

GERMAN OFFICER HIDES IN JUNGLE THROUGH WAR

At Beginning of Trouble, This Brave Man Took to the Brush and Failed to Return to Native Land to His Duty

(By Associated Press)
SYDNEY, Australia.—Konrad Detzler, a German army engineer who had been hiding in the New Guinea jungles for years or since the beginning of the war, has come back to civilization and now is in an internment camp in Australia. Detzler's story is on a par with other romantic incidents of the war as it affected the South Sea.

Detzler holds a captain's commission. When the war began he was surveying the boundary line between the then Kaiser Wilhelmland, or German New Guinea, and Papua, or British New Guinea. He decamped into the bush. This was a risky act, for the hushman prefer human flesh above all other kinds. When an Australian force occupied Kaiser Wilhelmland Detzler was overlooked.

Four Years in Bushes

For more than four years Detzler lived in the bush near Mimsis. He had a shotgun but it went not long before he ran out of cartridges. Thereafter he lived on yams, taro and kau (a variety of sweet potato) in common with the natives, and upon birds and animals which he caught by means of snares.

Several times the Australians searched for him but Detzler managed to elude them. He might have stayed indefinitely in the jungle, but missionaries told the Papuans of the existence and they in turn told him. Thereupon he surrendered to the nearest Australian officer. While living in the jungles throughout the war at Mimsis, Detzler wore only a lava lava (native kilt). The result is that he is almost as brown as a Papuan. He now wears a German uniform.

CZECHS SUFFER UNTOLD MISERY AND PRIVATION

During Early Days of Small Republic, Want and Despair Stared It in the Face, Threatening Utter Destruction

(By Associated Press)
PARIS.—Utter misery, starvation and despair prevailed in the new republic of Czechoslovakia before the allied governments began to ship food supplies to that country in the latter part of February.

It is not known here whether this situation has been relieved to any large extent but large shipments of flour, milk and other supplies have since been forwarded to Prague and additional foodstuffs were in Trieste awaiting transportation to the Czechoslovakia.

Million Children Suffer

An appeal by Dr. Alton G. Masaryk, daughter of the Czechoslovak Red Cross, and head of the Czechoslovak Red Cross, on February 20, pictures the conditions in her country as a terrible one. American, British and French authorities are endeavoring to respond. It is stated that, unless help arrived quickly, a million children under six years of age were doomed to die; that 2,000,000 children up to 14 years were weak from underfeeding and that the mortality among the old and feeble was appalling.

Separated from the allied territories on three sides by Germany and Austria, the Czechoslovak republic was, even before its birth, ruthlessly and systematically denuded by the Austrians of all foodstuffs and supplies. And when hostilities were suspended, there was in Czechoslovakia no corn, meat, clothing or medicines. The weekly ration of a pound of flour to each person in Prague, the capital, ceased on February 20. Two-thirds of the cattle and pigs of the country already had been slaughtered and the lack of fat is extreme. The supply of milk was only one-thirtieth of normal. More than 50 per cent of the babies of Prague were feeble, anemic or consumptive. More than half the patients in the children's hospital died of consumption.

Many Babies Die

In the mining districts the position as reported here, is still worse. At Kladsno, 116 of the 165 babies born in 1918 died of consumption. Births throughout the country have decreased one-half and deaths have increased 50 per cent.

Almshouses, maternity hospitals and other charitable institutions can no longer feed their inmates. Ninety per cent of the infants under one year in Pilsen, the formerly flourishing city of breweries and arsenal workers died last year from lack of nutrition. The prices of household commodities have risen 700 to 800 per cent while wages have increased 200 to 300 per cent. Clothing costs ten times more than formerly and sewing cotton is 100 times dearer than before the war.

These reports show that Professor Thomas G. Masaryk, the first president of the new Czechoslovak republic, who went from New York last winter to assume his duties, faces a herculean task. Writing to Lady Murray on February 19, the president's daughter, the writer said: "I hoped you would come. Do come and help us."

Lady Paget has obtained from the government 10 trucks which the American Red Cross has filled with medical supplies for the Czechoslovakians, and plans to take to Bohemia 20 tons of rice. Recent information, however, states that freight traffic to Bohemia is disorganized and the fear is expressed that the Austrian threat, "If we are to lose Bohemia, we shall lose her as a copper," may become a terrible reality.

Visits United States

Professor Masaryk was in the United States in October last when he was elected president of the new republic of Czechoslovakia. On receiving the notice of his election he went to Prague and was inaugurated president there in December. In a later part of March it was reported that he had resigned, but this was officially denied by the Czechoslovak Mission in Washington.

SAVE LABOR BY USING INDELIBLE

Registrar Estimates Miles of Movements in Writing With Pen and Ink

LOS ANGELES.—By the substitution of indelible pencils for pen and ink, which a bill pending before the legislature now provides, election officials of this county would save 200 miles of arm movement, according to David H. Lyons, registrar of voters, who has just returned from Sacramento.

Mr. Lyons estimates that every tally clerk at precinct voting headquarters moves his arm two feet in tallying a vote with pen and ink and approximately one foot to blot his tally. There are about 350,000 votes cast in the county. If the tally clerk's arms travel in tallying these votes with pen, ink and blotter it is more than 199 miles. Earlier returns were where they would result from the substitution, the county official says.

SWEDES PROPOSE EIGHT-HOUR DAY

All Labor Is to Come Under Bill Introduced in Parliament to Aid Industrial Situation

(By Associated Press)
STOCKHOLM.—An eight hour bill for all classes of Swedish labor is now ready to be introduced into parliament. Special legislation will be necessary for seamen and for workers in mines. The proposals, if passed, will come into force June 1, 1920, and will elapse December 31, 1923.

The immediate effect of the proposed bill is an enormous fall in the price of stocks, as manufacturers assert that wages now being paid will make it impossible for Swedish factories to continue producing.

Shoe manufacturers have decided to close down their works on April 15. Others are contemplating similar measures which by the spring may take hundreds of thousands of workers out of employment.

The economical and political prospect is considered very pessimistic and in order to avoid placing masses of laborers on the unemployment list, the government is seriously considering the prohibition of imports of certain articles until industry assumes normal conditions. Among the first articles mentioned to be barred from import are American shoes and soap.

COAL DEPOSITS SOLVE PROBLEM

Discovery of Natural Fuel in Sweden Gives Big Boost to Perplexing Difficulty

(By Associated Press)
LONDON.—Deposits of coal in Sweden, discovery of which was reported recently from Stockholm, may help to solve one of Sweden's most difficult industrial problems.

Sweden has an almost inexhaustible supply of very fine iron ore and Swedish scientists for years have unsuccessfully attempted to devise means of working it by electricity. With a coal supply at home it is pointed out that Sweden has an opportunity to become one of the great industrial countries of the world.

CARRIES FOOD

NEW YORK.—The American steamship "Humburg," first German port of call since the war, arrived here on her return trip from Danzig. The West Humburg was sent to the Baltic port with a cargo of American food for the relief of the Poles. She left Danzig March 25 in ballast but brought a large amount of German mail.

Fishermen of Pacific Coast Turn to This as Profitable Occupation—New Field

(By Associated Press)
SAN PEDRO, Calif.—Fishermen here are turning their attention to catching of turtles as an occupation. Three concerns are outfitting expeditions that will leave soon to hunt turtles in Mexican waters, a journey of a day and a half from the harbor here.

Several tons of turtles were taken there last year and the fishermen expect to exceed this amount. The turtles will be brought here where they will be converted into soup and other delicacies at the local canneries.

CALEXICO, Cal.—The United States will become "bone dry" on June 30 next but Mexicali, Lower California, literally just across the street from this city will be an oasis abounding in these liquid refreshments forbidden American citizens by the war time prohibition act in accordance with the plans of a group of Mexican capitalists, announced recently. Construction of a distillery is contemplated for the preparation of rum, whiskey, gin, brandy and other ardent spirits. It is announced the plant will cost in excess of $150,000.

Honolulu Devises New Traffic Means

Hydroplanes to Be Used for Passenger Service Beginning With the Autumn

(By Associated Press)
HONOLULU.—(by mail)—Inauguration next fall of a daily hydroplane passenger, mail and express service between Honolulu and Hilo, on the island of Hawaii, has been promised by E. H. Lewis, former automobile dealer of Honolulu. The distance between the cities is approximately 200 miles. Mr. Lewis, who returned here recently from a conference with officials of an airplane concern, stated the project had been amply financed and all that remained to be done was to obtain a common carrier franchise from the territorial government. Arrangements have been made, Mr. Lewis said, for the manufacture of a hydroplane that will carry 50 passengers and their baggage, flying about ten feet above the surface of the sea in calm weather. The machine will cost $100,000.

BUENOS AIRES.—The owners of coastwise shipping refuse to work their vessels under government supervision in spite of the administration's threat to prohibit the use of the Argentine flag on their ships. The owners met today and voted not to oppose the wage demands of the men if the latter will accept the owners' claim of their right to employ whom they wish and in addition, pledge themselves not to declare boycotts. This action leaves the conflict where it began three months ago. Advertise in the Classified columns of The News. Somebody will want it.

The Twin Falls Chronicle, established many years ago as a weekly newspaper, this morning makes its initial bow as a morning daily newspaper.

Its editor, Mr. Robert L. Stevenson, is a newspaper man of experience and ability and the good wishes of the newspaper fraternity are cheerfully accorded the new venture.

THE ISSUE.

Probably no subject of popular interest is more prominently in the public eye just now than the League of Nations, and yet it is by no means certain that the League of Nations will be the main political issue by the time the next election rolls round.

It would be strange if the tariff were again to become the principal ground upon which to hold an election in America. Few men today but will admit that the tariff, of all things, has no place in politics.

Fifty per cent of all democrats are in favor of the principle of tariff protection. That is to say, they believe in a certain degree of tariff on certain articles—cotton for example. Fifty per cent of all republicans are opposed to the proposition of creating a tariff wall about America so high that no outside country can hope to sell foreign goods here at a profit.

All Europe today is providing for the extensive production of manufactured goods, and none of the countries of Europe look for much in the way of a home market. England is moving steadily in the direction of an abandonment of her policy of free trade, in the interests of protection for her own industries.

Republicans have a majority of two in the United States senate, one of whom is LaFollette who voted for the present democratic tariff bill.

election there can be but one large scale issue. It is not precisely sound, but its coming just the same.

FRENCH THINK WILSON'S ACT IS UNGRATEFUL
Newspapers Are Bitter in Denunciation of President's Summoning Transport
(P. By Associated Press)
PARIS.—(We do not accuse our allies of forgetting what France has done," says the Matin today, "but nevertheless we witnessed a curious thing yesterday. American propagandists or newspaper men, knowing that President Wilson has summoned to meet the ship which is to take him back to America, saw in this natural order an opportunity for blackmail. "They made—with the disapproval of all Americans, who are friends of France—a bold-faced attempt at intimidation. "If you are not more accommodating," they want all over the city saying, "our president will return home and you can exterminate yourself from your difficulties by yourself."

WOMAN RELATES ADVENTURES IN RELIEF STATION

Brave American Who Accompanied Husband to Europe on Samaritan Work Tells of Life Among Bolsheviks

(By Associated Press) OMSK, Siberia.—Exciting adventures have fallen to the lot of Mrs. Carl C. Compton, of Chicago, who, with American womanly pluck, has accompanied her husband in many months of humanitarian work among the Armenians and later during the most exciting moments of the Bolshevik revolution. They had never left Illinois before coming to the Caucasus, to the Committee on Armenian Relief. Now Mrs. Compton is in charge of the American Young Men's Christian Association work at Omsk.

They were first stationed at Alexandropol, Caucasus, then in the hands of the Russians, and were occupied with industrial relief work. Positions were found for refugees who had fled from Turkey. They estimate that they and other members of the corps distributed clothing for 15,000 Armenian orphans, whose parents had been massacred by the Turks. Help was furnished to about 60,000 refugees.

Business Revolt

Then, suddenly, the Russian revolution developed. The Bolsheviks abandoned the battle front and the Turkish army advanced. It was feared that the Germans would come down the Black Sea and seize the line from Batum to Tiflis. The American consuls advised all the American consuls to leave, and a special train conveying 60 foreigners finally arrived at Baku on the Caspian Sea. There they were caught in a battle between Bolsheviks and Armenians on one side and Tatars on the other. The street in which they lived was dominated by Tatars who sprayed the roadway with machine gun bullets. For three days they did not dare leave the house and had only bread to live on. Eventually, by paying a high price, they were able to charter a special steamer for Astrakhan, which is situated at the mouth of the Volga. "We had to sleep on the deck throughout the whole trip," said Mrs. Compton. "The crew and the families of the crew stayed in the cabin, and refused to give them up."

"We waited for two weeks for the ice to break up in the Volga and then we went up to Samara. The others went on to Vladivostok. The Bolsheviks were in possession of Samara then, but we were able to carry on general relief. Thousands of refugees came through and we had a busy kitchen at the station. Later, maternity and general hospitals were organized."

Czechs Take City

"We had rather an exciting time at Samara when the Czechs came in. We lived not far from the river between the Bolshevik barracks and the Russian side of the city. The place drew most of the shell fire from the Czech army. Bullets came through our windows and our room became filled with brick dust from the exploding shells. The Bolsheviks and their flat upon the roof and fired down on the Czech soldiers, so we had a very good view of the fighting. From my window I could have touched the Bolshevik troops with my hand."

"We were awfully glad to get down into the cellar. There was a slit in the wall and we could see the end of the battle. Finally we heard the Czechs cheering, and saw people running from the houses, all making the sign of the cross. The Czechs had won. Everybody put on their best clothes and paraded the streets with bands. Collections were taken up for the Czechs, who were hailed as heroes and deliverers."

No Atrocities

"When the Bolsheviks had the city we would see them lying in the streets. They were always chewing sunflower seeds."

Mr. Compton said he had never seen any Bolshevik atrocities but he had seen proclamations issued by the Bolsheviks declaring that they had killed the people if they captured the city. He said that once a Bolshevik broke into an American's room but had immediately apologized, adding that America was the only friend Russia had."

Mr. Compton also said that Russian officers told him nine-tenths of people became Bolsheviks because they didn't have enough to live on, and that those they thought anything would be better than their present condition.

CANADIAN PRIVATES SAVE MOST OF WAGES

Common Soldier Returns Home—With Full Pockets While Officers Are Penniless

WINNIPEG, Man.—Canadian privates are returning from Europe with considerable money while many officers are reaching their homes practically penniless, according to provincial officials.

Most of the soldiers had approximately $50 for their credit when they left England, only a portion of the amount being given to them before the embarkation. The privates spent most of their leisure at recreation camps where little money is needed.

Officers, on the other hand, followed their inclination to "live" and with British and American officers helped fill the London hotels, according to returned officers. They say that fraternizing with American officers proved rather costly as Americans received higher pay and spent it freely.

"Thousands of Canadian privates will return with far more money than they possessed when they enlisted, one officer said."

UNITED STATES WELL VEXED TO HOLD HER OWN

South American Trade Outlook Highly Favorable to This Country Declares American Government Official

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON.—A study of market conditions and methods in Argentina has convinced me that, so far as this particular country is concerned, America will continue to be a source of foreign trade for many years to hold its own," Robert S. Barrett, commercial attaché to the United States embassy in Buenos Aires, declared today in a report to the bureau of foreign trade and domestic commerce.

In answering the "most pertinent question," now in the minds of business men of the United States—whether this country can retain the commercial prestige gained during the war—Mr. Barrett found numerous reasons for optimism. He said firms in the United States were coming to better understand the South American trade because they were studying its needs. Increased credit facilities are being arranged and closer relations achieved by the extension of consular offices in Latin America and buying offices in the United States.

He warned, however, that competitive freight rates, trainmen, men, although the investment in South American securities, were necessary to maintain the position which United States goods now hold in the countries to the south of the equator.

"While perhaps the United States percentage of the total imports into Argentina may not be so large as it has been in the past four years, during which competition from European countries was greatly affected by the war, the value of its exports to Argentina will be larger in the next few years than before," Mr. Barrett said.

"It cannot be expected that the United States will continue to supply Argentina with the greater part of its imports of cotton and woolen goods, heavy machinery, iron and steel, heavy chemicals, carbide and certain raw materials, when normal conditions are restored in Europe, but in the other hand, imports of such goods as iron and steel, lumber, petroleum products, machinery, furniture, boots and shoes, cement, automobiles, office supplies and specialties, in which America had a large trade before the war, and which have been reduced by war conditions, will be greatly increased."

Heavy 1917 Trade

"In passing, it may be noted that in 1917 the United States supplied Argentina with goods valued at $215,440,000 (United States currency), or 36 per cent of the total imports. Its nearest competitor was the United Kingdom, whose exports to the Argentine were valued at $80,000,000."

"There are several fundamental reasons which are responsible for this conclusion:

"American manufacturers and exporters are beginning to know and to meet the requirement of the Argentine buyer. The old system of trying to force goods which were not in the demand of the market in the United States upon the people of this country is passing away and an intelligent effort is being made to supply the things which meet the tastes and needs of the organized public. Careful study of the market have been made within the past years, not only by United States government agencies, but by individual manufacturers."

"The establishment by two of the most important national banks of the United States of branches in the Argentine, and the general adoption of trade acceptances, have made the financing of shipments to and from the Argentine much easier and given the American manufacturer an opportunity to grant necessary credits to compete with other countries. Argentina, like all new countries, requires long credits."

Good Progress Made

"American concerns in establishing their new branch houses or direct agencies in Argentina to conduct their sales. Within the last two years, progress in this direction has been great, but it is expected that when the companies in the United States are organized under the provisions of the Webb law are established in foreign countries, a large increase in their number will be necessary. Large sums are being raised, many of them controlled by European capital are locating permanent buyers in the United States."

"Starting from the optimistic side of the United States and American trade in the Argentine, Mr. Barrett pointed out a few things which will be necessary if manufacturers in the United States are to buy an important part in this market.

"First," he said, "the United States must be placed on a parity with European nations in the matter of shipping and freight rates. Now that the war is over there is a tendency to revert to old conditions. Establishment of regular lines of steamers, both for passenger and freight, between the United States and the River Plata is most essential."

Must Use Good Men

"Manufacturers in the United States must train younger men for foreign service and give them sufficient inducements to live permanently in foreign countries. One of the most discouraging features of our foreign trade is the lack of competent men to fill important positions abroad.

"Some plan must be adopted by which the foreign buyer may be protected against the unethical or unscrupulous commission merchant or manufacturer. Nothing has so harmed the American trade during the past few years as the activities of some speculators who have failed to comply with their contracts and in some instances have defrauded their clients. Perhaps the means of direct trade to the foreign commission to do an export business and the extension of the commission's jurisdiction over their actions would be a remedy for this difficulty.

"Finally," said Mr. Barrett, "American capital must be more freely invested in South American securities of proven worth.

"No single factor," he added, "has been more responsible for the important part that Great Britain has taken in supplying Argentina with raw material and manufactured products than the very large investment of British capital in Argentine railways and industrial enterprises."

GERMAN INDEMNITY

PARIS.—The preliminary peace treaty will require Germany to make an immediate indemnity payment on account of $250,000,000 francs in cash and raw materials, according to the Echo de Paris. The treaty, it declares, will not leave uncertain the total amount which Germany is to pay, as that amount will be written into the document.

PUNISH STRIKERS

BERLIN.—The threat of railroad employees to add to Germany's troubles by striking, has brought a sharp reply from the government in which such action is denounced as "a crime toward the entire people." Assurance is given the would-be strikers that a strike will be regarded as a breach of contract and will be punished accordingly.

ARIZONA GETS RATHER VEXED

Governor Signs Boxing Bill But Vetoes Measure to Teach Bible in Public Schools

(By Associated Press) PHOENIX.—A protest against Governor Campbell's actions in failing to veto the ten-round boxing bill and in voting the bill providing for the study of the bible in public schools, lodged by the Arizona district conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, south, was made public here today.

Quoting one of the governor's reasons for vetoing the bible teaching bill to the effect that "there are many bibles and reading the bible in the public schools would be sectarian teaching and contrary to the constitution," the protest from the conference continues:

Disapprove Action

"Therefore, we do protest to the governor that the bible is not sectarian and that there is but one bible, in the United States; that he took his oath on the bible he calls sectarian, and no other is recognized in the United States. We strongly disapprove of the action of the governor in vetoing the bill authorizing the teaching of the bible in the public schools of the state, and also allowing boxing to become legal in the state by his neglect."

The ten round boxing bill referred to was passed by the last legislature, transmitted to the secretary of state without the executive signature, and, under the constitution, becomes law automatically.

of Ketchikan. An appropriation of $30,000, designated as the fish hatcheries fund, to be used for building and operating fish hatcheries, is carried in the bill.

The board of commissioners, it is provided, would consist of three members serving without compensation for two years and with power to appoint an experienced general hatcheries superintendent. The board would be appointed by the governor.

This bill is the duplicate of a measure lost in the 1917 legislature because it was not signed by the governor until after the statutory time had elapsed.
