KEYNON THINKS PEOPLE HAVE A RIGHT TO VIEWS

Senator Asks for the Opinion of the State of Iowa and Declares Constituents Want Change in League

BY L. C. MARTIN WASHINGTON, March 15.—Senator Keynon's statement on the league of nations was received here today with undisguised satisfaction by those fighting the proposed constitution.

Keynon's statement declaring for amendment of the constitution before it is submitted to the senate for ratification was made after he spent nearly a week in his home state Iowa, talking to his constituents.

State Sentiment The fact that he now takes the same stand as the "senate 37" who signed the round robin indicates, league opponents said, that the sentiment in Iowa at least is against the league in its present form.

"People have a right to demand," said Keynon, "that ambiguous clauses be made plain in such a document which affects the whole world."

Keynon's people are demanding that the league pact's language be cleared up.

World Increase Vote His denouncing the voting power of the United States in the league pact has caused a noticeable increase in the number of people who are closely following the progress of the league.

Both Sides to Speak Both proponents and opponents of the league will invade the midwest and west in the coming two weeks.

GREAT CHANGE OF VICTORY IS SEEN IN PARIS

Where a Year Ago the City Was Buried in Silence of Fear, Today Streets are Crowded With People

By FRED S. FERGUSON
PARIS, March 15.—One year ago today the world covered in anticipation of the launching of Germany's master offensive of the war. On March 21, the blow was struck.

Today the final work of the peace settlement was well under way, the terms of which will bring Germany militarily to her knees.

No greater picture of the triumph of right over might could be presented than the contrast of the president of the world's greatest democracy riding through the streets of Paris today on his way to the peace deliberations and these same streets a year ago.

Crowds Through Streets
A brilliant moon will bathe the boulevards and the beautiful Champs Elysees with silvery light tonight. A year ago, the same brilliance would have meant terror and destruction as the German airplanes, were above. Streets shrieked, the streets became deserted and the city seemed scarcely to breathe. Tonight, laughing crowds will throng the streets. Hundreds of children played in the Champs Elysees this afternoon beneath the wheels of long lines of German guns, continuing until the new German crops are available in August. In return, the Germans will surrender their merchant fleet, the rental of which will be applied on payments for the food.

Assailant of Premier Clemenceau Is Given Death Sentence After Short Trial
—PARIS, March 15.—Emile Cottin, under sentence of death for shooting Premier Clemenceau, probably will be executed within fifteen days, it was announced today.

Waiting Final Word
Numerous questions are awaiting his final word. For instance, the matter of disposition of the German fleet will be presented to him for his opinion. With France and Italy desiring a portion of these vessels, it is apparent that a disagreement will have developed between naval and civilian representatives on other delegations. The naval men in what might be regarded as a curious manner, from the standpoint of present agreement, favor sinking the ships. One of their arguments is that such a course will be in alignment with the disarmament move. The civilians oppose sinking the ships on the grounds of economic loss.

Excepting such side issues, the stage has been set for speeding the work of bringing about peace. If all moves on schedule, the treaty may be ready and the Germans summoned by the anniversary of the very day when they began their last desperate attempt to conquer the world.

REPORT STATES GERMANY SIGNS

Economic Conditions Given the Delegates are Reported as Being Accepted

PARIS, March 15.—L'Intransigent said today it understands the economic negotiations at Brussels have been concluded and that the Germans signed the allied economic demands. Dispatches received here yesterday said the allied economic council had presented its program, permitting the Germans to make the interrogations for clarification of its provisions but refusing to discuss them with the enemy representatives. The allied program provides for immediate food shipments into Germany, continuing until the new German crops are available in August. In return, the Germans will surrender their merchant fleet, the rental of which will be applied on payments for the food.

WHEAT DEALERS DELAY ACTIONS

Grain Pit is Vacant and Those Handling Cereals are Content to Leave It So

CHICAGO, March 15.—Dealers here in grain futures are content to leave the wheat pit vacant a while longer, they said today.

They would like to see wheat trading resumed but are content to await more definite knowledge of the coming crop. Likewise they would rather see the other grains swung into more definite course. Under the wheat price bill it was made mandatory for the president at the first reasonable opportunity to consider means of restoring normal methods of handling wheat. Dealers here believe it will be mid summer before he acts.

A settled hog price would do much to steady the grain market, it is held. Rumors here that a maximum hog price is being considered had a bearish effect. Removal of the minimum price on hogs the first of March shot quotations up. With this question out of the way men on the Chicago board of trade would jam their way into the wheat pit, it was said.

WHERE ARE WE HEADING?

There is scarcely a vacant house in Twin Falls today, and not a single office room of any kind to be had for love or money. This may seem like a sweeping statement but it is at least ninety-five per cent correct, which is a high average of correctness as applied to assertions generally.

The fact of the matter is, Twin Falls for the past two or three months has been experiencing an era of growth and prosperity hardly surpassed in any previous period of her history.

There is no indication tending to show that this is a mere sporadic period of temporary gain, rather it is to be accepted as the forerunner of an era of progress which may continue, indefinitely. New men are coming in and those already here, always alive to opportunity, are extending themselves to take full advantage of conditions.

For a good many years now Twin Falls has been between hand and gown. She has been neither a country town or a small city. This condition bids fair to correct itself, to the advantage of the entire countryside.

These things should not be lost sight of. They are significant in a way which is gratifying to everybody in every walk of life. They are the things upon which should be focused the gaze of public opinion as a whole. They mean advantages which are real and tangible, they bring the things which in themselves make for fuller and better civic development.

WESTERN CONSUMERS' WEEK

Wholly desirable at any season, observance this year of the Western Consumers' Week in its relation to real justness problems, is a matter of real importance and to be overlooked or neglected. The whole theory of the Western Consumers' Week, in the interests of which Mrs. Robert W. Spangler of Salt Lake, who with members of the Twentieth Century club of Twin Falls, first proposed its observance some ten years ago, is here this week and is perhaps summed up in the following extract from the proclamation issued by Governor Emmet D. Boyle of Nevada in 1916:

March Winds.

erency in the order suggested to—
First—The products of the home town.
Second—The products of the state.
Third—The products of the western states.

It is to be noted that perhaps the most profitable fields for the consumption of local products are those nearest at hand, and that, generally speaking, they have been the fields from which relatively small demand for these products has come.

Any movement for the correction of this situation is to be fostered and supported.

It is self-evident that the prosperity of its producing industries is reflected directly in the prosperity of any region; that as their output increases, these industries are enabled to consume so much more raw material and employ so much more labor, and both of these objects are of prime necessity in the solution of the readjustment problems and the reinstatement of labor temporarily diverted into other channels during the war crisis.

SALMON TRACT SETTLERS DESIRE EARLY HEARING

Waive Right of Answer to Interveners and Protest Against Delay

Trial in the United States district court at Boise on March 24 of the case of A. E. Caldwell and others against the Salmon River Land & Water company and others will not be postponed on account of the plaintiffs in filing an answer to a petition in intervention filed for Robert Rayl and others by Turner K. Hackman. On the contrary, according to the statement this morning of Judge James B. Bothwell, attorney for the Salmon River Settlers association representing the plaintiffs in this case, the plaintiffs have filed a waiver of the right to make such an answer and are protesting against any possible postponement of the trial which would result if the defendants were to take 20 days time allowed by the court for filing of their answer in this matter.

The plaintiffs take the position, Judge Bothwell stated, that the filing of an answer accepting the petition in intervention is unnecessary for the reason that all of the questions raised in the petition have been raised previously in the original bill of complaint in the case and are on issue already. The plaintiffs are extremely anxious that the case shall be heard at as early date as possible, considering that the final adjudication of the case will stand will settle all of the questions of dispute between the settlers, the constructing and operating companies and the bondholders.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Medical authorities state that nearly all instances of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, flatulence, bloating, nausea, etc. are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and, as a result, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows. Artificial digestants are not needed to give relief and many of our best physicians advise all digestive aids and instead of giving relief they do but harm. The stomach is a pump and takes a teaspoonful of quartar grains of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, neutralizes the acid, makes the food easier to digest and the stomach is relieved. Form-over liquid or milk is harmless to the stomach. (Inoperative) or take and is the most efficient form of treatment for those who are unable to enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

BOARD ENDORSES ORGANIZATION OF HANSEN VILLAGE

Commissioners Approve Petition and Name as Trustees Persons Designated by Improvement League

The town of Hansen, established in 1908 when the railroad was built across the Twin Falls project, was organized as an incorporated village Friday when the county commissioners approved a petition generally signed by residents of the village asking for such organization, and appointed as the members of the first board of Hansen village trustees the persons nominated by the Hansen improvement league as follows: J. B. Provost, J. W. Kirkpatrick, F. C. Kopp, J. E. Soder, S. McCoy. The boundaries of the village as organized include an area exactly one-half mile square.

Organization of the village is said to be a preliminary step toward launching of an extensive program for the improvement of the village.

Muddy Roads Make Booster Trip Hard

Party Plugging for Bond Issue Spends Much Time on Way to Kimberly

Two hours were spent on the road Friday by a party of Twin Falls boosters for the $1,250,000 good roads bond issue in negotiating an automobile loan and returning over six miles of almost impassable muddy roads between Twin Falls and Kimberly. The party left here at 9:30 o'clock in the morning and returned at about 12:30 o'clock in the afternoon, spending an hour in Kimberly and the balance of the time on the road.

No opposition to the roads bond issue was disclosed in Kimberly.

LEADER TRIES TO UNITE THE MANY FACTIONS

The One Man in Ireland Who Has the Confidence of All Groups is Attempting to Join Their Forces

BY RALPH COUCH NEW YORK, March 15.—Forecasting possible bloody revolution, the one public official in Dublin who has the confidence of all factions is trying to unite the various Irish political elements in some form of colonial home-rule.

That man is Laurence O'Neill, lord-mayor of Dublin. He was recently inaugurated for his third term. This is unusual, as custom long ago decreed that the lord-mayor could serve but one term.

Although I went to the mansion house to interview O'Neill just before leaving Dublin a fortnight ago, I soon found that I was being interviewed instead.

Questions America's Position "The American nation must be asked immediately," "That is the only interpretation I can put on the failure of President Wilson to acknowledge the invitation to come to Ireland which was extended to him on behalf of the government."

When asked to give his view of conditions in Ireland he said: "The situation here is serious. The feelings of the people are stirred by the continual presence here of thousands of soldiers. Nobody knows what will happen and everybody fears the worst. The military rule is severe. Men are arrested and imprisoned often, without trial. Nearly one hundred are in this English prison. (Reports have since been received in this country that those prisoners are being released).

"America, we are hoping, will do her influence to help us better our condition. But if the Americans have lost their sympathy for us I don't know what will happen."

Free-Building In appearance O'Neill is not at all what imagination pictures the wearer of the gold chain of a lord-mayor's offices. He is small and thick set, not big and pompous. He speaks with a slight musical brogue in his eyes.

"My position has been difficult because I had to please so many elements," he explained. "My job has been one of negotiating all the various waters, any group can meet here no matter what their political opinions."

"It seems as though everybody comes here at least once a day to protest against something. Perhaps some day the Irish won't have to protest continually, meanwhile we are waiting on our feet. Nobody knows when it will blow off."

A tax payers' strike is one form of direct action now being considered by the Sinn Fein national committee meeting revolutionary tactics in Ireland. This is one of several measures short of open rebellion which the Sinn Fein group will call the world's attention to what they call "Britain's army of 200,000 bayonets occupying Ireland."

Leaders say the strike will be adopted as a national Sinn Fein policy if the party is successful in winning majorities on the county councils at the local elections in June.
