ARTILLERY BLAZING WAY FOR ADVANCE FROM BOTH EXTREMES OF SOISSONS-RHEIMS SECTOR
PARIS, August 7 (12:30 p. m.)--German positions at the flanks of the Aisne-Velle line west of Rheims and east of Soissons are being subjected to an enfilading artillery fire, it was learned here this afternoon. More than half the enemy lines between the Vesle and the Aisne also are under a flanking fire.

GRAIN PRODUCTION EXCEEDS ESTIMATES

WASHINGTON, August 7.--Substantiating the assertion that grain production this year has been larger than that of any previous year her associates in the war had hoped for figures revealed today show that in the ten day period between July 10 and 20, grain shipments exceeded those of the same period in 1917 by 15,611 cars. The total movement for the period this year was 40,044 cars against 24,533 cars for the corresponding ten days in 1917.

ALLIES OCCUPY BRAISNE AND SUBURBS OF MOREUIL

Enemy Concentrates Immense Force in Effort to Defeat Flanking Movement
By JOHN DE GANDT (United Press Staff Correspondent)
PARIS, August 7.--Greater activity was reported on both the extreme wings of the Aisne-Vesle battle front, where the Germans have concentrated heavy forces to oppose any flanking movement by the allies. Heavy artillery firing is under way along the whole front.

GERMAN PRESS FEEDS PUBLIC MESS OF LIES

West Front Quiet Is Story Told at Home--Newspapers Endeavor to Divert Attention to Russia
LONDON, August 7.--The German press continues to dope the public regarding the west front defeat, some papers lying, while others ignore it, or play up minor news. Simultaneously, alarm is expressed at the growing strength of the allies in Russia. Instead of commenting on the west front, the Telegraph refers to "extended gains" in Albania. The Vorwärts declares there is no major fighting on the west front. The Deutsche Zeitung mentions "another defeat for the enemy."

LONDON, August 7.--"We all desire peace but it must be a just and durable one, with the power behind it to enforce it," Premier Lloyd George declared in the house of commons this afternoon. "I believe in a league of nations, but we must be careful of the conditions under which it is established."
Best Chance Gone
The premier said the chance Germany had March 31, would never come again. The American army soon will be only slightly smaller than that of Germany, he said. "Marshall Foch's master stroke was the most brilliant in the annals of the WASHINGTON, August 7.--An army of at least 6,000,000 to be raised in the quickest possible time was advocated by General March, chief of staff, testifying before the senate military committee today.

March explained the necessity of increasing the army to that size as quickly as possible as a means of hastening the end of the war. He made it clear that this force would be distributed on both sides of the water. Explaining the need for a larger army, March told the members that leaders in this country and those of our allies reached an agreement late in July that would require a larger army than was at first believed necessary.

Paris, August 7.--Allied troops repulsed German attacks against La Grange farm, on the Vesle river line, and captured the Siery-Salogne railway station, the war office announced today.
West of Montdidier the allies made progress on a front of about two miles.
In the Montdidier region the French made little progress south of Francourt and southeast of MeulSt. Georges," the communique said. (Francourt is two miles northwest of Montdidier and a mile west of Cantigny. MeulSt-Georges is two miles south of Francourt.)
" On the Vesle the french repulsed enemy attempts against La Grange farm and took the Siery-Salgogne railway station. The French took a hundred prisoners east of Braine.
" In the Champagne, a local attack this morning against French positions south of Auberville (eighteen miles east of Rheims) was repulsed."

TO BOOST BILL AT WASHINGTON

Local Men Will Send C. A. Mariani to Urge Revenue Measure
As a result of action taken at a meeting of several citizens assembled Tuesday evening in the Parlin hall, C. A. Mariani of Twin Falls, will be sent to Washington, D. C. to appear before the senate finance committee and members of congress in the interests of a bill which he has drafted and which had been introduced in the senate by Senator Borah providing for the raising of revenue through a war purchase stamp act, and in providing revenue to save labor and primarily to reduce the overhead cost of living to the industrial, especially to the one doing business.

Double Original Estimate
The present plan called for the movement of approximately 200,000 troops a month until cold weather sets in. While a decision reached by the president as to what men shall be drawn that few of the proposed plan would be sent across for military service.
A plan for drafting men for the navy as well as the army is being considered by the committee, Senator Washington, New York, and others. One of the committee favors this plan, believing that the same rule for selecting men should apply for both branches of the service. Secretary Daniels and perhaps Admiral Benson are expected to testify before the committee.

HINDENBURG'S RETIREMENT THREATENED

Advantageous Positions Held by Allies Make General Withdrawal Difficult--May Attempt to Split Armies
By J. W. T. MASON (United Press War Expert)
NEW YORK, August 7.--Marshall Foch's persistent development of local attacks in the Montdidier sector is for the purpose of gaining advantageous positions from which to threaten disaster to German retirement at this critical corner.
Eschwege Low
There no longer is any question but that sooner or later the German front will have to be shortened to provide Von Hindenburg with men enough to defend his position. One of the chief lessons of the second Marne victory is that German power is already insufficient to hold the extravagantly lengthened German lines in France.
When the full retirement begins, the angle at Montdidier will present to Marshal Foch the best opportunity for separating Von Hindenburg's northern and southern armies. Just as Von Hin-denburg tried to divide the British and French armies along the southern flank, so Marshal Foch is preparing in advance to retaliate in the same manner. Along the Montdidier sector the Germans facing west and those facing south have their meeting point.

French Repulse Counter Attacks

Coast Guard Vessel Shoots Line Across Scow--Men Face Instant Death for Many Hours
NIAGARA FALLS, N. Y., August 7.--Henry James Harris, 40, and Olof Loeborg, 64, employees of the Great Lakes Dredging and Dock company were rescued this morning from a scow on which they were marooned 3,000 feet above the Horseshoe Falls and 800 feet from the Canadian shore. The scow lodged on a shelf of rock 8 1/2 miles above the cataract at 3 o'clock yesterday. After a tow line between it and its tug broke, while the vessels were a short distance above the upper rapids, Harris was the first taken off. He was landed on the roof of the Electrical Development company at 8:40 o'clock. Loeborg was landed an hour later.
Collapse from Strain
The men made the trip from the stranded scow in a breeches buoy operating on a line shot across the scow by the United States coast guard from Fort Niagara.
Both men collapsed after they were brought ashore.

Feeling Runs High
This was one among many instances when feeling ran high at the second hearing held in the district court room here Tuesday afternoon before a special committee of the state council of defense in the investigation of charges of pro-Germanism alleged to have been made against members of the Non-Partisan league and the league itself by citizens of this county including members of the county council of defense. Judge James B. Bethwell of Twin Falls, as chairman of the committee, called frequently upon the audience, which filled the court room, to abstain from demonstration.
The committee received the hearing held on the first session of its call. Hackman appeared as attorney for the signers of the resolution passed at the meeting here July 16 of members of the Non-Partisan league and labor organizations, which precipitated the investigation, while Judge Davies, declaring that the the council of defense had been attacked in the testimony introduced at the first session of the hearing, appeared as attorney for that organization.
The investigating committee is composed of Judge Bethwell, W. E. Albrecht of Twin Falls, president of the state and county agricultural organizations, and Attorney Charles A. Sundelin of Burley.
Investigator Under Fire
Except in the case of W. F. Alworth, member of the investigating committee, who also is accused by the investigators of the hearing with having made charges of pro-Germanism against Ja-

Try to Divide Armies
When the backing up process begins there is bound to be serious conflict, especially if Von Hindenburg waits over-long before ordering the double retreat. The situation, that will in an effort to break through the German front and double up Von Hindenburg's southern army.
Take Defensives
The preparation of this threatening strategy will of itself exercise an important influence upon Von Hindenburg's plans. Instead of being left free to encourage public opinion at home by offensive assaults, Von Hindenburg must begin at once to arrange for gradual abandonments of danger.

DUTCH VESSELS TO BRING SUGAR

Negotiations Pending to Get Holland to Move Java Sugar Crop

WASHINGTON, August 7.—Negotiations are under way to obtain Dutch vessels to carry more sugar from Java to the United States. The Java sugar crop is being increased. Dutch vessels are now idle in the Indian waters either through fear of seizure or the menace of submarines and the other vessels are tied up in home waters. Allied officials are strongly representing to the Dutch government that vessels will not be requisitioned in allied ports.

Improvement First of Year

There can be little improvement in the sugar situation in America until the Cuban crop becomes available about the first of the year, food officials say.

It is desired to make available as many Indian supplies without disturbing present tonnage arrangements.

Only by the most careful conservation will the present sugar supply meet American needs and rigid observation of the ration of two pounds a person per month is said by food officials to be imperative.

LLOYD GEORGE VINDICATES

war." Premier Lloyd George declared in the house of commons this afternoon.

"He drove the enemy back; but the danger is not yet over."

With cheering greeted the mention of Foch's name.

Navy Saved Day
"Until the allies are defeated on the sea, Germany never can triumph," Lloyd George said. "The tonnage of the British navy at the beginning of the war was two and a half millions."

"The premier paid eloquent tribute to work of the Americans since March 21, when they had only one division (27,500 men) in the line."

"If the British had been overwhelmed in March, the Americans could not have arrived in time to save France," Lloyd George said.

Yankees Hurrying Across
"Our losses in men and material at first were beyond expectations but within a month 300,000 reinforcements had been sent across the channel. Within six weeks the Germans had been forced to a standstill. Probably they will again attack the British army, because of their failure elsewhere."

Lloyd George announced that during July 205,000 Americans arrived at European ports, of which 185,000 were transported on their ships.

"As an illustration of America's reserve man power, the premier said, 'If America had contributed soldiers on the same basis as Great Britain, it would mean 15,000,000 men.'"

Destroy 100 U-Boats
"I do not wish to minimize the great assistance rendered by the Americans and France," said the premier, "but the world should know what the British are doing. The American naval mission is especially anxious that such steps be taken."

"For the purpose of transporting American troops, we have gone without 200,000 tons of essential cargoes every month."

"Every one knows the American army's courage, but its trained skill, especially that of its officers, is beyond expectation."

Lloyd George announced the navy has destroyed at least 150 German submarines--half of them this year.

Talking for Effect
A good conversationist is not one who talks for effect. It is generally easy to pick out the man who is talking in order to make an impression, who says not so much what he thinks, as what he imagines his listeners will consider clever.

EX-GUNNER AND CHIEF PETTY OFFICER, U. S. NAVY MEMBER OF THE FOREIGN LEGION OF FRANCE CAPTAIN GUN TURRET, FRENCH BATTLESHIP CASSARD WINNER OF THE CROIX DE GUERRE

Copyright, 1918, by Kelly and Brown Co., Through Special Arrangement With the George Meador Adams Service.

When the lifeboat reached the Jacobs' ladders I went over to the port side of the George and then the Germans came over the side and baled up the kegs. The Germans were armed with bayonets and revolvers. Some of them went down into the engine room and opened the sea cocks. About this time some of the Limeys came up from the poop deck and I told them to stay where I was and that the Germans would take us over in lifeboats. Another squad of German hostiles, eight or ten, climbed up the kegs on their shoulders and down into No. 6 hold with them.

Mean time the Germans saw us up on the boat deck and came up after us. As I saw the Limeys were in a fix I waited and one or two more waited with me. When the Germans came up to us they had their revolvers out and were waving them around and yelling "Mein Gott, mein Gott!" and talking about "schwehunde". Then, the first thing I knew, I was kicked off into the sea. I lapped off my trousers and coat and clogs, and believe me, it was not a bit of dress up and no place to go.

I swam hard and caught up to the Limeys who had jumped first. They were asking each other if they were drowned and answering, "But a bit of it, me lad," and trying to stay "Pack up your troubles in your old kit bag," only they could not do much singing on account of the waves that slipped into their mouths every time they opened their mouths. That was just like Limeys, though.

Some of the boys were just climbing up the Jacobs' ladder on the Moeve when the old George left to start an aviator race. The Moeve was in the air in gliders. One fellow set his hold on the ladder and went down and he never came up. The Germans were making for the place where we had been sitting and it just before they did. Up the ladder we went and over the side and the first thing we caught sight of was the German revolvers in our faces drifting in the water.

The lifeboat brought back the ship's papers from the George and we had roll call. They kept us up on deck in our wet underwear and it was very cold indeed. Then the first mate and the old man and one of the other officers called off the names and we found we had fifty missing.

The Bocho commander had gall enough to say that he was not there to take men but to take ships that were supplying the allies! He said England was trying to starve Germany, but that they would never succeed and that Germany would starve the allies very soon.

After roll call some of us asked the Germans for clothes, or at least a place to dry ourselves in, but Fritz could not see us for the dust on the boat and we had to stand there and shiver till we shook the deck, almost. Then I went and sat down on the pipes that feed the deck winches. They had quite a head of steam in them and we had to stand there and shiver till we shook the deck, almost. Then I went and sat down on the pipes that feed the deck winches. They had quite a head of steam in them and we had to stand there and shiver till we shook the deck, almost.

Finally they mustered us all on another part of the deck, they drilled down into the engine room and read the martial law of Germany to us. At least I guess that is what it was. It might have been the "Help Wanted—Dog Catcher" column from the Berlin Lok. Responsible for all most of us known or cared. It shows what the Germans are reading all those four-to-the-pound words to our advertising garbles, who did not give a damn how much we heard them or not. Fritz is like some other kind of animal he is funniest when he does not mean to be. Every German is a vaudeville skit with a heavy natural.

said no. Then I asked him if we had to fire in our face feet and he said yes—that we did not need shoes. Then I looked at the narrow passage he went through and at the narrow passage of the fiddle to the main deck and I talked to my feet like I used to

"Feet, Do Your Duty."

At Dimmido, I said: "Feet, do your duty." They did it and I flew up the fiddle. I never wanted to see that stake hole again.

I walked up to where the rest of the fellows were and the guards drilled us into No. 4 hold. There was nothing but ammunition in it. They baited the hatches down on us which made the hold waterproof. And as that made it practically airtight the only air the 650 of us got was through the ventilators. That hold was certainly foul.

They next day some of the men had got cigarettes somewhere. In a few minutes they as well as the rest had lit up and were puffing away in great style. I divided a cigarette with another fellow. Suddenly, we were all going and standing on ammunition all his time. It shows how much we cared whether school kept or not.

The Germans saw the smoke coming out of the ventilators and they were crazy with fright. A gang of 'em laid below and roused us out with whips.

I was strong for the plan and so were several others, but the Limey of the boat fore with us advised against it. They said the Germans were taking us to a neutral country, where we would be interned, which was just what the Germans had told us, but what for we believed us.

Progression.

How can you ever hope to conduct a business of your own if you never learn to do it? You must learn to do things and know at once what to do in the case shows you to be above the average. It won't do long until you will be recognized as such. The only way you advance is by your confidence. That leads to the next step. Progress is one series of success and doing the right thing at the right time. Some folks tell us that's wisdom. Can it what you will, it's profitable—Exchange.

Profits and Prices

Profits may be considered from two angles:

- 1st—Their effect on prices;
- 2nd—As a return to investors.

When profits are small as compared with sales, they have little effect on prices.

Swift & Company's profits are only a fraction of a cent per pound on all products sold, and if eliminated entirely would have practically no effect on prices.

Swift & Company paid 10 per cent dividends to over 20,000 stockholders out of its 1917 profits. It also had to build extensions and improvements out of profits; to finance large stocks of goods made necessary by unprecedented requirements of the United States and Allied Governments; and to provide protection against the day of declining markets.

Is it fair to call this profiteering?

A. Wiseman, Hanson; Roy McInnis, Twin Falls; Floyd Allen Durkey, Buhl.

STORY REVISION

col B. Musser of Filer, the signers of the resolution at the second session Tuesday, introduced no new evidence against any of the five men accused by them at the first session of declaring their loyalty.

Dental Is Sufficient

The others accused were E. J. Ostrander, president of the Ostrander Lumber company, member of the city council and a member of the county council of defense--Thomas Dovy, editor of the Twin Falls Chronicle, and Dr. E. R. Erskine, dentist, of Twin Falls.

Denton Says Chronicle

D. M. Denton, owner of the Twin Falls Times, a witness called by Hackman to refute Ostrander's statement that he had never spoken to Hays in regard to the Nonpartisan league, testified that he had never heard Ostrander, Thomas or any one else except a carpenter named Moore call another person by that name.

Alworth Won't Quit

The second session of the hearing Tuesday opened with the attempt of Hackman to remove W. F. Alworth as a member of the investigating committee, on the grounds that Alworth was one of the persons accused of making charges of disloyalty against others.

Men transferred to other boards

Men transferred to other boards to be inducted with Twin Falls county entrainment for Camp Fremont are the following: Pacific Deyrolle, Sheehana, Idaho; Henry Joseph Wice, Pocatello, Idaho; Elias Thor, Silver City, Idaho; William Mathie Roberts, Rildia, Idaho; Clyde Nelson Harrington, Winfield, Kansas; Harrison Horn, Great Falls, Mont.

commissaries, any statement to that effect that he had heard Alworth say in the commissioners' room that any particular person was pro-German, or that he had heard any one make specific charges of disloyalty against another.

Denies Hearing Charge

W. J. Breckenridge was called by Judge Davies to testify in regard to the alleged conversation in which, according to Stevens, Alworth had said Musser was pro-German. Breckenridge said that he recalled no such statement having been made by Alworth at that or another time, but that Alworth on the occasion in question had stated that he regarded Musser as a "sort of Socialist grabbing after fleecy white clouds."

Takes Up Other Accusations

The committee then took up the accusations of Hays against Ostrander, Dovy and Erskine. Ostrander declared that he had never mentioned the Nonpartisan league to Hays. This statement was not refuted. Ostrander said that, on one occasion after he had provided in Denton's office the facility of charges made against him by Denton, he said that he did not know but that Denton was an I. W. W.

Where Fireworks Started

It was after Dovy, who was the next witness called by Hackman, had refused to divulge the name of the individual referred to as "Daniel" in the publication in the Chronicle of the affidavit which Denton had said was directed at him, that the altercation between Hackman and Judge Davies arose.

Was Stupidly Careful

When order had once more been restored in the court room, Dovy was called on by Judge Davies to testify in his own defense against the accusation of Hays that he had been threatened by Dovy. The editor declared that the accuser was mistaken or prevaricating. He said that he had said to a good many persons that he regarded the Nonpartisan league as a menace to the rights of the people.

Erskine Plays Townsley

Erskine was not called as a witness, but took occasion to declare that nobody had called any farmer a pro-German, and he declared on his own behalf that he had never made such a statement as against any member of the league outside of Townsley, president of the national organization, whom he declared again a traitor to his country.

Defenses "Square Deal"

Denton then addressed the committee, stating that Dovy, Erskine and Luo were trespassing on the rights of this community; that it was the duty of the committee to "clean up this stuff. You must do it, or the people will do it," he declared his statement evoking considerable applause.
