GERMANS TAKE STEPS TOWARD PREPAREDNESS

Minister of War Tours Frontiers in Interests of Fatherland in Case of Eventualities of Compel Defense.

FURTHER ARGUMENT IS CONFIDENTLY EXPECTED

Huns Show No Disposition to Back Down Matter of Acceptance of Peace Terms Submitted by Allies.

PARIS, (AP)—A report has reached here of a conference, circles that a treaty of peace, the German minister of defense has been ordered to direct the personnel to be ready for emergencies.

The council of four met this morning. Experts on military questions and relations with the council. It is understood that the clauses of the Austrian peace treaty dealing with reparations now have been completed. The council of foreign ministers met again this afternoon and considered again the revision of the treaty of 1919 regarding Belgian neutrality.

There is reason to believe, according to advices from the council of four will reach a decision by Thursday as to the reply to the German counter proposals to the peace terms. Allied experts are at work on the reply and meetings are being held in Paris today to draft memoranda to be submitted to the council of four.

Memoranda Stands Pat

Former Clemenceau is understood to make no concessions. There can be no important changes in the clauses of the treaty which the Germans have entered their strongest objections. There are indications, however, of a strong undertone of sentiment in favor of a German offer of a definite sum of 100,000,000,000 marks as indemnity instead of the indeterminate sum that might be demanded under the terms as presented. It also seems possible that the clauses of the pact relating to Alsacia may be modified so that Germany would be able to receive supplies of grain, coal and other commodities despite the transfer to Poland of sovereignty of that region.

More Objections Coming

That the Germans have not said their last word in objection to the peace treaty is indicated by a memorandum which has been drafted at Versailles by German experts, who seek to refute allied charges as to the necessity of submitting the question to an impartial commission for investigation and demands there was any secret plot between Berlin and Vienna to destroy Belgium. It says that the German government could not accept the efforts of Sir Edward Grey, the British secretary for foreign affairs in 1914, to mediate between the belligerent powers to check the warlike aspirations of Russia. Emperor Nicholas' proposal to refer the dispute to the Hague to failed, it is said, because on the same day the proposal was made the mobilization of thirteen army corps was ordered. Russia's imperialistic policy, the memorandum argues, made Germany's war against France was one of defense and admits that Germany's naval armament that nature is to arouse the distrust of Great Britain.

GERMANS TURN TO AMERICANS

Would Have Capital from This Country Invest in Germany Getting Big Profits.

BERLIN, (AP)—There seems to be a widespread demand on the part of Germans that efforts be made to induce America to enter into a sort of limited alliance with Germany or take protectorate over this country, giving Germany financial aid and protection and taking in return the lion's share of the profits to the country's industrial activities. Privy Councillor Bergmann, formerly a partner in the German-Edison companies and one of the largest electrical magnates here, suggests a German-American partnership with America the scolar and the controlling partner.

AUSTRIA OBJECTS TO ALLIED PEACE TERMS JUST AS PRESENTED

Vienna Press Announces Result of Deliberations as Entirely in Favor of Submitting to Treaty Restrictions. Rumor in Government Circles That Proposed Terms Are Unacceptable.

VIENNA, (AP)—The Austrian government is unanimously that the peace terms presented at day are acceptable, the Neues Abendblatt.

VIENNA, (AP)—Although certain newspapers here state that the government will accept the terms as laid down, it is reported in government circles that the conditions are unacceptable. It is certain at least that an effort will be made to have them modified along the lines laid down in the address of Dr. Benzer before the council.

Many Rumors of Changes. The atmosphere in the peace conference circles was full of speculation today as to possible modifications in several clauses of the treaty with Germany, but nothing tangible is expected to develop until the outcome of the joint meetings of allied experts becomes known. It is expected that some of these meetings will be held tomorrow. At the meeting of the council of four this afternoon, President Wilson made another effort to bring about an agreement as to the principle of the reply to the German counter proposals, but the meeting ended without an agreement.

It is understood that President Clemenceau maintains a firm attitude towards any revision of the treaty. YAGUIS TERBORER YAGUIS. ## JACKSON LAKE WATER SHORTAGE LOOMS BIG State Reclamation Commissioner Urges Strict Economy to Save Crop.

(Special to The News) BOISE, (AP)—Water shortage affecting all irrigated district in southern Idaho has taken water from Snake river is threatened because of the light snowfall in the mountains. A water shortage in western Wyoming, according to a warning issued Wednesday by W. G. Swandvoort, state commissioner of reclamation, on May 30 the Jackson lake reservoir contained only 5,000 acre feet of water, as against a normal supply of 780,000 acre feet—a shortage of more than 200,000 acre feet.

The heights at Jackson lake have been closed for some time, the reclamation engineer says in a letter sent out to water users in the Snake river valley. The water is being held in the reservoir in the region above the lake, and due to the light snowfall of last winter not much more water can be expected until the reservoir fills again. Mr. Swandvoort advises greatest economy in the use of water and that nothing in excess of actual requirements be delivered.

HIGH GENERAL HOLDS DOWN ALL LETTLAND

Left Under Terms of Armistice to Hold Bolshevik He Is Now Virtual Dictator of Whole Country.

LONDON.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—General von der Goltz, commander of the German troops in Lettland, or Latvia, one of the former Russian Baltic provinces of which Lithuania and Riga are the chief ports, has established a dictatorship in that country under the pretense that he is fighting the spread of Bolshevism among the Letts, according to the Reuters correspondent at Linnas.

About the middle of April Baltic-German troops which had been operating in Lettland against the Russian Bolsheviks were withdrawn from the front back to Lithuania and, under the direction of the Baltic Baron Montgolf, executed a coup d'etat, overthrowing the Lettish provisional government and appointing the German general, Premier Ullmanis however, evaded arrest, and found asylum under the protection of a British mission which was backed by the presence of a British warship in Lithuania.

Through German Connivance.

The correspondent asserts that this coup d'etat "undoubtedly was carried out with the connivance of von der Goltz." It is further admitted that the Berlin newspaper has recognized that the movement was the result of an intrigue conducted by the German barons in the Baltic provinces who, it said, had supplied the means to maintain German troops at Lithuania.

von der Goltz uses his presence in Lettland as the head of a large force of purely German troops to an article of the armistice in the world war which provided that German troops should remain in Lettland until the allies gave orders to the contrary, writes the correspondent. His main pretext is the fact that German barons who are descendants of the old Teutonic knights, they hold immense tracts of land and enjoy feudal privileges which have not been curtailed under any democratic regime, and the correspondent says they now have entered into a conspiracy with Germany's occupying forces to overthrow democracy in Lithuania and prepare the way for annexation to Germany.

Acts With Arrogance.

The German acts as though they owned the country, and with the slightest consciousness of having been defeated in the war, says the correspondent. To a British mission which protested against the German attitude, the Lettish troops in Lithuania, von der Goltz replied that "the situation had been established" but the correspondent says there was no word of truth in this for arms were not restored to the Letts.

Bolshevik Unpleasant.

"The British mission here," writes the correspondent, "is endeavoring to coerce the Germans into doing anything and this can only be done through the machinery of the armistice commission at Spa. The Germans are making no movement against the Bolsheviks between whom and themselves they keep the river As."

von der Goltz pretends that the Letts themselves are Bolsheviks against whom he has to guard the country."

The Lettish Premier, M. Ullmanis, a refugee in the house of the British military mission, to the correspondent that England should send ammunition, food and a loan to enable the Letts to raise an army, that von der Goltz should appoint a representative of the allies put into control. This, he said, would break the conspiracy for German domination.

The correspondent was invited by Colonel Warwick Greene, head of the American mission, to attend a conference at his house with three of the Baltic German leaders who tried hard to win the sympathies of the Americans in support of a new cabinet which they favored. Colonel Greene informed them that he could not recommend his government to recognize the situation created by the German coup d'etat so long as the Baltic troops exercised control over the restoration of the old government or the creation of a new one by a free and fair agreement.

IDLENESS PREMIUM BILL IS MADE IN GERMANY

Papers in Capital Making Fun of Proposal Pending in the National Assembly.

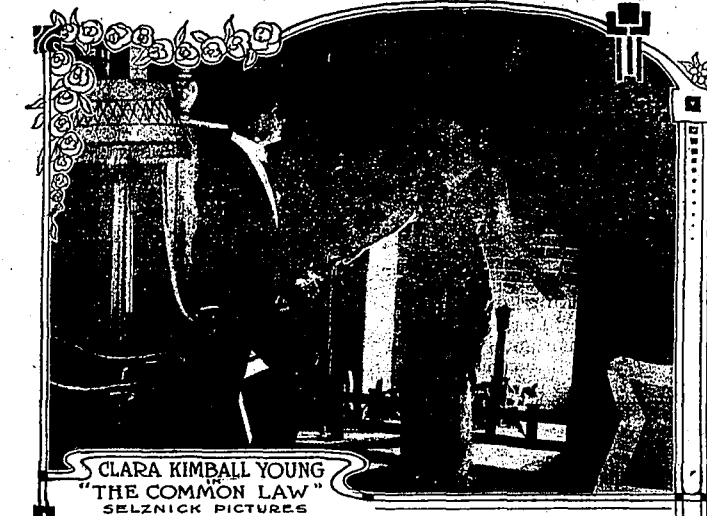

BERLIN, (AP)—The imperial workless committee has prepared a bill for the national assembly which if enacted into law might put a considerable premium on idleness. Ostensibly the bill is designed only to give a living to millions of Germans out of employment but it goes so far that the man who works would be at a disadvantage.

Workless Not Unemployed.

In the first place a man would be considered without employment even though he might be doing some work. Employment must come only through his solicitation. When out of work each man would receive ten marks a day, his wife four marks and children under 14 two marks.

The German newspapers are treating the proposal with varying degrees of sarcasm.

GOSSACK BLUFF FAILED BADLY

American Stood Off Armed Men Who Were Simply Trying to Frighten Him.

TOKYO.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Major John Reifeidner, formerly of Frederick, Md., now of Tokyo, who is attached to the American Red Cross in Siberia, has arrived here preparatory to escorting 1,500 Czechoslovak soldiers from Vladivostok via the Suigai Canal, to Trieste and thence to France.

Major Reifeidner who is assistant to Colonel R. B. Teuster, of Virginia, the head of the Siberian Red Cross, has had some exciting experience in Russia. He has conducted Red Cross trains to Omsk on two different occasions. Difficulties were created by Cossacks who he conducted on his train into the heart of Siberia, he said. Small detachments living in railroad cars in various places would connect their coaches to his train on the idea that they must reach the front. Sometimes the cars numbered nine and ten, thus overburdening the long Red Cross train.

Tableau Was Dramatic.

"On my recent trip to Omsk," said Major Reifeidner to the correspondent, "we had rather a dramatic tableau in the station at Kraevoyarsk. The Cossacks had hitched on eight cars with one permission and a loaded train took off. The Cossack refused. The station commandant threw up his hands in despair, exclaiming: 'What can I do? If I interfere on either side, I will be shot for my pains.' Then he went away, whistling."

"The Cossacks began to threaten, and two of their officers 'covered' me with their revolvers. They said they would kill me and my small guard of American soldiers. Of course I said they could do as they pleased, but one of my soldiers in his turn was 'covering' the Cossack officers and further off other American soldiers and Cossack riders were glaring at one another, their hands on rifles or revolvers. It was all 'bluff,' of course, but I didn't want any awkward incident to happen."

"I telephoned to the commander of the British forces stationed at Kraevoyarsk, explaining the situation. He said I was quite within my rights in going west without the Cossacks. He said he would see that no trouble would come to the station. I reported my conversation to the station commandant."

"The 'commandant' was no longer in doubt as to his attitude. He said: 'My dear sir, you will leave in fifteen minutes—without the Cossacks.' And we did."

"Before pulling out I again telephoned to the British officer, saying I had no further need of his assistance. He replied: 'Oh, I knew it would be all right, of course, but no intention of sending down a detachment.'"

DERBY DAY IS BACK IN GLORY

All England in Swell Attire Attends Greatest Race Meet on Earth.

LONDON, (AP)—Grand Parade was the Derby at Epsom Downs today. Epsom was second and 22 per cent money third. Thirteen horses ran.

LONDON, (AP)—Derby day, the world's greatest popular meeting, has returned, after leaving a blank on the British calendar for four years. With the early morning the population began a progress toward Epsom Downs comparable with the migration of the tribes of Israel.

"This isn't a crowd; it is a nation," said a French writer of Derby day. If today's victory Derby, as it is called, reaches the high watermark, there will be 200,000 within sight of the race track. The pace will be traveling in trains, buses, four-in-hands, delivery wagons, donkey carts, on horseback, on foot, and as a sign of the new era, by airplane. Aviators have booked one hundred passengers who are going to Epsom Downs although the machines are forbidden to fly within two miles of the course. Thousands camped last night near the race course in tents, and caterers have stored tons of provisions there, their supplies including more than 100,000 bottles of beer.

All Pre-War Color.

The spectacle at the race course lacked nothing of the pre-war color today and had a strong tinge of khaki. King George, Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales and Princess Mary, drove from the station in Landaus. All the familiar figures, from the Earl of Lincoln, dean of English sportsmen, wearing his silk hat, to bookmakers from all parts of the kingdom were present.

MINORITIES ARE GIVEN A PLACE

New French Law Will Change Standing of Parties in Chamber of Deputies.

PARIS.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Representation of minorities is assured under the new Electoral Reform Law passed by the French parliament, which will probably bring about considerable change in the strength of parties in the chamber of deputies. The most recent enactment almost abolished entirely the old system of choosing members, which provided for a second ballot in case candidates did not poll an absolute majority of the votes in their constituency.

An example of what occurred under the old system during the election of 1895 in the department of the Var where the present Premier Clemenceau was one of the candidates will serve to show how the returns will be affected by the present scheme. The Var department returns four members to the chamber of deputies. The conservatives, the opportunists, the radicals and the socialists each put up four candidates. At the first ballot no candidate polled an absolute majority of the 57,798 votes cast, so that a poll of 20,800 votes would have been necessary. The conservative candidate obtained an average of 17,333 votes each; the opportunists 10,954; the radicals 24,323, and the socialists 207. At the second ballot the radical list was elected in its entirety with a majority for each candidate, the parties which polled the smallest totals having dropped out.

Would Have Different Result.

Under the new scheme the election would have resulted differently. As no candidate received an absolute majority of votes, 26,800, the following procedure would have been adopted: The total number of voters, who polled 57,798, would have been divided by four—the number of seats to be filled. This would have given the quotient of 14,449. To fill the seats under the new law, the average vote of each party is divided by the quotient of the number of voters (57,798) divided by the number of candidates (4) which equals 14,449. For each time this quotient (14,449) is contained in the average vote a seat is allocated. Thus the conservatives with an average of 17,333 get one seat and the radicals with an average of 24,323 also get one. The remaining two seats according to the text of the new enactment go to the candidates of the party which polled the greatest average of votes and thus the radicals obtain them.

As to the candidates obtaining the seats those who polled the highest number of votes on the lists of the successful parties are chosen as representatives.

WOMEN WAIT HOURS FOR THE SALES OF LONDON

LONDON, (AP)—The constantly advancing prices of dress material and other necessities for the female wardrobe, has caused the stores to be besieged at times when unusually attractive "sales" are on. # DEFEAT OF RACE EQUALITY PLAN HURT JAPANESE

Declare Themselves at Loss to Know How Their Nation Can Be Called One of the Great Powers.

TOKIO, (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—Failure of the Japanese delegates to secure the introduction of an "equality of races" clause in the league of nations covenant caused deep disappointment throughout the Japanese nation and has led to a serious self-examination on the part of the Japanese people. The disappointment was all the more bitter because at first a despatch came from Paris announcing the adoption of the racial clause.

Japanese who frankly discussed the problem said they could not understand on what standards Japan was judged to be a first-class power. If it were merely because Japan was strong in a naval and military sense, this was not flattering to the Japanese amour-propre who would much rather have it based on standards of civilization, capacity and culture. Yet small countries like Holland and Belgium, they said, are placed on a footing equal with the United States, France and England.

"We are keenly disappointed," wrote the editor of one paper. "It is as if we had tumbled from a very high precipice. We must look into our hearts, examine ourselves rigidly and see why we are not permitted to join the nations of the world on a footing of real equality."

The Osaka Mainichi said: "The adoption of the American amendment for the Monroe doctrine and the failure of the racial amendment affords a most glaring contrast as between a great success for the United States and a great failure for Japan."

The Tokio Asahi says: "A part of the blame should be placed at the door of European and American statesmen whose political conscience has been so besotted that they do not understand or respect the principle of justice and humanity except when it is politically used to their advantage."

GERMAN OFFICERS WRITE FICTION ABOUT YANKEES

Fantastic Stories Told Which Surprise Officers; Investigation of Sources Made.

COBLENZ (Correspondence of the Associated Press).—A fantastic fiction is published in German newspapers by writers from Frankfurt and Leipzig who have visited Coblenz and returned home to write whatever they may please about the American army. Many of the stories they tell are new to the officers of the Third army who count them as German propaganda.

One writer of a long story in the Leipzig paper dealing with life in Coblenz relates alleged instances of ridiculous sentences imposed upon Germans by the American army courts. In one case he says the wife of a government official, "annoyed on the street by a drunken soldier exclaimed in her anger: 'If only all the Americans would go to the devil!'" The military court, he says, punished her for "this religious wish" by sentencing her to appear every morning for 30 days at the headquarters of the commanding officer and repeating to those present the phrase: "I am glad that you are still here, gentlemen, and it is my wish that you continue to stay here for a long while."

Not Allowed to Trespass.
This is all news to the American officers. If any woman appears at headquarters every morning, she has no duty there failed to notice it. It is part of their job to prevent trespassing by Germans at the main entrance of the Third army headquarters.

Another fictitious tale narrated by the Leipzig writer to arouse German dislike for Americans, deals with a case in which a woman, splashed by mud from an automobile ejaculated, "those dirty American automobiles." For this the Leipzig Munchausen avers a military court sentenced her to climb the fortress of Ehrenbreitstein daily at 5 p. m. for thirty days carrying a pail, scrubbing brush and scouring rag and to clean six American automobiles. Upon completion of this task, he asserted, she was required to walk back home simlantly equipped.

Band Music Called Wild.
Another fantastic tale told by the Leipzig journalist is of a sentence which he declares was imposed upon a hotel owner whose guests could no longer stand the "wild music" produced by the American bands and who commented upon it unfavorably. In punishment, the fiction writer claimed, the hotel man was sentenced to march daily for thirty days alongside the band and after its parade to tell its leader, "Sir, your music pleases me to perfection."

American intelligence officers are endeavoring to ascertain through what channels the Leipzig correspondent obtained the alleged "information" about the Coblenz, particularly stories about the fines and sentences imposed upon women. Court records do not reveal any such cases.

Mother and the Boys Off for Europe

Mother and the boys of Uncle Sam's air family have started the world—at least the boys have in the great feat of flying the ocean. The "boys" younger, more agile, speedier, feet of wing "hopped across" a bit ahead of "mother"—but mother is still in the little globe-trotting jaunt and has promised the boys she would meet them in England. Here is shown the two types of flyers the American airman took off from Rockaway Point, U. S. A., for the flight across the Atlantic. The seaplanes are the CN1, CN2 and CN4. The dirigible is the CN3. This is a grouping of the various crafts as they left American shores.

WILLARD AND DEMPSEY BUSY

Vendors of Soporific Wallop Begin to Brush Up Wares for Fourth of July.

TOLEDO, (AP)—Jens Willard today went to begin his conditioning grind for the heavyweight championship contest with Jack Dempsey here July 4. The champion plans to increase his boxing to possibly five or six rounds and to face Walter Monahan, his chief sparring partner, besides Jack Hempzel, Pacific coast heavyweight, and Jack Lavan, who stepped three rounds yesterday.

Willard confessed that this is the first match he ever made that had not worried him in advance. He apparently feels sure of defeating the challenger and is in a jovial mood. His smile is evident at all times.

Dempsey Has New Plan.
Jack Kearns, manager of Dempsey, said trainer Jimmy Do Forest have adopted a novel system for training the challenger to fight the Dempsey. Willard will train as if getting ready for three contests, two weeks apart. Next Saturday he will start training again after a layoff since last Monday. Meanwhile he will spend his time romping around the camp and swimming and boating.

IDAHO BUSINESS GREAT SAYS REED

Secretary of Reclamation Service Enthusiastic Over Condition in Gem State.

BOISE.—The prosperity of this state is evidenced in the reclamation business activity, the building that is going on in all sections and the optimistic view of the future as taken by business men and citizens generally. This is the opinion of Major Fred H. Reed, secretary of the Idaho Reclamation association which is now being perfected in Idaho for the purpose of getting a suitable appropriation from congress to reclaim arid, swamp and all stump lands within the state. Major Reed has been traveling extensively over the state.

"Idaho," he said, "is standing on the edge of big things and the best conditions it has ever seen. Everybody is busy. Everybody has a little money. The people are progressive. They are full of hope. The upper Snake River valley, an empire within itself, is forging ahead. The Big Lost River irrigation project, with all its grief and trouble is coming into its own. The entire Snake river valley is looking forward to great reclamation development. In fact all of the country is dependent upon reclamation taking on new life."

"Portello is one of the busiest cities in Idaho. Burley is surpassing even the most sanguine expectations. Twin Falls stands in a class by itself. No city in the United States in the same length of time can show more substantial growth and development. All towns west including Boise to the Oregon line, are prosperous. There are building improvements going on all over the state. Idaho is off in a big race for prosperity and development."

FREIGHT RATE INCREASE ASKED BY RAILROADS

Many Lines Desire Greater Returns for Carrying Bullion Smelter Products.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—General increases in freight rates on bullion and smelter products were asked today by a number of railroads.

Increase of 35 per cent over the rates effective prior to June 25, 1918, from Brownsville, Eagle Pass, El Paso, Laredo and Marfa, Texas, to Omaha, Nebraska, Chicago and Joliet, Ill., and Gary, Ind., was asked by southwestern lines.

Other increases from the producing points in the northwest to various destinations throughout the United States were asked by the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul, Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific, Missouri Pacific, and Oregon Short Line railroads.

MARINES LAND IN COSTA RICA

Disturbance Caused by Tinoco Revolution Compels United States to Take Steps.

SAN SALVADOR, Republic of Salvador, (AP)—American marines have been landed at Puntarenas and Port Limon, Costa Rica, because of the revolution against the government headed by General Tinoco, according to dispatches printed in newspapers here.

The revolution in Costa Rica has been going on for the past two months but has been attracting considerable attention in Central American countries for the past four weeks. Forces said to have been recruited from political exiles formed bands along the Nicaraguan frontier near Lake Nicaragua and advanced southward, clashing on several occasions with forces commanded by Joaquin Tinoco, Costa Rican minister of war. The fighting has been restricted almost entirely to the mountainous country near the Nicaraguan border, although recently skirmishes further south have been reported. The situation is quite obscure, owing to the fact that reports from Costa Rica have been of a conflicting nature. Puntarenas is a port on the Pacific coast of Costa Rica and is the Pacific terminus of the railroad extending across Costa Rica to Port Limon, which is the most important harbor on the Atlantic side of the country.

GERMAN LINER COLLIDES WITH STEAMER AGWIDALE

Little Damage Done to Vessels That Meet in the Atlantic Ocean.

NEW YORK, (AP)—The former German liner Imperator which sailed from this port yesterday for Brazil collided about 300 miles northeast of Sandy Hook last night with the steamship Agwidale, from Rotterdam for New York. A wireless message from the Agwidale stated that she was proceeding for this port under her own power, but requested a convoy.

A later wireless message said the Imperator was undamaged and that the damage to the Agwidale was slight. A heavy fog is said to have caused the collision.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—No information regarding the reported landing of American naval forces in Costa Rica has reached either the navy or state departments and Secretary Daniels said today he doubted any landing had been made. A PUZZLE.

One of the things which puzzles the average man these days is the fact that, notwithstanding that the war is over, prices continue to soar.

This is true of the country as a whole, but is particularly true of Twin Falls. Meat costs more money today than was the case two months ago, yet Louis Swift declares that meat prices should go down. Other commodities show similar increased cost.

We are inclined to wonder if such action as the importing of bread from Salt Lake to be sold in competition with the product of local bakeries is going to greatly help the situation—the fact of the matter is, money has no definite standard of value at all when it comes to the spending of it. Those who value money will spend it, but if the present scale of increase keeps up the time is going to come when there won't be enough to go round.

ANSWERS UNFOUNDED ORBITORIES.

Replying to an alarmed correspondent, who, evidently accepting at face value the statements and intimations contained in the senatorial speeches of Senator James A. Reed of Missouri, thinks that the United States would at once lose its independence and the Monroe Doctrine in addition should the league of nations be adopted, the Portland Oregonian, leading republican paper of the northwest, proceeds to show that such ideas are erroneous.

Whether the league has real faults which justify its defeat or not, it should not be rejected through any mistake in regard to its real meaning, and the Oregonian does a service in showing up the fallacy of unfounded objections. It says, among other things:

The covenant binds us to surrender of "liberty of action, independence, sovereignty" to the same degree as and no more than any treaty or international agreement.
So long as nations have intercourse
they will make treaties which bind
by binding them to do or not to do certain things restrict their independence or freedom of action, but no such alarm has been raised about treaties in the past. The serious ground of complaint is that the league would bind us in certain contingencies to make war, to impose a committal treaty, to admit a dispute to arbitration or to mediation and to accept the award,
also to restrict our army and navy to certain limits. But war or the boycott is only to be declared by the unanimous judgment of at least nine of the principal nations, among which the United States will be one, and congress would still retain power to decide whether the contingency contemplated by the covenant had arisen and to declare war as its judgment dictated. The final decision would still remain with us. As this country has led in advocacy and practice of arbitration and of making that system compulsory in justiciable cases, it should not balk at general acceptance of its own principles or at their application to itself.

The covenant does not, as our correspondent assumes, "take from the representatives of the people
the right to determine whether the nation shall or shall not make war." It binds all members to be-cot a covenant-breaking nation and to aid "the forces of any of the members of the league which are co-operating to protect the sovereignty of the league." The council is only to "recommend" what forces each member shall contribute. Congress would be free to determine whether the contingency rendering war advisable had arrived and whether it would comply with the recommendation. Resolution would not strip the nation honor by treating the covenant as
"a scrap of paper."

If some nation were to violate the covenant so flagrantly that the delegates from the nine chief nations, including the United States,
would call a meeting on the subject,
is there any reason to doubt that congress would promptly endorse its action or that public opinion in this country would be expressed so strongly as to end any hesitation on the part of congress? If there were serious difference of opinion in this country would it not extend to other parts of the world? The unanimity in the league council
without which a league war or boycott would be impossible? These questions would be considered in the light of recent history. The fair conclusion is that by assuming the obligations, we should agree to do that which when the time came we should be willing to do. Therefore we should not make a contract which we might be unwilling to fulfill.

This is not the internationalism
the capitalists on the structure which which is being eagerly accepted by patriots of all nations would build by uniting them to defend their countries more effectually without war than they have hitherto. The peace conference is unfair to deny and strengthen the individuality of each nation, not absorb them all in Pan-Germany as the Germans planners or merely as a nation into one and then redouble them into classes with the proletariat supreme as the socialists plan.

These persons who shy at the proposed guaranty of each league member or merely as a nation into article 10, do not seem to realize that in order to form a league at all it was necessary to start on some basis of peace, or that the peace conference is remaking the boundaries of Europe and western Asia for newly liberated nations which most need a guaranty that they may maintain their independence. In defect this clause puts the power of the whole league behind the American republics, to support which the Monroe Doctrine exists. If any aid exists to the radical revolution, there is opportunity for this revision under article 11.

have gone to Chicago after the explosion here.

Falls to Incriminate Russ.
NEW YORK, (AP)—New York police have no evidence to support the theory of Pittsburgh detectives that the anarchistic explosions acted under orders from the Russian radical headquarters at 133 East Fifteenth street.
It was said that the house in question, known as "the Russian people's headquarters," has been under surveillance since last March when it was raided and 104 persons arrested. Four of them were subsequently deported.
Since that time, the police say, they had no evidence that the house was being used as the headquarters of the terrorists.

Explosives Found on Premises
CHICAGO, (AP)—Half a dozen men were in custody today as bomb suspects, following a night of activity on the part of police agents and city detectives. All being later released. Several raids were made on places reputed to be gathering places of radicals.
In one raid explosives were found.
Anarchistic pamphlets were found in several places.

From Daniel Colzin, arrested several days ago in a raid on a radical meeting place, it was stated today that a partisan conference had been called indicating connection of Chicago radicals with others in the east in a bomb plot with wide ramifications. Colzin said to be an Italian speaking seven languages and is a bookkeeper. According to the police he admits being an anarchist for four years, coming here
from New York and during his seven-hour sojourn in the propaganda work

Summary by American Army Shows Movement for Independent Country on Rhine Lacks Following.

COBLENZ, (Rhine-land), (AP)—Regarding the reports received here of the launching of the Rhineland republic today's summary of intelligence issued by the American Third Army, says:
"The events of the last few days
which have culminated in a definite attempt at Western to proclaim a Rhineland republic, independent of Prussia, but nevertheless part of the German federation, might be regarded as in the nature of comic opera were it not for the fact that they involve the deliberations at Versailles to a certain extent. To the impartial observer the importance of the movement consists chiefly in the opposition which has developed against it.

Leaders Insignificant.
One sees no concerted, bilious responding to this proffered freedom from Prussian rule, but one does see and hear much to the contrary. It would seem that if Western to proclaim the Rhineland to be become independent of Berlin it will require a set of German apostles better known than those who hitherto have been fathering the movement."

Fall to Get Evidence Philip J. Barry, chief of the local bureau of investigation of the department of justice announced at noon that all the radicals taken in custody and questioned had been released. He said that an evidence had been obtained
of their connection with the nationwide bomb plot.

While Chicago is the national headquarters of the I. W. W., and the Russian socialists in this country and other radical groups, I have no evidence that bomb outrages are contemplated here," he said.

GOVERNMENT TO

Will Control Bureau of Shipping Information Organized to Help Further Cause of United States Trade.

NEW YORK, (AP)—The establishment of a government controlled bureau of shipping information, through which maritime interests of the United States are advised daily through official sources and without the interference of practically all of the merchant shippers of the world, is an outgrowth of one of the activities of the naval department during the war.
This bureau, conducted by what is known as the naval communications service, was instituted shortly after this country entered the conflict. It was made necessary for reasons that prior to that time there was no organized branch of the government through which the movement of ships could be obtained on short notice. The demands of the navy and war departments, the United States shipping board and allied war interests required that there be at hand at all times
a carefully revised record of all ships
—not alone of their movements, but details as to their tonnage, speed, specifications as to build, etc.

Dispatches Prompt
Under the direction of a naval officer, with assistance received from the marine departments of press associations, daily and marine publications, etc., the bureau was established and arrangements were at once made for prompt and reliable dispatches from all parts of the world concerning ship movements, this service embracing not only the facilities of the telegraph and cable but the government controlled wireless as well.

Its value during the war was incalculable and, with the coming of peace and the efforts to build up in this country an efficient merchant marine,
the bureau has thrown open to the public—and particularly to the ship owners, charterers, shippers, insurance interests and maritime business generally, the facilities of its vast and far-reaching service.

Card Index Answered
By means of a card index a question
relating to any ship can be promptly answered—and reliable information as to her sailing date, estimated time of arrival at port of destination, location
at sea, or in port, can be readily given.

It is a service which prior to the war was maintained in a similar manner by many of the foreign maritime nations—some of them much smaller and having far less ships than did this country. With a large merchant marine,

such as this country apparently desired,
the value of such a service, marine
men say, is unquestioned.
Issues a Daily Bulletin
The naval communication service employs about 250 persons, all in navy uniform and under direction of Lieutenant Commander R. E. Coffman. It issues daily, and distributes free of cost to more than 800 shipping firms, newspapers, government officials, maritime exchanges, etc., a bulletin of 143 pages carrying the names of more than 10,000 vessels each name showing nationality, tonnage, location or sailing date. Evidencing the demand for this information the circulation of the bulletin is increasing rapidly. Between the hours of issue, the bureau keeps ship owners advised by telephone of radio messages sent from ships at sea.

The practical sources of information from which the bulletin acquires its data are daily reports by telegraph and cable from naval offices at ports in the United States and from attaches in foreign countries; daily reports from the bureau of operations of the United States navy and offices of the naval intelligence bureau; daily reports (except Sunday) from the British ministry of shipping; information obtained from steamship companies and agents;
Associated Press cablegrams; Lloyd's
Daily Index; the United States shipping board; telephonic reports from lookout stations and guard ships stationed in New York harbor, and from the army piers of the Port of Embarcation, in Hoboken.

Improve Marine Interests
In addition to serving the maritime interests, the naval communication service, through its vast cable, telegraph and radio facilities, is handling practically all the business of the government passing through New York.
Another feature of its service, regarding which the war-time ban of secrecy has but been recently lifted, was the perfecting of an electro-magnetic signaling device whereby fog bound ships may determine their position and be warned away from dangerous shoals.

This device enables the listening operator to determine not only the direction from which the call comes but the distance from which it is sent. By means of cross bearings, taken from different receiving stations it becomes but a simple mathematical problem to determine an exact location, and the vessel sending the signal is so advised. For this service alone the marine interests desire the department continued.

The habit of reading the ads pays bigger dividends than any other habit business-people have developed.

There's always a reason for a big advertisement. It usually carries a big message.

Reducing Truck Costs with Tire Service
Truck costs are affected very much by three things:
1. Proper selection of tires.
2. Proper application of tires.
3. Proper care of tires.
Our service is based upon these three. We begin by carefully studying your needs and accurately determining the proper type and size of tire for your work. We sell Goodyear S-V Solid Tires, Goodyear Cushion Tires and Goodyear Pneumatic Cord Truck Tires because we believe in them and know they are built to deliver the utmost service possible.
Then with ample parking space and a big hydraulic press and capable workmen we apply the tires correctly, speedily and with safety. We examine wheels for loose or broken spokes, shrunken felloes, or loose felloe bands; check body and chain clearances; look for broken or weak springs; inspect brake adjustment. This saves your truck time and guards against the trouble caused by misapplied tires.
When the tires are in use our men inspect them at regular intervals and watch for such things as tread cuts, wheels out of line, overload- ing, careless driving, etc., which if not cared for in time means trouble and loss.
The men make regular reports to you of each tire's condition. This inspection service, which is free, enables you to get full mileage from your tires, better service from your trucks.
Our representative—an expert—will call upon you if you wish and explain in further detail how we can help keep your truck costs down.

Dempsey Romps at Maumee Bay

On the shores of Maumee Bay in Lake Erie, near Toledo, O., a 22-year-old Yank youth weighing 185 pounds has stepped for the most important action of his youthful career. It is Jack Dempsey, challenger to Jess Willard's heavyweight crown in July 4 battle. He has opened camp at the Overland club and every morning he's up with the daylight saving time sun, off for a run, a dip in the lake and then back to a he-man's breakfast. Here are new pictures of the challenger from his camp as he started training. "I'll win"—is Dempsey's pet interview phrase.

TAKING CARE OF THE VISITORS BIG PROBLEM

Committees Turn from Hosteleries to Homes and Public Buildings in Plans for Delegates Coming Here.

The problem of housing delegates who will be the guests of Twin Falls in attendance at one or more of the six state conventions to be held here this month and visitors at the Elker Round-up and patriotic celebration on July 3, 4 and 5, is one of the pressing considerations of the several committees in charge of this feature of the events.

Proprietors of hotels which cannot more than accommodate the regular run of business throw up their hands in despair when the subject of entertainment, convention or celebration visitors is broached.

Resort to Many Schemes

Entertainment committees have turned not only to the homes of Twin Falls for the answer to the problem, but the Knights Pythias and the Pythian Sisters on June 17, 18 and 19, have spoken for use of the addition being built to the Boyd hospital provided it is not finished as to a hotel; the Elker committee has taken up with the school trustees the matter of the use of the school building providing army cots and blankets are available; the Elker committee has taken up with the school trustees the matter of the use of the school building providing army cots and blankets are available; the Elker committee has taken up with the school trustees the matter of the use of the school building providing army cots and blankets are available.

O. E. S. Opens Session

On June 14, 15 and 16, the Idaho State Pharmaceutical association annual convention, bringing together the registrars of the state, will assemble here.

The crash of convention visitors, however, is anticipated for the week of June 17 when the grand lodge of the Knights Pythias, and grand chapter, Pythian Sisters will meet here at the same time that the civil war veterans of the Idaho state, Grand Army of the Republic, together with the ladies of the G. A. B. and the Women's Relief Corps, hold their annual sessions in Twin Falls.

FRIDAY PLAYED MANY TRICKS ON ADAM

Friday has been a troublemaker from the very beginning of time. Even Adam recognized it as his bad luck day. According to Mohammedan traditions, Adam was created on this day of evil fame. He entered paradise on a Friday, and it was a Friday on which he said farewell forever to the Garden of Eden. Friday was the day of his repentance, and Friday was the day of his death. And now, on Friday, the Mohammedans await Adam's resurrection.

Reginald Jones found Friday even more unpropitious than did Adam, for he had the misfortune to be born on Friday the 13th, at thirteen minutes past the thirteenth hour, in a house on 113th street. From that day on the luck of his luck dogged him, and something disagreeable was bound to happen to him every Friday.

Reginald Jones is the unfortunate hero of "Never Say Quilt," the George Walsh comedy which is now showing at the Idaho theatre.

THROUGH FIRE.

By AGNES G. BROGAN.

Margot paused again, before she entered her little home, to look down toward the village where an open window in a rambling building signified David Gray's presence in his work shop. This window was the only way of telling his presence or absence. When David was away upon one of his long enduring trips, the workshop window was sure to be securely closed. And it had been closed now, for so long a time. Fall had changed to winter and winter almost to spring, before the window again opened to the hillside breeze. Margot was glad that she was free to observe from this high a place. For what would have been to her the little home on the hill without the comfort, and interest of David's nearness.

And Margot had not spoken to David for more than ten years. That was the pathos was that David in his absorbed business never knew or dreamed that the sweetheart of his youth thought of him at all. They had been betrothed in those young happy days, and it was Margot's stern old father who had broken the betrothal of dissonance. David was too much of a dreamer, he said, to make his way in the world, a man of visions, would be a poor husband for any woman. Margot, loving David, still could not dispute the justice of her father's reasoning. But she had not broken engagements with her forgotten all about them in fact, in the enthusiastic working out of some mechanical problem? And with his first hand earned money, for which Margot had secretly anticipated the buying of her engagement ring, she had bought a latest of high-priced motor which he triumphantly displayed to her, in his work shop.

Away from his experiments and motors, David was faithfully devoted to the girl who had won his entire affection; but back again in the manning of the building Margot was banished persistently from his busy thought. And Margot at last rebelled. It was after a stormy evening of disappointment that she gave back to David the little turquoise ring which had been his mother's, and determined to live her life as a free woman. And though the stern father had since passed away, leaving Margot alone in the empty house on the hill, David had been too deeply grieved by her desertion, to make any advance toward reconciliation.

He had traveled far and famously from Margot's hill since those youthful passionate days, for the dreamer had become a successful mechanical inventor and the visionary man one of power; so Margot lived her single life, while years lightly touched her, and David's comings and goings were known only through the signal of the work-shop window.

Today, as she paused on the doorstep, Margot's heart suddenly contracted with fear, in the window below glowed a red, threatening light. As she watched a tongue of flame shot up the chimney, and she knew that she would not notice the fire until— "But David's tall figure passed the window. Margot saw the loved thickness of his hair as he bent to extinguish what was after all, but the light of some working engine.

Flashes of light, she slipped into the house. In her heart she realized that had her fears been true, she would have rushed to save David at any peril, and with a sense of great desolation she realized also, the depth of her own enduring love.

David, closing the shop window, did not wait to open the door, in he had looked so many times during the years that were past, for a glimpse of a woman's figure in the lamp light; but instead of the vision for which his heart hungered, showed a dull red glow. Recently David had seen again through the window he saw flames, apparently shooting up the opposite wall of Margot's kitchen. Again the scintill glare flamed higher. If she should be there alone, asleep, maybe and never know. Great drops stood on David's brows, his mouth set firmly—then, he was running—leaping, as he had not run since a boy, straight up the hillside.

When he reached the rear of Margot's house, dense smoke was coming through the kitchen window. David did not wait to open the door, in stepped over the sill of the window. And through the smoke he saw Margot—Margot with all her old smiling witchery—standing near the stove, enveloped in a white apron.

"Why, David!" she said—just that—but her voice seemed to ring.

David at all once breathless, confused, tried to explain.

"I saw the fire," he said, "the smoke, and I feared—"

Margot came nearer, with well remembered surrender she put her hands in his.

"I was trying doughnuts," she said, "and the grease kept flaming up on the stove. It kept on flaming, David, because—I hoped you would see it down there—and I hoped that you would see it—"

HOME'S BEST

By ADELAIDE R. KEMP.

"Good afternoon, Aunt Mary!" The little white-haired lady addressed turned quickly, and at the sight of the pretty girl in the open doorway a quick smile of welcome lighted up her face.

"Why, how d'ye do, Phyllis? How are you, child? Come right in. The Phyllis' black eyes softened at the warm greeting, but she shook her head.

"I can't stop—not today, auntie. It's our Wednesday afternoon club over at Westport, and I'm secretary." "You haven't been here for a long time. I thought your club meeting was yesterday, Phyllis."

"I said Wednesday club, auntie. Yesterday was the library meeting. You don't know when I can get away. I see our study club comes Mondays and I promised to help the Red Cross with their entertainment, and—"

Aunt Mary had turned uneasily, and was looking across to the far side of the valley, where in the upper part of the big Crawford meadow she could see the young farmer turning his big team at the end of a furrow and plowing steadily.

"Don't you get tired of being away so much, Phyllis?" she asked.

Two bright spots flamed suddenly in the young woman's face and her black eyes softened.

"I have to get away often, Aunt Mary. Tom don't care for me as he used to when we were first married. All he thinks about in the wide world is his cows and his pigs. He cares more for his big horses than for me. I must go now." She turned, yet not so quickly that the old lady did not see the tears that twinkled upon the long lashes.

The road to Westport touched the far upper end of the big Crawford meadow where the plowing was going forward. Tom Crawford could hardly fail to see the neatly dressed young woman who passed quickly by. But there was no sign, even the slightest, from either man or woman, that they saw each other. With a set, hard look on his face the young farmer plowed steadily on. The long, straight furrows fell exact and true. A flash of pride lighted his face occasionally as he watched the steady, even work of his team. The hard look had deepened to perception in Tom's face that year. Just how the girl had begun to live between himself and the girl he had married three years before he hardly understood.

Late in the afternoon a shower came unexpectedly and swept down over Westport—a torrid rain accompanied by a fierce wind. From the shelter of the club house Phyllis Crawford looked out at the downpour and the big, wide-armed maples that bent perilously. About her the girls were chattering and busily drying dainty sandals and toothsome cakes. She had planned to go home with one of them and stay for supper. But this sudden storm brought a great wave of loneliness to her. She thought of the meager supper she had set for Tom on the end of the kitchen table. How desolate and uninviting after a hard afternoon's work. The rain was about over when a child with a white, scared face stumbled up the steps of the club house.

"Why, what's the matter, Joe?" the girl exclaimed, grasping him by the arm and pulling him into the room.

The boy looked at Phyllis with frightened eyes. "There's been an accident. Mother told me to tell you. Tom Crawford's horse was frightened and ran away and I guess Tom's hurt."

Phyllis stood quite still, staring out.

Friebo addresses a special appeal to the younger members of the audience to refrain from noisy outbreaks during the program and calls attention also to the fact that the starting of cars or other disturbances during the playing of the Star-Spanned Banner at the close of the program is a mark of gross disrespect. RESOLUTION ON STRIKE TROUBLE
Returned Service Men of Canada Stand by Law Enforcement; Will Make Demands on Labor Council.
WINNIPEG, (AP)—More than four thousand Winnipeg veterans of the great war, including scores of officers and hundreds of union men, after standing at attention in the auditorium this afternoon and singing "God Save the King," pledged themselves and their resources to maintain law and order in Winnipeg and to stamp out Bolshevism and anarchy from the forces of Winnipeg labor.
The mass meeting was still in session early this afternoon. Resolutions were passed demanding that the authorities immediately arrest and punish all persons responsible for the strike situation in Winnipeg, who have attempted to overthrow constitutional government. Deportation of "all undesirable aliens" was urged.
Mayor Charles F. Gray addressed the mass meeting and said the city wanted two thousand special constables from the ranks of returned soldiers, "to protect honest labor from intimidation, to provide food for all classes, and to safeguard every branch of municipal and civil life." A roaring response, "We are at your service," followed, the mayor's request. The city will pay the constables $6 a day.
Demand a Statement
The mass meeting decided to appoint a committee to visit the strike headquarters in the labor temple today and to demand that the strike leaders immediately announce their stand on the local food situation and the alien question. It was intimated that if the strike leaders' reply is not satisfactory, the delegation of returned soldiers would take things into their own hands. Military leaders urged the strikers not to visit the temple en masse "today."

CORONER SEEKS TO FIND CAUSE OF TOLEDO RIOT

Every Effort Being Made to Place Blame for Killing of Two Men; Governor Declines to State Position.

TOLEDO, (AP)—Operations at the Willys-Overland automobile company were at a standstill today as a result of rioting last night in which two persons were shot to death and seventeen injured. The plant opened a week ago Monday after two weeks of idleness.

Clarence A. Earl, vice-president and general manager of the company, announced no attempt would be made to operate the plant, which has been affected by labor disturbances involving 13,000 employes, pending a reply from Governor Cox to an appeal from Mayor Schreiber for troops.

Will Establish Responsibility

Coroner Walter Harting has promised an investigation to establish responsibility for the rioting. The dead men, it is said, were not involved in the labor dispute and were never employed at the Overland plant. They were in the crowd which congregated about a fire station when discharged soldiers who were guarding the plant, arrived in response to a riot call.

Feeling Runs High

Feeling in the neighborhood where the deaths occurred is running high. This is a settlement of Poles. This nationality suffered the most seriously during the rioting and police authorities were apprehensive of further outbreaks today against the former soldiers doing emergency police duty.

Tension is High

The situation was at high tension again today. Mayor Schreiber frankly admitted it was beyond his control, despite the large number of returned

DERBY OPENING ENTRIES MANY

Fourteen Starters at Famous Races Which Are Held in England.

ODDS ARE HEAVY AGAINST WINNER

LONDON, (AP)—The betting against Grand Parade, owned by Lord Glanely, in the ante-post wagering was 33 to 1, but as the time for the race approached he was taken up by many bettors who repeat a good harvest.

Buchan, the second horse, was 1 to 1 in the betting and Paper Money, which finished third, was 7 to 1.

LONDON, (AP)—The opening of the Derby here today showed many ready to take part.

There were fourteen starters. Andrew Black's favorite has long been considered a sure thing, although Sir Walter Giffey's Whiskey Magnate will be a strong contender, and Major Waldorf's Astor's Buchan has been rated as a possibility. There has been much interest in All Alone, because this racer is owned and has been trained by Lady Torrington. The king's stables had nothing good to start in the classic event.

A rain which started early improved the tracks but bothered the crowd to some extent.

FOOD ENOUGH AVERS HOOVER

Surplus of American Crop Will Be Needed Declares Administrator in Statement.

PARIS, (AP)—There is a sufficient surplus of food in the United States to supply Europe and the needs of the world unless some unexpected catastrophe happens to the world's harvests, according to a statement issued today by J. Edgar Hoover, head of the allied relief organization.

The bread budget balance, but the surplus of the American crop of wheat in this year will be needed. The statement says that most of the trading in wheat and rye will be in the hands of the governments.

Other figures released from the survey made by the organization and various governments indicate that the sugar crop in eastern Europe this year will be about 100,000 tons less than the wheat and rye crop 77 per cent, and the vegetable harvest about normal. Since the war, it is estimated, Europe has lost 1,000,000 cattle, 30,000,000 hogs and 4,000,000 sheep.

The statement estimates the European consumption of wheat and rye at 2,500,000,000 bushels, of which between 1,000,000,000 and 1,500,000,000 bushels will have to be imported.

Committee Appointed

The supreme economic council has appointed a committee to study a plan for the liquidation of the world's food surplus and to control and to meet the problems that will arise after the coming harvest.

Much Food Available

The statement continues: "The available surplus of food in Europe from the producing countries will probably lie between 770,000,000 and 850,000,000 bushels. It will appear therefore that the world's present food supply is in excess of 1,000,000,000 bushels. In any event the present indications are that the American bumper wheat and rye crop will be needed for the principal importing European governments have all guaranteed their farmers prices at higher levels than the American guarantee and all are involved in bread subsidies. There will not be much likelihood of much private trade in wheat next year outside of government buying.

Big Cattle Decrease

"Our survey of the food animals show that compared to pre-war conditions there is a not decrease of 18,000,000 cattle in the 29,500,000 in the world before the war, a decrease of 9,500,000 swine from 69,300,000, and a decrease of about 8,600,000 sheep from the pre-war total of 100,000,000. The number of horses also has greatly diminished. The cattle in central Europe probably are on an average a year younger than before the war because of the tendency to save calves and kill the other animals. The cats in these regions are greatly emaciated, with but little milk and meat due until summer feed and imported grains are available. The decrease in sheep in enemy countries is very large but there is an increase in their areas due to the tendency to substitute animals that do not require imported food, for those that require it."

LAST FOOD SHIP IS GOING SOON

Sighting of Treaty Will End System Maintained During War; Trade Regular Henceforth

PARIS, (AP)—The last food ship in the direction of the American food control organization will leave America in a few days, unless there should be a sudden change in world affairs and some new legislation is passed by congress, it was indicated here today. No law is now in existence authorizing the participation of the United States in food control activities after the signing of the peace treaty. American food experts believe it desirable that the financing of food transactions should be handled by bankers and that dealings should be permitted through regular channels.

Normal Trade Soon

Herbert Hoover, chairman of the inter-allied food commission, contends that normal trading should be established throughout the world and insists that attempts made to control the prices will tend to stifle production. All the important governments of the world, with the exception of that of Argentina, having guaranteed prices of wheat, corn and all the European governments having subsidized the bread supply, it is considered probable here that commerce in wheat will remain in government hands next year and that there will be little private trading. The American members of the supreme economic council, however, believe there is no necessity of continuing centralized control of the distribution in Europe.

WINNIPEG STILL IN TURMOIL OF THE STRIKE ISSUE

The question of approaching the general strike, became apparent today. After the majority faction, which has condemned recent hostile parades in which some returned soldiers participated, arranged for a parade today, leaders of the minority faction declared they also would march in a separate demonstration.

Majority Refuse to Take Part

Executives of the Great War Veterans' association declined to recognize the action of about 700 members who passed resolutions last night approving the sympathetic strike of Winnipeg unions. There are about 10,000 members of the Winnipeg association and an overwhelming majority of the members declined to attend the gathering.

A number of returned soldiers were seen on the streets this morning wearing Canadian flags on their coats. The strike sympathizers who figured in the recent parades objected to the wearing of the dominion emblem and forcibly tore flags from the coats of several men.

Corn Bulls Weak

CHICAGO, (AP)—Corn today lacked the snap which has characterized the market of late. For the first time in several days, industries and shippers were slow to take hold. Some authorities said the hesitancy on the part of buyers was more of less due to yesterday's weakness in the stock market.

Opening prices, which ranged from the same as yesterday's, finish at 7 1/2c down with July $1.70 1/4@1.70 3/4 and September $1.61 1/2@1.62, were followed by moderate declines all around.

Oats were off with corn. After opening 1 1/2 to 1 1/2c down, including July at 68 1/8@68 1/4c, the market underwent a further setback.

Provisions declined with grain and hogs. Pork especially was weak.

NEW YORK, (AP)—The liquidation of bank loans yesterday obviously improved the speculative situation and during the forenoon today there was extensive buying for both accounts again. The fact that money was in abundant supply at 6 per cent exerted a favorable influence on speculative sentiment. American Woolen declined 14 points to 126 with a relapse of 8 points. Goodyear, General Motors, Maxwell Motors second preferred, Standard Oil, Mexican Petroleum and Standard Oil all registered advances of 4 to 7 points. United States Steel moved within a half point range but representative calls made good upward progress.

5000 Miles with the Border Patrol

In the United States Army tests at Marfa, Tex., the Marmon 34 was driven 5044 miles, heavily loaded, at an average of 157 miles a day. Mountain grades, stony roads, deep mud and blistering sands were traversed with indomitable endurance and reliability. And under these trying conditions the Marmon averaged 12.6 miles per gallon of gasoline, and 1.40 miles per gallon of oil.

Having established this incomparable record, the same Marmon car made a scaled run of 2,931 miles additional—from Marfa to Washington, D. C.—on its original tires. This time it averaged 13.26 miles to the gallon of gasoline, and 1.302.8 to the gallon of oil.

Due to its light weight, motor efficiency, oilless bearings and automatic lubrication, the Marmon again and again has demonstrated that no car in the world of equal size and power is so economical in operation and maintenance.
