Allies Break Through Somme Lines; Push Across River at Three Points

BRITISH ACHIEVEMENT MAY FORCE IMMEDIATE RETIREMENT EASTWARD

Ham, Most Important Railway Center in Picardy Salient Remaining in German Hands, Is Menaced as British Push Advance Through Old Hindenburg Line in Arras Region

PERSONS NOW SUBJECT TO SAME FLANKING MOVEMENT THAT RESULTED IN RAPAUME'S FALL

The allies have broken through the Somme where the Germans intended to hold temporarily to cover their retreat to the Hindenburg line.

Three posts have been established across the Somme of which two are north of Eperpigny. Moulin Souci has been captured.

This is regarded as the most significant achievement since the Hindenburg line was broken east of Arras.

Field Marshal Haig announced today that the Somme river had been crossed south and west of Peronne. This apparently brings the British into the very outskirts of that very important communication center and flanks it from the south.

Peronne, which next to Ham, is the most important railway center within the Picardy salient, is now invested from the west and outflanked from the south. This operation also threatens to flank Ham from the north. These successes, together with the capture of Noyon, have rendered practically unpenetrable the new Somme line which the Germans sought to establish from north of Peronne to Noyon, and may well result in an immediate retirement to St. Quentin and the remainder of the Hindenburg line, fifteen miles to the eastward.

Scorpe Drive Resumed

In addition to crossing the Somme, the British began a new attack south of the Scorpe this morning and were reported to be progressing favorably. They have already penetrated four miles beyond the Hindenburg line in this region.

The heaviest fighting is proceeding along the Arras-Cambrai road. The French have made further progress south of Peronne, while between Allouette and the Aisne, French and American troops are striking eastward through the heights protecting the Chemin des Dames ridge from the west. Take Bismarck

The British advanced 2,000 yards, more than a mile, on a front of seven miles between Bullecourt and the Scorpe today, and are now within a mile of Comblain. The junction of Wotan and Sigfried sections of the Hindenburg line, it was learned today. They have captured Bismarck, two miles southeast of Bismarck.

The allies now hold a line on the Somme front from Bullecourt to Noyon at which they have captured the northern and eastern suburbs.

"The French have captured—The British lines this morning it was learned, extended from Aspreux to Ghelle, two miles and a half south and east of Vimy, westward of Oppy, a mile and a quarter southeast of Arleux, En-Ghelle, eastward of Bony, seven miles, and a half southwest of Arras, and south of Comblain. From Bismarck, the line runs through Deslaur, two miles southeast of the city, Morval, a mile and a half north of Comblain, and east of Mearpes, a mile and a half south of Comblain.

The French have captured Quilly, Bouy-Le-Dren, Ron-Le-Petit, La Panetrie and Ferme Des Foudes-Gonette. Aisne Line Menaced

French and American troops attacking north of Soissons are approaching the western side of the Soissons-Bapaume salient. Ten French and German divisions (130,000 men) have been brought up to oppose this advance, which seriously threatens the whole western portion of the enemy's Aisne-Ypres line.

Beyond Noyon the French are pushing toward Guiscard and Channy. The Germans are offering considerable resistance in the heights southwest and southeast of Noyon, and along the Croix de Metz.

In the Alliette region, the French have reached the borders of Concy Forest, which merges into St. Gobain forest, generally regarded as one of the greatest defensive positions on the west front.

May Keep Going The question today is not whether the Germans will retreat to the

HINDENBURG FACES NECESSITY OF MOVING LINES 18 MILES EASTWARD

With both Hindenburg and Somme defense lines pierced the Germans today faced gradual dissolution of the former and sudden collapse of the latter.

The Somme line, which was to have been only temporary, has been turned at Noyon and crossed in the Peronne region. This is accepted as a forecast of immediate retirement to the remainder of the Hindenburg line on this portion of the front, which would mean an additional maximum retreat of eighteen miles.

The British, pushing along the Arras-Cambrai road, east of the Hindenburg line, are rapidly recovering valuable portions of the Lens-Donal-Cambrai coal fields, which are highly important to Germany.

YANKS SMASH UP HUN CAVALRY IN FIRST ATTACK

By JOHN DE GANDY (United Press Staff Correspondent) PARIS, August 30.—American troops, attacking with the French north and east of Soissons, engaged in their first battle with German cavalry today. The enemy hurled a large body of mounted troops against the Franco-American forces in an effort to break up their advance. The attack was entirely unsuccessful and the allies continue their steady progress in furious fighting.

The principal roads at St. Quentin are rapidly falling into the control of the allies.

Northeast of Meuse, the French are outflanking the north canal section of the Somme.

North of Noyon French troops are progressing along the road to Ham via Oulcaux and have reached the village of Noyon.

They are threatening development of Arras-Cambrai road, and the table land northeast of Noyon.

Spur Routes 60-50 Miles

Following on the previous provisions of the new regulations made public by Mr. Munniss this morning:

The new regulations supersede the 50-50 rule. The retail dealer selling standard wheat flour is required to carry in stock either barley flour, corn meal or oat flour, and with every sack of wheat flour must sell a combination of some one or more of these in proportion of one pound substitutes to each four pounds of wheat flour. No dealer may force any other substitute in combination upon the consumer and these substitutes must conform to the standard fixed by the United States food administration.

Other Substitutes Permissible

There are some localities where other substitutes are available and other retailers may wish to carry. In order to meet this situation the following rule may also be sold in combination in lieu of the above flours if the consumer so demands, at the rate of one pound to each four pounds of wheat flour, that is, kafir flour, mill flour, farina flour, oat meal, rice flour, and instant oat flour.

Paro rylo flour or meal may be sold as a substitute, but must be sold in proportions of at least two pounds of rye with three pounds of wheat flour.

Provisions of Law As to Who May Vote

Elector Qualifications for General Election May Take Part in Primaries

Persons who will have, on the date of the general election in November, the qualifications of electors in Idaho, may, under the state law, register and vote at the primary elections next Tuesday.

The qualifications of electors in Idaho are set out in the following provision of the state election law: "Every male and female citizen of the United States who shall have reached the age of twenty-one years, and who shall have been an actual resident of the state for six months and of the county in which he offers to vote for 30 days."

Saturday is the last day for registration for the primary elections. Every elector must register. No vote will be "thrown in" on the day of the primary elections.

A second registration will be provided subsequently for electors who do not qualify for voting in the primary, but who wish to vote in the general election. Electors who register for the primary elections are not required to register again for the general election.

Public Warned Against German Peace Efforts

Americans and Allies Winning, But Huns Not Yet Beaten, Say Leaders in the House and Senate

By L. C. MARTIN (United Press Staff Correspondent) WASHINGTON, August 30.—To forewarn the expected German peace offensive of the coming fall and winter months counter propaganda is going out to the nation from the halls of congress. Scores of members of both house and senate have joined in strong and earnest warnings to the folks back home. These warnings take this tone: "America and the allies are winning, but we must not let up for an instant. Germany is not beaten. The end of the war is not definitely in sight. Don't be lulled into false security. Germany will try to fool the allies this winter into making peace. But don't let them fool you."

There are indications that the German campaign has already begun in some sections of the United States.

PROHIBITIONISTS ARE JUBILANT AT OUTLOOK

Friends of Movement in and out of Congress Are Highly Satisfied

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 30.—Prohibitionists in and out of congress today jubilate over the practical certainty that the nation is going bona fide.

Both houses have now adopted amendments to the food stimulation act, prohibiting the manufacture or sale for the use of any animal, viscous, or pigmented liquor in the country.

The manner in which the amendment is written into the law is certain. It will be completed by the end of the session on the state books before long.

General belief is that it will be the one passed yesterday by the senate, which prohibits the manufacture of liquors except for medicinal and sacramental uses after May 1 next and the sale after July 1, until the American armies have been demobilized.

Plenty of Airplanes Now Going to France

Total of Over One Thousand DeHaviland Four-Shipped Over Seas

WASHINGTON, August 30.—Airplanes are now being shipped to France in large numbers, the house military committee learned at the meeting of their council today. Members were told that 1,071 DeHaviland fours have been shipped overseas.

Members of the committee here today cheered at the apparent progress in the airplane situation.

Lieutenant McGiffin's home was the most cheering heard for a long time, and leads to the belief that the unsatisfactory conditions as disclosed by the senate will soon be remedied.

DISLODGE HUNS FROM VESLE RIVER BY SQUEEZING TACTICS FOCH'S PLAN

By J. W. T. MASON (United Press War Expert) NEW YORK, August 30.—Entrance of American troops in the fighting in the north of France is for the purpose of squeezing the salient which Marshal Foch has created to the west of the German positions along the Vesle.

Outflank Chemin des Dunes This operation is independent of the strong French and British pressure between Noyon and Bapaume, before which the Germans are retreating to the Hindenburg line. The two armies, however, have a common strategic purpose: to throw von Hindenburg into confusion concerning the disposition of his reserves.

Man Power Bill Discussed in Senate Sidetracked while Solons Give Vent to Bitterness Against Department Head

EDUCATION PROGRAM CALLED PROPAGANDA

Senator Johnson Defends Education of Youth at Government Expense Opponents of Baker

WASHINGTON, August 30.—An attack on the war department that for a time threatened to hold up the approval of the conference on the man power bill developed today. Senators' harsh charges of "political propaganda" in attacking the proposal of "educating congress" at the head of Senator Johnson.

The worst small arms war Senator Watson, Indiana, inquired what authority the war department has for its reported plan to take over 400 American universities and colleges to educate their 18 and 20 of the government's expense.

State Educational System Senator Chamberlain, chairman of the military affairs committee, declared he knew of no such plan. Watson produced a long newspaper article to prove that the plan is "solid way."

"This is another step for the paternalist, socialist scheme of things, being worked out with the approval of socialist officials high in the government," said Watson.

"It is being done without warrant by law."

Senator Watson declared that no such plan existed, adding that "for the purpose of political propaganda, the American people will be misled by the parents of 18 year old boys who will be called in the draft that the government will educate them free."

Favors Educational Program "It is all four with the deception of the American people with regard to the aircraft program and other features of our war preparations. It's just meant to quiet apprehension and remove worry. The war department never plans to do it and ought not to."

Senator Johnson, California, declared that if the saving of the nation depends on educating the boys at government expense, he favors it. He criticized those who assailed the war department.

Senator Chamberlain declared the plan is merely the war department's way of adopting the idea of universal military training, previously rejected, "because it came from a member of congress originally."

CAUTION MARKS DIRECTION OF BIG WAR GAME

Foeh Resists Temptation to Sacrifice in Effort to Break German Lines—Cost Too Great, Chance Small

ALLIES WILL CONTINUE DRIVES AT WEAK POINTS

Noyon Pivot of New Lines Running Directly North and East—Von Hindenburg Forced to Sacrifice Men

By J. W. T. MASON, (United Press War Expert)

NEW YORK, August 29.—Following yesterday's extensive retirement by the Germans there is a natural question for the time being along the west front while conditions remain unfavorable to the new alignment.

Marshal Foch will not press forward readily, but will resume his local drives after a brief respite. The weakest spots in the new line Von Hindenburg is now establishing. The line Von Hindenburg has secured by his move backward toward the Somme is almost geometrically straight from its nearest point to the German rearward for twenty miles to Noyon.

Anglo-French Foch
The line is therefore capable of being held by a minimum number of men, but unfortunately for Von Hindenburg, it turns at right angles to the eastward at Noyon. The wedge thus created is by far the sharpest pocket into which Von Hindenburg has put his troops since his west front retirement began. If Marshal Foch were to succeed in cutting through the German angle at Noyon he would definitely sever Von Hindenburg's southern flank from his western front.

It was for such a result as this that Von Hindenburg played, when at St. Quentin last spring he tried to wedge into the British and French armies. The intensity of the German resistance at Noyon is accounted for by the fact that Von Hindenburg is compelled to sacrifice his troops without regard to loss in order to prevent Noyon from becoming for the Germans a retrograde St. Quentin.

Allies' Cost Small
Marshal Foch for his part is maintaining strict accord with his basic strategy in declining to use his force for a reckless gamble at Noyon. The chances in the present war have consistently shown great odds against a break through. If Marshal Foch were to make a major attempt at Noyon and fail, after having paid a price of a hundred thousand casualties, the results would be Von Hindenburg's. By confining the Noyon operations to a local scale, but retaining on the alert for any sudden weakness, Marshal Foch is adopting the wiser course to lose in order to prevent Noyon from becoming for the Germans a retrograde St. Quentin.

BRITISH AIRMAN DESCRIBES RAID

Dive Below Range of German Aircraft Guns to Bomb Only Military Objectives

LONDON, August 30.—Describing for the United Press today the house-to-house raid over Mannheim, the night of August 25, an officer of the Royal Independent Air Force today declared it as "extraordinary and unparalleled feat of war."
"It struck terror into the heart of every civilian," he declared.
"According to documentary and other evidence we have accumulated in other raids we know that Mannheim was one of the best defended cities, and this time we depended upon a fresh method of attack."
City Well Defended
"We approached the city over a large stretch of hostile territory, attacking the usual high altitudes. The night was clear. The siren mass of the city was seen far below in the night; and a terrific outbreak of barrage fire, which burst at the work, had maintained on previous raids."
Pink Military Objectives
"After a careful survey of our bearings, taking in the military objectives, we began a nerve-racking two-mile dive. Down we went on our noses, wires of the machine breaking in spots and the air whirling and humming as the speed indicator's hand crept from 90 to 100 and then to 120 and 150 miles an hour. We swept down in this fashion until we were barely 200 feet above the city. Thousands of feet above us the enemy barrage was booming in a state of fiery light."
"When diving the city seemed to be flying toward us in a black mass, which dissolved as the wider strata became visible. This split the city into small masses. It seemed as though we could almost touch the spires and chimneys of the buildings. Each brick and crevice was visible in the moonlight."
Soon Below Gun Range
"Soon we were flying over the houses, steadily banking and then then to avoid the taller buildings. Quickly swinging our noses around we first toward the appointed military objectives—no hospitals, no burning houses, no indiscriminate bombing for the British, and released our bombs."
"The German gunners depress their guns to the lowest possible angles, but the Archie is not mounted so as to hit machines at a height of 200 feet, and the hail of shells burst harmlessly over us, roofing the squadron with a mistle of smoke, shot through with scarlet fire."
"Dazzling beams from scores of searchlights made the city light as day, illuminating the buildings and actually guiding us toward our targets. The crashing hoarse of the barrage fire and the rattle of the machine guns combined in one great crescendo of tumult as we wound in and out. We were so low that we dropped our bombs with the deadliest precision. By missile found a billet."
Escape by Flying Low
"Bumping and swaying wildly in this explosive concussion of our own bombs, we opened the throttles and sped westward, keeping low until away from the batteries. There we regained our height and flew homeward without the loss of a single machine."
Mannheim is an immensely important town, gas manufacturing center and has huge munitions plants which have supplied the ammunition for the French sector of the western front.

GERMANS DO NOT PROPOSE TO GIVE UP VESLE FRONT

Fighting Opposite Americans Not Marked by Rear Guard Actions—Still Encounters Where Merit Alone Wins

HAND GRENADES USED TO ROUT HUNS FROM CAVES

French Tenth Army, Including Brigaded Americans, Slowly Squeezing Germans from Their Caves and Trenches

By FRED S. FERGUSON

(United Press Staff Correspondent) WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, August 30.—The Germans are fighting desperately and doggedly to hold the line of the Aisne heights north of Soissons, which have been assailed by the French tenth army, in which Americans are brigaded. If they are driven back any considerable distance it will be by superior fighting qualities of the French and Americans and their greater gun power.

Shore Merit Wins Here

In yesterday's attack there was no indication that the line would be found behind the usual rear guard machine gun nests. The element of surprise can not enter this fighting, as the German staff obviously recognizes the importance of the line under attack and undoubtedly has expected the assault for some time.

The fighting is over ground which has been a battle field since 1914. It contains a series of great plateaus with an extensive cave and nest work of old trench systems. We are fighting, in consequence, a curious mixture of open and old trench warfare, the latter requiring strong artillery preparation.

Yesterday's operation carried the French and Americans forward, but this fighting is of a far different nature than that encountered in the recent rush from the Marne, when the Americans marched for miles without encountering a German. Even a foot of the region is contested. The German Prussian seventh regiment is opposing the Americans. Prisoners taken are typically Prussian. Some are unusually arrogant.

"Prussians" and Proud of It

When one officer was asked where he came from, he came to attention, pulled himself to his full height and answered defiantly, "Prussia." There are instances of a lone American picking up several Prussians. A sergeant from Wisconsin ran upon four and placed in a shell hole. All surrendered. The sergeant marched them to the rear.

HOMING PIGEONS GOING TO THE FRONT

This British official photograph shows how British sergeants homing pigeons are sent up to the fighting lines in France. Those intelligent birds have been the means of turning many a possible defeat into a glorious victory. In one of the great battles that raged along the British front recently a British officer found himself surrounded by Boche troops, and released one of his pigeons with a note to his artillery telling them to pour a barrage over the Hun. He was saved.

Boches Burrow In
When the Americans encountered several strings of caves, into which the Boche had burrowed, they used great numbers of grenades with killing effect. From the depths of the caves, the Americans and French are fighting the spires of Soissons cathedral are visible.

It is now permissible to describe the arrival of the Americans in this part of the battle front. Throughout Tuesday, Tuesday night and Wednesday, American men, guns and wagons wound up roads through valleys which, connected vast plateaus. They passed over ground conquered by the first and second divisions when the Americans first fought in the Soissons region.

Late Wednesday, just as the news of the repulse of a German counter attack came in, I saw an entire American battery shelled against the dark sky, the men taking their homes as they hurried up along the very peak of a long rise. Meantime infantry and machine gunners were moving along the road and across the fields. The movement Wednesday in conjunction with the French was carried out without great initial resistance. The Americans advanced their line slightly across a plateau which was deeply pitted with shell craters.

Gather Up Prisoners

In a cage in the rear prisoners were being gathered in an almost endless stream. The Americans now in this region have particularly distinguished themselves. They were moved from a distant army on shore notice. The artillery and other units traveled night and day, arriving on scheduled time. Abandoned high strong holds have been encountered everywhere. They include deep dug out pill boxes and trench and wire systems. The villages have been entirely wiped out and no more than an occasional skeleton of a tree can be seen any where on the shattered plateau.

Garford MOTOR TRUCKS

A Farmer Recommends Garford

The Garford Motor Truck Company, Lima, Ohio

Gentlemen:

We are glad to recommend the Garford Motor Truck. We have been a user of this motor truck for nearly a year and have had no expense whatsoever, except for oil and gasoline.

We use it to haul farm products to Baltimore. In busy season it is on the road every day. It is a ton truck and I have hauled 60 bushel of potatoes in one load, going to the city in less than an hour. We live 16 miles from the city.

I am glad to know that you take an interest in this motor trucks after they are in the hands of the users.

We are well satisfied with our Garford, and it has given us satisfaction in every respect. It is well built and runs nice and smooth as a touring car.

The Garford Motor Truck is just what the manufacturers claim it to be, a good "Motor Truck."

STAMPING OUT DISHEAR

It is gratifying to note that among the various elements which go to make up the population of America, organized labor is paying close attention to the matter of public morals and public health.

A recent reference to the film "Fit to Fight" has drawn a number of expressions in commendation of the purpose of the Government in placing before the American people a comprehensive picture of just what public health means and the causes which menace it.

And the first step in the program is for people to learn to call a spade and spade and the facts as they are. There is no romance, no mystery about any disease of the body, but there is pain and suffering and lack of Christian charity.

THE WAY A DOLLAR SHRINKS

A table compiled by the bureau of labor shows that the purchasing power of one dollar in July, nineteen eighteen, as compared with July, nineteen thirteen, five years previous, had shrunk to fifty-four cents in Washington and Baltimore; fifty-seven cents in Philadelphia, fifty-eight cents in New York and Chicago, and sixty-three cents in San Francisco.

TAKE UP CASES OF ALIEN DRAFT REGISTRANTS

Citizens of Neutral Nations Claim Exemption Upon Forfeiture of Naturalization Opportunity, Board is Told

Candidly the local board has received orders to report to the adjutant general the number of aliens among the registrants of Twin Falls county, and instructions relative to the conditions under which men of foreign birth may claim exemption from military service.

These instructions provide that a citizen of a country neutral to this war, though he has declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States, may, if he desires, claim exemption from military service upon the surrender of his duplicate copy of his declaration of intention; but that he is thereafter debarred forever from becoming a citizen of the United States.

Following are pertinent quotations from the instructions in this regard:

Any undrafted registrant who is a citizen of a country neutral in the present war, and who has declared his intention to become a citizen of the United States but has not completed his citizenship, shall be relieved from liability to military service upon filing an affidavit with the local board setting forth in such affidavit that he withdraws his intention to become a citizen of the United States.

If the registrant is entitled to classification in class five the local board shall make an appropriate notation upon the registrant's questionnaire and shall mail to the bureau of naturalization, department of labor, Washington, D. C., one of the copies of the affidavit filed by the registrant and the duplicate original copy of the registrant's declaration of intention, if surrendered. The bureau of naturalization will, through the proper agencies, take appropriate action to have the declaration of intention cancelled and to debar the registrant forever from becoming a citizen of the United States.

CANDIDATE GIVES VIEWS ON PROBLEMS

Judge James F. Ailshie, Aspirant for U.S. Congress Returns of Peace

That the United States must begin now to solve problems incident to the close of the war is the opinion of Judge James F. Ailshie of Boise, candidate for the Republican nomination for United States senator, who was a Twin Falls visitor Thursday. In this regard Judge Ailshie said:

"When this war is over the problems of reconstruction are going to be momentous. Business and commercial centers are going to shift, industrial conditions will be changed, a new era of internal improvements and development is going to dawn, and legislation never before thought of in this country is going to press upon the attention of congress. I would feel it a supreme honor to have a voice for my state in the council of the nation on these great problems." To meet and to solve them will require the combined wisdom of all the people and their chosen representative who serves them best will always consult their will. I am in favor of exerting the utmost effort of the nation to achieve a speedy and lasting victory over our national foe. We want no peace, however, except a victorious peace that will be permanent. We must begin to get ready for the day when our soldier sons return to civil life and we must be prepared to give them their proper places again in civil life.

Rev. L. B. Franck, Rector of Ascension Church, Writes from Post of Duty as Y. M. C. A. Secretary in Georgia

SAYS PRODUCTION AND INDUSTRY GOSPEL OF HOUR

Declares Men in Khaki-Detest Slacker But Love Unappreciated Hero Fighting in Trenches Behind Lines

"Do not feel, because you are not in uniform and in an army camp, that there is no place for you to serve your country and the cause of liberty. If you wish to serve your country and democracy faithfully and are disqualified for the army or navy, I would urge upon you the observance of the gospel of production and industry."

This is the statement of Rev. Luther B. Franck, rector of Ascension Episcopal church, Twin Falls, who is now in the service as an army Y. M. C. A. secretary at Camp Georgia, Georgia. It was made in a public talk at the Twin Falls News, in the presence of the county and state to fulfill the paramount requirement now for the winning of the war. He says:

Nation Patriotic to Core

During the past two months I have received letters from friends all over the west and from friends here in the east relative to their taking up definite war work, such as the Y. M. C. A., Red Cross, etc., and it certainly is encouraging to see our people so anxious to get into the war. It is a source of satisfaction to know that the heart of our nation is throbbing with this earnest and patriotic enthusiasm.

Third and Final Drive

But in this enthusiasm it may become likely that we will lose poise and self-reliance, and thus, because of an unsteady hand, miss the mark. Two or three months ago we felt anxious as to whether our people would rise up seriously and go to war in a business-like way in time to avoid a disastrous defeat. Today there is a complete change over the whole national attitude is one of determination, completeness and success. We never seriously doubted that our nation would sooner or later acquire the attitude, but there was great anxiety as to whether it would get into the fight in time to help check and turn back the third and final Hun offensive on our west.

Bare Arms to Tanks

So the anxiety caused by the delay and the suspense and the intensity of the excitement over the heat of the race to the Marne has been lifted from our hearts, and we find now our whole nation is determined to show the Huns determined to fight, fight and win.

Need Not Worry About Army

We are doing big things in a national way. We are doing big things about our army. We have already got our men as we can transport. Congress is morally certain, I am glad to say, will extend the draft ages, and soon we will have in the field one of the largest armies. Already we have enough men trained and over and over against German offensive warfare. As to the army proper we need not be anxious.

Question to the Individual

But there is a question being asked us by the government in this time, which is a question that is more or less by the individual, as perhaps no other question at this time. Each man and woman is being asked today as never before, "What are you producing?"

Production is the Word

Production is the word. Everywhere production is emphasized. "The man who is doing what a woman can do should give way, let the woman take his place on the production line." This is the gospel of the day, one of the greatest and industry.

Women Replacing Men

I am glad women are now to come into our home, as well as overseas, Y.

Squaw Hat for Indian Summer

The squaw hat might well be the name for this new early fall creation which feels best for wearing wear during the Indian summer days when summer furs are still very comfortable—but when the breezes are a bit too warm for the heavy fall and winter costumes. The crown is black velvet with a big bow caught at the top to give height and dignity to the broad brim of black net.

M. C. A. but to take our places, and loss of food material this fall! Unquestionably here in the south our women will have to play an active part in order to avoid this condition. I join their parents and attend school. Their father is employed in the ship yards there.

Do not feel, because you are not in uniform and in an army camp, that there is no place for you to serve your country and the cause of liberty. You have at this time a task that is particularly patriotic. The day has come when the man in uniform can admit the red-blooded man who can fight better than any one else what a trying task you have. He sympathizes with you with his whole soul. He knows how it feels a real man to stand behind and unattended, to look for food to feed him. He hates a slacker—that unnatural man—with a burning hate; but with glowing love he loves the man with a real man's heart and soul, who, not being able to get into the army as a fighting man, can stay behind and toil for the same cause.

Five million fighting men mean many more to complete the force needed to make up such an army, and all must be fed and fed well. To avoid shortage of food and disinfecting prices, each person must produce all possible. God has blessed the allies in many ways during the past year; especially during the past months America, in addition to her splendid steel, has been blessed with resources conducive to production, and this fall we expect one of the largest crops in our history. Here in the south and east our people are quite concerned about getting in their crops.

Will you be able to avoid waste and
