WHAT THE PRESIDENT TELLS GERMANY

Now that you "unreservedly accept" my terms of peace and subsequent conditions laid down in my communication, I "cannot decline to take up" with the Allies, the question of an armistice. However, any armistice must leave the United States and the Allies in a position to enforce any arrangements agreed to by Germany to make a renewal of hostilities on Germany's part impossible. Acceptance by Germany of such armistice terms will be "the best concrete evidence" of her good faith in making peace. "But" constitutional changes promised by Germany have not reached the stage where they guarantee the permanence of her acceptance of any conditions. Therefore, so long as the present "mortal armistice" of Germany remains in power, the United States and her Allies could consider "not peace negotiations, but surrender."

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Germany must "quit cold" now—or fight the war to the bitter end. She can have peace if she chooses to accept allied terms but in any way the situation is viewed, her quitting will be assured.

The capital today interpreted the just answer of President Wilson's peace answer to Germany and the official statement that over 3,000,000 Yanks were being embarked to aid in finishing the war by force should Germany elect to fight on.

The next move is up to the Allies. If the new dispatches set out on the basis of President Wilson's peace terms, the Allied commanders with General Pershing will frame an armistice which would constitute, in effect, a surrender for Germany. Probably the acts and peace terms will be cleared in a conference soon, wherein President Wilson will have representation. The armistice terms are probably already stated through the conference and are expected to be announced soon. Germany has two alternatives. If that is done, Germany can be free to accept an armistice, which will make her power less to fight on, but which does not carry with it the demand for "surrender." The second is, according to Wilson, that if the Kaiser and his murderers—the "present government"—remain in power, and if the

BRITISH AND AMERICANS ADVANCING ON FRONT SOUTH OF VALENCIENNES

WAR SUMMARY

BRITISH troops, with Americans cooperating, are continuing their advance on a front of nearly 20 miles south of Valenciennes, according to the latest reports received here.

A penetration of nearly four miles was made at some points yesterday. They carried their lines to within two miles of the western edge of the Moorland forest, which forms the principal western defense of the great fortress city of Maubeuge, and were within less than four miles of the railway center of Le Quesnoy.

The fighting in Belgium resulted in diminished Allied progress, owing to the stiffening German resistance. Capture of the important seven miles northwest of Audenarde, was the only important success gained.

Lively fighting continued in the Voulers region, where German counter-attacks were repulsed. The French made some progress west of Grandpre, while the Americans made important gains at various points between Grandpre and the Meuse.

In the Serre region, the French improved their positions along the south bank.

STOP MAKING OF MUNITIONS AND TURN U-BOATS OVER TO ALLIES

By CARL DEGROAT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—Marshal Foch, together with American and allied commanders, left by President Wilson to apply armistice terms, have agreed upon a course tantamount to Germany's unconditional surrender if they are accepted.

From an authoritative source, it was learned today these terms are essentially as follows:

- First—Evacuation of Alsace-Lorraine.
- Second—Evacuation of Prussian Poland.
- Third—Cessation of all munition making to be insured by committees of Allied officials who will be installed in all factories at Essen and other points.
- Fourth—Surrender of the submarine fleet.
- Fifth—Occupation of all German battleships by Allied naval officers.

The provisions of the armistice have been drafted to embody the foregoing points and to insure completely against any resumption of warfare by Germany, either on land or sea.

Precautions will be included to prevent Germany utilizing the armistice for manufacture of war materials with a view to continuing the fight should peace negotiations fail. It is accepted, of course, that France and Belgium must be completely cleared of enemy troops.

After Driving Through Four Miles on Twenty Mile Front Yesterday, Attack is Renewed Today With Increased Vigor—Great Fortress Less Than Fifteen Miles From Allied Lines—British Clear Forest

The Anglo-American drive for Maubeuge was resumed today. After advancing nearly four miles on a 20-mile front in fighting that extended from early yesterday far into the night, the British, with American aid, again attacked between the Scheldt and the Sambre-Oise canal this morning.

The attack is directed against the bastion of Maubeuge, which is surrounded by a great circle of forts. The town itself is now less than fifteen miles from the Allied lines. Before the latter is the huge Moorland forest, which forms the western defense of Maubeuge. The British and Americans are two miles from the western edge of this forest.

North of Valenciennes, the British have entirely cleared the Balmes forest of the enemy and are before the fortified railway town of Conde. Further to the north, hard fighting is going on west of Tournai.

The Americans and French, at the southern extremity of the battle front, continue to hammer away at the great concentration of men and supplies which the Germans are striving to hold the Allies back from the Steeny pass. Staff dispatches stated that 30 divisions now oppose the Americans between Grandpre and the Meuse.

A great artillery duel is under way in the region of Voulers, where French and Czech-Slovaks are trying to encircle the northern extension of the Argonne forest and open the way for a general American advance upon Stenay.

Local gains were made by the French in the Maraband between Sisonce and Chateau Porcien. In the Balkans, the Serbs have pushed the Austro-Germans

Hun Retirement Is Moving On Regular Schedule—Resistance Maintained During Daytime
By LOWELL MELLETT
WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, Oct. 24.—The new drive between the Scheldt and the Sambre is expected to have with it the most important of which will be the complete turning of the Valenciennes Mass. On the front from Valenciennes northward to the frontier of Holland, German resistance is stiffening. British patrols have managed to push across the Scheldt at several places north of Tournai.

Although the strongest opposition since the enemy withdrawal began was looked for south of Valenciennes, there are no signs so far of any great defensive preparations beyond slender, but trench and wire systems.
The Germans are retreating gradually upon the strong, natural position behind the canal and the Balmes forest and the flooded area between Douai and Valenciennes.
During the past four days, the Germans have withdrawn about three kilometers, two miles, every night, after holding on all day, the British at day-break occupying the abandoned ground and retaining their position.

YANKS RENEW OFFENSIVE IN MEUSE REGION

Push Past Grand Pré, Brioules and Bantheville — German Artillery Fire Reaches Lowest Point in Weeks

(By FRANK J. TAYLOR)
WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Oct. 23.—The Americans, after repulsing a series of heavy counter attacks have again assumed the initiative on the whole front between Grandpré and Brioules.

In a number of closely allied local operations, they have recaptured several positions which were temporarily ceded to the Germans. These advances have again carried them north of Grandpré, Bantheville and Brioules.

The new enemy divisions have been thrown into this front, and there are now more than 30 German divisions opposing the Americans on this front.

Artillery Fire at Low Ebb

Reports have been received indicating that the German artillery fire on the entire west front has reached the lowest mark since the first few months of the war. British, French and American shells have been heard with pronounced accuracy of rifle and machine gun wounds over shell wounds.

The former injuries are light in the majority of cases and permit an early return of the casualties to the line.

On the other hand, the Germans are suffering heavily from allied artillery fire and their losses greatly exceed those of the allies, despite the enemy's normal advantage of defensive fighting. These conditions, coupled with their lowering morale, which is inevitable in view of their present drive to the explanations of the German desire for an armistice.

ARMISTICE TERMS WILL BE RIGID

United States and the Allies most now or later deal with them. "Surrender" alone can be accepted. "Surrender" would carry with it such terms as to nullify the autocratic power of Germany.

The president held his terms had been sufficiently met to justify his passing on to the Allies the German request for an armistice.

Alternative To Fight On

Should Germany find the present situation acceptable, then her only course is to fight it out. America and the Allies are ready for that. The 2,000,000-troop military mark has been passed, and the general staff is now spreading plans that mean the utter crumbling of Germany, should she decide the price of peace is too great.

The note was received with varying emotions. The general feeling was one of approval. But there was a strain of criticism from such opponents of the president's course as Senator Lodge. For, instance, felt the president should not have taken Germany's word to the extent of passing on to the Allies the armistice proposal.

On the other hand, there was applause in many quarters that the president had put into the note the word "surrender."

The president served notice that the only armistice he is suggesting to the Allies is one absolutely safeguarding United States Allied military supremacy—one making it impossible for Germany to renew hostilities, and tantamount to complete surrender on her enemies' terms.

Ecstasies As To Reforms

The president cast doubt on the thoroughness and effectiveness of the reforms Germany claimed to have made in her political machine. He admitted these reforms might reset to help prevent future wars, but said that they did not go far enough in dealing with the present war. In other words, regardless of what reforms have actually made or undertaken, the Kaiser and his autocracy are still the present German government."

Declaration of an armistice is contingent upon the Allies. If they are agreeable to the president's fourteen terms and later peace arrangements, then their war chiefs may approve an armistice.

There is added discussion now on both sides of the water as to the unity of War aims. Hence, it is anticipated that, as matters now stand, the Allies are perhaps not entirely enthusiastic over the President's terms. He indicated as much when on September 27 he called upon the Allied chancellors to come out into the open with their aims.

Text of Reply

The text of President Wilson's reply follows:

"Having received the solemn and explicit assurance of the German government that it unreservedly accepts the terms of peace laid down in his address to the congress of the United States on the eighth of January, 1918, and the price of settlement contained in his subsequent addresses, particularly the address of the 27th of September, and that it desires to discuss details of their application and that this wish and purpose emanated not from those who have hitherto dictated Germany's policy and conduct the present war on Germany's behalf, but ministers who speak for the majority of the reichstag and for an overwhelming majority of the German people and having received also the explicit promise of the present German government that the humane rules of civilized warfare will be observed both on land and sea by the German armed forces, the president of the United States feels that he cannot decline to take up with the government in which the United States is associated, the question of an armistice.

"He deems it his duty to say again, however, that the only armistice he would feel justified in submitting for consideration, would be one which should leave the United States and the powers associated with her in a position to enforce any arrangements that may be entered into and to make a renewal of hostilities on the part of Germany impossible.

"The president has, therefore, transmitted his correspondence with the present German authorities to the governments with which the government of the United States is associated as a belligerent, with the suggestion, that, if those governments are disposed to effect peace on the terms and specifications indicated their military advisers and the military advisers of the United States be asked to submit to the governments associated against Germany necessary terms of such an armistice as will fully protect the interests of the peoples involved and insure to the associated governments the unrestricted power to safeguard and enforce details of the peace to which the German government has agreed, provided they deem such an armistice possible from the military point of view.

Reforms Must Be Permanent

"Should such terms of armistice be suggested, their acceptance by Germany will afford the best concrete evidence of her unequivocal acceptance of the terms demanded. Significant and important as constitutional changes seem to be which are spoken of by the German foreign secretary in his note of the 20th of October, it does not appear that a government responsible to the German people has yet been fully worked out or that any guarantee either explicit or in contemplation that the allegations of principle and practice now partially agreed on will be permanent.

Must Go Farther

"Moreover, it does not appear that the heart of the present difficulty has been reached. It may be that future wars have been brought under control of the German people, but the present war has not been; and it is with the present war that we are dealing. It is evident that the German people have no means of communicating acceptance of military authorities of the empire in the popular will; that the power of the king of Prussia to control the policy of the empire is unimpaired; that the democratic initiative still remains with those who hitherto have been masters of Germany. Feeling that the whole peace of the world depends now on plain speaking and straightforward action, the president deems it his duty to say without any attempt to soften what may seem harsh words, that the nations of the world do not and cannot trust the word of those who hitherto have been masters of German policy, and to point out once more that in concluding peace and attempting to undo the incalculable and injurious effects of this war the government of the United States cannot deal with any but veritable representatives of the German people who have been assured of a genuine constitutional standing as the real rulers of Germany.

Otherwise Surrender

"If it must deal with the military masters and the monarchial authority of Germany now, or if it is likely to have to deal with them later in regard to international obligations of the German empire, it must demand, not peace negotiations, but surrender. Nothing can be gained by leaving this essential thing unsaid.

"Accept, sir, the renewed assurances of my high consideration. (Signed) "Robert Lansing."

UNCONDITIONAL SURRENDER IS TURKS CHOICE

Greek and Allied Troops Are Anxious to Begin March to Constantinople — Belief Is That City Would Fall Quickly

By RAYMOND CLAPPER
WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Turkey must surrender unconditionally or succumb to an Allied drive on Constantinople.

Turk agents in Switzerland are in touch with Allied representatives, according to an authoritative dispatch source here today. Complete surrender is being demanded of Twirk's government.

Move on Constantinople

Unless this demand is complied with on short order Allied forces will move on Constantinople.

Greek and Allied troops have prepared themselves for a rapid push across the Dodecanese-Adriatic line. They are being held in readiness and are amply equipped for a hot fight. Occupation of Constantinople would only be a matter of days, it was declared in diplomatic quarters.

"We expect definite developments from these negotiations within a few days," the United Press was told. "The Allies' conditions are not met with thereby, so we will continue our campaign. With the Danube now under Allied fire, Turkey's chief means of getting munitions and supplies from Germany is seriously threatened.

Pasha Holding Out

Twirk Pasha is holding out for guarantees that Turkey be permitted independent action in Asia Minor. The Allies' insistence that Constantinople and Palestine be severed from the Turkish empire is also proving a bitter pill for Twirk to swallow. He is apparently reconciled, however, to the loss of Greek islands in the Mediterranean.

Allied representatives will accept only terms equal to those imposed on Bulgaria, it is stated. Details of an armistice will be left to General Allenby and General D'Esperay.

Formation of a joint Allied commission to supervise armistices in Turkey and to assist in restoring order, is being insisted upon in allied quarters. "Fillage and massacre would be likely if disgruntled and hungry Turk soldiers were turned loose upon the country, diplomatic circles here stated.

Amends to Greeks

Greece, with the Allies, will continue to make war on the Turk until they can impose a fate like that which came upon Bulgaria, semi-official advice to the Greek legation here stated.

The enthusiastic Greek troops are waiting for the order to continue their successful advance to stab the heart of the Turkish empire," one cable declared. It describes the valor of the Greek troops in Macedonia. Testimonials from various Allied leaders lauding the fighting quality of the Greek officers have been received at the Greek legation.

Opinion Differs Widely on the Intent of German Note—Some Declare it a Trap—Others See Peace Ahead

By WILLIAM PHILIP SIMS

PARIS, Oct. 23.—Let Marshal Foch and the allied leaders reply to Germany. That sums up opinion here regarding the latest German note to President Wilson.

Otherwise, both the press and the public are curiously divergent. Some consider the note a clumsy though virtual surrender; some think that it is a step forward. Others say it is a more trap; but everybody seems to agree that Germany's situation, both lateral and military, is such that a reprieve is absolutely necessary and, therefore, that the next words to Berlin ought to be from Foch.

"It is a great pity that Marshal Foch has not already been authorized to send the following ultimatum on behalf of the entire entente," declares La Liberté.

"Acceptance, integrally by YES or NO." The Temps says: "More than ever, Marshal Foch ought to be given the lead."

Military and naval chiefs, and American circles, grimly comment on part of the note which otherwise is largely overlooked here, namely Germany's backing down on the unrestricted submarine war which was the direct result of American entry into the war. It comes too late.

Competent observers insist that Germany stands alone against the allies. Austria-Hungary and Turkey are out of the running, they say, and her own population is split up on internal questions. The request for peace puts her between the devil and the deep sea of capitulation or revolution. It is because of this that both are merely a question of time although the allied armies may yet be forced to strike the hardest blows of all.

NEW PLEDGE IS PREPARED FOR SAVERS OF FOOD

Provisions of Conservation Program Are Chart to Guide Idaho Households During War, Says Bicknell

The new conservation program of the United States food administration will go into 20 million American homes the week of December 2 to December 7 to hang upon the kitchen wall till the war is over. "Its provisions are the chart by which the conduct of every Idaho household should be guided as long as the stress of war lasts," says Federal Food Administrator R. F. Bicknell.

No Time for Relaxation

Idaho's administrator has been advised by Herbert Hoover that the military situation forms no adequate reason for relaxation of conservation but on the contrary European developments make the necessity for conservation particularly important because the evacuation of occupied territory imposes upon us a responsibility for additional civilian populations.

One year ago, the pledge of food conservation was taken by twelve million families and a home card was given to each for its guidance. This year no pledge is taken, for states the food administration. "The government knows that every loyal American is ready to do his part and it is necessary to win the war and fulfill the nation's purpose. The American war conscience is aroused."

Must Save 50 Per Cent More

When the interrelated food course was held last summer, the needs of the allies were computed and the resources from which they could be met were reckoned. Correlated with the returns from the harvest were ascertained and the shipping possibilities were developed, the schedules show that America must this coming year send our armed forces and the allies half as much again food supplies as last year. In the place of eleven and three-quarters million tons, the shipments this year must be seventeen and one-half million tons. We are pledged to send 50 per cent more food and from substantially the same stocks as last year, so there must be increased conservation to accomplish the result. The inter-related course was told to pay no attention to the American food situation. "We have it or we will find it," they were assured by Mr. Hoover on behalf of the American people.

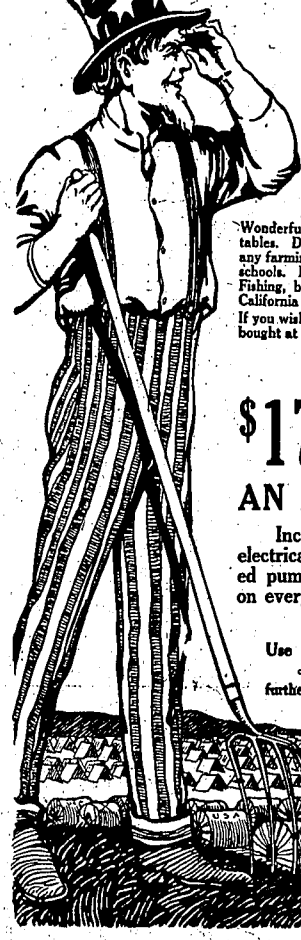

And in the light of America's achievement, sending 140,000,000 bushels of wheat where no surplus was to be reckoned in advance, the allies gave full faith to America's promise.

Card Distribution First Step

As a first step in the new program, it was resolved by the conference of federal food administrators who met in Washington when Mr. Hoover returned from Europe in September, to place in every home the card covering the essence of the new program. The first weeks of October were given to the Liberty Loan by common consent. The first step in the new program was originally set apart for the food conservation drive, but because of a possible interference with its success due to the influenza epidemic, Mr. Hoover decided to postpone the distribution throughout the country until the week of December 2. The matter was prepared in Washington and put into plates, arrangements were made for printing the supply for each state and as soon as the proofs were corrected, the plates were sent from Washington to each state.

REACH DECISION ON THE SALMON DISTRICT PLANS

County Commissioners Conclude Protracted Deliberations With Personal Investigation

After ten days' deliberation, two public hearings and a personal investigation Wednesday of the lands in question, the county commissioners have reached a decision in respect to the petition of the Salmon River Settlers' association for an election for the creation of an irrigation district to include approximately 35,000 acres within the Salmon River basin, and will shortly issue a notice calling the election.

State Will Approve

Before announcing their decision Wednesday afternoon, the commissioners were in communication by telephone with State Engineer Fred A. Wilkie, and were assured by him that their decision in the premises would be honored by his office.

The commissioners are of the opinion that their decision, which grants to some of the applicants the inclusion of their lands within the boundaries of the proposed district, and denies such admission to some others, is a basis upon which the election can be called and carried through without likelihood of the matter being thrown into the courts.

The petition outlined the boundaries of the proposed district to coincide with the boundaries of the area recommended to be retained within the project by State Land-Commissioner W. C. Whitford in his report to the state land board. When the petition was filed several landholders whose lands were outside the district, and under the petition appealed to the commissioners to include such lands within the district. The presentation of their claim was the occasion for the public hearings which were held before the commissioners.

Where Commissioners Close

The commissioners, in their decision, announce that they have recommended to be included within the proposed district 480 acres out of the 800 acres for admission of which claims were made. The holdings admitted by the commissioners to the "district" comprise 760 acres owned by C. G. W. B. & E. Benson, 120 acres owned by W. M. Martin; 80 acres owned by Mary Clyde; 40 acres owned by James H. Wiso; 80 acres owned by Robert Bayl. The lands left out by the commissioners are the following: 80 acres owned by J. B. Paggett; 80 acres owned by Wm. H. Hooper; 40 acres owned by James H. Wiso; 40 acres owned by A. L. Anderson; 80 acres owned by Robert Bayl.

In general, the commissioners say, they have included only improved lands susceptible of irrigation without waste in delivery, and have eliminated lands far removed from portions of the irrigation system which will be maintained.

Directors to be Named

At the election to be called by the commissioners, not only the question of the organization of the district will be submitted, but a representative on the board of directors from each of the five subdivisions of the district provided for in the petition, will be elected.

Formation of the Proposed Irrigation District

Formation of the proposed irrigation district will be to take over and operate the Salmon River irrigation district which is regarded as an initial step toward the settlement of claims of those holdings are to be eliminated from the project against the landholders who furnished the finances for the building of the project.

TARIFF APT TO AGAIN BECOME LEADING ISSUE

Republicans in Congress Fear Presidential Attitude Towards Germany May Mean Free Trade After the War

By L. C. MARTIN

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—President Wilson's appeals to New Jersey to elect democratic senators were regarded in congress today as the forerunner of an administrative appeal soon to be sent to the nation for a congress that will work in sympathy with him in concluding the war, establishing peace and laying the foundation for reconstruction policies.

Campaign issues are now being sharply drawn. Republicans, declaring that the president's peace principle opposing all economic barriers means free trade, are preparing to fight it, both in the senate and on the political field of the nation.

Also they are prearranging a strong front against continuance of peace discussion with Germany on any grounds save unconditional surrender.

Statement Anticipated

Administration leaders are preparing to combat both the issue of free trade raised by the republicans. It is believed likely the president himself will direct the fight. In his expected statement to the people, it is thought he will emphasize his purpose in conducting the peace negotiations with Germany.

Further, he is expected to clear up his meaning on principle number three, regarding after-the-war trade in his peace program, to appeal republicans fear that it means free trade.

Meanwhile as the campaign gains momentum, both parties are increasingly confident of success at the polls November 4. The great worry of both, however, is that the influenza epidemic will reduce the vote.

President Wilson is capitalizing the war for political purposes, Chairman Fees of the Republican congressional committee today charged in reply to the president's letter asking election of two democratic senators from New Jersey.

Without making a direct charge, Fees also questions whether the president does not desire the election of democrats to the senate for the purpose of ending free trade on the country through treaty according to the third of his fourteen peace conditions which recalls for the removal of economic barriers.

Charges Too Much Politics

"President Wilson's letter asking for the election of the democratic senators from New York, will be interpreted by many as an admission that the president is more for the party rather than the head of the American government," Fees said.

"This attitude in time of war will be the subject of just criticism by voters who have expected the cancellation of the war for the party purpose."

"The president in the third of his fourteen points proposes by treaty negotiations to determine legislation touching tariff schedules by the removal of all trade barriers."

High Peace Terms

"The far-reaching significance of this proposal may not have been detected by the average citizen."

"A treaty removing trade barriers is not a law that can be repealed as in the case of a legislative enactment. It must stand until mutually abrogated by the parties to the treaty."

"It is possible that the president's desire for democrats in the senate might arise from the intention to perpetually fasten upon the country a policy of free trade by committing the nation under treaty obligation which would raise the question of tariff-making out of the hands of the people of the country, as expressed in congress and make it a contract between an executive committee to free trade by and with the consent of a democratic senate with like allies, on the one side and the foreign nations on the other."

Politics Not Adjoined

Senator Thomas, Democrat, Colorado, today delivered a political speech to the senate as he declared President Wilson was wrong when he said last May that politics was adjoined.

"Politics is necessary," said Thomas, "and in a republic it never ought to be."

Thomas declared that while republicans in the war congress had been as loyal as democrats, President Wilson had not been so in the congress wholly in sympathy with him.

Thomas declared that republicans, by attacking the third of the president's fourteen peace terms—that relating to removal of economic values—have to that extent repudiated his peace terms.

"Not only have they taken a stand against the president but they are clearly out of sympathy with the Allies," Thomas said.

WILL SIMPLIFY FOOD PROBLEM

Recent Hun Retirement Has Stabilizing Influence on Supply Question

WASHINGTON, Oct. 24.—The German retirement from the Belgian coast in the opinion of war trade board officials, will have a stabilizing influence on world trade and will simplify the feeding problem.

With the submarine bases at Ostend and Zebrugge destroyed, Dutch shipping is expected to become active again. Evidence of this already has been observed. It is pointed out some of the burden on the allies will be lifted and some avenues of trade that have been entirely closed may be opened again.

While it is expected that the United States, through the committee on the relief of Belgium will still have the greater part of the burden of supplying food to the Belgians, it also is true, it was stated, unofficially, that the Dutch have cattle, eggs and dairy products that they can spare.

These will be available for Belgium where they are needed more than any other types of foodstuffs.

Coming out of Dutch shipping, too, may have its effect upon the Dece,
