BOLSHEVIKI ADOPTS NEW ROLE IN WAR

Declares War on Allies in Order to Maintain State of Perfect Neutrality—Allies Classed With Huns

WASHINGTON, August 9.—Russian events took a new and sensational turn today when the American government was officially informed that the Bolshevik regime of Russia considered itself in a state of war with the allies.

It was explained to allied consuls in Moscow that the position of the Russians, however, is purely one of defense against invasion and that the Bolshevik desire to remain in the same position toward the allies as the soviet now is toward Germany.

Aid Plans Go Ahead
In making public an official cable message announcing the new attitude toward the Bolsheviks toward those desiring to help their people, the state department made no comment.

Plans for helping the Russian populace by way of Vladivostok and Archangel are going forward without material change. It is not believed possible here that the soviet can organize the Russian people against their allied friends.

In a message from Moscow dated July 31, American Consul Poole said that Lenin, in a public speech before the members of the soviet, declared that a state of war existed.

Explains Position

The allied consuls called on the minister for foreign affairs for an explanation. They were told that Lenin's declaration did not necessarily mean hostilities, but that it implied a state of defense rather than a state of offense. He said that Russia wished to continue relations with the allies under similar circumstances as with Germany.

Airplanes Drop Messages

A message from Archangel stated that the authorities there had demanded an explanation of the landing of allied troops on Omega. The message added that the Bolsheviks evacuated Archangel in great haste.

After allied airplanes called over the town dropping propaganda, island batteries at the mouth of the river were captured by the allies. Contacts who came to aid the Bolsheviks against the allied desecration of the Bolshevik and led a counter revolution on August 2, the day the Bolsheviks left Archangel.

Release Allied Germans

This counter revolution was completed on August 3, and the British, American and French consuls who had been arrested were released. The British consuls explained the arrest of these officers by saying that it was for the officers' protection. The American consul, however, reported that the arrest was made with such haste and violence that he thought it necessary to burn his code books.

Allies Drive Ahead on Three Fronts—German Positions Grow More Dangerous

20,000 PRISONERS AND MANY TOWNS FALL IN ALLIES' HANDS

The allies have advanced on three fronts today. British troops advanced nearly two miles in Flanders on an eight mile front, occupying five villages.

France-British forces continued to drive ahead in Picardy on a front of nearly 20 miles, attaining a maximum penetration of twelve miles, capturing a number of important villages and bringing the estimated total of their prisoners to 20,000.

American and French troops, along the 30-mile Alsace-Vosges front still hold the Germans on the defensive while the allied artillery was blasting the way for another advance.

The advance in Picardy threatens to assume the proportions of a rout. While the Germans are holding stubbornly at the wings south of Albert and north of Montdidier, they are apparently falling back so rapidly in the center that only British cavalry and airplanes are maintaining contact with them.

The allied progress is principally directed along the east and east-west front from Amiens north and north-south, intersecting lines already have been. The main north-south line, which runs through Chaules Junction and is known to the principal communication artery within the salient, is in imminent danger, as British cavalry is reported approaching it on a fairly wide front. Troopers already have fallen, Chaules is threatened. A further advance in the center, it is believed may force the relinquishment of Montdidier and a large portion of territory in that region.

Airplanes Destroy Bridges
Reports that the bridges over the Somme at Peronne and Druis have been destroyed, probably by allied aircraft, indicates that some of the retreating Germans may be trapped.

Peronne, which is almost the exact center of the big Picardy salient in Flanders, is four miles south of Peronne. The Somme runs directly north and south here, turning abruptly westward at Peronne. If the German retreat continues to the river, it is possible that many will be trapped because of the destroyed bridges. The allies are already within 12 miles of Brie and 8 miles of Peronne.

BRITISH WEDGE MENACES WHOLE WESTERN FRONT

Predicted that Twenty-Four Hours Continual Advance Will Necessitate Realignment of Lines

By J. W. T. MASON, (United Press War Expert)

NEW YORK, August 9.—While continuing his drive against the German crown prince forces east of Amiens, Field Marshal Haig has made a new advance against Crown Prince Rupprecht's armies in Flanders, which threatens interference with cooperation between the two royal commands.

The southern offensive of the British, however, continues to hold the main purpose of Marshal Haig's strategy. The diversion in the north is a tactical development, endangering Crown Prince Rupprecht's line at a point perilous to him if he insists in weakening his front to assist the Hohenzollerns here.

Enemy Kept Guessing

The double duty is thus imposed on Field Marshal Haig of continuing to press forward east of Amiens, while at the same time, keeping Rupprecht at constant condition of nervous uncertainty.

The persistence with which the British drive is being followed up south of the Somme, shows tactical skill of a very high order. The heat of the work has been thrown upon the British units who are following the railway east of Amiens.

New Pocket Dangerous

A dangerous salient has already been formed along this important line of communication. The possibility of approach's forces being unable to maintain contact with the German crown prince except by a wide detour to the rear has been much increased by Field Marshal Haig's progress during the past twenty-four hours.

May Force General Retirement

The wedge which the British are now driving into the German lines east of Amiens is reaching a depth, where it may, in fact, force Von Hindenburg to make a general retirement north of Montdidier, so as to prevent the duplication of the Marne pocket disaster. The point of being caught in a trap, like the character heroizes with the

GERMAN LINES PENETRATED TWELVE MILES IN PICARDY

LONDON, August 9.—British troops, while sweeping forward on their new offensive front in Picardy, suddenly advanced in Flanders today.

Initial progress of two miles on an eight-mile front along the southwestern portion of the Flanders salient was reported by the British war office, together with the capture of five villages.

Haig's statement indicated the enemy had retired from his positions on the whole Lys valley front, and that the British had advanced northwestward of Merville to a depth of two thousand yards.

By RALPH H. TURNER, (United Press Staff Correspondent)

TOKYO, August 9.—Japan does not believe the forces which it is planned to send into Siberia will be sufficiently strong to render more than a little aid to the Zhebo-Slav force.

Baron Goto, Japanese foreign minister told me in an interview today that Japan has not changed his position as stated last March regarding intervention, but willingly conformed to the American desire for a small force with restricted activities.

Must Send More Help

The object of the expedition into Siberia upon which the allies have agreed, said Baron Goto, is to aid the Czech-Slovaks, who are not as strong as is popularly supposed.

The foreign minister said he doubted whether the present allied forces will be able to help the Czech-Slovak movement, let alone assist the Russians in re-establishing order and rehabilitating the country. The allied force, he declared, will not be enough even to combat successfully the enemy infiltration which is spreading through Siberia and which has now entered Manchuria, where German and Bolshevik agents are active.

Adhere to Former Position

"Japan has not changed her position as stated last March," said the Baron. "But having in view the necessity of helping the Czechs, who will likely conform to America's desire for a small force with restricted activities."

He feared, however, he said, that the present movement may prove inadequate and in that case, further action

Advance to Bourne

"In the Lys valley for the past few days the enemy continued to evacuate his former positions," the statement said. "Our whole front line has advanced from the Lys river to the river Ecoust, northwestward of Merville, to a maximum depth of over 2,000 yards."

"We hold Locon, Lecornet, Haino, Lepetit Pascaut and Le-Bast."

"Our progress on the Picardy battle front continues."

Picardy Advance Continues
In Picardy, the capture of Morlan court and arrival of British cavalry at Chaules Junction, four miles in advance of the infantry was reported in an official dispatch. Morlan court is the important town north of the Somme where German resistance held up the left wing of the allied advance yesterday.

Take 14,000 Prisoners

Chaules Junction is about a mile south of the important city of Chaules and represents an advance of more than twelve miles from the original line at Hingard, and an additional penetration of about four miles since yesterday. The British was officially reported 14,000 prisoners taken.

North of the Somme, the statement said, the enemy is retreating vigorously and heavy fighting is under way between Chilly and Morlan court.

Haig's official report last night depicted the allied lines as extending from Braches northeastward through Plessier-Heslinville, Beaucourt and Caix, to Framerville, then northwestward through Chilly to a point west of Morlan court. (This is a front of about 20 miles.)

BRITISH ADVANCE CAUSES CONFUSION IN HUN RANKS

Capture of High Enemy Officers Indication of Complete Surprise of Attack

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, August 9.—The British fourth army and elements of the French first army under Field Marshal Haig, have driven their wedge into the west wall of the Montdidier pocket six to eight miles. They have captured a large number of guns, many prisoners and considerable material.

Great confusion has been caused behind Crown Prince Rupprecht's front, in General Von Der Marwitz's second army and General Von Hutler's eighteenth army.

Officers Taken

Almon report the rapid flight of enemy transports eastward along the Somme in order to escape capture. A number of high officers have been taken prisoners.

Had General On Run

The last son of one German general he was running headlong down a road with a tank lumbering after him, spitting machine gun bullets in his direction. Our artillery had to hammer up and advance in order to keep the retreating enemy within range.

The Paris-Amiens main railway line is now well out of range of any save the heaviest German guns, while the Paris-Compiègne-Amiens railway is cut only at Montdidier. The latter city is now directly threatened.

Hamper Railways

British aerial depots heavy weather or, low clouds and showers, are hampering traffic. Into and out of the enemy salient, especially along the Peronne-Roye and Amiens-Beaumont railroads, are being hampered by the Chaubert bridge across the Somme river which every ounce of supplies and reinforcing divisions must pass, likewise is being hampered.

While the allies' heaviest guns pound the German military centers far in the rear, Rupprecht's reply, by infantry, artillery and air, is very feeble, so far. Some counter attacks were attempted but they were easily repulsed.

With the coming up of reinforcements, however, it is inevitable that the enemy resistance will stiffen. Our casualties are exceptionally light. At some casualty clearing stations very few patients have been admitted up to a late hour last night.

Detour's Boches Blunder

Some high German staff officers were captured. Others escaped by the skin of their teeth, fleeing in scant attire and leaving everything behind except their pajamas and their beds. Among the prisoners was a man in clean and stiffened that it was obvious they had been called out of their beds and redressed only in time to be captured.

One division reported more prisoners than it could handle and had to employ slightly wounded men to escort the captured Boches to the rear, none of the unwounded Tommies willing to leave the fighting.

'Whippets' Terrorize Bochy

Every tank of the hundreds of tanks did good work. Some preceded the main body and acted as strong points, pulling the troops came up. Big tanks, surrounded by little "whippets," looked like invulnerable, escorted by destroyers. The "whippets" are able to dodge and turn faster than a man, operating over rough ground, they ran down enemy groups and individuals, flattening out machine gun nests, grinding the crews into the mud and terrorizing whole sectors.

I was told that members of the tank staff kept in touch with their machines from low flying airplanes thus covering the whole battlefield in a few minutes and returning with first hand information. Neither the tanks or the troops encountered a great deal of barbed wire or trenches. Obviously Rupprecht either over-estimated himself or underestimated his opponents. It is clear that he little expected an allied offensive, rather, he was expecting to push on himself.

Destroyed Own Protection

The present battle ground is just south of the old Somme shell hole country which Field Marshal Von Hindenburg laid waste in 1917 during his retreat. He destroyed farms and villages, felled trees bordering roads and even cleared away the underbrush, giving him the excuse that he was preparing the ground for open warfare in the future, when the British would have this desert at their backs and the dreaded German superman in front. Today Von Hindenburg's legions are being pressed back against the forest made waste with scarcely one small tree or wood for protection.

Marshall Foch and Haig apparently have caught Von Hindenburg unawares. If he escapes a bitter drubbing, the present signs are totally misleading.

While Dealers Aid Red Cross Shop

Institation Turns Proceeds of $150 Into Chapter Treas- ury In Six Weeks

(By Mrs. Kennedy Packard)

Business at the Red Cross shop is increasing daily. At the close of the first six weeks one hundred and fifty dollars were turned in to the chapter treasury. The merchants have been most of them interested in the new venture and generous with donations. The Idaho Department Store, Plain Price Store, Citizens Electric company, Idaho Power company, Straus & Glauer, Diamond Hardware company, Twin Falls Hardware company, City Marketing House and Lincoln Produce Co. were among the later donors.

Thus our shop is relieved of the monotony of showing only second-hand goods, and we are enabled to present attractive show windows of new and fresh patterns. Four volle dress patterns, besides three ready to wear gowns came among a large box of donations from the I. D. people, in which was also a fine large assortment of groceries, which sold readily. The one demand which we cannot keep pace is for children's clothing.

"To get at reasonable figures clothing for the children ready for me," said a soldier's wife yesterday, "is such a blessing to me. I can manage the farm work, and see my way clear with everything else till it comes to sewing. There's not an hour left in the week for that."

So those who donate outgrown children's wear are not only giving the Red Cross a lift through the shop, but passing on to some overworked mother what will make her burden lighter.

A live owl was one donation last week. Perhaps on the principle that if you have something which you can neither use yourself, sell, give away or lose, it's all right to let us have a try at it.

We are not going to emulate the example of the Salt Lake shop who to accommodate a customer advertised for a couple of cats. Cats came by the dozen, and by the score, till they put out a sign: "Let up on cats and bring us some shirts."

Come in and try our groceries and look around.

Time for Bud to Go.
A couple of friends came to call, bringing with them a neighbor's pet collier, who made great friends with Elizabeth, our little daughter. All went well till eight o'clock, when Elizabeth, greatly worried, exclaimed: "I think you had better take Bud home now; his parents will be getting worried over his being out so late."

NEVADA MINES PRODUCE MORE COPPER THIS YEAR

Geological Survey Figures Out- put Will Exceed $53,- 000,000 Record

In 1917 mines in Nevada produced metals valued at about $53,000,000, the greater part of which was for copper, according to V. C. Heikes, of the United States geological survey, department of the interior. The output of copper will be considerably greater in 1918 than it was in 1917 if the present rate of shipping and smelting is maintained, but the output of lead and zinc will probably be much less, as the shipments from the principal mining camps have been greatly reduced. The output of gold from the state has been decreasing for several years, and the output of silver also decreased in 1917. The shipments of bullion, ore, and concentrates during the first six months of 1918 indicates that the production of gold continued to decrease, though every effort was made to market silver ore and bullion on account of the advance in the price of silver, which reached nearly $1 an ounce.

Gold Production Declining

The output of gold from the Goldfield district has been declining, and the grade of the ore in the district is lower than in former years. Many individual mines, however, show increase in production of gold. The Goldfield Consolidated company has been treating tailings and custom ore. The Elko Prince at Milas, is active and has paid dividends. Mills are running at the Consolidated Mayflower at Bullfrog; and at the Olympic at Omeo. The National mine again produced some exceedingly rich ore, and new mills were completed at the Elko ore mine, at Jarbridge; and at the Nevada-Austin, in Lander County. The output of gold was good also at several camps that produced bullion containing much silver. News of further development and of increased production came from the Comstock district. Pumping has so greatly lowered the water level at this mine that the Union Consolidated company was able to hold considerable ore from the 2,400-foot level and has been paying regular dividends. The district is said to be producing $75,000 a month.

The mines in the Tonopah district, under the stimulus afforded by the high price of silver, are producing about 10,000 tons a week, a slightly higher rate than that reached in 1917. The mills of the Nevada-Packard and Rochester Mines companies at Rochester, were active and the new mill of the Rochester-Combed company was scheduled to start about the middle of the year. The discovery of ore in the Gold Mountain district has started a boom there. Much silver ore is now being shipped from the Candalaria or Bell district, in Mineral county.

Producing Properties

The output of copper from Nevada was more than 110,000,000 pounds in 1917 and will probably be larger in 1918, for the Mason Valley smelter had two furnaces in operation this year and the Nevada Consolidated company was making shipments of bullion equal to those of last year. The Consolidated Copper Mines company made regular shipments, though the mill was closed in January and February. Large shipments of ore were made from the Copper Basin mine, at Battle Mountain, and from the Nevada Douglas, Blue Stone, and Mason Valley mines, at Yerington, but smaller shipments were made from mines at Luning. The output of lead and zinc in Nevada is less than that of the other metals. The monthly shipments from the Yellowpine district, in Clark county, decreased from about 4,000 tons in 1917 to about 2,400 tons in 1918. Many mines were closed in the latter part of 1917 and were not reopened until March, 1918. The shipments of lead ore from the Eureka district decreased in 1918, though an increase was noted in the output of mines in several districts in White Pine county, especially the Ward mine, and large shipment continued from the Trinch Consolidated mine, at Elyche, one of the main producers of lead in Nevada.

FRENCH SUSTAIN RIGHT OF BRITISH ADVANCE

Allen Cross Arms Under Fire—The Infantry Wades and Swims, Climbing a Steep Bank on Enemy Side

By LOWELL MELLETT (United Press Staff Correspondent) WITH THE FRENCH ARMIES IN THE FIELD, August 8 (Night)—One thing apparently revealed by the loss of German positions at some points on the Albert-Monsieur line today was the degree to which the enemy line was stripped to furnish men for the disastrous Marne campaign.

French Protect Right Wing The part played by the French in today's battle was comparatively small, merely sending the right wing of the British advance. They actually started on a front of only four kilometers—two and a half miles—but later this was widened.

At the beginning of the attack the French line was between Bourges and a point west of Mezier, south of the Amiens-Boisjeu road. With the widening of the line it included the whole of the Avoire river as far as Margieon (four miles north of Mezier). Three hours after the French infantry dashed forward it was holding the town northeast of Mezier and the town of Mezier.

Press Across Avoire

In the latter place stiff resistance was encountered, necessitating a flanking movement from the northwest. Four hundred engineers were taken to the aid of the French. They killed the Avoire was crossed between Bures and Satal, a front of about four miles, the infantry wading, swimming and utilizing the new bridges. Because of the steep bank opposite, as well as the standing beyond, this was a difficult feat under German fire, but the police accomplished it, and three bridges across afterward so the artillery could come up. After the fall of the Avoire the Germans fell back rapidly, the French taking Braches, LaNeuville, and the heights north of took Villers-Aux-Erables and carried it in quick succession. Later they threw their line forward to a line running through Mezier and the heights east of Lantreville, including Hill 105, making a total advance of from six to seven kilometers, three and three-quarters to four and a third miles.

CONVENIENT AGREEMENTS

Russia's allies, or rather those of the Bolsheviks would be vastly amused if they were not of such fateful consequence. Particularly does their simple reliance in the world of the Hun war lords carry with it a touch of the humorous, when one reflects upon what the Hun war lords have done for them.

It happens that this information came to light on the same day that Senator Borah declared at Chicago, "The Hohenzollerns never kept a contract which they found expedient to break."

From the day of the violation of Belgium's neutrality, the course of these outlaws has been such that even the most credulous could understand. The House of Huns will not agree to interest to do so, and the moment it ceases to be their interest the contract becomes that of mere scrap of paper.

The only thing that will make Germany keep an agreement will be the kind of a trouncing that she will get presently—together with the disposal of the Jyng war lords who constitute her government.

The Russian presents are going to get another dose from Doctor Bolshevik. They are going to have another lesson in the Bolshevik brand of self government. The last pill they tried, based upon the idea of the brotherhood of man and which was designed to cause the forces of the enemy to lay down their arms, nearly killed the patient. The latest one can hardly do worse.

BRITISH WEDGE

British progress toward Chaulera. If the British drive continues for the next twenty-four hours to be as successful as it has been in the past, the British wedge will certainly be forced to prepare for an important advance in his positions which cannot be concealed from the Germans at home as meaning a severe defeat.

British progress today south of the Somme is extending the front line salient to a depth which has made it already very perilous for Von Hindenburg to delay his evacuation.

Confusion prevails behind the German front and the principal line of communication carrying supplies into Hindenburg's cauldron pocket is now about one-half the size of the former pocket. The smaller the pocket the more difficult it is for the Germans to manœuvre inside.

Field Marshal Haig is bringing to bear on the Germans about Hindenburg the same kind of pressure that Von Hindenburg couldn't resist north of the Marne. At the same time the British are making the pocket deeper and therefore more dangerous by their drive toward the Somme south of Peronne.

A continuation of the British push may even send the Germans back to the southern part of the original Hindenburg line. If that latter desire his retirement much longer.

Poor Forms of Bread.

Early records of the north European peeps, particularly in Scandinavia, show that the poor subsisted partly on bread made of nothing more substantial than ground moss. That this had such slight nutritive value that it was almost worthless as a food. Potato flour bread is also a familiar member of the diet of the poor. The ground potatoes are mixed with rye or wheat the bread is not unpalatable.

Headquarters Company of 146th Artillery Gets Orders to Move Forward

Word under date of July 4 received here Thursday from Lieutenant Jack Thorpe, leader of the band of the One Hundred Forty-Sixth regiment of field artillery, indicates that this unit is in action at a battlefield in France. The band is a part of headquarters company, formerly under command of Captain P. W. McRoberts of Twin Falls, and composed for the most part of Twin Falls men. This unit was formerly D company of the Second Idaho regiment. It has been in training in France since January.

Lieutenant Thorpe says that on the date of his letter his company was ordered to store or dispose of all but the most necessary equipment with a view to being ordered at once to the front. On the night he wrote he says the whole company was permitted to spend the night in enjoyment in a nearby town.

The band, Lieutenant Thorpe says, had recently completed a course of instruction in the use of the wireless telegraph, field telephone and other means of signaling, which it will be called upon to use in action.

STUDENTS ARE ARMY MEMBERS

President Lindley Explains Military Status at State University

(Special to the News)

MOSCOW, Idaho, August 9.—In order to correct an erroneous impression this seems to have gained credence throughout the state to the effect that students entering the University of Idaho lose their military standing, and to inform students that the reverse is the truth, and that they automatically become members of the army by entering the university and accepting special training, President E. H. Lindley has given out the following statement:

Similar to West Point "The secretary of war announces provisions for enlistment in the United States army at the University of Idaho through the student training corps. Students who achieve immediately military status and obtain full military training under the United States army officers while pursuing their studies under conditions similar to those at West Point, except that opportunity for specialization will exist as heretofore.

"Provided satisfactory work is being done students will not be inducted into active service until graduation. This training absolutely necessary to win the war today as well as trained leaders for all important reconstruction of tomorrow.

"The government insistently demands highly trained men as officers, engineers, doctors, chemists, agriculturists, administrators, etc., and has commissioned the University of Idaho to supply at least 250 this year.

Fifth Road to Commencement "Uniforms are furnished to all students taking this special training. Such enlistment therefore constitutes the plainest road leading to an officer's commission. Should congress lower the age of liability to immediate military service men of this age are not already enlisted may find difficulty in entering the service otherwise than through the draft boards.

Keep Up the Good Work. "When you get a sincere reformer," said Uncle Eben, "don't lose interest in him so quick that he feels lonesome and neglected."

JAPAN BELIEVES

might give the allies an opportunity to extend greater support to Russia. Japan has announced, said the foreign minister, that she will respect Russian integrity and will withdraw her forces when the allied aims have been accomplished.

America's Cooperation "We mean to stand by this promise and to make every endeavor to restore the Russian people.

"The world knows the purity of American motives and may be sure of Japan cooperating with the same sincerity.

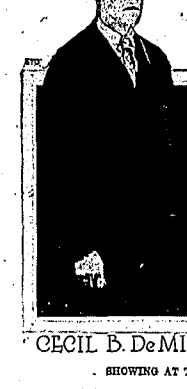

"I do not know how long the expedition will remain in Siberia, I am not a military man, but certainly the cooperation of Japan and the United States will strengthen the unity of the two countries in the prosecution of the war.

Japanese Commander Probable It has not been definitely settled yet who will lead the entire allied force. This is an important matter which must be settled. In all probability the leader will be a Japanese.

I suggested to Baron Goto that an overthrow of the Japanese ministry had just been averted.

"Well, you never can tell what a man is going to do," he said smilingly.

PROBABLE DATE FOR CONTINUING HEARING

Council of Defense Committee to Inquire into Accusation Against C. D. Thomas

Tuesday afternoon next is the probable date for the continuation of the hearing in the district court here before the committee of the state council of defense named to investigate charges preferred in a resolution passed at a meeting here July 16 of members of the Non-Partisan league against individuals of this county who are accused of stating that other citizens are disloyal.

Previous sessions of the committee which is composed of Judge James E. Duthart of Twin Falls, C. A. Sunderland of Burley, and W. S. Albrecht, of Twin Falls, have heard testimony in protest to several of these accusations, and adjournment at the last of these sessions was taken subject to the call of the committee upon the return of C. D. Thomas, since 1904 a resident of Twin Falls and a member of the county council of defense, who is accused by W. E. Hanlon, farmer residing two miles south of this city, of declaring that he knew C. G. Zuck of Kimberly, Non-Partisan candidate for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor, to be pro-German.

Mr. Thomas returned to Twin Falls Tuesday evening after spending about three weeks on a tour through Yellowstone park and on a visit to Wyoming oil fields, where he has interested Judge Bothwell, chairman of the investigating committee, stated this morning that if it were convenient to the other members of the committee the continuation of the hearing to inquire into the charges against Mr. Thomas would be held on Tuesday afternoon next.

GUNNER DEWEY

Albert N. Depew

EX-GUNNER AND CHIEF PETTY OFFICER, U. S. NAVY
MEMBER OF THE FOREIGN LEGION OF FRANCE
CAPTAIN GUN TURRET, FRENCH BATTLESHIP CASSARD
WINNER OF THE CROIX DE GUERRE

Copyright 1918, by Kelly and Stone Co., Through Special Arrangement With the George Hearn Adams Service.

The other four sailors who came up on the bridge did not touch me, but just kept me covered with their revolvers. That was the way with them—they would not touch us unless Badewitz was there or they had bayonets. The old hull himself came up on the bridge after he had beaten up a few men down the around deck a bit and kicked me down from the bridge and slammed me into the coal bunkers. I felt pretty sore, as you can imagine, and disappointed and pretty low generally.

After a while we heard the anchor chains rattling through on their way to get wet, and we pulled up. Then every German link in the Baltic came up to look us over, I guess. They looked up the cargo and the crew, and the Hun parades and gold-stripes came aboard and looked down at us, and spit all they could on us, and called us all the different kinds of swine in creation. They had them around trying to get out from under the hatch openings and the shower of spit, but some Limey officer sang out, "Brit-lers all! Don't give way!" and we stood still and let them spit on us. The German lunge out before we would move for them, and some Cornishmen began singing their song about Treason. So we made out that we did not know such a thing as a German ever lived.

We got better acquainted with German spitting later on, and believe me, they are great little spitters, not much on distance or accuracy, but quick in action and well supplied with ammunition. Spitting on prisoners is the favorite indoor and outdoor sport for Germans, men and women alike.

When the "show" was over, they rousted us up on deck and commenced work throwing the salt pork and cans and into two German nine-year-olds. While we were at it, a German patrol boat came out and tied alongside us, and some of her officers came aboard and saw us. They knew we were prisoners-of-war, and they knew that a vessel carrying prisoners of war must not remain in neutral waters for over twenty-four hours, but that they did not say anything about it.

That night two men named Barney Hill and Joyce, the latter a gunner from the Mount Temple, came up on deck and sat to the poop deck. There was a pair of wooden stairs leading to the top of the poop deck, and Hill and Joyce lit it and got it over the side with a rope. The two of them got down into the water all right, but Joyce let out a yell because the water was so cold, and a German patrol boat heard him and flashed a searchlight. They picked up Joyce right away, but Barney was making good headway and was almost free when they dragged him in. They bent them up on the patrol boat, and when they put them back on the Yarrowdale Badewitz beat them up some more and shot them in front. There he began to put them in their feet with his revolver, and he had a sailor sent to hand him another revolver when the first one was empty. Then he would gaze their faces with the barrel of the revolver and shout, "To Badewitz. I'm the man who fooled the English," and shoot at them some more.

All the while the sailors were celebrating, drinking and eating, and yelling, as usual, and the whistles on all the German ships were blowing, and they were having a great foot. About thirty hours we were being escorted by a minesweeper and a minesweeper. I asked a German guard if that was the whole German navy, and he looked surprised and did not know if he was kidding him, and said no. Then I said, "So the English got all the rest did they?" and he handed me one in the mouth with his bayonet bit, so I quit kidding him.

We got news and news of mines, and the German sailors pointed out what they said were H. M. S. Lion and Nomad, but I do not know whether they were the same ones that were in the Julian battle or not. Finally we reached San Francisco just as the bells were ringing the old year out and the new year in. We were a fine bunch of blackbirds to land the knifer for a New Year's present, believe me. They mustered us on deck, and each of us got a cup of water for our New Year's agree. Then we saw we were in for it, and all hope gone, but we were glad to be released from our hole in the ocean. We were released on the afternoon of December 10—three days on the Moevo and eighteen on the Yarrowdale—and the coal was not any softer than when we first set on it.

A Cup of Water for Our New Year's Dinner.

There were hammocks there and we jumped into them to get warm, but the Germans came down with their revolvers and bayonets and took the hammocks away and poured water on the decks and told us to sleep there. They could not have done a worse trick than that.

Then they put locks on the portholes and told us that anyone caught fiddling with the locks would be shot at once. This was because we might sight a British or French man-of-war at any time and as the Moevo was sailing under the British flag and trying to keep out of trouble they did not want us at the ports signaling our own warning for help. If they had latched any of the allied ships and had a fight we would have died down there like rats.

The Moevo had already captured the Voltaire, Mount Temple, Cambrian Range and the Kinc George and had the crews of these vessels between decks with us. These men told us how the Germans were treating them and it looked to me as though the sailing would be spent in playing games and a pleasant time would be had by all—no.

The crew of the Mount Temple were deck work, when the raider suddenly opened fire on them. Two of three men jumped into the water and the Germans turned a gun on them while they were swimming and killed them. That was just a sample of what had happened to them.

Alfalfa and Grain are Big Money Makers at CAPAY RANCHO

Here's the place for the farmer who is ambitious. From grain crops alone it should be easily possible to completely pay for your land at Capay Rancho in two or three years at the outside.

Experienced, successful farmers from all sections of the Pacific Coast, including the Dakotas, say they never saw such marvelous growth of alfalfa and grain.

The peculiar richness of the soil, the climatic conditions and constant abundance of water combine to make this one of the most remarkable alfalfa producing sections in all California. The yields average from six to ten tons an acre per year.

A good deal of the barley on the ranch will go thirty sacks to the acre this year—without irrigation. Wheat crops are looking splendid. Even volunteer barley, oats and burr clover hay out this year run about two tons to the acre. This hay is bringing now $10 and more per ton and will probably bring more than twice that this fall.

INDIVIDUAL Electrically Operated Pumping Plant

Good Roads

Close to Markets

Rich Land with plenty of water, fine climate and close to Markets, $175 an acre

The way this land has been snapped up by thrifty farmers from older sections of the Pacific Coast is the best evidence of the unusualness of the opportunity that awaits you here.

Some of the finest orange, lemon, almond and prune orchards in the state are in this immediate district. A good many of the farmers are going in for fruit. Some for dairying and some for hogs and chickens. Almost any crops you mention will make money for you here.

It will pay you to look into the proposition; because the price of the land is away below its intrinsic value. But look into it now. There is comparatively little of the land left. If you delay it may be too late. Use the coupon below.

We will be glad to refer you to farmers from your locality who have bought at Capay Rancho

WASHINGTON CITY SIDELIGHTS

Would Do Many and Varied Things With a Million

WASHINGTON—Nothing is more refreshing than a choice bit of idiosyncrasy for the herby quoted proposition: "If somebody gave you a million dollars (this afternoon) would you show up in the morning?"

The answers were what dear Mr. Venus would call "various."

One big youngster, who was keeping up with the Joneses admitted that a sudden million might possibly induce him to phone to the chief for a day off. Another, hobnobbing with a fellow-substantive over the feminine inconsistencies of hens, stepped out of his chicken run long enough to make it distinctly understood that it would take more than any little old measly million to keep him from helping to get the best paper ever out on time—a statement endorsed by experience.

All day Exception had snipped flinches with the retentiveness of that other fete who does business with aliens. And now he was announcing a first lane, hot-caked from the press—which was what the others were doing also, because—confidentially—if your own stuff gets by all right it doesn't matter about the rest of the paper—really.

And, as Exception read, it needed no searchlight daughter of a seventh daughter to diagnose the lines in his face and the good things mentally and humbly they stood for.

For that matter, even the one insignificant side comb in the crowd whose imagination wasn't elastic enough to picture a raise in salary and who didn't know Exception's everyday name could have predicted, without cards or crystal ball, that the big half of any fortune that should ever come his way would go toward the house helping of that universal relative, our brother man—and while she was considering Exception had already gone on record. If he had a million dollars he would buy a bean orchard and board it for soup like his landlady used to make.

Which shows that it is always desirable to be prepared for the best.

CLUB MEMBERS ANNUAL FAIR IS ANNOUNCED

Boy and Girl Vocational Workers to Display Products of Their Vacation Work in Field and Home

SUBSTANTIAL AWARDS OF PRIZES TO BE MADE

Date of Event Is Advanced to Permit of Presence of Leader George E. Donnan—Here on Furlough from Camp

Between $100 and $200 in prizes will be distributed at the annual fair of the vocational clubs of the Twin Falls school district to be held September 10 in the Twin Falls high school building.

In addition Boys' Club Leader Geo. E. Donnan offers a $10 banner to the school with the largest enrollment in vocational clubs to complete their work.

Furloughed to Finish Season

The fair is to be held earlier than usual this year because of the expiration of the furlough on September 10 of Mr. Donnan, who was called into the military service at Camp Funston, Kansas, last month and who has been granted a furlough to return here to continue for a time with the club work.

Miss Edith Crossland of the high school faculty is director of the girls' club work in this district.

At this fair the girls of the canning, sewing and knitting clubs, and boys of the garden and live stock clubs will display the products of their summer's work.

According to Mr. Donnan, the total effort of all club members will contribute largely to our food supply. It is estimated, he declares the country club members do the best work.

Some Achievement Records

Among many similar instances of the summer's work of club members the following are reported:

One girl canned 172 quarts of fruit and vegetables.

One fourteen year old girl knitted two sweaters and two pairs of socks.

Several girls are doing the cooking for their entire families.

The Garford Motor Truck Behind the Farm—Behind the Nation

We must have food to fight. And we must have motor truck transport to get it there. The farmer is the backbone of this war. He must do MORE than ever and with LESS men. Garford Motor Trucks make up for depleted labor supply on the farms.

They are assisting farmers to haul their produce to markets quickly and dependably. They are doing this economically too. They release horses for the plowing and seeding. —And you do not feed them when they are not working.

Farmers are justifying to Garford economy, stamina and power. Do not delay and waste valuable time and money. Decide on Garford. We have one to fit your need. See us today. We will tell you which Garford you need.

DISPLAY WORK FOR SUFFERERS

Local Comfort Forwarding Committee Shows What Has Been Done Here

Garments made for the European war refugees and soldiers by women associated with the local organization of the Comforts Forwarding Committee, with headquarters at Boston, were placed on exhibition Thursday afternoon and evening in rooms on the second floor of the building at 207 1/2 Main avenue east.

The exhibits were inspected by hundreds of people during the day.

Children Have a Part

An interesting feature of the exhibit was a heap of several thousand gimpes made out of scraps of cloth by the children for the use of the men at the battle front.

Garments made from discarded clothing and stockings for the children among the war sufferers in Europe were displayed along one side of the wall, while an exhibit of knitted socks and wristers was prominent on the opposite side of the room.

The making of garments has been taken up only recently by local workers, while the knitting has been going on since early in February. The garments especially bear evidence of industry and care employed in their making. One child's suit is made entirely of pieces of stockings, and is a handsome, serviceable garment.

Not Church Organization

The Comforts Forwarding Committee is not properly a war activity of the Christian Science church, although its work here has been taken up very largely by members of that organization, in addition to their response to the demands of the Red Cross and of the war relief activities carried on by the church.

Lynn C. Ulm, Formerly Local Real Estate Dealer, Is Wounded in France

Lynn C. Ulm, formerly associated here with J. H. Murchison in a real estate and loans business and now a member of the American expeditionary forces in France, was wounded in the Red Cross. He expects to be fit for duty again within a short time.

Private Ulm, just before being ordered back into the trenches where he received his wound, had received a pass giving him permission to spend the Fourth of July in Paris.

Private Ulm enlisted in Twin Falls in October in the army quartermaster corps.

Must Prove Birth Date—Mead D. Hoskins, 330 Sixth avenue east, who applied for enlistment Thursday as a chauffeur in the army quartermaster corps, with the expectation of leaving that evening to complete his enlistment at Salt Lake, is detained, however, awaiting the receipt of an affidavit from his grandmother in Idaho showing that he is under the draft age. The local United States army recruiting station is under orders to forward no recruits under the age of 21 years without documentary evidence as to their birth dates.

HACKMAN IS OUT OF JUDICIAL RACE

Local Attorney Gives Views on Eligibility But Declines Nominations

Setting forth reasons for his decision not to accept the nomination for judge of the Fourth Judicial district, filed for him by S. P. Abertson, a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, and explaining his views on his eligibility for the office in question, Turner E. Hackman, lawyer, of Twin Falls, this morning gave the following statement:

I desire to extend my sincere thanks to those who have requested me to become a candidate for one of the judgeships of the Fourth Judicial district of this state.

Once One in Point

It is said that I am not "eligible" for this office, because of the provision in Article 5, Section 23 of the constitution, which provides that a person shall not be "eligible" to said office unless he has resided in the state two years before the election. This contention does not seem to be correct for the reason that a similar provision in the laws of this state concerning the "eligibility" of a superintendent of schools was brought in question in the case of Bradford W. Avery, decided in 1909, and reported in 16th Idaho reports, beginning at page 700. The supreme court in passing upon said question held that the word "eligible" applied to the capacity or qualification of the person to hold the office; that the statute did not read "eligible to be elected to the office"; that, therefore, the person is capable of being elected to such office while under disqualification, provided such disqualification was removed before the term of office to which he was elected began.

Claims Qualification

Therefore, the fact that I would be disqualified in November would not affect me; and as in the great I were

THE COUNTY WOMAN'S CLUB REST ON THURSDAY AFTERNOON WITH MRS. J. E. WHITE AT WHITE HAVEN. FOLLOWING A LUNCHEON IN FIRST AID THE AFTERNOON WAS SPENT KNITTING. FOURTEEN MEMBERS WERE PRESENT.

Miss Irene Visser was guest of honor at a delightful farrowed dinner given by a number of her friends at the Rogerson hotel last Saturday evening.

A wicker basket of pink jouspille, topped by a large tulip bow, formed the centerpiece of the table, while the placé cards carried out the same pretty-color scheme.

The friends who were present to wish Miss Visser Godspeed were the Misses Edna Beachamp, Ruth Glasgow, Madelon Potter, Fern Emma, Florence Hill, Cora Hartgraves, Sybil Hertz, Helen Sherman, Emily Wall, and the Mesdames Willard McMaster and Melvin Pettit.

Miss Visser left Monday morning for Washington, D. C., where she will take up her duties as department clerk in the employ of the government.

Miss Clara Johnson entertained delightfully at a lawn party at her home east of town Tuesday evening in honor of Ralph and Walter Smith, who left for Camp Fremont Wednesday. The feature of the evening was a huge hot fire and aerial race. Fifteen young people enjoyed the affair.

I could not take office until January 8, 1919, the question raised has no force.

However, if there are those who would raise such a question, I would not think of becoming a candidate, especially for a judicial office, where any possible question would depend upon judicial construction of it in any other way than upon a broad, open, indisputable manner. I, therefore, decline to accept the nomination.
