

DECLARES IDEA IS WONDERFUL WORLD BENEFIT

Argentine Foreign Minister Is Enthusiastic Advocate of Principal of League of Nations

BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 13.—Honorio Pueyrredon, Argentine foreign minister, declared in an interview today that his government is a strong advocate of the league of nations.

"I think the league of nations is the most wonderful idea yet advanced by your great president," said Pueyrredon.

"The league would be extremely powerful and sufficiently strong to guarantee absolutely the future peace of the world—provided the nations can pocket their petty egotisms."

"It would be a pity if the opportunity afforded by the peace conference is allowed to pass. Now is the time to form the league."

Referring to freedom of the seas, Pueyrredon said: "Argentina expressed her ideas of freedom of the seas when she sent the note to Germany after the sinking of the Toro. She demanded not only reparation and satisfaction, but assurance that the same principle would have the liberty of the seas."

Friendship is Basis Pueyrredon then discussed the relations between Argentina and the United States.

Cordial feeling depends upon the friendship of the two countries rather than upon diplomatic representation, he said.

"When the United States notified us she had declared war on Germany, we sent the United States a note recognizing the justice of her cause and notifying her that we had not declared our neutrality. The present government, which has been in power since 1916, has never declared its neutrality."

The foreign minister predicted there is a great future in trade with the United States.

ADVISED AGAINST SUPPORT OF WAR

American Soldier Gives Damning Testimony in Trial of Berger Case

CHICAGO, Dec. 13.—William E. Kruse, one of the defendants in the trial of five Socialist leaders before Federal Judge Landis here, told members of the Young People's Socialist League that they ought not to support the war, according to testimony given today by Private Arnold Schiller, U. S. A., who said he was an active member of the Socialist party before he joined the army.

"Kruse asked me if I would refuse to wear a uniform if it were offered me," he testified. "Kruse said: 'We must not support the war.'"

Codes were used by Socialists in conducting secret operations in opposition to the war, Schiller said. He presented the party with a list of names of those he declared, was used in helping men avoid the draft by means of an "underground railroad" into Mexico.

BRITISH FANS ASK FOR MORE

American Service Boxers Lose But Make Excellent Showing in Spots

LONDON, Dec. 13.—The American service boxers lost to the British in the Anglo-American tournament which ended last night, but their stars made such impressive showings that European fans want to see more of them.

The British are still gunging over the losing girls they did, Jimmy White, by Pal Moore, the Bombay banisterweight. The "Romies" bombed the referee's decision, but Moore deserved to win. Protesters already had taken to the streets to match White and Moore in a long bout. The American is undecided whether to accept.

Eddie Kane of the United States army, manager of Mike Gibbons, announced he had been offered "a big money" to bring Mike over for a bout with George Carstairs.

HUN PROPAGANDA IN AMERICA FOUND IN PECULIAR PLACES—NEW LIGHT IS SHED UPON AMBITIOUS GERMAN PLANS

One Hundred Thirty Trained Propagandists Sent Into America With Definite Program of Activity Designed to Assist Fatherland in the War—Preparations for Hostilities Under Way in July Nineteen Hundred Fourteen

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—With plans completed for plunging the world into war, the German government in July, 1914, dispatched 130 trained propagandists to the United States, South America, Mexico and China. They were informed on July 10 by German government officials in Berlin that there was to be war, and were thoroughly instructed in their tasks.

This testimony was given today to the senate propaganda investigating committee by Captain Lester, of the army intelligence department.

Activities of Edward Lyell Fox, another newspaper man in Germany, before the United States entered the war, were disclosed by Captain Lester. Lester said Fox wrote articles from Germany "which were sheer propaganda."

For German Embassy "Fox went to Germany ostensibly as an editor of a new newspaper syndicate," said Lester. "Whitman was widely innocent in the transaction. He believed he was sending Fox as a writer. Fox was really sent, however, by the German embassy, and arrangements being made by Von Bernstorff, Dr. Albert and other German officials in this country. Fox was also employed by a film company financed by Germany."

"An arrangement was made by the United States to employ Fox to write for them and he was to attach himself to Hearst headquarters in Berlin.

Senator Wolcott asked whether Lester had evidence showing that Hearst knew Fox was in the pay of Germany," said Lester.

"Wolcott asked whether Fox's articles from Germany were different from those of 150 other American correspondents, who Lester said, were in Germany at the time.

Thirty-two of these propagandists were in the United States in August, 1914, just after the war broke out. They came on the same ship that brought Dr. Heinrich Albert, German financial agent, Lester said.

Mr. Lester began admitting a mass of evidence from the army files. The information has been winnowed from a much greater collection and the disclosures Lester made have been approved by the general staff.

Much evidence bearing on the activities of propaganda being withheld by the war department, it was learned, as the basis for future action.

Lester told the committee that before the war "Germany had no propagandists in this country, except those of the Dr. Mautsching, Hugo Salviator, and the German-American alliance."

He said the 130, however, assembled in Berlin just before the war, were

MUCH WORK REQUIRED TO FORM LEAGUE

Vast Difference Presented Between Objects of American and Those of Continental European Powers

By J. W. T. MASON NEW YORK, Dec. 13.—President Wilson's arrival today in France means the participation by America in discussions concerning problems of international politics in which the United States is interested solely to prevent the country again being drawn into a transatlantic war.

Every other power at the peace conference will have very possible material rights to safeguard and improve and will view the international situation from a different standpoint than America. The preservation of peace is not a matter that concerns many European countries in the same way it does America. The countries of continental Europe will hope for the realization of international anarchy which peace conference certainly will not justify.

Rivalries and disappointed hopes cannot help being left behind by the decisions of the conference.

To America, the jealousies and deadly enmities of various European powers are without reason. America desires that those enmities be cured, for if they are not, they may end in another war, that might involve innocent neutrals and so carry the United States into another conflict to defend neutral rights.

WILL ASK FOR ALLIED OCCUPATION OF BERLIN IF TROUBLE CONTINUES

Crowds Cheer Statement That American Troops May Come Into German Capital

AMSTERDAM, Dec. 13.—The German government will ask the Allied armies to occupy Berlin, in case the Bolshevik movement continues to grow, Philip Scheidemann declared in a speech at the capital, according to Berlin dispatches received today.

Scheidemann predicted that American troops would soon arrive in Berlin, upon which his audience cheered.

"The government has decided to ask the Allies to occupy Berlin," Scheidemann declared, in addressing an open air meeting.

"We will request the enemy armies to occupy Berlin if the Bolsheviks group continues its demonstration."

"We may have American troops here shortly—God knows for how long. Is that what the people of Berlin want?"

"Long live Wilson!" the crowd shouted. "Better the Americans than the Spartacists!"

Statement Merely Bluff

WASHINGTON, Dec. 13.—Philip Scheidemann's statement as to the American occupation of Berlin is taken here largely as a bluff by the official leader to rally the forces into the United States military forces into the matter of Germany.

The War and State departments have persistently denied that any such occupation is now being contemplated. A state of utter anarchy would doubtless cause a shift in Allied plans, it is stated strongly that there is no intention to interfere internally in Germany.

Recent statements have been in the dark as to recent anti-rural country callings claiming to have word from America that occupation was contemplated. These are now believed to be planted," reports inspired by those German who desire to quash Bolshevism through fear.

FILE JOURNAL TO CONSOLIDATE WITH THE TIMES

Policy to Be Independent But Dictated by Directors of Nonpartisan League Says Elmer Aman

The establishment of an "independent" daily newspaper of which the board of directors will be nonpartisan legislators who will direct the policy of the paper is described in a letter mailed to members of the League asking for proxies to permit of voting on the consolidation of the File Journal with the Times and the Twin Falls Times.

The meeting is set for Dec. 17 and it is anticipated that there will be little opposition to the move. The new paper, it is understood will be known as the "Nonpartisan" Journal Times. It will be a League organ in the same sense as the File Journal according to Elmer Aman, the League's unsuccessful candidate for senator in the past election and author of the letter explaining the object of the meeting.

Mr. Aman's letter follows: "The File Journal, December 9, 1918. Dear Stockholder:

The experience of the past election has demonstrated the fact that the weekly paper is outgrowing its usefulness, especially along political lines. Even the rural home is demanding daily information in this time of empire building which is of vital importance to every citizen in America.

The File Journal Publishing Company now has an opportunity to consolidate its plant with the Twin Falls Times, merging it into a stock company, whereby each stockholder will receive a dollar for every share that which they now hold in the File Journal Publishing Company. Also, you will receive credit for any advance subscription, and receive the Daily Times one year gratis.

Such a meeting cannot be held, but to conform with law, we are calling a special meeting to vote on the question of permitting the board of directors to set on above question. The necessary two-thirds vote is required, therefore the only way we can vote on the matter now, and it must be acted on at once, is to let the stockholder vote by proxy. The proxy enclosed should be filled in and signed, torn off from notice of meeting and mailed to the secretary at once. Monday, December 16, 1918, will be the last day

HISTORIC VOYAGE ENDS PRESIDENT AND PARTY LAND ON FRENCH SOIL

Enthusiastic Welcome Accorded America's Chief Executive—Bands Play and Guns Boom Forth Salute to "Messenger of Peace and Justice"

CITY OF BREST IS RIOT OF COLOR AND GAY WITH FLAGS AND BUNTING

By FRED S. FERGUSON BREST, Dec. 13.—President Wilson stepped ashore on French soil at 3:22 o'clock this afternoon. Mrs. Wilson preceded the president, carrying a small flag.

The George Washington dropped its anchor at 1:36. As the liner completed her historic voyage, a launch bearing the official welcoming party shot alongside. In it were Colonel House, General Bliss, General Pershing, Admiral Benson, Admiral Wilson and the president's daughter, Miss Margaret.

They remained aboard until the president and his personal party came ashore.

The president and Mrs. Wilson left the George Washington in a tug flying the presidential flag. As they neared the landing, the warships and shore batteries fired a salute of twenty-one guns, and a band struck up "The Star Spangled Banner."

The brilliant sunlight brought the huge replica of the statue of liberty in the city into sharp relief and turned the flags and bunting into a riot of color.

The band on each of the warships played the national anthem as the George Washington passed, down the long line between the president stood on the bridge saluting and waving his hand while the crews cheered.

The bills rising from the water front were crowded with Breton women and girls in their quaint native costumes.

The official reception committee on shore was headed by Mayor Hervague.

The mayor, in welcoming President Wilson, saluted him as "the messenger of justice and peace."

"You bring to tormented Europe the comfort of your authoritative voice in the debates which will end our quarrels," he said.

Responding to the mayor's speech, the president expressed the close association Americans felt toward Brest, owing to the welcome accorded the men coming to fight in this common cause against our will.

The president received the delegation's greetings in a pavilion decorated with flags, erected on the pier. In the background, were Miss Wilson, General Bliss and General Pershing.

Before she entered the automobile to go to the station Mrs. Wilson accepted a bouquet presented by Alton and Florence Harrison of New York and their children, Beatrice, Alton and Agnes; Lillian Clemens of Bayonne, N. J.; Margaret, Teacher of Columbus, Ontario; Bell of St. Paul and Helen Alexander of Philadelphia.

Included in the reception committee were Foreign Minister Pichon, Minister of Foreign Affairs, and American commissioner of Franco-American relations.

Eight American cartoon workers presented Mrs. Wilson with a bouquet as she stepped on the pier. They were the only women participating in the ceremony.

Board Lined with Troops The president responded to the cheers of the band waving of sailors and doughboys as he entered the automobile that bore him to the station.

The road from the pier to the station, which would allow a bill, was

PEACE WON'T STOP CHURCH

Services of Chaplains Still Needed to Help Solve Problems of Soldiers' and Sailors' Lives

CAMP SIDE CHURCHES HELP

National Service Commission Going Straight on With All Activities — Money Needed to Sustain Army Chaplains

"We are going straight on with all of our activities," said Dr. Ford C. Ottman, secretary of the Presbyterian National Service Commission, 169 Fifth Avenue, New York City. "They are as much needed now as they were before the war and as long as there are such needs they will be met."

In common with most leading denominations, the Presbyterians, are equipping their own chaplains as far as possible. The General Assembly of the Church authorized the National Service Commission to secure a fund from the members of $100,000 for this purpose, and John T. Hanson, president of the Synod, called for $25,000 in New Haven, Conn., chairman of the commission's camp activities committee, says this sum ought to be doubled in order to relieve every minister of the expense, himself. Hundreds of soldiers and sailors helped to raise money to do this work and few of them are financially able to equip themselves for it, for each man needs, besides his uniform, a typewriter, a bicycle, a motorcycle, a typewriter, a light or motorcycle and some cash.

The committee on chaplains has been supplying these wants, but at a maximum of only $300 per man. The National Service Commission has a maximum of $500 and a maximum of $1,000 per man and is asking that the churches meet these figures.

What Eaten by Many.

The Indians of the Pacific coast before the white man came hunted the whale in their swift, high-proved narrow canoes, killing it with light harpoons. For many years whale meat was used largely by them. The Japanese for centuries have eaten whale beef. Among the nations of Europe it has been common food in the past.

Country of Little Water.

Alaska has been called the land of the "great fresh water" and it is said that in some parts of the country water retails at $1 a bucket. In still other sections clothes are washed in the rivers, and women have been seen "treating" blankets when the water was as cold as to turn their feet and ankles blue red.

Forget It.

English Take Six Out of Eight Preliminaries in Big Sport Carnival

By DON OHLAMBERLAIN
LONDON, Dec. 13.—The well known British Lion prepared today to enjoy a full meal off the equally well known American pig.

The lion got a good start toward realization of his gastronomic plan yesterday when the British won six of the eight preliminary bouts in the Anglo-American service boxing championships, staged in Albert Hall.

Another series of preliminaries will be run off this afternoon. The final will be held tonight, when King George, the Prince of Wales, and Prince Albert are expected to be present and distribute the prizes.

The big surprise of yesterday's contests was the defeat of Richie Mitchell, regarded as the runner-up for Benny Leonard's title by Bergamit Miller, a hitherto unknown British lightweight. Mitchell scored the only knockdown in the third, but the referee explained that Miller won on his aggressiveness.

SAYS SOLDIERS KEEP FRANCHISE

Major C. M. Booth Declares He Will Make Issue of the Question

"That ideal men in the military service, wherever situated, cannot be deprived legally of the right to vote is the opinion of Major C. M. Booth, formerly an attorney of this city, who is here with Mrs. Booth, on a few days visit from Camp Lewis, Washington. Major Booth states that it is his intention to force the issue, in respect to this question.

Men entering the military service do not lose their residence requirements, Major Booth asserts.

Major and Mrs. Booth made a detailed study into the matter, I am of the opinion that a soldier's vote cannot be refused even though it has been impossible for him to register in his own precinct," Major Booth said.

Major and Mrs. Booth will leave on Saturday for a short visit in the east. They will return to Camp Lewis. Major Booth will be discharged in the near future, he anticipated.

THE KEPT FEES

The News is growing just a little weary of the oft-heard phrase of the Nonpartisan Journal and the rest of the Nonpartisan newspapers, the "kept press." The words have an ugly sound. "Kept," applied to certain things is a disgraceful word. It implies lack of worth, dishonesty and deception, ulterior motives and payment for services slipped into the hands in dark corners. The performance of a disgraceful sort of labor, of which he who serves should be ashamed. Applied to newspapers, we take it to mean the sort of a newspaper which does not deal primarily in news, is not sold on its news merits but by reason of its advocacy of a certain cause or a certain line of action, is supported by those who also favor such action or hope to profit by the bringing about of the things for which it stands. Such a newspaper has very little, if any, advertising value, and rarely receives any particular patronage of this kind. It exists solely by reason of its willingness to pander to a certain element or group of people who may be actuated by political, industrial or moral ambitions. The right or wrong of the thing it supports has nothing to do with the matter of its editorial efforts. It is narrow, usually ill-informed, never fair-minded and generally utterly selfish. Its benefits to the cause it represents are always more fancied than real. It estranges clean-minded, decent people because of its one-sidedness and drives from itself all those in whom a spirit of fair play demands facts and reasons rather than hyperbole and a shallow and fallacious treatment of the subjects which it purports to discuss. It encourages suspicion and distrust among men, engenders class hatred, builds up imaginary wrongs and vengeance upon one element of people for vengeance upon another. It is a source of trouble and unrest rather than helpfulness. It is of no practical use to itself or to anyone else. If it were, it would not need to be kept.

Now, just exactly how far does the Filer Journal have to look for a first class example of a kept newspaper?

WHERE DELAY IS FATAL

With thousands of young men being discharged daily from the military service, with the farm work for the best several months practically done and with manufacturers hesitant in view of shifting conditions incident to the transition from war to peace, it is no phantom problem of providing employment that confronts the United States today. The problem is one that cannot be met with idle theory and sentimentalism and least of all is it one to be solved through charity. The American fighting man would resent that and he is deserving of what is better. What he wants and what he must have is his job. The United States' Employment Service has been entrusted with the duty of finding the right man's job for him in civilian life, but the Employment Service can only find and cannot create jobs. Employment must be created—not for the young men who left their jobs to put on the uniform, but for those who have taken their places and who are morally bound to surrender these places to them upon their return. The solution of the problem is not one that can be passed up to someone else or to the Government as a whole. This country has, or ought to have, a very vital interest in the solution of this problem. She has sent not less than 1,500 young men into the military service. Some of them will not return to take up the places they left here; but most of them, happily, will. The welcome to these returning fighting men must extend farther than processions, speech making and perhaps banquets. It must include what is most important, the restoration to them of their jobs.

The welfare of the county demands that there shall be no element of men idle for lack of employment, and the interests of the county and its people can be best served by providing employment in the construction of roads and in other public works for the surplus labor that is bound to result when the fighting men have resumed their accustomed places in civilian affairs. Delay now in providing for this contingency is inexcusable.

skilled publicists, who for ten years before the war had been spreading pro-German propaganda. "Germany never before had selected a group like this for a definite purpose," said Lester in response to queries by senators as to whether the sending out of the 120 was in pursuance of a well-established policy or a new idea. Used Heart Press In his discussion of Edward Lyell Fox, Captain Lester told of articles appearing in Hearst newspapers in this country under Fox's signature. These told of the high military efficiency of the German Army, the treatment of the men, the kindness of officers and discussed conditions among the civilian population. Lester said they were intended to present the German situation in a favorable light to the neutral world and convey the impression of Germany's military invincibility. Says He Wasn't Alone "You wrote an editorial praising the exploit of the German submarine Duescheland didn't you?" asked Lester. "Yes," said Garhe, "just as hundreds of other newspapers praised it." Senator Hoke Smith, Georgia, made a statement to the committee concerning the use of his name in connection with an anti-embargo in a document submitted by A. Bruce Blaisdell last week. "I never gave the embargo movement or conference any support either direct or indirect, and when Senator Blaisdell's amendment for an embargo was up, I voted to let it on the table," said Smith. Smith declared the use of his name was wholly unwarranted and without the slightest justification. Editor Propaganda "Fox's articles were sheer propaganda," said Lester. "They were admitted to be. There was no foundation in fact for one of his articles, written under direction, as he told me, of the German publicity bureau in Berlin. "He told me the German publicity bureau understood he was there to write what they told him to write." Lester read from the New York American of April 18, 1915, an article credited to Fox and headed "Hands and Feet of Boys Cut Off by Cosacks." "I got from Fox his original notes, written in lead pencil, which formed the basis of the article," said Lester. "He told me he never saw an atrophy; said in his opinion the things he wrote about never happened." He was told by an official of the German government, he said, to write the article to counteract information being spread through the American press about German atrocities in Belgium. Knew German Officials "Fox was in close touch with the German chancellor, Foreign Minister Zimmerman and other German officials. He had the utmost freedom and was accorded privileges not given other correspondents. He could go wherever he wished on the fronts in Germany." Louis Garhe, Washington correspondent of the Baltimore American, made a statement regarding the mention of his name in connection with Theodore Lowe, who ran the National Courier, a weekly, partly supported by Von Bernstorff. Senator Wolcott inquired of Captain Lester and Major E. Lowry Hunter, in charge of the evidence of propaganda, whether they had examined the National Courier to determine whether it was a pro-German paper. Hunter responded that he found some pro-German matter and cited an editorial on the sinking of the Sussex. Senator King read it into the record. It advised Americans to stay off ships subjected to submarine attack or sinking by mines. "I should call that pro-German," Senator Nelson said. Garhe said he wrote the editorial. FILER JOURNAL TO CONSOLIDATE WITH THE TIMES (Continued from page one) upon which the promise can be received. In making the proposed change we will avoid the expense of building a home for the newspaper, or renting another building, since we must vacate the building we now occupy by the first of the year. Also, we can clean up on the deal and better entrench ourselves for the coming campaign of 1920. The proposed consolidated corporation would print the Daily Times as an independent daily. In other words, the policy of the paper will be directed by the majority of the board of directors, the majority of whom will be in sympathy with the Nonpartisan League movement. J. W. W. Defendants Little Interested

Trial Moves Along But Chief Actors Pay Little Attention to Testimony Adduced

SACRAMENTO, Dec. 13.—Witnesses for the prosecution will be called today in the J. W. W. conspiracy case here. The defendants, with the exception of three, who will offer a defense, have steadfastly refused to take any part except that of listeners. The forty-seven men and maidens, except a few away look, and make noise. Attorney Robert Duncan of the department of justice changed this attitude when he just to show the premise of the J. W. W. constitution. "The employing class and the working class have nothing in common," he read. Instantly the defendants put away their papers and squared their shoulders. They rise to their feet, much as an American audience pays respect to the national anthem.

SUGAR EXPERT WILL TAKE PART IN CONFERENCE

James W. Jones, of Salt Lake, Representing Department of Agriculture Suggests Important Topics for Discussion

Among the prominent men who will attend and take part in the joint conference of agricultural, livestock, engineering and irrigation societies of Idaho, to be held in Twin Falls January 13-14, is Professor James W. Jones of Salt Lake, agriculturist in charge of sugar plant investigations for the department of agriculture.

Should Know Value In announcing that Professor Jones will attend the conference, Mr. Shepherd says, "Idaho has seven sugar factories. Those in the Twin Falls territory are not being run anywhere near their capacity. The farmer needs to know, among other things, the value of the by-products remaining on the farm in the way of crowns and beet tops.

"This question of selling beet tops is a very important one for the farmer in this county. The farmer needs to know about it. It is claimed that when put in the form of ensilage, beet tops are of equal value with the best alfalfa hay and that for each ton of beet tops grown on an acre there would be half a ton of hay tops.

Has Planned Excursions Professor Jones' letter of acceptance is as follows: "Replying to your favor in which you invite me to attend the Idaho conference at Twin Falls, I am glad to hear that I had planned to be there.

"I am therefore suggesting that you have Mr. Biehnart put on the program for a discussion of the feeding problems with particular relation to the beet top and other best by-products available. He is conducting the experiments and will have many helpful notes and all of the material that has been made available to me.

"If this plan meets with your approval, I will make application to my chief to be present and help in such part of the discussions as may seem needed."

Forefathers Had No Luxuries. People who complain that they cannot get some of the little luxuries they used to enjoy before the war might do well to remember that their forefathers lived without sugar till the fourteenth century, without coal till the fourteenth, without butter on their bread till the fifteenth, without tobacco and potatoes till the sixteenth, without tea, coffee and soap till the seventeenth, without umbrellas and lamps till the eighteenth, and without the fourteenth, telegraph, telephones, gas and machines till the nineteenth.

L. Breckenridge, Administrator, at the Idaho State Bank, Twin Falls, Idaho, for the purpose of settling the claims of the estate of said deceased. Dated Dec. 11th, 1916. L. L. BRECKENRIDGE, Administrator of said Estate. W. P. QUINCY, Attorney for Administrator of said Estate.

Which Kind of Parlor?

Which kind of parlor is largely used in the days of the Parlor, said the principal architect of the office of works, at the Royal Sanitary Institute in England recently. "The parlor question" he went on, "is a difficult one. Some people prefer one large pleasant room to a poky living room and small parlor. Others urge that the parlor, in necessary for children to do their lessons in, to accommodate the piano and household goods, and also the coffin in the event of a death in the family."
Wayide Ministries.
This is a hurrying age, as we often remind ourselves, and many tasks which we would like to accomplish must perform remain unattended to. But for some things there is always time. Duty can always be done. Kindness can always be shown. Wayide ministries need not be neglected. There is never an excuse for the haste that makes waste. There is always room—in the case of a man who with divine help, plans his life for a certain amount of self-culture and social necessity.
Fish Culture.
Fish culture, it is claimed, is an old art. It goes back to a story dating in the history of China, and its origin is lost in antiquity. In 1768 Stephen L. Jacob, a Prussian soldier, devised a process of stripping the female fish of her spawn and then mixing it with the water of the tank. This simple method is still in use at all fish-hatching establishments.
Custom Borrowed From Nature.
The cradling system was borrowed from Nature. Civilized and savage nations of the world have followed the Indian woman swing her papoose to the bending boughs of the trees and lazily let the wind do the rocking. The Indian mother had seen the cradle nest the cradle or perhaps the primitive nest of the redskins of Africa. It was an easy suggestion, and the mothers living next to Nature took quick advantage.
Pleurisy Treatment.
Pleurisy tells in the British Medical Journal which he brought to the attention of a platform company. The patient, who was suffering from the pleurisy, improved condition. The patient is now in good condition. It is especially adapted to cases of localized infection.
Valuable C.
A cement for making switches when live wires are to be made from 80 parts plaster paris, 10 parts iron filings and half a part sal ammoniac. These are mixed with acetic acid to form a thin paste. It is imperative that this cement be used immediately after it has been mixed.
Self-Restraint Valuable.
For want of self-restraint managements are engaged all their lives in fighting with difficulties of their own making, and rendering success impossible by their own cross-grained ungovernability. Many others, who may be much less gifted, make their way and achieve success by simple, patient equanimity and self-control.—Samuel Smiles.
Know She's Bought One.
Who—I attended the innumerable sale today. Hub—Where are you going to keep the darned thing?
That's the Question.
Mr. Oldboy—"Marry me and I could help you." Miss Bright—"Yes, you could—but would you?"

This is a hurrying age, as we often remind ourselves, and many tasks which we would like to accomplish must perform remain unattended to. But for some things there is always time. Duty can always be done. Kindness can always be shown. Wayide ministries need not be neglected. There is never an excuse for the haste that makes waste. There is always room—in the case of a man who with divine help, plans his life for a certain amount of self-culture and social necessity.
Fish Culture.
Fish culture, it is claimed, is an old art. It goes back to a story dating in the history of China, and its origin is lost in antiquity. In 1768 Stephen L. Jacob, a Prussian soldier, devised a process of stripping the female fish of her spawn and then mixing it with the water of the tank. This simple method is still in use at all fish-hatching establishments.
Custom Borrowed From Nature.
The cradling system was borrowed from Nature. Civilized and savage nations of the world have followed the Indian woman swing her papoose to the bending boughs of the trees and lazily let the wind do the rocking. The Indian mother had seen the cradle nest the cradle or perhaps the primitive nest of the redskins of Africa. It was an easy suggestion, and the mothers living next to Nature took quick advantage.
Pleurisy Treatment.
Pleurisy tells in the British Medical Journal which he brought to the attention of a platform company. The patient, who was suffering from the pleurisy, improved condition. The patient is now in good condition. It is especially adapted to cases of localized infection.
Valuable C.
A cement for making switches when live wires are to be made from 80 parts plaster paris, 10 parts iron filings and half a part sal ammoniac. These are mixed with acetic acid to form a thin paste. It is imperative that this cement be used immediately after it has been mixed.
Self-Restraint Valuable.
For want of self-restraint managements are engaged all their lives in fighting with difficulties of their own making, and rendering success impossible by their own cross-grained ungovernability. Many others, who may be much less gifted, make their way and achieve success by simple, patient equanimity and self-control.—Samuel Smiles.

MUCH WORK IS REQUIRED TO FORM LEAGUE

Vast Difference Presented Between Objects of America and Those of Continental European Powers

Germany must pay the whole cost of the war. This is regarded as being a direct contravention to the armistice agreement.

The premier's declaration followed steadily and increasingly insistent demands from Lord Northcliffe and other British publishers that Lloyd-George frankly declare himself, making this the price of their support. It appeared that the premier had determined to resist these demands until Tuesday night.

Precisely Lloyd-George had regarded the newspapers' cries of "punish the Kaiser," "make the Hun pay," and "drive the Hun from England," as "only a sham." But on Tuesday night he officially announced five points on which he was taking "punish the Kaiser" and "make Germany pay."

Balfour is Cautious

Before this, Foreign Secretary Balfour, in an interview with American correspondents refused to go beyond that statement that payment of damages done on sea and land probably would be the limit of Germany's capacity. He was uncertain as to whether the armistice terms precluded demand for such payment.

The sentiment of the liberals, who are hoping to find Great Britain and United States aligned at the peace conference is expressed by the Manchester Guardian.

Temptation Soon Over

"Luckily the temptation for electing soon will be over, or there would be no saying what we might come to," the Westminster Gazette says. "The armistice terms may have been good or bad, but every honorable man must desire to see them honorably carried out."

The coalition cabinet, which originally included labor was formed in 1915 when the present outgoing parliament was scheduled to be dissolved and a new one elected. A general election then was ordered and a political truce formed between the labor and liberal parties whose members in common agreed to support a ministry formed by David Lloyd-George, a liberal, and Andrew Bonar Law, unionist leader.

Political Truce is Over

The labor party, at its meeting protested that the election would be ended automatically with the withdrawal of the armistice. The withdrawal was a signal that the coalition cabinet was turned to political election. The coalition cabinet, which originally included labor was formed in 1915 when the present outgoing parliament was scheduled to be dissolved and a new one elected. A general election then was ordered and a political truce formed between the labor and liberal parties whose members in common agreed to support a ministry formed by David Lloyd-George, a liberal, and Andrew Bonar Law, unionist leader.

More than 800 candidates were in the field almost from the beginning of the campaign. In some districts there was no contest. The candidates under the British election practice are limited to £7,500. This deposit is returned to all who poll at least eight per cent of the total vote cast in their district.

HISpanic VOYAGE ENDS; FRENCH AND BARKY LAND ON FRENCH SOIL

lined with soldiers, including a company of French gendarmes as a special guard of honor. Groups of school children waved flags and sang the national songs of France and the United States. Doughboys and sailors, movie operators, recruited from the signal corps, swarmed about the president as he landed from the tug, filmed him as he passed through the streets, and took parting shots of him as the train pulled out for Paris.

Confers With Ambassador

The president conferred with French Ambassador Jusserand and Italian Ambassador Cellerio before landing today. The special train which bore the president and his party to Paris was expected to arrive in the capital about 11:10 tomorrow morning.

President and Mrs. Wilson, Secretary of State Lansing, Henry White, Ambassador Davis and their wives.

Afterward they attended the grandiose moving picture demonstration by the sailors. They sang, "God be with you till we meet again." With his counsel, guide, uphold you." The president apparently was deeply moved. As he left the theatre the orchestra played "Auld Lang Syne," which the ship's company joined in singing.

Arrives at Noon

The George Washington, with President Wilson and his official party aboard, arrived off Brest shortly after noon today.

The convoy of American warships was entering the harbor as this was called.

At 1:10, the George Washington steered the harbor and steamed slowly toward her anchorage.

Twenty-six destroyers dashed out of the harbor this morning to join the squadron of dreadnaughts and destroyers from England in conveying President Wilson into port.

The drizzle of rain which had continued for several days ceased with the first break of day. At the same time the blanket of fog over the harbor began to lift, revealing the gaily decorated craft and the grey, encircling hills, which served as a frame for the brilliant picture. The city is picturesque in its holiday attire of flags and bunting.

Weather is Formidable

The president's lucky number appeared to be made doubly lucky by the fact that this is Friday the thirteenth, an omen was every prospect that the weather would do its part in providing the proper setting for the historic event in which, for the first time, a president of the United States will set foot on foreign soil.

The George Washington, bearing President Wilson and his official party, passed over the grave of the Lusitania, southwest of Ireland last yesterday. Many ships from Queenstown met and saluted the big liner.

MUCH WORK IS REQUIRED TO FORM LEAGUE

Objects Widely Different—The fundamental distinction in the view points of the American peace delegates and those from continental Europe is that America cannot expect any material gain from participating in a new European war, while some of the European countries can.

This difference in outlook will be the most formidable barrier to the creation of an effective league of nations. The incentive to gain has not been eliminated from human nature by the present war. Certain appetites have been whetted by the overwhelming victory of the Allies. Expansion and the longings for it have been developed. A league of nations for the prevention of war, therefore, will come out of the peace conference, if at all, only after a severe struggle.

DECLARES IDEA IS WONDROUS WORLD BENEFIT

Went Steamer Line "A good, direct steamer line between

New York and Argentina would be very useful, both to us and to the United States," said Pueyrredon. "When I visited Chicago in 1908, I told the packers of the United States would be importing cattle from Argentina within five years. My prediction has been fulfilled."

"The United States will do more and more manufacturing as its population increases. It will import raw materials from Argentina, such as meat and wheat, then transform them into finished products for export to the whole world, including Argentina."

Pueyrredon mentioned the swiftness with which Argentina acted, in conjunction with the United States, in aiding to compose the Chiloan-Peruvian difference. Argentina is now awaiting the reply to the advances by its ministers in those countries.

SECRETARY HOLDS BACK DENVER, Colo., Dec. 15.—Friday, the thirteenth, was a lucky day for several thousand Coloradans who have on route by express the legal limit of "booze." Secretary of State "Jimmy" Nolan refuses to certify until the last minute the veto upon the bone-dry prohibition amendment adopted last election day. This will give the sincere drinkers plenty of time to obtain their wet goods which otherwise might have been denied them.
