

FATE OF ESTATE WORRIES FORMER GERMAN KAISER

Hohenzollern Dismisses His Finances with Sometime Court Functionary When Not Seeing Wood.

AMERSONG, (P)—The former German emperor has been discussing his financial problems for more than a week with Doctor J. Knigge...

Dr. Knigge, one of the former German functionaries of the German foreign office, had been here as a confidant with Herr Hohenzollern when the latter was not engaged in wood sawing.

The former emperor is not short of money, as he possessed a considerable amount on deposit in Holland before war began.

Personal Expense Big.—But William is troubled as to the fate of his real estate. He possessed now few than 55 castles, hunting boxes and country seats scattered over the empire.

The expenses of the Dutch court of procedure on the German estate also fall on the Hohenzollern purse.

No Light on Intentions.—The German government's intentions concerning the former emperor's private fortune cannot be gleaned, says German news recently from the official press.

BOLSHEVIKI AT WORK ON AFGHANS

British Government Officials Blame Russian Reds for Uprising.

LONDON, (P)—British government officials are convinced that the uprising in Afghanistan is being fostered by the Russian Bolsheviks. It is stated that the government has positive information that the Amir is in close touch with the Bolsheviks in Turkistan and Moscow and that Russian emissaries have been sent to Afghanistan.

It is believed here that the Amir is delaying answering a Russian ultimatum which he requested until he can further concentrate his forces, stir up more trouble among frontier tribes and get assistance either in the form of propaganda or money from Russia.

RECENT SUCCESS OF THE BOLSHEVIKI IN TRANS-Caucasia are regarded with apprehension and as likely to impress the Afghans.

HOLLAND SCORES FIRST HEAT IN DIPLOMAT MEET

Agreement on Commission to Study Old Treaties Kills Out Belligerent Feeling on Belgian Dutch Question.

PARIS, (P)—Holland has scored in the first heat of the diplomatic tournament with her neighbor Belgium over the claims of the treaties of 1839, which have aroused a good deal of feeling on both sides in the Belgio-Dutch border.

It was agreed to institute a commission to study the old treaties of 1839, which gave Holland the Limburg "peninsula"—the narrow elongated strip of land popularly known as the "Dutch appendix," by crossing which the Germans in their retreat last fall saved themselves a débarras of some 40 miles and possible capture by the allied armies.

The Belgians dug up ancient records showing that several towns and villages situated in Dutch Limburg had, in the thirteenth century, petitioned the first king of Belgium, Philip the Bold, to join them to his kingdom. Although the Dutch Limburgers of the present day are said to have no such desire, an influential section of Belgian politicians clamored for the annexation of Limburg to Belgium.

Also, to safeguard the future position of Antwerp, the Belgian annexationists claimed the territory known as Dutch Flanders situated on the southern bank of the Scheldt estuary, which the treaties named had also given to Holland.

These territorial claims aroused a storm of patriotic indignation in Holland. Queen Wilhelmina visited the disputed parts of her dominions, and there was a good deal of flag waving and shouting about "dying for the last ditch" before giving up national territory. The situation was becoming unpleasant. Cool-headed elements in Holland realized that an arrangement from the Belgian view would be fraught with disastrous consequences. When a conference was called by the five great powers to reconsider the treaties of 1839, a delegation of eminent Dutch jurists, came to Paris with the firm resolve to avoid anything in the nature of a breach with Belgium.

On the revision of territory, however, their instructions were definite, and the Dutch standpoint has been upheld by the five great powers.

It was agreed to institute a commission of seven powers, including Belgium and Holland. This commission is to examine the proposed revision of the treaties of 1839 and submit proposals "implying neither a transfer of sovereignty nor the creation of new states." The commission will invite Belgium and Holland to submit "joint formulas" in the matter of waterways, the general principles of the peace conference to be applied as basis for the same.

The belligerent feeling on both sides now has almost died down.

The New Mrs. CHARLIE CHAPLIN Who is she? HAVE YOU seen her? Who is she? What does she look like—the girl who won for a husband the wealthiest actor in the whole world? Why did he fall in love with her? Is she beautiful? Is she young? Is she talented? YES! She's every one of these and when you see her you'll fall in love with her, too. Playing Cards.
Although it is commonly reported that playing cards were invented in France in 1892 to divert Charles VI, D'Allemagne, a French writer on the subject mentions them as being in use in Belgium in 1670, and probably something analogous to them—marked dice or counters—have been employed in the East from remote antiquity. It is now generally thought that it was in Italy playing cards were first made,
about 1870, and at Venice.
The End.
We cannot see the end from the beginning, but as long as we can see the beginning, whether it be the best we are entering on, or some duty that is required of us, we see enough—one step at a time—and we know, that we shall be so guided on to the end. If we sit down and wait for the whole plan to unfold before our view, we shall wait endlessly.

MEDAL WEIGHTED HERO COMES TO SPEAK HERE

Arthur Loeb, Saver of Many Lives, Stops Off to Tell of His Experiences.

Weighted down with medals awarded for brave acts under extraordinary circumstances. Arthur Loeb is here breaking a trip which started ten days ago at Honolulu, and which is scheduled to end in France a month hence.

The swimmer came into prominence as a hero and life saver during the Eastland steamship disaster in the Chicago river on July 24, 1915. On this occasion he saved 38 persons from the overturned and wrecked vessel.

One year later he was prominent in rescue work in the Cleveland tunnel disaster, rescuing four men on this occasion and taking out 13 bodies of the drowned victims.

While conducting rescue work at the Eastland wreck Loeb sustained a broken skull and a ruptured blood vessel in the head just above the left eye. This injury was the result of striking a steel girder while diving into a death trap of the ship.

Loeb has been employed by the government the past six months helping in the construction of foundations at hydroplane landings. He was rejected for army service on account of injuries received during the Eastland life saving operation.

SOFT FRUIT BUSHES DAMAGED BY MITES

Entomologist Tells of Ravages of Bug and Gives Directions for Destruction.

Raspberries, currants, gooseberries and other bush fruits as well as ornamental flowers, roses principally, and garden plants are being damaged by a very small greenish mite which is commonly called the "red spider."

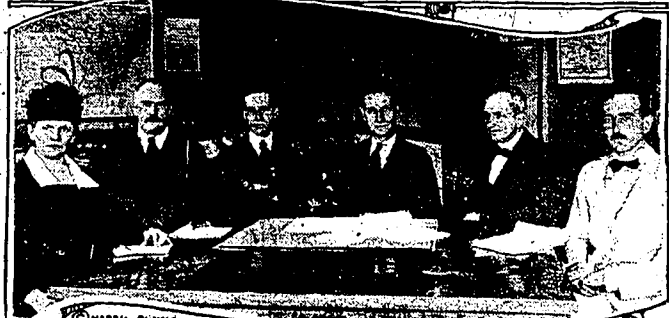

The easiest way to get rid of the red spider, Mr. Smith says, is to give the infested plants a thorough drenching with the garden hose, setting the nozzle so as to direct all the pressure of the water on to the plants.

Where water pressure is not available spraying will have to be resorted to. Ordinarily the mites may be killed at the rate of one pound of sulphur to five or ten gallons of soapy water.

Jefferson's Wisdom.

Thomas Jefferson said: "I have often thought that if heaven had given me a choice of my position and calling, it should have been a rich spot of earth, well watered, and near a good market. No occupation is so delightful to me as the culture of the earth."

PUT DAYLIGHT LAW IN 1920 SCRAP HEAP

Even though the repeal of the daylight saving law is an effective until Oct. 26 and too late to aid farmers during 1919 still agriculturist can thank these men for the successful fight made in Congress which makes it effective even then.

BRANDS WILSON'S FIRST STEP IN WAR A GRAVE MISTAKE

Council of National Defense, Created Before Declaration of War in Violation of Law, Formulated Legislation, Dictated Policies and Befriended "Big Business," Declares Chairman of Special House Committee Investigating Expenditures.

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Charges that the president organized the council of national defense before war was declared in absolute violation of law and thereby created a "secret government of the United States" which formulated the legislation, dictated policies the country was to pursue, and befriended "big business" were made today by Chairman Graham of the special house committee investigating war department expenditures.

Goethals Defies Arrangement

Minutes of the council were read to the committee by Mr. Graham together with a report in which he asserted that the council assumed such broad powers that Major General Goethals, former chief of the purchase, storage and transportation of the war department, defied it; cabinet members protested against it; Judge Gray, chairman of the board of the United States and Steel corporation, accused it of operating in "flagrant violation of law."

Work of Seven Men

"Behind closed doors, weeks and months before war was declared, the seven men designated practically every war measure that congress has subsequently enacted. They devised the entire system of purchasing war supplies, plan and a press censorship, designed a system of food control, and selected Herbert Hoover as its director, and even determining on the daylight saving scheme."

Interested Persons Fix Prices

"Conceived within the law but brought into existence in absolute violation of it, it is not surprising to find the secret government of the United States fleetly resolutely ignored, and even violated the law; that it allowed interested parties to fix the price of war supplies, that it put the people to the test of their own unnecessary expense and carried things with a high hand."

While Soldiers Died

"Our soldiers were actually dying of pneumonia in the camps because of lack of proper clothing and blankets," Mr. Graham said, "and General Goethals assumed the duties of quartermaster general only on condition he should have free scope in the performance of his duties, unhampered by the council of national defense."

Not Law But Policy

Judge Gary advised the advisory commission, Mr. Graham said, that it was operating in disregard of the Sherman law, the Clayton law, and other statutes that are supposed to regulate business, particularly big business. "When the attorney general was called on by the commission to answer Judge Gary, Mr. Graham said he answered that the matters referred to as violations of law were matters of national policy" rather than a legal question.

DOROTHY DALTON

not been discussed and settled upon by the council's advisory commission, before the actual declaration of war.

Various Falls.

"Fall in" is an old military command, originating in the idea of giving up individually, and becoming part of the military machine, when in line. Fall means more than "tumble," as for instance, "to fall from grace," "to fall asleep," "to fall," etc.

Ingenious Escapes.

My father's new little Ruth through the window. She was calling a green apple. He called her into the house and she, knowing his purpose, came shyly into the room.

Leaves Government Unprotected

"Although this scheme was supposed to enable the industries to deal with the government as one man, the government was at no time able to deal with the industries through one man and on the contrary, throughout the war numerous federal bureaus were bidding against each other for the same supplies, with greatly increased cost to the government.

Anticipating War

Citing cases in which he said the council, formulated legislation before war was declared which legislation later was considered by congress, Mr. Graham declared that on February 15, 1917, the council discussed the draft system and considered a report from Commissioners Samuel Gompers and Howard E. Coffin relative to the extension of labor from military service.
