STRANGLE HOLD OF BOLSHEVISM TIGHTENING ON FORMER DUAL EMPIRE COMMUNIST GOVERNMENT TO BE PROCLAIMED IN AUSTRIA ON SUNDAY

HUMAN ASSEMBLY GATHERING AT WEIMER TOWN

Will Only Mark Time Until the Reply from the Allies Has Been Received on Saturday Night.

IMPORTANT ALTERATIONS ABSENT FROM DOCUMENT

German Population Expects Occupation and Officials Are Withdrawing Material from Bridgeheads Along Rhine.

WEIMAR, (AP)—Although the national assembly has been called to meet here tomorrow, it is not likely to sit formally until Friday or Saturday. Its prime purpose is the discussion and study of the allied answer to the German counter-proposals and these are not expected to be received before Friday, if then.

Ready Saturday Night
PARIS, (AP)—There was increasing belief in peace conference circles today that the reply to the German counter-proposals would not be ready for delivery before late Saturday night. Five days has been definitely fixed as the limit within which the Germans must decide upon their course.

Associated Press Summary
There is an evident impression in Paris that the allied reply to the German counter-proposals, which probably will be ready late Saturday night, will refuse the German request for important alterations in the terms of peace. The Germans will be given five days in which to make up their minds as to their course. This final action by them on the treaty may be expected on or about June 18.

Reply to the counter-proposals, according to French conference sources, agree to a possible further discussion subject to certain clearly defined conditions.

Make Minor Concessions

While the council of four probably will explain the provisions of the treaty and may grant some minor concessions, it appears there are to be no changes that will materially lighten the burden placed on the enemy by the treaty presented May 7.

Bolshevism Rampant

The menace of Bolshevism in central Europe has again assumed proportions which are of serious concern in peace conference circles. The success of the Hungarian-soviet against the Czechoslovak, the military reverse suffered by the Kolchak forces in southeastern Russia and the danger of Austria passing under Bolshevik control have all brought matters to a stage where there is no disposition in official circles to minimize the danger. Indeed, it is feared by Bolshevism on the east and south and had pressed by the Germans on the west, is said also to be potentially threatened from the direction of Austria.

Advices from Paris indicate that the peace conference has decided to back up the demand made upon Bela Kun by Clemenceau, president of the conference, who wired the Hungarian soviet government's foreign minister to cease hostilities against the Czechoslovak.

RAILROAD OPERATORS ORDERED TO DECLINE WESTERN UNION WORK

Postal Telegraph Company Also Under Ban of Directions Given to Take Effect Saturday Evening; Thirty Thousand Offices Affected by New Move of the Union.

SWEEPING CLAIMS OF VICTORY ARE CONFIDENTLY MADE BY BOTH SIDES

FEDERATION GIVES MORAL SUPPORT TO STRIKE OF ELECTRICAL WORKERS
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., (AP)—Moral support of the strike called for June 16 by the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, which includes the bulk of union telephone operators throughout the country, today was voted by the American Federation of Labor, which unanimously adopted a resolution containing such a provision.

ST. LOUIS, (AP)—An order directing members of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers to discontinue handling business of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies after six a. m., Saturday, June 14, was issued here today by E. J. Manion, president of the railroad telegraphers. The order affects eighty thousand railroad operators and approximately thirty thousand telegraph offices, according to officials of the organization.

Talked to Atlantic City
The announcement followed long distance telephone conversations with union representatives in New York and Atlantic City, N. J., where the American Federation of Labor convention is in session. Just when the New York operators will join the strike was not stated.

Despite claims of company officials that the strike has failed, the outlook is more optimistic than ever. Today here are fully 18,000 telegraph company workers on strike throughout the country. The strike has hardly started. The best results are being obtained in the south, the southwest and the west. In Arizona the tie up is growing. Today conferences are being held with the government of Arizona by business men who are anxious to see a settlement.

Electrical Workers to Join
"On Monday the electrical workers will join the strike, adding a total of more than 100,000 to the striking force. We are out to win and we will win."

Strike Pronounced Failure

The statement was followed shortly by a bulletin issued at the headquarters of the Association of the Western Union Employees, by the deputy vice-president, Edward E. Wainwright.

The association represents 65 per cent of the Western Union employees. Western Union officials here reiterated that only a very small number of their operators throughout the country had joined the strike. Officials of the Postal Telegraph company here, which was badly hit by the strike yesterday, said that a large proportion of their operators returned to work this morning.

Telegraphers Always Ready to Arbitrate

CHICAGO, (AP)—The reports that the striking telegraphers were ready to arbitrate, Koenekamp said: "It may have been ready to arbitrate since long before the strike all was issued. Postmaster General Burleson knows that he could settle the entire controversy by agreeing to permit the right to organize, and by enforcing the rule that there be no discrimination against union workers. There should be a fair tribunal to effect an equitable wage scale by mutual agreement. Mr. Burleson has vigorously opposed such proposals."

ALIGNMENT WITH HUNGARY REGARDED AS DECIDEDLY SERIOUS COMPLICATION

LONDON, (AP)—A communist government will be proclaimed in Austria on Sunday with promise of immediate success, according to information in government circles here.

PARIS, (AP)—Bolshevism and a discussion of the position of Bela Kun, foreign minister of the Hungarian soviet government, figure prominently in the deliberations of both the council of four and the council of foreign ministers today.

The success of the Hungarian Bolsheviki against the Czechoslovakia have given the peace conference anxiety for many days and the council of four has decided that the boundaries between Hungary and Rumania and between Hungary and Czechoslovakia must be positively determined in order that Bela Kun may be told specifically to what points his troops must be withdrawn if he desires to avoid a clash with the five great powers and win a hearing from the peace conference.

ITALIANS START RIOT OVER RELECTIVE RELEASE

Difficulty Experienced in Quelling Mob When Alleged Murderer Is Given Bond.

DENVER, Colo. (AP)—More than two thousand Italians, angered by the action of court authorities last night in releasing on bond Detective George Klein, head of the police liquor squad, charged with the murder of Jerry Corbett, a discharged soldier, marched in a body to city hall last night and demanded that Klein be placed in jail and discharged from the police force. Police reserves were called out and efforts of Chief of Police William Armstrong and Roman Catholic priests, finally quieted the throng, the men showing their appreciation of Chief Armstrong by lifting him to their shoulders.

Shot During Riot

Corbett was shot by Klein Monday when he ran from the officer during a riot on the street. Klein is suspected of selling liquor. Corbett died yesterday and a charge of murder was placed against Klein who was liberated on bond.

Corbett a Soldier. The fact that Corbett was a former soldier disturbed the Italians particularly, cries of "he fought two years in war and policemen kill him" being heard. There were a few cries of "bring him out" and "lets got him," and "we want justice," but Chief Armstrong and the priest finally induced the leaders to put their grievances in the hands of a committee and the crowd marched away for a demonstration through the business district, carrying two large flags, one the Stars and Stripes and the other the Italian emblem.

After marching to the newspaper offices, where cries of "we want justice" were renewed, the crowd dispersed.

AUCKLAND, New Zealand.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press).—The battalion of Maoris, New Zealand aborigines, who fought in the Gallipoli campaign and afterward in France, has been welcomed home with a great feast, haka (war-dances) and tangi, or lament for those who fell in battle.

The acting prime minister, Sir James Allen, told them: "You Maoris hold a proud position in the world's history. From the time of its formation early in the war the Marl battalion was maintained at a strength of 1,200 entirely by voluntary enlistment."

Backed in Oven

Great quantities of mutton, beef, pork and other food had been baked in earthen ovens for the occasion. About 2,000 Maoris in all shared in this feast. There were several poi (a native delicacy) dances.

The tangi was a scene of much emotion. The soldiers sat by tribes encircled by sorrowing natives. Led by the chief, the mourners wailed and wailing chants for those of their race who will never return. All the treasured heirlooms of the tribes had been brought from their ancestral lands for the welcome. There were judo ornaments, mats, chiefs' head dresses and beautiful fish. The chiefs of the various tribes delivered speeches in their own Maori language, after which there was a haka by the famous Arava tribe and the speech of welcome by Sir James Allen.

The divine declared there is less democracy in the United States than in England; advocated a return to private control of railroads, telephone and telegraphs; demanded that Germany be made to pay the full cost of the war to the whole world; "even though it takes a thousand years," and urged the right of the American people to discuss and have the deciding voice in acceptance of peace and the league of nations by the United States.

Bishop Quayle prefaced his statements with a hope that he could speak his mind without being muffled. He said he spoke without party qualifications.

TRADE OF JAPAN STRIDING AHEAD

Nipponese and Australians Profit by the Cutting of Trade with Europe.

SYDNEY, (AP)—Japan has made great strides in developing her trade with Java since the beginning of the war and is now extending her commercial advantages there, says R. Dryver, of Sourabaya, Java, an expert upon far eastern affairs.

"The cutting off of European supplies by the war," said Mr. Dryver, "forced Java to rely upon Japanese and Australian markets and these trade routes will not suffer from the resumption of European activities. To my mind the east should be independent of the west in trade. Japanese concentration in the Pacific puts in strong light her ambition to acquire commercial mastery in eastern waters."

Investigates Philippines

Mr. Dryver recently was commissioned by the Dutch government to investigate the government of the Philippine islands with a view to possible changes in the government of Java which would affect 40,000,000 Javanese. He will recommend a number of changes but said it would be an easy matter to treat the Javanese as the Philippines were being treated because there was a marked difference in intelligence between the two races. This was in favor of the Philippines.

He expressed the opinion that it would not be possible to grant independence to the Philippines for some years. "The passing of the war," he said, "will see its introduction," he said. "Considerations of the safety of the United States influence the withholding of this concession to the archipelago."

MEN ENLISTMENT BEAT OUTPUT OF MUNITIONS

Director Crowell Makes Long Explanation of Mistakes in Conduct of the War.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—The war demoralized the nation, "organized, trained and transport troops are far behind at a rate which leaves far behind any program for the manufacture of munitions," Assistant Secretary Crowell, director of munitions, said in his introductory summary to the official history of "America's munitions."

The book, released today, is a volume of 200 pages. The text of which is mostly minutely into details of steps taken by the war department to organize a system to meet the over-increasing demands of the overseas forces for mechanical equipment and munitions.

List of Failures

An critic has an easy opportunity to discover that certain things were not done, Secretary Crowell frankly says, and then enumerates the outstanding failures:

"American airplanes did not arrive at the front in sufficient numbers; American guns in certain essential calibers did not appear at all; American shells were not fired; American troops fought with French and British machine guns to a large extent."

Reviewing the historical facts which have been cited as explaining these unaccomplished hopes, Mr. Crowell pointed out again that 1920 had been definitely set by the allied governments as the goal for which America should strive, that "in the decision to prepare heavily for 1919-1920 and to sacrifice for 1917-1918 the munitions which might have been produced at that time, adequate preparation for the more distant future was based on sound strategic reasoning on the part of the allies and ourselves."

Four Lines of Endeavor

The official program for American co-operation, adopted by the supreme war council, is stated to be: (1) to meet the needs of the front; (2) to maintain the material already in production for them here; (3) to send as many men as could be transported by available shipping; and (4) to bend all energies to the task of great army which would deliver the final blow.

When the enemy's spring offensive brought the cry for "men—more men" the report says the response was as thorough, that in July, 1918, the number sent across was three times that contemplated in the original staff estimates.

Attention was called to the fact that while the army was college had on file detailed plans for defending American harbors, coasts and borders, there was no plan for "the equally important and equally necessary mobilization of industry." The years of 1917 and 1918, the volume says, will stand as a monument to the American genius of workshop and factory which in this period insured the victory.

The munitions report prepared in compliance with a request from Secretary Baker who declared that "as the whole people have been called upon to make sacrifices for the war, all the people should be given an opportunity to know what has been done in their behalf."

TURMOIL TEARS DALLAS IN SYMPATHETIC STRIKE

First Bloodshed in Struggle Which Has Been Going on for Three Months.

DALLAS, Tex., (AP)—With two hundred special policemen sworn in, the regular police force working twelve hour shifts instead of eight hours, five held in jail charged with murder and $500 reward offered by the mayor for evidence leading to the conviction of the slayer of A. J. Fisher, a guard employed to protect non-union workmen, the electrical workers and sympathetic strikers, the situation in Dallas was quiet tonight, after a clash between alleged union strikers and non-union workers, in addition to the killing of Fisher, two men were injured.

First Bloodshed

Today's was the first bloodshed in the strike, which has been in effect nearly three months. A crowd of non-union men was attacked while at work in a thickly populated residential district. Fisher, a guard employed by the Dallas Electric Power company, against which the strike is directed, received a charge of buckshot in the head and died instantly.

Five dead and four strikers were arrested on charges of murder filed by the police.

SPY ON HUBBY IS TAMPA GAME

Women Decide to Put Each Other Wise to Moral Delinquencies of Companions.

TAMPA, Fla., (AP)—Five hundred Tampa women have formed the Women's Protective League and say they propose to clean up organized vice by direct action—that they propose to undermine its support.

By the establishment of a sort of moral credit bureau this organization proposes to furnish any woman a confidential report on the "double life" of her husband if she wants one. The inquiry does not mean to give her own name in making the inquiry; she may designate a post office box address or any place where an agent of the league may deposit the report on its investigation.

Seventy Investigating

Organizers of the bureau say that seventy of their number have pledged to do an investigation of their own open while the remainder will work in secret.

"So many have such old reproaches for husbands," said one of the chiefs, "that they can't work openly because their husbands won't let them. Therefore they will work secretly." The theory of the league is that if a man has not been walking so straight and upright a path one of the five hundred will know about it—or at least can find out.

MORE MUSICAL HYMNS WANTED BY AUTHORITY

Sir John McEure Opposed to Singing of Certain Sorts of Sacred Songs.

LONDON, (AP)—Hymns used by Non-conformist churches in this country were vigorously criticized at a recent meeting here of the Congregational Union by Sir John McEure, an authority on music. Few of the tunes of the "Sankey type introduced from America," he asserted, even reached the standard of "respectable morality," and many of them were "hopelessly vulgar."

He described as "pitiable doggerel" the hymn called "Fight the good fight with all thy might."

A plan was made by Sir John for "services of beauty." Remarking that the sermon had become "the golden calf of denominations," he said that their assemblies for worship were too often looked upon as mere public meetings and their churches as the lecture rooms of popular speakers.

The question of jurisdiction was raised after Chairman Delligler in opening the hearing, and explained it was the committee's purpose to go into the case from the beginning, and permit the introduction of evidence by the defense which was excluded at the trial in federal court in which Berger was convicted and given a 20 year sentence for violation of the espionage act.

KOREANS CLAIM WORKING STATE

Leaders Declare That They Have a Complete Provisional Government.

SEOUL, Korea.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press)—Leaders of the Korean independence league claim that they have secretly set up a provisional government in Korea with Yi Seung-man as president. The list of the "cabinet members" contains the names of Koreans who have been educated in the United States. Covenants alleged to have been adopted declare that the form of the national organization is a republic, that the national policy is that of respecting the liberty and rights of the people and of developing the peace and welfare of the world and that the people are under obligation to pay taxes and give military service.

Make Demands on Japan

The statement issued declares that 25 persons representing the 13 provinces of Korea have voted to demand Japan to hand over the right of ruling Korea and to withdraw troops from Korea and that Koreans shall refuse to pay any kind of taxes to the Japanese government.

Provisional government "orders" in which it says that the people shall obey no orders from Japan and that each village must organize a temporary self-governing body to preserve public peace and order until Korea is taken back from the "enemy," Japan.

REBUDEANCE OF BOLHEVISM

The successes of the armies of the Bolsheviks during the past week against enemies in Russia and the defeat of Czech-Slovak forces by Hungarian troops...

The explanation for this phenomenon does not lie, as agitators who advocate the "dictatorship of the proletarians" would have it, in the excellence of the program outlined...

The cause for the hesitation undoubtedly was the presentation of a list of charges purporting to show that Kollchak, while a man of great ability, was in close touch with the imperial regime...

In view of this condition, the statement in the dispatches today that Kollchak has selected a commission to study constitutional questions for the purpose of submitting a constitution to a constituent assembly becomes significant...

In the meantime, however, his delay in this and the methods imputed to his troops have caused the loss of important towns, following severe defeats in the field.

Uncertainty in regard to the future, a feeling of despair at the thought of possible inability to bear the load of indemnities which they anticipated would be loaded on them and insufficient food, undoubtedly had much to do with turning Hungary over to the Bolsheviks.

The problem is a knotty one, for Bolshevism is a matter of psychology; the Bolshevik is generally a political hypochondriac. The cure would seem to be a quick determination of just what the defeated nations are expected to bear, accompanied by assurance of sufficient nourishment while they are hearing it; and above all, an assurance in some tangible way that no effort will be made to force on the masses of the countries involved, the reactionary sort of government from which they escaped.

Their muscles have been distorted and twisted by the character of government from which they suffered in the past and they are not yet accustomed to walking. The obstructions over which these people, when used to liberty will lightly skip, prove insurmountable hurdles to many of them.

Bolshevism is an obstacle to progress. It has nothing in common with democracy. It is depopulation of the worst type and is as much if not more of a menace to Europe today than were the imperialistic plans of William of Germany at the beginning of the war.

Apparently, Austria-Hungary is following in the footsteps of Russia, and this following a period of nearly seven months during which the strongest men of Europe went to America to be endeavoring to frame a peace program which shall spell orderly government for victor and vanquished over Europe.

DAVIS ACTION APPROVED

The people of Idaho approved of party will applaud Governor Davis for his action in remaining in New York to greet the returning boys from Idaho. No man can sufficiently express the pleasure that their return gives all the people...

Matthew Arnold's Praise of Bible

Matthew Arnold, a great critic, was anything but orthodox. "As well," said he, "imagine a man with a sense for sculpture not cultivating it by the help of the remains of Greek art, and a man with a sense of poetry not cultivating it by the help of Homer and Shakespeare, as a man with a sense for conduct not cultivating it by the help of the Bible."

Beauty

Oh, talk us we may of beauty as a thing to be cherished from mirth or wrought-out on canvas; speculate as we may upon its colors and outlines, what is it but an intellectual abstraction, after all? The heart feels a beauty of another kind; looking through the outward environment, it discovers a deeper and more real loveliness.

There's a Vision

If the moon looks larger here than in Europe, probably the sun looks larger also. If the heavens of America appear infinitely higher and the stars brighter, I trust that those facts are symbolical of the height to which the philosophy and poetry and religion of her inhabitants may one day soar.

PROPOSED ROAD ROUTE TO FOLLOW CANYON WALLS

Petitioners Ask County Commissioners to Open Thoroughfare Through Two Farms South of Kimberly.

A public road beginning at the A. E. Morrow farm about four miles south of Kimberly, three and three-fourths miles south of the state highway in section 9, township 10 north and range 12 east, continued along the rim of Buck Creek canyon for a distance of about three-fourths of a mile through the farms of A. E. Morrow and Elmer Marwick to connect with a road at section 7, which a grade crosses Buck Creek, if a petition filed Wednesday with the county commissioners receives favorable consideration.

STREETS BECOME DIVERS WHEN WATER MAIN BREAKS

Flaw in Cast Iron Pipe Gives Way Under Pressure Creating Geysers.

Main avenue was inundated at about midnight last night when a flaw in the new 10 inch cast iron main at the rear of the Cozzigitt painting establishment on Second avenue west gave way under pressure which approximated 70 pounds, developing a variable geyser continuing for about 30 minutes before the supply was cut off.

The new laws about the postoffice building was flooded and the several basements became pools of water, the fire engine being used to pump out the basement of the old postoffice building on Main avenue west, occupied by the Ellic Millinery company and by the Johnson Plumbing and Heating company.

The water rose at the Hotel Perrine corner until it reached the general basement at the doors of the hotel and of the Majestic pharmacy. The block was marooned for almost an hour although water did not enter the basement of the building.

The basement under the Twin Falls Bank and Trust company would have been flooded but for the action of the occupants in piling sacks about the stair entrance.

This is the second break of consequence since the use of the new system was begun last Monday. On Monday night the main at the rear of the Ellic Millinery company east between Second and Third streets broke, and several basements were flooded, including those of the Blabbe studio and the Bryce building on Second street.

NURSES' HOME CONTRACTS LET

The county commissioners late Wednesday awarded contracts for construction of the nurses' home on the county general hospital site to Ernest White of Twin Falls, on his bid of $25,540, and for installation of plumbing and heating equipment in the same building to Oscar Johnson of Twin Falls, on his bid of $4505.

Construction of the building is to begin in the immediate future and according to the terms of the contract it is to be completed ready for occupancy by December 1. Two weeks' time is considered sufficient for the installation of the plumbing and heating systems in the nurses' home and also for remodeling the heating pipe returns in the hospital which is included as an item of contract.

Plans for this on this work were opened by the commissioners on June 6, but their awards had been reserved until this time. The awards are made to the lowest bidders.

Plans for the nurses home were drawn by Capt. E. H. Gates, designer of the county general hospital building, who is retained as supervising architect in connection with the work to be done. The construction of the nurses' home in effect, will practically double the capacity of the county general hospital.

Several men are employed by the Filer district in road repair crews and the survey party including men. "We are particularly fortunate in securing as our superintendent of construction, George Bennett, who has had long experience in road building in Oklahoma, Texas and Montana."

"We are confident that with the funds placed at our disposal an adequate system of satisfactory roads will be provided for the district," he added.

Discharging The Editor By UNA BARLOWE

(Copyright, 1919, by McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

It was the third time within two days that Olive Claggott had called in the office of Bennett Stokes, the managing editor, and she was well aware that her resulting feeling of embarrassment was caused by something more than the fact that she had come on an errand, the desired result of which would be most unfavorable to Bennett Stokes.

The "something more" Olive had felt along the way. Her presence there from the first day she met him. It was this that made her on all occasions go out of her way to avoid him. For Olive Claggott convinced herself that she had not the slightest desire to fall under the sway of such fascination as Bennett might exert over her.

Her new position as business manager of the Morning Banner was far too important to be imperiled by any such distractions. But now she had come entirely in the interests of the Banner—she had been delegated to the office by Mr. Fordey.

She had asked for an interview with Mr. Fordey, the owner of the Banner. But he was away.

"You told me, you know, that you would be able to tell me something definite by this time," Olive said with a smile that crept into Bennett's gray eyes. "He is not in town and won't be. I will find it worth while to go to him. You ought at least to tell me where he is to be found."

"Yes, quite so," mused Bennett, turning over with a tinge of embarrassment the manuscript that lay before him on his editorial desk. "That would at least seem fair—but the fact is that Fordey is an odd sort of fellow. Hasn't personally visited the office for I'm sure I don't know how long. Suppose you write a letter to him and I'll see that it gets delivered to him."

Stokes had already made this suggestion, which had met with Olive's disapproval, but the matter was important. The entire success of the Banner depended on laying her proposition before Mr. Fordey without delay, so with an expression that made it quite apparent that Bennett had held him personally responsible for the inaccessibility of their chief she withdrew, promising to have the letter ready before the evening was over.

It was a harder letter to write than even Olive had anticipated, but as business manager she had no alternative but to have no pressing duties at that time, and while the editorial force and compositors and pressmen were working under the grim concentration necessary to get even so unpretentious a paper out as the Morning Banner, she was rather deliberately composing the important letter.

She waited until the paper was well in the hands of the composing room before she again sought Mr. Stokes in his office. She had thought twice before she stepped into the envelope—and then she had decided to try.

After all, there was no reason why she should leave it open, she was asking Stokes no personal favor in seeing that it was addressed and if he did read it—but something assured her that Mr. Stokes was too honorable for that.

"Won't you wait just two or three minutes—I'll get my desk cleared," he said as she turned to leave the room. "I wish I might walk home with you. It is rather late."

"Thank you," Olive said in spite of a desire that was strong within her. "I am going with one of the girls—we are quite used to it, you know."

Bennett waited only till Olive had got halfway down the corridor; then he stepped quietly, pushed the door shut, returned to his desk and deliberately broke open the sealed flap of the letter to Mr. Fordey.

The proposition was clearly put. It was not Olive's proposition, but one that had been formulated by the entire staff of the Banner, save, of course, Mr. Stokes, who had always failed to attend the weekly meetings of the personnel of the paper. Now, as every one knew, the Morning Banner had been especially hard hit by the draft.

meant that if the paper could be made entirely woman-run, the achievement would be so novel that the Banner would be the only paper of its kind in an otherwise ordinary newspaper. Bennett would be eager for it, it would be watched and quoted, and even joked about, but all that would help the circulation and the advertising. If Mr. Fordey looked favorably on the proposition would he please discharge the managing editor?

The young woman who was now the city editor was really qualified for the job. The few remaining males who now worked an office boys and shipping clerks could be easily replaced by women and a new era would open for the Banner. The Banner would become famous the world over as a paper run entirely by women.

Bennett Stokes read the letter twice, then he looked intently at the beguiling ceiling of his office and gazed at the floor. Then he laughed a little grimly, repeated the letter in its torn envelope, and in his pocket, and he looked first to the left then to the right. At the right he encountered the eyes of Olive Claggott standing a few feet away.

"I couldn't help but see," she said. "Mr. Stokes, I didn't believe you were capable of doing such a thing."

Then with a sudden courageness Bennett blocked the passage as Olive tried to force her way by.

"Good night," she said, "I hope when you are quite through with Mr. Fordey you will let me hear from him."

By this time Bennett had two strong hands on Olive's wrists and was guiding her in spite of herself into the room. He closed the door behind them and ordered her rather than asked her to take a chair.

"You are quite through with the letter now," he said. "The idea's a good one, but I'm thinking about something else. Ever since you've been here, Miss Claggott, you have avoided me and have made me feel that you bore me as a grudge—and the funny thing is that it's been directed at me and to you. It's one of those things that you can't help—that sort of foreordained witchery of one woman. I'm not blaming you—heaven knows you have fought against exerting it if you ever were aware that you did it. I'm simply asking you to tell me the cause for your unpopularity."

"But it wasn't my idea to ask for your resignation," Olive said. In spite of herself she felt her tears welling into her eyes. "I shall miss you very, very much—more than you can possibly know. I wrote the letter because I was determined to do so, and I knew my duty was first by the Banner. Besides, there are bigger things for you to do." And then the business manager broke down completely, and burying her face first on the side of Bennett's desk and then, as he gently stroked her hair, she sobbed into the shoulder of the editorial office coat, she said exactly what she had determined never to admit—that she herself felt a strange and compelling attraction to Bennett.

"And when that sort of attraction is mutual there is only one way around it," Bennett was saying. "There is no longer any question as to the success of the marriage."

There was a knock on the editorial door and the voice of the city editor, suggested as Bennett's successor, called for Bennett's attention. "Olive, I thought you were coming."

Olive quickly rose to go, with a look of a guilty schoolgirl.

"But what shall I tell them about Mr. Fordey and the letter?"

"Oh, they might as well know," he said. "Mr. Fordey's business manager has been a foolish fad of mine. Yes, tell them they can have it and good luck to them—but they must name a new business manager."

KNOW TREATY RESOLUTION BEFORE THE SENATE. (Continued from page one) In this city it was asserted by union officials that 600 men had struck, but company officials said the number was much less.

Efforts of league supporters in the committee to postpone committee action failed, and it was predicted the resolution would be taken up in the senate early next week.

The first motion to strike out the last section failed on a tie vote, but Senator Fall, who had voted in the negative, motioned to reconsider, giving the proposal a majority of two.

The committee discussed briefly its investigation of how treaty copies had reached New York, and the general sentiment was that the inquiry never should be resumed.

BORAH OPPOSED PROVISION. The motion to strike out the section relating to European affairs occupied the committee during most of its two hour session. Senators Borah, republican, Idaho, and Johnson, republican, Iowa, were the chief opponents, and expressed such pronounced opposition that its supporters decided the resolution never could be approved by the senate unless the provision were eliminated.

On the motion which struck out the section, Senators Lodge, Massachusetts, Borah, Idaho, and Johnson, Connecticut, New Mexico; Knox, Pennsylvania; Johnson, California; New, Indiana and Moses, New Hampshire, all republicans, voted in the affirmative, and Senators Hitchcock, Nebraska; Williams, Mississippi; Swanson, Virginia; Pittman, Nevada; Smith, Arizona; Deeney, and McCumber, republican, North Dakota, in the negative.

Continued rains were reported in some states, and there was a disposition to look on the European drought as also a bullish factor. Opening prices which ranged from 1-4c to 1-5-8c higher, with July $1.69 1/4@1.7, and September $1.61@1.62, were followed by slight additional gains. Cuts were lighter with corn. Provisions responded to the strength of grain and hogs. Lard was in special demand.
