Declares Food Administrator Is Not the Man to Handle the People's Money and Many Charges of Bad-Faith Made

HOOVER DENIES CHARGES OF AIDING THE PACKERS

Defense Said That the Joint Meeting of Livestock Growers and Packers Was at Instigation of the President

By L. C. MARTIN WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Herbert Hoover has been appealed to by cable to save the $100,000,000 "famine fund" from defeat in the senate.

Senate backers of the measure today anxiously awaited Hoover's cable denial of charges by Senator Borah that he had arranged with American packers before he left for Europe to help them dispose of a vast surplus of pork and other meats at current high prices, by creating a new market in Europe.

HOOPER'S ANSWER

PARIS, Jan. 23.—Herbert Hoover today flatly denied the charges made in the United States during debate of the $100,000,000 "famine fund" bill that he had worked in the interests of the American packing industry.

Hoover ridiculed the idea that he had benefited the big packers. He declared that he worked to give American farmers a square deal and protect small packers.

The attack on Hoover in the senate was made by enemies of the bill providing $100,000,000 to feed Europeans. Hoover was assailed as the man who will have charge of spending this money.

"I apparently emerge in a new light as the friend of the Chicago packers," said Hoover. "At the same time, the mail brings a report from Swift and company, blaming the food administration for reducing their profits by $10,000,000 during the last year. I don't imagine the packers would appreciate a wide circle of new friends."

NOTICE TO HELP FARMER

"I notice also I committed a crime by holding the October joint conference of farmers and representatives of forty packers, as well as bringing the packers together with representatives of the allied governments for the purpose of settling on a price for exports of pork that would give the American farmer a square deal, and a distribution of orders that would protect small packers."

"We have even tried to secure the continuance of these war arrangements through the armistice period and the opening of the market, because the American farmer did his duty and produced the goods."

"If the American farmer and the small packer now feel that these arrangements are wrong, it our shoulders if we could know it quickly. The British government is particularly anxious to be relieved from these arrangements."

DEFENSE OF HOOVER BEGINS

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Defense of Herbert Hoover against the charge of plotting to aid and protect American packing interests today plunged the senate into angry debate on the $100,000,000 famine fund bill.

Having before the senate Hoover's denial of charges of collaboration with the packers, Sumner Hittcock, Nebraska, summed up the case in Hoover's behalf thus:

Hoover, at President Wilson's direction, did get packers and livestock producers together to stimulate hog production.

"It did make arrangements with the allied governments to take packers' products."

As a result of his stimulation campaign the packers had practically been swamped with hogs.

"It is not right for the President or Hoover or any one else to come before congress for any appropriation if it is going to be a gift," said Cummins.

"I shall be greatly surprised if we get fifty per cent of it back," said Senator Smoot, Utah.

Supreme War Council Discusses Various Forms of Reparation for Damage and Indemnity, Including Punishment of Former Kaiser and His Chief Aides

EXTENT OF MONEY COST TO PEOPLE AS A WHOLE'S A SEVERE SENTENCE

By WILLIAM PHILIP EDMES PARIS, Jan. 23.—Punishment of the kaiser and his associates was formally discussed by the supreme war council today.

The belief prevailed in certain quarters that the council will adopt some form of the program suggested by the American delegation in this regard—appointment of a special commission to investigate thoroughly the culpability of all those responsible for the war from the kaiser down so that none might escape.

Communication Severed

PARIS, Jan. 23.—Ominous silence today hung over the situation in Portugal, where monarchists are fighting to restore Manuel to the throne.

AMERICAN HEADQUARTERS IN GERMANY, Jan. 23.—The American flag has been submitted to the ultimate in imitation.

Coblenz dealers have been discovered selling watch fobs made of iron crosses in which were replicas of American flags. Army officials confiscated all these stocks and are seeking the manufacturers. One retailer has been arrested.

A widespread rumor among Germans in the occupied area that Coblenz girls who fraternized with American troops had been forced to polish soldiers' shoes in public has been traced to the fact that a German opened a shoe shine parlor and employed girls. Inasmuch as public shoe shining is uncommon in Europe, townspeople assumed the girls were being punished.

SUFFRAGE ACT WITH CHANGES PASSES HOUSE

Lower Body Adopts the Recommended Amendment in Idaho's Request to the United States Senate

STATE WOULD AID IN MEMORIAL TO SOLDIERS

Bill Provides for Commission to Co-operate with Counties in Deciding Style and Suitability of Tribute

BOISE, Jan. 23.—With a direct memorialization of the entire senate of the United States instead of "those opposed to suffrage," the Idaho house of representatives this morning passed a joint memorial which had for previous life been adopted by the upper house, asking the United States senate to vote favorably on the suffrage amendment.

It was Senator Whitcomb who took the initiative toward removing the "obnoxious wording" referred to the house when the memorial first came up, out of the resolution. Friends of United States Senator Borah took exception to the fact that the memorial originally "took a fling" at the senator from Idaho. The memorial passed the house with four votes against. These were Miller, Robins, Hitehook and Weeks.

Would Alter Veto Power Approval of the proposed amendment to the constitution of the United States by Congressman Burton L. French of Idaho, allowing the president of the United States to disapprove of items in appropriation bills without vetoing the other provisions in the bill, was suggested this morning in the Idaho house through a joint memorial introduced by Representative Hugo of Lewiston.

Plan for Memorials The erection of suitable memorials for dead soldiers and sailors in each county of the state in which the state of Idaho will appropriate $100,000 and the counties will appropriate an amount of $25,000 each, was the subject of a bill introduced in the house this morning. Thirty-three members of the lower body joined in the presentation of the measure. It would provide a state commission of three members to pass on the style and suitability of the memorials. The commission would be appointed by the governor at once and serve without pay.

"First—International legislation on labor.

"Second—Responsibility and punishment in connection with the war.

"Third—Reparation for war damages.

"Fourth—International regime of ports, waterways and railroads. It is noted that the subject of reparations is to be adopted with regard to territorial questions.

CHARITIES BODY COMPLETES YEAR OF USEFUL WORK

Report of Mrs. Kennedy Packard, Re-elected President, Shows Increased Demands in Fall and Winter

Mrs. Kennedy Packard was re-elected president of the Twin Falls Associated Charities at its annual meeting held Tuesday morning in the office of H. G. Blue, superintendent of schools. Other officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows: Vice-president, Mrs. Elizabeth Hubbard; treasurer, W. J. Young; secretary, Mrs. Elizabeth Ault; director, Hal G. Blue; R. A. Bond; Frank L. Stephenson; T. B. Watson.

In her annual report Mrs. Packard said that during the summer and until the influenza epidemic started, calls upon the organization for assistance had been light. This had been fortunate, she said, considering the condition of the treasury. Since then, she added, the organization had been flooded with appeals for aid and had not been able to meet the demands.

Treasurer's Report

The report of the treasurer showed receipts of $544, expenditure of $304.27 for supplies and a balance on hand of $239.73.

Following is the president's report: It has taken labor, close investigation and the keenest discrimination to decide where and how much to aid.

When the Red Cross Shop closed its work, the committee turned over to the Associated Charities the majority of women's clothing on hand and a few other things, and aside from that donation, there have been practically no contributions of clothing this winter. It was to be expected after the amount sent to Belgium in September, and therefore whatever clothing and bedding is donated has to be purchased.

Our appeal to the council in the fall was not legal provision which gave them authority to grant us a regular allowance.

We still hope they may see their way to help us. It certainly seems to those of us constantly in touch with this work, that it is a most important branch of civic work, and deserves to be financed in a more dignified manner than by constantly soliciting.

First check this winter came from the Rotary Club for $125.00, just in time for our Xmas work.

From our cash fund 46 persons were furnished with not only Xmas dinners but food to last over New Years, except most. One large roast went to each family.

In addition to this, cutting flannel, percale, stockings, mittens and underwear were furnished for children.

Since the holidays our calls have been many. About a dozen children have been fitted for school, and families suffering from the epidemic have had cash for gas and coal.

There has been a good deal of suffering from those convalescing from sickness.

As soon as the worst is over the county ceases its aid generally, and we are left to our own resources to find work hard to get which he is able to do, and the providing of the kind of food necessary for up-building is impossible.

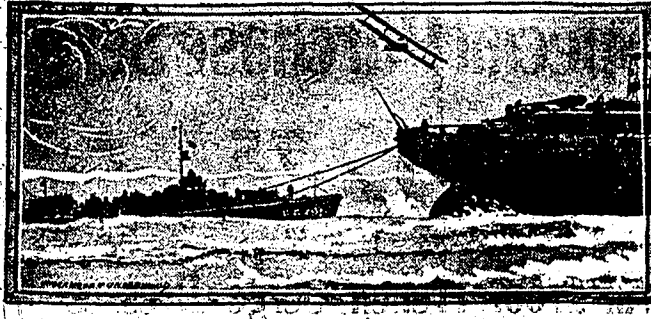

We have furnished cocoa, canned milk, fruit, jelly and many other luxuries, besides plenty of other food. Bedding has been a hard problem to solve. We have found it almost impossible to buy second-hand bedding, and the prices for new are prohibitive.

From the Red Cross Shop which handled second-hand goods, nearly all of our clothing has been bought—much out-grown was equal to new-work have been in good demand and second-hand children's clothes and shoes cannot be kept a day ahead.

An old lady, gray and feeble looking, came Saturday to outfit three grandchildren. It was one of the sad cases. She had lain at the point of death from Gooding to see her. She claims that he carried the disease home to his wife who took it and died, he is hovering between life and death and the children sent here to the grandparents, who are too poor to care for them, only temporary. One of the grandchildren who was the visitor from one of the Bikes, representing their order. They have always attended to their own benefactions, in their own way, which was in the most quiet, unobtrusive manner, never advertising their charities. They representative was at last decided to put their contribution this winter, largely in our hands and when it was exhausted, if need remained, they would still further help us. Our methods, and ways of handling emergency cases were highly praised.

It will be glad to hear a member of our board would have suggestions to offer, for our work and for arousing more interest in the community regarding it. I wish to assure each member of my appreciation for their services during the past year. My co-workers Mrs. Hubbard, Mrs. Young, Mrs. Ault, Mrs. Hubbard, and while we personally delivered all Christmas donations, we have made fewer calls personally than usual because of contagion. In every instance however, where we were barred from going I have sent the health officer, a nurse or some messenger to bring me exact word of existing conditions, and thus kept in touch with what was the greatest need in each afflicted family. The following letter was received from a man whose entire family had been ill, and whom we had been able to keep, and shows that there are some appreciative of our efforts:

"Dear Madam: I desire to let you know that I shall never forget the kindness shown me by the Associated Charities during our trouble. The split in which I was aided, the lack of publicity, and if anything which made me feel my condition of dependence, were even more to me than the contributions themselves.

"The two children who died were made comfortable by your assistance, and I shall live to contribute to the Associated Charities, and never will I forget your thoughtful consideration.

"Yours gratefully,
"J. B. S."

MAKES RULES TO GOVERN MEETING FOR MEMORIAL

County Council of Defense Limits its Membership and Discussion on Project to Accredited Delegates

The Twin Falls county council of defense at its meeting Tuesday adopted rules to govern the meeting called by it to be held here February 4, to consider plans and ways and means of building a soldiers memorial. Under these rules, only accredited delegates, who will make up the membership of a memorial association expected to be formed at that time, will be allowed on the floor and to be heard in debate. Spectators will be admitted to the galleries.

Following the formation of the memorial association, two propositions are to be discussed: First, kind of memorial to be erected; second, ways and means of erection.

Council Issues Statement. Following is the statement in respect to the proposed meeting issued today by E. L. Macvicar, secretary of the county council of defense:

The council of defense has endorsed, through its secretary, to reach every organization in the county which is entitled to have representation at the conference to be held February 4, to decide what form of memorial will be erected to the memory of the boys who have made the supreme sacrifice. No doubt, there are some organizations which have not been reached. It is the desire of the council, therefore, that the officers of any organization not yet reached immediately correspond with the secretary, E. L. Macvicar, who will be glad to give them the necessary information whereby they may be represented at the representation at the conference above.

This matter should receive immediate attention by any organization interested.

The council has ruled that the order of business governing the conference above shall be as follows: Temporary chairman, E. P. Ostrander; temporary secretary, E. L. Macvicar.

First—Order of business: Election of permanent chairman and secretary. Officers must be elected from the floor, as temporary officers cannot succeed themselves.

Second—The formation of a Memorial Association made up of accredited delegates.

Third—Only delegates to be allowed on floor and to be heard in debate.

Fourth—Kind of memorial to be erected.

Fifth—Ways and means for erection. Meeting to start at 8 o'clock p. m. sharp, and to be held in high school auditorium.

"Public to be admitted to the galleries.

Climbed Greater Ararat. James Bryce, former British ambassador to the United States, climbed Greater Ararat in September, 1870, making the ascent alone. The Russian governor had supplied him with an escort, but they were still 5,000 feet short of the summit when, overcome with superstitious fear, they refused to go on. Mr. Bryce described the summit as a little plain of snow, silent and desolate, with a bright green sky above, and the view as stern and monotonous.

INSIGNIA, CURTAINS MADE FROM SKIRTS

Five broadcloth skirts used for organization insignia and plaid summer dresses reconstructed into window curtains are after war economies of the Y. W. C. A. secretaries in Archangel, Russia.

These secretaries have just succeeded, in the face of food and cloth shortages, in opening a Y. W. C. A. Hostess House for American troops stationed in Archangel, a town behind the allied lines. It was necessary to hunt up a plaid summer dress which one of the secretaries had discarded for heavy winter clothes in order to have curtains at the windows. They live on regulation army rations.

Archangel is the fourth city in Russia where the Y. W. C. A. has established work. Centers were opened first in Petrograd and Moscow and then in Samara, 900 miles eastward from Moscow.

Miss Elizabeth Boles, head of Russian work and one of the few Americans who remained in that country throughout the revolution, is en route to America by way of England to recruit workers for Russia.

A second Y. W. C. A. Hostess House, for wives and children of soldiers, soon to be opened at Casimer, Caha, Hawaiian Islands, to care for the overflow of women and children from the first house, which opened some months ago in answer to a call from the commanding officer of the camp.

During 15 days in November 2,123 visitors were entertained at the house, including women and children, of the following nationalities: Philippine, Hawaiian, Portuguese, Spanish, Russian, Porto Rican, Korean, Japanese and American.

Doing One's Best. There need be no comparison in the ways of duty, if each does simply the best that occasion allows him. Our part may be watching from far off, declares a writer, waiting in days of suspense and anxiety, even that part can be done well or may be shirked. And the moment in which we have done our best will appear, as we look back at it, like a mountain peak on which the sun is shining, though at the time it seemed only the sad corner of a limited and feeble life.

Elfin Miners. All over Europe a popular belief prevails that elfin miners are constantly laboring in the bowels of the mountains, where they have accumulated enormous stores of precious metals. It is curious that these "miners" are made strange noises, and the tapping of their picks may often be heard in ore bodies not yet reached by the human workmen.

Evolution. The processes of evolution have worked for myriads of years to develop a form of living beauty, until the wanton destructiveness of man intervenes, and an ark, or a dove, or a passenger pigeon, is forever crased from the roll of living things. It is a loss of which the mind cannot bear to think—Exchange.

FOYERS IN FRANCE

Four departments of the French Government have asked the American Y. W. C. A. to open social and recreation centers for girls employed by them—Finance, Commerce, War and Labor.

Lieutenant Poncet of the Ministry of Labor recently requested that this Y. W. C. A. work be begun for girls in his offices after seeing the social and recreation centers which have been opened at the request of the Ministry of War. Sixteen centers of this kind are operated in six cities in France. Three of them are in Paris.

The last of these Foyers des Alleees lieutenants who are working in the Department of Labor. It is far down the Seine, under the shadow of the Eiffel Tower, and overlooks the Quai d'Orsay. The rooms are bright and cheerful, with chintz hangings and cushions, comfortable chairs, reading and writing tables, and a fireplace. A kitchen has equipment so that girls can prepare meals for themselves. They go to the foyer for their two hour luncheon time, for social evenings and for classes in English.

Insects Carry Disease. Standard works on medicine published twenty years ago made no mention of insects in connection with the etiology of disease. Up to the present time, according to data compiled from recent literature, says the Scientific American, discoveries have been recorded of the carriage by insects to man of animals of 234 different disease organisms. 87 organisms are known to be parasitic in insects, but not known to be transmitted, and 252 species of insects are recorded as carriers or carriers of disease of man or animals.

As Balzac Wrote the Man. Balzac's object in depicting the numerous volumes that succeeded each other with an astounding regularity was to depict man as he presented himself to his view, and, in fact, in his works he brings to life again the history of the generation to which he belongs, describing his contemporaries, in particular the humble bourgeois of the middle class, with a most striking exactness.

Use of Surnames. The custom of using surnames for Christian names, as exemplified in the cases of Harrison and Mr. Holden, goes back at least three centuries, but the people stuck pretty close to Johns, Edwards and Thomases. In this country we have seen a tendency to use, as baptism, the mother's family name as a middle name for the child. This, no doubt, is leading to more frequent use of family names as given names. For the most part however, we are John Henry Smiths.

GIVES PURPOSES OF ORGANIZATION

Twin Falls Post, Sons of Veterans, Pays Tribute to the Grand Army Men

Dan McCook post, Sons of Veterans, Twin Falls, at its annual meeting for election of officers Tuesday, authorized the publication of the following statement in respect to the history and purposes of the organization:

The order of Sons of Veterans is recognized and accredited by the G. A. R. and has been given by that organization a definite place in all processions as an escort. At the Portland national camp last August over three hundred Sons of Veterans led the procession of six thousand veterans of the G. A. R.

The order exists not only to honor the memory of fathers, living and dead, and the principles for which they fought and still stand, but also to be of such assistance as it can to the veterans, here and now, and to be prepared to take up and carry on for them in the days to come when the Old Guard shall be with us no more.

The G. A. R. has come into a new heritage, or rather into its own. Instead of the civil war being regarded as an "unfortunate" domestic quarrel, the sooner forgotten the better, it is now recognized that it was a war to the death for the union, to crush secession and treason, and that all the honor that now comes to us as the dominant nation in the world, in force and in right, comes to us, primarily and absolutely, to the soldiers of the Grand Army who fought and won the war for the union. Hats off, to the men in blue, and to the little bronze button.

If it were advisable to do so, we would ask anybody suffering from a cold or cough to try the different remedies offered, giving each an honest test, then to take a few doses of Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, and note results. THE SOLDIERS' CLUB

Affirmative action taken at a meeting last evening of about fifty service men in respect to the organization here of a soldiers' and sailors' club is a matter of gratification to everyone who has given to the problem of reconstruction any degree of consideration.

The purposes of the organization are plain and necessary. They are essentially to provide for the returning service man a place for meeting and recreation and a channel through which he may better be reinstated in his proper place in civilian affairs and through which he may receive needed assistance during that period of readjustment.

The man who has worn the uniform probably has not had a truer spokesman than he found in Captain Everett M. Sweeley, former mayor of Twin Falls, and Captain Sweeley's statement at this meeting furnished a most necessary explanation of the viewpoint of the service man, in respect to which there must be a clear understanding before any effective step can be taken toward the solution of the most vital of reconstruction problems.

The essential facts in the situation are to be discovered in this statement made by Captain Sweeley: "The man who has worn the uniform won't advertise that he is in any degree helpless. He is an able-bodied man, and a whole lot more so. It would be useless for an organization of business men to attempt of themselves to solve the soldier's problem, because the men they want to help won't come to them. The soldier who is on the ragged edge, turns instinctively for assistance to his companion, and he won't go to a civilian in such circumstances if he can help it. The soldiers' and sailors' club has proven elsewhere to be the most effective institution in meeting this situation, and it will be here. Through it, business men and the Red Cross can reach the returning soldier and sailor most effectively."

Under the auspices in ascendancy at the inception of the undertaking, the soldiers' and sailors' club in Twin Falls is deserving of entire confidence, and the statements of business men who welcomed this occasion as their first opportunity of meeting with the returned service men in a body are sufficient evidence that the new organization is coming in to fill a need that is recognized, and that it will be welcome.

To "finance" a "To Let" advertising campaign you need only set aside—for perhaps a few days—a part of your pocket money.

GRAIN REVIEW

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Suffering a sharp break at the outset, grain futures on the Chicago Board of Trade gained strength today and for a while exhibited a more stubborn tone. Buyers held off at the usual push to sell on the opening, forcing pressure that somewhat steadied the market. Provisions were steady to lower.

January corn, opening off 1c at 125, was down 1-1/2c. February corn, off 1 3/4 at 128, the opening gained 1-3/4. March corn, off 5-8 at 128 1/2, the opening was 1/2 lower. May corn, 1/4 off at the opening, 123, lost 1/2c. July corn, opening at 120, 1/4 lower, lost 1 1/4.

January oats, down 1-4 at the opening, 62 1/2, was unchanged. February oats, up 3-8 on opening, 63 1/2, lost 7-8. March oats, unchanged at the opening, 63 1/2, up 3-4. May oats, up 1/2 at the opening, 64 3-8, later lost 5-8. July oats, up 1-2 at 62, the opening, stood at 61 1/2.

SOUTH ST. PAUL, Minn., Jan. 23.—Cattle—3,000; market, uneven; top, $16; bulk, $6.75@13.75.

Hogs—7,500; market, steady; top, $17; bulk, $16.50@17.

Cattle receipts 700; market strong; steers $16@18.50.

Sheep receipts 200; steady.

SIoux CITY, Ia., Jan. 23.—Cattle—2,500; active, strong to 15c higher.

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Prices were fractionally higher at the opening of the stock market today. U. S. Steel opened at 90 5/8, up 1/4; Mexican Petroleum, 165 1-2; Utah Copper, 63 5/8, up 1/8; Bethlehem Steel, 58 3/4, up 1-2; Anaconda, 57 1-2, up 1-8; General Motors, up 3-8; Southern Pacific, 97, off 1-4.

Maxim preferred was a feature in the late trading and advanced nearly three points on heavy buying. A short interest in Hide and Leather preferred bid the stock up four points. Ralls held their gains. U. S. Steel closed at 90 3-8, off 3-8; Marine preferred 102 3-8; Mexican Petroleum 164 1-4, off 1-4; Hide and Leather preferred 81 3-4, up 3-4.

The market closed strong.

Plant Food in Soil

A chemical analysis cannot show the amount of available plant food in a soil. A chemist could, without difficulty, make an artificial soil containing every element of plant food in abundance, and yet be perfectly sterile. Peat, for example, is usually very rich in nitrogen, but it is locked up or unavailable. To pulverize it and mix it with lime is to change it into a highly nutritious soil.

SERVICE MEN'S ORGANIZATION PLAN ENDORSED

Support of Business Men and Red Cross Enlisted for "Point of Contact" Between Soldier and Community

SPEAKER IN UNIFORM DISCUSSES CONDITIONS

Says Some Local Institutions Have Sent Elsewhere for Employees to Take Places Men Here Qualified to Fill

Backed by business men and by the Red Cross, a soldiers' and sailors' club for returning service men of the great war, organized and administered themselves, is an assured institution for Twin Falls.

At a meeting Wednesday evening in the Parish hall of about 60 returned service men, the idea brought out at the Sunday meeting of returned soldiers looking toward the establishment of the club, was developed into affirmative action toward the accomplishment of a definite aim—that, as expressed by one of the speakers, of forming a "point of contact" for the returning service men with the community at large.

Committee on Organization

A committee on permanent organization composed of Captain E. M. Swalley, Lieutenant Carl L. DeLong, and Sergeant Dave Girdner was named to draft proposed by-laws for the club and report at a meeting of service men called to be held at 7:30 o'clock Monday evening next in the Parish hall, when permanent organization is to be effected.

Before the meeting was called to order by Temporary Chairman Donald Clancy, a program of several musical numbers was given by the high school orchestra and boys' glee club, under direction of Miss Jessie Simpson.

WOULD MAKE THE WHOLE EARTH DRY

Anti-Saloon League Will Foster Movement of International Prohibition

CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Prohibition will not force anti-saloon league workers into the job-hunting class with brewery employes, it was made clear here today.

In the first place, it is announced, the whole world must be dry by 1930—and the anti-saloon league will favor the movement.

Then the law must be enforced in the United States before American prohibition laws can be used as arguments in other nations.

F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Illinois anti-saloon league, in announcing this program today, said the churches will continue to finance the work of the non-partisan anti-saloon forces.

"Our program calls for a dry world by 1930," said McBride. "Some believe it can be accomplished by 1925, but surely it can be done within ten years."

"The new work has already started. We have sent field workers to Scotland, Mexico, England and other countries to inaugurate the work, using methods we found so successful here. The first duty will be an educational campaign—we will literally flood the world with prohibition literature, every word of which will be printed at the anti-saloon league's own plant at Westerville, Ohio."

McBride declared the victories in America will not affect the office forces of the league, where headquarters are maintained in the larger cities. Work of law enforcement, political aid in electing officials who will support and enforce the new dry laws, gathering and analyzing statistics of the effects of the laws in American cities and rural districts, he asserts, will keep full quotas of office forces busy for several years.

OLDS SUSPECT OF SEED THEFT TO STAND TRIAL

Probate Judge O. P. Duvall Acts in Case of Clarence Snow of Hansen, Against Whom Former Associate Testifies

At the conclusion of a preliminary examination before Judge O. P. Duvall, probate court here Wednesday, Clarence Snow of Hansen, was held under $5,000 bonds, to answer in the district court to a grand larceny charge, accusing him of the theft on December 1 of 20 sacks of clover seed worth $800 from Charles Hansen of Hansen. In default of bond he was remanded to the custody of the sheriff.

Snow was arrested on the warrant charging him with this offense in Globe, Arizona, on January 8, and was brought back here in custody of Deputy Sheriff P. O. Herriman.

Former Partner Testifies Testimony for the prosecution was introduced at the hearing Wednesday by Deputy Sheriff Herriman, Charles Hansen and William E. Clark, who was on the stand charged with the defense as a co-defendant with Snow. The charge as against Clark was dismissed by the prosecution when Clark consented to appear as a witness in the case. No evidence was introduced for his defense.

Clark testified that he had been a partner with Snow on a farm last summer; that prior to the date of the alleged theft Snow had asked him to participate in it and that thereafter Snow had told him that he had succeeded in taking the seed.

Officer Tracks Pursuit Deputy Sheriff Herriman traced his pursuit of the car alleged to have been driven by Snow on December 2 from the Hansen farm through Murrumbidgee and Hamilton to a granary about two miles east of the latter place where he found clover seed scattered on the ground. He discovered the car abandoned in the road nearby, he said, and later followed its tracks over a circuitous course and back to Murrumbidgee.

Say Attorney Advised Clarence exhibited to Clark to appear as a witness Wednesday was accounted for in the office of the prosecuting attorney as a result of advice said to have been given him by the attorney for the defendant to the effect that he could not be required to testify.

When Clark appeared in the court room in company with Prosecuting Attorney Frank L. Stephens and Goddard Reporter E. N. Day, with whom he had been in conference immediately before, the attorney for the defendant approached him and asked what "that had been doing to him." The attorney then asked for what reason Clark would take and was informed that he would stick to the truth. There was no further conversation between the two.

Wanted Private Conversation On Monday preceding the hearing, Turner K. Hackman, attorney for the defendant, secured from the district court an order permitting him to hold private conversation with his client Snow. In his application for this order, Hackman set out that privacy in his conversations with his client was interfered with by Sheriff A. N. Sprague.

Bitha Danvers was the star reporter on the field and once in a while called upon Elva, which Denne deemed an invasion of home territory. Danvers was a dived-in-the-wool journalistic little Denne was to hold his position on the Gazette and win a better one, for that meant the good will of the judge and permanent position near to Elva. The policy of Danvers was obstructive. He did all he could to keep Denne from scoring a scoop or getting even his honest share of the news. This was exemplified one day when both young reporters stood on the platform of a junction: A politician of national fame was to reach there at 8 a. m., wait eight minutes for a connection and go on his way.

But Denne was not to get a better interview within that precious four hundred and eighty seconds time. The field cared little for the item, as the politician was of a party antagonistic to its principles. For the Gazette it would be quite a feature.

In his usual fresh way, and knowing the ropes and full of assurance, Denne got to the end of the politician dead. Persistently he held his place by the side of the annoyed functionary, simply wanting the time to keep Denne from getting in a word edgewise. So not (ed) was Denne that as the next train pulled he jumped aboard, determined if it took all day he would secure that coveted interview. At first the politician resented further infringement on his time, but Denne felt that he was making the play of his life.

"Mr. Ashton," he said, "my future as a reporter and possibly my life's happiness depend upon your indulgence. Can you please appear to the sentimental side of your broad human nature?" "You interest me," acknowledged the politician, and Denne told his whole story. The politician smiled, spread himself, and, although it took eight hours to make connections, Denne got back to Rushton at dusk, chuckling over a two-column interview that was worthy of big headlines and told something.

"Of course I don't know what I have lost of the usual local grit, but I can soon catch up with that," ruminated Denne and started for the central police office to find it deserted.

"Why, where's the crowd?" he inquired of the night clerk. "All off on the Fidelity bank case," was the answer. "Fattered Denne, with a sinking heart."

"Where you been—awake! All the force and three extras on the field are working up the biggest bank robbery that ever happened in Rushton. It was just at dark. A masked man overpowered the watchman at the Fidelity, grabbed a satchel with over five hundred dollars in it and made off. The watchman is sure that he winged him as he put down the alley, but money and man haven't left a trace."

Denne reached the bank to find a crowd gathered there, but that was not the present center of interest. The emissaries of the law were scouring the district in every direction. Denvers and his extras, provided with automobiles, were following down clues. Denne got the primary facts of the case and rather disheartenedly paced down the alley. Turning toward the main street, as he passed an old man, he noticed a green, quick, spasmodic caught his hearing. He entered the lower disassembled story. He flashed his electric torch about. Something glinted where a broken ladder ran up a sidewalk.

"Blood!" muttered Denne, and ascended. There again he flashed the light. There, lying face up and stiff upon the hay, was a man, a gaping wound in his throat. At his side was a satchel. At a glance Denne took in the situation—here was the thief and his booty!

The man, wounded, had crawled here hours since. He had just died. Any attempt of help was useless. Denne became the astute reporter in the presence of a tremendous scoop. He thought quickly. He examined the satchel and clothing. He took a flashlight of man and equipment. He covered up the body with the hay, but he took the satchel with him to the office and called up the home of his chief.

Behind guarded doors those two worked over the greatest newspaper triumph ever scored in Rushton. The thrilling story of the young reporter's gruesome discovery, the revelation of the identity of the bank robber, pictures, diagrams—with the political interview—here was such a page ready for the public as Rushton had never seen before.

About midnight Denne strolled down to police headquarters. Danvers was telling of four columns of "clover" the day the field would put out in its morning issue. Denne snubbed. Then, as he went homeward, proud, complacent, the stulle grew to a grin, and then a chuckle, for he knew that with the morning the world would know that he had made his cutting complete.

Goats Are Cuts. Many of the people in this country today believe that the goat is anything but a lovable animal, rather an exchange. In reality there is no more lovable and gentle creature alive than "Mr. and Mrs. Chub Whiskers." Visit a goat ranch and learn to welcome the playful thrust of the cold little nose into the palm of your hand, or into your pocket, where a few of the more daring expect some hidden goodies are to be found. The awkward and playful antics of the little creature should win the heart of the most critical.

Translated into English. All books of the Old Testament apocrypha, 14 in number, have been translated into English, and are included in an apocryphal books in some editions of the Bible. They were formerly printed under a distinctive heading between the Old and the New Testaments, and in that form can still be found in many old family Bibles. They are always included in the so-called Septuagint, a version of the Bible used by the Greek church.

To Protect the Patient. A physician said this is one of the best aids to a speedy recovery from pneumonia: Make a tight-fitting jacket of cheesecloth, sleeveless, and interline with two thicknesses of sheet cotton. Line with the cheesecloth. Fasten in front with snaps; it is worn next the skin. It is best to have two of these little coats. They protect the patient from any chills draft when changing the clothes or bedding.

Watch and Man Alike. The watch that works only by fits and starts is never to be trusted. Nor is the man who does his work in the same way ever capable of the highest achievement. Make a tight-fitting jacket of cheesecloth, sleeveless, and interline with two thicknesses of sheet cotton. Line with the cheesecloth. Fasten in front with snaps; it is worn next the skin. It is best to have two of these little coats. They protect the patient from any chills draft when changing the clothes or bedding.

WHITE SOX RETAIN PLAYER CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—"Happy" Folsch, outfielder, will be with the White Sox this year. This became known today when Folsch declared he would not make an effort to break his three year contract with Glasgow's team. He quit in mid-summer last year.

HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION. MAY FIGHT GARPENTIER CHICAGO, Jan. 23.—Joe Willard, heavyweight champion, was here on business today—not boxing but oil business, and Joe declared he was making big money out of oil.

Willard, however, a bid he would fight if a bout could be arranged with George S. Carpentier. esse admitted the purse would be the largest factor in determining on a bout. Training, he said, is hard work and "a laborer is worthy of his hire."

A Limited Number of Farmers Are Now Given the Opportunity to Secure Wonderfully Fertile Lands in the 4th Subdivision of

Capay Grant

This is One of the Most Genuinely Desirable Farm Land Offerings Ever Made Available in California.

Previously three subdivisions of this famous Capay Grant have been placed on the market and have been bought up by successful farmers and brought into immediate and intensive production.

This, the fourth subdivision, is the smallest yet offered. Only one public announcement of the opening has been made and already a large portion of the total acreage available has been snapped up by farmers who knew of the wonderful crop records Capay Farms have made.

Location The land lies in the far famed Sacramento Valley, in the very heart of one of the most highly developed agricultural, fruit and dairy sections of the state. It is surrounded on all sides by splendid country towns, and is only a short run from Sacramento and San Francisco.

Soil The land is a rich, black silt, with absolutely no gumbo, hardpan or alkali. It produces wonderful fruit crops, and some of the finest fruit farms, hog and dairy ranches in California are right close by.

Water Every 80 acres is supplied with its own electrically operated pumping plant which draws water from its own well. The water supply has always been more than adequate and Capay farmers regard the system as ideal.

Price The land is offered at $175 an acre, on convenient terms. The price includes a pumping plant installed on every 80 acres, as referred to above. Within a very few years at the most any industrious farmer should be able to fully pay for his land out of his crops.

Act Now

The limited total acreage offered in this subdivision means that comparatively few farmers can be accommodated. The land is practically ready to go on to and farm. You can start at once to prepare for crops. And you will enjoy the charms of a rural home in this delightful spot, where climatic conditions are all but ideal.

A Convincing Letter from a Recent Purchaser

"Gentlemen: "As I was looking for a good piece of land I made a trip to Capay just before New Years, and may say that I was more than pleased with the land shown me and I bought 80 acres.

"I have been in California eighteen years and have never seen a proposition that appeals to me as the Capay Farms do.

"I claim the soil is of the very best for general farming or deciduous fruits, and water conditions are first class.

"There is certainly a fine chance for an industrious man to make good money here, especially when he can get such land as the Capay Co. are offering, with price, location, water and everything considered.

ENGLAND SILENT ON QUESTION OF IRISH REPUBLIC

Attitude of Great Britain is an Enigma to Sinn Feiners--A Temporary Premier and Ministers Elected at Secret Meet

DUBLIN, Jan. 22.—With an Irish ministry appointed and plans under way for a nation-wide parliamentary election, the attitude of the British government toward the new republic of Ireland continued to be an enigma today.

The Sinn Feiners had taken action that amounted to open secession and still imperial authorities refrained from repressive measures. Following Tuesday's initial meeting of the Irish parliament, in which a declaration of independence was adopted and delegates selected to the peace conference, the Sinn Feiners met in secret session yesterday. An official communique of the proceedings issued in Gaelic, said: Premier is Elected

A temporary premier was elected. He selected four ministers. A temporary chairman was elected. Twenty-four deputies were present. The names of the cabinet members were not announced. It was reported that a constitution was adopted, providing that a premier shall be elected by a parliament, with authority to appoint and remove the ministers of finance, home affairs, foreign affairs and defense. Parliament would be elected by nation-wide suffrage, the conditions and date of election to be announced later.

WAR VETERANS ARE COMING IN NUMBERS

Many Troops from Overseas Are Arriving Almost Daily in the United States Harbors

WASHINGTON, Jan. 23.—Companies E, F, G, H, I, K, L and M, supply company, medical detachment, and headquarters second and third battalions of the 330th infantry is aboard the transport Martha Washington, from Brest for Newport News, due January 28. This force constitutes thirty officers and 1891 men.

The transport La Lorraine, Bordeaux for New York, is due January 31 with the following organizations of the 38th division, to be discharged at Camp Dodge: Battery F 339th field artillery. Detachment of 339th field artillery. Medical detachment of same organization.

In addition there is aboard casual company number 23, Missouri, and a few casuals. The transport Scranston, St. Nazaire for New York, is due February 1 with three casual officers.

WANTS DEFENSE COUNCIL TO STAY

National and State Organizations Wish Action to Meet Needs of Readjustment

NEW YORK, Jan. 23.—Organization of the council of national defense on a permanent basis is being sought. It was announced here today by Grosvenor B. Clarkson, director of the council.

The council, composed of the secretaries of war, navy, interior, commerce and labor and agriculture, has asked the forty-eight state councils of defense and also the state divisions of the women's committee to take immediate steps to secure adequate state legislation to provide for development of community organizations, and for permanent state leadership in their work on a strictly non-partisan basis.

"This action is taken by the council," said Clarkson, "not only to meet the many emergencies of the readjustment and demobilization period, but to establish beneficial community organizations on a permanent basis throughout the nation. It is plain that one of the great lessons of the war to America has been the inter-dependency of social effort. It is equally plain that permanent dividends for the future should be drawn from this war time cooperation.

SERVICE MEN'S ORGANIZATION PLAN ENDORSED

After adjournment, Rev. L. B. Frank, rector of Ascension Episcopal church and a former army Y. M. C. A. secretary, announced for the Sterling Dairy Products company that refreshments of ice cream and cakes were ready to serve as a "moss." Primary purposes of the club as brought out in discussion at the meeting, are to provide a place where returning soldiers and sailors may go for recreation and needed accommodations until such time as they have resumed their places in civilian affairs.

Captain Sweeley Explains The necessity for the proposed institution was pointed out in a talk by Captain Sweeley, which was roundly applauded. Having come recently from a camp where between 2500 and 3500 soldiers, including men who had been service overseas, were being discharged daily, he said, he appreciated the fact that the man who has worn the uniform, no matter in what branch he served, has a good deal of hesitancy in turning for assistance to those who have not worn the uniform.

Won't Advertise Helplessness "There is a distinct line of cleavage between the soldier and the civilian that must be recognized and taken account of if a successful readjustment is to be worked out," he said. "An organization of business men cannot accomplish this purpose because the men they want to help won't come to them. The service man doesn't want to advertise that he is in any degree helpless. When he needs help he turns instinctively to one of his fellows--his bunkie. Every one of them is as self-reliant as he was when he went into the service, and a whole lot more so.

Big Task Ahead "Twin Falls has got to take care of between 600 and 700 returning soldiers and sailors, and possibly more, because Twin Falls is pretty widely and pretty favorably known. If we are to get away with the problem that results without a lot of trouble, it has got to be through an organization of this kind. "There is no honor in the undertaking at the present time, but a lot of hard work. Our problem is all ahead, and we can best prepare for it through an organization of this kind under the direction of men who have been through the mill and understand."

Would Help Find Jobs John Allen Burns, who has been back for eight weeks from Camp Lewis, suggested that one of the principal purposes of the club should be to assist returning soldiers and sailors in securing employment. "A lot of the fellows coming back are rather discouraged with the outlook for getting jobs," he said. "There seems to be plenty of work opening up in the spring, but practically everything we have been offered so far has been a job with a muckattek, and we have men here who left jobs better than that."

Criticizes Some Business Men "Few returning soldiers have been given work here," Burns declared, "and, on the other hand, I know of several business men who have sought to Salt Lake employment offices lately for men who were not and had not been in uniform, to do work that we were competent to do. I know also of jobs that were open that were denied to soldiers because they didn't have the clothes to wear."

Promises Cooperation W. H. Eldridge, speaking, he said, as a member of a self-appointed committee of business men, the other members of which in attendance were Stuart H. Taylor and Samuel Hart, declared that they had presented themselves at this meeting because it was the first opportunity they had had of meeting the returned soldiers in a body and assuring them of the active cooperation of the business men generally in any undertaking of the type under discussion that they might adopt. He said that he was surprised and shocked to learn that some Twin Falls business men had sent cloverleaf for help while there were returned soldiers here looking for employment.

T. M. Robertson, called upon by the chairman to explain the purpose of the proposed organization as he understood it, having been in attendance at the Sunday meeting, said that in his opinion it was to serve as a place where service men might meet together and avail themselves of accommodations offered while readjusting themselves to civilian affairs. He said that he had talked with 15 or 20 business men who would guarantee the expenses of the institution for its first year.

Service Man's Question Lieutenant DeLong spoke in affirmation of Captain Sweeley's statement that a line of cleavage between the soldier and the civilian exists in the mind of the returning service man. He said that the soldiers or their return are asking of each one who remained at home, "What did you do to help win the war?" Captain Sweeley moved the appointment of a committee on permanent organization. When the chairman expressed, after the adoption of the motion, a desire to fill the places on the committee by vote of the house, J. F. Martin moved the appointment of the committee men named, which motion was put to vote and carried.
