

SUPERIORITY OVER GERMANS VERY MARKED

Recent Disclosures in Respect of British Fleet Offer Interesting Comparisons

LONDON, Dec. 7.—(Times Admiralty Wirephoto.)—The Times publishes an article by its naval correspondent on war time construction in the British navy, which can now be described.

"Two out of the Iron Duke class, the Emperor of India and the Denbow. They belonged to the 1911-12 program and also the Tiger, a battle cruiser. The first vessels of the Queen Elizabeth class—the Iron Duke, Valiant, Warspite and the Queen Elizabeth—all if which were of the program for 1912-13, are also among the additions.

"The five remaining vessels of the twenty-one, are those familiarly known as the 'Horn' ships, because of the keelways maintained about their design and construction. They are known as the Revenge, Courageous, Glorious, Princes and—(same list), and they are reported to be nearly 800 feet in length and to displace 30,000 tons each, and to be capable of a speed of from 30 to 35 miles per hour.

"The contrast presented with this output of British ships is more marked when it is recalled that in the battle squadrons of the German high seas fleet, not more than two or three ships were to be classed as battle cruisers.

"As Captain Porlier admitted in the Berliner Tageblatt of November 29, the longer range of the British guns would soon have put our weak armored ships to the bottom."

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Dec. 6.—American business will send a representative commission abroad to study reconstruction needs of the European nations and act as an advisory council to the American peace delegates, it was brought out in a resolution adopted by men to have been completed within a year, when the combination of great speed with a heavy armament would allow them to be used in the shallow waters of the North Sea and Baltic to catch and smash a gathering enemy.

"Monsieur Besseau, naval writer of the Temps, states that they are fitted with devices to neutralize explosions so far as possible and to afford them approximately invulnerable protection against torpedoes attacks. He describes them as proof of the confidence of the British naval in the powerful service parabol of heavy hitting, the only one which appears able to answer the mastery of the sea."

"The contrast presented with this output of British ships is more marked when it is recalled that in the battle squadrons of the German high seas fleet, not more than two or three ships were to be classed as battle cruisers.

DEMIES TRUTH OF CONNECTION WITH GERMANY

William Bayard Hale Says His Relations Were Entirely Proper—Never Attended a Conference

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—William Bayard Hale made the following statement over the telephone to the United Press: "I have heard the report of Mr. Bielski's testimony only over the telephone and am not in a position to comment categorically upon what appears to be its contents."

"However, I will say that I never was at a conference with anybody at the Ritz Carlton hotel; that I never saw Count Bernstorff except for perhaps a minute and a half in May, 1916. I do not know Mr. Bernstorff."

"Mother of Imagination." "The allegation that I was at the time under contract with anybody on earth, German, Turk or Italian, is a lie. I was never in contact with the New York American, is a lie of vivid imagination."

"Hale lived in lavish style in Berlin, occupied the hotel suite of the luxurious Hotel Bielski in 1916. He was the wife of his wife. To quote her instructions of the journey Hale told her to 'travel in luxury with the best of the money.' Bielski said, 'During his stay in Europe, Hale traveled extensively through Rome, Berlin and Paris, and he was paid for the trip over by the German foreign office, although he had no visible proof.'"

"The subject of the visit, he said, was to try to induce Bielski to align herself with the central powers."

Louis Edwards, a reporter connected with the Hearst newspapers, traveled abroad with Hale in 1916, according to the evidence. While on the trip, Hale informed his traveling companion that the reconstruction commission that he was in the employ of the German government, officials showed.

PLEADS CASE FOR HOGS ON IDAHO FARMS

William Kerr, Swine Specialist For State University Extension Department, Points Way to Permanent Gain

A plea for the hog in the scheme for feeding livestock on the southern Idaho farms... "The only one system of farming that can stand the test of prosperity for any length of time" is made in the following article by William Kerr of Boise, swine specialist of the state university extension department, who has spent some time here lately in the interests of the industry.

The average farmer who has a few hogs on a place where he must look into the future and decide what method of farming he is to follow. This section of the state produces a large surplus of grain and alfalfa and the market for these products is a large and growing one. Under such conditions, there is only one system of farming that can stand the test of prosperity for any length of time. This is one which livestock is used as a means of marketing the grain and hay on the farm, in place of shipping it a long distance to market.

Naturally those sections with a surplus of grain have turned to hog production as a profitable means of marketing a large part of this surplus. In a section where alfalfa, or blue grass and white clover grow so well, hogs can be produced up to 125 to 150 pounds in weight cheaper than in any section where alfalfa, clover and blue grass per cent of cost, may be practically finished for market by cleaning grain or sheep flake or hogging down such crops as peas or corn. If there is the proper relation between the price of grain and hay on the farm, you can finish the rest of those hogs on dry lot with some addition of alfalfa hay. If grain is too high, you can ship them out in stock hogs.

There is generally a strong force working here to back the hog for finishing so that at any time our surplus stock hogs can be disposed of at a profit. The corn belt farmer figures he does well to get one pound of grain on five to six pounds of grain, while the Idaho farmer, with his alfalfa pasture supplemented with two to three pounds of grain per day with a requirement of not more than three pounds of grain to make one pound of gain.

There is an earnest desire to begin to raise hogs next year, or increase the number raised, etc. that of this year should get raised and have them ready as soon as possible. They should not be bred until eight months of age and if you have any hogs bred in the fall, you desire in latter part of March. If you desire April and May pigs, breed later than this. Don't be too sure some other farmer is going to be able to supply you with pigs. You will vary the price of hogs according to the price of grain and high prices for hogs because of great demand of farmers for hogs for consuming their surplus grain. The raising of our own and spring pigs available for breeding purposes, from the finished and slaughtered is the only means of increasing the number of hogs next year. The present owners are not likely to keep more of these than they need for their own use, so you will need securing these until you have your own.

Better Methods of Rearing. The cost of a pig at weaning age depends largely upon the number of pigs farrowed per sow and the percentage of loss of pigs from farrowing time up to weaning age. Many farmers lose about 50 per cent of their pigs during the suckling period. To prevent this loss, the sow should receive proper care and feed from a month before farrowing till at least a month after farrowing. This article will deal with methods of handling hogs up to time of farrowing. In order to feed the sow properly, she should receive a large amount of leafy vegetable material and some source of animal protein. This protein may be in the form of fish meal, or milk.

PROVED SPIRIT OF DEMOCRACY

Voluntary Basis of Food-Saving Showed Heart of America Beat True for Freedom.

To the voluntary service and sacrifice of the American people must be attributed the continued health, strength and morale of the Allied armies and the civil populace.

By adopting cleaner threshing methods and by finally combing harvest fields to gather grain formerly wasted, three million and farmers of the United States this year saved fully 10,000,000 bushels of wheat, estimated as equivalent to about seven one-hundredth of bread for every person in the country. This result, accompanied by corresponding savings of barley, oats, rye and other grains, is shown by reports from 38 grain states to the U. S. Food Administration. Other states, although not prepared to furnish definite figures of conservation, in the grain fields, report greatly reduced harvest losses.

Meeting this world need on a purely voluntary basis, the American people have conclusively proved that democracy is a success and that in time of need it will rise to its own defense. If these words are ever accomplished in the future, the very fact that has shown the strength of democracy's law to itself may justify the existence of the Food Administration in the eyes of the world.

What Makes the Rumble of Thunder?

Why does thunder rumble? The path of a lightning flash through the air may be several miles in length. All along this path the sudden expansion of the heated air—a true explosion—sets up an atmospheric wave which spreads in all directions and eventually registers upon our ears as thunder. Since the lightning discharge is almost instantaneous, the sound wave is produced at very nearly the same time along the whole path. But the sound wave travels slowly through the air. It needs approximately 1,000 feet per second. Thus the sound from the part of the lightning's path that is nearest to us reaches us first, and that from other parts of the path afterward, according to their distance. In thunder-clashes and booming effects are due chiefly to irregularities in the shape of the path—Popular Science Monthly.

GET BUSY!

All that is needed now to carry into execution the good roads program and other local improvement plans that have been held in a state of inertia during the war emergency is for the initiative to be taken locally.

The Federal government, in the statements of President Wilson, and through its various agencies, has made known its preference and desire for a policy of industrial development to be paramount in the period of reconstruction.

A most potent argument in favor of this policy is the necessity for providing employment for some millions of young men who are returning to civilian life after fulfillment of their duty in the military service.

Foremost among all plans for development, and particularly in the Twin Falls county, should be the building of an adequate system of roads.

Every argument that was employed in the million-dollar bond issue campaign last February for good roads in this county is as good now as it ever was, and there never has been any valid objection to the purpose of building good roads.

The organization of the Twin Falls Highway district subsequent to the defeat of the proposed roads bond issue last February, may possibly have changed the situation with respect to the territory yet remaining under the administration of the county for road purposes and with the Eight Highway district. If such is the case, no time should be lost in determining what this new situation is, and in formulating a program in pursuance of which all of the road organizations of the county can work in harmony to the end that a system of roads to serve the common interests of the county and harmonize with the highway plans of the state and nation may be provided.

The program on which the campaign for the proposed bond issue was made should be revived. Wherein it suits these purposes it should be adapted, together with such alterations and amendments as may be deemed necessary.

America Mourns

Last night I stood on the Ocean's shore
And the swain sang to me,
And my heart beat slow
With that song of woe
For this was the song of the sea:

A prayer for the sorrowful
Whose eyes shall watch in vain,
When the ships that bore their sons
away,
Come sailing home again.

Oh, let the shouts of victory die,
Leave beautiful words unsaid,
And harken to the sobbing cry
Of those who mourn their dead.

For great was the sacrifice,
And great shall be the pain,
When the ships that bore our sons
away,
Come sailing home again.

BOY SCOUTS WORK IN WAR AN IMPORTANT ONE

National Safety Forbids Telling Whole Story Now, But Much is Done in Public View

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—It will probably be a long time after peace is finally signed before the full story of all that the Boy Scouts of America have accomplished on the home battlefield may safely be told.

The things that they have done in the light of emergency—such as selling Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps, and distributing information to local leaders of the government, disposing black walnut for gunstock and airplane propellers, and carrying to completion war gardens and war-crop farms, and helping other organizations—was well known, but there is a side to their patriotic activity of which the public may not be generally aware.

There is many a man now safely interned who lays the ending of his trail of wireless conspiracy to the vigilance of a Boy Scout.

Not under suspicion as the actions of a man would have been these young men with their alert eyes and alert ears have been able to locate many an illegal radio.

The officials of the government are now, however, testifying to the real aid given by the Boy Scouts of America in the line of their patriotic war work.

The secretary of the navy has sent this telegram to the chief scout executive at the national headquarters in New York City:

Washington, D. C., November 15, 1918.
James E. West,
Boy Scouts of America,
The Fifth Avenue Building
New York, N. Y.

Will you be good enough to give my greetings to the Boy Scouts. These patriotic young crusaders who have rendered such patriotic service in this war convince us that the America of the future will be worthy of the America of the fathers.

(Signed) JOSEPHUS DANIELS.

VICTORY STOCK SHOW IS PLANNED FOR DENVER

Directors Make Arrangements of Large Scale for Greatest Exposition of Kind in West

DENVER, Colo., Dec. 7.—The board of directors of the Western Stock Show association have decided that the next National Western Stock Show, which opens in Denver on January 13, is to be known as the "Victory Stock Show."

It is planned to make it the greatest event that has ever been held in Denver. Additional space has been secured for the show, through the lease of the big three-story barn across the street from the show building and Lafayette street in front of the show will be closed to public traffic and included within the show.

The directors report that the outlook for exhibits at the coming show is the best of any previous year. All departments will be filled to overflowing, and it is expected that there will be a gathering of stockmen from Colorado and adjoining states and from all over the west; in fact, that it will be greater than at any previous exhibition.

In connection with the Stock Show, the annual convention of the American National Live Stock association will be held at the same time and place. For great mass meetings of stockmen at which government officials will undertake to explain to the stockmen what the post-war demand for live stock and agricultural products will be during the coming year and for some time to come, plans are being made for a large scale for one of the greatest live stock and agricultural exhibitions ever held in the west. It will be wide open during the week.

YANKS IN CHARGE OF MUNITIONS FACTORIES

Demobilization of Men Employed in German War Plants Is Directed By American

LONDON, Dec. 7.—James Grant, an American, is directing demobilization of men employed in German munitions factories, according to a Berlin dispatch received by the Express today. It is estimated that there are 24,000 men out of work in Berlin. They are receiving 3/75 a week as "workless" compensation.

Three hundred thousand women munition workers are demobilizing, quietly and efficiently. The young girls are obtaining employment on farms, where they receive 40 a day.

This Bird Can Sew.
The "tailor bird" of India is an exceptional creature. While the bird stitches to build a nest it chooses a leaf that suits its purpose and perforates the edges with its beak. Then it takes a long piece of grass fiber and sews the edges together, making a pocket.

The leaf is made into the pocket. It is pierced out with another leaf. At the end of the seam the bird makes a knot in the thread to prevent unraveling. This pocket is not the bird's home, however, but only the beginning of it. The bird is made within the pocket. The end of a slender branch is always selected, and as the leaf rotates its natural color the home of the bird is concealed very effectively from animals and other enemies of birds.—People's Home Journal.

Scientific Rose Growing.
An authority states that a first-class rose grows better about as much as the "average" college professor, and that his knowledge, as a rule, costs him about as much. The demand for roses in the large city has given rise to a new species—the "man who knows how" to raise beautiful buds, with long, strong stems. $3.00 is required to grow them well, and scientific attainment of a high order is needed to produce cut flowers of the first grade.

Figuring Weight of Ice.
A very close estimate of the weight of any block of ice may be ascertained by applying the following method: The volume of the ice in cubic inches is obtained by multiplying together the three dimensions. Dividing the product by 29 gives the weight of the ice in pounds. For instance, if the block is 10 by 10 by 12 inches, its volume is 1,200 cubic inches; dividing this product by 29 gives 40 pounds—the correct weight of the ice—Popular Science Monthly.

In This Age of Hostile.
A friend of Goethe's once said to him upon his return from a colonnades home. "You must know Rome very well." "Oh, no," replied Goethe. "I was there only seven years." More of our modern plays, if would seem, are written in a period that might be called by several days rather than anything like a period of seven years of study of training.

United in Control of Lakes.
The boundary line between the United States and Canada runs through the center of each of the four border lakes, except where a section between the two countries, and jurisdiction over the lakes is shared. There is a permanent international waterways commission, consisting of three Americans and three Canadians, that has control of the use of the waters of the lakes for power and other purposes.

Secretary of the Treasury Telegraphs Idaho Headquarters Urging Speeding Up of War Savings Campaign

(Special Lin. The News) BOISE, Idaho, Dec. 7.—State headquarters for War Savings for Idaho has received a telegram from Secretary of the Treasury Mellon urging and insisting that Idaho fulfill its weekly War Savings obligation and calling attention to the necessity for holding the War Savings Certificates already purchased as long as possible and under no circumstances to ask for their redemption until some time next year.

The government's monetary requirements were never greater nor more pressing than they are today. Expenditures for November were greater than in any similar period. These expenditures growing out of the war must be met by borrowing from the people and their magnificent response heretofore to the government's requirements makes me confident that they will not fail to continue their support to the end that all requirements resulting from the war will be promptly met.

List of Useful People Submitted to German Government Carries Many Names Familiar to American Public

WASHINGTON, Dec. 7.—Dr. Carl A. Fehr was one of the brainiest men connected with the German propaganda in their pro-war campaign in this country and directed much of the publicity from New York. A blue blood of the department of justice is terrified before the senate committee investigating alien enemy activity in America.

A long list of names, including many now prominent in the educational and public life of the country, is set forth on other papers from Fehr and read into the record by Bielaski.

Under the caption "Important List of Names," the following: Prof. Wm. H. Shaffer, Columbia; Prof. H. H. Wood, Stanford; Prof. J. M. G. McKim, Cambridge; Prof. John W. Burgess, New York; L. E. Prof. Herbert Sanborn, Vanderbilt University, Tennessee; Prof. Geo. B. McClelland, Princeton; David Blumenthal, Berkeley, Calif.; former President of the Stanford University; former Congress member Richard Bartholdi, St. Louis; Wm. H. Heston, New York; Bernard Hildner; Prof. Hubert Hart; Harvard; Oswald Garrison Villard; Blinn; Edw. A. Humby; former owner of the New York Mail; Frederick F. Schrader and Frank Harris, New York; Robt. L. Ford, New York; editor of the Freeman's Journal; Robt. Palmer Thomson, Editor of the American Catholic World; George S. Vlietick, New York; M. L. Herin, New York; Prof. Kono O. Franke, Harvard; Prof. James G. McDonald, University of Indiana, Bloomington; Prof. E. C. Richardson, Princeton; Prof. Wm. D. Howells, University of Wisconsin; Wm. C. O'Neill, Richmond, Va.; Arthur Von Erlangen, 25 Broad Street, New York; Charles Nagel, St. Louis; G. J. Henshaw, Philadelphia; Max A. D. H. New; and Ferdinand Schellville, Chicago.

Germany Given List. This list, Bielaski testified, was sent to the German government signed as "The Most Important Men in the United States from the Pro-German Point of View."

Under the direction of Dr. Fehr, 1,000 articles on different topics were prepared and 14,500 were distributed throughout the country. These, he said, covered a wide range: Bernstein, "The Yoke of Zion" all helped with the work, in conjunction with the work in his country with the clerical German bureau, was the Irish press and news service, headed by Dr. K. Maguire, the evidence showed.

Maguire is the owner of several newspapers in New York state and "the author of 'The King, the King and Irish Freedom,' and 'What Could Germany Do For Ireland?'" He was also chairman of the executive committee of the Friends of Irish Freedom.

Extracts from Fehr's diary were read by Bielaski, showing that he told Mr. Bernstein of the list before he sailed from New York.

George Sylvester Viereck, New York publisher sought to establish a world wide bureau to furnish German propaganda, Bielaski testified. He introduced a letter written by Viereck to Dr. Albert when this plan was suggested.

God in Nature. More than ever we need to appreciate the works of God as shown in the material world. A blue sky, flickering shadows on the grass, the rustle of leaves of a bird, these things should give us the sense that God is still in the world. Let us listen to the voices of the brook. Let us watch the waves of the lake. We may be very near to God when we are in the open air, but we can build mental pictures of great beauty. There are thousands of beautiful pictures all around us. If we have eyes to see, and soul to appreciate them.

Fog Magnifies. If you see a person who seems to be a long way off, he seems to be much bigger than usual. The same thing happens when you see men or cattle on the top of a hill against the horizon in twilight. In both cases you judge them to be farther away than they really are, and consequently they appear inconspicuously large.

Another type of American that gives us an awful pain in the constructive side, whose attitude seems to be that he isn't going to be proud of his country until he has to—Ooble Stone journal.

Cooling Fountain Pens. An application of heavy oil to the joints of a fountain pen will effectively overcome the soaking out of ink at these places, says Popular Mechanic Magazine. The types of fountain pens, having joints which disperse by turning a section of the barrel, sometimes leak because of the oil. The remedy is to dip the pen in warm water and permit to dry, particularly inside. Then apply oil on the spindle that is revolved. Heavy cylinder oil is the best for the purpose. The lubricant should be worked through the fountain from end to end. The pen is then refilled and excess oil wiped off.

MINIDOKA'S SUGAR BEETS NOW IN THE FACTORY. The last carload of beets were taken from the dump in Rupert Monday, consigned to the factory at Paul, says the Minidoka County Patriot. Beets raised in the county are almost all in the factory now, but they are continuing to arrive from Utah to a shut-down of the Smithfield factory as a result of the flu epidemic. The crop in the county this year was somewhat smaller than usual, but the quality was of good quality and will sell well here. This year 2,000 tons were on the dump south of the railroad, 2,415 tons last year, but more beets were loaded on the cars this year than last, 187 car loads being shipped from Rupert. Ten thousand tons were raised near Paul.

The factory has been delayed owing to shortage of help, but is expected to finish its work sometime in January.

PROBATE JUDGE ELECT TO FILL TERM OF PREDECESSOR. HUBERT C. D. PHIBBS, probate judge elect of Minidoka county, has been appointed to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of his predecessor, J. S. Stanley. He has served for 23 months as probate judge and will resign to take up his law farm. Judge Phibbs was formerly clerk of Rupert. L. B. Bedford was appointed to fill the vacancy occasioned by Judge Phibbs's resignation to fill the county office.

BULLY CLAIMS WORLD'S RECORD FOR TALKATION. BURLEY.—Burley will hold its place as the center of high taxes, says the Burley Bulletin. We have heard it said, and we have no reason to doubt it, that Burley has the highest tax rate of any city in the world. The rate for the past year figures over 50 per cent on the assessed valuation. Much of the tax is caused by bonded indebtedness, and the money has been used for good purposes, so we have no kick to make.

Prays for Red Hair. At a religious meeting in Pennsylvania a youth asked the prayers of the pastor and people in order that he might become redheaded. It seems that his hair was of a yellowish-white shade that was no color at all. He had heard the red heads were good scammers, and he was praying the Lord to give him red hair so that he might go forth to fight the kaiser. There's nothing in this, fool, and there's an idea about it. A regiment of a hundred Amazons could put a cramp in the Prussian quicker than a whole division of mere chocolate-haired men. For love or war give us the locks of flame.—Los Angeles Times.

NAVAL POWER IS MAIN BONE OF CONTENTION

America and England Must Guard Against Development of Rivalry Over Size of Respective Sea Forces

BY J. W. T. MASON

NEW YORK, Dec. 7.—Germany is now on the watch to take advantage of the new York, the development of the age-long rivalry that a beaten enemy reveals its power for evil when the victors develop animosities among themselves.

No peace conference attended by allied powers, each with its independent interests to guard, has ever in the past been completely harmonious. The forthcoming conference, establishing a new precedent in this respect, there must be open-mindedness of the part of all the delegates, and a readiness to understand how sensitive certain national feelings are to sudden changes in the balance of power. It is becoming increasingly probable that the questions of the world's future naval strength will be the most delicate issue the peace delegates will be called upon to discuss. It is the problem of what the Germans will concentrate all their naval diplomatic methods for the purpose of attempting to create an artificial rivalry between the two first fleets in the world—the United States and Great Britain.

Must Understand Each Other. If the two nations cannot agree upon a common course of action concerning their future warship construction, the only country to benefit would be Germany, it is a possibility that the sole hope of the world may be of being able to split the peace conference to our advantage by whispering poisonous gossip into American and British ears at the Versailles assembly.

The question of whether the United States or Great Britain shall have the more powerful fleet of fighting ships in the future is not a grave matter touching the national security of either country. It is a matter of prestige never to be based upon a possible war with the United States. This is not only because the wealth and size of America would permit the American people to outstrip any other nation in a serious contest of ship building. It is only because of the very cordialties of Great Britain's relations with the United States.

Might Buy British Ships. The British nation is within the arena of European rivalries that have been going on over a thousand years. The United States is further away and therefore enjoys greater security. The future size of the British navy must be conditioned by relationships in Europe to which the United States is indifferent, and is not a party. Great Britain need not purchase so many ships above her actual need, however, that if America decides upon a speed-up of naval construction, the British might sell some to this country. This proposal recently has been suggested in England. Whether America would consent to buy these ready ships, however, must depend upon a sane judgment of naval strength necessary to safeguard America's security and anti-international rights.

Shell of Letter. The shell of the letter is a letter with a blank or blank space created by the French who were opposed to the European nations' efforts to be brought together. The letter is composed in water of the composition of 112 degrees.
