing to the sharp rain that created.

Wing Moves Eastward

The American right wing, advancing simultaneously, moved eastward in a flanking movement around Mesnohere Wood (southeast of Sennecey). French troops concentrated in this assault. By evening the German resistance had been wiped out and the wood was cleared, the allied troops progressing all the way to Goussancourt (three miles east of Sennecey).

Fighting in Meunierle wood was intense, artillery raking the Boches while infantry charged up a steep hill into row of machine guns, driving out the defenders with the bayonet.

Defense Is Attempted

American artillery continues to pound German strongholds along the roads leading northward, exacting heavy casualties. Latest indications are that the Boches are retreating in increasing numbers to oppose further advances, although no additional defenses have been encountered other than widely scattered sections of half dig trenches and increased barbed wire entanglements. The wire is not continuous but is used as barriers for machine gun posts. The Germans now opposite the Americans are mostly young troops and good machine gunners. They show increased resistance in hand to hand combat, but no German yet encountered has proven the equal of the Yankees in the style of "In fighting," that goes with the bayonet. Our own bayonet wielding equipment now, having in addition to their usual outfit, field glasses and jammers taken from captured German officers and their troops.

Needs Glasses—Gets Them

While lying in the American lines in Neles forest yesterday morning, a sergeant remarked that he needed a pair of glasses. He walked into the wood and encountered a German officer and three men. He killed the officer, chased the men and returned with the former's glasses and revolver.

All roads behind the American lines are thickly dotted with vehicles carrying quantities of German ammunition and supplies. Much of it is unaccounted for, owing to all attention being centered on the advance.

Prisoners Young Men

Some of the prisoners brought in yesterday and last night were extremely young. Several are above the average intelligence. All report the substance of one's remark. "Only the German rulers expect to win. We don't care who governs, so long as the war ends. And as we are young and the people are sick and starving."

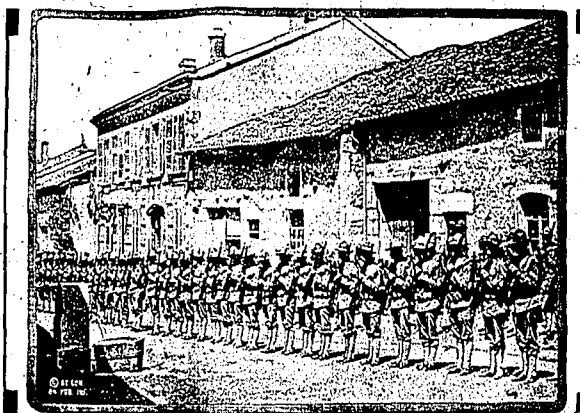

A group of prisoners from a new unit said the Germans are not attempting to erect any permanent defense this side of the old German line.

Along the Duren, where the American right wing was in action, it was reported that many Germans were found chained to their machine guns.

When Duty Calls.

This is man made equal to every task. He can face danger for the fight. A poor, tender, petulant boy, he can run into flame or bullets or poeulence, with duty for his guide.—Luzerion.

ALL THE CANDIDATES CLAIMING ELECTION

Returns in Senatorial and gubernatorial Fight are too Close for Comfort

NASHVILLE, Tenn., August 2.—So close are the returns for senatorial and gubernatorial offices in the election held yesterday that all candidates are claiming the race today. Senator John K. Shields claims the election over Governor Tom C. Rye, by ten thousand. Rye's unofficial majority in sixty-one counties is 1,349. Judge A. H. Roberts has a slight lead over Austin Pea for governor.

WESTERN UNION WILL CONFIRM NOR DENY

ST. LOUIS, Mo., August 2.—Western Union officials here refused to confirm or deny reports that twenty telegraphers were discharged last night because they displayed union emblems. Officials said that some had been dismissed, but refused to comment on the cases or to state whether others had been dismissed today. Officials of the Commercial Telegraphers Union telegraphed Washington authorities last night protesting against the discharge of Union telegraphers.

FRENCH ARMS

building apparently was unscathed. The cathedral as a whole appears intact but those who have visited it recently say it is only a hollow shell which rises in hoisting magnificence, mocking the Hun's efforts.

Heavy Shelling Goes On

To the right of the city shells fell repeatedly on Fort de la Pompe from which the Germans have sought since 1914 to entice the French. To the left the village of Goussancourt was being shattered while the forest of Vigny on a low, hog-back hill seemed fairly heaving and rocking under the bombardment.

Further to the left, Bilgny, two kilometers distant, was erupting smoke like a volcano.

Suggests Coming Attack

Persistence of the bombardment eliminated the theory that this might be only the usual "evening lull," suggesting instead a coming attack. This idea was supported by several hundred shells falling from the town almost to our feet.

The attack came soon after, the Germans attempting to retake Bilgny, but French colonials drove them off. The amount of metal the Boches are expending hereabouts proves the restlessness of which they view the allied possession of strong positions encroaching upon their lines which the enemy must hold to avoid complete starvation of the pocket.

SUIT AGAINST NONPARTISANS IS THROWN OUT

Judge Smith Refuses to Make Permanent Injunction to Restrain Leaguers from Filing as Democrats

WENNER—Judge Isaac P. Smith of the Seventh Judicial district refused Thursday to make permanent the temporary order issued Monday to restrain Nonpartisan league candidates from filing on the Democratic ticket, says the Idaho Statesman.

A clause in the order restraining the secretary of state from accepting the filings was thrown out early in the hearing on the grounds that an action against a state official must lie in the county in which the official lives.

Action May Be Premature

The action of the court seemed to hinge on the view that all league candidates mentioned in the complaint which was filed by Dr. W. E. Hamilton, chairman of the Democratic central committee, had not filed, the alleged act to commit a conspiracy had not been completed.

The temporary order was directed to the secretary of state, restraining him from accepting filings of the leaguers; to W. O. Scholls, league manager; Ray McEgig, field secretary; members of the league executive committee, and to all the candidates whom the league will attempt to run on the Democratic ticket.

A few days after the rain stopped I was going along the road to the docks at the beach when I saw some examples of the deadliness of shells. There was a long string of mules going back to the trenches with water and supplies of various kinds. We drew up to one side to let them pass.

Two or three miles away, from coast, I saw an old-Hun, loaded to the gunwales with bags of water. He had had his troubles, that old boy, but they were just about over, for there was a flash and the next instant he was not so much a thing left of Old Missouri. He just vanished. But two of the water bags were not even touched, and another one had only a little hole in it. There they lay, as usual, just as though you had taken the mule out from under them. The mules next him, fore and aft, were knocked down by the concussion but unharmed; but the third mule behind had one ear cut off already, and the man behind him was badly shot up and stunned.

A little farther on a shell had struck the road and plowed a furrow two or three feet wide, and just as straight as an arrow for three or four yards; it then turned off at an almost right angle and continued for a yard or two more before it burst and made a big hole. That Turk gunner must have put a lot of English on that shell when he fired it. He had something like a number with that shot, too, and the lad paid pretty high, for there was blood around the hole, not quite dry when we got to it.

Come back along the same road, we had to get to another company of mules, and an officer of the Royal Naval division came up, and began talking to our officers. He was telling them how he and his men had landed at the beach, and they were to go ashore through barbed wire.

"And, you know," he said in a surprised way, as if he himself could hardly believe it, "the Germans were actually firing on us!" That's just like the Hunners, though. Their idea is not to appear excited about anything at any time, but to act as though they were playing cricket—standing around on a lawn with paddles in their hands, half asleep. The Hunners are certainly cool under fire, though, and I think that because the Anzacs did not give enough credit to the British respect, before called, that our officers did not laugh, but the men did, and so loud that Lily turned around and caught sight of the Frenchman. He started back toward him and I thought sure there would be a fight, but more likely, the officers would report him. Our officers should have without any need more around that way, and we could hardly make ourselves touch it for some time. Then we rolled it to the other side of the hole.

Then, to one side of us, there was a more violent explosion than any yet. The carb spotted up and fell on us, and big clouds of black smoke, swirling along the ground, covered our shell hole and hung there for some time. One of our sergeants, from the regular French infantry, said it was a shell from a Turkish 105-mm. howitzer. That was only the first one. The worst thing about them was the smoke—people who think Pittsburgh is smoky ought to see about fifty of those big howitzer shells bursting, one after another.

It could not tell what the rest of our line was doing or how we were standing the awful fire, but we felt sure they were not having any worse time than we were. In a few minutes we heard the good old "75's" start pounding, and it was like hearing an old friend's voice over the telephone, and everybody, I am sure, shell hole cleared, though no one could hear us and we could barely hear each other. That was the end of it. The "75's" got going in their usual style they would do for an enemy battery or two, and that looked good to us. The "75's" made the noise worse, but it was all right as far as we were concerned, and a thousand gun more or less would not have made it any harder to stand.

One of our men shouted in the sergeant's ear that the men in line ahead of us and to the right were trying to give us a message of some kind. The sergeant stuck his head above the parapet and had a look. But I stayed where I was—the sergeant could see for himself and me, too, as far as I was concerned.

He shouted at us that the men in the other trench were trying to signal something, but he could not make it out because the clouds of smoke would roll between them and beat us to the words. So he laid down again in the bottom of the hole. But after a while he looked over the parapet and saw a man just leaving their trench, evidently with a message for us, and he did not give the steps before he was blown to pieces, and the lad who followed him got his, too, so they stopped trying then.

And all the time the "75's" were sending theirs to the Turks one behind us and to the right were trying to give us a message of some kind. The sergeant stuck his head above the parapet and had a look. But I stayed where I was—the sergeant could see for himself and me, too, as far as I was concerned.

The conceptions felt like one long string of boxes on the ear, and our throats were so dry that it hurt to swallow, which always makes your ear feel better after a strong concussion. One after another of our boys was slipping to the ground and digging his fists into his ears, and the rest of them set on the parapet two steps with their heads between their knees and their arms wrapped around their heads.

Our sergeant came to me after a while and began acting just like people do at a show, only he shouted instead of whistled.

Then the Huns began shelling and they kept it up for some time. Then they ordered us up on deck to see the ship they had been firing at and when we came up the company

HER PRINCE

By MILDRED WHITE

(Copyright, 1918, Western Newspaper Union.)

Adella gazed wistfully from her place in the hammock, toward the white-shelved roadway. Admiration was also evidenced in the glance which included the driver. What a big handsome fellow he was. Probably the tallest of the staidness, bustling down of the only vehicle, were correct. Adella herself might have stood to the chase, not that this young woman from the city was susceptible before attractive men were concerned, but that the intricate quilt of long summer days in her aunt's country home, was growing appalling. Adella found herself possessed of a hysterical desire to break in some way this insistent monotony.

If only the Adella of the town had desire or inclination to meet her, to generally take her time, rubbing along through the sweet-scented air. She need not speak to her, she would surely sought after Adella reflected, "or even bother at all, if he would just let me ride along like that but dog at his side."

But her wish seemed hopeless. This was the third visit of the city moon, and her aunt's masculine friend and neighbor had showed neither inclination or interest in her proximity. From such his line knows he should care at the girl as he righted his machine. Adella felt that he had not realized her presence; and then, abruptly his car swung about and the young man went running lightly up the steps to her aunt's front door.

"Teetly!" whispered the girl, but there was no summons from the house. Slowly Adella arose from her hammock, and stepped across the lawn. She would enter the room kitting a message, as though unaware of a stranger's presence. When Aunt Martha had presented them, the man would be kind enough perhaps, to take pity upon a guest's loneliness and invite her to drive her restless spirit craved. But when Adella entered the room her aunt's visitor had departed.

"Well," remarked that lady with satisfaction, "I reckon Homer Grant knows where you stand, anyway, Adella. If every other girl in town throws her head an' heart after him, he will learn that you are different, or at least that you'll be able to say that you set your cap for him. Is the young lady visitor a relative of yours, Miss Blaine?" he asks me.

"Yes," I says, as it. But she don't care's looking and invite her to drive her restless spirit craved. But when Adella entered the room her aunt's visitor had departed.

"Whatever will Mr. Grant think, and there is no 'tendy bias' in the city or any other place. I do wish you had not mentioned me at all."

"I was there," her aunt answered firmly, "and I won't have folks saying you are after Homer, too."

Adella bit her pretty lips in vexation. Judgment had been near the wide blue eyes. Then suddenly she smiled, why should this stranger's opinion cause her annoyance. Nevertheless, when she later met him at the post office, her eyes fell before the sharp inquiry of his own.

She felt to wondering about him as she carried her book out to the hammock in the garden. Was the man connected as Aunt Martha indicated, or had he bigger things to do than to be a village fool? Adella had heard of his engineering achievements and accomplishments abroad.

Impulsively, Adella jumped from her seat and sped across the lawn, this time she would go in the front way. Then to her embarrassment the visitor turned to descend the steps. Aunt was not at home.

"Confessingly the girl fell back to the hammock. He must not meet her thus in his pursuit, that would be humiliating indeed. She was trying to appear at ease, when Homer Grant heartily approached. In his hand was a small white object.

"I found this slipper upon the lawn," he explained, "is it yours, Miss?" Surely his eyes met hers in laughing challenge. "Miss Cinderella."

"Quickly Adella drew a small stock-sock foot beneath her dress, "I had just dropped it," she confessed.

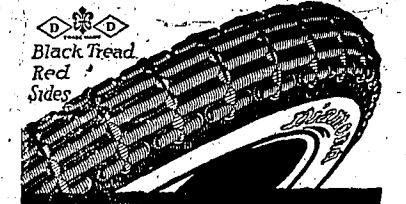

Again the laughing brown eyes met the wistful blue ones.

"Dare I ask you to ride with me?" the man ventured. And another maid had found her own true prince.

Increased Length of Life.—It is a caution to learn, on highest authority, that the average man or woman of the present generation lives ten years longer than his or her great-grandparents.

There are several reasons why. Not least important of them is the improved sanitary conditions of our modern environment, which do not invite disease.

We have mastered the great epidemic maladies, such as smallpox and the "black death." In former times smallpox annually killed 600,000 persons in Europe; and a single epidemic of bubonic plague swept away one-fourth of the population of that continent.

One Diamond For Every Three Cars In America

MOTORISTS are buying Diamond Tires such numbers that over 2,000,000 are now in service—easily, one for every three cars in America.

This patronage is significant when you consider that the big demand for Diamonds comes from motorists who have used them in previous years and insist upon Diamond mileage again.

Such demand can be commanded only by tires of super-value.

A Diamond Tube is likely to outwear your car itself. Made in Gray and Red, in sizes to fit any make of tire.

Artificial Indigo.

Chemists discovered by research years ago the process of making artificial indigo, but it was only when a thermometer broke in the solution that they found out how to make the indigo cheap enough to be commercially valuable. The mercury so increased the yield of a certain acid that the process was cheapened sufficiently to make artificial indigo less expensive than natural indigo.

Saltsmanthip. Every man has something to sell—perhaps merchandise, possibly experience, perchance work, maybe just plain bluffs. Anywhere, any time, man has something to sell. We are all merchants, brokers, bankers, jobbers, hawkers, hustlers. From the clerk to the cabinet, from the buyer to the seller, from the retailer to the retailer all men are concerned in salesmanship.

Doll Emblems on Grave. Queerest of all dolls are those one finds in some of the Italian cemeteries of British Columbia. They represent the buried dead, and being carved out of wood, suitably painted, are images of the defunct persons as they appeared, suitably clad, in life.

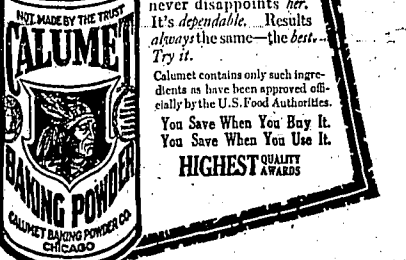

One's Life Food for Thought. There is a sentence in Pines to this effect: "The unexamined life is not livable for a real man." Every true man must think his life out. Every true organization ought to examine its achievement and its purpose.

LATE RAINS BRING RELIEF ON RANGES

Weather Bureau Summarizes Crop Favorable Conditions for Week In Idaho

BOISE—Following is the summary of weather and crop conditions in Idaho for the week ending Tuesday, July 30, as issued by Clinton E. Nordquist, meteorologist at Boise for the department of agriculture weather bureau:

Good rains from Washington county northward and moderate temperatures in all sections of the state during the past week have brought relief, temporarily at least, from heat and drought. The rains came too late to be of much benefit to grain crops in the northern counties, but they have helped the range, and orchard conditions also are improved. In the eastern and central counties, where wheat, the cool weather was fine for the crop. The rains were so cool in the higher valleys that frost was feared, but so far as reports indicate, none occurred.

Range Feed Holding Out

The second cutting of alfalfa is being harvested in good shape. The range greatly benefited meadows and pastures in the north portion. The hay crop in that section was very light, due to drought, but the rains will freshen the meadows and make them available for fall pasturage. Range feed is holding up well for the most part, and stock are making good gains. Conditions are exceptionally favorable in Camas and Madison counties. In Camas county about 80 per cent of the lamb crop has been shipped, and they weighed up well. Early bred cattle are being rounded up for finishing. The range in Adams county has been greatly improved by rains and the outlook for fall feed is much brighter, but some parts of the range are overwatered by sheep from outside points.

Getting Grain in Twin Falls

Winter wheat is in excellent condition in the eastern and central counties; the crop is just ripening in Camas and Madison counties; harvest is in full swing in Latah and Nezperce counties, where the crop is fair to good; harvest is completed in Cayuse and Elmore counties. Spring wheat also is in excellent condition in the east portion; in the higher districts the heads are just filling; in Twin Falls, Ada and Canyon counties harvest is in progress in the Lovieton valley, threshing is finished. Oats are in fair to good condition; harvest has begun. Squirrels are doing great damage to wheat in Butte County and Jack rabbits are proving unusually destructive over the Snake River plains.

Potatoes are doing well as are also commercial beans. Sugar beets are in excellent condition in Blaine County; fair to good in Cassia, Butte, and Twin Falls counties, and in Blaine county the small acreage is coming well but there is a thin stand.

Chinook Salmon.

The Chinook salmon, scarcely known commercially seventy or seventy-five years ago, is today one of the most important food fishes in the world. It is sold in sealed cans in nearly every market. All individuals of this species and the blue-back salmon, closely allied to it, die after spawning.

Fossil Fish in Texas.

Fossil fish, from which the much-needed ichthyol of may be obtained, has been discovered in Texas. This material formerly came exclusively from Australia.

SWITZERLAND ACCEPTS HONOR

Arrangements for American-German Prisoner Conference Working Out

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON, August 2.—Switzerland has accepted the presidency of the American-German prisoner conference to be held this month in Bern. The Swiss president will personally open the session, naming a Swiss official as presiding officer, the state department announced today.

The personnel of the American delegation is now being selected. It will consist of both military and civilian representatives and will consider a variety of subjects vital to the prisoners' welfare.

Exchange of prisoners, their treatment, allowances and other matters are listed among pressing topics. It is understood that the allies and Germany have recently exchanged a few sound prisoners in addition to invalids. Some arrangements may be made for similar procedure between the United States and Germany.

Who Knows
Marked is proud of the beetle, ingeniously and accurately with which it pursues many of its activities; but we cannot be sure that the main result of your labor is not something as remote and unperceived by ourselves as the service to the spring flowers is by the bees. We do not always foresee the reactions of our most careful enterprises; and, while the best working among the spring blossoms may commend us modestly, the wind which has its own indiscriminate but none the less effective system of fertilization, calls us to hope.

Write Chery Letters, Home News to Our Boys at the Front

One of the pleasantest as well as one of the most difficult duties of a home service is to stimulate the families and friends of soldiers and sailors to write frequently to the boys. Wives, mothers, fathers and other relatives, ought to be impressed with the importance of home news to the men in camp and especially to those in France.

The letters should be chery, full of home news, should carry pictures, if possible, and should be expressive of sincere appreciation of what the boys are doing for their country.

To the wives and mothers of soldier and sailors—

When you write to your beloved soldier your own hands. You can make him comfortable or cheerful. Why not follow the example of the women in the poem:

Soldiers
Her kitchen girl has left her and she'd all the work to do
Upon the day the palming broke and lit the water through
The baby had the chicken pox—she had to go and see
The doctor on the subject and she fell and broke her knee,
A possible neighbor brought her home—the fire's gone out by then—
She ate a fried meal, and they she got her ink and pen,
And wrapped a shawl around her, and beneath the evening lamp,
She wrote a letter to her man—a soldier down in camp.

"Dear John: Your jiving letter was received today. I hope you're busy. I keep so busy that I have no time to mope.
The weather's cool, but beautiful, and Spring is on the way.
The baby's got a tooth. I took a trip down town today.
And Mr. Johnson picked me up in his big motor car,
And brought me home—you can't believe how kind the neighbors are, Baby and I have decided we will leave the simple life,
And stay at home for quite awhile. With lots of love. Your Wife.
Her name is Mrs. Legion, and she's quite well known to me.
Her husband is a soldier in his company, so is she—Ted Robinson.

We have sought by every means in our power to keep alive in Russia the feeling that the people of when you run across some little thing you have no further use for, some one else might want it.

Applicants for First Aid Certificates Take Notice

Apparently without knowledge of the rules and precedents governing procedure in the American Red Cross organization, some persons, doubtless with the best intentions, have organized themselves into classes for training, designed to render themselves fit to offer First Aid service, either to themselves or to other persons in need of such help, and having pursued courses of training chosen by themselves, have applied to Division Headquarters of the Northwestern District for certificates of fitness. First Aid organizations regularly authorized by the American Red Cross secure their titles by conforming strictly to the directions given by the chairman of the chapters in which such units are formed, and in no other way. Full information as to the proper method of procedure in this behalf is obtainable at all times at chapter headquarters.

A large cargo of relief supplies, principally food stuffs, clothing and medicines, is to be shipped to Russia by the American Red Cross at the earliest possible moment. The cargo will be sent as a gift from the American people through the A. B. C. 1124 split, all that has happened in Russia," said Henry Davison, chairman of the Red Cross war council, "the American Red Cross has had members there always ready to lend a helping hand without regard to personal considerations and without regard to what party was in power. We have sought by every means in our power to keep alive in Russia the feeling that the people of the United States, through their Red Cross, were eager to be of service to the Russian people in their distress and affliction. In other words our whole policy has been in accord with President Wilson, that he intended to stand by Russia.
