PUSH KERENSKY AS NEW LEADER OF ALL-RUSSIA

Hero of Russian Revolution Being Groomed by Friends to Lead Russia Out of Political Chaos

KERENSKY ABOUT TO LEAVE FOR ARCHANGEL

Regime of Lunine and Trotsky Appears to Be Nearing End—Their Fall Not Necessarily End of Bolshevism

WASHINGTON, August 13.—Kerensky, one time hero of the Russian revolution, is being groomed as the possible leader to drive out the Bolsheviks and re-establish his country, it was indicated today. It is almost to go to Archangel, it is reported authoritatively, to throw his weight with the new government of the northern province. Observers in some quarters expect an attempt to extend this government under Kerensky's leadership in Russia.

Stable Government Sought

Coming at the time when Lunine appears about to totter fatally and along with reports that Kerensky plans to go to Archangel, the public opinion here hope that at least a stable government in Russia is in sight. Some of Kerensky's friends are members of this new government, it is reported, and it is along the conservative democratic lines which Kerensky himself tried to carry out under the constitutional assembly.

Leaders Unknown

Just who is chief leader in the new Archangel government is not yet clear, but M. Zuboff, assistant mayor of the city of Volgograd, and one of the signers of the new government proclamation, has been mentioned before to be a strong man.

Whether the growing strength of the new party has forced Trotsky and Lunine, Bolshevik leaders, to flee, as reported, is not known here. But even if they have fled, it is considered unimportant as regards the future of the Bolshevik movement. There is a strong opposition in official circles that these two are not really the leaders of the Bolshevik at all, although they have continued to pose as such leaders their only real function for some time has been that of German agents.

Their departure would not kill, or even seriously disorganize, the Bolshevik officials here think.

RIBECOURT MENACED BY ALLIED FLANKS

Allies Advance Steadily Over Twenty-Mile Front—New German Lines on Somme May Be Turned Before Enemy Can Fully Establish It

AMERICAN TROOPS FACE MOST DIFFICULT TERRAIN OF DRIVE

LONDON, August 13.—(4:20 p. m.)—The evacuation of Roye is expected within 48 hours, according to information received here this afternoon. The allies since the start of their offensive have gained between nine and ten miles, on a forty-mile front.

The French, today made important gains over a front of nearly twenty miles, extending from the center of the battle front, near Roye, to the extreme right wing, southeast of Ribecourt. Roye, Lassigny and Ribecourt are all threatened by flanking operations as the result of this progress.

Roye is menaced from the west and south, while Lassigny is in danger from the northwest and southeast. Ribecourt is slowly being encircled.

The communications eastward from Roye are under artillery fire.

After capturing Les Loges wood, the important defensive point between Roye and Lassigny, the French progressed and took the wood to the eastward.

French troops have captured Lassigny and Ribecourt, and have gained ground north of St. Claude farm.

The Germans, as the result of French pressure, are evacuating the southern defense line.

The enemy retired from their trenches on a front of nearly three miles, extending from the Oise at a point about a mile southwest of Ribecourt to a point west of Lassigny, in the southeast of Ribecourt. The French occupied the deserted position.

Reports from the battle front this afternoon indicated that the new German line on the Somme may be turned from the west before the enemy can fully establish it.

Move From Peronne

That the Germans are already taking up their positions on the east bank of the historic river, south of Peronne, is shown in dispatches detailing the crowded condition of the roads leading across the river were filled with enemy troops hurrying eastward. The Germans are also reported to be removing supplies from Peronne.

Meanwhile the attack launched by the French today between the Avre and the Oise is reported to be progressing favorably at several points, notably in the Oise valley, where Ribecourt is being encircled from the southeast.

In the event, the authors and of the French attack, the bending of the German line there, will endanger the whole projected axis Somme line.

Even Roye northward to Albert there apparently is little fighting. At it is possible that Foch and Haig may have reduced their pressure in that sector, purposely in order that the Germans will be so far from the Somme as possible, in the event, the authors and of the Somme defenses is flanked.

Advances Continue

Despite German resistance in Picardy, the allies last night pushed forward slightly on the left wing and in the center, improving their positions on the north bank of the Somme and north of the Roze road.

America, troops, who are cooperating with the British north of the Somme now face the most difficult terrain on the whole present battle front, being confronted by the twists and turns

SQUEEZE MOVES FORCE HUNS TO PLAN RETREAT

Foch Shies General Offensive as Being Too Costly—Can Back Up Enemy Without Heavy Loss of Life

(By J. W. T. MASON (United Press Staff Reporter))

NEW YORK, August 13.—The allies advance is slowing down, in conformity with Marshal Foch's settled policy of not making the lives of his troops who are working so powerfully on the side of the allies.

In substitution for direct assaults with their heavy casualties to the attacking troops, Marshal Foch is again reverting to his squeeze plays. Foch is at strategic points, in now the dominant feature plan, now being followed at Foch's headquarters.

The Germans must eventually fall back to the old Hindenburg line and beyond the Chemin des Dames, with and Marshal Foch is showing that he will not force, this retirement, without any given number of days.

Enemy's Counterattacks

Neither the Marne attack, or the present drive in Picardy constitutes a major offensive. Marshal Foch is leading a firm veto in each sector of operations.

Increasing activity in the Flanders region and around Arras was reported. An enemy attack was repulsed near Morris, while prisoners were taken in patrol operations near Vieux-Berquin and south of the Roze river.

The Germans are withdrawing additional troops from the battle line.

Extension of the flanks is known to have greatly aided in exhausting their reserves. There are now thirty-three enemy divisions (probably 390,000 men) on the battle front.

On the Aisne-Vesle front, French and American troops by strong counter attacks regained positions they had lost temporarily near Pismette.

The French have now almost reached the crest of the Lesauze heights. A few Germans remained on the highest point.

Holds Casualties Down

But in the meantime, whenever Von Hindenburg commits gross errors of strategy, Marshal Foch is prepared to take full advantage of these mistakes.

Thus the allies' casualties will be kept down for the great drive to the Rhine, but meanwhile German morale will be subjected to steady deterioration.

WASHINGTON, August 13.—President Wilson today was formally petitioned by representatives of labor power as commander-in-chief of the army to take Thomas J. Mooney from control of the California state courts and see that he gets a new trial.

A memorial was left at the White house, and the president, it was understood, will reply to the appeal within a few days.

Mooney is now under sentence to die for participating in the paradisaic day-bomb outrage. The president has made repeated efforts to secure a new trial for him, thus far without avail.

OHIO PRIMARY FIGHT ON DEMOCRATIC STATE OFFICERS UNOPOSED EXCEPT SUPREME COURT JUSTICE

COLUMBUS, Ohio, August 13.—Ohio's primaries are on today. Present democratic state officers, including Governor Cox are unopposed for re-nomination, except that Justice Oscar Newman, Portsmouth, is one of three candidates for two places on the supreme court ticket.

Fourty fights are presented for Republican nominations. Former Governor Frank H. Willis wants to "come back" and win the Republican nomination for governor. He has two opponents—Edwin Jones of Jackson, his former campaign manager, and "Jack" Arnold of Columbus, his former lieutenant governor.

There are eight Republican candidates for lieutenant governor, five for secretary of state, one for state treasurer, and five for judges of the supreme court. There are altogether 72 Republicans and Democratic candidates for Ohio's twenty-two seats in congress.

LASSIGNY MAY FALL TODAY

Will Force Huns Back Five to Ten Miles

LONDON, August 13 (4:30 p. m.)—The fall of Lassigny, expected hourly, probably will force the Germans to retreat to the Somme canal line—an additional retirement of five to ten miles all along the front—according to information received here this afternoon.

The Somme bridge at Peronne has been smashed, cutting off the enemy's supplies from that direction and hindering the retreat.

QUEER ANTICS OF TORPEDO PUZZLE MANY OFFICIALS

Misses Steamer But Boomerangs and Sinks Boat—Believed that It May Have Been Electrically Guided

AN ATLANTIC PORT, August 13.—Captain George Hanson of the steamer Somersdahl, sunk by a submarine off Fire Island, declared today that he believed the queer antics of the torpedo before it struck its mark were due to its hitting something in the water, which deflected it from its course. He asserted that the torpedo, after missing Fire Island, deviated, came back and struck his vessel. It was suggested that the torpedo might have been controlled by wireless.

The "boom-boom" of the torpedo responsible for the sinking of the Somersdahl was attributed by many officials to a jammed rudder. It was pointed out that if the rudder did not function properly a torpedo might very easily swerve in its course and completely miss its mark. Also some reports added that imperfect gyroscopic mechanism has been known to cause a torpedo to turn about in its course. The thought advanced that possibly the Germans had perfected means of controlling a torpedo's course by wireless was believed unlikely, though possible.

The navy department issued the following statement on the sinking of the Somersdahl.

"The navy department is informed that the Norwegian steamer Somersdahl, was sunk at 11:15 a. m. yesterday, August 12, twenty-five miles southeast by east from Fire Island. The captain and thirty members of the crew were

Americans Make Thrust North of Fismette—Unable to Maintain Positions in Face of Machine Gun Fire

THIRTY MACHINE GUNS TAKEN FROM GERMANS

Gather in Supply of Hun Am- munition—Return it to Huns Through Captured Guns, Then Go After More

By FRANK J. TAYLOR
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMBIES
IN FRANCE, August 12 (Night).—The Americans continue to harass the Germans north of the Vesle, varying heavy artillery bombardments with light machine gun fire. The enemy line. There was some infantry fighting on the right wing of the American sector last night, but this morning they were practically unaltered, except for a German fort which failed to develop into an attack. The doughboys attempted to storm the German positions on the heights north of the river last night, but could not maintain their gains on account of the heavy machine gun fire. This was the "attack" of the day, the Americans going over the top from hastily dug trenches in the morning. Advancing north of Fismette they drove the Boches from a wood, capturing machine guns which they turned on the fleeing enemy. The Germans later counter-attacked and drove the Americans from the wood.

Yesterday the Americans captured thirty machine guns from a German machine gun company. They brought them back and used them against the Germans until they ran out of ammunition. Then they dispatched a detachment of infantry to gather in some German machine guns scattered from the wood. They now have sufficient to keep the Hun going until they capture a new supply.

The German positions are still held by French troops, many machine gun companies they represent much had to hand fighting.

REVOLUTION IN GERMANY DECLARED IMPROBABLE

Workers in Munition Factories Get Big Wages and Can Buy Insurances

MONTREAL, N. J., August 12.—A revolution in Germany is highly probable in the opinion today of Miss Frances McAvoy, who has just returned to America after several years in Germany.

Miss McAvoy left Dresden March 25, when the first Hun tank drive was at its height. The people were jubilant, she said. Although they got scant food and wear paper clothes, the Germans still think they are fighting a war of defense. Miss McAvoy declared that the workmen, who used to be poor, now draw big pay in munition works and purchase delicacies the aristocracy cannot afford to touch.

STRIKE COMPLETELY TIES UP URUGUAY

Public Amused at Power of Workmen to Suspend All Business

MONTVIDEO, Uruguay, August 12.—All business is completely paralyzed as the result of a general strike. Several persons have been killed in clashes between strikers and the police.

The government appears helpless while the public is stupefied by the extent of the strikers' power. Windows are shattered. Railways and light companies are idle, newspapers are not appearing. Troops and police are bivouacked in the streets.

WANT ACTION ON NEW DRAFT BILL MONDAY

Provision to Prevent Strikes May Be Incorporated in New Measure—Draft Ages to Stand at 18 to 45

WASHINGTON, August 12.—A week or eight amendment destined to prevent war-time strikes and too much leading on the job was considered by the senate military committee today when work on the new man-power bill was resumed. The committee expected to complete its labors today, "in any event the bill will be ready for presentation" when the senate meets Thursday. At that time an attempt will be made to call senators back for a regular session Monday for consideration of the bill. The draft ages of 18 to 45 will stand so far as the committee is concerned. A fight may develop on the floor. Even there it is believed the frank statements of General Crowder and General March have done much to allay objection to drafting men under 21.

Devil and the Deep Sea.

The source of this expressive but rather cryptic proverb is not easily determined. It is usually held to have some connection with the miracle of the casting out of devils at Cadara and the rushing of the possessed eagle into the waters. In Clark's Franciscologia, published in 1832, it is quoted as "Between the devil and the Deep Sea."

The meaning, of course, is that there is a choice only between two terrible alternatives, and the situation may be to some long-forgotten incident of legend or fiction.

Lighthouse Attacked with Gas in Effort to Accomplish Something Unusual—To Fit Tenders with Gas Masks

WASHINGTON, August 13.—German U-boats now appear to be operating all along the Atlantic coast.

From New England to the Carolinas, the sea savengers are exacting their toll of fishing smacks and other small vessels and have even gassed a light house.

The navy department today added another victim in the Norwegian steamer Svanstad torpedoed off Fire Island yesterday morning.

The navy is taking all measures to meet the spectacular terrorist efforts of German U-boat commanders. Thus far, however, there is no direct evidence that any of the enemy submarines have been sunk. There is some cause to believe that a destroyer, which had a brush with one of them, disposed of it.

Secretary Daniels stated today that all possible precautions have been taken to protect coast stations from further gas attacks by German submarines. Asked whether gas masks had been issued, Daniels said, "Oh yes, we are issuing all these things."

The Svanstad, it was later revealed, was sunk only 25 miles off Fire Island.

FREIGHT RATES BEING FOUGHT

Northwestern States Allege Discrimination Against Fruit Growers

WASHINGTON, August 13.—Increased freight rates and express rates were under fire for the first time since they were inaugurated on June 25. The Public Service commission of Washington, Oregon and Idaho, filed complaints against the railroad administration and twenty-six lines of express carriers, asking a readjustment of differential rates on fruits, berries and vegetables.

The complaint also was filed against the American railway express company, asking a readjustment of the present express rates.

Thousands of fruit and vegetable producers are suffering losses as a result of the increased rates, the complaint states. It explains that the express and freight rates have displaced the western fruit and vegetable producers in the market out of the Mississippi river. They have been forced to market their products cheaper than formerly in order to compete with other fruit and vegetable producing territories, according to the complaint.

Eleven were killed and more than 500 hurt by the constabulary. Hence the name Peterloo was made from the name of the field in fancied resemblance to that of Waterloo.

Fairy Godmother

Mollie raised her face from the gray-colored book to look at the child. Eagerly the young-old eyes regarded her. HINDENBURG CONFRONTED BY PUZZLES

Cannot Maintain Present Lines of Battle and Cannot Afford to Retreat—Initiative Also in Hands of Allies

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS
United Press Staff Correspondent

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, August 12.—Von Hindenburg and his staff are facing a new puzzle. Can he maintain himself on his present lines or will he be forced to beat an unadvised retreat along the lines over which the French and British pushed him in 1917, and can he hope ever to resume the offensive again, or must he from now on act purely on the defensive?

Present Hard Problem
Foch and Haig, by the battle of Amiens, plainly have given him a hard nut to crack. Prisoners just taken dejectedly admit the Germans will be unable to retreat farther in their present positions. They declare the battle of the Marne had a demoralizing effect on the whole army, while the entrance of the Americans "is regarded with dismay."

Haig's new blow has greatly added to this depression. The feeling is gradually spreading that Germany has finished her course. But Germany is not finished and undoubtedly will put up a stubborn fight for some time to come. Nobody here even intimates the war is over. Von Hindenburg, however, is clearly facing the probability of purely defensive warfare.

Shorten Lines
The fifth month of the present fighting season was nearly and when Haig struck Thursday, German divisions in reserve on the whole west front were very low. It should calculate there were not over thirty or probably 400,000 men. Since Thursday some ten of these have been identified. Yet as a result of Von Hindenburg's half successful blow two large salient remains to hold. The cost of holding them is huge, as the allied guns pound ceaselessly day and night, just as they pounded the old Somme lines, which became untenable. Owing to heavy losses which are decimating their army, the Germans may find it necessary not only to remain on the defensive, but to shorten their lines in order to maintain a sufficient number of reserves to hold even this.

Ural district has decided to abolish Bolshevik rule. A revolution has broken out in Kazan and M. Olshanski, the Bolshevik leader, has been shot while in Saratoff 33 townships have declared against the Bolsheviks. In Ryazan and Novgorod revolutionary elements are reported to be slaughtering Bolsheviks.

ITALIANS PUSH FORWARD

Entire Austrian Garrison Captured or Killed, Rome Reports

ROME, August 13.—Capture, or killing of an entire garrison of an advanced post in the upper Zehra valley was announced by the war office today.

"In the Lagarina-Valturna sector, in the Pontè Della Privila area, there was intense artillery firing."

HOBO KING WOULD PUT HIS TRIBE TO WORK

Says Will Visit General Crowder and Offer Suggestions

WASHINGTON, August 13.—Jeff Davis, "hobo king," blow into town today to interest General Crowder in work for the country's "bums."

"You see," said Jeff, "the difference between the hobo, tramp and bum is that the first can and does work, the second can and will work if he has to, and the third won't work."

"Now, 50,000 hobos are working for their country today. They've gone out of our ranks into the army and navy. This work or fight law will keep a majority of the tramps, but the bum—the old bird who frequents the barrel house and saloons, a drag on society—we've got to get him."

"I'm going to see General Crowder and try to get him interested in having these bums put to work pooling power and doing jobs around cantonments. I say, free the soldiers from this stuff and let the bums do it."

rescued and have reached port. There were no casualties.

"Captain Inness reports that he saw the wreck of a torpedo; the engine was reversed, avoiding the torpedo, which was seen to go under the bow of the vessel. The ship was drawing only seven feet of water, and the torpedo continued on its course."

"The captain ordered full speed ahead. The torpedo, he states, turned sharply to the left and returned, hitting the vessel between the third and fourth holds, on the port side. In five minutes after being struck the whole crew and passengers were in the water. The ship, they say, was standing directly up and down with the bow in the water about 14 feet, being visible."

"The captain and his thirty men got into two boats and made for Smoky Hook. They were sighted by a anti-marine chaser at 6:35 a. m. and rescued. Four members of the crew reported that they saw a periscope sticking about six feet out of the water and moving very rapidly. The torpedo, they estimated, was about twelve feet long."

"That the Hun gas attack on the South Carolina coast may be followed by other similar attacks was the belief of navy men today. According to reports made to the department on the attack on the lighthouse, the gas was effective thirty-five or forty minutes. Its color has not yet been ascertained nor its effect on trees and shrubbery but a full report of the attack has been asked by the navy department."

COMBINE OWNERS OF CANYON ORGANIZE

E. E. Heston, Formerly of Twin Falls, Is Elected Secretary of Association at Wilder

E. E. Heston, formerly of Twin Falls, was elected secretary of the Canyon County Combine Owners' association which was organized July 31 at Wilder, Idaho. L. Heston was named as president.

The purpose of the organization is to study the methods of successfully following the combines and to solve problems that arise in connection with their operation. It was agreed that the minimum price per acre for custom work should be $5. The charge above this would vary according to the field, the price to be decided upon by the farmer and the combine owner. H. F. Hartschower, threshing inspector, was present and made valuable suggestions among which was one for drying the grain that had been threshed too early. It was suggested that dry cedar posts be put into the ground; this method being more satisfactory than that of staking in sacks.

He held Monday afternoon before United States Commissioner C. C. Higgins in the probate court rooms here.

Attorney in Office
District Attorney J. H. McClellan of Boise conducted the investigation for the government. George was represented by W. P. Guthrie, while Morton on several days for said, and was accompanied by Turner K. Heckman, who explained to the commissioner that he had been consulted by Morton and was there to see if he needed legal assistance.

The charges against George and Morton were made by E. L. MacVicar, secretary of the Twin Falls county county of defense, and were filed subsequent to investigations made into the cases by that organization.

Return of Charges
George is charged with attempting to obstruct the sale by the United States of United States securities, while Morton is accused of expressing the opinion that this is a rich man's war and that the cost of it should be borne by those who are benefited. It was also charged that he declared he would soon buy under the rule of the Kaiser as under that of President Wilson. Both George and Morton were arrested some weeks ago upon presidential warrants by United States Deputy Marshal.

W. B. R. Committee Testifies
The testimony against George at the hearing before the commission Monday was offered by members of a War Savings Stamp committee which solicited his subscription on June 28, and Mrs. H. B. Larson, a former employe in the George home, who is named in the complaint as the person whom George attempted to dissuade from purchasing War Savings Stamps.

George declared in his statement before the commission that he had invested in Liberty Loan bonds and that when solicited by the committee after some argument, he had agreed to buy War Savings Stamps provided the arrangement was with the approval of his wife. Mrs. George, he said, did not endorse the proposition, and the date became so acrimonious to the date that he decided to need to the claims of the committee. "If the argument had gone a little stronger," he said, "I might have invested in War Savings Stamps."

He said that the statements of the committee were all abusive but that the argument waxed "very strong."

No Intention to Dissuade
George stated that it had not been his purpose to dissuade Mrs. Larson from investing in War Savings Stamps. "I simply stated to the committee that I did not believe Mrs. Larson could meet her obligation financially," he stated.

"Mrs. Larson took exception to my statement to the committee and asked by what right I questioned her honesty. I did not discharge Mrs. Larson, but told her that if she was dissatisfied her check would be ready for her at any time. She renounced in my employ for nearly a year after that time."

The testimony of the witnesses for the government did not vary materially from the statement of George.

Says Course Is Clear
At the conclusion of the testimony, Mr. McClellan, arguing that the statements of George to the effect that Mrs. Larson might not pay her note, constituted a violation of the provision of the espionage act under which the charge was brought, declared that the only course open to the commissioner was to hold the defendant to the action of the grand jury.

Mr. Guthrie argued for dismissal of the case on the grounds that the statements made by George were made by Mrs. Larson had signed her agreement to buy War Savings Stamps. He offered no further argument after Mr. McClellan advanced the argument that the transaction was not completed when Mrs. Larson signed the application for investment in War Savings Stamps.

Attorney Explains Position
Mr. Guthrie explained his appearance as attorney for George, stating that he would not represent any pro-German or any individual of pro-German inclination. He had been attorney for George for several years for said, and was convinced in this case that George, who was financing his farming operations on borrowed money, was not guilty of deliberate intention to obstruct the war program. "We are all committed to the policy of winning the war. It is not desirable to unreasonably obstruct the progress of the war as it would be obstructed if George were incarcerated," he declared.

Has Changed His Mind
Admitting practically all of the statements of witnesses for the government in his case, Morton, in his statement before the commission Monday, declared that they were mistaken as to his views and that, besides, he had, within the past six or seven months, altered his ideas regarding the war.

Morton has been a resident of Twin Falls for several years, and has been employed at various work. He recently became the distributor in this state of an automobile carburetor, one of which appliances he stated, he had donated on July 4 to be sold for the benefit of the Red Cross. His family consists of himself, his wife and four year old son.

The witnesses for the government in the case of Morton were William Berkeley, J. B. Johnson and Pinto Frazzelle, all of whom testified that on various occasions in Twin Falls Morton had made remarks to them which they considered defamatory.

Would Have Wilson Pay
Berkeley testified that Morton had said to him about June 28, that he did not intend to buy Liberty Loan Bonds; that the government or President Wilson ought to pay for the war; that the government was rotten and that a change would not hurt it.

Morton, in reply, asserted that Berkeley had misquoted him and that what he had intended to say was that conditions relative to the price of wheat substitutes and of profiting were rotten.

Johnson testified that Morton had said to him in March or April, that this was a rich man's war and that the rich men ought to fight it only that money gave the United States false warning and that if he had made our own business we would not have drawn into the war.

Frazzelle testified that late in June Morton had said to him that war is murder and that those engaged in it are murderers; that he would not assist the war because it was murder, and that if the matter had been left to a vote of the people there would have been no war.

Didn't Walk For Jobs
Morton declared that his remarks to Frazzelle had been made in joking vein and that Frazzelle had left without giving him opportunity to express his true sentiments. "I have nothing against the war and I am doing all that I can to assist in winning the war," Morton said.

In advising that disposition in the case of Morton be left to the decision of the commissioner, Mr. McClellan said: "Whatever dissatisfaction one may feel in regard to the war, it is not the time now to talk about it. With the daily casualty coming in, it is not a great deal better to say nothing if nothing can be said in favor of the war, than to criticize it in any way."

Father At It
The proprietor of a Cleveland meat market sold a nickel's worth of dog meat to a small boy, and was told the next day by the boy that the meat was not good, and that his father couldn't eat it. The butcher is now wondering who eats the meat he sells for dogs.

ually has frustrated the schemes of Germany. There will be no Skoropadsky government in Moscow. The constituent assembly, composed of an overwhelming majority of social-revolutionists and socialists of the Menshevik group, are coming back into power.

Annul Treaty
Their first act will be an announcement to the world that the shamofar Brest-Litovsk treaty is no longer correct; that the revolutionary democracy of Russia does not recognize it. An open invitation to the allied governments to send an army into Russia to help reorganize her military forces for a renewed fight on Germany will follow.

The constituent assembly and the party of the Social Revolutionists have already expressed themselves in no ambiguous terms on the matter. They are now waiting and working unceasingly to get their constituents to make their action an official call to the allied governments in the name of the whole people of Russia.

Trusts Americans
The United States is the country most trusted of all the allies in Russia. American help is eagerly awaited. It is the only help that will be given. Bolshevikism is dead. It is bankrupt. It cut its own throat when it signed the Brest-Litovsk peace treaty and when it broke not so much with the bourgeoisie as with the revolutionary democracy of Russia. There may be union and cooperation between the bourgeoisie and the bankrupt Bolshevik. There can never be any cooperation between the latter and the revolutionary democracy. And that means the vast majority of the people of Russia.

Anti-German Feeling Began
There is more anti-German feeling today than there ever was. The representative of Count Mirbach, the minister of German Imperialism in Russia, was as symbolic as the downfall of the brief assay of Germany over Russia as was the assassination of Von Fliedner, the inevitable downfall of czarism.

Russia is coming back into the war. She is coming back to fight for the establishment of a reunited independent republic of Russia, and the democracy of the world may prepare to welcome her back into the fight.

Ukrainian Situation Causes Huns Anxiety

WASHINGTON, August 13.—Ukrainian peasants are showing growing bitterness toward the German occupation department advisers said today. German soldiers move around the country only in large squads. Otherwise they are attacked. Armed peasants who capture them torture them and bury some alive, according to the department's informant.

The informant, who is not an official, added that the Germans will not succeed in getting food from Ukraine or organizing its people for the army. German troops have been increased there because of the unrest and now number between 400,000 and 500,000 men.

The Germans have succeeded in drawing out great sums of hoarded money by opening the banks and making no charge for handling new accounts. This has relieved the shortage in bank notes.

The same informant states that at Petrograd he saw a group loaded with 100 men of the educated class who were being taken to Kronstadt. By whom or for what reason he did not know.

JURY HULDS SUICIDE AT BERGER ACCIDENTAL.

Self-inflicted Bullet Wound Causes
 Death of W. L. Puckett, Says Verdict

Accidental suicide is the verdict returned by a jury empaneled Monday by Colonel O. J. Crosby to inquire into the cause of the death of W. L. Puckett, a former farmer residing in the vicinity of Shoshone, who was found dead at about 5 o'clock Monday morning dead at the home of his brother-in-law, Philip C. Hills, one mile west of Berger, with a bullet wound from a
 .25-30 caliber rifle through his forehead.

Take Action into Consideration

Evidence at the inquest brought out the facts that Puckett, who had slept
 Sunday night in a room in the Hills home which opened off the kitchen, had arisen a few moments before the fatal shot was fired to let a dog sleeping there out of the room, and that he had taken the gun from a closet which was filled with clothing and other articles which might have caught the trigger as he picked it up. Witness declared that Puckett had not evidenced indication of melancholia, and it was pointed out that none of his actions Monday morning indicated suicidal intention on his part.

The remains have been brought to the Crosby undertaking establishment here.

Lost Father and Wife in Accident

Puckett sustained fracture of his leg and jawbone in an automobile accident on Shoshone falls grade on November 6, 1917, in which his father, William
 T. Puckett, and wife, Mrs. Clara Hills Puckett, were killed. The father was the driver of the car when the accident occurred hurling the machine and his occupants over the grade.

Puckett is survived by two brothers and five sisters. The brothers are
 E. E. Puckett of Wendall and Robert E. Puckett, with whom he had been farming last year near Shoshone. The sisters are Mrs. Gus Wisnack, Mrs.
 Carlos Bladen, Mrs. C. P. Hills and
 Mrs. Gertrude Trout, all of Twin Falls, and Mrs. J. O. Fisher of Colrado.

Lieutenant T. E. Schwarz of Twin Falls, in France, Would Take Pro-German for Close Range Examination

DESCRIBES EXPERIENCES IN AIR RAID AT PARIS

Pays Tribute to Splendid War Accomplishments of French Women and Red Cross in Letter to Sons

"If there is a pacifist or a pro-German in the United States that still retains one grain of respect for Germany I recommend that you cover here and examine the Hun in close range," says Lieutenant T. E. Schwarz of Twin Falls, with the army medical department in France, in comment upon an air raid over Paris which he describes in a letter to his sons. Following is Lieutenant Schwarz's letter: Training School for Sanitary Troops, A. P. O. 727, July 3, 1918.

My dear boys: On June 25th the division surgeon called me up and told me that he had selected me to attend a meeting of the Red Cross Research society, to be held at Paris. This sure was good news to me as a complete surprise. Ever since I have been in France I wanted to see Paris. You know last January I passed through the town, but it was night and I could not see a thing. So now my long-looked-for trip was possible.

I arrived at 7 o'clock Tuesday morning, after being up all night in one of those stuffy and uncomfortable French trains. Of course the first morning was spent in shipping and unloading and handling of supplies. I thought my part of Paris was the place to see things systematically. The first full moon of the month was at 11 o'clock, and with it arrived a flock of German bombing planes. So I got out warm receipts. And they repeated their nightly visits every night that I was in Paris. I was in that Wednesday night raid that the papers talked so much about. You know how news articles that "the Germans are coming!" all the alarm in town blow. Go, but it was a weird sound! Everybody is supposed to go to an "abri" or shelter. I stayed on the streets to see the sights. As the airplane approach all the anti-aircraft guns went up and form a thick barrage of exploding shells. This has been so systematically arranged that it is next to impossible for the Germans to get through. But you know it is always the impossible that happens. If they get through, then the next sound heard is a loud whining noise, caused by a sort of a flywheel on the descending bomb. This keeps the bomb upright so that it strikes on its nose. Then the shock and explosion of the bomb. Window glass just rains down. Buildings shake and the earth trembles. Then another bomb will another. One dropped about a block from where I was standing. It hit a four-story building and just collapsed the whole thing.

People afraid Are the people afraid? No—positively not! If the Germans think that they are gaining anything by their foolish bombardment they are very much mistaken. It is of no military gain, and every raid simply makes docent civilized people feel a disgust for such barbarous Hun. In the Wednesday night raid that I described, ten people were killed and 11 wounded. If they could figure the cost of their shells and bombs they could buy all the buildings they destroy. And the women and children they cripple only makes the world more determined to put down such barbarians where they belong. "The German is naturally cruel and civilization has rendered him ferocious." That a nation could stoop so low is more than I can understand.

When the raid is over the merry "theatrical" comes to the fore: carrying French bugles, traveling rapidly up and down the streets, blowing the bugle that announces that civilization has again been violated and that the vandals have returned to the trenches. These church bells ring out and it sounds just like "Sunday morning." If there is a pacifist or pro-German in the U. S. A. that still retains one grain of respect for Germany, I recommend that he come over here and examine the Hun at close range.

Visits Hospitals But there are far more beautiful things to see in Paris. The wonderful buildings, statues and paintings make Paris a fascinating city. And the French people reflect their beautiful surroundings in their daily life. Thursday I met a very delightful woman who is at the head of the Red Cross work in Paris. She speaks English fluently and is a woman for whom I have a great respect. She took me with her on her rounds of mercy to the various military hospitals. She has a smile, a word of encouragement and a gift for every one of the wounded. She knew them all by name and visited them every day. Doing little errands for them, bringing messages to them. In a pocket of her cape she carried cigarettes. These were distributed right and left.

Then we went to the Grand Palais. This is a big exposition building, but now being used as a hospital. Here they teach the crippled war trades. Carpenter work, book-binding, saddlery, etc. It's wonderful the work they do, and how readily the cripples learn these things in their new surroundings. They also make dolls. I saw how a doll is made. From the very first step to the last. Each different process was done by some badly crippled soldier, some with some artificial limbs. They were made to do so. These "fighting men" making dolls. That sure is "beating swords into pruning hooks." The dolls are made indestructible so that it will be unnecessary to replace them. To do this they use a special process. The doll is broken." How proud they were when I complimented them on their work. As a souvenir of my visit they pressed upon me a petit doll. I will mail it in a separate package.

Nursery a Hospital Next we took a car to visit the hospital at the Val de Gras. On the car the Madam chatted with me about the history of the place. We were visited in the days when Queen Anne of Austria was in power and had everything that a queen could wish for—except that she had a child over her shoulder all her days. The beauties and splendor of her court palled on her and nothing was worth while. In her longing for maternity she spent many hours in solitude and prayer. But to no avail. She then called in the good nuns to have them join their petitions with hers. It was indeed a tragedy in those days for a queen to be childless. One day she vowed that she would build a convent for the nuns that they might have a place to continue their petitions. When it was completed the prayers were finally answered. "The good God answered their prayers—just as he does today—and gave her a little king who became Louis XIII." In the joy of her maternity she created a large religious institution called the Val de Gras. This was a sort of a religious institution, but now it is being used as a military hospital.

While the Madam was relating this to me I could not help but draw a comparison. Her own story is just as lo-

CONSERVATION OF CAPITAL LATEST FEDERAL MOVE

Government May Supervise All Bank Loans in Future

WASHINGTON, August 13.—Another move to conserve capital in the United States is under consideration by the capital issues committee of the treasury department. It became known that members of the committee favor a complete supervision of all bank loans above $100,000.

While the proposition is still in formative stages, it was said frankly by officials that only through such a process will the government be able to control large expenditures. The recently enacted legislation creating the capital issues committee was framed with a direct view to curtailing large stock and bond flotations until after the war. But where corporations have sufficient money well established credit and where their resources are such that loans may be floated without recourse to stock issues, the capital issues committee so far has been inactive.

Millions of dollars worth of material has been consumed and much labor lost to war essentials as a result of private banking loans, officials declared. It is also a story of a mother. The Madam's only child and only son was killed at the very beginning of the war, on August 14, 1914. The very first battle that he was in. The tears gather in her eyes when she speaks of it, then she smiles and says, "Yes, but now I am the mother to every soldier of France. It seemed to be necessary that she should lose her one son, that she might be the mother of many. Her heart of hearts she mothers them all. They are indeed her sons, and her own son is only her favorite son. When she God created this unfriendly world, and saw all the sorrows, adversities and troubles that existed, He made up for it all by giving us our mothers. In all ages they have been to us our Valley of Grace, where we can take our heart-aches and be comforted."
