GERMANS BUSY IN BIG EFFORT TO GAIN TIME

Abandonment of Hindenburg Line Between Cambrai and St. Quentin Necessitates Straightening of Front

HUM FORCES WITHER UNDER GALLING FIRE

Desperate Enemy Effort Under Way to Prevent Loss of Fortress of Lille in Interests of Homé Morale

By J. W. T. MASON
NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—Having abandoned the Hindenburg line between Cambrai and St. Quentin, the Germans must now be compelled to hold up their retirement for the moment in this area, while they move back their northern front to join with the new aligned front.

A dangerous salient exists between Lens and Arras, which subjects the Germans to a heavy cross fire and which is being used up Hindenburg's spare reserves. The line from Arras to Lens must quickly be brought to conform to the new front between Cambrai and St. Quentin as a measure of man-power economy. It is probable, however, that the Kaiser will not abandon Lille without a severe struggle. The loss to the German morale would be very acutely felt if this effort manufacturing center was to be wrested back by the allies.

Close to Belgian Boundary

Lille is now close to the Belgian boundary that it forms a part of the Franco-Belgian-German border. For this reason the Belgians themselves are beginning to threaten by their movements to cut off Arras and Liège. This same operation, if successful, will tend to outflank Lille from the north and make a fear attack upon the city possible.

May Gain Few Men

It is doubtful, however, whether Von Hindenburg will succeed. He may secure a new reserve of 25,000 men by shortening his front line west of Lille but this would be able to make a quick advance further north in Belgium.

When the present German retirement west of Lille comes to an end, it will terminate the retreat in that sector as far as Von Hindenburg is able to control his own strategy and along the Belgian territory for trading purposes when peace is declared. Thereafter any further retrograde movement will mean the beginning of the abandonment of Belgium and a direct march backward to Germany and the Rhine.

Mrs. J. N. Dyren returned last week from a visit in Portland. While there she attended the G. A. R. convention.

LOOSEN UP, TURTLE

The Fourth Liberty Loan is the first item on the program of national war finance since the announcement of our intention to put five million men in France and finish the war next year. On our response, to its call for our dollars our friends and enemies will judge of our sincerity and earnestness in making that pledge.

The nation's resources are ample. The success of the Fourth Liberty Loan depends on our converting a share of these resources into Fourth Liberty Bonds. Nothing more. The loan should be subscribed the first day and over-subscribed the second day.

Buy Liberty Bonds. Don't be a Turtle.

TAYLOR RESIGNS AS CHAIRMAN OF STATE COMMITTEE

Gossip Connects Withdrawal With Admission That Former Gov. Gooding's Name Was Signed to Letter

BOISE, Oct. 4.—S. D. Taylor, chairman of the Republican state central committee, has wired his resignation to headquarters, according to announcement made here today. Mr. Taylor has been out of the city for some time and it is said that he will not return for several weeks.

No further statement is made, but political gossip connects the resignation with the admission by Chairman Taylor that he signed former Governor Gooding's name to a letter stating Mr. Gooding would accept the Non-Partisan league endorsement for senator if it came in the proper spirit, although not solicited.

When the Non-Partisan league leaders, as part of their fight on Mr. Gooding, made public the letter, Mr. Gooding promptly pronounced it a forgery. Chairman Taylor was in north Idaho then enroute to Boise, and when he returned he said he had taken the liberty to sign Mr. Gooding's name to the letter, feeling that he was justified in view of the then probabilities that the league would endorse the Republican platform and straight Republican ticket.

TWIN FALLS GIRLS ARE SEEING WASHINGTON

Young Women in War Service Visit Points of Interest About National Capital

(Special to The News) WASHINGTON, D. C.—Misses Gertrude Mecher and Esther Anderson of Twin Falls, who are employed here in war service, spent last Sunday with the former's brother, Musician Herman G. Mecher at Camp Dix, New Jersey. Musician Mecher is a member of the Standard division, which recently returned to Camp Dix from New Mexico and expects to leave for France very soon. After walking all over the camp, which is by no means a small one, they went to Philadelphia by auto, where they took a look at the Independence Hall and stood on the spot where Abraham Lincoln stood when he raised the flag on Independence Hall February 22, 1861. They also crossed the Delaware—not the way George Washington did—but on a ferry, and had a ride on the subway. They say they enjoyed every bit of their trip from the time they left Washington, at 12:40 a. m. Sunday—until their return at 2:40 a. m. Monday morning. After Otto Bann, formerly of Anaheim, California, now stationed at the Navy Yard at Philadelphia, was Musician Mecher's other visitor for the day.

Misses Eleanor Taylor and May Holt spent last Sunday with a picnic party at Great Falls, Virginia. They report a delightful day, enjoying the beautiful scenery of the Potomac River, but say that the water level cannot compare with Shoshone Falls in size. They also had the pleasure of hearing Geraldine Farrar sing at the Central high school last evening, and heard the vice president speak. Miss Taylor is now private secretary to Congressman Charles B. Timmerlake of Colorado.

Misses Helene and Wednesday are attending the Reconstruction Chapter of the Red Cross, during socks for the soldiers.

cupied a series of machine gun nests.

A number of prisoners, guns and supplies were captured.

Unofficial dispatches from Paris yesterday reported, "some divisions" of Americans attacking with General Gourand's men in the Champagne. The battle was said to be "progressing favorably." There was heavy artillery fighting along the Argonne-Meuse sector. The weather continues cold and is fatal for fighting.

In addition to the artillery fighting between the Argonne and the Meuse, there is some machine gun activity along the wooded points. Last night, the Americans made a successful gas projector attack on the Germans at Villennes, on the north bank of the Meuse, two miles east of Drinelleux.

North of St. Quentin, more than 4,000 prisoners were taken yesterday. The British have advanced about a mile farther between Arrastieres and Lens, reaching the railway east of the latter place.

Take 4,000 Prisoners

"At the close of fighting yesterday, we held the high ground a mile west of Souhahat and have successfully beaten off the enemy's counter attack on Gony and Locatelo," the statement said.

"A second counter attack against Souhahat was also repulsed."

"Prisoners in yesterday's operations against St. Quentin exceeded 4,000."

Beach Railway

"During the night there was local fighting in our advance southwest of Beasnoy and on the southern outskirts of Cambrai."

"North of the Scarpe, we made progress between Ouhay and Mericourt."

"Further north our advance troops reached the railway east of Lens. They have attained the general line of Ven-doulo-Viel, Wignoles, Berlesau, Fournes-en-Weppes and Houplines."

of Lille. Armentieres in France, just south of the Franco-Belgian border, has been taken.

The encircling movement designed to pinch off the St. Gobain Massif and win back Laon, is proceeding methodically. The French troops between St. Quentin and La Fere are timing their advances to co-operate perfectly with the French forces between the Allotte and Vesle. General Berthelot's men are on the Aisne river, only three miles from Craonne.

A new Franco-American attack, launched northeast of Rheims yesterday morning, has already resulted in an advance of about three miles and the battle is still under way.

Complete evacuation of Aiblingen by Austrian forces already has been announced by Vienna. Italian troops, in pursuit, have retaken the important city of Berat. The Austrian war office announced that withdrawals were "rendered necessary by events of the Bulgarian front."

The allied naval victory at Durazzo, may seriously affect Austria's plans. Durazzo is on the Adriatic 80 miles north of Alvona, which was the principle base of Italian operations in Albania. It is less than 90 miles from Brindisi, on the Italian coast. Landing of an allied army here which would co-operate with the Serbian, British, French and Italians, who have pushed north of Durazzo in Serbia, might result in cutting off the retreating Austrians.
