

BORAH PLEADS CAUSE OF THE WORKERS HERE

Idaho Senator Declares that the Laboring Class Must Be Given an Interest in the Industries of the Nation

BY L. C. MARTIN
WASHINGTON, March 13.—American workers must be given a share in the industries, they help create and maintain—a share not measured in wages, Senator Borah, next chairman of the senate labor committee declared today.

Borah was discussing labor legislation to be presented at the coming session of congress.

Labor Policy
"The fundamental thing, the first thing which must be done," said Borah, "is the formulation of a definite governmental labor policy. This we have never had."

"We have met exigencies as they have arisen by juggling wages, raising them here, lowering them there when it was possible. We have never gone at the problem in a way really to solve it. Co-operation must be the keynote of any real working out on a sound economic basis of the returns of capital and the workers. Co-operation must be the thought behind a government labor policy."

Workers to Share
"Co-operation, of course, is impossible unless both of those who are to cooperate have an interest in the business of industry. It must be an interest on the part of workers that goes beyond mere wages. Workers must have an actual share in industry which will give them the incentive to cooperate, make them eager to do so because such cooperation means their own welfare."

It is from this starting point that Borah plans to move in framing reconstruction labor legislation. He is chairman of this same committee before the democrats took control of congress includes:

Conditions Improve
Vigorous and successful work in behalf of the bill creating the department of labor of which he is generally regarded as the father; creating of the children's bureau; passage of the act extending the eight-hour law; all government contracts; passage of the law creating an industrial commission; to report on legislation concerning the adjustment of differences between capital and labor; passage of the act for investigation of steel industry which resulted in abolition of the seven day week. But though labor has in the past obtained many helpful laws, the present, Borah declared today, is the time to solve the whole problem honestly and fairly.

At the end of the war in the winning of which labor played such an important part, the time is ripe to get to fundamentals and stop meeting labor problems by expedients which at best are only temporary, said Borah.

"The present is the best opportunity to advance the interests of both labor and capital by putting their relations on a basis which will recognize labor's place as it has never before been recognized."

EPIDEMIC INTERFERES IN STATE TOURNAMENT

"Flu" at Moscow Necessitates Postponement for Week of Basketball Meet

UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow, March 13.—The state high school basketball tournament has been postponed one week on account of the influenza threat in the city of Moscow. The strict quarantine which was clapped on Wednesday is only a stringent precaution, and it is hoped that its strict enforcement for a week or ten days will be sufficient to break the return of the epidemic which was feared as a result of a few cases developing this week.

The University is still absolutely free of the disease and, by changing the dates to March 20-21 there is a strong probability that the tourney can be held.

Intense interest in the meet is prevalent in south Idaho. The southeastern section is the scene of a lively stamp centring around Blackfoot and Sugar City, but including a half dozen other strong contenders for the district championship.

In the central section Gooding puts up a high claim for honors.

The additional week will give the south Idaho teams plenty of time to settle the matter beyond a doubt. The keen competition in that part of the state indicates that the teams from below the mountains will fight hard for the pennant in the finals at Moscow.

GERMAN SOLDIERS GET JOBS QUICKLY

By WEBB MILLER
WITH THE ARMY OF OCCUPATION, Feb. 30. (By Mail).—An investigation into the industrial situation in the occupied area by the intelligence department of the third army shows that surprisingly little "industrial dislocation" has resulted from the influx of demobilized soldiers in this region.

Despite the isporing of thousands of demobilized soldiers the number of unemployed in February was only 2545 compared with a total of over 1,000,000 in this region.

The employment problem is handled by German search towns or villages which puts the returned soldier in touch with openings for employment. Employers in need of labor report to these bureaus, where the offers are submitted to applicants. In this way thousands were put back to work with the loss of little time.

During forced unemployment, the state pays every unemployed man a sum ranging from four marks to eight marks per day, according to the size of his family. German authorities complain that this "unemployment pay" is too high and offers little incentive to seek labor, because the common wage for day labor is from five to eight marks per day. The new high unemployment payment is one of the fruits of the revolution, but the rule is being strictly enforced in the Rhineland, in spite of the complaints of employers.

Many places for returned soldiers were provided by the immediate discharge of women workers, wherever they had taken the job of men. Although the pay for women was much lower, even where they were doing the same work as men, the employers were forced by the pressure of public sentiment and a guarantee of honor by municipal orders to discharge the women.

WOMEN DON'T CHEER STANDARD CLOTHES

LONDON, Feb. 12. (By Mail).—English women are promised standard clothes, coats and skirts by Easter. But they're not a bit enthusiastic about it. They are tired of years of war patriots continually insisting that a woman what a huge economy could be accomplished if only they would standardize their wardrobe. The persuasion fell on deaf ears.

Managers of the west end stores are convinced that the standard clothes will find no sale. From their experience they claim that woman at heart is an individual and will never be content to let another know how much she has paid for a garment.

In view of women's determined stand an experiment is being made to place on the market standardized clothes in a standardized and profitable way, leaving the design to the manufacturer who cater to women's individual tastes.

WILL ARRIVE AT PARIS TONIGHT

Presidential Ship Is Scheduled to Dock This Evening About 8 o'Clock

BREIT, March 13.—President Wilson's Zurlough is scheduled to end at 8 o'clock tonight, when the steamer George Washington is expected to complete her trans-Atlantic voyage in this port.

Boarding a special train, the president will leave at once for Paris, arriving there shortly before noon tomorrow. As the next meeting of the supreme war council will be called at 3 o'clock that afternoon, it is believed he will immediately begin participation in the work of shaping the preliminary peace treaty.

According to the present program, the council tomorrow will consider Germany's western boundary. Little difficulty is foreseen in framing this clause of the treaty, owing to the agreement for establishing the Rhine provinces as an independent "buffer state" and making the Rhine an international waterway.

The president will be met here by Marine Minister Lechies, Captain Tardieu, Colonel House and the latter's son-in-law, Gordon Auchincloss. Upon his arrival in Paris he will be greeted by President Poincare, members of the cabinet and a guard of honor. The ceremony attending his previous entry into the city will be lacking.

BEAN PRICES ARE NOW ON DECLINE

Staple Food Which Has Been So High for Some Time Is Today Tobogganing

NEW YORK, March 13.—Extra! Extra! Beans make big drop.

Our good old food staple is on the toboggan.

The humble bean promises to again appear on the poor man's table.

While most other foods have tumbled at the high price levels to which war conditions boosted them or have settled back only slightly, practically all kinds of beans are astonishingly cheaper than they were last year.

Here are some of the figures given out by the bureau of markets:

Since March of last year, wholesale prices of New York pea beans have tumbled $1.50 to $6.75; Michigan beans fell off $5.50 to $5.25; California whites dropped $6.25; White California Almas declined $5.50 to $6.50 and Colorado Pinto from $2.75 to $3.

All of which, economists say, ought to mean a big drop in beans' retail prices and a return to "beaner" prices at the quick lurch.

Internationally.

Make this our conviction: 'T am not born for one corner of the earth; my country is this world.'—Seneca.

Clemenceau Shooting in Pictures

Anarchy, the most cowardly pursuit yet known, lost again in the attempted murder of Premier Clemenceau of France. This is the way it happened on a gray murky Paris morning recently—the story in pictures—The first to reach America. The big picture shows the street where the seven shots were fired into the motor car in which the Premier was riding. The assassin stood for hours behind the middle of the sidewalk and opened fire—continuing until the car had reached (C)—driving into the back of the auto. The inserted photo are of Clemenceau, the assassin, the back of the car and the modern weapon he used. Premier Clemenceau has recovered.
