

WILSON AGAIN AT THE PARIS PEACE TABLE

With the Arrival of the President the Work of the Conference Will Be Rapidly Consummated

BY FRED S. FERGUSON
PARIS, March 14.—With President Wilson's arrival in Paris today the machinery was set in motion for rapid consummation of the preliminary peace treaty.

The scheduled meeting of the supreme war council was cancelled to permit a series of rapid fire conferences by the president, Premier Lloyd George, Clemenceau and other leaders. Practically all the peace work centered about the president.

Whether the league of nations would be incorporated in the preliminary treaty had not been definitely determined.

Indicative of the effort to speed up the peace conference, the work being handled mostly by the leaders, so as to get the maximum results with minimum discussion.

Choosing Capital
Sentiment today seemed to favor Geneva as the seat of capital of the league council.

OFFICERS ARRIVE TO PREPARE CAMP

Returned Men are Getting Camp Kearny in Condition to Receive Troops

NEW YORK, March 14.—California officers of the fourth division who arrived from France yesterday on the transport Atona today were preparing to enter for Camp Kearny to get it in condition for enlisted men of the division who are expected to begin arriving at Atlantic ports within ninety days.

The officers were inspected at Hoboken embarkment camp today by Major General F. B. Strong who said the enlisted men will be demobilized quickly after they begin to arrive at Camp Kearny.

Colonel Henry Breckenridge of San Mateo arrived on the Atona. Breckenridge saw fighting in Flanders where he was in command of the 363 infantry battalion. He then attended the general staff college at Langres and upon graduation was assigned to act with the French.

The California men are in good spirits despite the hardships they went through, said Colonel Breckenridge.

New German Map Is Reported to Be Nearly Done

Official Spokesman of French Government Says Boundaries are Fixed

PARIS, March 14.—The new map of Germany will be completed by the end of next week, according to Captain Andre Tarileux, official spokesman of the French government. He said the western as well as the eastern boundaries will then be fixed.

Tarileux expressed the belief that the league of nations will not be a part of the preliminary treaty of which there are four—their of Germany, Austria, Turkey and Bulgaria. All will be signed within a few days of each other, he said.

TO GOVERNMENT

The Convention for the League of Nations Presents Amendments

LONDON, March 14.—Delegates to the league of nations societies' convention left for London today to present to the peace conference recommendations for a number of amendments to the covenant. Each delegate will take up the recommendations with a conference of his country and will urge that the constitution be changed accordingly.

The London conference materially strengthened chances of the league's successful formation, said Arthur Kahn, one of the American delegates. The amendment suggested by the delegates will largely meet republican objections, such as removal of danger that the United States would be automatically forced into war. They expressed the belief there is an excellent chance of the peace conference accepting most of the amendments.

NATION'S PEOPLE WILL DECIDE THE FUTURE OF FLEET

The Voice of America Will Be Heard in the Proposal of Enlarging or Cutting the Shipping Power

BY L. C. MARTIN
WASHINGTON, March 14.—Collective thought of the whole American people should be applied to the future of the American merchant marine in the opinion of Senator Jones, Washington, congress committee in the sixty-sixth congress.

Farmers, business men and citizens generally have as vital interest in putting the merchant fleet on its feet permanently as an American institution as shipping men have, said Jones today.

Inland Americans who never realized how deeply their welfare is involved, should wake up to the fact. In the year just about, it is going to be mightily important to farmers and business men in the middle west, for instance, to know that their products will get to the world's markets on a basis of fair competition with the products of other countries.

To insure this, we must have an American merchant marine, the equal of any in the world. And by equal I do not mean in tonnage only. We must do whatever is necessary in this country to enable our ships to compete successfully with those of England and other nations.

Jones today suggested a conference of shipping experts, government officials, farmers and business men, to consider the shipping policy in brass tacks fashion. Jones declared unqualifiedly against repeal of the seaman's law.

RED CROSS MISSION IS MAROONED IN VIENNA

Owing to Trouble Between the Czechs and Austrians Causes Delay

LONDON, March 14.—The American Red Cross mission to Poland is marooned in Vienna owing to an altercation between the Czechs and Austrians, according to information received at London headquarters of the organization today. The information came in a letter dated February 23 from Captain Francis Kenyon of Buffalo, a member of the mission.

"The Czechs have refused us permission to cross the closed frontier," America said. "The Austrians also refuse permission for us to proceed, fearing the Czechs would confiscate their engines. A Swiss captain in charge of our train, wants to run the blockading of the example of machine guns."

STATES VIEWS ON THE LEAGUE

While Favoring the Organization He Believes There Should Be Some Amendments Made to Present Form

FORT DODGE, Ia., March 14.—Senator W. S. Kenyon, Iowa, republican, issued his first formal statement on the league of nations here today.

"While Senator Kenyon favors the league, he insists there should be amendments to the proposal constitution before it is ratified by the senate. The amendments are to be offered or losing it forever has not arisen and in Kenyon's opinion never will.

Referring to the activities of Senators Knox, Borah, Thomas, Reed and Cummins, Kenyon said: "These senators are just as patriotic as those who denounce them and far more so. They are actuated only by patriotic motives."

Peace Treaty First
"Get the peace treaty first and then discuss the league," said Kenyon. "The people have the right to demand that ambiguous clauses be made plain in such a document, which affects the whole world."

Kenyon urged that the voting power of the United States be increased in the body of the peace conference. "President Wilson should be praised for what he has done in helping formulate the league plans," added Kenyon.

BY FRANK J. TAYLOR
BERLIN, March 12.—(Delayed)—More than a hundred Spartacans, chained together in the prison court yard, were shot down by machine guns this afternoon. War Minister Noske has ordered that all Spartacan prisoners shall be executed similarly.

Government troops completed the capture of the suburb of Lichtenberg today. The railway station, where the insurgents had made their final stand, was taken by storm. The Spartacans suffered two hundred casualties in their attack.

ASSAILANT OF CLEMENCEAU NOW ON TRIAL

PARIS, March 14.—Emile Cottin, assailant of Premier Clemenceau, appeared for trial today before the third war council under the presidency of Colonel Huyot.

The charge is attempted homicide with premeditation on ambush. The death penalty was demanded by the government prosecutor, Captain Morant, the man who prosecuted and convicted Bolo Pasha.

The name of Premier Clemenceau appears on the list of witnesses. He is expected to respond—although he is not a member of the cabinet.

Under exposure by the radicals that directly charges against them were deliberate propaganda by the government to justify Noske's harshness in the eyes of the public, the government press office has issued official denial of the "rightfulness" stories given out by its tailors.

American mission so far has not been molested. Machine gun guards were removed from the hotel Adlon when the battle shifted further northward. The German commandant, however, has asked that Americans in uniform refrain from entering the fighting zones because of the danger from irresponsible snipers.

WOMEN WANT SHARE IN THE WORLD PLANS

LONDON, March 14.—A share for women in securing the world's future will be urged at the peace conference. Their proposed participation would include co-operation in drawing up the laws of the league of nations and in aiding the men to supervise manufacture of war materials.

"I am urging the Rumanian delegates to present an amendment to the league covenant providing that women shall share in supervision of the manufacture of all military materials, Madame Helena Vasarceu, Rumanian delegate to the league of nations societies convention here, said.

A Women's Police Force
"This would result in establishment of what would practically amount to a women's police force, to see that creation of armaments does not exceed the maximum. Women can be depended upon to see that this is carried out effectively because it was the women who suffered the most from the war. They were the most hit through the loss of their fathers, sons and brothers."

"It is proposed to urge the peace conference to give women a freer hand in codifying the laws of the league of nations. The war has advanced women's position in the world. That is shown by my presence here. Never before has a woman actively participated in pending questions."

Would Prevent War
"I hope to see soon the establishment of a world-wide women's organization aiming to prevent war. I am a great admirer of President Wilson's plan to have a woman from each of the American delegates, that America is behind him. It is most important."

Madame Vasarceu was lady in waiting to the late Queen Sylvia who sought to marry her to the present king of Rumania. She was the first woman in Rumania openly to espouse the allied cause.

Previous to Rumania's entrance into the war she was imprisoned for three days by the Austrians.

LABOR PROBLEM REMAINS VITAL

Secretary Wilson Declares that Country Must Not Let Up on the Question

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Cities welfare, labor and business interests were urged today by Secretary of Labor Wilson to take up the problem of placing the unemployed. Reduction of the federal employment service 80 percent makes this imperative to prevent serious trouble he stated.

With its reduced force, the first attempt of the service will be to provide work for returning soldiers. Representatives in the demobilization camps will be maintained, Wilson said. Only 50 out of 750 officers of the service in the principal industrial centers will be kept open after March 22.

A Large System
"It is imperative," Wilson said, "that individuals and organizations continue the work. Fortunately, the employment service has an organization of 1,775 community boards and has secured cooperation of the council of national defense, the state and municipal employment agencies, the five great employment services engaged in the work and many other church and welfare organizations."

Secretary Wilson also made public the president's radiogram which stated his personal war fund was exhausted and that he could not save the employment service.

Regret nothing so much as the discontinuance of the work of the funding service, but the fact is that including pledges made, my fund is practically exhausted. What remains would not suffice to maintain the bureau and to my great grief I see no escape from disbandment. I hope that it will be possible to keep a skeleton organization."

KEEPS IRELAND IN ORDER WITH ARMED FORCE

Leader Says the Military Strength of England in His Country is Over Two Hundred Thousand Men

GREAT BRITAIN READY FOR ANY REVOLUTION

English Bayonets are Holding Down the Irish People to Keep Them in Submission to the Crown

By RALPH F. COUCH
NEW YORK, March 14.—England is holding Ireland with 200,000 bayonets, Sinn Fein officials charge. Lord Mayor O'Neill of Dublin, an Irish nationalist, estimates the "army of occupation" at 100,000. The exact number of soldiers in Ireland is, of course, a military secret. But to the visitor in Dublin, the mass of uniformed constabulary and British soldiers are posted on the balconies of all public buildings. They march through the streets in squads and companies. All are fully armed and most wear shrapnel helmets.

England Is Prepared
"England is ready to put down a revolution here," the Rev. Michael O'Flanagan, vice president of the Sinn Fein national council told me just before I left Dublin two weeks ago. In addition to the soldiers, there is the royal Irish constabulary, which is scattered through the rural districts and also polices all cities except Dublin. This force numbers 11,000. The Dublin police force totals 2,000. Assuming there are only 100,000 English soldiers in Ireland—and most of the estimates place the number at 200,000—the island, with a population of only four million, has one soldier or constable for every thirty-five persons. "Compare this with your New York which has a population of six million and but little more than 10,000 policemen. That is one policeman for every 600 persons in the United States. In the world's history, there has never been a more completely independent country during his life time. (He appeared to be about 40.)

"But we will give Mother England a little of a lot of trouble," he said with a grin. "Ireland is sure to be independent in the end."

Jack O'Dowd, who strove the jaunting cart on which I rode from the wharf to the hotel, shook his fist at the banner of a company of armed "tin hatted" English soldiers guarding the water front.

"When you get home, tell the American people how England is holding Ireland with bayonets," he said. "We're hoping America will help us get free of military rule."

Frequent Violations
Violations of military regulations are frequent, however. Almost daily the newspapers tell of court martials at Dublin Castle, headquarters of the British army there. Windows of magazine stores and bookshops are filled with pamphlets whose headlines shout defiance to the British military rule.

Sinn Fein propaganda displayed and sold everywhere, together with pictures of Edward De Valera, the fugitive Sinn Fein leader, and his lieutenants. Men are arrested, fined and sometimes imprisoned for singing Sinn Fein songs," said Secretary Sheehan of the Sinn Fein national council.

Despite this show of armed preparedness by England the Irish are going quietly about organization of the so-called Irish republic.

"Invisible government" is the term used to describe the government of the Irish national assembly because it is regarded as existing alongside of the British government," said Harry Boland, honorary secretary of the Sinn Fein national council. But Sinn Feiners refer to the British administration as the "do facto Government."

"The Invisible Government," according to Boland, is well enough organized to administer all public affairs, if the occasion arises.

"It works through 1,900 Sinn Fein branch clubs throughout the country," he explained. "Through these clubs we are teaching Gaelic, official language of the Irish national assembly. The assembly also is organizing executive departments, commands to all national governments, such as commerce, agriculture and labor."

Another present activity of the Sinn Fein is preparation of campaign plans to elect majorities in the Irish county council elections next June.

BERNSTORFF IS NOT DELEGATE

Definitely Learned that Famous Count Will Not Be One of Peace Party

BERLIN, March 12.—(delayed)—Count Bernstorff will be excluded from the German peace delegation, it was definitely learned today.

While the personnel of the delegation has not been definitely determined, it is expected that Count Brockdorff-Rantzau will be chairman and that among the members will be Chancellor Scheidemann and Georgo Goethel. The latter was one of the compilers of the 1917 resolution against annexations or indemnifications.

The Germans' main argument regarding indemnities, it was said, will be that if food and raw materials are permitted to enter Germany she will have a fair chance of paying them, otherwise her imposed obligation cannot be met.

Coffey, Jones is none the worse for his sickness except for his physical condition being somewhat weakened.

DENIES BRITISH WILL ATTEMPT TO TAKE TRADE

Chairman of Shipping Board Says the Reports of Bitter Rivalry are Absolutely and Entirely False

WASHINGTON, March 14.—Denial of prospective bitter rivalry between Britain and America for sea and trade supremacy was made by Chairman Edward N. Hurley of the shipping board and assistant secretary of the treasury Bowe before the Pan-American trade conference here late yesterday.

Bowe, who is in charge of the customs division of the treasury, emphasized the necessity of getting the international trade discussion on a fact basis.

"There is no ocean freight rate war between the United States and Great Britain," Hurley asserted. "We falsely hear that British freight rates are so far below ours that Britain is making abnormal inroads on our shipping. The truth is that the United States shipping board is reducing American rates just as rapidly as is logically possible."

"Again, we are falsely told that Great Britain is demobilizing or rather re-adapting her industries from war manufacture, much swifter than is America. This is not true. She went through more than four years of war and was much more thoroughly submerged in war work."

Original Number of Sixty-One Dwindles Down to Thirty-two Now on Trial

WICHITA, Kan., March 14.—Trial of thirty-two L. W. W. members here today awaited decision by federal Judge Pollock on a motion by George P. Vandevyer, defendant's counsel, seeking to quash the indictments.

Vandevyer, attacking the true bills which charged the men with obstructing the government's war program, asserted no place of conspiracy was named and that L. W. W. papers had been confiscated by the government.

It was learned today that sixty-one men were originally arrested. Of these several were released for lack of evidence, one died and another was judged insane.

CAN NOT DECIDE ON A CHICAGO MANAGER

The Republicans are Still Undecided on the Man to Put in Mid-West Position

CHICAGO, March 14.—Selection of a manager for the Chicago headquarters of the republican national committee seemed likely today to be postponed for several days.

Conferences all day yesterday and long into last night between Chairman Will Hays and republican leaders failed to bring to a decision the man to take the mid-country helm in the coming presidential campaign.

Hays was to continue his conference here today leaving toward evening for Washington.

Governing bodies," said Boland. "If we win the June elections, we shall have a voice in the local tax collection."

"We are also organizing a system of law courts which is nearly completed. Soon all Sinn Feiners will be expected to refer all civil suits to these courts."

All activities of the Sinn Fein Branches in the United States are directed from headquarters of the Sinn Fein national council at 6 Barclay street. There the Sinn Fein occupies the entire building. Its work is conducted as openly as that of any national party in the United States. Police have raided the building on many occasions and carried away documents but the council continues to function.

CREEL ISSUES STATEMENT ON PUBLIC WORKS

Chairman of Committee on Information Tells the Press What Is Being Accomplished By His Department

BY ROBERT J. BENDER WASHINGTON, March 14—George Creel, chairman of the committee on public information and during his term a storm center involving congress and the press, has returned to Washington to complete a report on his work and turn over moneys to the treasury department, preliminary to retirement.

In an interview today which covered almost everything from Washington to Russia in rapid fire diction, Creel disclosed the following interesting facts: "As soon as I complete my report to the president I will return to private life. I believe this country is big enough to house an independent writer who wishes to help delouse public life."

Remaining Divisions to Quit "The two remaining divisions of the committee on public information—the service bureau and the official bulletin will quit April 1.

The subscription list of the bulletin has netted $44,294.30 (prospective publishers please note). "All the foreign offices of the committee on public information have been wiped out save those in New York, Paris and London, which are being used for settling agencies for the vast detail that accumulated during America's fight for world opinion."

"I have not been on the government payroll since March 1, and my only work now is in relation to the formal settlement of accounts."

Firm for Wilson "Will Wilson win? Of course he will win. They might as well try to stop a tidal wave as to stem the world's demand for permanent peace and reduced armaments."

"The correspondents who were most fearful of my 'secret confessions' of cables in France eventually quarrelled with me for my steadfast refusal to act as their wet-nurse."

Regarding finances, Creel said: "Out of $1,250,000 assigned to the committee for domestic work, $300,000 remains on hand. Some $400,000 representing profit from motion pictures and wax exhibitions has been paid into the treasury. About $250,000 remains on hand. Some $400,000 when credits are received from furniture and fixtures of all kinds, it will be shown that the committee's budget information has been virtually self-sustaining."

PRESIDENT IS AGAIN ON THE FRENCH SOIL

The Arrival of the Executive of the United States Is Heralded By the Military Bands and Escort

BY LOWELL MELLETT BREST, March 13—(delayed)—President Wilson left for Paris at 11:10 o'clock tonight and was scheduled to arrive here tomorrow morning. It was apparent to everyone here that he had been greatly rested by the voyage.

The nearest approach to a formal reception took place about the harbor shortly before 8 o'clock. Marine Minutemen, Leguion and Ambassador and Madison James stood aboard the steamer to welcome the president. Leguion presented Mrs. Wilson with a bunch of roses.

Greeted by Bands Colonel Hook and American army officers waited on the dock where the presidential party landed at 9:45. As the president stepped ashore bands played "The Star Spangled Banner" and the "Marseillaise." Doughboys and military policemen surged forward and shouted greetings as the president and Mrs. Wilson walked through their lines. Wilson's motor car, an open one, finally becoming a chuckle as he reached a big Red Cross hut where a dance was in full swing. His entrance was a surprise to the dancers.

On Special Train "When the party boarded the special train the eighth infantry band serenaded them. The President and Mrs. Wilson were waved to the crowds through the windows.

Chinese labor troops appeared, carrying a Y. M. C. A. banner printed in Chinese and English. The president came out on the platform and called "Good-bye."

Red Cross girls, carrying baskets of doughnuts went among the guards. The president and Mrs. Wilson and the president's aide, amid cheers of the girls.

BOLSHEVIKI CONSENT OF AN EAR

The Official Confirmation Territory the Size of France Is Taken

HELSINKI, March 13—(delayed)—The Bolsheviks expect to announce today that they have agreed to a treaty with the Allies. A great deal of territory occupied by the Red army has been reached Third army headquarters. And now the newspapers have taken up a campaign against the sale of Iron Crosses to American troops for souvenirs.

Despite the fact that their own townspeople are encouraging the traffic by procuring and selling the decorations at high prices to American troops, the objects of the American army to put a stop to the sales. When the American troops first entered Coblenz and Trier, they found the windows of jewelry shops full of the prized Iron Crosses. The supply was quickly exhausted, at the existing prices of five and seven marks for the crosses of first and second class respectively. The dealers then resorted to a new device and bought fresh stocks. But the prices were jumped to thirteen and twenty marks, and still the "doughboys" bought them by the handful.

Then the German soldiers began to come home—nearly every one wearing an Iron Cross. They found that nearly every American soldier in Coblenz had a half dozen or more, hence the bitterness.

The "Kölnische Zeitung" published a long editorial on the subject, quoting a letter written by an iron cross manufacturer in reply to an order from a dealer. The manufacturer refused the order and severely rebuked the retailer for the "diagrammatical traffic."

"It appears to us," declares the newspaper, "to be an absolutely unworthy practice for German concerns to be selling iron crosses, which our troops earned in the field by shedding their blood. The German people is proud of its emblems of honor won by its soldiers, but if this emblem is to become a commercial product, indiscriminately thrown upon the market, the things that it stands for are entirely lost sight of."

So far the protests have had no effect, and plenty of iron crosses are still changing hands at thirteen and twenty marks.

THE WAY IT WORKS

Today, in the vicinity of Ninth, Third and Blue Lakes Boulevard, there were three autos stalled in the mud at the same time.

About ten days ago, there were nine cars stuck in the mud and deserted between Twin Falls and Piler, during the course of a single day.

Merchants of Twin Falls are discussing the advisability of discontinuing deliveries of goods while the roads are in their present practically impassable condition.

For fourteen years this condition has prevailed, year after year over the greater part of Twin Falls county. For years past, from fifty thousand to eighty-five thousand dollars per year has been expended by the Board of County Commissioners in work on the roads and at the end of each year the roads are just as bad as they were before the work was done.

But they will be real roads. Merchants of Twin Falls are discussing the advisability of discontinuing deliveries of goods while the roads are in their present practically impassable condition.

WHAT IT MEANS

A great deal of uncertainty as to whether or not the proposed draft of the constitution for the League of Nations invades the American policy known as the Monroe Doctrine would be cleared up if there were a better general understanding of just what the Monroe Doctrine consists, and a quotation from the message of President James Monroe of December, 1823, in which this principle is enunciated cannot but be of value in the present situation.

Here are the essentials of the Monroe Doctrine, as stated by its author: "It is not only when our rights are invaded, or seriously menaced, that we resent injuries, or make preparations for our defense. With the movements in this hemisphere, we are, of necessity, more immediately connected, and by causes which must be obvious to all enlightened and impartial observers. The political system of the allied powers is essentially different in this respect from that of America. This difference proceeds from that which exists in their respective governments; and to the defense of our own, which has been achieved by the loss of so much blood and treasure, and matured by the wisdom of their most enlightened citizens, and under which we have enjoyed unexampled felicity, this whole nation is devoted.

"We owe it, therefore, in candor, and to the amicable relations existing between the United States and those European powers, to declare that which we would consider any attempt on their part to extend their system to any portion of this hemisphere as dangerous to our peace and safety.

"With the existing colonies and dependencies of any European power, we have no interference, and shall not interfere. But with the governments who have declared their independence and maintained it, and whose independence we have, on great consideration, and on just principles, acknowledged, we could not view any interposition for the purpose of opposing them, or controlling in any other manner their destiny by

INFAMOUS AMERICANS

BERLIN, Feb. 6 (By Mail).—A few persons claiming to be Americans have remained in Berlin during the entire war. When the first Americans arrived after the armistice, mostly newspaper men and prisoner commissioners, these claiming to be Americans flocked around.

Their stories usually begin with narration of how their hearts beat for America, how they long to return, and end with offers to do anything they can for you, and finally a request to take mail to America, or send a telegram.

The Anglo-American propagandists continue to publish two anti-American and anti-British papers in Berlin, which are dirtier and meaner than ever in their efforts. English-American dances are held and advertised in newspapers, to indicate that a foreign colony exists.

Trinidad Lizard Farm. On the island of Trinidad there is today a veritable lizard farm which has all the equipment for the successful breeding of these most numerous members of the reptile family which are now known to be indispensable to the sugar planters. In addition to this enterprise a wider search is being made for lizards to help increase the world's food output.

Mongrel's Compliment.

A pretty compliment was that Philip IV of Spain, himself a painter, tendered to a greater artist, Velasquez. When Velasquez had finished his famous picture "Las Meninas," which includes not only Philip and his queen, but the artist himself, brush in hand, he asked of the king, "Is anything wanting?" "One thing only," answered Philip; and taking the palette from Velasquez's hands, he painted on the breast of the artist's figure in the picture the Cross of the Order of Santiago, the most distinguished in Spain.

Animal's Strong Instinct.

Some animals are remarkable, indeed, for the wonderful development of love and devotion they possess and show toward men. They are so acute to the sense of perceive the feelings of their master in advance of his expressions. Masters of dumb animals have often been heard to declare that their animals were quicker to detect in them a spirit of anger than were their fellow men.

Furs will give way to feathers in the gowns that blossom with the Easter flowers

The Ostrich Comes Back

By Margaret Rohe

Indiana wore a sweet pink frock. All feathers trimmed as new. And only good to Perival. I knew 't would tickle you."

NEW YORK, March 14.—A hint to the wise that you'd often hear was "Feather your nest," but it's changed this year to "Feather your frock." If you wish to be as chic as they make "em"—the demerit. For if I should give you a tip, you see on newest of trimming for gowns 't would be an ostrich tip—maybe three or four of different colors; they're wearing more at the bodice side, where in days of yore a cluster of flowers or fruit they wore. It really makes quite a chic bouquet, these ostrich tips in their colors gay. At the price they cost though, you mustn't frown; remember that feathers can't be marked "down."

Why really these days when a dame goes by and you call her a bird it is not a lie. Fine feathers all make fine birds, they say, so she's surely a bird in her feathers gay. Though the actual bird that she'd be, I fear, is to judge by the feathers, an ostrich queer. Each half curled flue in a fringe doth fall (not Spanish flue). They are feathers all on the charmingest gowns for evening wear. They cluster so softly round the shoulders bare and border the draperies of skirts to hips where they smartly perch as a bunch of tips.

double chins and all of our facial sins, the collar are now of a feather fluff, that clings round the face in a manner ruff. One on a blonde with its flues allover with each soft breath or each word she'd utter, was palest of pink, like a blushing rose, framing her face to her tilted nose. A feathery mass of a pink delight atop of the cap, of a pink as light of chiffon all lined with a soft old blue and bordered with fringe of the feathers too.

On some French frocks during the plumage of cocks they are also wearing, instead of the ostrich; so take your pick. It's a cocky style and one might say "chick."

But what do you think! Of all the things! The lovely ladies are sporting wings. Ah, surely this spring of heavenly style is enough to make all the angels smile. In a smart shop window I saw, did you, this new winged garment exposed to view. 'Tis an evening gown of a sumptuous shade, the loveliest yellow that ever was made. It's fabric the softest of silk doth seem, shot through and through with a sunbeam's gleam. The skirt and the bodice with graceful draps, gracefully cling to a perfect shape and bunches of feathers in yellow hue, perch on the bodice, the sash end too. And round in the back, like a bustle indeed of angelic art. Although to be proper you always try, one must in this gown feel a little "fly."

Dear Elizabeth: I feel quite honored to hear that you have framed my photograph for your writing desk in your cozy little library that I remember so well. I am glad you like the portrait, Elizabeth. Mother liked it too.

I presume there is a very elusive boundary line between the place where the science of photography closes and the art of the photographer begins, and I have a notion that it is this very blending of the real and the ideal in a portrait that has something to do with the decided prestige of The Bisbee Studio. And now, Elizabeth, because you have been my friend since childhood, I think you should be the first, after Mother, to hear a bit of happy news.

And then came the War. Oh, I know we were only two of hundreds of thousands whose plans suddenly crumbled, but how fortunate we were compared with so many others. A FATEFUL FALL

By EVELYN CUSHMAN.

(Copyright, 1919, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Alice had picked her way around, and through mud and water, with rain falling up and down and from every side as it can do nowhere outside of New England.

"This must be the last of the hundred and twenty-six different kinds of weather Mark Twain says we have here in twenty-four hours." Alice said aloud, as she took the short cut to her gate.

As she turned aside her eyes met those of the young man in the machine, who was trying to start the stalled engine.

"I'll follow you," Alice said, as the stranger laid her tenderly on the couch. "But I'm sure I'm not just—just a divorcee."

"I'm Doctor Lansing," the young man turned to the mother. "Your daughter fell back of my machine. I don't know yet whether it hit her or not."

"No, you didn't touch me," Alice breathed. "When the machine backed I jumped and lost my footing."

"I think she's not hurt, but I shall feel better if you have your physician look her over."

"We haven't any regular physician," replied the older woman. "We've lived here but a few months."

"I'm all right," Alice started to rise. "Better keep quiet for a time." He put a detaining hand upon her as he turned again to her mother.

"What do you think?" Alice called her mother. "The matter?"

"My foot won't go," she laughed as she hobbled to a chair, and grasped the unreliable member in both hands.

"I don't think it's anything much, doctor," Alice objected, although she winced as he touched a sensitive spot.
