BEFORE THE MONUMENT

The solution to what is perhaps without exception the most momentous problem ever confronting this country...

The club can and no doubt will, supply a necessary element in the process of providing employment for soldiers.

Being under the administration of trustworthy and reliable officers and directors—chosen from among its own membership—and it is assumed that the members, in the light of the devotion to the general welfare that they evidenced when they donned the uniform...

The invisible tie that binds men of common experience together which operates with especial effectiveness among service men, will serve to deepen the interest of the members in the institution that is of themselves, for themselves, and will strengthen their loyalty to it.

There ought to be no cessation in plans for the building of a memorial here in honor of the sacrifices, fidelity and achievements of the men who have gone out from here to take a most active part in the winning of the war for humanity—but, it is an ill-conceived policy that dictates the making of the king for the cake when the cake is lacking.

There must be provision of substance before development of the ideal, and our talk about what we want to do in commemoration of our fighting men will sound better to those whom we expect to honor if they know first that we are going to provide the first essential of a sincere welcome—a job and a chance to make good.

There is no better investment made by patriotic citizens at the present time than in contributing with the service men to the establishment and maintenance of the soldiers' and sailors' club along the lines set out for the organization in Twin Falls—if they will let us do it.

Reforestation Is Job for Disabled Men

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Why not put the disabled soldier to work in helping reforest the country? This is the suggestion made by the American Forestry association.

Yellow pine lumber sufficient to lay a bridge four feet wide and one inch thick from the United States to France, with 4,000,000 feet to spare, or an approximate total of 400,000,000 feet, was cut in American forests and transported to the shipyards.

The value of having the soldier work in the forests has been readily seen in England and Australia. Col. W. Fitzpatrick of Australia, struck by the alarming condition of affairs in the United States, has pointed out in a report on conditions in Australia, that the same disastrous condition is inevitable there, unless the lesson taught by American recklessness in stripping timber acreage, be learned.

"There are these lots of cookies like that in France?" "These are American cookies, Louise." "Oh, well, I'm going to be American then."

MINE TROUBLES GET ATTENTION

Protest Made by the Federation of Labor on Mine Closing Reaches Senate

BOISE, Jan. 22.—Resolutions of protest passed by the recent session of the annual convention of the State Federation of Labor over the attempted closing of the mine in the Coeur d'Alene mining district made their way into the legislature and in the house were referred to a committee and in the senate filed with the secretary.

The action of the senate followed a motion by Senator Whitcomb in which he included a statement of the senate's desire to assist in straightening out any difficulty between the miners and the mine owners.

It is believed that in the house there will be some resolution to investigate conditions growing out of the action to refer the communication, as the committee on emigration and labor have had the matter up before them in preliminary meetings.

The resolutions were passed at the state convention of labor here last week upon the receipt of a letter from the local at Burke, Ida., protesting against the closing of the lead mines and intimating that they believed it was done to "manipulate the lead market"; and charging the mine owners did not keep their agreement to protect miners on their unpaid installments to Liberty bond issues.

Another communication of the federation was read to both houses during the day in which the unions protested against the use of certain power rights at Bear Lake when they claim it to be the detriment of the farmers who need water for irrigation purposes.

RED CROSS TO TAKE PART IN FLU EPIDEMIC

Twin Falls County Chapter Authorizes Branch Organizations to Extend Assistance Where Needed

The influenza committee of the Twin Falls County Red Cross chapter, at a meeting Friday in the office of Judge E. A. Walters, in adopting the following resolution, committed the organization to the payment under specified conditions of bills contracted by subsidiary organizations in assisting in the care of persons afflicted with the influenza:

Resolved: That such bills as may be contracted by the various branches or the officers or committees thereof, in assisting in the care of persons afflicted with the influenza, if such bills are to be made a charge against the Twin Falls chapter, shall be paid by the treasurer of the chapter only upon the affirmative action by the executive committee of the chapter, upon being furnished an itemized statement of the account which shall first have the approval of the chairman of the branch which caused the expenditure to be made.

A copy of this resolution has been forwarded to the chairmen of the several branches within the jurisdiction of the chapter.

Vote is Unanimous

Decision on the part of the chapter to enter actively into the work of assisting the local authorities in combating the influenza was reached by unanimous vote of the committee members.

The committee recommends that the chairmen of each branch, if the condition of the public health seems to require or demand it, that a committee be organized to make a survey of the health conditions within the jurisdiction of such branch, and to formulate plans for the giving of assistance to those who may be in need.

Assistance Recommended

It is recommended that such assistance be in the way of providing nurses, household help, cooked food, groceries, coal and any other necessities.

The question of the organization and establishment of an emergency hospital for the care of influenza patients is left to the judgment and discretion of the various branches.

In those cases where the afflicted families may not be financially able to defray the expenses of proper care, such charges, if not met by the county, may be made a charge against the Twin Falls county chapter.

Gives County a Hand

It is suggested that in all instances where time will permit, that the condition of indigent families be brought to the attention of the county commissioners, but if time will not permit of so doing, then the presidents of the local branches will be authorized to expend or authorize the expenditure of the money for the chapter.

Members of the committee in attendance at this meeting were the following: Mrs. T. H. Irwin, Mrs. F. E. Bracken, Dr. Emma C. Crossland, Rev. L. B. Franck, Herbert R. Grant, Judge E. A. Walters.

AMERICANS SHOW GERMAN HOW TO TREAT PRISONER

Captured Doughboys Have Idea of Their Own As to How They Are Going to be Treated in a German Prison Camp

BERNE, Dec. 29.—(by mail)—An American army whipped the Germans in their own backyard, long before the armistice was signed.

The story of how these men won their battle at the Bastard prison camp became known only when the American prisoners came out of Germany.

Bottom Shows Through Shortly after Halyburton was taken to a prison camp he was joined by half a dozen other Americans, captured in the first few days of America's fighting.

The Americans stood it several weeks growing weaker and weaker, but studying their German captors. Soon another group of prisoners arrived.

Opposing Standards Americans were now in Germany, and no standard of treatment had been established for them.

Halyburton first ordered them to clean up as best they could. Then he demanded, in the best military way, to see the camp commander.

Camp Becomes Model Their camp became a model. Halyburton had a commander of each barracks to see that every American kept his clothes clean and his shoes blacked.

The name the fight against German propaganda. The Germans were publishing a propaganda paper in Berlin called "America in Europe."

Next week he appeared wearing a uniform somewhat revised to suit the Americans. The German's clumsy efforts were amusing, but Halyburton saw danger in the propaganda still in the paper.

Takes Charge of Camp On his return Halyburton was called up before Gen. von Kallgerdt, the hard-boiled old Prussian in charge of war prisoners.

Again, Halyburton had propaganda plans to fight. The Germans had treated certain captives well in order to influence them to write letters saying they had not been mistreated.

Another battle against propaganda was against an individual named Enders who claimed to be American, and the correspondent of an American news agency.

Guards Disappear When the armistice was signed, the German guards suddenly disappeared. Those who remained were lenient.

When the armistice was signed, the German guards suddenly disappeared. Those who remained were lenient. They told the Americans that prisoners were free to go to towns and do as they pleased.

The order was difficult for many men to understand, but it was adhered to by practically everyone. Next came the organization of trainloads of men to leave for France.

ROMANTIC EPISODE

By J. ISABELLE BURNHAM. Copyright, 1918, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

"Now, what shall I do next?" thought unscholarly little Miss Courtney Burke.

As she was sitting there her brother's little two-year-old girl came into the room. She toddled up to Courtney and said: "Me write letter to papa—poor papa, way off ders in France."

She came to the name of Lieut. Arthur Stanton. Then she stopped and looked at the half-finished sweater beside her.

"I'll finish this sweater," she said, "and there won't be any harm in writing a little note to a lonely soldier."

Time went on, and Courtney had very nearly forgotten about letters and sweaters when a letter came for her little niece.

A long time elapsed and the letters ceased. She wondered and watched her little niece grow, she did not know how much the letters had meant to her.

It was a very warm day in June that Courtney had just finished combing her little niece's hair, as Helen's papa was expected home that day.

The bell rang and Courtney jumped up and ran out of the nursery. She hurried to the door, but instead of seeing her brother, as she expected, she looked into the merry brown eyes of a young soldier.

"Does Miss Helen Burke live here?" he inquired politely. Courtney replied in the affirmative and after asking him in she called her little niece.

"What would she do? Here he was making herself right at home, paying no more attention to her than if she wasn't there.

"Lieutenant Stanton, I wish to make an apology," she said. He raised his eyebrows and stood up. His young figure was very erect, as he stood with his head thrown back.

"Oh, Helen," she said suddenly, "please go and get the newspaper in aunt's desk."

As the little one toddled away, Courtney looked at him again, and she thought, "how could I ever have done such a thing."

"You see," he said, "your brother and I were pals. It was he who noticed the letter pinned in the sweater, and he recognized your writing."

She opened her lips to speak, then burst into tears. He let her cry a while, then spoke very gently: "Miss Burke, I think I know what you are about to say. Please don't apologize for anything. I know all about it."

Entertain Roumanian Countess at American Show in France

Picture shows are being put on in France without cameras, scenery or any of the necessary properties, according to reports reaching the National Y. W. C. A. from a Y. W. O. A. nurses' hut in a Base Hospital.

Having no film or camera, the nurses at Base decided to put on a living picture show and invited a group of nurses from a nearby hospital to be the audience.

Imagination supplied the scenery, with the exception of placards, which announced "the sun" when it was supposed to be shining or "cacti" when the cow punchers rode across the desert.

Countess Vachrasca of Roumania, who had been talking to the nurses on conditions in the German courts at the time she was lady-in-waiting to the Queen of Roumania, was the most appreciative of all the guests.

Shakespeare's Schoolmaster. In the London Times it was recently stated that Rev. Simon Hunt, B. It is said that each year 500,000 persons are committed to some jail or reformatory. In 1910 the total number of prisoners and juvenile delinquents in the United States was 160,472. Ten times as many males as female are imprisoned. Importance of the Follower. Not all can be leaders; some must follow, notes a writer. FORMER KING IS REPORTED TO BE RETURNING HOME

Other Dispatches State That His Representatives Have Issued Manifesto in Behalf of Ex-King Manuel

MADRID, Jan. 22.—Manuel II, former king of Portugal, arrived off Lisbon aboard a ship of unknown nationality, according to an unconfirmed report received here today.

(This dispatch is so confirmed from any source. Manuel was last reported to be in England, where he took up his exile in 1910.)

Other dispatches state that Manuel's representatives in Portugal had issued a manifesto in his behalf, discouraging the leaders of the royalist conspiracy. These reports said that Lisbon is quiet and that military police are guarding the governor's palace.

Premier Arrested. Premier Barbosa, who became head of the government following the recent assassination of President Paes, was reported to have been arrested in Oporto, where he went to take action against the conspirators. He was released after signing an agreement of adherence to the monarchy.

Contrary advice said that Manuel had been proclaimed king in Lisbon, that a new cabinet had been formed and that the royalist ministers had occupied the official palace.

Monarchists Claim Victory. Monarchist forces were reported to have been completely victorious in the northern provinces.

Valencia was occupied by 1500 royalist troops after a brief resistance.

Flags of the republic are said to have been publicly burned in towns throughout the country. Many republican leaders are understood to have fled across the Spanish frontier, but others have been stopped at the boundary and placed under arrest.

A state of siege has been proclaimed throughout Portugal, according to some reports. The radical revolt which developed soon after the death of President Paes has been lost sight of in the civil struggle between republic and monarchist factions.

WET YEAR FOR GREECE. ATHENS, Jan. 4.—(By Mail)—War conditions have not been permitted to interfere with wine-making in Greece. A conservative estimate places the 1918 production of wine at more than 10,000,000 gallons. This despite the 1944 shortage, which created a great demand for fresh grapes as food last summer.

The 1918 wine crop is estimated to be nearly double that of 1917.

EUROPEAN LABOR TRIES AMERICAN PRODUCTION IDEA

Gompers Would Hold Rival Labor Convention in Paris to Give World an Idea of High Productivity and Wage Scale

By J. W. F. MASON. NEW YORK, Jan. 22.—American labor influence at work attempting to discourage political agitation as a class measure by European labor leaders and to impress upon Europe's working men that the way to earn more money is to produce more goods. This is a startling doctrine for Europe, where leisure is highly prized and speed in production is strictly limited by trades unions. "Pop" is a new word to Europeans, which America is now trying to introduce to them.

Learn American Plan

Europe's agitators have long been running to the national legislatures for increases in the standard of living. High from the state has been their essential condition of economic improvement. Europeans are now learning that in the United States the working men have not formed powerful political parties and instead of maintaining class representation in congress, they improve their economic status by direct negotiations with their employers.

The European labor leaders who want the state to act for them in attaining greater economic comfort, are planning to hold a congress at Switzerland under socialist auspices. The Americans have declined to attend this convention. The Swiss meeting, therefore, cannot have a wide international influence and will not exert much pressure on the deliberations of the peace congress.

Samuel Gompers wants to hold a rival international labor convention in Paris. The essential purpose of this assembly would be to impress American ideals of high productivity on high wages upon Europe and to persuade the peace congress to recommend action to this end.

Borah Attacks the Food Appropriation

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—Resuming his attack on the $100,000,000 food appropriation and on Herbert Hoover, Senator Borah, Idaho, today warned senate republicans that "the people of this country may decide they made a mistake last November if they find the republican party is going to be dominated by the interests which so desire to control it."

These interests, Borah explained, were the great trusts.

He applied this warning to the food appropriation by declaring that Hoover had made it possible as food administrator for the five great packing companies to make five times their present profits in 1917, the year America got into the war.

"Do you intend to vote $100,000,000 of the people's money to be spent by the man who made these profits possible?" asked Borah.

Borah charged that evidence exists showing that the plan to feed Europe with American money was worked out before Hoover went abroad. He said to exact amount to be asked of congress was decided on "before any of the facts were ascertained by Hoover in Europe."

Satisfies Court of His Claim to Cash

Fattth Kahn Wins Suit Brought by Bank on Charge of Wrongful Credits

Fattth Kahn, native of India, proved to the satisfaction of Judge O. P. Duval in probate court here Monday that he was the owner of $500 which he said that he had deposited in June, 1915, in the First National Bank at Oxford, California, and which he checked out in 1917 after his arrival in Twin Falls. He was favored in the judgment which assessed the costs in the action against the bank.

The bank in bringing the action against Kahn alleged that the deposit in question had been made by another Indian named Fattth Shah, and that credit had been given to Kahn through mistake. Kahn offered his bank passbook in evidence and introduced testimony to show where and on what account he had received the money. The controversy arose soon after Kahn had checked out his money in the Oxford bank, and Shah appeared presenting his passbook also showing a credit for a similar sum deposited on the same date.

The trial of the case occupied all day Monday in probate court. The case for the bank was presented in depositions of its officers by Aaker B. Wilson, its attorney. S. T. Hamilton appeared as counsel for Kahn.

An Insane Prisoner Attacks His Keeper

REDDING, Calif., Jan. 22.—Physicians held out little hope today that they could save the life of Sheriff Boss, whose skull was crushed yesterday by a blow from Peter Paris, an insane prisoner.

Paris lies stark naked, strapped to a cot in the insane ward. He is in a semi-conscious state and moans repeatedly.

Paris is a man of great physical strength. His body is a wonderfully developed specimen of muscle and bone.

Boss, himself a strong man, was felled when Paris struck him with a heavy piece of stove wood. Boss was preparing to return Paris to the insane ward. Other prisoners subdued Paris.

Opposes Plans for World Prohibition

INDIANAPOLIS, Jan. 22.—Frank Hanly, candidate for president on the prohibition ticket in 1916, today declared he is opposed to including a world prohibition provision in the league of nations' program.

BANKS OF NATION SHOW BIG GAINS

Loss to Depositors During the War—Less Than for Many Years Preceding

WASHINGTON, Jan. 22.—American banks have come through the four and one-half years of international stress with a loss to their depositors of less than $30 in cash $1,000,000 involved in bank failures. And this figure by way of comparison was only one-ninth of the average loss during the thirty-three year period preceding the outbreak of the world war, according to the annual report of the comptroller to the currency, made public today.

Although the banks of the United States "have been subject to strikes, dangers, burdens and trials to an unusual degree," the report shows they have prospered. The banking power of the nation now totals more than forty billion dollars, a gain of over five billion dollars in the year that America actually had a part in the war. Since June, 1914, or through the period when the whole of Europe was embroiled, the banking power of this nation has jumped an average of four billion dollars a year, the report shows.
