

FRENCH MAKE RAPID PROGRESS AT MIDDLE OF LARGE BATTLE FRONT

GERMANY REPORTED TO HAVE ACCEPTED ALL OF PRESIDENT'S NEW PEACE TERMS

Flood of Sensational Rumors Causes Great Excitement in European Capitols--Reports Say That Germany Has Capitulated and That the Kaiser Has Abdicated.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The Mieuwe Rotterdamse Courant publishes a telegram from Hamburg saying that Germany has capitulated. According to Exchange Telegraph company dispatch from Amsterdam, it is reported from Berlin that Germany accepts all of President Wilson's conditions, provided the interests of the German people are safeguarded. There is a persistent revival of reports that the Kaiser has abdicated. The report from Amsterdam that Germany has accepted all of President Wilson's conditions is believed here to be approximately correct.

KAISER'S RULE SHORTLY TO BE BROUGHT TO END

Openly and Guardedly German Press Voices Dissatisfaction of People With Murder Regime of Hohenzollerns

By ROBERT J. BENDER WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Upon a growing dissatisfaction in Germany over Kaiser rule, authorities here today based the view that the Hohenzollern power will soon crumble and that the Wilson peace terms will then be accepted. Both openly and guardedly, the German press is voicing its dissatisfaction with things as they are in German political life. The comment expressing discontent with the Kaiser's autocratic power, is now becoming so general that the all-powerful German censor apparently does not dare kill it.

TURK MINISTRY THROWS UP JOB

Pro-German Cabinet Succeeded by Izzet Pasha, an Advocate of Early Peace

COOPENHAGEN, Oct. 16.—The Turkish Ministry in Turkey has resigned and Izzet Pasha has been named grand vizier and minister of war, according to advices from Constantinople received here today. The Turkish minister was pro-German and under predominance of Enver Pasha. Izzet Pasha is an advocate of peace.

Cabinet Crisis Confronts Austria

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Count Sylvia Tarnowski has been nominated by Emperor Charles to form a new Austrian cabinet, according to unconfirmed diplomatic reports reaching here today. Count Hussarek's resignation as premier has been accepted, the cabinet stated.

FOCH CUTS HUN TENTACLES FROM VANTAGE POINTS IN FRANCE

GERMANY'S tentacles in France and Belgium are today being prised loose from vantage points to which they have clung since 1914.

Both flanks of the battle line, which reached from the North Sea to Verdun, are in imminent danger of being crushed. Such a blow would take the whole German front. In Flanders, attacking the northern flank, the British, French and Belgians have pushed westward until they are directly south of Bruges. At the same time, the Allied forces are spreading out toward the coast. They have reached Thourout, ten miles from Bruges. Further progress in that direction will force the Germans to evacuate the channel ports of Ostend and Zeebrugge.

Rainy weather in Flanders is reported to be rendering the advance difficult, but already more than 12,000 prisoners have been taken, and gains of the highest importance have been made. The road center of Menin has fallen to Haig and Lille is only three miles beyond the British advanced line.

Americans battering the southern flank of the German front are attacking the Kriemhilde line positions northwest of Verdun. In this region the line runs east and west, and a break through would enable Pershing's men to pour through into the region behind the German armies. Breaches have been blown in the Kriemhilde defenses, but no definite break through has yet been made.

Meanwhile, the French continue to advance north of La Perre and Lunon. They have taken Pouilly Sur Serre in this region, and threaten to trap the Germans along the Oise from Guise southward, who are in a steadily narrowing pocket. In the Champagne, the French now hold the Vouziers-Grandpre road. This shows that a portion of the northern part of the Argonne forest has been conquered.

The Vienna war office last night admitted the loss of Durazzo, the Albanian naval base, to the Italians. The official statement indicated that the Austrian retreat from Albania was rapid, with the Italians in hot pursuit.

CRUISING RADIUS FOR U-BOATS IS MUCH REDUCED

Ostend and Zeebrugge Can No Longer Be Used as Submarine Base—Must Return to Home Ports for Torpedoes

By J. W. T. MASON NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Ostend and Zeebrugge can no longer be used by the Germans as supply bases, for their submarines.

The Allied advance into Belgium has already cut the principal railway leading to Ostend by way of Thourout. There remains a second railway which passes through Bruges and branches off to Ostend and Zeebrugge.

Germany Close By French cavalry, however, is approaching so near to this line that it would be foolhardy for the Germans to continue sending over it supplies which would be destined for ultimate capture.

Instead of this sole remaining line of communications being used to carry supplies to the Belgian coast for the U-boats, there is every reason to believe that the Germans are trying to employ it to receive all they can from Zeebrugge before the Allies close in upon those ports.

Forwarding of torpedoes for the submarines to Ostend and Zeebrugge for the destruction of Allied shipping can be undertaken only by way of the Belgian railroads. There is no other means of communications. The Germans cannot send torpedoes from German ports to the Belgian coast by submarine carriers. To reload their magazines, therefore, the submarine pirate must now make their way back to German territorial waters after the termination of every raid. Their outward and return trips will add 500 miles to the necessary journeys of the submarines before they reach the lanes of the trans-Atlantic shipping.

Pirates at Disadvantage This means the pirate must shorten the period they can remain at sea in wait for their victims by several days. Otherwise their supplies will become exhausted. It also means the U-boats must quit a beach long as they get out past the Allied patrol ships off the coast of Belgium and Holland.

There will now be a greater toll of submarines taken than ever before. At the same time, despite the Kaiser's effort to lighten the intensity of submarine warfare, the Allies' shipping losses should show a rapid decline.

ALLIES SLOWLY ENCIRCLE HUN U-BOAT BASES

Capture of Menin Results in Severance of Important Line of Communication—Men Would Talk Peace with Gun

By LOWELL MELLETT WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FLANDERS, Oct. 16.—Allied forces diving into Belgium have thrust their wedge across the road from Bruges to Courtray, severing another artery of communication to the U-boat base.

French artillery have swept over Lichtervelde and Thourout, advancing toward Bruges and the sea. Toward the southern end of the fighting front Menin has been taken and Haig's men are in the north of Haubourdin, three miles from Lille.

The Germans are using prodigally the great stores of shells in their Belgian coast bases. It is becoming evident they will be unable to save those munitions, so the enemy is using them up as fast as possible. Their batteries gave out a more subdued response than any other time in recent weeks.

Talk Peace With Shells "What's (hang) the peace (hang) news now (hang)?" asked a British officer on the northern front today as the great battle raged and the shells exploded all around. So the conversations were carried on, every two or three words being punctuated by a jarring crash. It was a real two-sided contest.

Although the Germans are forced to spend lavishly their shells to keep them from falling into the hands of the Allies, they had time to remove a considerable quantity of material before the long-dreaded Belgian offensive was launched.

Thrombic New Division A new Prussian guard division was encountered in this fighting, making a total of 30 such divisions encountered since the beginning of the American offensive in this region.

At the start of the present phase of the assault the Americans jumped off at 8:30 o'clock in the morning and gained their first objectives at some points with great rapidity. In many cases there was only slight opposition due to the deadliness of Yankee artillery fire.

In the region of Canal and Bois du Foret the Germans used "clackers," which made the same sound as machine guns.

VERVINS FIRST OBJECTIVE OF LATEST FRENCH MOVE

French Force Way Across Aisne in Face of Stiff Resistance—Rethel Being Outflanked by Gains in Champagne Region—Foch Seeks to Break Between Main German Armies

By JOHN D. GANDY PARIS, Oct. 16.—French forces are driving forward today at vital points on the German left flank, north of Laon, and in the Champagne. The enemy is being pushed back upon the difficult Ardennes country.

Latest dispatches from the battle front indicate that the fifth army, now under command of General Guillaumat, is making progress toward Mont Cornet and Vervins, which is 25 miles north of Laon and 15 miles from the Belgian border. Mont Cornet is 20 miles southeast of Vervins.

Further to the right, in the Champagne, Rethel is being outflanked, while the Germans are unsuccessfully endeavoring to prevent the French from crossing the Aisne.

Brilliant Strategist Takes Charge

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—A new offensive has been begun by the French to cut off the German armies in the Champagne, through the capture of the fortresses of Hirsau, which guards the southwest corner of the Ardennes massif.

General Guillaumat has been relieved of his duties as governor of Paris, and has been sent to the front, to command the immensely important operation. General Guillaumat is one of Marshal Foch's most brilliant strategists, and has largely responsible for the successful defense of Verdun against the German crown prince.

He was made military governor of Paris last June, when Von Hindenburg developed his attacks which threatened the capture of the French capital.

The sudden dispatch of General Guillaumat to Laon after in command of the fifth French army is very significant. It means that Marshal Foch has applied the possibility of moving upon Hirsau along the railway through Veruins, and severing direct connection between the German armies in western France, eastern France and Belgium, and the German armies in the Champagne. It is only by pivoting around the Hirsau corner that Von Hindenburg's troops in the Champagne can find a direct route to Belgium.

LIBERTY LOAN IS LOOKING BETTER

Overcoming Handicap of Peace Talk and Influenza, is Official's Belief

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Overcoming the handicap of peace talk and influenza, the fourth Liberty Loan today was gathering its greatest momentum for the campaign. For the first time since the canvassing started, September 23, loan officials here were optimistic.

Early reports were of the decidedly encouraging variety and pointed to an actively never before equaled in the long campaign. The outstanding feature of the day's telegram to loan headquarters was the increasing number of "large subscriptions." Chicago loan officials telegraphed that pledges of great sums were pouring into the committee's headquarters, while at the same time there was no decrease in the number of small subscriptions.

The work today throughout the country was expected to show encouraging results in tonight's closing. The race between the St. Louis and Minneapolis districts was closer today. St. Louis had 83 per cent of its quota, while Minneapolis reported 80 per cent subscribed.

From Boston, New York and Philadelphia districts the reports were more encouraging.

YANKS STRIVE TO SMASH HOLE IN NEW FRONT

Kriemhilde Line Is Object of New Offensive—Artillery and Infantry Batter Latest Hun Defensive System

By FRED S. FERGUSON NORTH OF VERDUN, Oct. 16.—American troops are making another breach in the Kriemhilde line in the region of St. George. The enemy is fighting with the utmost desperation. A break between the Aisne and the Meuse rivers means the collapse of the entire German front in this section.

Should the Americans break through here the enemy's left flank would be shattered and the effects would probably be felt all along the line which has been shored back by recent success of the Allies further north.

Heavy showers of shells and shell fire. Dun-Sur-Meuse, Steussy and other big railway centers have been repeatedly bombed by our airplanes.

Break Would Cut Off Retreat The way is being cleared for a further advance and the enemy communications are constantly being harried.

The Americans, steadily pushing on, are narrowing the gap between the lines which the Germans can withdraw. Rapid gains by the British and French to the northward make it necessary for the boche to offer the stiffest resistance to the Americans in this region.

There are no indications that the enemy is moving in before the Americans. If he does, it means the finish of the war will be on French soil, as communications between the German armies will be cut and they will be doomed.

Americans Pushing Northward

By FRANK J. TAYLOR WITH THE AMERICAN FIRST ARMY, Oct. 16.—Fighting through belts of German wire in the face of showers of hand grenades, the men of the first army have mopped up Grandpre, crossed the pass through the Argonne, and are pushing on.

Captured German wires stated that Grandpre must be held at all costs. The Americans widened their breach in the Kriemhilde line in an all-day fight, netting their biggest day along the Aisne. The doughboys stormed St. Jovine.

It was bitter fighting between St. George and Landres east of Grandpre, where our troops penetrated formidable wire defenses in the face of terrific machine gun fire.

Nearer the Meuse, our tanks helped clean out the machine gun nests and led the infantry in its assault.

The Germans are desperately throwing in reinforcements in an attempt to prevent a complete breakthrough through their communications near Grandpre. Two German counter-attacks were defeated.

Yanks Take Hill and Hold It Fourth Time HAWSPUR, Oct. 16.—Capture of all 520 by American troops after it had changed hands three times, is reported in the communications from General Fanning today. The report shows a heavy advance on the part of the Meuse, where French and American troops engaged in fierce hand-to-hand fighting with the enemy.

Entered as second-class matter April 9, 1918, at the postoffice at Twin Falls, Idaho, under the Act of March 3, 1879.

NON-PARTISAN OR SOCIALIST?

When the proposition of establishing an organization of farmers throughout Idaho for the political benefit of the farming business and the most engaged in it was first broached, the suggestion was well received by the farmers and by the public generally. Towley was a comparatively unknown factor; so was the matter of the Nonpartisan League's aims and program. A little later the aims of the organization were made clear; the farmers accepted the teachings of the League organizers and the League newspapers, and business men generally, outside of perhaps the few who can always be depended on to fight reforms of the kind proposed, tacitly or not openly approved the move.

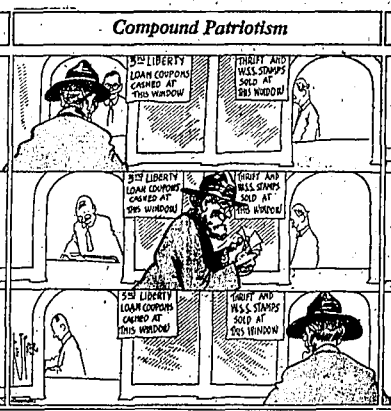

Mr. Roosevelt approved of the Nonpartisan League in the early days of its inception. Senator Borah approved of it—may still approve of it for all we know. There was no general opposition to the movement among any class. This was due to the fact that most thinking men have long since arrived at the conclusion that the farmer as a class was not receiving and had never received a square deal. It is idle to argue the point. No fair-minded man can get away from the fact that every single business connected with the entire grain industry has made money with the solitary exception of the man who grows the grain. Grain brokers, grain elevators, warehouses and mills have piled up reasonable and in some cases unreasonable profits. The farmer has exacted only a living from his efforts.

There are of course many cases of rich farmers, and during the past two years these cases have multiplied rapidly, but in a general way for a good many years now, the farmer grew the wheat and the marketing was in the hands of somebody else. There was no fixed price for wheat, the farmer took what he could get, and what he could get was a long way from being "officially" fixed by the law of supply and demand. Farmers who have grown rich under this system are exceptional. Through the possession of business acumen, unusual sagacity, tireless energy and the cunning of a shyster lawyer, here and there examples of the kind were to be found. These men were simply the exceptions which proved the rule.

These things were well understood, not only by farmers but by business men, and as long as the Nonpartisan League promised a measure of reform of these evils, we repeat, there was no opposition, but rather the cordial good wishes of all.

Honorable, sincere and well-meaning men joined the Nonpartisan League. They believed in the League program as announced in the League platform and they listened to League speakers and delivered addresses which were two-thirds farm reforms and one-third the help-Win-the-War patriotism. There can be no question of the thoroughly patriotic character of these speeches. From no single outside speaker who ever addressed an Idaho audience has there been one word in any manner reflecting on the wisdom or propriety of the government or any of its acts.

All these things, the outward and visible signs of the institution looked upon, not only to the farmers but to others. The League was accepted at Twin Falls.

Washington Small Boy Just Now Much Disturbed

THAT the public schools of the District of Columbia should be kept open for twelve months every year was the sentiment of a group of L. T. Thurston, superintendent of schools. Confirmed in this belief by the experience of school officials of other cities, who have found that keeping the schools open for educational purposes has resulted in spending up educational funds and bettering the standards of both pupils and teachers. Mr. Thurston strongly urged that the District schools be put under the quarterly system, with small vacations between the quarters. This system will speed up educational progress in Washington. Last year about 1,200 pupils were accommodated in grade schools opening during the summer scattered throughout the city. Two high schools were open during the summer period of about six weeks. An appropriation estimate now before congress as part of the regular District appropriation bill carries provision for money to permit many of the District high and grade schools to remain open during the summer months.

At Eveleth, Minnesota, the all-year school has grown out of a summer school that has been successfully conducted for the past six or seven years. The superintendent reports that at a year ago, when special efforts were made to increase the enrollment of the summer school over 600 pupils, it was decided to open definitely to an all-year organization consisting of four terms, spring, summer, fall and winter, three school months in each term.

not be accepted at face value, even by its own membership. Too much water has passed under the bridge in the past few weeks to permit any fair-minded man to continue to longer regard the institution as a non-partisan farmers' organization organized with the sole object of helping to bring about better conditions for the farmer. Charges have been made which never would have been the light of day had they not been utterly and absolutely true. Aspirations have been cast upon League leaders by men whose loyalty, sincerity and honesty of intent is backed by a lifetime of clean public activity. Theodore Roosevelt is today engaged in telling the people of America that the men who are at the head of the institution are a menace to the integrity of the American government. Other men almost as well known, writers and lecturers all over the east and middle west, offer similar accusations. No American citizen worthy of the name can longer afford to ignore these charges or the facts with which they are apporated.

Briefly, the reasons offered for questioning the honesty of purpose of the men at the head of the Nonpartisan League are, first, that the League is engaged in covertly spreading the doctrine of socialism under a new guise at a time when the socialist party does not square with loyalty to the government; second, that in the pursuit of this object, it has set avowed socialists, and in at least one instance, an I. W. O. sympathizer, among the farmers under the guise of League organizers; third, that its national secretary, Arthur Le Sueur, is a friend and sympathetic co-worker with the notorious Bill Haywood, now serving a term in Federal prison for activities in opposition to governmental authority; and fourth, that A. C. Towley, president of the League, is himself an avowed socialist.

GAME FOR FREEDOM

By RICHARD MARKLEY. (Copyright, 1917, Western Newspaper Union)

"Good-bye, Pete; good-bye Glanville," said Colonel St. Ledger to a negro and the wife who by accident he had taken on board a steamer at Vicksburg, in 1916. "I hope you will get a good master. I was about to give you my freedom when this blow fell upon me. The law takes you out of my hands and I have no power to make you free. The vessel which I had a heart as big as an oak had endorsed a note to save a friend from bankruptcy, and thereby become a bankrupt himself."

"I'll know that, Mrs. Colonel," said the woman. "Don't you worry about that; you couldn't help it. The slaves were taken aboard the boat which was bound for New Orleans, during the night of their escape, but as some of them were off on their journey southward they were able to bewail their probable coming separation; for they would doubtless be sold to different masters."

In those days the steamers plying on the Mississippi river were infested with gamblers. In the cabin of the steamer on which these slaves were taken, were half a dozen tables around which sat card players with chips of money stacked up before them. A man who had marked him for a clerkman, went to one of the tables and said to those playing:

"Gentlemen, there are a couple of slaves on this boat, a man and his wife, who are going to New Orleans to be sold, but I don't want to see them. I have suggested to me that a game of 'freese out' be played for them—that ever that may be—the winner to give them their freedom. Will someone please tell me what is a 'freese out' game?"

"That's just the game," said one of the gamblers, "to sell chips to the amount of the price the owner puts on his slaves, and the chip holders play a game of poker till one of them owns the sum of that price. He buys the slaves and sets them free."

Several of the players at the table bought chips, and the clerkman went to other tables and induced others to buy. But when he had got in all the money he could get, he was only out of the chips for anyone who knows how to play this game of poker will play for me."

"You needn't take all the 'unsold chips' of the man and his wife, but I'll divide it with you. I'll take half," said the other half."

The game was arranged but there was trouble in finding anyone to play for the person. He would not commit himself to any professional gambler of which class he professed a horror; and no one else would accept the responsibility of playing for him.

"Gentlemen," he said at last, "the Lord will play for me. I know nothing of the game, but in such a case the Lord will send me luck with enough of the element of luck, I will need no skill."

The chip holders took a table and the game began. It was a slow proceeding, and the clerkman had to be called to the table. He neither won nor lost for a time, but one by one the players lost all the chips they had bought except the owner of the slaves and the clerkman. The former desiring to hasten the ending of the game, proposed a jack pot. When a jack pot was explained to the person he needed to it and after considerable enlargement of the pile on the table the opponent was king. The person won for three kings, the other showing three aces.

They played on with various success till the person hid his cards on the table face down, and asked which was better, the king or the aces, and four deuces. When told that four deuces beat the kings he seemed surprised. But he took up his hand and, after a profound study of it, put fifty dollars in the pot. His opponent raised to one hundred dollars, and the raising went on till all the chips were on the table. The cards were turned over.

"Is that what you call a royal flush?" asked the person looking up from his cards. "You're right, and a king and four deuces is a clapping hand, but I had been frozen out. The clerkman had not free play as a slave."

"Who is it?" asked the slave owner, "I think there is something wrong about him."

"Something wrong and something right," replied a bystander. "He's a professional card sharp, but he's given his money and his skill to free a couple of slaves."

RUMANIA WOULD RE-ENTER GAME ON ALLIED SIDE

People Willing if Entente Nations Will Assist in Recovery of Ground Lost Through the Treaty of Bucharest

PRESIDENT'S VIEWS INSPIRE CONFIDENCE

Transylvania and Other Re-deemed Provinces Are Joint Object in Desire to Join With Victors

By RAYMOND CLAPPER

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Rumania wants to re-enter the war against Germany. She will do so if:

1.—President Wilson declares for recovery of Transylvania and other re-deemed provinces peopled by Rumanians.

2.—The Allies agree to furnish arms and ammunition to the Rumanian army, stripped by Germany when she inflicted the enforced peace of Bucharest. This is the situation as outlined to the United States today.

Bulgaria's collapse, the virtual elimination of Turkey from the war and encouraged Rumania to renew the struggle. The weakening of Austria-Hungary have which she was compelled to cut short when the Germans pressed the Allies in the west and forced Russia out of the war.

President Wilson's latest declaration that the war must go on until Germany unconditionally is wiped from the earth has aroused renewed hopes among Rumanian leaders.

Rumanian resumption of the war against the Central powers would facilitate the reconstruction of the eastern front. It would open the way for an Allied attack along the eastern frontier of Austria-Hungary and penetration of Russia.

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—City and state health authorities were to meet here today to give their final decision on the question of closing churches, schools, restaurants, pool rooms and ice cream parlors, as the result of influenza.

An order closing theaters and moving picture houses went into effect yesterday throughout Illinois.

During the last 24 hours there were 317 deaths from the epidemic in Chicago. Three were 2,221 new cases reported in the city.

According to reports compiled by Dr. C. St. Clair Drake, state health commissioner, the disease has affected 200,000 persons in Illinois.

GERMAN GENTRY OUTPLAYED IN PARIS VERDICT

Comment of Paris Newspapers Indicates Unanimous Approval of President's Reply

PARIS, Oct. 16.—Paris newspapers greeted President Wilson's reply to Germany with strong approval.

"Wilson doesn't let things drag. The latest document is so clear that it will rejoice all the Allies because it responds to their wishes," said La Liberté. "All vulgarly speaking Germans thought they had put the president in their pockets, but Wilson outplayed them."

The intransigent says: "Those in France who for an instant doubt of Wilson's perspicacity insight can't make honorable amends. This honest American negotiator is more clever than the plotting gentry in Berlin."

The Temps, heading its article "A Straight Stroke," said: "The American reply will reply that Wilson is right. Conditions of the armistice must give guarantees of advantages that victory would bring if we should go on until the end came by strength of arms."

VERVINS FIRST OBJECTIVE OF LATEST FRENCH ADVANCE

This passage is closed, they must move through the difficult Ardennes barrier or try to get back into Germany via Luxembourg. It is possible that General Gallieni's sudden movement may mean that Foch believed General Pershing is getting close enough to Stenay to begin cutting off a German retreat if attempted on a large scale by way of the Luxembourg line of communications.

New Move of Great Significance
United Press dispatches from Paris this afternoon reported that the French fifth army northeast of Lezon is moving upon Vervins, ten miles from the fortress of Hirson, near the Belgian border, and on the edge of the wooded Ardennes region. This drive is believed to be an effort to cut off the retreat of the Germans into Belgium and throw them into the Ardennes, where roads are few and the country most difficult for military operations.

What last reports officially stated the French line was fifteen miles from Vervins.—Cool fighting ground lies before the Allies in this region. A substantial advance would practically sever the German armies and the enemy forces in the Champagne would be menaced with capture and loss of their numerous supplies.

Sea Bases in Danger

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The British are in the outskirts of Courtrai and have cut the communications of Bruges from the south, Field Marshal Haig's night report on Flanders operations indicated.

Beyond Bruges is Zeebrugge, the submarine base now in imminent peril of capture. Haig announced capture of Menin and the taking of 12,000 prisoners and more than 100 guns.

The statement follows: "The Belgians have reached the approaches of Wypendaule wood and Thourout. The French have reached the outskirts of Lichtervelde and have pushed beyond the Roulers-Lichtervelde railway. The British have reached La Chat on the Courtrai-Ingelmunster road."

12,000 Prisoners
"We have captured Gulleghem and Heule, and advanced to the outskirts of Courtrai. The British have also captured Menin and Vervij, reaching the right bank of the Lys."

"Since the morning of October 14 we captured 12,000 men and more than 100 guns."

Haig's night report also showed progress north of Leuz, where the British took Esteveld, Mouchin and Heuvlin. He announced gains in the neighborhood of Huescardin, three miles west of Lille.

The night report of the Belgian war office at Havro shows uninterrupted progress.

"Belgians and French continue to advance on the whole front," the communique said.

"The Belgians progressed several kilometers north of the line of Hanzoms, Cortomarcq. French troops captured the whole plateau of Hoeghde, Gitz and Gihberg. French cavalry crossed the Roulers-Thourout road and advanced toward Lichtervelde."

"Belgians and British captured Winkelcocke and Lendelge, and reached the Courtrai-Ingelmunster railway. Our prisoners here total 2,500 with 85 guns. A complete regimental staff was also captured. Our airmen are bombing the enemy communications."

Enemy Loses 12,000 Prisoners in Flanders
LONDON, Oct. 16.—In Flanders the Allies took 12,000 prisoners and between 200 and 300 guns in Tuesday's fighting, the British declared today. The prisoners were equally divided between the Belgians, British and French. The British took fifty guns.

FIRES SWEEP OIL PIERS

Fire at Seattle Does Damage That May Exceed Two Million Mark

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 16.—Fires sweeping the Great Northern Oil piers were still burning fiercely at 9 o'clock this morning, despite the efforts of all the city's marine and land fire apparatus, aided by a heavy downpour of rain which has been falling for four hours. The fire started at 11 o'clock last night.

Losses are estimated at $2,000,000. The cause had not been determined. A fire wall, erected across the center of the oil pier last year, saved the shore half of the pier. Monitor sprinklers saved the municipal terminals, which are valued at more than $1,000,000.

last press goes. It is felt here that the German will listen to reason rapidly—will see that kaiserdom is a poor investment.

Where Might Makes Right
One point which is causing a vast amount of discussion is what will occur over the demand for return of Alsace-Lorraine to France. This has been regarded as a sticking point, but it is felt here that Germany's military situation is such that she cannoticker over this matter now. If she does not choose to accept an armistice and democratic, Foch's armies will settle the Alsace-Lorraine question.

Reported anti-Kaiser demonstrations in Germany, plus imminent trouble from the Poles and Slavs to the east are big factors in the peace situation. Diplomatic circles are receiving indications that distinct movements are afoot in Poland, Bohemia and Moravia looking to throwing off the German and Austrian yoke.

Coerced action between Poland and the Czech-Slovak states may force an early elimination of Austria and creation of a grave situation in the east for Germany.

Would Throw Off Yoke
The Czech-Slovaks in Moravia and Bohemia have completed their political organizations and have been waiting a favorable opportunity to declare their independence.

Reine called that the Polish regency council, at Varsovia has declared for incorporation of Prussian Posen and Austrian Galicia in the new Polish nation. The poles apparently see a chance to rid themselves of German domination while the Germans withdraw their near east garrisons. But it is deemed likely that Germany will try to retain a grasp on Poland.

ture of a number of prisoners is also noted. The communique follows: "Our troops today continued their attack on both sides of the Meuse, encountering stubborn resistance from the reinforced enemy. East of the Meuse, French and American troops have gained ground. West of the river, the fighting has increased in violence and our troops have made substantial gains, including Hill number 209, which changed hands three times."

"We have broken the Kriemhilde-Stellung line at new points where our men closed with the enemy in a series of hand to hand encounters in which they took prisoners."

GERMAN PEOPLE LIKELY TO END HUN WAR LORDS

Kaiser Defeated in Game of Words Just as Decisively as His Armies Have Been Smashed Militarily

DEMOCRACY IN SADDLE AMONG GERMAN PEOPLE

Trouble Commenced Three Months Ago Today When Americans Drove a German Army Across the Marne

By J. W. T. MASON
 NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Germany's peace offensive has failed. The Kaiser's effort to save himself from defeat by the use of crafty words has not the same fate as his military offensive. Henceforth nothing remains for Germany but the unconditional surrender of her military and autonomy. President Wilson's reply to Chancellor Kriegerman has not deeply into the German mind. It is worth more than many battle cries to the Allied cause, for its disintegrating work will be effective not only among the German soldiers in the field, but also among the German people at home. Three months ago today when the Americans drove a German army across the Marne, the Kaiser knew America was arriving at military maturity and ordered his defeated troops to start for home.

Today, the Kaiser knows that his diplomatic note writers have likewise been trapped by President Wilson's greater skill. Turning of the situation is wholly on the side of democracy. The exchange of notes has revealed the Kaiser to his people shorn of his ill-gotten right and humbly petitioning the democratic nations for assistance.

Let the People Think
 But it is not enough, and so the Hohenzollern intimate of God has even promised to abandon the coveted territory for whose possession two million Germans have been killed or permanently injured. And still it is not enough. No absolute monarch can long cling to his prerogatives when his impotence is thus shown to his victims. President Wilson has set the Hohenzollern troops rocking. There can be no question but that the Kaiser is now in jeopardy of losing his crown by an act of expiation on the part of the German people. What this moment has started, it is fit better for the German people to finish.

Outlaws of Humanity
 If the Hohenzollerns are overthrown by direct mandate of the Allies, there will remain the possibility of constant royal conspiracies in future years, with the connivance perhaps of part of the German people. If Germany herself, however, forces the abdication, then the Hohenzollerns in truth, will become the outlaws of humanity.

SALMON DISTRICT IS UP TO BOARD

Attorneys Ask for Inclusion of Additional Lands and Threaten to Oppose Project

Whether or not an election will be called for the creation of the Salmon River irrigation district, and what its boundaries are to be, are the questions now being considered by the board of county commissioners. The petition of the Salmon River Settlers' Association for the calling of the election was presented before the commissioners Monday by Judge James R. Bothwell, attorney for the association. The petition outlined the boundaries of the proposed district to conform to the boundaries of the irrigation district, as recommended by W. C. Whitford, state land commissioner, to be retained within the Salmon River project.

Other attorneys appeared before the board Monday asking that additional acreage held by their clients be included within the irrigation district, or excluded from it. James H. Wiso, an attorney for the Oregon Short Line Railway company, asked that its right of way be excluded, and in behalf of himself and a client asked that an additional 120 acres, together with the Hollister township, be included within the district. No objection was made by Judge Bothwell to the exclusion of the right of way, but determined opposition was entered by him against the inclusion of any additional lands whatsoever to the district.

T. K. Hackman, as attorney for Robert Ray, asked the commissioners to order included within the district 160 acres of school land owned by his client, and declared that he would oppose the organization of the district unless his petition were granted.

George Herriott, as attorney for C. G. Benson and R. G. Benson, asked that 120 acres of land held by his clients be included in the district, and Thomas Warner, in behalf of himself and others, asked for the inclusion of other lands.

Together the inclusion in the irrigation district of 630 acres of lands excluded from the project by the Whitford report was asked by the several attorneys in attendance at the hearing on Monday.

CHURCH POLITICS

By ETHEL VANDEVEER.

(Copyright, 1917, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Kit," said the rector of St. James to his daughter. "I have found a curate to take the place of young Roberts, who goes to another field. The man who relieves Roberts is a Mr. Kinsey, who left, the sanctuary only last spring, and has been much sought after since, because he promises to be a shining mark in the profession. I am indebted to the bishop for securing him as my assistant. You know my dear that I am not as strong as formerly, and this young man can be entrusted with a great deal of my work. I would not like to lose him through any accident."

"All right papa dear," said Kit, putting her arms around her father's neck. "I promise you to let Mr. Kinsey alone."

This was promising a great deal, for Mr. Roberts was the third curate who had fallen in love with Kathryn Trevor, and when refused by her had considered it necessary to seek another field.

"Very well, my dear," replied the rector to his daughter's promise; "if Kit Kinsey is fit with you and proposes I shall expect you to accept him."

Kathryn made no reply to this. Her confidence in herself was not of the strongest. She loved her father and was anxious that he should be well-served. She had no objection to the curate; she intended to give the new curate a wide berth.

The new curate fulfilled in every respect what was expected of him. He spoke without notes, and this enabled him, to lead his congregation readily in the many things outside his sermons that are required of a clergyman. What he said and did was always to the point. As to relieving the rector it was a relief to the rector that he was almost anything required of his superior better than that superior himself.

The day after he entered upon his duties Kathryn went upon a three months visit to a friend living in a distant city. One of the congregation who knew the real reason of her father's not being able to keep a curate were very much pleased at her conduct in keeping out of Mr. Kinsey's way. "How noble of her," said Mr. Ballinger to Mrs. Smythe. "She did it for the rector." "And how noble of poor Mr. Trevor, whose health is so poor!"

"Benign!" rejoined Mrs. Ballinger. "I don't see why Mrs. Kinsey assumed his office, the rector was ill, and the curate conducted the services and preached." Mrs. Ballinger and Mrs. Smythe walked home from church to rector's house, and a beautiful sermon preached the rector's successor.

"He's a born orator!" was the reply. "He'll be our dear rector's successor."

"Indeed he will, and the sooner he takes the first place the better it will be for the parish."

But she continued in such favor that within sixty days after he began to officiate as rector Mrs. Smythe, who ran the affairs of the congregation, had her plans laid for getting rid of the rector and putting the curate in his place. She had already begun to do this when she learned that the rector had resigned, and never would have dreamed of putting him aside had it not been suggested by Mrs. Smythe. As it was, the lady engineered the matter so well that all was done for plotting to the rector that his resignation would be acceptable to some persons in the congregation.

One day Kathryn appeared at home having cut short her visit a month. She had been to the bishop's office on her arrival, she said Mrs. Smythe:

"How lovely," said the latter, "that your dear father has such a prop in his old age."

"It is indeed; I hear the new curate will not get some rest."

Kathryn had been at home a month. The curate had called upon her on her return, and that was all. Her father supposed he had every reason to be pleased with her behavior towards his assistant, but he was not thinking of that; he had heard indirectly that there was a movement on foot to displace him. He was much worried, but said nothing to his daughter about the matter.

One morning the postman called at the rectory as usual at breakfast time and among the letters he left were two of importance. The doctor opened the first and looked with surprise and respect on his daughter. It was the curate's resignation. However, the old man said nothing, but turned to the other letter. It informed him that certain wealthy members of the congregation who were relied on to keep up the church were in favor of putting the curate in his place. His resignation would be a financial benefit to the church.

The doctor laid down both letters and looked at his daughter, who was meekly eating a muffin.

"Kathryn," he said kindly, "I hope you have had nothing to do with Mr. Kinsey's resignation. You know you promised me—"

"Yes, papa, but I don't think that Mrs. Smythe was going to put him to your place."

She sat beside her father. He drew her to him and kissed her.

"You naughty girl! How, where, and when did you do it?"

"That doesn't matter, papa dear. It's Doctor Trevor's still rector of St. James."

Useful insects.

In addition to the insects which help man by their warfare against his enemies and those that are useful to him in medicine, there are many other "little" creatures useful purposes in a commercial way. Most familiar of these are the honey and wax obtained from the bee. There is a Chinese bug which secretes a kind of grease ointment. This hardens into wax and is collected, melted and purified when it becomes white and glossy in appearance, and when mixed with oil it can be made into candles.—Chicago Herald and Examiner.

ADVISES GROWERS ON THE MARKETS

Harvey Alfred Gives Views in Communication to Farm Bureau

Harvey Alfred, state director of the farm market bureau, in a communication received by the county farm bureau, gives the following observations on the crop marketing situation, together with advice as to marketing and prices:

Potatoes
The prospect for future potato prices is very good, providing care can be had at the proper time for shipping. Those having suitable storage and well situated potatoes free from diseases and frost, run little or no risk in holding for advanced prices. Transportation and weather conditions being favorable, prices should not go below $1.20 and for U. S. No. 1; $1.35 for U. S. No. 2; and $1.50 for Idaho fancy.

Onions
I would advise growers not to hold for late winter or early spring market, but to sell as early as possible when reasonable prices are offered. Present prices are about as follows: Yellow, $2.25-$2.50; Blackball, $2.00-$2.25; 101-1825, White, $1.75-$1.90; Butte, Sacked Brown, $3.50-$3.75; Dull, $2.25; Dallas, Sacked Brown, $3-$3.50, White, $3.75-$4.00.

Beans
No definite prices are yet established. Dealers are reluctant to make use of offering. Do not hold expecting material advance. Following are prices not being paid at principal markets: San Francisco, White Beans, Small, $10.50; Large $10.25-$10.50; Los Angeles, Small, $10.50; Large $9.

Hay
Reports are being circulated to the effect that an embargo has been declared by Oregon against the shipment of Idaho alfalfa through that state, consigned to California, Washington and Northern Idaho. This is not correct and cannot be done. We now have orders for hundreds of tons waiting to be filled, but many are being recalled and placed with growers and dealers in other states, because they cannot get them confirmed. Local stockmen are desisting their purchases. Grass and pasture are exceptionally good and feeders will not buy until they can better determine amounts they will require and with hope that present prices will be forced down. ROYALTY HOLDS UP DOING WAR-WORK

Never again in allied Europe will there be a misunderstanding of the meaning of the word "royalty" as it applies to each other. Royalty has become a humiliating title that signifies all the world again and again. It is a title that signifies a man who is not only a man of war, but a man of peace. It is a title that signifies a man who is not only a man of war, but a man of peace. It is a title that signifies a man who is not only a man of war, but a man of peace.

BOYS MUST PAY FOR CAR WRECKED ON JOY RIDE

Probate Judge O. P. Davall Assesses Fine Against Juvenile Offenders Whose Trip Led to Accident

Five Twin Falls boys who on Saturday evening last made away with a Ford car, owned by Hank & Tall and drove it to Bull, wrecking it in an accident on the outskirts of that city, will be required to pay for the repair of the car through fines assessed upon them Tuesday afternoon by Probate Judge O. P. Davall. A new radiator, which was needed to enable the car to be repaired, is assessed in the sum of $100. In the event this sum is insufficient to cover the cost of repairing the car, Judge Davall says, the offenders will be obliged to contribute as much as they should pay for the car. It will be turned over to the Red Cross.

Jesse Moreland and Sidney Mariah, charged with taking the car, were fined each in the sum of $25. A further fine of $50 was assessed to be divided among Leo Harrison, William Burr and Fred Foyler, who are said to have been invited by Moreland and Mariah to accompany them on the joy ride.

In the accident in which the car was wrecked Harrison received serious injuries about the head and face.
