

WOMEN REFUSE TO RESIGN IN FAVOR OF MEN

Many Female Workers Who Have Been Doing a Man's Work During the War Now Wish to Continue

UNEMPLOYMENT OF MEN IS STEADILY GROWING

Railroads Have Employed Great Numbers With No Definite Understanding of Returning the Jobs

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Women who took men's jobs for war work are refusing to return to peace time pursuits.

This is shown today by reports of the United States Employment Service from all the industrial centers of the country.

Doing a Man's Work

The best estimates of the employment service show that about 1,500,000 women out of 11,000,000 female workers were doing men's work when the war ended, and reports indicated the number has been reduced only slightly.

Cause for Idle Men

The determination of the women, officials admit, is one of the contributing causes of unemployment of men but they point out that these women must work to live and if they are to relinquish their work to men other employment must be found for them.

Call Is Decreasing

Calls for women workers have been gradually decreasing ever since the armistice was signed, the employment service reports show.

Opposition to women holding men's jobs is clearly shown in the American Federation of Labor headquarters and has been shown in the cases of the Detroit and Cleveland conductors where the union tried to force out the women who were backed by the companies.

"The federation does not intend to drive women out of industry," Frank Morrison said today, "but it believes there is work for women and work for men and that both should stay in their own line. The federation believes that where the women are doing the men's work they should receive men's wages, and we will have them in every effort to obtain deserving wages for their work."

In Railroad Service

Women are now strongly entrenched in the railroad service, their number having increased from 200 in January, 1918, to 101,000 in October. So far the government has announced no definite policy of turning their jobs back to men.

Labor officials doubt that women will stay in some fields of men's work permanently, such as street car conductors, baggage workers and hop workers. They believe that the women, of their own accord, will drift back to what is generally classed as women's work, largely because of the hostile feeling of the men.

Asks For Figures

Senator Kenyon has written secretary of Labor Wilson for figures, asking how many men are being kept out of work by women holding their jobs.

THIRTEEN MINNESOTA STATE BANKS GO TO WALL AS RESULT OF WILDCAT FINANCIAL OPERATIONS

MINNEAPOLIS, Feb. 15.—Charles F. Wyant, president of 13 Minnesota state banks, and William H. Schaefer, promoter, were arrested here today charged with defrauding depositors of the state's banks of a sum estimated at $700,000 by means of worthless notes and will call stocks. The thirteen banks have been closed by the state superintendent of banking.

Both men were taken before the grand jury at once.

Pending a conference with the state bank examiner, it was not known how long the institutions will be closed.

In each of the small towns affected there were detained scores of crowds swarmed about the banks. Many depositors, believing all their savings had been wiped out, threatened damage to the buildings.

At Hamel and St. Louis Park deputy sheriffs were called to prevent property damage.

Many losers were wives or widows of soldiers.

Schaefer heads several big Minneapolis concerns, including the Schaefer Laboratories, furnishing motion picture supplies. Both he and Wyant conducted their affairs from elaborate suits in Minneapolis office buildings.

CONFERENCE TO SIT TIGHT AND AWAIT WILSON

Superstructure Complete But Details Cannot Go Forward Until President Wilson Returns to Scene

MODIFICATIONS MAY BE MADE TO CONSTITUTION

Indemnities and Freedom of the Seas Has Been Practically Settled Upon By the Delegates

BY ED L. KEEN

PARIS, Feb. 15.—The peace conference is expected figuratively to mark time until President Wilson returns from his brief furlough in the United States.

While the foundation for the peace settlement has been firmly laid, the conference also the structure cannot be completed without the guidance of the spokesman of a people totally disinterested in European affairs. Work involving and conflicting problems will continue during the president's absence but it is understood that no momentous decisions will be made until he again takes his seat at the peace table, probably in the middle of next month.

In Session 4 Months

The peace conference formally opened just a month ago today. In that month events moved faster than even the most sanguine delegate believed possible. Yet there are countless problems and conflicting claims which the conference has barely scratched the surface. In the solution of these, the conferees will be confronted by constantly overlapping and conflicting claims necessitating the presence of an international umpire for which office President Wilson is admitted by the conferees themselves and the European peoples as well, to have qualified.

Ground Work Established

The constitution of the league of nations, recognized as the ground work of the entire peace settlement, has been completed. That the draft is at best a tentative affair. When it comes up for debate (Continued on page eight)

BY L. C. MARTIN.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—Senator Borah today declined President Wilson's invitation to dine at the White House and discuss the league of nations. NEW POSITION FOR WOMEN IS BEING FORMED

Those Who Patriotically Took the Men's Place During the War Now Deserve Some Consideration

PARIS, Feb. 15.—The new position in the labor world won by women during the war is becoming one of the big problems of the peace conference. International suffrage leaders are endeavoring to have the conferees embody such measures in the peace settlement as will insure women's ability to maintain their position on the high, economic, industrial plane they have established.

Women Were Patriotic

Women's representatives now in Paris declare that women that patriotically engaged in the war, in their respective countries, who worked in factories, shops and in fields on the same basis with men, and earned more than they ever received before, cannot be expected to call for aid from the position of "industrial servitude."

A movement has already been started in Great Britain against women accepting lower pay than men for the same work.

Leaders Get Support

International suffrage leaders here announced today they would confer with Samuel Gompers, chairman of the international labor commission, and urge that they be invited to the peace work. Previously, President Wilson, Premier Lloyd George and President Poincaré had approved this plan.

"There is plenty of room for international feeling in behalf of women is evidenced by the gulf that exists between the conditions surrounding them in Macedonia, for instance, and in Great Britain," Mrs. George Hulett of New Hampshire, in discussing the problem today.

AMERICAN SOLDIERS NEEDLESSLY SACRIFICED IN FINAL BATTLES OF WAR SAYS KANSAS GOVERNOR

WASHINGTON, Feb. 15.—American boys were needlessly sacrificed in the last hours of fighting on the west front, Governor Henry Allen, Kansas, told the house rules committee today.

Colonel Carl Ristine, 130th infantry, in a letter to Allen read before the house rules committee, said:

"Some one ought to tell about the things over here; how we were stripped of blankets and had summer underwear and no overcoats for the Army. I almost froze to death. No ambulances for 36 hours and then only six to nine small ones to haul 6,400 wounded in six days. These ambulances frequently took as long as 34 hours to get to the field hospital and many died on the way."

"We finally evacuated the stretcher cases by the hundreds in trucks. We were ordered to leave our kitchens behind, and they sent us to the firing line, beef, cabbage, eggplant and toilet paper. The men were sent to the front after we came out of the fight they sent us fully beef in tins and other field rations which we should have had in the fight."

WOMEN WORKERS MAY NOT LEAVE THEIR POSITIONS

Employment Bureau Head Declares that Many Will Not Be Displaced by Returning Men from Camps

WILL BE SLOW TO GIVE UP ALL INDEPENDENCE

Central Federation of Labor Has Asked that They Relinquish Their Jobs to Soldiers and Other Men

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Of the total number of women who held jobs during the war, less than 10 per cent will leave their positions now, Dr. George Kirchwey, director of the United States Employment Service for New York state, declared today.

Dr. Kirchwey does not refer exclusively to women who hold inside jobs during the war emergency. His figures include the great number of women who were working for a living in peace times.

Few Will Leave Positions
"While the employment problem is a growing one in New York and all over the country," said Dr. Kirchwey, few women workers will leave their positions. We hear daily of women being displaced by employers to make way for returning soldiers, but we are not advising employers to release their women workers. We want them to make room for the returned men and retain as many other workers as possible."

At present, according to Dr. Kirchwey, there is a great surplus of labor all over the country. This is due to the shutting down of war factories. The unemployment question is growing but after a period of six months or so, Dr. Kirchwey predicts, that there will again be a scarcity of labor.

Many Will Return
While many women may be displaced by returning men, they will eventually come back, Kirchwey believes. "Having once experienced the independence which comes with earning their own way, they will not readily surrender it," he said, "and, while they may materially affect the present job standards and wages by their return, their organization and will readily join into the ranks of organized labor."

While no drastic measures have been taken there is a rapidly developing difference of opinion between labor and women workers' organizations. The Central Federation of Labor, representing practically all unions in Manhattan, has asked women to relinquish their jobs to the returning soldiers, while admitting that there are ethics to be considered, argues that such action is economically impossible.

FORMER PREMIER OF CANADA PASSES AWAY

Aged Man Who Was at One Time Leader in the Dominion Had Paralysis

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 18.—A state funeral to take place on Saturday is being arranged for the late Sir Wilfrid Laurier. The Federal House will open on Thursday, but will immediately adjourn until Monday out of respect for the dead leader of the opposition. Sir Wilfrid's body will be taken to the Senate chamber from Thursday to Saturday.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 18.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier, former premier of Canada, who died Monday afternoon, was 78 years of age and was stricken with paralysis Sunday morning. He had been in poor health for years. Sir Wilfrid's political career began in 1871 when he was elected to the Canadian parliament. He was re-elected in 1874 and that year became a member of the federal assembly. In 1877 he became minister of inland revenue in the Mackenzie cabinet. The leadership of the liberal party fell to Laurier in 1891. Five years later he became premier and remained in that office for fifteen years, when he was succeeded by the present premier, Sir Robert Borden, as the result of a political fight over reciprocity with the United States which Laurier favored. Laurier met another political defeat in 1917 when he opposed conscription in Canada unless it was submitted to a referendum. Laurier was born in Lin. Quebec, November 30, 1841.

RUSSIA IS NOW CENTER OF THE STAGE OF PEACE

Associated Powers Can Not Determine On a Definite Policy Concerning Soviets and Bolsheviks

BY FRED S. FERGUSON
PARIS, Feb. 18.—The associated powers today were apparently completely at sea regarding a Russian policy. Although the supreme war council has recognized the question, it is understood that no progress has been made toward a definite solution.

The one thing that seemed certain was that British and American troops will be withdrawn from Northern Russia as soon as practicable. While it is possible that this may not be accomplished before the ice breaks up in the spring, it is said that steps are already being taken to facilitate evacuation. This policy apparently will be adhered to in the face of renewed efforts by the French to obtain armed intervention on a large scale.

It was still doubtful today whether the proposed joint conference, originally scheduled to open next Saturday at Brinkley will go through. A decision on this is expected within a few days. A proposal by Winston Churchill, the British war minister, that was said to include the question of a state of war if necessary, is understood to have been tabled by the supreme council, the majority of the members disapproving. Churchill has returned to England.

NORTHWESTERS STRONG FOR A NATION LEAGUE

Ex-President Taft Leads the Congress For the League Which Cables Resolutions to Paris

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 18.—Delegates to the northwestern congress for a league of nations, which closed a two day session here last night, have unanimously adopted a resolution endorsing the league of nations covenant.

Cables Conference The resolution will be cabled today to the Paris conference. A second resolution was also unanimously adopted, urging the United States senate to adopt the league of nations' treaty when it is presented in congress.

The closing session of the convention last night was devoted to "labor's demands for a league of nations."

A Mighty Factor Ex-President William Howard Taft, who was the main speaker, declared that organized labor had become a mighty factor in world affairs. Taft is now on route to San Francisco.

Taft addressed the Northwest congress for a league of nations. It was his first complete statement on the league of nations constitution.

Defeat Not Probable "Is it possible that fourteen nations, through their representatives at Paris, agree, is to be defeated by the lack of the necessary two-thirds vote?" "I am sure that this is not possible. The objection of Senator Poindexter that the constitution minimizes the sovereignty of the United States. Taft said:

"This is a reactionary doctrine that belongs to the German view of the state. It leads directly to the proposal that might make right."

Taft said in part: "When President Wilson returns to present the result of his visit to Europe it must be that the American people will welcome him with approval and congratulations upon the success of the congress in which he has taken so prominent part."

"In the president's addresses and message during the war and since, he promised to the harassed peoples of the allied nations that the United States would press for a league of nations which should secure permanent peace when this war ended. Thus he revived the morale of the war-weary soldiers and our allies. These promises were not repudiated by any American when they were made. They were echoed in all the appeals to the American people that found ready response among them had no protest."

"The nation is thus pledged to the idea of a league of nations to render peace permanent. Good faith requires that what other nations are willing to undergo to secure the peace of the world, we should ourselves be willing to assume. Only now after the war has been and after impatience at the delays in reaching peace conditions, do we hear on the floor of the senate the criticisms of a league of nations? "I sincerely trust the war they would have been out of tune with the overflowing spirit of the American people and their determination to win this war and end the possibility of any such war in the future. No do we hear the clam that we did not go into this war for the benefit of the world, but for our own selfish purposes?"

Quotes Poindexter "Senator Poindexter attacks the eighth article of the constitution of the league of disarmament as follows: "The provision is unconstitutional and an impairment of the sovereignty and independence of this country."

"Congress, under the constitution, determines what our armament shall be, and therefore it is quite true that even if it made no agreement, congress would retain the constitutional power of violating that agreement and increasing the armament beyond the limit set; but that does not prevent the treaty-making power from entering into the obligation. It is not a transfer of sovereignty—it is only an agreement to limit our fortifications and our means of attack in consideration of other nations doing the same thing. The most famous agreement that we have made on this point is the agreement we have with Great Britain, by which we agreed not to fortify the boundary between Canada and the United States, or to place war vessels on the lakes."

Arbitration Necessary. "That agreement is of one hundred years' standing, and has been praised by every statesman who has referred to it."

"The most extreme position of Senator Poindexter is that the United States should insist on arbitration of issues between it and other countries because it might affect the vital interests of the nation. There have been one hundred arbitrations between the United States and other countries, many of them of very great concern. The question of the payment of the Alabama claims related to a principle of international law and international safety that was of the highest importance. The arbitration of the Alaskan boundary was another, the assumption that either the court of arbitration or the executive of the United States, in any judgment would seek to take away the sovereignty or the liberty or the independence of the United States, is utterly groundless. It is so extreme a view that it ought not to be given any weight as an objection to machinery for the peaceful adjustment of differences by decision of international courts."

Imposes No Restriction "No reasonable and patriotic and property self-respecting citizen of the United States can claim that our sovereignty should be more than a right to freedom of action within the limitations of international law, international morality, and a due regard for the rights of other nations. The only sovereignty which we ought to claim is sovereignty regulated by these limitations. "Now the league does not propose in any way further to restrict that sovereignty but only through the joint compulsion of all nations to keep a would-be outlaw nation within the proper and existing limitation. The league is not a super-sovereignty. It is only a partnership. Its powers are in joint agreement—not in the establishment of a government. The senator's objection is fundamental. If it were analyzed and logically developed, it is a reactionary doctrine that belongs to the German view of the state and its needs and its rights. It is not consonant with any hope by international action of settling differences other than by the power of the sword. It lends directly to the proposal that "might makes right." It is based on a doctrine of supreme national selfishness. It is the pessimistic and despairing view of any possibility of restricting war. It contemplates with entire acquiescence the prospect of another war through which we have passed, in the next ten or twenty years. It perverts the glorious idea of a national sovereignty to keep it from helping the family of nations. It perverts our grand federal constitution to render helpless for the good of the world what under the providence of God has become the world's greatest power. "Will the American people acquiesce in such a small view of our responsibilities for mankind and of our governmental capacity for international benefit. We may be confident they will not."

DOLLARS AND CENTS

Counting it only in dollars and cents, you would think that the cold war has a cold, but perhaps it would be better if he did. It takes about ten days to get completely rid of a cold under the usual treatment. That time can be much shortened by taking Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, or care of yourself. In fact, a bottle of this remedy in the house is a mighty good investment during the winter and spring months—adv.

SAYS CONDITION SHATTER MORAL OF FIGHTING MEN

Senator Robert L. Owen Comments on Results of His Investigation of Foreign Embarkation Points.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The moral of American soldiers in France is shattered by the sanitary and crowded conditions they are subjected to and by the long periods of waiting for transportation, declared Senator Robert L. Owen of Oklahoma, who arrived here Monday on liner Rotterdam. He said he will go to Washington at once to report the result of his investigations and urge corrective measures. "It is imperative that these men be brought home at once," said Owen. "Their demobilization should proceed more systematically and provision should be made to give them a job to start in life when they get back here. This is not charity, but a duty we owe them."

When said that conditions were pitifully bad at Brest, Owen has been more improvement, particularly as regards food, but overcrowding still clings. He declared that men in direct camps are becoming demoralized and that some of them have refused to give, committed suicide while suffering from melancholy. He described the mud there as "knee deep." The one consolation for the men, he said, was that climatic conditions are bad.

BEFORE JUDGMENT

There is nothing more true than that in this world we are going to find pretty much what we are looking for, and that we are going to see things in the color that they appear to us through the spectacles of various hues which we affect.

These are among the critics of the present state administration and legislature in Idaho those who are already willing to pass judgment and brand it in accordance with their preconceived notions, fawning, eulogizing, serving outflit. They are prone to observe and magnify actions at variance with their own ideas and likely to overlook the achievement that is patently in line with their own interests.

Whether or not there are among the critics in this class those who have passed judgment on the calibre and intentions of the present legislature those who have taken cognizance of all of the measures adopted by the present legislature is a matter for interesting if not profitable speculation.

Certainly, among these critics one measure lately passed by the legislature ought to be deserving of some attention. This is the law known as House Bill Number 45, introduced by Representative A. H. Morgan of Washington county, a Republican, providing for a penalty to be imposed against dealers reporting to farmers that produce sold through them has been disposed of at a loss.

Unless judgment has been pronounced in view of this action and of others of which it is typical, such judgment is at least premature; and if the verdict has been returned after consideration of these circumstances then it is to be expected that little that can be done by legislators will serve the notions of these critics. Or, possibly, commissioner dealers are not numbered among the corporations which, according to these critics, the members of the present Idaho legislature were elected to serve and maintain in their policy of "robbing the people."

A NORTH DAKOTA LEADER

Score one for the administration in the State of North Dakota, in general the national experiment station in respect to state socialism. While the governments of the Nation and of other States have so far contented themselves with talking about what they are going to do for the returning soldiers, North Dakota has seized the situation by the horns and press dispatches tell of the adoption by the Senate of that State of a bill establishing a home builders' association to purchase and improve farm property for qualified applicants upon deposit of twenty per cent of the value of the project, subsequent payments to be made under the amortization plan.

If the plan is all that the dispatches indicate it is one in which any State might well be proud to engage. The provision of the plan requiring repayment to the State of the cost of the project relieves the undertaking of any semblance to charity which would be indignantly rejected by service men themselves. The plan seems to give to the returning service man all that he asks, a chance, and certainly none is more deserving from the nation of a chance than he who has risked everything in his behalf.

TRANSFER AND LEASE OF CAREY ACT WATER RIGHTS

Much attention from the numerous irrigation districts of the state has been attracted to a bill introduced by Representative C. J. Miller of this county, relating to the transfer of water rights which have been appropriated to lands. Quoting further from the title of this bill (House Bill No. 127), it declares the purpose of "prescribing the manner in which such transfer shall be made, conferring certain powers and duties upon the commissioner of irrigation and amending sections 1, 5, 6, 7 of chapter 130 of the compiled laws of Idaho."

The existing law with relation to such transfers, passed at the last session of the legislature, was known as the "Ginn's law." The present bill is intended to give it some moral standing and structure; and, following the enacting clause, reads as follows: "Sec. 1. That section 1 of chapter 130 of the compiled laws of Idaho shall be amended to read as follows: "Sec. 1. Chapter 130. The owner of any land to which a water right has been made appurtenant pursuant to the provisions of operation of the act of August 22, 1914, known as the Carey act may transfer such water right, in whole or in part, to other land owned by him."

Sec. 2. Section 3 of chapter 130 of the compiled laws of Idaho shall be amended to read as follows: "Sec. 3. Section 3 of chapter 130 of the compiled laws of Idaho shall be amended to read as follows: "Sec. 3. Chapter 130. If the board of directors of the corporation operating such Carey act system shall refuse its consent to the transfer of such water right, a written application for permission to make the same, showing the description of the land from which and of the land to which it is proposed to transfer such water right and the amount of the water right to be transferred, and the reasons therefor, shall be presented to the commissioner of reclamation of the matter and determine whether or not such transfer is in the public interest and the other water users thereunder shall be affected or prejudiced if such transfer is allowed."

Sec. 4. Section 6 of chapter 130 of the compiled laws of Idaho shall be amended to read as follows: "Sec. 6, chapter 130. If any person or the board of directors of such Carey act corporation shall feel aggrieved at the decision of the commissioner of reclamation, an appeal may be taken by such person or board to the district court of the county within which the land is situated from which it is proposed to transfer the water right by filing with the clerk of said court the written application so made to said commissioner of reclamation and his report thereon with a written statement of the applicant giving the reasons why such decision should not stand, and said court shall make determination of the matter, for which purpose a jury may be had at the discretion of the court. The clerk of such court shall require the payment of a fee of $5 for the docketing of such appeal."

Sec. 5. Section 7, chapter 130 of the compiled laws of Idaho shall be amended to read as follows: "Sec. 7, chapter 130. For his services in passing upon an application for the transfer of a water right under this chapter and making his certificate or report based thereon, said commissioner of reclamation shall be entitled to receive from the applicant the sum of $10 for each day or portion thereof necessarily required by him to do the work besides his actual and necessary expenses incurred in connection therewith, but shall receive no other compensation."

Comparison of this act with the old law, as set forth in chapter 130 of the compiled laws of the state, will show that the transfer of water rights which can be served and irrigated by the same irrigation system, and intended to precisely define to what other lands under the same ownership a water right may be diverted are changed by the substitution of "and lying within the same irrigation appropriation or aggregation," a closer and more definite restriction in avoidance of attempts at questionable transfers. Section 2 of the present law, providing for written evidence of the transaction, its record, etc., is left unchanged, as also is section 4, requiring the authenticated consent of the operating company. But section 3 which provides for the appointment by the county commissioners of a county irrigation engineer, is repealed in toto. Following the abolition of the office of irrigation engineer, effected by the amendment, sections 5, 6 and 7, are amended by the substitution of the words "Commissioner of Reclamation" for "Reclamation Commissioner" and "Irrigation Engineer" in each and every place where the latter occurs in the old act—thus devolving the supervising duties upon an irrigation official otherwise provided for, instead of requiring county commissioners to appoint one for that purpose.

The general consensus of opinion seems to be favorable to the proposed changes as offering practical and needed improvement; and under the efforts of Mr. Miller, the committee of the house, it passed that body with small opposition and is now before the senate, where its success is freely predicted.

THE SHOSHONE FALLS PARK

Before this reaches you, the "News" will doubtless have published the text of the bill in the interest of the Shoshone Park Memorial association, as prepared by Senator Stearns and Stephens of the committee appointed at the meeting last week Tuesday evening, and which was introduced in this county by representative Conover, of this county, last Monday evening. Being the case, the fact that it carries an appropriation of ten thousand dollars, as well as its other provisions, will have become known and understood. Of course it is in the favor of the Idaho solons; but so far as can now be seen no active opposition is being made. It received two unopposed readings at the appropriation committee before being presented, passed promptly through a start of strainer committee and was ordered printed. In passing it might be remarked that comparatively few people even living in Idaho and of legislative caliber, have realized what an asset in the way of a scenic wonder and picturesque beauty spot this state possesses in Shoshone Falls, its setting and surroundings. However, means of education for the legislators at least, have been provided in the way of the magnificent photographic views from the rooms of the Great Twin Falls club and elsewhere which are now displayed upon the walls of the representatives' hall. "That's just the way with you Twin Falls fellows," said one representative, "half in jest and half in earnest. You'll plaster the great white throne with your glowing literature if you only had a key to the nearby gallery. Which is the same as a very eloquent sort of figure of speech if the gentlemen really intended to institute a favorable comparison between the heavenly choir and the legislature of Idaho."

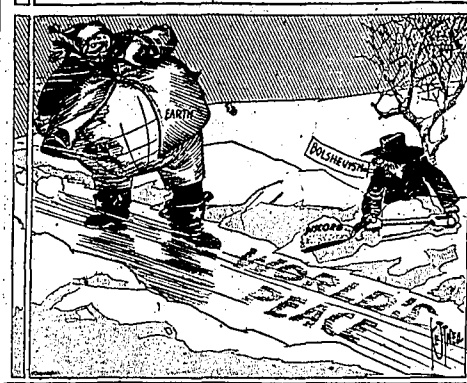

In advance of starting for America last Saturday, President Wilson called a request, through Secretary Tamm, that the congress refrain from discussing the various provisions of the proposed league of nations bill until it shall have arrived here and been given the opportunity to explain what they really mean. If our senators and representatives do not intend to attend a presidential kindergarten, which in the world will we poor mortals do to whom no such opportunity will be extended?

This is certainly the cunning age. Everything gets "canned" nowadays, from garden peas to department clerks and elevator pilots. But among the numerous other new developments of the great war, it portends a jar one to read about "canned blood." Still it appears to have been a fact that in order to keep life in the body of the wounded soldier, suffering from excessive blood loss, the medical department actually kept on ice great quantities of blood for transfusion purposes—field hospitals offering no opportunity for taking the blood direct from the veins of other men.

Every day increases the disgust with which the German attitude of mingled cowardice and bravado must inspire all fair-minded observers everywhere. The poor yellow streak now winning over the occupation of the Rhine territory and the allied administration of affairs of the towns and cities in that territory, Chancellor Scheidemann, in a late speech to the Reichstag, makes a covert threat by saying: "The entente is able to force any kind of peace on Germany, but if it is an unjust peace, 70,000,000 people in their hearts will never forgive or forget the Great God, can the British Huns not remember how they treated the cities and the citizens of occupied territory in France and Belgium. And, remembering do they suppose 70,000,000 Belgians and French can forgive and forget?"

THINKING IT THROUGH Such labor troubles as have burst upon England are the unexpected, although they came sooner and in more extreme form than looked for. The causes lie deep. Only in part are they related to international unrest. It is true that in these times of rapid communication and of free trade in thought the infection of new ideas passes easily from one country to this or that, and the events in Russia are having their repercussion among English workmen, as in the United States also. Mr. James Larkin, who tried to do in Dublin a few years ago what is being done more thoroughly in Belfast, told his hearers in Boston yesterday that Russia is the only country where men are truly "free." How they are getting on with their freedom, he did not say. A Glasgow labor leader announces that the strikers in that city are only nominally demanding shorter hours and higher pay; what they really are after is the destruction of the whole capitalist system. In the fashion of the I. W. W., they take what they can get on the installment plan, but never intend to be satisfied until they have got full possession of all production, manufacture, and transportation. We are already hearing talk of that kind here, and shall hear much more. The time will come with us, too, when the effort will be made to translate these doctrines into action. We had better be making up our minds what is to be done about it. The worst thing that could be done is to fall into an anticipatory panic over the prospect. "The whole world has gone mad," ejaculate some despairing ally. The more reason, then, for all who can to keep their wits about them. In the long run, facts and the essential ness will be less challenged and denied. In the apportionment of profits, it is clear that more will go to wages and less to capital. We are finding out what heavy taxation can be borne without ruin by companies and individuals. That will continue. The "social obligation" will remain as a recognized part of the "overhead" of big business. It will have to make even larger sacrifices for the health and opportunities of the toilers. All this can be fronted with equanimity.

3. The fundamentals will survive. Unusual ability will be unasked for. The wages of superintendence must be higher than other wages—else there will soon be no other wages. Ignorance and incompetence and sloth cannot pull down to their own level skill and energy. The shift must be in the other direction.

4. Experiment will decide all. Our experiment we need not be afraid, although it may be painful while it lasts. Sir Eric Geddes once proposed that the workers in some great industry in Belfast be permitted to take charge of it and see what they can do. The strong likelihood is that they would soon be begging their former employers to come back and take high salaries for furnishing initiative and directing skill. If we may trust many reports from Russia that is exactly what is happening there.

5. Violence is not unduly to be dreaded. Most agitators now fully understand that it is, in the end, fatal to their cause. In Germany the Spartans seized arms only to commit suicide with them. If the Russian Bolsheviks keep on in their course of robbery and murder, the outcome cannot be in doubt. Human society will find ways to defend itself against brute force. And if madmen insist upon having it out by armed strength what cause could be better to fight for, die for, than that of order and social peace? It would not mean a serious fight for property, but for the rights that lie behind the whole process of civilization and behind liberty itself.—N. Y. Post.

Seven hundred dollars, according to the statement in its complaint of the Brown Brothers sheep company, is the value of 27 head of sheep which jury in district court here in its verdict on Monday said the company must return to J. W. Feeler of Buhl, or pay to him the value of the sheep in cash...

According to the testimony, certain sheep were owned by Ed Abill of Buhl, prior to his entrance last fall into the military service. Abill sold some of these sheep to Brown Brothers. They claimed that he had sold all the sheep to them. This was disputed both by Abill and by Feeler who purchased the sheep remaining in Abill's possession after the Brown Brothers had taken over the sheep for which they made full payment.

One Experience As Own Attorney Does for George S. Megus

Naturalized Greek Employee of Buhl Tailor Pleads Guilty to Forgery Charge

George Spina Megus, a naturalized Greek, informed against as George Megus, after being imprisoned for more than four months in the county jail and once conducting his own defense in a trial in district court here, this morning entered a plea of guilty to a charge of forgery preferred against him at the instance of R. E. Winans, proprietor of a tailor shop at Buhl, his employer in the spring of 1916. He was sentenced by Judge W. A. Babcock to serve an indeterminate term of from one to 14 years in the state prison...

Megus was brought back to answer to the charge here from San Francisco, where, he said, he had acted as an interpreter in court. His trial, in which he conducted his own defense on the theory that the case was one of mistaken identity, resulted in his conviction. Judge Babcock, however, arrested judgment because of the omission in the information of a clause charging the commission of the forgery with felonious intent. Megus will be taken to Boise this evening to begin serving his sentence. He expects, he says, while in the prison to pursue a course of study in English grammar and to avail himself of every educational advantage afforded.

READJUSTMENT MUST PROVIDE GREAT CHANGE

Three Important Steps Must Be Considered in the Period of Getting Back to Business, Declares Chicago Packer

OMAHA, Neb., Feb. 18. - "The United States must show one of two roads, either Bolshevism or individual and corporate freedom," was the message read to the Trans-Mississippi readjustment congress from J. Ogden Armour today. A former declared Bolshevism is unthinkable.

Three points mark the way to readjustment, said Armour. "The first is faith in business, the second employment for all, and the third gradual readjustment." Harry A. Wheeler, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce advocated a chamber of agriculture, composed of all agricultural associations and farm bureaus, which would enable industrial producers and agricultural producers to work closer together through their respective chambers.

Whether told the congress that the west will solve many of the reconstruction questions as it gave the best notice of its power in the last election. Legislation must be had and particularly agricultural associations should be encouraged to private enterprise. He looks upon the tendency toward government control with misgivings and said the merchant marine, while large, has cost the government $200,000,000 more than the ships of Great Britain, building up an overhead which means loss of earnings. "The step-involving government ownership is irrevocable," he said, "and should be tried when every other expedient has failed."

"Laughter is man's own attribute," says Habels, and from the time man began to think of other matters than eating and waging war he has wooed laughter in some form or other according to his idea of what is comical. The early pictured jokes on canvas, stone and paper are not conducive to wild hilarity at this day and age, but they amused the people of the time and in making men laugh helped to civilize the race.

THE ISSUE FOR BOND IS NOT LESS THAN A MILLION

Commissioners of Twin Falls Highway District Contract With Firm to Prepare Proceedings on Big Basis.

Commissioners of the Twin Falls highway district at an election to be held at the regular meeting will call for approval of a bond issue in an amount not less than $1,000,000 to carry an extensive program of road building and road improvement, according to the statement Monday of Chairman E. Channell after the commissioners entered into a contract with the Sweet, Causey, Foster company of Denver for a consultation of $2000 on the proceedings for such a bond issue.

Provide for Rate. That the amount of the bond issue proposed will be more than $1,000,000 was indicated in the statements of the commissioners, and provision is made in the contract with the company such a contingency by providing that the consideration shall be $1 for each additional $1000 added to the $1,000,000 basis upon which proposals are received. The commissioners estimate the amounts forthcoming from state and federal appropriations for state highway improvement at around $250,000 to $300,000. With such an amount received on these sources together with $125,000 from a bond issue and the proceeds of taxation levied in the district to share of the motor vehicle license, Mrs. Channell stated, "we will be able to carry out our program easily."

The exact amount of the bond issue has not yet been determined by the commissioners but they are to meet again today and in daily sessions hereafter until this matter is settled. It is possible, Mrs. Channell stated, to bond the district for $1,000,000. It is regarded as unlikely, however, that the maximum will reach more than $1,250,000.

Six Houses Bid. There were six bond houses represented among those submitting proposals. The bids were determined by the proceedings for the bond issue. The proposal of the Sweet, Causey, Foster company was lower than that of any other bidder. This firm prepared the proceedings for the municipal bond issue at which $375,000 worth of bonds were voted for the extension, repair and improvement of the municipal waterworks system.

TRAINING LITTLE CHILDREN

Simple Things Please Children—And Simple, Loving Methods Are Successful in Controlling Them

ARTICLE XLIX

By MRS. ISABELL S. WALLACE How many things can be made by folding ordinary wrapping paper? Soldier caps for small boys keep them amused a long time. A house and furniture with a few cut-out dollies make such busy little girls. After all it is the simplest things that make children happiest. When at my mother's home one time my little girl folded-and cut a house, windows, doors and all. Her grand-mother was delighted and the little one said, "We'll keep it to show grandpa and I guess he'll say I am a smart tottie." With a little thought mothers can learn how to fold and teach their children to fold a number of things. It is excellent practice in accuracy and neatness, besides affording the joy of making something.

to help pick them up before putting on her things. The mother said, "Oh, that's all right; Sadie never picks up scraps; I do that. So don't make your little girl do it." And my child smiled and calmly said "It's all right, Mother I don't have to pick up here." Then I told the mother about my rule and explained that it wasn't mine; it was on my part, but a desire to form good habits in the children and to develop character. All children are naughty at times and it is so hard to know how to deal justly with them. One day when I was very busy my little girl came in from playing in the garden. I suppose she was tired and hungry, but she did not herself pick up the matter. She began to try a new kind of naughtiness, lying down on the floor, kicking and screaming and saying naughty things to me. I was amazed, and quite puzzled as to how to treat such a proceeding. At first I ignored her, but she kept it up. I asked a few questions in a kindly way, but that seemed to fan the fire. She was busy in a hurry, warm and tired and began to get very angry. Nevertheless I realized that if I could not control my temper I could not expect a 5-year-old child to do so. So I pondered over what to do. Finally I went and picked her up and carried her to a chair where we both sat, or flopped down, as it was in a small flat which a child may have for his very own to keep his toys in. From the age of 16 months, I insisted that my little girl put her toys away neatly. We began it as play, and now it is a habit. Of course, sometimes she is in very much of a hurry to do something else, but the toys are put away in the end. We made her a large dry-goods box, standing up on end. My husband got cheap crates on it and two shelves across it. There all the small toys are kept. The blocks have their own boxes; the small things have baskets; and crayons, pictures and papers go into a box with a cover. All of them fit into the shelves; also the animals. I think, waiting for me many other such things. The picture books have a compartment in the large bookcase. "A place for everything and everything in its place," when little girls have finished playing, make a good rule.

One day when my child was not at home, a little girl came in for a visit. I took her into the playroom and left her there very happy. After a short time she went home. When I returned to the playroom I found everything so scattered over the floor that there was hardly room to walk. The next time the little girl came, I had a talk with her. I have made it a rule, and it is a hard rule to keep, for some mothers are offended, that if a child will not put the cut-out toys away, waiting for me to come back to play with that toy again until he is ready to do what I ask, my little girl was playing at a neighbor's a few days later. When it was time to come home I went for her. The children were cutting out pictures and had made a dreadful mess on the table, chairs and floor. I told my little girl

I find a word of praise goes so much further than blame, and the bright eyes give back such a grateful look. Last autumn my little girl began to go to kindergarten. She loves the work and is always so proud to show what she has made. I was very anxious for her to go, as she was shy and needed to learn "team work" and to rub up against other children in order to polish off the corners.

The kindergarten is the link between home and school. There is more freedom, more spirit of comradeship, more play than in the classroom, and to me it seems like administering a good shock to the child for her definite studies fresh from the home. By attending kindergarten, the child becomes familiar with school building, school hours and necessary rules; he develops courtesy and kindness toward others, and enjoys listening at story time. He also likes working and playing in union with others, and he learns to control himself and in fact to control the whole body. No school is complete without a kindergarten.

CHRONIC CONSTIPATION

There are people who never have a movement in the bowels without the aid of a cathartic. Most of them have brought that condition on themselves by the use of mineral waters and strong cathartics that take too much water out of the system and aggravate the disease they are meant to relieve. A mild laxative, such as Chamberlain's Tablets, afford a gentle movement of the bowels that you hardly realize has been produced by a medicine, and their use is not so likely to be followed by constipation—adv. Anal syndacism and given long terms in the penitentiary.

"If you don't believe in advertising, try News classified—then you'll know" said a News customer yesterday. This particular customer was not a new customer, in fact he is one of the oldest. Scarcely a week passes without some use by him of the little News want ads. Once he didn't think they amounted to anything. There is nothing unusual about this man's experience. Daily News want ads will buy, sell, exchange, rent, or acquire or dispose of anything you have.

COMING, KITTY GORDON, THE MAGNIFICENT
Kitty Gordon, the refulgent star and screen star, will be seen on Wednesday at the Orpheum theatre in "Adele," the latest and timely spectacle in which she appears as the star of United Picture Theaters, Inc., presenting this international favorite in the title role of Adele, a young American woman who was among the first to volunteer her services as a Red Cross nurse in France. The role is as fascinating and powerful one and is acknowledged to afford Miss Gordon emotional opportunities of which she is fully advantage, and to present the famous star in a new and refreshingly delightful phase, revealing heights of histrionic talent and success surpassing any of her previous offerings of this remarkable star.

This latest production tells a thrilling story that appeals to every Red Cross worker and to the million home-loving sentimentalist who desire to do well, and its vividness of scene and realism of effect. Through it runs a fascinating love story, while one of the very pleasing features of the picture is the remarkable beauty of actor and interior scenery.

Miss Gordon's performance is by far the most stirring and effective superpicture in which I have ever appeared.

A new note in screen music is struck in the Strand, where a performer on a piano-organ exhibits a pianist stating that he is an ex-convict who has done four years. There are also statements as to police supervision and the industry of the artist.

Use Your Knowledge.
It is a self-evident fact that the people who know the most do not always accomplish the most. And that is because many do not know how to use their knowledge. It is like gold buried in the ground instead of being invested and bearing a good interest. Do not trust for your success to knowing things, for it depends instead on your knowing how to use what you know.

Stone for Rosaries.
The rosaries sold at Knudshar are extensively manufactured from soft, crystallized silicate of manganese. This is quarried from a hill about thirty miles northwest of the city, where the finest and purest are also obtained in considerable abundance. The stone varies in color from a light yellow to a bluish white, and is generally opaque.

Signs of Mourning.
In Italy the women wear white garments to show their grief, and the men clothes of brown hue. In China white is used for mourning by both sexes. In Turkey, Syria, Cappadocia and Armenia celestial blue is the usual tint. In Egypt yellowish brown, the hue of the desert land, is the proper gray; and in Ethiopia the natives wear gray as the emblem of mourning.
