HEART OF HUN DEFENSES IS IN JEOPARDY

American and French Advance Towards La Fere, St. Gobain Hills and Laon Menaces Center of System

By WILLIAM PHILIP BOWMS (United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Sept. 7.—1918. s. m.—With boundless rage, the Hun borders are systematically pillaging first, then burning and dynamiting all cities and towns as they retreat.

Military experts today are convinced the Germans will be forced to give up the St. Gobain highlands, the key to that region as well as the Chemin des Dames. The advance of the Franco-British forces toward Cambrai and St. Quentin is now distinctly menacing to St. Quentin.

With the advance of the Americans and French toward La Fere, the St. Gobain hills and positions north of the Aisne are the very centers of the German defense system, from the sea to Verdun, are imperiled.

Conservative military critics now mention the possibility of seeing Hindenburg pounded out of his famous line into a new one, just inside the French frontier before winter begins. It is too early however to throw out here in the air. Unless all signs fail, an immense amount of desperate fighting must come before Germany is beaten.

Enemy in Tight Box

Nevertheless today, Ludendorff is in a tight box. Not only are the British and Doull threatened by the British who are at the very gates, but the crown prince is facing the possibility of retreating further than the positions along the Chemin des Dames. Hindenburg and Kluge have found their way in the St. Gobain hill country and unless soon stopped they must inevitably cause a wide retirement at this part of the line.

After Crown Prince

Likewise the French are pushing on eastward in the region of Vauvillers and Pinau toward the western end of the Chemin des Dames, toward the crown prince in the hope of finding success. A huge deception may await him for with allied entangling the positions on the west he obviously must continue his retreat northward after which only solid masses of men can be found in the area and French who are hot on his heels. Ludendorff is face to face with a painful quandary.

MOVE ON MOSCOW IS ALLIES' PLAN
Friendly Russians Assist to Press Movement at Early Date

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—British troops in northern Russia, assisted by allied soldiers and friendly Russians, are preparing for aggressive action toward Moscow. Bolshevik outrages against British and French subjects at Moscow and Petrograd make strong steps imperative, allied officials say. Volga is the immediate objective of allied forces now one hundred miles south of Archangel. Reinforcements and additional equipment are arriving at the northern port and will be rushed southward over the Volga railroad to the allied vanguard. This is all with the consent and even encouragement of the northern government in Russia.

IS DEVELOPING WARM SPRINGS

J. W. Banbury Building Fifty Thousand Dollar Natatorium and Hotel on Snake River.

A natatorium, bath house and hotel which is destined to be one of the centers of attraction in southern Idaho, is being constructed under supervision of Architect B. Morgan Niblett of Twin Falls at a cost of between $40,000 and $50,000, by J. W. Banbury at the warm springs on his ranch property in Snake river canyon four miles north of Buhl. The building which is to house the natatorium baths and guest rooms is to be of concrete and 100x150 feet in dimensions. The natatorium pool will be 60x120 feet and will be as large as the natatorium pool at Boise. The water for the pool and for the baths will be piped from the natural warm springs. Hot, shower and Turkish baths will be provided. In connection with the natatorium and bath, there will be a hall room and a banquet room, besides 50 guest rooms. The material for the construction of the building is now being placed on the building site, and it is expected that water will be turned into the pool and baths, this winter.

Many Americans Escape to Sweden

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 7.—Escaping from the Bolsheviks 121 Americans and 72 Italians including members of their legations have arrived in Sweden from Russia. Diplomats in the parties said the Bolsheviks planned to arrest them simultaneously with the British, but they fled in time from Moscow to Finland. The Finnish government refused the demand of the Bolsheviks that they be returned. Premier Lenine is dead, the refugees noted, all Bolshevik denials to the contrary.

ROAD DISTRICT COMMISSIONERS FOR HIGH LEVY

Board Members at Organization Meeting Express Purpose of Continuing Expenditures for Improvement to Tax

Laying of the maximum tax of 5 mills for the purposes of building and repairing roads and bridges of the district was decided upon informally at the organization meeting Friday afternoon in the context of the board in the court house of the commissioners of the Twin Falls highway district. C. B. Channel of Twin Falls, who was elected president of the board of highway district commissioners at this meeting, expressed the opinion of the board in this regard when he said, "Inasmuch as it is out of the question at the present time to consider a bond issue, I believe that the most satisfactory results are to be obtained by making the tax levy a heavy one."

To Fix Levy Next

The matters of the levy and of the division of the district into three sub-districts are to be taken up at a second meeting of the highway district commissioners on Tuesday afternoon next.

The date of the regular meetings of the highway district commissioners was set for 2 o'clock on the afternoon of the second Saturday of each month in the county commissioners' room.

Stuart H. Taylor of Twin Falls, was elected secretary and treasurer of the highway district organization. He was instructed to spend some time in conference with the Buhl highway district commissioners regarding into their manner of discharging the business of the Buhl district which has been organized for several years.

The commissioners of the Twin Falls district, in addition to President C. B. Channel, are J. M. Stoenhilt of Kimberly, and A. E. Larson of Hollister.

Huns Would Blow Up All Interned Ships

Evidence Indicates Unwillingness to Permit Confiscation by Spanish Government

SAN SEBASTIAN, Spain, Sept. 7.—Regarding the rumors that the Germans intended to blow up ships interned rather than let Spain confiscate them, it was learned today that this report emanated from a responsible source.

A telegram was discovered sent by the German consul to the embassy in Madrid making instructions "regarding complete destruction." It was presumed the meant destruction of vessels. The telegram inquired concerning the desirability of giving chief engineers necessary orders and recommendations of "explosive bombs with time fuses" for the work.

CHEMIN DES DAMES UNDER CROSS FIRE

French Filtering Into St. Gobain Forest, One of German Strongholds—Enemy Gives Up Important Railway Junction Without Opposition—Retreat Quickens

AMERICANS CONTINUE TO ADVANCE; FACE HEAVY MACHINE GUN FIRE

LONDON, Sept. 2.—St. Quentin, La Fere, Laon and the Chemin Des Dames are in the path of allied attacks, which according to official statements are making rapid progress everywhere.

Hindenburg has been taken by the British in their advance toward St. Quentin. Field Marshal Haig reported.

Having passed through Ham, the French are nearing St. Simon, eight miles from St. Quentin. They have occupied the important railway junction at Tergnier without opposition, cutting the German line of communication between St. Quentin and Laon.

Ham and Channy Taken

Before St. Quentin the British crossed the Somme and plunged ahead in some places seven miles in a day. On their southern flank the French swept forward, capturing Ham and Channy, and penetrating Comcy forest, one of the most important defenses of Laon. Still further south the French, encroaching on the Chemin Des Dames from its flank, pushed to Lauffaux Farm.

From this point the line drops down below the Aisne, where the Americans are fighting.

The whole Comcy lower forest has been seized and Ham, seven miles west of Laon, has been captured.

Advices said the British now occupy practically half of Havrincourt wood.

It was learned the line now runs from Havrincourt wood through Antz-Canturo, to Liermont, Longuevaux, Frenoy, Bouly, Hancourt, Villy-Lauchy, Aubigny, Dury, Olley, southward to La Fiere, Filleul, then to Tergnier and west of Amigny through Petit-Barbais Baselle and Hulers, westward of Mont de Blages, and Lauffaux and westward of Sancy to Cite St. Aisne.

Chemin Des Dames Under Fire

The Chemin des Dames is under a cross fire from allied troops south of the Aisne and to the westward. German occupants of the St. Gobain forest are endangered by the French advance, according to battle reports. General Mangin's troops are filtering on through the wooded, hilly country toward Ailly-le-Chateau, 7 1/2 miles southwest of Laon.

French Near St. Simon

The French are reported to have reached the southern extremity of the Crozat canal, which places them at the crest of St. Simon, on the road to St. Quentin. Further northward the allied forces are marching upon Vermand, six miles northwest of St. Quentin. On the Aisne, the French and Americans are near Villy. Hundreds of thousands of German shells in captured dumps have already been listed by the French.

Americans Face Heavy Fire

The Americans on the fighting line are continuing to advance toward the Aisne at some points. At other places heavy machine gun fighting is in progress. Between Glesnes and Domains, where the line runs north and south from the Aisne to the Vesle, the Americans are methodically wiping out machine gun nests. There is considerable German artillery fire on an angle against our positions on the plateau.

GERMAN DEFEATS STIR UP TROUBLE IN FATHERLAND

Newspapers Demand the Truth—Writer Advocates General Withdrawal—Take Precautions to Protect Property

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 7.—German army leaders are urged by General Aronsen, writing in the Berlin Tageblatt with regard to the line of March 21, on account of the coming unavailing winter campaign.

In addition to this information today, reports from Germany indicated growing nervousness on account of the bad news from the front. In many towns, the military commands have issued orders prohibiting the spreading of rumors.

In the Altona district, an official proclamation warns the population against damaging railway lines and exposing military transports to danger. Violation of this order is punishable by death.

The Berlin Vorwarts editorially demands the uncessant truth about the fighting situation so that if there is reason to despair the government can summon the recharging and make effective the Prussian electorate's reform to stimulate the soldiers.

CZECHO-SLOVAK PLANS GRADUALLY TAKE SHAPE

Recognition of National Aspirations by American War Aids

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The Czechoslovaks will have a centralized and fully organized government ready to assume control of the national domains of the Bohemians and Slovaks when they have been freed from the Austrian yoke.

The United Press learned today that the Czechoslovaks, following the recognition of their national council by the United States as the Czechoslovak defacto government, have set about to consolidate their widespread activities and progress under the head of the Czechoslovak national council.

Dr. T. G. Masaryk, head of the council and whose efforts resulted in the organization of the Czechoslovak forces in Russia and Siberia and the recognition of the Czechoslovak national aspirations, will go to Europe shortly to bring about the coordination of the efforts of his countrymen in Italy, France, and Great Britain. The headquarters of the national council will remain in Washington with branches at Paris, London and Rome.

New's Sprague Abroad

Dr. Charles Sprague formerly aide to Dr. Masarak, and now diplomatic representative of the Czechoslovaks in Washington will direct the work of the council, while Dr. Masaryk is in Europe. Diplomatic activities of the news of the Czechoslovak national aspirations were confirmed by several dispatches today. Another advice quoted the Arbeiter Zeitung of Vienna, concerning a conference of western Bohemian Czechoslovak democrats at Pilsen at which resolutions were adopted in support of the struggle for liberty and full independence.

Believe Casualties Very Small if Any

Transport Mount Vernon Is Thought to Have Suffered Little

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—In the absence of any word up to early today the navy department doubted that casualties occurred in the torpedoing of the transport Mount Vernon. The fact that the former German liner made 40 knots back to port indicated that the twin marksmanship had been poor, or the quality of torpedoes inferior.

The epistle, with its covering, is still preserved in the British museum. At that period, and long afterward, it was the general custom to fold letters and seal them with wax. Early in the last century envelopes began to come into more general use, and stamped envelopes achieved wide popularity in England shortly after the establishment of the penny post in 1840. By 1850 they were largely used on this side of the Atlantic. FOR EXCHANGE--Job printing for money. Our work is like your money--the best. Twin Falls News. Advertiser is in the Classified columns

NEWBERRY IN SERVICE AGAIN

Truman Handy Newberry, the veteran Detroit dress man who was President Roosevelt's assistant secretary of the navy, is again in the service of his country, working 10 or 12 hours a day, and at least half that long on Sundays, at a desk in a fourth-floor office at 280 Broadway, New York, headquarters of the Third naval district.

The annual salary of a lieutenant commander of the United States naval reserve force, which is the rank Mr. Newberry holds, is less than the monthly dividend he gets from almost any one of his numerous industries in Michigan. The work is hard; the hours long.

As principal assistant to the commander of the Third naval district for the management of the naval reserve forces, Lieutenant Commander Newberry has charge of the work in a stretch of country extending from Hargett, N. C., to New London, Conn., and reaching north to Lake Erie, and south to the Gulf of Mexico.

He serves under officers who, a decade ago, looked to him, as head of the navy department, for their orders. And Lieutenant Commander Newberry likes it. He likes it so much that in the year or more that he has been on duty here he has been out of New York only one day, and then on a trip of inspection through his district.

A DOG STAR

By MARTHA McCULLOUGH.

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Orion was a star of the first magnitude—in the dog, however, of course, since he belonged to Sidney Lee. Sidney was a fancier of sorts. He fancied among other things he could have given points to the original possessor. But that was a pity, seeing Happy Jack, head of his kennel, and in the strict privacy of his own mind.

"If then dumb brutes knewed what sort of feller that owned 'em, they'd never look at 'em with such a scorn." This was not in notice, Happy Jack was ready to admit the "boss" had his uses, and was even wise in the way of neckties, womenkind and other little trifles. But when it came to the ball and end-all of existence to Happy—wherefore it appeared to him a special providence that he himself was set in actual charge of the fine four-foot creature. The pampered creature of course all he desired—also indulged them. Thereby hangs this tale. Orion running free of leash upon the lawn out before his kennel, leapt the hedge in the direction of the "boss's" side.

Result—a very pretty quarrel, made greater by the fact that Miss Stretton, fat and scant of breath, left the settlement of it to Niece Ellen, one of the modern Portias.

"In here to pay in full, ma'am, for the fine dog of the little diversion." Happy said to Miss Stretton in a tone meant to be diplomatic—even propitiatory. "Oh!" said the girl, her widest eyes looking through him. "Just how much? I hope we agree in our estimates."

Happy Jack, after some fumbling, produced a bill, written out in the round school-boy hand of his son and heir. Miss Stretton glanced at it, frowned, hit her lip to keep back a laugh over the document, then pulled out a fountain pen, added two ciphers to the sum, and gave back the paper, saying: "Five kindly" corrected your little mistake."

"No mistake at all. If you live till you see any twelve hundred and ninety dollars of Sidney Lee's money, y'ell find Missus Ellen look like a baby." "You are over-looking the freight, the distress of mind—the upsetment to my aunt, I believe you have a litter or so of Orion pups?" Miss Ellen interrupted, "Realities they must be, if they are over-looking the freight, there he is right at our door."

"Let me get him—the murderer's pirate," Happy Jack cried, starting to push through the gate. Miss Ellen interrupted, "Realities they must be, if they are over-looking the freight, there he is right at our door." "Let me get him—the murderer's pirate," Happy Jack cried, starting to push through the gate. Miss Ellen interrupted, "Realities they must be, if they are over-looking the freight, there he is right at our door."

"If you poison him, I'll have the law on you," he blazed. Orion ran about like a cat, sniffing, sniffing at the walk which led around the poultry yard, giving the white short estate bark, Miss Ellen snatched watching his gambols. "He knows what he wants—namely, the tin of salmon, but he's not so effective; then, presently: 'It's a shame to kill him, or even send him to the pound—but I don't see how we can possibly keep him—and the dog!'"

"Woman! You'll no have the heart!" Happy Jack burst out. And just then a motorcar purred to a standstill behind them. In a wink Sidney Lee was out of it, smiling and waving to Ellen, and nodding peculiarly. She had Miss Ellen blush uncomfortably—she had appraised the dead ducks partly in sport, partly in anger at Happy Jack's lofty penitence, and she felt sure that the motorcar would be called Orion's brand: "Good dog! Fine dog! You've won me—the greatest of prizes. Ever since I saw her" nodding over at Miss Ellen. "I've schemed and prayed to find some one who would introduce us."

"It's not quite a highway robber—in spite of my profession—let me explain about that ridiculous bill." Miss Ellen interrupted, clapping to knote. "You're a little slow, but you'll be just—and generous. Don't insist on paying more—Anat Lora will only waste it—either on more ducks—or the millionaires."

"I'll send a check," Lee began, his voice joyous. She blushed again. "I had rather have—something else," she said. "An Orion pup—if you can part with one so low." "Don't! Choose right off!" Lee said, jumping up, and leading her toward the gate. Happy Jack, on watch from the home gate, crooned to see it. He never knew the exact terms of settlement—but six months later, gave a shrewd enough guess—for then Miss Ellen became the owner of Orion, with all his appurtenances, including his master.

Too Much to Expect From Frail Femininity

WASHINGTON'S "Battalion of Death" has gone on its summer vacation. The steady advance of the summer heat was too much for the feminine Sammies, recruited from the various government departments. Ninety percent of the girls were unable to appear, dampen the enthusiasm of even the most resolute marcher.

As the motorcade crept up, the spirits of the soldierettes went down, and by the time the thermometer began to register 100 or so as a regular performance, the most enthusiastic thought it time to knock off until fall.

The girls first began to drill in preparation for the Red Cross parade. Regular army and marine drill sergeants were loaned by the war department. By the time the parade came off the girls were as profident as the most seasoned veteran in the "right oblique" and other orders of parade. They distinguished themselves in the long line marching down Pennsylvania avenue and the soldierettes liked it. They liked parading. They liked being told how well they did it. So they decided to keep in trim during the following months. Parades follow parades with amazing rapidity in Washington these days. The girls thought it well to be prepared.

But the Ellipse is not the coolest place in Washington on a summer afternoon. The soldierettes began to fear that they would be roasted to death before getting even half a chance to display their proficiency. Then the sun brought out all the freckles they had been so carefully guarding against for so long. Even a Sammy, provided it is a feminine one, cannot be blamed for objecting to freckles just on the tips of their noses.

So the battalion decided to adjourn their drill until next fall, when the deadly freckles will have retired to winter quarters and the girls can drill with unburdened minds and hearts.

WORTH DIGGING FOR

The drive for funds for the Salvation Army has plenty of steam in it because the Salvation Army is not asking for charity. It has made good at the front. The men in the trenches are cheering this drive, and that's why it will win.

None of us stay-at-home who has read what the soldiers say of the Salvation Army at the front is going to be asked twice for a contribution, and as big a one as he can manage. We predict a great success for the drive because it deserves it. Pluck and zeal and unselfish spirit the Salvation Army workers have shown, and the respect and gratitude of the men at the front ought to be and we are certain will be backed in good American money here at home.

Every cent you give the Salvation Army for this war service will go direct to the front, where it is most needed. Here is your chance to send your money in palatable form straight into the hungry stomach of some boy, tired and famished and just out of the dreary strain of the trenches or the hell of the attack.

Isn't that worth digging for?

WHAT VICTORY OVER GERMANY MEANS

(Written by FANNIE HUBST for the National Security League.)

In a motion picture house the other evening, I saw a fade-out of a sage, kindly, twinkling Uncle Sam slowly and wistfully supplanted by a cruel, menacing face beneath a tin helmet.

A shudder rippled over the audience. It was as if the muffled fist had rapped sharply, ominously.

Then, through the fog of war, came the kindly face again, a little tired, a little lined, but the old slow smile there, and the eyes a Truce.

It is up to every American man, woman and child to bring just that to pass. The tin helmet is hovering over the world. Its descent would be no punishment that if more of us realized its steady horror, its weight, its oppressive force, our pacifists and luke-warm patriots would be jarred into a realization that peace can be forced than war.

The victory of Germany would mean a total annihilation of the Stars and Stripes, each star a state of subservience.

At every American's shoulder, breathing on his neck, would stalk a shadow of the Kaiser.

Little children, nurtured in the sun of democracy, would feel the tightening, pointed fingers of the mallet fist in their tender flesh.

It is a great menacing shadow up there against the sky of the world, that cruel, blood-thirsty face beneath the tin helmet.

It is going to take the love, the loyalty, and the give-all spirit of every American to blot it into a permanent fade-out and to replace it with that kindly, bearded face beneath the Stars and Stripes steady-pipe.

ISSUE SLOWLY NARROWS DOWN

Interest in Wet and Dry Attention Centers Now in At- titude of President

By L. C. MARTIN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—With the ban on beer brewing lifted for December 1, and with whiskey manufacture already stopped for the period of the war, "wet" and "dry" attention together with that of congress, centered today on President Wilson's attitude toward the Sheppard "bonus day" rider in the agriculture bill.

In some quarters there is a pronouncement and growing opinion that the president will reassert the objection he has made all along to settling the nation-wide prohibition through an amendment to an agriculture bill—objection which he made very emphatic when the house, in passing the same bill, locked the Randall bonus day amendment to it. His well known adherence to the principle that the people of each state should determine their own future on the question of liquor figures. In this he is supported by some of his cabinet.

Dry Early Next Year

The result of the new cabinet beer order would be to make the country bone dry soon after the beginning of 1919, even though the Sheppard amendment should not be allowed to become operative.

This drought will exist despite the fact that several million gallons of whiskey will remain in stock at the beginning of 1919. But with a war tax of a gallon imposed by the new revenue bill and the price of whiskey constantly going up, the consumption will be limited to comparatively few.

Stopping of the brewing of beer will remove that beverage inasmuch as no stock of it is held in large quantities, has been or can be accumulated.

In some quarters the president's believer was taken as suggesting he means to veto the Sheppard provision, because the beer order and the whiskey provision serve the same purpose and meantime, more states can settle the matter for themselves by voting on the constitutional amendment.

Goals to Conference

The bill containing the dry amendment went back to the house today and was expected to be sent to conference. Senator Sheppard said he believed the house, either as a body or in conference, will accept a amendment to the Randall amendment.

The Randall provision forbids use of the $25,000,000 appropriated by the bill until the president had forbidden use of grain or foodstuffs in manufacturing beer, wine or whiskey. The Sheppard provision ends manufacture of beer and on May 30, 1918, and sale of all intoxicants on June 30. Sheppard is confident his amendment will receive presidential sanction.

GETS ORDERS TO STOP RECRUITING

Corporal Leonard Brimley Leaves Here to Enter Army Signal Corps

An order forbidding the acceptance of enlistments in the army of any nature, whatever was submitted to the order received Friday by Corporal Leonard Brimley of the local United States army recruiting station. The order, for duty in the army signal corps.

The furniture and supplies of the local recruiting station have been packed ready for shipment several days in anticipation of the receipt of the order closing the station. Sergeant Claude C. McGee, who had been in charge since May 1, left Sunday for Fort Douglas, Utah, and was reported for duty in the army medical department, and First Class Private Charles B. Frith, who has applied for transfer into the quartermaster corps, expects to be called from here in the near future.

Corporal Brimley left Friday evening for Fort Douglas. He had been assigned to duty at the local recruiting station since January 1, 1918. He enlisted April 25, 1917, and is detailed at present on duty in the recruiting service.

The applications for transfer into other branches where he might see active service have, up to this time, been devoted by his commanding officer. During his stay in Twin Falls, Corporal Brimley played cornet in the Twin Falls band, and made a large number of friends and acquaintances who wish him well in his new duties.

WOULD CUT OFF GERMAN TRADE FOR ALL TIME

Head of British Commercial Mission in South America Outlines Views on After War Business

AMERICAN AND BRITISH INTERESTS IDENTICAL

Favors Tacit Understanding Between Two Governments to Check Hun Trade Domination in Latin Republics

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—Suggestion for a "tacit" understanding between the commercial interests of the United States and Great Britain in South America, to prevent German commercial domination, and a rivalry which might prove detrimental to the allied powers, was offered today in an interview by Sir Maurice de Bunsen with the United Press. Sir Maurice has just completed a long trip through South American countries as head of a British commercial mission and was formerly ambassador to Vienna. His knowledge of the trade situation is regarded as timely because of the similarity of the interests for American and British business in South America.

"In traveling through practically every South American country," said Sir Maurice, "I found the people growing more strongly in favor of the cause of the Allies. We naturally expected strong sympathy in Brazil because that country is actively engaged on our side. We were greatly surprised to find warm feeling toward us not only in Brazil, but in Argentina, Uruguay and many other South American countries."

Opinion Favors Allies

"While the governments of the various republics in South America are still maintaining strict neutrality and are slight about going to war, public opinion there is becoming increasingly favorable to the allies, and it is going to see them all take up the fight against Germany."

"Germany's trade organization in South America has been almost entirely knocked out by the war, and still open in certain South American countries but they are doing practically no business. Forced to cut off exports when going into war, Germany was unable to send into South America, to work simultaneously in manufactured goods which formed the bulk of her trade. She is undoubtedly preparing to resume her operations there after the war."

But it is entirely possible for the Allies—particularly Great Britain and America, to work diplomatically in South America and prevent German commercial domination. I expect to see a tacit working understanding between the British and American interests which will prevent any rivalry detrimental to our nations and which will permit both countries to develop their interests in harmony. While a formal agreement to this end may not be made, I believe the tie which binds us together, though it is not written and acknowledged in the usual manner."

Views in Harmony

"During my visit to South America I found complete harmony between representatives of both American and British trade interests and I believe we are well agreed that there is room in that large and still undeveloped continent for all of us. British capital has been chiefly put into railroad construction. Americans have gone in heavily for mining. In the score of other activities I expect to see great progress after the war."

"With a continuance of good feeling between Britain and America there is no reason why Germany cannot be decisively beaten in any fight for trade supremacy she may attempt in South America."

May Remain Permanent

Sir Maurice already has had one important conference with Secretary of State Lansing since he returned from South America, and will advise with other officials while here. His arrival here gave rise to some diplomatic gossip that he might remain in British minister if home demands kept Lord Reading in England.

SHOWING TONIGHT AT THE IDAHO THEATRE

With the Red Cross Work At Home and Abroad

The annual election of officers for the Twin Falls County Red Cross chapter will be held at Twin Falls, October 23.

The quarterly meeting of the ladies and auxiliaries of the Twin Falls County chapter will take place Saturday, September 7, at 3 o'clock, Moose hall. All interested in the work are urged to attend.

New classes in First Aid will be started next week. Arrangements in this work see Dr. Scott at once. All donations intended for the Twin Falls branch should be designated as such and left at the headquarters of the branch in the basement of the Methodist church.

The chapter is very anxious to fill the knitting quota sent us from headquarters as soon as possible. The time set for shipping is past and there is still yarn at the different branches to be made into socks. The chapter hopes this will be taken out, knitted and returned at once so that the completed quota can be shipped and be off our hands.

Northwestern division still needs 225 graduate nurses to complete its allotment before the new year. On August 1, slightly fewer than one-third of the number of graduate nurses needed to complete this year's allotment had enrolled and been assigned, notwithstanding the A. R. C. has been working on an intensive nation-wide recruiting campaign and an urgent appeal has come from Surgeon Gorgas that they must have 8,000 additional nurses by October 1, and the remainder of the 27,000 before the new year. Every eligible nurse should respond and do so promptly. This enrollment will be the largest number of graduate nurses ever enrolled for any army or navy, and those who take part in it are going to be proud of the fact.

Want Cheerful Women Workers For Red Cross Service in France

Several hundred American women whose dispositions are of the cheerful variety are wanted in France for work in the Red Cross hospital units. An essential requisite for the work is that their duty will be to spread cheer among the boys who are convalescing after wounds received on the battle field or from attacks of illness. One hundred and fifty of these workers have already been enrolled, while 432 is the number estimated to be supplied before the first of January, 1919.

Buttons Now Give Way to Loop

The staid stiffness of light buttoning seems to be a lost art, if the early models in fall wear may be taken as criterion. The loose, careless main-loop is seen everywhere, this black satin blouse with taupe sleeves being an ideal example of the use to which the loop may be used. On the right, the coarseness of Ribara of navy blue trimmed in black, brail, has the careless satin loop as a dominating to the fantastic coat. This model may also be worn as a dress.

SAVE DAY'S PAY NEW WAR SLOGAN

State Committee Urges Citizens to Help Make Up W. S. S. Quota Deficit

As a measure toward the fulfillment of Idaho's War Savings Stamp quota, the state executive committee urges every citizen on September 16 to invest his day's pay in these government securities. Following is the text of the instructions sent out by the committee:

Every person in the state of Idaho is earnestly urged to save a day's pay on September 16th to buy War Savings Stamps.

Idaho is far behind her War Savings quota. The August sales were abominably small.

Now, what are you going to do to help Idaho reach her quota? Will you apply your wages or earnings for one day—September 16th—to the purchase of War Savings Stamps?

You are not asked for a donation. You are merely lending Uncle Sam your money at a good rate of interest—saving for yourself and at the same time helping to win the war. Idaho boys are driving back the Hun. The people of Idaho must back them up. The plan must reach its quota.

You must do your part—buy one day's pay worth of War Savings Stamps on September 16.

LAST TIME TONIGHT at the IDAHO

SEES TRAGEDY OF FRENCH BABIES

"Can you imagine anything more pitiful than the lives of children who have never known anything but war? Is there anywhere on God's green earth a more dreadful tragedy than the tragedy of a loved childhood?" asked Dr. Esther Leighton on returning from Red Cross work in France.

"I have spent six months in the nearest approach to hell that exists," she writes, in an out of the teachings of the theologians—the hell where babies are born to hear the sound of bursting shells as their introduction to this world of ours, where little ones learn their mother tongue only furiously and in whispers, where children must learn to wear their little gas masks as soon as they learn to walk, where suspicion and fear rule and love and confidence are rare, and I'm going back again to stay until the German army and German ideas and beliefs are wiped off the face of the earth."

When she first went to France last August it was with no idea of remaining. She had been practicing medicine in her home city of Portland, Ore., for a good many years—incidentally having held the post of health commissioner. She went East to attend the 1917 annual convention of the Medical Women's National Association, and that organization asked her to make the trip to France to report on the needs of French women and children and the ways in which American women physicians could help. She went, and joined the Red Cross staff.

RAUGOUES IN "PRUNELLA"

Julius Inceourt, who has recently completed "La Tosca," with Pauline Frederick, will appear in support of Marguerite Clark in that appealing little star's screen version of "Prunella." This, as will be remembered, was the last stage vehicle in which Miss Clark appeared on the "legitimate" stage.

Doug Fairbanks has produced a propaganda scenario for the exclusive use of the war department. If you want to see the film, you'll have to join the army.

OUR SAVED FOOD FED THE ALLIES

Food Administrator Writes President America Conserved 141,000,000 Bushels Wheat.

CREDIT DUE TO WOMEN

Meat and Fat Shipments Increased by $44,600,000 Pounds.

Conservation measures applied by the American people enabled the United States to ship to the Allied peoples and to our own forces over 141,000,000 bushels of wheat and 844,000,000 pounds of meat during the past year, valued in all at $1,400,000,000. This was accomplished in the face of a serious food shortage in this country, despite the wholeheartedness and patriotism with which the American people have met the food crisis abroad.

Food Administrator Hoover, in a letter to President Wilson, explains how the situation was met. The voluntary conservation program fostered by the Food Administration enabled the piling up of the millions of bushels of wheat during 1917-18 and the shipment of meat during 1917-18.

The total value of all food shipments to Allied destinations amounted to $1,400,000,000, all this food being bought through or in collaboration with the Food Administration. These figures are all based on official reports and represent food exports for the harvest year that closed June 30, 1918.

The shipments of meats and fats (including meat products, dairy products, vegetable oils, etc.) to Allied destinations were as follows:

Fiscal year 1917-18.....2,160,000,000 lbs.
Fiscal year 1917-18.....3,011,100,000 lbs.

Increase.....844,000,000 lbs.

The shagbark hickory animals at the beginning of the last fiscal year were not appreciably larger than the year before and particularly in hogs; they were probably less. The increase in shipments is due to conservation efforts and the extra weight of animals added by our farmers.

The full effect of these efforts began to bear their best results in the last half of the fiscal year, when the exports to the Allies were 2,133,100,000 pounds, as against 1,263,500,000 pounds in the same period of the year before. This compares with an average of 1,000,000,000 pounds of total exports the same half years in the three-year pre-war period.

In cereals and cereal products received terms of credit bushels of wheat shipments to Allied destinations were:

Fiscal year 1917-18.....2,220,000,000 bushels
Fiscal year 1917-18.....340,600,000 bushels

Increase.....80,000,000 bushels

Of these cereals our shipments of the prime breadstuffs in the fiscal year 1917-18 to Allied destinations were:

Wheat 131,000,000 bushels and of rye 12,000,000 bushels, a total of 143,000,000 bushels.

The exports to Allied destinations during the fiscal year 1917-18 were: Wheat 160,000 bushels and of rye 2,000,000 bushels, a total of 137,000,000 bushels. In addition some 10,000,000 bushels of 1917 wheat are now in port for Allied destinations or en route thereto. Our wheat shipments to other countries from our last harvest of wheat will be therefore, about 241,000,000 bushels, or a total of 154,000,000 bushels of prime breadstuffs. In addition our wheat shipments to other 10,000,000 bushels to neutral countries upon us, and we have received some imports from other quarters.

Our accomplishment of our policy in this matter stands out even more clearly if we bear in mind that we had available in the fiscal year 1917-18 from net carry-over and as surplus over our normal consumption about 200,000,000 bushels of wheat which we were able to export that year without trenching on our home loaf. Mr. Hoover writes, "This last year, however, owing to the large failure of the 1917 wheat crop, we had available from net carry-over and production and imports just about our normal consumption."

Therefore our wheat shipments to Allied destinations represent approximately savings from our own wheat bread.

"These figures, however, do not fully cover the volume of the effort and sacrifice made during the past year by the whole American people. Despite the magnificent effort of our agricultural people in planting a much increased acreage in 1917, not only was there a very large failure in wheat, but also the corn failed to mature properly, and our corn is our dominant crop, our staple." Mr. Hoover writes, concluding his report, "that all the millions of our people, agricultural as well as urban, who have contributed these resources could feel a very definite satisfaction that in a year of universal food shortages in the northern hemisphere all of those people joined together against Germany have come through into sight of the coming harvest not only with wealth and strength fully maintained, but with only temporary periods of hardship.

It is difficult to distinguish between various sections of our people—the homes, public eating places, food trades, urban or agricultural populations—in assessing credit for these results, but no one will deny the dominant part of the American woman."
