

LARGE SUM TO BE RETURNED TO TREASURY

War Department Will Turn Back Nearly Half of Twenty-four Billions Heretofore Appropriated

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The war department will be able to return to the treasury nearly one-half of the twenty-four billions appropriated by congress.

"It was a real testimony of Secretary of War Baker, which Chairman Sherley, of the appropriations committee, made public today.

Out of $24,281,000,000 appropriated, approximately $11,500,000,000 has been disbursed and obligated here and abroad. Of the $4,250,000,000 obligated, about $2,500,000,000 has been recovered by cancellation of contracts. This would leave slightly over $18,000,000,000 which has been disbursed and obligated but the executive explained expenditures will have to continue for some time so that it will probably be impossible for several months to tell exactly just how much the saving will be. The figures given by Baker are for the period from the beginning of the war up to last November 1. The ordnance department leads in contract cancellation, Baker said, having cancelled $800,000,000 of the contracts. The medical corps has cancelled $35,000,000; signal corps $10,000,000; engineering corps $220,000,000; aircraft production work $402,000,000; military aeronautics $5,000,000; chemical warfare $29,000,000; and quartermaster corps $460,000,000.

England Will Hold To Fleet Supremacy

Freedom of Seas Received Another Jolt in Speech By Winston Churchill

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Winston Churchill, minister of supplies, speaking at Dundee, declared that Great Britain is determined to maintain its naval supremacy.

"We shall enter the peace conference with the absolute determination that no limitation shall be imposed on our right to maintain naval defense," he said.

"The matter, which appeals are addressed to us do not intend to lead ourselves in any way to restrictions which will prevent the navy from maintaining its well deserved superiority on the seas."

In regard to internal affairs, Churchill said: "The government has decided upon nationalizations of the railways, but has not yet decided regarding nationalization of shipping, which is a complex question."

TRUST LAWS OF COUNTRY WILL BE CHECKED UP

President of United States Steel Declares Certain Amount of Industrial Co-operation Necessary

ATLANTIC CITY, Dec. 5.—James A. Farrell, president of the United States steel corporation, in a statement read before the war emergency and reconstruction committee, adopted technical interpretation of the anti-trust laws. In Farrell's absence the statement was read by O. K. Davis, of the national foreign trade council.

"The abnormal conditions attending the period of economic construction that lies before us will of course demand the broadest and most generous interpretation of the right of combination," the statement said.

"Co-operation on a large, magnanimous scale and in the most sympathetic spirit, must be the rule if emergency recovery be quick and thorough."

Farrell explained that after Germany accepts the peace terms dictated by the Allies, "there can be no reason for separating her economic wants from those of the rest of Europe. There will be sufficiently imperative to use up all the surplus foodstuffs and raw materials that can be spared, for many months to come."

MISERY STALKS THROUGHOUT ALL TURKISH EMPIRE

Robbery and Corruption Rampant—Wealth of Country Concentrated in Hands of Comparatively Few

LONDON, Dec. 6.—(British Admiralty Wireless)—The Morning Post correspondent at Constantinople, describing the corruption and misery of Turkey, says that throughout the last four years the Turks, acting under orders of the "committee of union and progress," have done their best to ruin their country—and have succeeded well.

Three million persons have been massacred and another million is on the verge of starvation this winter. The vast portion of the empire has been conquered and parcelled out among the different races and what remains is totally ruined. It is probably true that some portions of the empire have been made so rich. Ordinary policemen in Pera are estimated to be worth anywhere between ten and fifteen thousand Turkish pounds. This accumulation of wealth has been a portion of the program of the committee to enrich Turks at the expense of Christians, and was especially carried out in Smyrna and Constantinople.

It must not be supposed that Constantinople lacks anything. Shops are well stocked. Probably if requisitions were made throughout the city enough stores would be found to feed the population for at least eight months. But all the trade, by pillage and robbery, has been concentrated in the hands of the Mohammedans.

Look for Liberal Trend of Thought

Conservative and Military Group Apparently in Ascendancy in Germany

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The state department anticipates that a middle of the road group will eventually come into power in Germany. For the moment, however, state department advice indicates that there is a trend toward the conservative and military group. Officials do not expect though that this faction will prevail. The swing toward the left is regarded as a manifestation of fear of consequences which may lead to Spartacist control.

The radical element is sufficiently strong to prevent any return to militarism in Germany and hence it is the belief here that the ultimate outcome will be a control of men of liberal tendencies, free from extreme conservatism and radicalism.

BRITISH PUBLIC IS INTERESTED IN NAVAL IDEAS

President's Views on Question of Disarmament at Sea Stir Up Plenty of Interest Over England

LONDON, Dec. 6 (By Wireless).—Both morning and afternoon papers prominently display the dispatch filed by Robert A. Hendon just before President Wilson sailed yesterday, in which it was stated that the president "undoubtedly will ask disarmament at sea as well as on land."

Benjamin Carter said that the president's "insistence on commutation of America's three-year naval building program may possibly reflect his determination to ask other nations to scale down" or the United States will "scale up," and that "it is reported the president regards the danger of militarism at sea to be as great as on land and that he does not favor a joint sea policy between Great Britain and the United States."

The Westminster Gazette says: "The correspondent of the United Press is clearly a rather abrupt man, or he would have endeavored to put the new doctrine a little more persuasively."

The Gazette expresses hope that Wilson will not stress naval disarmament exceedingly, thus provoking the disarmament. The Evening Standard calls it "a remarkable statement."

Warning by Unknown Parties Leads to Strenuous Effort to Detect Snipers

TAOOMA, Dec. 6.—Armed military guards were today detailed to the home of Brigadier-General Cornelius Vanderbilt, well known New York millionaire, at Gravelly Lake, in an attempt to solve the mystery of a note bearing the word, "beware," which was found tacked to the gate late Tuesday night.

Telephone wires leading from the home were cut. A barricade had been thrown across the entrance to the glassy country estate by unknown parties though for what purpose cannot be conjectured.

Other obstacles had been placed across the automobile drive inside the grounds.

TELLS STORY OF FIGHTERS' WINNING WAR

Secretary Baker in Report to Congress Recounts Achievements of Nation Fighting From Peace to Battle

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 6.—The annual report of Secretary of War Newton D. Baker made today to congress is an epic telling in a few words the achievements of the American fighting men, the problems presented to the war department and the results attained.

The size of the army has increased from April 6, 1917, to November 11, 1918, from 190,000 to 3,685,000 men, of whom more than 2,000,000 were in France. The appropriations for the war department on the executive side alone, was increased in that period from $2,000,000 to $700,000,000, and the civilian employes had increased from about 2,000 to about 25,000. For the year ending June 30, 1918, the appropriations for the support of the military establishment aggregated $8,000,000,000. For the year ending June 30, 1919, the appropriations aggregate $12,500,000,000.

Growth of the Army
At the date of the signing of the armistice over 25 per cent of the entire male population of the country between the ages of 16 and 31 was in military service. This represents a growth in the size of the army in 19 months of nearly twenty-fold, namely, from 189,674 in March, 1917, to 3,684,000 in November, 1918.

Registration
Approximately 23,709,900 males between the ages of 18 and 49, inclusive, registered under the terms of the selective service law.

The draft secured a large army, says the report, in record time, without unjust discrimination, or destruction of industry; and it gained the respect and support of the citizenry as a whole. For all of this the state and local workers who with whole-hearted enthusiasm carried the heavy burden must receive a large share of credit.

Over 8,000,000 of the registrants were inducted into military service, 2,541,000 through calls issued to local boards to furnish their allotted quotas, and 259,000 through inductions of individuals. Approximately 140,000 of the latter were inducted in France and during the first 10 days in November for the Students Army Training Corps.

Success of the Experiment

It is a source of deep satisfaction to me, says the secretary, that the officers' training schools have been so successful. Their graduates have been leaving positions of responsibility and profit, dropping their personal affairs and devoting themselves wholeheartedly to the new business of war. Thanks to a peculiarly close and cordial cooperation between the army officers and this mass of civilian-enthusiast, the results have exceeded our warmest hopes.

Laying the Foundations

The first units of the American Expeditionary Force reached France in June, 1917. With remarkable foresight the government at once began laying the foundations for a big American army. Docks were built, miles of railroad were laid, machine shops and storage depots were constructed, training areas were laid out. Within the month in France and in immediate prospect numbered but few thousands, essential preparations were made for an army mounting into the millions.

Until this groundwork was well under way large armies which could not be handled, but before the end of the year, divisions had reached France—the First and Second Divisions of Regulars, the Twenty-sixth Division from New England, and the Twenty-seventh and Twenty-eighth from the Midwest and East.

During the fall and winter American troops received the intensive training in modern warfare which made them able to lead later at Chateau-Thierry, St. Mihiel, and the Meuse.

American Troops in Action
On March 21 the attack of the German offensive broke. Under the stress of the situation unity of command was effected, and by the direction of the president General Pershing immediately placed his forces, numbering at that time about 448,000, at the disposal of Marshal Foch. The attack from Chateau-Thierry outward to the Argonne. Six American divisions were thrown into the line at Chateau-Thierry with several more in reserve. Three days later the drive had been stopped, and Marshal Foch launched his offensive.

From that time the story is one of allied attack and German retreat. In blow after blow which the commander in chief of the allied armies struck at the German line, American troops led the First American Army under the personal direction of Gen. Pershing launched an attack on St. Mihiel and within twenty-four hours had plucked off that heavily fortified salient which, without a hitch, stood through four years of war. The elimination of this France, relieved the pressure on Ver-

Naval Policy Is Strongly Opposed

House Committee Men Question Need of Further Government Construction

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The navy department's policy of continuing the purchase of land and building operations during peace time was strenuously attacked by house naval affairs committee members today.

Representative Butler, in hearings on the naval bill, declared there were eighteen government and private ways which could be used for capital ships, and questioned the need of further additions.

Admiral Barks, chief of yards and docks, declared there were less shipways than necessary and advised that the navy, by conducting its own building, could more than save the cost in one year.

Parks also declared that postponing all further building projects for one year would be a severe setback to naval plans.

SHOPS CONSOLIDATION OF RAILROADS BENEFITS

Report of Regional Director Demonstrates Improvement in Traffic Conditions

A report to Director General McAdoo from Hilo Holden, regional director of the central western region, for the most part shows that the movement of traffic over the railroads in that region was better than normal and reviews in detail traffic conditions as well as economies affected through better planning, consolidation of facilities and more direct routing.

The report demonstrates that the "falling Day" plan now in effect has reached the point where it is saving 3,429 cars per week. There has been an increased loading in the region of coal, grain, livestock. Extensive attention has been paid to the livestock situation with the result that an increase of 10 per cent in loading was brought about. Good results were also achieved through more intensive loading of all kinds of commodities throughout the month. Full car supply was available in the midwestern oilfield for the loading of oil. Mr. Holden's report also shows that in spite of disadvantages, more ship work was accomplished in that region than in the same month a year ago.

Ticket office consolidations in the region have been effected which will save a total of 457,978 per annum.

BARBITAL BATHING IN UTAH

IS PROFITABLE INDUSTRY

In Utah many boy and girl club members are going into the rabbit-raising business. It is most profitable, according to word received by the State relations service, United States department of agriculture. They have found that it costs about 25 cents to raise a rabbit to the age of three months, and that it sells for 75 cents on the market, at 35 of 40 cents a pound. The pelts bring from 10 to 75 cents, depending on the kind of rabbit and its size. Compared with poultry, rabbit raising in Utah has proved much more economical, as rabbits are very hardy and require no expensive feed. For example, one club boy reports that he feeds only oats, cabbage, and water.

In some places in the state the demand exceeds the supply. Hotels and restaurants, which serve rabbits often as a delicacy, are the chief buyers. The bureau of biological survey and the bureau of markets are co-operating actively in developing interest in the production and marketing of domesticated rabbits, and in starting clubs of note in handling these animals and the wild rabbits which are killed for sport or to protect crops from their depredations.

Chief of Staff Marsh Says Game May Be Resumed on Regular Schedule

CHICAGO, Dec. 6.—Baseball is to be reconstructed and already has the official sanction of the war department, according to a letter from Chief of Staff Marsh to Ban B. Johnson, president of the American league, made public here today.

Replying to a request from Johnson for some kind of an official sanction for resuming the sport, General Marsh wrote: "The war department sees no reason why the game should not be resumed under its regular schedule. The wholesome effect of a clean, hard game like baseball is very marked and its discontinuance would be a real misfortune."

March told Johnson that men are being returned from abroad as fast as shipping allows and that 1,700,000 men now in camps at home will be released as rapidly as possible.

British Press Says English Understanding of the United States War Service is Growing Steadily

LONDON, Dec. 6. (British Admiralty Wireless)—British newspapers in publishing full reports of President Wilson's address to congress, had occasion to point out the British public's ever growing appreciation of what American soldiers and the people as a whole have done in the war.

"We would ask the Americans to believe that the allies regard the coming of the president in the same spirit in which they regarded the immense war effort of the United States and its decisive contribution in armed forces to the common victory," says the Times, noting the president's suggestion that control may yet "perhaps for a long while" have to be exercised over shipping, the Times says: "If it be a sacrifice which the European peoples deeply appreciate."

"We venture to read into it definite recognition of the splendid work done by bodies like the wheat executive and the maritime transport board whose efforts have gone far to prove in advance the feasibility of a practical league of nations."

The Morning Post says: "The president's address bore witness to the great achievement of the American army and to the hardly less notable accomplishment of those at home who supported the army. British troops which have fought alongside the Americans testify to their quickness, courage and valor. The presence of many thousands of the United States army in this country has brought the two nations into special relations which we can not but believe will not again be clouded by misunderstanding."

Glass Nomination Sent to the Senate

Virginia Congressman Is Only Named as Secretary of Treasury

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—Nomination of Carter Glass, Virginia, as secretary of the treasury was sent to the senate today by the white house. Glass will assume the duties of the secretary of the treasury December 10, pending Secretary McAdoo's announced resignation.

McAdoo stated as to his future plans, that he will take a short rest. Then he said, he proposed to resume the practice of law in New York.

"Like all of President Wilson's recent appointments, the present is eloquently spoken. Might he speak with pride of the splendid courage and achievements of the American soldiers, of the swiftness with which they learned the lessons of war of their almost too great ardor and enthusiasm of their advance, of the stupendous industrial efforts which accompanied their military efforts, of the extraordinary strength with which America's great armies were carried across 8,000 miles of ocean, of the decisive result of her entry into the war."

"This a great page in the record of a great people. There is no example in history of such an effort undertaken with complete absence of material aid or prospect of material gain, in defense simply of national honor and of the larger interests of mankind. Its immediate success has been swift and decisive, but its full fruits have yet to be gathered. In all of this final work, the president in defiance of all predictions, has left his own country in order to take part in the decisive conference of the allies."

Historic Windsor Castle
King Edward VII. announced every now and then to send him a certain number of masons, stone workers and carpenters and thus Windsor castle was built on the ground on which it is located. King Arthur used to sit surrounded by his knights. During the reign of George IV, it was improved and restored by the court architect, Sir Jeffrey Wyattville, and Queen Victoria spent nearly a million pounds in restoring and perfecting it. Windsor is an ideal spot for a castle surrounded by more than 1,800 acres of park and forest.

Makers of Heroes
Emerson says, "Times of heroism are generally times of terror." They show true character. It seems that human nature needs a test to show the spirit of the soul. Spirit of heroism is often left dormant until aroused by a mighty challenge. It seems as though there is some militarism of the soul that waits the fire call and the measure of the drum-beat. Not fear but lack of occasion kept the latent might unconscious of itself. But let the need call and the sleeping giant roused and strides forward to the dismay of petty puppets of annoyance.

Concerning Patents
The length of time it takes to obtain a patent depends partly on the nature of the application. It is the thing to be patented, and partly on the skill with which the case is presented. There are forty distinct divisions in the patent office, each division having in charge a specific class or variety of work. Each application is examined in the order of filing and some of the divisions are considerably behind in their work. An application may be acted on promptly or only after weeks or months.

MONEY WILL NOT BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS THIS YEAR

Tiny Messengers of Health That Have Featured in Past Holiday Seasons Go Only to Red Cross Members

Red Cross Anti-Tuberculosis Christmas seals, which have been in the past a feature during the holiday season, will not be placed on sale this year, according to the following announcement of the Red Cross headquarters in Seattle, but instead of the seals will be awarded to each new and renewing member of the Red Cross during the Christmas season Red Cross Roll Call: Democracy has vanquished the king of kings of the dark and individualistic era, which have ruthlessly sacrificed millions of human lives to their ambition for domination.

Democracy has written film on patriotism.

Now democracy in America is pitted against the king of kings—the legions of death—tuberculosis—which takes a toll of human lives exceeding that of any other disease by which mankind is afflicted.

To overcome the nation-wide campaign against the white plague, led by the National Tuberculosis association, has been supported in the main by the sale of the little Red Cross Christmas seals, which any one who had over a penny to spare might buy.

War Brings New Demands

The war has served to reveal to America more tellingly than ever before how enormously our tuberculosis problem is and how imperative is the continuance and extension of the campaign against tuberculosis, for tens of thousands of our men and women have been rejected in the draft as unfit for military service on account of tuberculosis.

The American Red Cross, therefore, faces an obligation to assist this campaign of the Red Cross, and to do so as a means of replacing the usual sale of Christmas seals at a time when as few appeals as possible should be made to the public, the Red Cross has set aside an appropriation to cover the special necessities of the campaign for the year 1919. The National Tuberculosis association, and all state and local tuberculosis agencies throughout the country will at the same time join the Red Cross Christmas Roll Call for universal membership. Every new and renewing member of the Red Cross will be awarded ten of the little Christmas seals as messengers of health.

Chile and Peru to Compose Difference

United States Government Impresses Countries With Necessity of Step

WASHINGTON, Dec. 6.—The United States government has impressed upon both Chile and Peru the necessity of composing their differences. This urging has been made informally and on the ground that the South American solidarity must be maintained and that their differences should be solved among the nations at this time.

While there is no sign at the moment of mediation by any of the South American powers, it has been suggested here that each nation will make individual formal representations to quiet the situation.

Date is Set For Re-opening Schools

Diminishing Danger From Contagion Results in Decision to Resume Sessions

Sessions of the Twin Falls public schools which have been suspended under orders of the state and county boards of health since the middle of October, will be resumed on Monday, December 16, according to official announcement made by the board of trustees.

Because of some precautions of small pox, the Twin Falls schools were closed some days before the issuance of the state closing order as a measure for stamping out the infectious epidemic. The danger from both diseases is regarded now as being slight.

As a measure of precaution, however, against the influenza, the board of school trustees and a county health board cooperating, will furnish serum for the immunization of such pupils as desire to before the reopening of school.

FARM BUREAU'S GOAL OF 2000 MEMBERS EASY

Almost Universal Readiness of Candidates to Affiliate With Organization Backed by U. S. Marks Campaign

Almost universal readiness of the farmers of this county, to enroll as members of the organization, is an outstanding feature of the drive being waged this week by the Twin Falls county farm bureau to increase its membership to 2,000 before Saturday night.

Committee chairman throughout the county express confidence that the quota of new members set for their districts will be reached easily, and the headquarters of the organization here is kept busy sending out supplies to the men and women who are working in the drive.

Without an exception every person who has entered the farm bureau headquarters here during the week has enrolled as a member of the organization. If his membership has been suggested and there are many instances of new members coming voluntarily into headquarters to enroll.

County Agent Donald McLean spent the week in the field. He was at Nurkough and Bickel assisting the drive, Lewis Washington, and he spent Thursday at Buhl and in the west end of the county on a similar mission.

The farm bureau membership drive is being waged simultaneously through out the United States under the direction of the United States department of agriculture, which urges affiliations with the organization as an important factor in solution of the farmers' problems of reconstruction.

WAR WORK OF POSTOFFICES IS ENORMOUS

Annual Report of Postmaster General Shows Unprecedented Business—Favors State Owned Telegraph Systems

WASHINGTON, D. C., Dec. 6.—The report of Postmaster General McAdoo shows that the war work of the post office department during the year ended June 30, 1918, was unprecedented.

Not taking into account the increase of postage for purposes of war revenue, which was the result of the increase of the postal rates and is a part of the postal fund, there was an increase of $14,740,845.88 in the income of the postal service compared with that of the previous year. The increase of expenditures amounted to $1,200,000,000.

The war revenue collected for the United States treasury through the increased postage rates and paid into the general fund of the treasury up to June 30, 1918, was $44,500,000. On this the fund for the postal service, the accounts of the postal service, the strictly postal revenues were for the fiscal year, $10,642,533.77 in excess of the expenditures, which is more than double the largest surplus ever before earned by the service.

Legislation

Among the more important matters pertaining to legislation mentioned in the report are the following:

Telegraphs and Telephones

Government ownership of the telegraphs and telephones is again recommended. The postmaster general says: "The experience as a result of the present war has demonstrated that the principle of government ownership of the telegraphs and telephones is not only sound but practical. It has been necessary as a war emergency measure for the congress to authorize legislation authorizing the government to assume control of the telegraph and telephone systems of the country. While such control is temporary and will exist only until the ratification of the treaty of peace, yet the best results have been obtained only when these systems are owned by the government, made a part of the postal establishment, and operated solely with a view to serving the public and not of making profit or guaranteeing returns of the investment. Government ownership of the telegraph and telephone should no longer be delayed, and the action of congress in this matter is urgently recommended."

Extension of Civil Service

To further eliminate partisan politics from the postal service, to recognize merit and efficiency, and in the interest of the postal service, it is again recommended that the legislation be enacted to extend the civil service to the position of postmaster at principal offices; and to extend and perfect the efficiency system obtaining in the postal establishment. It is also recommended that the postmaster general and that of purchasing agent of the post office department be included in the classified civil service.

Military Mail

The organization of a postal service for the American forces at cantonments in this country and for the expeditionary forces in France, was accomplished by the post office department during the fiscal year 123 fully equipped branch post offices were established at military cantonments, each handling mail for from 50,000 to 75,000 men. The combined post office receipts from these branch post offices, exclusive of money-order business, was $1,000,000 per month, which is equivalent to the service of a city of 2,000,000 population. The volume of mail received daily from the various units of the forces in France is a total of 35,475,956 letters and 15,122,870 pieces of parcel post and printed matter. A money order business was transacted at 50 postal stations with the troops in France and 717 money orders, aggregating $5,947,280.45 were issued. The total of 38,502 money orders, aggregating $72,198,777, were cashed for soldiers in the field. There were an average of fifteen dispatches of mail per month by commercial letters or transports from this country, 153 airmail being made during the year.

Airmail Mail Service

The report discloses a program for the further extension of the airmail mail service, which has been successfully operated between Washington, Philadelphia, and New York since May 16, 1918. It was previously been the subject of a study and a number of airmail flights with mail had been undertaken for purposes of exhibition. It was only with the establishment of this route that transportation of mail by aeroplane became a permanent and practical feature of the postal service.

NO COUNTRY CAN LEAD AMERICA

May Equal England

As for Secretary Daniels' proposal, he has carefully couched his recommendations so as not to make comparisons between the British and American sea power. But stripped of their verbiage, his proposals apparently mean that the administration intends the United States to be England's equal on the sea. The sole thing to alter such a program will be a satisfactory international fleet police arrangement.

Ships Are Superior

It is pointed out by naval experts that even if the United States equals England in numerical strength, our navy still will be ahead of England's for the types of craft and armament we are building are far superior to anything Britain has afloat. The American naval expansion theory is quite open and quite sincere, according to the first of our managers. "There is no limit to the types of craft and armament which it is necessary for the United States to develop its military strength in all over the world will be reduced so as to help insure the future peace of the world."

Declaring that "we must insist now on unrestricted freedom of the seas, the world should be free. There shall be: 'An open sea; free ports; free harbors; to us to the same extent that any nation extends this freedom to its own people and as extended by the United States to other nations.'"

Leads said...

"Leads said the success of the league depends upon public sentiment and not on an international army and navy. "It was not our army and navy that won the war against Germany," he said. "It was the public opinion of the world. If the league is not sustained by public opinion because of the rightfulness of its decrees, they can never be enforced."

French Armistice Commission Wants Money for Occupation Expenses

LONDON, Dec. 6.—The French armistice commission has dispatched a note to Berlin demanding payment of occupation expenses incurred by the Allied armies to date. A central news dispatch from Amsterdam stated today. The expenses are said to include $10,000,000 to maintain the American army and $10,000,000 provided to the British. Of the latter amount, $500,000 will be levied on Duren and the remainder on Cologne.

THREE-FOURTHS OF QUOTA MUST BE RAISED YET

Subscription to War Savings in Twin Falls Remains Proportionate to Number of Captains in the Field

With one-fourth of the captains reporting, and two days remaining for the Honor Week drive to put Twin Falls county over the top in respect to War Savings, one-fourth of the quota has been raised.

This is the statement given out this morning by County Director A. Gulbert at headquarters in the Twin Falls Bank & Trust company building.

(The success of the drive depends) on it. It has since the campaign opened, every captain getting into the field.

Drive Leaders Report

The four collectors or drive leaders in Twin Falls reported Thursday night 60 active captains out of 202 named, and the raising of $11,250, an against a quota for Twin Falls of $55,000.

Following is a report on Thursday night of the number of stamps sold by each colonel and his captains: I. Clois, 574; J. W. Jessop, 833; C. E. McMartin, 202; Asher, 11; Wilson, 1032.

Appeals to Captains

Director Gulbert this morning issued the following statement: "Telegraphed report from Hiale has just been received stating that Hiale county has completed her quota in actual cash. What Hiale county has done, Twin Falls county can do. We are instructed to stop when we reach the top. It is the captain's duty to get up and canvass his block in the War Savings drive."

GERMAN EMBASSY HAS CONFIDENCE IN HUBLEY AND HIS EMPLOYEES

Germanophile journalists, who have criticized Hiale's articles to papers in the second cablegram. Bernstorff complained that "Hale says and Hiale confirms that the World (The New York World) on account of Wiegand (Karl Von Wiegand), gets the important interviews. Urge Hiale get preference as Hiale has been the beginning placed himself unilaterally on our side."

Derberg Holds Session

Bielaski told in great detail about the meeting at the Biltmore Hotel, New York, of German propagandists, headed by Dr. Derberg, chief of the propaganda service in the United States. At the first of these meetings, November 3, 1918, Derberg, Myer Gurdner, a German Embassy employee; Meyer, an employee of the Hamburg-American line; George Sylvester Vorick, editor of the Fatherland, and Von Bernstorff were among those present.

Derberg outlined the policy to be pursued in shaping American public opinion to Germany's advantage. He said that "made-in-Germany" efforts to sway American public opinion had resulted unfavorably.

Derberg said more money would have to be spent with the American press, according to Bielaski's report of the meeting. "Through direct bribery would be done," Derberg was quoted "but it is said one can work on reporters."

Derberg announced that he was conducting "talking into his services the famous, clever journalist Muller."

Could've Got Interview

When Hiale was hired by the embassy he was not only to head the German effort in Hiale, but was to make an effort to get in touch with President Wilson, and impress the German view on him. Hiale, who is the author of a "Life of President Wilson," tried to get an interview with President Wilson for Derberg but was refused.

"The public opinion of America in a pro-German sense is highly important," Bielaski further quoted Derberg as saying. "Our efforts must be enlarged for there is no denying that they have already proved unprofitable to the English."

Suggests Methods to Use

Derberg, according to Bielaski, suggested the following means of winning the American public opinion to German ends:

Avoid mention of culture and criticism of the American attitude in news dispatches from Germany.

Send a daily wireless news letter "with proof of the news."

Show American newspaper correspondents in Germany "as much as possible" and extend to them every possible courtesy.

"Don't do anything to try to get America involved in the war and don't mix in American affairs."

Try to regard to the wishes of Irish-Americans.

Bielaski said he would present much evidence of the activities of the Irish-Americans, particularly the "Maguire group," headed he said, by James Maguire, a former mayor of Syracuse, N. Y.
