German Troops in Alsace-Lorraine Disguise Selves When Word Comes of Signing of Armistice Terms

BY FRANK J. TAYLOR

WITH THE FRENCH ADVANCING TOWARD METZ, Nov. 20, word of how Metz changed from a German to a French town last week was told to me by an eye-witness, Lieut. Charles W. Drew of Philadelphia, American aviator, who just returned from a Metz hospital, who is returning from a Metz hospital.

Smuggled Papers Bring News

"Walter J. Wakefield, of New Jersey, and I got the news of the armistice through newspapers which were smuggled in by an Alsatian guard, who was a 'called dispatch rider,'" said Drew. "The German doctors, nurses and guards were all right, but they were strict. We felt a change in the rigidity of the city Saturday, the Monday the 'eleventh, the Bavarians, on guard at the hospital, threw down their guns. They were replaced by old men, many of whom carried red flags. These self-styled 'soldiers of the Republic' did not salute the officers. They fraternized with the prisoners and liberated several of them. "The Germans who 'had discarded their weapons put on red cross bands and talked fearfully of the Red Flag demonstrations in the streets. American doctors put on civilian clothes. They and the nurses stayed until some French doctors arrived.

Crowds View, Tri-Color

"In the 'morning some of the guards presented us, walking about Metz. There was a strange atmosphere. Crowds gathered and told of their French sympathies, boldly wearing the tri-color.

"As the German regiments marched out of the city, the soldiers mingled with them assuring the civilians they had no ill-feeling toward them and saluting many of the municipal officials. The shop keepers immediately got busy buying some downy French signs to place them with French. Their supplies were meager but good, particularly the clothes.

"A thousand Alsatians who desert from the German army donned civilian clothes and found jobs running trams and clerking in stores.

Streets Brightly Lighted

"After Monday the streets were brightly lighted every night. There were many French and a few American flags displayed. The streets were crowded with happy men, women and children, but there were no wild demonstrations. We received numerous invitations to dinners and teas. We accepted one from the mayor, who heartily entertained Wakefield, two French officers and myself in the honor of the city's liberation. His wife had made French, British and American flags with her own hands. These were placed over the doors. The mayor then appointed the four as a sort of reception committee and made a small American flag shaking hands with a great number of citizens who called to pay their respects. The meal and the cigars were splendid.

Citizens to Thank America

"The mayor already is organizing a delegation of the most prominent citizens of the city to go to America and thank the United States for its help in recouping Alsace-Lorraine.

"We returned to the hospital in the mayor's car. It was the only one to Metz which had not been commandeered by the Boches, so they began to wave red flags and started all the prisoners toward France in groups. Guards disappeared and civilians fed and guided the refugees.

"A unit of Bavarians, guarding one camp, threw down its arms when a 'republic' was declared, freeing numbers of prisoners before the armistice was signed.

"French, British and American hospitals and medical staffs went to feed, clothe and bathe the refugees. Doctors and nurses provided medical attention for long neglected prisoners.

Prepare for French Return

"The physicians tell how the Alsatians and the Lorrainers are enthusiastically preparing for French re-occupation.

CORRESPONDENT TAKES TRIP BEHIND GERMAN LINES WITH AMERICAN ACE

Describes Birdseye View of Doughboys at Work and Play—Germans Appear Friendly

By WEBB MILLER

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMIES IN FRANCE, Nov. 20.—(Webb Miller, correspondent of the American Express, I flew this afternoon over the furthest American lines east of Verdun.

As a height of only 24 to 30 feet, we skimmed along the line where the American drive had voluntarily halted. As we swooped down over the heads of the doughboys, they paused in their work of building temporary shelters and repairing roads to wave their hands and yell greetings.

Doughboys Play Now

With the exception of this alighting, the front lines presented a strange scene of inactivity. Doughboys strolled idly over iron up fires, and along roads without arms, smoking and gossiping. In tiny ruined villages which were taken on just before the armistice became effective, crowds were sitting in the sunshine. In one field, within a few yards of the line a group was playing baseball—apparently "one old cat."

About 300 yards away fourteen German men stood at the edge of a wood, curiously watching the antics of the erstwhile "Amerikaner schwein."

We circled over the ball game several times. The Germans waved their hands. "Near France, in the front line, was a blown-up bridge. On the American side stood a single doughboy talking to a German opposite. Both waved their hands and pointed toward the airplane.

Valley Was Quiet

We followed the lines about ten miles northward. "We saw groups, walking about in the open. In the plain, in the middle and a sagger shell-battered field, a card or crag game was going on, while other men were digging a dune. At another place the line ran through a little valley. Not a soul was in sight, but a small American flag was sticking in the ground to indicate the front line.

"At most points along the line we traversed; only a few Germans were visible. These evidently were privates. They were loafing in villages and along the roads smoking and talking.

Almost all of them waved a greeting at us. None carried a gun or equipment of any kind. So far as we could see no artillery or material remained.

At one point, several miles in the rear of the German lines, we passed a number of trucks hurrying toward Coiffans. Farther back we saw fires smogging with a column of black smoke.

See Many Fires

From one place we counted eight fires in the direction of Coiffans, while over the region of Pinheville we saw a great column of fire and white smoke about up and drift away with the wind.

In little hamlets just behind the German lines, German soldiers were sitting in the sunshine, but no horses, trucks or other means of transportation were visible.

Once we saw six Germans in a village within the American lines, surrounded by a group of doughboys. Possibly, they were recently taken prisoners.

In many places in the lines the Americans were standing in the open fields around bon fires. Some were laundrying and their clothes were laid on the ground to dry. We noticed one man washing himself in a brook. At another place a burial party was digging three graves on a knoll overlooking the lines.

At the foot of the hill, a unit evidently was preparing for inspection. All of its equipment was neatly laid out in rows.

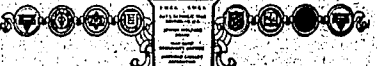

Country Devastated

For several miles in one direction we flew over a section that was pockmarked with shellholes. There were clusters of farmhouses which were mere heaps of stone. The whole region was a scene of utterable desolation. The roads were cut up and there were another place a burial party was digging three graves on a knoll overlooking the lines.

At the foot of the hill, a unit evidently was preparing for inspection. All of its equipment was neatly laid out in rows.

MOTHERS and sisters of America, there are a thousand girls over there who are representing you. They are the girls of the Y. M. C. A., the Y. W. C. A. and the lassies of the Salvation Army. Boys come back to them at night hungry for a woman's voice in a language they can understand. They bring your letters; and the pictures of you—their sisters and their mothers over here. Have you ever stopped to think that this is the first war in which the influence of good women followed the boys straight up to the front? It's worth a lot to you to keep that influence strong and permanent. Keep it so through the

WAR SESSION OF 65TH CONGRESS ENDS THURSDAY

Began With Declaration of War on Austria-Hungary—Conclusion Sees Signing of Armistice

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The war session of the 65th congress will close Thursday. Its final session will begin Monday, December 2, and already looms up as a reconstruction session.

"The present session has not a record for appropriation, setting aside $90,000,000 for war and government support. Many of its acts will come under review in the reconstruction session. Among notable measures passed are the railroad control bill, the wire control bill, the Overman act, giving the president power to coordinate war activities, the law including all between 18 and 48 in the draft, and bills setting aside $110,000,000 to house war workers. A declaration of war on Austria-Hungary was among the early acts of the session.

Activities Many

The Third and Fourth Liberty Loan acts were passed. The war finance corporation was created to give financial aid to war industries to stabilize the financial situation generally. The civil rights of soldiers and sailors were protected by the civil rights bill. Among the largest of the record-breaking appropriations were: Army, $15,085,000,000; Navy, $1,607,000,000; Loans to the allies $5,000,000,000; Shipbuilding production $3,500,000,000; Railroad operation and financing of war industries $1,000,000,000.

Important measures which the session failed to act on include the great revenue bill which now becomes a "reconstruction measure" and goes over to the December session and the water-power and emergency power bills, which must be covered in conservative education in later sessions.

The senate defeated woman suffrage, war-time prohibition was adopted after long delay, but has not yet been approved by the president.

Please, Consult the Directory

CALLING for telephone numbers from memory is not safe from a conservation-of-time standpoint.

A mistake in the number doubles the time of the operator and of the use of the equipment employed.

One's memory is so apt to play tricks with telephone numbers. It is so apt to prompt you, for instance, to say, 9-7-8 when the number really is 7-9-8.

A wrong number wastes the time of the person called, of the operator and of the person called in error, and involves use of needed equipment.

In the end it is necessary to consult the Directory. Why not consult the Directory at the first, if only to confirm the dictates of your memory?

The point is that anything that unnecessarily takes the time of the operators and of equipment may be needlessly delaying calls occasioned by fire, lawlessness, accident, death, serious illness, calls necessitated by the public interest and welfare; calls on Government business or war work or commercial calls of vital importance.

Please do your full share in the task of furnishing telephone service to this community by patriotic consideration of the time of our operating forces.

CONSULT THE DIRECTORY before calling, to insure giving the correct number. Then,

SPEAK DISTINCTLY, LISTEN ATTENTIVELY AND MAKE YOUR CONVERSATION BRIEF.

That will help the service. It will help those who are earnestly striving to serve you well.

After War Styles Burning Question Dressmakers Predict Swing of Pendulum Away From Uniform Types

When the boys come, what will happen to the civilian uniform of the feminine population? That is a burning question in this country right now, not a girl but what has thought what she will wear when the boys count home, and what do you suppose she will decide to wear?

The uniform has saved material, it has been more than practical, it has been comfortable and in many cases startlingly becoming, but none but the least will decide whether the semi-military style will stick with us or not. The boys will be first of all; drab, khaki and all the rest, and will never want to see a helmet or pseudo aviation bonnet, we are sure, and this will of course determine the after-war styles more than anything else.

COMPILING OF WAR HISTORY IS WOMEN'S WORK

Assistance of Relatives and Friends of Men in Service Is Asked in Task Undertaken for Future Generations

The state council of defense has delegated to Mrs. Wm. H. Ridenbaugh of Boise, state chairman of the woman's committee, council of national defense, and to the several Idaho county chairmen, the work of compiling the war history of all the soldiers and sailors who have entered the service from Idaho.

RECORDS ARE SOUGHT

There are on file in the adjutant general's office at Boise only the names of men in the selected draft and those of the second Idaho regiment. There are no lists in Idaho of those who volunteered either at home, in other states, in Canada or abroad, or of those in the navy or marine corps.

Information Sought The form of record to be filled out is long and calls for detailed information on number, color or race, country of birth, date of birth, citizen by birth or naturalization, height, weight, color of hair and eyes, father's name, mother's name, names of brothers and sisters, education, previous occupation, married or single, date of marriage, wife's name and name, wife's maiden name, names and ages of children, volunteer or selective service, place and date of enlistment, whether in the army, navy or marine corps, unit of service, limited service camps to which assigned, and rating, where and when obtained, when and where died and cause of death.

Some Assistants These blanks have been mailed by Mrs. Clouchek to the following, as assistants in the work of securing the information sought: Mrs. H. H. Schindman, Florio; Mrs. B. W. Alford, Duhl; Mrs. R. H. Denton; Kimberly; Mrs. J. M. Pierce, Berger.

ELEVENTH HOUR COUNTY ACROSS

United War Work Campaign Manager W. R. Priebe Says Hope of Quota Rests on Every Person Subscribing

Payment by every person assessed at least a portion of the amount he is expected to subscribe may yet carry Twin Falls county over the top in the United War Work campaign and restore to the county the place it has before long in every form of war activity.

This is the statement made this morning by W. R. Priebe, county campaign director. The county still lacks around $4,000 of reaching its minimum appropriation. Drives are in progress in several towns throughout the county. The campaign will come to a close when the deadline has been reached. It is expected, however, will be completed through the week.

How They Stand Mr. Priebe this morning gave out the following figures showing the standing of several of the divisions of the county in the campaign:

Deaths

Funeral services for James F. Murray, who died Sunday night at a local hospital from pneumonia following influenza, will be held this afternoon at 3 P. M. Deceased was 31 years of age. He was a farmer and had been employed during the past fall as a ditcher at Buhl. He leaves families in his parents, his widow and a young baby.

Funeral for Gustav Elsson, who died here Saturday night from influenza following influenza, will be held at 10 o'clock Wednesday morning from the Gussman & DeWitt undertaking establishment. Deceased was a native of Stockholm, Sweden. Effort to locate relatives in this country has been unavailing. He served for five years as cook for a hospital unit of the United States army, receiving an honorable discharge on account of illness on May 19, 1918. He re-entered the military service under selective draft at Silver City, New Mexico, and was messenger for a unit of a depot brigade at Camp Panolan, when discharged November 27, 1917. He came here from Jarldig, Nevada, a short time ago and was employed as a cook at the Palace cafe until afflicted with the fatal illness.

PRESIDENT IS PREPARING FOR PEACE VOYAGE

League of Nations May Be Perfected Before Peace Terms Question Is Brought Before Versailles Conference

By ROBERT J. BENDER
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—President Wilson is preparing for a voyage of peace preliminary to leaving the country for the peace conference in France. Making no engagements, whatever, except those important to the task in hand, the president is devoting himself now to the making of a peace conference which will outline his policy and determine his domestic purposes for the remainder of his term.

Many tasks in hand. Determining what business shall be retained during the reconstruction period and which ones soon may be abandoned. Selection of the presidential member of America's peace delegation. Details of his forthcoming trip to Europe. Routine business which must be cleared up before he goes.

Whether the president is uncertain how long he may have to remain in France, he is clearing up details for an indefinite period ahead.

Edhal Book May Go. As for the peace delegation it appears now that it will be composed of the president, Secretary of State Lansing, Secretary of War Baker, Colonel N. M. Butler, Representative E. M. Edwards, and Edhal Book, ambassador of the personnel will be behind very soon.

Until late in the night the president discussed with cabinet members details of pending legislation and some of his ideas for reconstruction, including the question of building up and protecting American merchant marine.

He plans to leave France December 3, after delivering his annual message to congress on December 8.

President Wilson is expected to make many new proposals presented to it for settlement of the peace talk—particularly by neutrals who look to President Wilson as their friend.

Neutrals Won't Participate. Neutrals confidently expect to send delegates to the conference. Until they are formally invited to attend, they will not participate in any way.

The conference probably will be divided into two sections, according to diplomatic opinions. One will concern only belligerent questions, the other will concern the formation of a league of nations and all matters are expected to participate in this discussion.

League Question May Come First. Organization of a league of nations may precede settlement of belligerent claims, President Wilson regarding the league as the most essential consideration for a just peace settlement.

Settlement of allied demands will be a necessary part of any peace conference, diplomats say. Terms of peace may be differently affected in event of a league of nations from those which will be necessary if no league is formed.

There was lively discussion here today for the possibility that President Wilson is deciding to attend the peace conference, might cause the heads of other belligerent nations to attend also at least for one or more of the sessions. It was pointed out that in the greatest world adjustment, it was more than likely there would be at least one "kingly coalition" at which King George, King Victor Emmanuel, President Polakoff and President Wilson would be stable together.

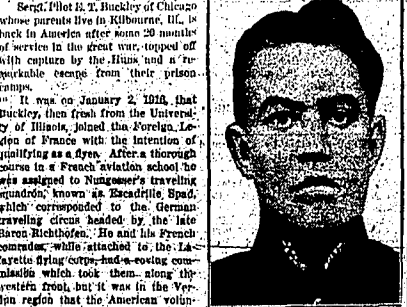

Who will represent Russia at the peace conference is a moot question, the answer to which is not yet in sight.

BOLSHEVISM NOT REAL MENACE IS OFFICIALS' VIEW

Self Playing Scare Hard to Secure Modification of Armistice and Peace Terms, Is View of Official Washington

BY CARL D. GROUT
 WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—There is no active danger of Bolshevism in Germany, but that Bolshevism may be a real menace to the peace conference in France, is the official attitude of the government today, toward the German situation. This position was revealed in the state department.

The state department, however, expects to get out that the Bolshevism in Germany, for the intelligent and training of the average German are higher than those of the Slav. It was pointed out that the Russian came out of actual revolution only a comparatively few years ago. The German has not been a real seer, though he has been bound down by race and by geographic rules.

Ranger May Cause Unrest

However, it was said that liberty for the "Teuton" probably will not prove so satisfying as to the Russian. The chief element in the situation is now Raymond Geurin, Houston, Mass. by the state department, it is the danger that when the dead of winter comes there may be hunger, through unequal food distribution. That, as President Wilson has pointed out, tends to anarchy. So the state department feels that there is still a chance of genuine Bolshevism, with bad consequences in Germany.

On the other hand the official responsible for the above points added the suggestion that Germany was overplaying the possible menace in an effort to enlist sympathy for herself and to gain modifications of armistice and peace terms.

"Looking at the matter from the German viewpoint, it seems quite the logical thing for them to do," said the authority. He indicated, however, that neither this nation nor the Allies are particularly swayed by the Bolshevism, waiting for help and appealing for sympathy.

Diamond

SQUEEGEE TREAD TIRES

Sold For Keeps

WE like to sell Diamond tires! We find that when one of our customers tries one Diamond he wants Diamond "all around." He's sold "for keeps."

Satisfied customers like that keep us in business!

We're glad to tell you that the Diamond tires we've sold are piling up thousands of miles without a "come-back." And what's more, they cost less than most tires. Don't you agree that Diamonds must be a pretty good proposition?

Diamond Tires are in a class by themselves. Made from Imaky, lively rubber that is remarkably long-lived.
